This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

+ Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.

+ Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.

+ Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.

+ Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

About Google Book Search

Google's mission is to organize the world's information and to make it universally accessible and useful. Google Book Search helps readers discover the world's books while helping authors and publishers reach new audiences. You can search through the full text of this book on the web at `http://books.google.com/`

THE

UNIVERSAL GAZETTEER;

BEING

A CONCISE DESCRIPTION,

ALPHABETICALLY ARRANGED,

OF THE

NATIONS, KINGDOMS, STATES, | TOWNS, EMPIRES, PROVINCES, | CITIES, OCEANS, SEAS, | HARBOURS, RIVERS, LAKES, | CANALS, MOUNTAINS, CAPES, &c.

IN THE

KNOWN WORLD;

THE

GOVERNMENT, MANNERS, AND RELIGION

OF THE

INHABITANTS,

WITH THE

EXTENT, BOUNDARIES, AND NATURAL PRODUCTIONS, MANUFACTURES AND CURIOSITIES

OF THE

DIFFERENT COUNTRIES.

CONTAINING

Several Thousand Places not to be met with in any similar Gazetteer.

ILLUSTRATED WITH FOURTEEN MAPS.

BY JOHN WALKER, M.D.

REVISED, CONSIDERABLY ENLARGED, AND IMPROVED,

BY ARTHUR KERSHAW.

THE FOURTH EDITION.

London:

PRINTED FOR J. JOHNSON; VERNOR, HOOD, AND SHARPE; DARTON AND HARVEY; H. D. SYMONDS; LONGMAN, HURST, REES, AND ORME; CUTHELL AND MARTIN; J. WALKER; P. AND W. WYNNE; W. OTRIDGE AND SON; LACKINGTON, ALLEN, AND CO.; R. LEA; SCATCHERD AND LETTERMAN; OGILVY AND SON; MATTHEWS AND LEIGH; CROSBY AND CO; R. FAULDER; G. LAW; W. BAYNES; W. J. AND J. RICHARDSON; R. SCHOLEY; AND G. KEARSLEY.

1807.

201. e. 44.

Printed by J. Swan and Son, 76, Fleet Street:
and E. Blackader, Took's-coourt, Chancery-lane, London.

PREFACE.

THE use of a Universal Gazetteer, to those who feel any interest at all in what is going on in the world at large, is too obvious to need pointing out. Its name seems to imply, that it is the companion, or accompaniment of the newspaper, or gazette, which latter name was derived from the gazetta, a small coin of Venice, the original price of these periodical chronicles in that commercial republic.

A work of this kind, necessarily formed of materials brought from every quarter of the world, at uncertain and different periods, and, generally by we know not whom, is peculiarly liable to errors, and the compiler must confine himself within very narrow bounds, indeed, if he do not submit to these imperfections.

In the compilation of this work, the latest and most authentic accounts have been consulted; from travelling, the author has been enabled to correct several errors, and from correspondents he has received descriptions of some places, which are certainly the best and most accurate that have been yet offered to the public in this way.

Towns and places of note are described at length, or form distinct paragraphs; the names of these are given in capitals. Those to which an asterisk, or star, is prefixed, are the post towns of Great Britain and Ireland. Even villages, hamlets, and single houses, in these islands, have been mentioned, and, in some instances, their situations pretty precisely told; but these, as inferior articles, are given in a different character, or letter, and do not form different paragraphs, but are carried on in continuity, generally forming only distinct periods. The expressions of inferior and considerable, or of note, are meant not in reference to wealth but to population. If errors occur in the places of less note, which they probably may, or, indeed, necessarily must, (for, in attempting to make this the completest geographical index extant, works of more dubious authority have also been consulted) it may be well enough to caution the reader to suspend his analogical conclusions, "that if a place, which he knows, be inaccurately described, he may reasonably suppose that others are also incorrect, and that places more remote, or distant, must necessarily be more false." It will only, in such case, be the part of candour to consider, that such places are, perhaps, but little visited by travellers, and scarcely known beyond their own vicinity; and that if he, or some of his liberal-minded neighbours, do not communicate better information to the compiler, the error is likely to be continued.

And here the author hopes it will not be thought improper, if he takes the liberty to suggest to men of leisure and information, whether they may not apply a few moments of their time, in a way satisfactory to themselves, and useful to the public, in communicating to the gazetteer-makers topographical information. If such will have the kindness to contribute to this work, their communications will be gratefully received; here also he may acknowledge to have received from several of his friends, and even from strangers, of this description, both of the established religion and dissenters, very liberal encouragement in the prosecution of this work. But the present is a production which it does not require erudition to find fault with or amend. There is scarcely any individual but may suggest improvements, or give useful information, on some place which he knows: and every reader, from the school-boy to the man in years, who shall communicate amendments, will confer an obligation on the author.

All who may have the liberality thus to yield assistance to the work, are requested particularly to give information on such subjects as the following, or as an answer to any of these queries:—What is the place?—What its name?—In what district situated?—How many houses or people?—What the soil?—What the appearance of the surrounding country?—By what production or manufacture are they enabled to support themselves, pay taxes, &c.?—What curiosities have they or had they, natural or artificial?—What particular customs?—What public establishments of Infirmaries, Hospitals, Schools, Libraries, &c.?—What the situation of the place?—On hill or in vale; on what road or highway; or on what river, bay, creek, or sea?—And what are its distance and bearings from other places, &c.?—What places already mentioned in this work are so insignificant, that they ought to be omitted?—And which are so important that they ought to form distinct paragraphs?

It may be necessary here to notice the improvements introduced into all parts of the present edition, as the proprietors encouraged by the flattering reception with which the first edition was favoured, have spared no exertion or expence to render this extensive Gazetteer still more worthy of the public patronage.

In the execution of this task, and in order to render the following sheets as complete as the nature of the work will admit, the attention of the publishers has been particularly directed to the inserting such omissions, and correcting such errors, as must have unavoidably escaped the author, in compiling so laborious a work.

In the first edition, no notice was taken of a subject affording much useful and necessary information, although a heavy national calamity, viz. War; nor of the facts and circumstances relating to it; military and naval establishments, fortifications, battles, sieges, and other remarkable operations and events, by which the most important changes are produced in the political state of nations.

In

In the description of a considerable number of the principal empires and countries, the usual division of the regions (in common with all our competitors) was erroneous; the geographical position, bearings, distances, &c. of places, were not laid down with uniform accuracy; nor was the least attention paid to the markets and principal fairs in the several counties of England and Wales. Many mistakes have also arisen from the same words occurring frequently in various parts, with different spellings, &c. &c. all which deficiences and inaccuracies have, in this edition, been duly attended to and remedied: the whole of this Gazetteer having been lately revised and corrected at a very great expence, and with unremitting attention and assiduity.

Some considerable improvements have likewise been introduced, by adding to the composition of this work, a number of remarkable and important places omitted in the late edition. The reader may also find much new and interesting information in the numerous additions occasionally made to places already noticed, several of which will be found to be considerably improved, if not written entirely new; notwithstanding which, the work, although considerably augmented in valuable and authentic nomenclature, is yet not enlarged in size and price.

The insertions made, include different topics of designation and description, but chiefly relate to the curiosities of nature and art, natural productions, forms of government, military and naval affairs, inland navigations, manufactures, magnificent public buildings, and the remains of remarkable antiquities; with several original communications addressed to the editor, pointing out sources of information and improvement, not often to be met with.

These additions the editor has been enabled to make, by omitting the latitudes and longitudes of places apparently insignificant, or whose situations may be easily ascertained by a reference to other places generally known; by reducing and narrowing some accounts rather too circumstantial and minute, for an abridgment; and by expunging several articles of less essential importance, which, though not unworthy of attention, leave little room for others that, on further consideration, appear to be more useful and interesting.

The editor, however, in stating the progressive improvements by which he has added to the stock of knowledge contained in our Geographical Dictionaries, does not thereby mean to assert, that he has so fully executed his plan, but that he himself can discover some faults and imperfections both in the work and its execution. Much has been done, yet much remains undone, to improve and bring to perfection the arduous task of compiling Gazetteers and Dictionaries. It is only by slow degrees, and long and persevering exertions, continued through several centuries, that this comprehensive subject can be expected to arrive at extensive usefulness; but, from the mutability of things, it can never be finally brought to a state of full perfection.

The publishers, however, not presuming to suggest that they have completely succeeded in the execution of this undertaking, yet relying on the candid decision of a discerning public, hope, with some confidence, that the performance, now respectfully submitted to their notice, will be found amusing and entertaining, as well as useful and instructive to the GENERALITY OF READERS; and they trust it may claim the peculiar attention of the YOUNG, and SUCH AS ARE NOT ABLE TO PROCURE LARGER WORKS; for the use, indeed, of whom it is principally designed and calculated. The reader, whether scientific or less informed, will be candid enough, it is presumed, to excuse small mistakes, for the sake of the pleasure, satisfaction, and information, which it is natural to suppose, the highly interesting objects contained in the science here treated of, will afford to his mind.

THE compiler of this work is unwilling to dismiss it, without mentioning a practice which he used to adopt, as a geographical exercise for his scholars, when engaged in that pleasing task, the tuition of youth, hoping that, if parents and teachers will but try it, the scholars and children may derive from it a pleasing and useful amusement. The method was, to propose an imaginary journey; suppose from Dublin to Paris, to Rome, to Constantinople, to Jerusalem, to Delhi, to Pekin, or to any other place; or an imaginary voyage, direct or circuitous, or round the world, or long or short. In the first instance, from Dublin to Paris, it was proposed to the lower classes to describe the easiest course: these chose, perhaps, that by water, from the mouth of the Liffey, southward through the Irish Channel, round the Land's End, by the Isles of Scilly, and eastward through the English Channel, to Havre de Grace, at the mouth of the Seine; and thence, up the river, to the capital. Others adopted a western circuitous course, through the south of Ireland, and across the sea to Nantz, or Bourdeaux, on their way to Paris. Some took the post road, or a devious way, through Wales and England, to Dover and Calais; and others, perhaps, chose a route through the north of Ireland, Scotland, across the German Ocean, and through some of the continental countries of Europe, in a SW. direction, to Paris. In all these instances, they planned out their route by the maps, and related, in form of a letter, what they thought the most entertaining in the descriptions of the places along the way, which they found in the Gazetteer.

Though Geography be one of the most plain and simple sciences, being much easier learnt than reading and writing, there are some parents who declare they know very little of the subject; to these the following remark may be acceptable, as it may enable them to lead their children on, as above-mentioned, in imaginary journeys, or tours, round the earth, till they obtain, in this familiar way, a tolerable acquaintance with the different parts of our globe.

To conceive aright of the world, being represented in two circles on the map, they are to observe, that each of them represents a hemisphere, or opposite half of the globe: if these circles were put back to back, fastened at the edges all round, and swelled up like a blown bladder, into a spherical form, it would give a representation of our earth; when, therefore, in marking any line on either of these circles, we get off at one edge, we are immediately on the corresponding part of the other, and so, on it, may pursue, or continue our track or way. Hence it will appear, that in describing a track round the whole earth, or globe, on the map, we must necessarily cross both the circles.

PREFACE

TO THE

THIRD EDITION.

THE intelligent reader will readily discern, that the preceding Preface is partly compiled from the materials furnished by Dr. Walker in the first edition; and that it was judged necessary to add a few observations, explaining such further particulars, of correction and improvement, as had been introduced into the second.

In that edition, many mistakes were rectified, and the insertions made were so very numerous and important, as greatly to add to the reputation and value of the work; indeed, the reception it has met with has been so favourable, and the consequent demand for it so uncommon, that the Editor can announce, with peculiar satisfaction, the rapid sale of a very large impression, within the space of two years.

This Preface is still retained, to enable the reader to survey the origin and progress of the undertaking, and to enter more readily into the merits of the different editions; but in a work which has already given such great satisfaction to the public, and which, it may be fairly presumed, will become more and more popular, in proportion to the additional advantages which every new edition will possess: it appears, in like manner, necessary to enter into a somewhat wider field of preliminary observation and remark, to retouch some essential parts of the former Preface, which require further explanation, to sketch out a more correct idea of the plan, and to state more fully the many advantages which this edition possesses, so as fully to justify its claim to superiority.

The most conspicuous feature in the character of this new and improved compilation, is the attempt to correct mistakes, and supply many considerable deficiencies, in the alphabetical register and notice of the several counties, hundreds, towns, villages, &c. of England, Wales, Scotland, and Ireland. This has been done, partly, by consulting the large maps, actual surveys, &c. and partly by selecting many important and entertaining articles from a multiplicity of publications, which have appeared, of late years, on different counties, towns, and other particular subjects of topographical description. The economical writings of Sir John Sinclair afford a rich variety of geographical matter, illustrative of places in Scotland, which have been hitherto wholly passed over, or but slightly noticed, and which have been much and long wanted. In availing himself of many of these, the Editor has diligently employed himself; thus endeavouring to improve on the original design of this performance, (which was to introduce a COMPLETE VILLARE BRITANNICUM into the aggregate of the work), a plan for which the public are, and will remain greatly indebted to the former Editor, the learned and laborious Dr. Walker. This publication, likewise, contains some new and authentic accounts, collected with a view to supply deficiencies in respect to particular parts of Ireland, in the statistical statistical and geographical history of which country, it is to be regretted, that we are still extremely defective.

This was the first plan ever attempted, to comprise so very complete and circumstantial a View of BRITISH and IRISH GEOGRAPHY, in a work that otherwise profeſſed to embrace all the various advantages and excellencies to be found in GENERAL GAZETTEERS; and, in this reſpect, Dr. Walker may be said to have produced a work unique in its kind. Having filled up the outline, which he had taken, and, in many respects, accomplished his original design, (although, as a first attempt, it was, as might be expected, extremely imperfect and defective in the execution) it was evident that, when announced to the world, a manual so much wanted only required to be known, to meet with general approbation; and, accordingly, on its first appearance, its merit and uſefulness were immediately and universally acknowledged. Though still confessedly short of its attainable perfection, yet from the successful efforts of the Editor, the work may be considered as having advanced to a very desirable point of accuracy and fulness; and it is material that the public should be made fully acquainted with a fact not generally known, that no other universal Gazetteer, if examined, will be found so well adapted to communicate information relative to the present state of the British Islands, as Dr. Walker's.

Although a publication like the present will certainly prove of great utility to all kinds of readers, as must be obvious at the first inspection, to every intelligent person, yet the Editor thinks it not improper to mention a few particular classes, or sorts of readers, whom he has had immediately in view, and for the use of whom it is more particularly adapted, he having studied throughout, to incorporate into the work, complete and satisfactory information on every point of enquiry, which may be deemed necessary to be known by persons of those descriptions.

He begs leave, therefore, to recommend it to the special attention of YOUTH, whether in a course of study at school or otherwise; for the use, indeed, of whom it must appear, at first view, more immediately calculated, and to whom it will prove very serviceable in a double respect, as answering the purpose of satisfactory reference on all points of enquiry immediately connected with subjects of topographical nomenclature; and as tending to facilitate the knowledge of the maps, charts, and of the terrestrial globe.

No part of education conduces more to FORM the CHARACTER of YOUTH—no kind of instruction tends more effectually to develope the latent faculties—to excite a laudable emulation—to elevate the mind—and inspire noble, magnanimous ideas, than that which is derived from a COMPETENT KNOWLEDGE of HISTORY. In proportion as the student advances to perfection, approaches to excellence, in the acquirement of this sort of knowledge, he is enabled, with more energy and freedom, TO THINK AND JUDGE FOR HIMSELF.

The Editor, at least, who has been long engaged in the tuition of youth, is of this opinion; nor does he ever recollect to have met with a pupil, earnestly desirous of obtaining the reputation of a scholar, to whom historical and political researches were not peculiarly acceptable and grateful.

But

But even a knowledge of history, though in some measure, the groundwork of all elegant and rational study, would be comparatively dull and insipid, or, at least, lose much of its value, without its great and essential auxiliary—a thorough acquaintance with geography. Indeed, the latter may be not improperly considered as a useful key to, and necessary appendage of the former; and they should ever go hand in hand.

It is likely, also, to be of very considerable service to COMMERCIAL TRAVELLERS, to whom the Editor begs leave to suggest, that they have here an opportunity of being provided with an elegant and useful Vade Mecum; and to whom it will be found more peculiarly desirable and convenient, from the insertion of the Post Towns, Market Days, principal Fairs, &c. (omitted, either wholly or in part, in other works of this kind) and from the very considerable materials relative to the present state of manufactures, the useful arts, commerce, shipping, produce, &c. of the different places described, which the Editor has carefully collected, for the sole purpose of enriching this work.

The Editor also begs leave earnestly to recommend it as a suitable companion for CAPTAINS of SHIPS, and OTHER PERSONS EMBARKING on a SEA VOYAGE, who will meet with much useful instruction in it, on a great variety of subjects more or less connected with navigation, and to whom it will even furnish amusement in the cabin, in the cessation of more important duties. It is attended with this further advantage, that, considering the vast mass of information which it conveys, in the additional quantity of letter-press, from its compact form, and crowded page, it is, comparatively speaking, extremely portable, and will occupy very little room in the portmanteau or sea-chest.

Nor can he entertain a doubt, that it will be highly acceptable to GENTLEMEN TOURISTS, who travel partly for amusement, and partly for the further polishing and improvement of a classical education. The tour of Europe has long been thought requisite to adorn and accomplish the character of a gentleman—to finish his studies—to expand his ideas—and enable him to surmount national prejudices. Indeed, for some years past, excursions to the Lakes of Cumberland, and other more distant parts of the United Kingdom, have become very frequent; and thus the curious, the literati, and the fashionable, as if eager to atone for the reproach of former inattention, have appeared anxious to do justice to the beautiful scenes of nature in our own country. On such occasions it is of great importance, and must afford considerable pleasure to the Tourist, to have an unassuming, acceptable COMPANION in the POST-CHAISE, that can fully acquaint him with all the material incidents respecting a place, which had either wholly slipped from his memory, or the reading of which he had, perhaps, more shamefully neglected.

He likewise hopes that it will prove extremely acceptable to REAL ANTIQUARIANS, who will find it of use, on numerous occasions, to consult a publication like the present; many of the descriptions contained in it being very curious of themselves, well worthy of attention, tion, and calculated to gratify the taste of all who make objects of this nature their study or amusement.

In this enlightened age, POLITICS will necessarily become an interesting and important topic of conversation; and it is impossible for any person even to run over a newspaper to the satisfaction of himself and others, without having made some previous improvement in pursuits intimately connected with it. Indeed, a knowledge of geography may be not improperly considered as the indispensible passport into all genteel company; and nothing can place any man, who is raised a few degrees above the vulgar, in a more contemptible point of view, than to betray a total ignorance of subjects relating to it.

This compilation will also be found very proper to be used as a suitable introduction to larger works, and it has, in this respect, the recommendation of being extremely well fitted for the use and benefit of private learners. The more advanced student will also find, that a considerable portion of useful description has been introduced into the work, to render it more particular and satisfactory, and certainly superior, as a COPIOUS ABSTRACT, to most, if not all, of its predecessors on the same subject. It will likewise, it is presumed, improve and do great service to even the highest class of readers, who will find, in this new edition, very large alterations and improvements, including a great number of original articles, well worthy of their diligent perusal.

But the Editor trusts that it will not only be found useful as a comprehensive DICTIONARY to refer to, but likewise valuable as a work of general entertainment to private families as well as individuals, particularly to such readers as have neither time, means, nor inclination, to search for information in larger works; and even such as are supposed to be unlettered, those, at least, who have not had the benefit of a very liberal education, (of whom there is a large proportion both in town and country), will derive singular advantages, from having in their possession a repository of geographical knowledge, like the present, abounding with such a rich variety of novel and authentic matter.

Fully convinced of its superior excellence and utility, the Editor does not hesitate, in its present improved state, to rest its merits with the public, on a candid perusal and examination. Having succeeded nearly to the utmost of his wishes, in his studious endeavours to enhance the value of this performance, (although it is not meant to be offered as elaborate or perfect), and to render it as complete as can possibly be expected, consistently with the design of an abridgment, he indulges the hope, that it will be found sufficiently interesting and instructive to recommend itself. A plain, popular, and agreeable work, concerted on so judicious a plan, and executed on so ample and correct a scale, so much exceeding the former editions in quantity, and so superior in its materials, can scarcely fail to obtain a degree of public approbation strongly marked, and a sale and circulation, in some measure, adequate to, and commensurate with its real importance and use.

INTRODUCTORY

INTRODUCTORY REMARKS.

Land and Water.

A CONTINENT is a large tract of land not separated by the sea; as Europe, Asia, &c. An ocean is a vast collection of water not separated by land; as the Atlantic, Pacific, &c. A sea is a smaller collection of water, communicating with the ocean; as the Mediterranean, the Baltic.

An island is a tract of land surrounded by water; as Great Britain, Ireland, &c. A lake is water surrounded by land; as the lake of Geneva.

A cape, or promontory, is a projection or point of land running far into the sea; as the Cape of Good Hope.

A peninsula is land almost surrounded with water; as the Morea. A gulf is a part of the sea almost surrounded with land; as the Gulf of Persia.

An Isthmus is the narrow part of land which joins a peninsula to a continent, or larger country; as the Isthmus of Suez. A strait is a narrow channel which affords a passage from one sea to another; as the Straits of Gibraltar.

Definitions of Circles, &c.

Astronomers have considered the starry heavens as a sphere, with our earth in the centre: this is the appearance they make to our senses. They have divided the celestial and terrestrial spheres, by great and less circles; great circles are those which divide the sphere equally; less circles are those which divide it unequally.

Great Circles.	Less Circles.
The Ecliptic.	Parallels of Latitude and Declination.
The Equator.	Tropics.
Circles of Longitude and Meridian.	Polar Circles.
The Horizons.	Almicanters, or Parallels of Altitude.
Azimuths.

To imagine that the Earth stands still, and that the sun rises and falls, is a false idea, however consonant to the perception of our senses, and as romantic as the notion that houses, trees, &c. upon land are moving past us, when we sail in a vessel along the shore.

While our earth annually performs an orbit round the sun, the latter appears to describe a circle in the heavens, and we seem to stand still; this circle is called the ecliptic. The zodiac is the same imaginary kind of circle, but extended to a considerable breadth on each side of the ecliptic, including the paths of all the planets.

The ancients divide the Zodiac into 12 parts, and imagined or contrived certain signs in each division. Their names and characters are as follow:

Northern Signs.	Southern Signs.
♈ Aries.	♎ Libra.
♉ Taurus.	♏ Scorpio.
♊ Gemini.	♐ Sagittarius.
♋ Cancer.	♑ Capricornus.
♌ Leo.	♒ Aquarius.
♍ Virgo.	♓ Pisces.

The equator divides the sphere into the northern and southern hemispheres. The latitude of a place upon earth, and the declination of a heavenly object, as a star or planet, are their distances from the equator. The tropics are parallels of latitude or declination, near $23\frac{1}{2}$ degrees from the equator: the tropics bound the ecliptic in the heavens, and on earth, the torrid zone. The polar circles are the same distance from the poles as the tropics are from the equator. On earth, the temperate zones lie between the polar circles and tropics, the frigid zones lie within the polar circles.

Meridians are indefinite in number; their planes intersect that of the equator at right angles.

The longitude of a place upon earth, and the right ascension of a heavenly object, are their distances from a certain meridian. Circles of longitude in the heavens are indefinite in number; their planes intersect that of the ecliptic at right angles. The latitude of any heavenly object is its distance from the ecliptic; the longitude its distance from that circle of longitude, which passes through the first point of Aries.

The horizon is that circle which bounds our sight, or it is the termination of what is visible to us of the sky, when on the sea, or an extensive level plane.

Solar System.

The names and characters by which astronomers express the planets are as follow, in order from the sun:

Mercury.	Venus.	Earth.	Mars.	Jupiter.	Saturn.	Herschel.
☿	♀	⊕	♂	♃	♄	♅

The planets are attracted by the sun, and would be drawn into it, and consumed, were it not for an impulse they have received, which tends to throw them off in a right line; by the combination of these two forces, (the centripetal, or centre-seeking, and the centrifugal, or centre-fleeing) they are preserved in their orbits.

The three outer planets have each of them several satellites, or moons, accompanying them. The comets of our system are supposed to be 21 in number, they are found to be under the same laws with the planets, but their orbits are very eccentric.

☞ An idea of a place, or its situation, may sometimes be formed from its name. In England, borough, bury, berry, burgh, or brough, as also caster, chester, ceaster, and chaster, at the end of the name of a place, show it to have been a town or fortified place. Chip, cheap, chipping, in the names of places, implies a market; combe, a valley between two hills: and comb in the end, or comp in the beginning of names, a low situation. Minster, is a contraction of monastery. Mouth, expresses the situation where a river falls into the sea, or other water; and ness, a promontory which runs into the water in a form resembling a nose. Thorp, throp, threp, trep, and trop, all sygnify a village; and wold, whether singly or jointly, signifies a plain open country, or hills without a wood.

In Ireland, ard signifies high; ath, water; bally, a town; and clon, a retirement. Dun and rath imply a fort. Innis, signifies an island; kil, a church; knock, a hill; lis, an inclosure; lough, a lake; and magh, a field.

THE

THE

UNIVERSAL GAZETTEER.

AAK

AA, three large rivers, one in Courland, which runs into the bay of Riga; one of Artois which riſes however in Picardy, and paſſes by St. Omers and Gravelines, below which it falls into the Engliſh Channel; and one in Weſtphalia, which riſes near Munſter, waters that city, and afterwards falls into the river Embs: alſo ſeveral other ſmaller rivers of France, Germany, Flanders, Swiſſerland, and the United Provinces. ☞ Aa in the Daniſh language, Ea in the Saxon, and Eau in the French, ſignify water.

AACH, a ſmall town of Nellenburgh, in Suabia, near a river of the ſame name, which falls into the Lake of Zell. It is ſubject to Auſtria, and ſeated on an eminence between the Danube and the Lake of Conſtance. Lat. 47. 45. N. lon. 9. 6. E.

AAGGII DOGGII, a mountain of Amaſia, in Turkey, on the frontiers of Perſia, over which the caravans paſs, in their journey between Conſtantinople and Iſpahan.

AAG HOLM, a ſmall iſland on the coaſt of Norway. Lat. 58. N.

AAHUS, a ſmall town, in a county of the ſame name, in Munſter, Weſtphalia, ſituated near the ſource of the Aa. Lat. 48. 13. N. lon. 7. 22. E.

AAIN CHARIN, a village near Jeruſalem, ſaid to be the place where Zacharias lived, and much frequented by pilgrims. Near it there is a convent, a large elegant building, with a handſome cupola, under which is a remarkably fine moſaic pavement: the altar, which is a very ſplendid one, encompaſſed with marble ſteps, is ſaid to be built on the very ſpot where John the Baptiſt was born.

AAKIAR, a diſtrict of N. Jutland.

AAR

AARKIRKE, a town in the iſland of Bornholm; the ſeat of the civil court and ſynod.

AALBERG, or AALBURG, the moſt northern biſhopric in Jutland; has for its capital,

AALBORG, (that is, eel-town, from the number of eels taken there) an old, large and populous city, and next to Copenhagen, the richeſt and beſt in Denmark. It has an exchange, and a harbour deep and ſecure, but rather dangerous in the entrance. It carries on a conſiderable trade in herrings and corn, and has a manufactory of ſaddles, gloves, guns, piſtols, &c. Lat. 57. 18. N. lon. 10. 16. E.

AALAST, or AELST. See ALOST.

AALEN. See AULEN.

AALHEIDE, a large heath in Jutland.

AAMA, a province of Barbary, 15 days journey from Tunis. The entrance to it is very dangerous, being very long and narrow, among quickſands and rivers, ſo covered with duſt, that they appear like one continued plain.

AAN SIRE, a ſmall iſland of Norway.

AAR, two large rivers in Germany and Swiſſerland, the former of which riſes in Blankenheim, Weſtphalia, and falls into the Rhine oppoſite Lintz, in Cologne: the latter riſes near the ſource of the Rhine, and after paſſing through the Lakes of Brientz and Thun, falls into the Rhine near Zurſach, in Baden: and an iſland in the Baltic, for which laſt ſee ARROE.

AARASSO, an ancient city of Aſia Minor, mentioned by Strabo, but at preſent only a village.

AARAW, a town and bailiwick in Bern, where the diets of the proteſtant cantons are held. In theſe aſſemblies, the deputies and their ſervants, being all citizens, dine in the ſame hall. It is ſituated on the river Aar, and contains about 1700 ſouls. The principal manufactures are cotton, printed linens, cutlery, and tanning. Lat. 47. 20. N. lon. 8. 10. E.

AARBERG, or AARBURG. See ARBERG.

AARDALSWERK, or SEMDALSWERK, a copper-work, now diſuſed, in the pariſh of Leyrdal, in Norway.

AARHUUS, a dioceſe of N. Jutland, erected in the year 950. It contains 308 pariſhes, beſides the capital.

AARHUUS, HARHUS, or ARHUSEN, an open, large, and populous city, with two market places, an hoſpital, univerſity, cathedral, and other public buildings. It lies low, on a beautiful plain, between the ſea and an inland lake; from which laſt the water is conveyed, by means of a pretty broad canal through the town. The harbour at the mouth of this canal or river, is very ſafe and commodious, but hardly of ſufficient depth and extent for the trade of the place. Lat. 55. 6. N. lon. 10. 0. E.

AARSEO, or ARZEO, a trading town of Algiers, near the mouth of the river Mina. Lat. 36. 50. N. lon. 2. 10. E.

AAR's HERRED, a diſtrict of N. Jutland, containing 14 pariſhes.

AASTRUP, a diſtrict of Aalberg, in N. Jutland, to which belong the Herreds of Wenneborg, with 12 pariſhes, and Jerlef, with the like number.

AASUM HERRED, a diſtrict of Nyborg, in Funen, containing 11 pariſhes.

AATTIC, a village in Aatter, a diſtrict of Yemen, in Arabia Felix.

ABABA, the modern name of the Peneus, a celebrated river of Theſſaly.

ABACA, one of the Philippine Iſlands.

ABACH, or WELTENBURG, a town of Lower Bavaria, ſituated on the Danube, having excellent ſprings of mineral waters, which are celebrated for curing many diſeaſes, as alſo ſeveral remarkable Roman antiquities. Lat. 48. 53. N. lon. 11. 59. E.

ABACO, one of the Lucaya or Bahama Iſlands. Lat. 26. 40. N. lon. 77. 4. W.

ABACOORE, a mountain of Arabia Felix.

ABADAN, a town of Perſia, ſituated at the mouth of the Tigris.

ABAFEDE, a mountain in Egypt, the reſidence, in antiquity, of the Egyptian Magi; it was much revered by the Romans on their obtaining it, and was afterwards inhabited by chriſtian devotees, who lived in caves dug out of the rock.

ABAKAN, a river falling into the Jeneſei, near it's ſource in Aſiatic Ruſſia, and 16 miles S. of the town of Abakanſk ſituated in the province of Kolivan. Lat 53. 5. N. lon. 94. 5. E.

ABALASKOI, or ABALAK, a town of Siberia, near Tobolſk, frequented by pilgrims, on account of a ſtatue, called the image of the Virgin Mary. Lat. 58. 11 N. long. 68. 20. E.

ABALA, an ancient city of the tribe of Judah.

ABALLO. See AVALLON.

ABANO, a town of Padua, famous in ancient and modern times for it's warm baths. In one of theſe, called Bagnio d Fanga, the patient, in hopes of a cure, is covered all over with the warm mud. Lat 45. 30. N. lon. 10. 47. E.

ABARANER, a city of Turcomania ſaid to contain about 300 Chriſtian families. It is ſeated on the river Alingena 20 miles N. of Nackſivan. Lat. 39. 0. N lon. 63. 59. E.

ABARGALE, a country of Abyſſinia.

ABARIM, or ABARAIM, in ſacred hiſtory, high mountains of ſteep aſcent, which ſeparated the territory of the Moabites and Ammonites from Canaan. Nebo and Piſgah were among them, and Moſes died on one of them.

ABASA, a ſmall town of Romania, in which are an elegant moſque and a ſpacious kane or inn. It is 12 miles from Adrianople, on the road to Conſtantinople.

ABASSIA, the modern name of a kingdom in Upper Ethiopia; it comprehends the provinces of Bagemeder, Gojam, Waleka, Shewa, &c. and is very mountainous; in ſome parts the rocks are ſo ſteep that men and cattle are craned up by help of ropes and ladders, yet, on the tops of theſe there are woods, meadows, and fiſh ponds.

ABATOS, an iſland of Egypt, in the Lake Moeris, famous for being the Sepulchre of Oſiris, and for producing the papyrus, of which the ancients made their paper.

ABAWIWAR, a country in Upper Hungary.

ABASKAJA, a town on the river Ichim, in Siberia. Lat. 50. 10. N. lon. 69. 5. E.

Abbas Comb, a pariſh in Somerſetſhire, 4 miles from Milburn-Port.

Abbaſton, or Abberſton, Hampſhire, near Alresford.

ABBEFIORD, a ſea port of Aggerhuus.

Abbenhall, Glouc. 12 miles from the city of Glouceſter, and 3 from Newnham. It is noted for a ſpring of rock water, very efficacious efficacious in the cure of cutaneous eruptions.

Abberlough, a lake in Argyleſhire.

Abberton, near Lexden, Eſſex. Abberton, near Perſhore, 7 miles from Worceſter, noted for it's bitter, mineral water. Aberwick, NW. of Alnwick, Northumberland.

ABBEVILLE, a conſiderable town in the department of Somme, in France, about 15 miles from the Engliſh Channel, ſeated in a pleaſant valley. It is famous for its manufacture of black and green ſoaps, woollen and linen cloths; and carries on an extenſive trade by means of the river Somme, which runs through the town, dividing itſelf into ſeveral branches, and in which the tide riſes 6 feet. It is 52 miles S. of Calais, and 80 N. by W. of Paris. Lat. 50. 7. N. lon. 1. 55. E.

ABBEVILLE, a county of S. Carolina.

ABBEY-BOYLE, a town in Roſcommon, Connaught, ſituated on the river Buelle, over which there are 2 ſtone bridges. It is chiefly remarkable for it's old abbey, and is 20 miles N. of Roſcommon, 32 NW. of Athlone, and 84 from Dublin.

Abbey-Feale, a ſmall town in Limerick.

ABBEY-HOLME, or HOLME CULTRUM, a town in Cumberland, ſo called from an abbey built there by David king of Scots. It is ſeated on an arm of the ſea, 16 miles SW. of Carliſle.

Abbey-Manor, Berkſhire, 3 miles from Wantage.

ABBEY-MILTON, or MIDDLETON, an ancient little town, in Dorſetſhire, noted formerly for it's abbey. It is 12 miles NE. of Dorcheſter.

Abbey Knockmoy, a town in Galway, Connaught. Abbey Mahon, in Cork, Munſter. Abbey Odorney, in Kerry, Munſter; near the river Brick, 141 miles from Dublin. Abbey-Shrule, in Longford, Leinſter.

ABBIANY, a town on the coaſt of Guinea.

Abbington, near Northampton. Abbington, near Royſton, Cambridgeſhire. Abbington, Magna, and Parva, near Linton and Bournbridge, Cambridgeſhire. Abborn, or Auburn Chapel, on the E. coaſt of Yorkſhire, 10 miles from Flamborough. Abbots, or Aperwood Caſtle, in Staffordſhire, ſituated on a lofty round promontory, and a ſteep ridge of hills, extending a mile in length, having hollows cut in the ground; it is ſuppoſed to have been one continued fortification of the ancient Britons; the hill at each end having been a kind of baſtion. It is in the pariſh of Seiſdon, and 7 miles from Wolverhampton. Abbots Anne, near Andover, Hampſhire.

Abbots Beckington, on the river Towridge, Devonſhire.

ABBOTS BROMLEY, PAGETS BROMLEY, or BROMLEY-ABBEY, a town in Staffordſhire, 6 miles E. of Stafford, and 129 NW. of London. Market on Tueſ.

ABBOTSBURY, a town of Dorſetſhire, where there is a very large ſwannery. The town conſiſts of 3 ſtreets in the form of the letter Y. It's chief trade is fiſhing. It is 10 miles SW. of Dorcheſter, and 127 W. by S. of London. Market on Thurſday.

Abbotſbury, near Barley, Hertf. Abbot's-Careſwell, Devon. Abbot's Crome, Worc. Abbot's Fee-Tything, near Shirborn, Dorſet. Abbotſham, near Biddeford, Devon. Abbot's-Langley, near Barkway, Hertf.

Abbot's-Leigh, or Iſle, near Ilminſter, Somerſetſ. Abbotſley, near St. Neot's, Huntſ. Abbot's Moreton, Worceſt. Abbotſtock, Devon. Abbotſtoke, near Beminſter, Dorſet. Abbotſton, or Abſton, near Kingſwood, Glouceſ. called alſo Wyke, from a winding brook that runs by it. Abbotſton, near Syſton, Glouc. Abbotſton, Wilts. Abbotſton, Hants, near Alresford. Abbotſtroot, Dorſet, near Winborn-Minſter. Abbotſwood, Worceſterſ. 4 miles NW. of Perſhore. Abbotſworthy, Hants, near Alreſford. Abb's-Court, in Walton, Surry.

ABBS-HEAD, a promontory in Berwickſhire, forming the ſouthern extremity of the Frith of Forth. Lat. 55. 55. N. lon. 1. 56. W.

Abby-Forgate, Salop, near Shrewſbury. Abby-Gate, Leiceſter, near Mountſorrel. Abby-Green, near Bellingham, Northumb.

ABCASSIA, ABASCIA, or ABKHAS, a ſubdiviſion of Georgia, in Aſia. The Abcaſſes are very barbarous, ſeizing and ſelling one another, for ſlaves, to Turks, Perſians, or Tartars.

Abelick, near Ilminſter, Somerſetſ. Abcot, near Purſlow, Shropſhire.

ABCOUDE, a village, about 9 miles from Amſterdam, on the road to Utrecht.

ABDERA. See POLYSTILLO.

Abdon, near Munſlow, Shropſhire.

ABDOUA, a town of Pleſkof, in W. Muſcovy.

ABDUA, or ADDUA. See ADDA.

ABELLA. See AVELLA.

Abenhall. See Abbenhall.

ABENOW, a mountain of Suabia, in Germany, 23 miles from Friburg. It is the ſource of the Danube, and gives name to a chain of mountains, extending from the Rhine to the Necker, and from the Foreſt-Towns to the city of Thorſheim; ſtretching through different countries, they likewiſe aſſumed different names.

ABENRADE, a mountainous diſtrict and juriſdiction, of Sleſwick; it has for it's capital,

ABENRADE, or APENRADE, a flouriſhing town, on a ſpacious bay, with a good harbour, where they build large ſhips. It is double the extent it was of formerly, and is built in a better taſte. It is ſurrounded on three ſides by high mountains, Lat. 55. 6. N. lon. 9. 14 E.

ABENSBURG, a town of Bavaria, on the river Abens, near the Danube, 15 miles S.W. of Ratiſbon.

Aberath, a pariſh of Cardiganſhire.

ABERAVON, (i. e. mouth of the Avon) a town of Glamorganſhire, 19 miles SW. of Cowbridge, and 194 W. of London.

ABERBROTHWICK, or ARBROATH, a town in the ſhire of Forfar, having a pretty good artificial harbour, advantageouſly ſituated for trade, and a mineral water much reſorted to. The inhabitants, who are greatly increaſed of late years, were, in 1792, including the pariſh of St. Vigean, exactly 5283. The chief manufactures are Oſnaburgs, ſail-cloths, and white and brown thread. It is 15 miles NE. of St. Andrews, and 40 NNE. of Edinburgh.

ABERCONWAY, a town of Carnarvonſhire, pleaſantly ſituated on the declivity of a hill, with a fine proſpect over the river Conway. It has a good harbour, and formerly carried on a conſiderable trade. Here is a magnificent caſtle, one of the moſt beautiful ſtructures of the kind in Wales; it was built originally by the earl of Cheſter, in the reign of William the Conqueror, was deſtroyed in the reign of king Stephen, and afterwards rebuilt by order of Edward I. Aberconway is 18 miles WNW. of Denbigh, 10 from Bangor, and 235 WNW. of London. Market on Friday.

ABERCORN, a town of W. Lothian, near the Frith of Forth; here began the Roman wall, built by the emperor Severus, which ran W. acroſs the country to the Frith of Clyde.

ABERCORN, a town of Georgia, in N. America, 13 miles NW. of Savannah.

Aberdaron, a bay and a pariſh, on the coaſt of Cardiganſhire.

*ABERDEEN, the capital of Aberdeenſhire, is the third city in Scotland for trade, extent, and beauty. It is formed of the Old and New towns; the former, which is about a mile N. of the New, is ſituated on the Don, over which there is a lofty Gothic bridge of one arch, reſting at each extremity on two rocks; the latter is on the Dee, over which there is a bridge of ſeven arches. There is good anchorage i the bay, a harbour in each river, and ſal mon in all. The ſituation is hilly; it ha a ſpa and baths. It's univerſity, conſiſtin of King's College in the Old Town, an Mariſchal College in the New, has pro duced many learned men. The manufac tures are ſtockings, cottons, thread, &c which they export, together with excellen ſalmon, oat-meal, and pickled pork, &c. beſides the coaſting trade, veſſels are ſen hence to France, Spain, Portugal, and th northern ſtates of Europe; the inhabitant including the Old Town, are eſtimated a 25,000. A ſtrong pier, forming an excel lent harbour for veſſels of moderate ſize, wa erected here ſome years ago, under the di rection of Mr. Smeaton, on the N. ſide o the harbour of New Aberdeen. Thi pier is 1200 feet in length, and graduall increaſes in thickneſs and height as it ap proaches to the ſea, where the head, o rounding, is 60 feet in diameter at th baſe, and the perpendicular elevation is 3 feet. To the S. of the bar, they hav now a depth of 17 fathoms at low water and at the harbour mouth from 8 to 9 fa thom, where they had formerly but a fe feet. The whole is built of granite, th moſt durable ſtone known; and many o the outſide ſtones are above three tons i weight, with hewn beds. Aberdeen is 8 miles NE. of Edinburgh. Lat. 57. 6. N lon. 1. 50. W.

ABERDEENSHIRE, a county of Scotland containing the diſtricts of Mar, Garioch Strathbogie, and the greater part of Bu chan. It's length, from NE. to SW. i about 80 miles; it's breadth nearly 3 It is bounded on the W. by Inverneſshir on the NW. by Banffſhire and the rive Deveron; on the N. and NE. by the Ger man Ocean, and on the S. by the counti of Kincardine, Angus, and Perth. Ther is much excellent paſture in the hig parts; and the level traſt, Strathbogie contains many well cultivated fields.

ABERDOUR, a town in Fifeſhire, o the Frith of Forth, about 10 miles fro Edinburgh. In the reign of David II William, lord of Liddeſdale, ſurname the Flower of Chivalry, conveyed thi town, by charter, to James Douglas, an ceſtor of the Earls of Morton, the preſen owners. The nuns, uſually ſtyled the Poo Clares, had a convent at this place.

Aberdowe, a pariſh in Radnorſhire

Aberecke, in Carnarvonſhire.

ABERFORD, or ABERFORTH, a tow in the W. Riding of Yorkſhire, noted for manufactory of pins; it ſtands on the grea Roman cauſeway, which, between this an

Caſtleforth

Caſtleforth, appears entire, though nearly 1800 years old. It is 16 miles SW. of York, and 184 NNW. of London. Market on Wedneſday.

Aberfraw, a village of Angleſey, anciently famous for the caſtle, or palace, of the princes of North Wales, who were ſtyled kings of Aberfraw.

*ABERGAVENNY, a well-built town in Monmouthſhire, containing about 500 houſes. It has a conſiderable trade in flannels, and is ſeated on the river Gavenny, where it falls into the Uſk, 16 miles W. of Monmouth, and 143 W. by N. from London. Markets on Tueſday and Friday.

Abergely, a village of Denbighſhire. Abergwilly, or Abergerlech, in Carmarthenſhire; here is the ſeat of the biſhop of St. David's.

*ABERISTWYTH, a town of Cardiganſhire, ſituated on the river Riddal, near it's confluence with the Iſtwith, where they both fall into the ſea It's principal trade is in lead and fiſh. It is 30 miles NE. of Cardigan, and 203 WNW. of London. Market on Monday.

Aberlady, a village in E. Lothian. Aberlemno, in the ſhire of Angus.

Aberley, Aburley, or Abbotſley, Worceſ. 5 miles from Bewdley.

Aberlour, in the ſhire of Elgin.

ABERNETHY, a town on the river Spey, in Murrayſhire, near which was erected a famous monument, called Macduff's croſs; where if any, within the ninth degree to the laird Macduff, fled, for manſlaughter, he was pardoned, on paying a few head of cattle by way of fine.

ABERNETHY, a town of Perthſhire, on the Tay, ſaid to be formerly the ſeat of the Pictiſh kings.

ABERSPERG. See ABENSBURG.

Abertannot, Shropſhire, near Oſweſtry. Abertawen, Glamorganſhire, near Swanſey. Abeſley, Hants, between Ringwood and Fordingbridge. Abetone, Staff. near Totmanſlow.

ABEX, a country of Africa, S. of Egypt, bordering on the Red Sea. It is about 500 miles long and 100 broad; has more wild beaſts than human inhabitants, and is very ſandy, mountainous, dry, and barren. It produces large foreſts of ebony trees, and is ſubject to the Turks.

ABHER, HABAR, or EBHER, a city of Perſian Irak, or ancient Parthia, with a ſmall river of the ſame name running through the middle of it. It's moſques, bazars, inns, &c. are elegant, and their gardens are of immenſe extent. It contains 2500 houſes, and is governed by a Deroga. Lat. 36. 14. N. long. 50. 59. E.

ABIAD, a town on the coaſt of Abex, ſeated on a high mountain, remarkable for it's trade in ebony and aromatic plants.

ABIGRASSO, a little town of Milan, ſeated on a canal. Lat. 45. 20. N. lon. 9. 24. E.

*ABINGDON, or ABINGTON, formerly SHROVESHAM, a well-built town of Berkſhire, on the Thames. They make great quantities of malt here, which, with other commodities, they ſend to London in barges. Here is alſo a conſiderable manufacture of ſacking and ſail-cloth. In the time of the Britons, it was the ſeat of ſeveral of their kings; and afterwards, in the Saxon heptarchy, the place of one ſynod. It is 7 miles S. of Oxford, and 56 W. of London. Markets on Monday and Friday.

ABINGTON, a town of Philadelphia county, in Pennſylvania; and another in the ſtate of Maryland; alſo a ſmall town in Limerick, Munſter, 7 miles E. of Limerick, and 91 from Dublin.

Abinger, Surry, near Darking. Abingworth, Surry, near Godalmin and Stoke.

ABIUL, a town of Beira, containing about 1300 inhabitants. Lat. 40. 20. N. lon. 7. 10. W.

ABKHAS, one of the ſeven nations, in the countries comprehended between the Black Sea and the Caſpian. It's capital is Anakopir, tributary to the Turks.

Abkettleby, a pariſh of Leiceſterſhire, 3 miles from Melton Mowbray.

ABLAY, a country of Tartary, ſubject to the Ruſſians, but their chief is a Calmuc prince. The inhabitants are called Buchars. Lat. from 51 to 54. N. lon. from 72 to 83. E.

Ablench, Worceſt. near Flanbury. Ablington, Glouceſt. near Fairford. Ablington, Wilts, 4 miles from Ambreſbury. Ablods Court, near Glouceſter, on the Severn.

ABLOE, a town of Little Tartary, between the river Dnieper and the Black Sea. Lat. 46. 20. N. long. 33. 15. E.

ABNAKIS, a tribe of Indians between Canada and New England.

Abney, Derbyſhire, in the High Peak.

ABO, a diſtrict and a ſea-port, the capital of Swediſh Finland; it is ſituated at the month of the Aurojoki, near the point where the gulfs of Finland and Bothnia unite. The neighbouring country is mountainous; the town is pretty well built, but the houſes are generally of wood, painted red. In 1678, it was almoſt conſumed by a fire. Here is an univerſity with a botanic garden. The inhabitants export linen, corn flax, and iron.

iron. Abo is 140 miles NE. of Stockholm. Lat. 60. 27. N. lon. 22. 18. E.

ABO FLOT, or ABO HUS, in Finland.

ABOARY, or ABOERA, ABOCROE, and ABONEE, tracts of Guinea, pretty rich in gold.

ABOIM DE NOBREVA A COATO, a diſtrict of Entre Duero e Minho, in Portugal.

ABORAM, a ſmall iſland in the Mediterranean, near the coaſt of Fez, whoſe inhabitants live chiefly by fiſhing. Lat. 36. N. lon. 2. 32. W.

Abornol, Suſſex, near Arundel. Aborrows, Cornwall, near Helſton Downs.

ABOUKIR, otherwiſe called BIKER, or BIKE, and in French BEQUIERES, a ſmall town of Egypt, lying in the deſart between Alexandria and Roſetta. It is the ancient Canopus, and was formerly an iſland, according to Pliny, Strabo, &c. which it's preſent local appearance, from the low grounds around it, renders very credible. The rock, on which the town is built, forms a convenient road for ſhipping. It is ſituated near one of the mouths of the Nile, 15 miles E. of Alexandria. See NILE.

ABOUILLONA, a lake, with a town and iſland, near Mount Olympus, in Natolia.

ABOUTIGE, ABUTISH, or ABOHIBE, a town in Upper Egypt, famous for producing the beſt opium in all the Levant, from the great quantities of poppies which grow thereabouts.

ABRAHAM's DORP, a populous little town in Hungary. Lat. 46. 20. N. lon. 19. 50. E.

Abram, Lancaſhire, near Leigh.

ABRANTES, a town of Tomar, in Portugueſe Eſtremadura, on the Tajo. It's inhabitants are eſtimated at 35,000; it has four pariſh-churches, four convents, an alms-houſe, and an hoſpital. Lat. 39. 13. N. lon. 8. 0. W.

ABREIRO, a diſtrict, comprehending ten pariſhes, and a town of Tra-los-montes, in Portugal. Lat. 41. 20. N. lon. 7. 10. W.

ABRENNER, a town and conical mountain of Turcomania, where there are medicinal ſprings.

Abrey Hatch, Eſſex, near Ruthford. Abridge, Eſſex, near Lambourn. Abrighted, near Shrewſbury. Abriſter, Brecknockſhire. Abroke, Surry, near Cobham.

ABROJOS, or BAXOS DE BABUCA, a bank, with ſeveral ſmall iſlands and rocks to the E. of Turks-Iſland, in the Weſt Indies. Lat. 21. 5. N. lon. 69. 40. W.

ABROLHOS, a promontory and dangerous ſhoals, on, and near, the coaſt of Brazil. Lat. 18. 22. S. lon. 38. 50. W.

ABRUG-BANYA, a well-inhabited town of Tranſylvania, on the river Ompay; near which there are mines of gold and ſilver; and the mine-court is held there. Lat. 46. 50. N. lon. 23. 24. E.

ABRUZZO, a province of Naples, divided into Abruzzo Citra and Abruzzo Ultra, the river Peſcaro being the boundary between them. It has the Apennine and other mountains running through it, the tops of which are continually covered with ſnow, and the woods abound with deer, wolves, and bears; but it is fertile in corn, rice, fruit, oil, hemp, and ſaffron. Among the mountaineers, evident traces of the ancient Norman and Lombard languages may be ſtill diſcovered.

Abſcourt, Surry, near Walton-upon-Thames. Abſheals, Northumb. near Morpeth. Abſhot, Hants, near Tichfield.

ABSPERG, a ſmall town in Suabia.

ABSTEINEN, a bailiwick and village of Pruſſia, in a mountainous and pleaſant country, ſo fertile in corn and cattle, that it is called the ſtorehouſe of Lithuania.

Abſthorpe, and Abſtorne, Nottingh.

Abſton and Wick, Glouceſterſ. 7 miles from Briſtol, on the road to London. Abton, Shropſ. near Wenlock. Abury, or Aubery, Wilts, near Marlborough Downs, noted for the ſtupendous remains of a druidical temple, like Stonehenge, on Saliſbury-plain: a high rampart, with a proportionate ditch, ſurrounds it. Aby, Lincolnſhire, near Alford.

ABUYO, one of the Philippine Iſlands, between Mindanao and Luconia.

ABYDOS. See GALLIPOLI.

Abynhall, Glouceſterſhire.

ABYSSINIA, called alſo HIGHER ETHIOPIA, and by the Arabians, ALHABASH, a very ancient kingdom or empire in Africa. It is bounded on the N. by Nubia on the E. by the Red Sea and Adel, on the S. and W. by Ajan, Alaba, Gingiro, and Goram; lies between 6 and 20 degrees N. lat. and between 26 and 40 E. lon. It is about 960 miles long and 800 broad, and contains 378,000 ſquare miles. The mountains are very high here and ſcattered all over the country: in ſome parts they are ſo ſteep, that the inhabitants aſcend them by ladders, and draw up the cattle with ropes; among theſe the Nile and the Niger have their ſource; and here, as in Egypt, they have their periodical inundations, which greatly fertilize the plains. The thunder and lightning here are ſometimes tremendous, and the wind no leſs dreadful, overturning the houſes and tearing up trees by the roots; and the rain comes down like torrents. Their rainy ſeaſon holds for near ſix months, during our ſummer months, and is ſucceeded by an equal period of cloudleſs ſky. Gold, ſilver, and copper are found here, in their mines; the vegetables are various; the animals are the lion, leopard, elephant, rhinoceros, dromedary, camel, ſtag, horſe, cow, goat, ſheep, monkeys, &c.; with a great variety of birds, as the oſtrich, eagles, vultures, ſtorks, &c.; and in the rivers there are found the crocodile and hippopotamus. The complexions of the inhabitants are copper-coloured, olive, and black; their religion ſeems to be a mixture of Judaiſm and the profeſſion of the Greek church; their language is the Ethiopic, which bears a great affinity to the Arabic.

ACADIA, or ACADIE. See NOVA SCOTIA and NEW BRUNSWICK.

ACAMBOU, a large district of Guinea.

ACASIMINA, a coaſt town of Lower Guinea.

ACANNY, a country of Upper Guinea, long famous for producing gold, ſo pure, as to become proverbial: alſo a town or village of Guinea, in lat. 8. 30. N. lon. 0. 30. W.

ACAPULCO, in Mexico, an inconſiderable town, conſiſting of only 2 or 300 thatched cottages; unleſs at the annual fair, which laſts about thirty days, when it ſuddenly becomes a populous city, crowded with the richeſt commodities of India, brought by the Manilla galleon; the treaſures of Peru, brought by the annual ſhip from Lima, and all ſorts of European goods, brought over land from Vera Cruz. The Manilla galleon is a large veſſel, which ſails every year from this port to Manilla, carrying cochineal, quickſilver, and cocoa, but chiefly ſilver; it returns laden with ſpices, muſlins, china, ſilk, and other productions and manufactures of Aſia. It was a veſſel returning from hence to Manilla, laden with ſilver, that commodore Anſon took in 1743. Acapulco is ſeated on a commodious and excellent bay in the South Sea, and has a harbour free and open for ſhips of any burden; the beſt, indeed, on all the weſtern coaſt of Spaniſh America. Lat. 17. 22. N. lon. 102. 20. W.

ACARADY, a country on the S. coaſt of Guinea, remarkable for fine pure gold.

ACARIA, a town of S. America, in Paraguay, built by the Jeſuits in 1624. Lat. 26. 0. S. lon. 51. 5. W.

ACARNANIA, anciently a part of Epirus in Greece, now CARNIA.

ACARON, a town of Paleſtine, called Ekron in ſcripture; it was anciently famous for the temple of Baalzebub.

Acaſter, Yorkſ. near Sherborn, in W. Riding. Acaſter Over, Yorkſ. near Wetherly, E. Riding.

ACCANNY. See ACANNY.

Acclam, Yorkſ. near Bugthorp, E. Riding. Accle, Norf. between Norwich and Yarmouth. Accleton, Shropſ. near Stotteſden. Accrington, New and Old, Lanc. in the pariſh of Whalley.

ACERENZA, a city of Naples, capital of the Baſilicata.

ACERNO, or ACIERNO, a city of the Principato Citra.

ACERRA, a city of Lavora.

ACHA, a diſtrict of Ses, in Morocco.

ACHAIA. See LIVADIA.

ACHAM. See ASSAM.

ACHELOUS, a river (much celebrated in antiquity) now called ASPRO-POTAMO; and ACHELOVU, a biſhop's ſee of Epirus; in European Turkey.

ACHEEN, ACHEM, or ACHEN, the capital of a large kingdom of the ſame name, in the NW. part of Sumatra; and the place where Engliſh ſhips firſt arrived at, in ſailing to the E. Indies. Chineſe, Indian, and European merchants live there, and exchange with the natives their different wares for gold-duſt, elephants' teeth, fine fruits, ſulphur, camphor, rice, cotton, pepper, and benzoin. The houſes are built on poſts, two feet above the ground, becauſe, in the rainy ſeaſon, the city is ſo overflowed, that the inhabitants are obliged to go from houſe to houſe in boats; their public buildings are, the king's palace and the moſques. This city, which, in the 16th century, was a great and flouriſhing mart of eaſtern commodities, and ſtill retains a conſiderable commerce, is ſituated about half a league from the ſea, on a pretty large river, with a ſafe and commodious harbour, or rather road, formed by the iſlands at the point or mouth. The Achaneſe are, in general, taller, ſtouter, and of darker complexion than the other Sumatrans; they are more active and induſtrious; they alſo diſcover more ſagacity and penetration, and are accounted the moſt diſhoneſt people in all the eaſt. They are Mohemetans. Lat. 5. 22, N. lon. 95. 34. E.

ACHEN, or ACKEN, in Magdeburg, Lower Saxony, a ſmall town, ſeated on the Elbe, with a citadel.

ACHERON, a river of Albania, celebrated in antiquity; and a lake in Naples, the Tenebroſa Palus of Virgil.

ACHIAVEL, a town of Caſſimere, Hindooſtan.

Achill Iſles, two iſlands in Clew-Bay, on the coaſt of Mayo, Connaught.

Achiam, or Achlamu, a village 12 miles from York, where the body of the emperor Severus, who died at York, was burnt to aſhes, agreeably to the cuſtom of thoſe times.

ACHMETSTED, a town of Catharinenſlaf, in the Crimea.

ACHMIM, a town of Egypt, ſituated on the E. ſide of the Nile, 205 miles S. of Cairo.

ACHOMBENE, a town of L. Guinea.

Achonry, a village of Sligo.

ACHONCAGUA, a deep river of Chili.

Achurch, Northamp. near Oundle.

ACHYR, a town of the Ukrain.

ACIS, a river which riſes, at once in a large ſtream, on Mount Etna, about a mile from the ſea, to which it runs with great rapidity. It's waters are of a noxious quality.

Ackeld, Northumb. in Wooler.

ACKERSUNDT, a ſmall iſland of Norway.

Ackley, near Buckingham. Ackworth, York. near Pontefract. In this village, the Society of the Quakers have a reſpectable ſeminary, for their children of both ſexes.

ACLAMAR, a lake in Turcomania.

Acle, Glouc. near Cheltenham. Acley, Durham, on the river Skern. Acliff, Durham, 5 miles from Biſhop-Auckland.

ACMONIA, a city of Hungary, on the Danube, near Trajan's bridge It lies 12 miles from Temeſwaer, and was built by the emperor Severus.

Acol, Kent, near Canterbury.

ACOMA, or ST. ESTEVAN DE ACOMA, a town of Mexico, on a high mountain, with a ſtrong caſtle: it is capital of a province of the ſame name. To enter the town, you muſt aſcend 50 ſteps cut out of the rock. Lat. 35. 0. N. lon. 104. 35. W.

ACOMACK, a large county of Virginia, having Cape Charles for it's ſouthern promontory.

Acomb, Northumb. on the N. ſide of Hexham. Acomb, a neat place near York.

Aconbury, 3 miles from Hereford. Aconbury, or Auconbury, Hunts.

ACORES, a village in Beira.

ACOUEZ, certain Indians in Canada.

ACOUS, a village in Oleron.

ACQS, a little town at the foot of the Pyrenees, in the dept. of Arriege; and ACQS, or DAX, a city on the river Adour, in the depart. of Landes; both of which places have hot waters or baths. This laſt town was deſtroyed by the Saracens in 910, and was long in poſſeſſion of the Engliſh, from whom, however, it was finally taken by the French in 1462.

ACQUA, a town in Tuſcany, noted for warm baths. Lat. 43. 45. N. lon. 12. 10. E.

ACQUA-CHE FAVELLA, a celebrated fountain of Calabria Citra, near the mouth of the river Crata; the ruins are called Sibari Rovinata.

ACQUAPENDENTE, a large town of Orvieto, Italy, in the pope's territories. It is ſeated on a mountain near the river Paglia; and is ſo called from it's abounding with water. Lat. 42. 43. N. lon. 12. 17. E.

ACQUARIA, a town of Modena, ſeated on the river Panaro. It is famous for it's medicinal waters. Lat. 44. 24. N. lon. 11. 17. E.

ACQUATACCIO, formerly Almo, a ſmall river near Rome, which falls into the Tiber.

ACQUA-VIVA, a town of Terra di Bari.

ACQUI, a town of Montſerrat, in Italy, greatly declined from it's ancient ſplendor; but ſtill much reſorted to on account of it's warm baths. It is capital of a territory, and is ſeated on the river Bormia, 30 miles S. of Caſal.

ACRA, a town and territory of Acamboo, on the coaſt of Guinea, where the Engliſh, Dutch, and Danes have built forts, and each fort has it's particular village.

ACRA, ACRE, or ST. JEAN D'ACRE, a ſea port of Paleſtine, called in ſcripture Accho, and by the Greeks Ptolemais; it underwent, in the time of the cruſades, many ſieges, as well by the Chriſtians as Saracens; and lately, it has ſucceſsfully ſuſtained a memorable ſiege, under the French general Bonaparte. The fortifications, however, whatever they were in former times, conſiſt, at preſent, of only a few low towers, mounted with ruſty cannon towards the ſea; and on the land ſide, of a wretched garden wall, without any ditch. The bay, or harbour, which extends, in a ſemicircle of 3 leagues, as far as Mount Carmel, is open to the NW. winds; yet the port is reckoned one of the beſt, and the town is one of the principal ones, upon this dreary coaſt. It was here that our king Edward I. when prince, receiving a wound from a poiſoned arrow, was cured by his wife Eleanor, who ſucked out the poiſon. The Armenians and European merchants have their reſpective places of worſhip here, and carry on a pretty profitable trade with the Arabs. It is 28 miles S. of Tyre. Lat. 32. 30. N. lon. 35. 24. E.

ACRA, an iſland in the Mediterranean, on the coaſt of Barbary, forming a harbour, where veſſels of the greateſt burthen can lie in ſafety.

ACRON, GREAT, and ACRON, LITTLE, two inland republics of Guinea, bordering on the Fantin country.

ACROTERI, a town in the iſland of Santorin, in the ſea of Candia. Lat. 36. 25. N. lon. 25. 12. E.

Acryſe, or Awbbridge, Kent.

Acton, Armagh.

Acton, Kent, in Charing. Acton, Staff. Acton Beauchamp, 10 miles from Worceſter. Acton Burnell, Shropſ. 8 miles from Shrewſbury; ſo named from the Burnells, who formerly had a caſtle in it. A parliament was held here in the reign of king Edward I. wherein a ſtatute, called the Statute Merchant, was made for the aſſurance of debts. The lords ſat in the caſtle, and the commons in a barn, which is yet ſtanding. A great part alſo of the caſtle, a very magnificent ſtructure, ſtill remains, it's walls being exceedingly ſtrong, and adorned with fine battlements, and rows of windows curiouſly carved. The building is ſquare, and it is ſuppoſed to have ſuffered leſs, from the injury of time, than any other of the kind in England. Acton, Eaſt, 6 miles; Acton Weſt, 7 miles from London, both in Middleſex, on or near the road to Uxbridge. At the diſtance of about half a mile from E. Acton are 3 wells, that afford a purging water, noted for the pungency of it's ſalt. Theſe wells, about the middle of the preſent century, were in the higheſt repute for their medicinal virtues; the aſſembly room was then a place of very faſhionable reſort, and the neighbouring hamlets of E. Acton and Fryar's-Place were filled with perſons of all ranks, who came to reſide there, in the months of May, June, and July. But faſhion and novelty having given the preference to other wells, theſe have, long ago, loſt their celebrity; and the aſſembly room, nearly in ruins, has been lately repaired and converted into tenements. Acton Grange, Cheſhire, near the Merſey. Acton, Cheſhire, near Northwich. Acton, Cheſhire, near Namptwich. Acton, Cumb. 8 miles from Carliſle. Acton, near Northampton. Acton, Shropſ. near Purſlow. Acton, Staff. between the Trent and Severn. Acton Higher, Glouc. near Wotton. Acton-Pigot, Acton-Reynold, and Acton-Scot, or on the Hill, Shropſ. Acton Ilger, Glouceſ. hamlet to Iron Acton. Acton-Trefel, Staff. Acton-Turville, Glouc.

ACUMOLI, a town of Abruzzo Ultra.

Acwell, near Oxford.

ACZU, a town of Natolia; a town and province of Turkeſtan, in Aſiatic Tartary, N. of Caſchgar.

Adair, an ancient little town 8 miles from Limerick, and 102 from Dublin; having a good bridge over the river Maige, which is navigable for large boats. From it's extenſive ruins of convents, &c. it appears to have been formerly a place of conſiderable importance.

ADAK, a lake near the Caſpian Sea.

Adam's-Chapel, Dorſet, near Corfe-caſtle.

ADAM'S PIKE, a high mount, in Ceylon.

ADANA, a city of Caramania, ſuppoſed to have been ſo called from Eden, on account of it's fine ſituation and fertile ſoil. It is ſeated on the Choquer, 25 miles NE. of Tarſus. Lat. 37. 26. N. lon. 36. 12. E.

ADARETON, an iſland in the Lake of Van, in Turcomania, having on it ſeveral villages, and a monaſtery of Armenian monks.

ADASA, a city of Judea, where Judas Maccabæus overthrew and killed Nicanor.

Adbaſton, Staff. near Eccleſhall. Adber, Somerſetſ. 4 miles from Ilcheſter. Adbolton, Nottinghamſ. near Bingham. Adcot, Shropſ. near Shrewſbury.

ADDA, a little country of Milan, on the Adda, a river which riſes in the Griſon country, paſſes through the Lake Como, and croſſing the Vatteline and the N. part of the Miſaneſe, falls into the Po 5 miles above Cremona.

Adde, Yorkſ. 5 miles from Otley. Adderley, Shropſ. near Drayton. Adderbury, Oxf. 3 miles from Banbury. Addeſham, Kent, 5 miles from Sandwich. Addingham, Yorkſ. W. Riding, near Craven. Addington, Surry, 3 miles from Croydon. The lord of this manor, in the reign of Henry III. held it by this ſervice, viz. to make the king a meſs of pottage, called Dilligrout, in an earthen pot, at his coronation; and if there were any butter or fat in it, it was then called Maupigyrnum: ſo lately as the reſtoration of Charles II. this ſervice was ordered by the court of claims, and accepted of by the king at his table. Addington, Magna and Parva, Northamptonſ. two diſtinct pariſhes near Higham Ferrers. Addington, Bucks, near Winſlow. Addle, Yorkſ. near Leeds. Addleſton, Surry, near Chertſey. Addleſthorp, Glouceſ. near Stow-on-the-Would. Addleſthorp, Lincolnſ. near Spilleby. Addleſtock, or Addeſtock, Bucks.

ADEBETH, an iſland in the Nile, in Lower Egypt, containing many villages and ſtately buildings, which yet can hardly be be ſeen from the river, on account of the luxuriant foliage of the ſurrounding lofty trees.

ADEL, a fruitful province of Africa, called alſo Zeilah, from a rich trading town of that name, ſituated near the Red Sea. In the centre of the country is Adela, where the king reſides: and there is another place of note, called Barbora, near the ſea-coaſt, an ancient town, of ſome trade. This country ſtretches along the S. coaſt of the Strait of Babelmandel, near to the Red Sea. It was formerly a part of Abyſſinia.

ADELFORS, a gold mind of Smaland, in Sweden, diſcovered in 1738.

ADEN, formerly a rich and populous city, giving name to a diſtrict on the SW. coaſt of Arabia Felix; but much reduced ſince it's trade has been removed to Mocha. Lat. 13. 10. N. lon. 46. 30. E.

Adenburg, near Nottingham.

ADENBURG, or ALDENBURG, a town of Weſtphalia, ſubject to the Elector Palatine, 12 miles NE. of Cologne. Lat. 51. 2. N. lon. 7. 16. E.

ADERBIGAN. See AIDEREBEZAN.

ADERBURG, a town of Pruſſian Pomerania, 9 miles NW. of Stettin.

ADERNO, a town of Demona, in Sicily, at the foot of Mount Etna, watered by a river of it's own name.

Adeſham, Dorſetſ. in Broad Windſor.

ADJAZZO. See AJACCIO.

ADIGE, a river of Lombardy, which riſes S. of the Lake of Glace, and paſſing by Tyrol, Brixen, Trent, and Verona, falls into the Gulph of Venice, a little N. of the mouth of the Po.

ADIKBEITZAN. See AIDERBEZAN.

Adilham, or Addeſham, Kent, 5 miles from Sandwich. Adingfleet, Yorkſ. W. Riding, between the Trent and Ouſe.

ADLESBURG, a remarkable cavern in Carniola; the paſſages in which are of ſome miles extent; from the top, ſparricles, and along the ſides, a ſort of pillars, with various groteſque figures, have been formed by the exſudations of the petrifying fluid.

Adlington, Cheſh. near Preſbury. Adlington, Lanc. near Eccleſton. Admaſton, Shropſhire, near Wellington. Admaſton, Staff. near Paget's Bromley. Admington, Glouceſterſ. near Campden.

ADMIRALTY ISLANDS, a cluſter of iſlands to the N. of New Britain, and nearly in a parallel W. from New Ireland. They are between 20 and 30 in number, and were firſt diſcovered by Captain Carteret. He deſcribes them as clothed with a beautiful verdure of lofty luxuriant woods, interſperſed with ſpots that have been cleared for plantations, with groves of cocoa-nut trees and houſes of the natives, who appeared to be very numerous. The largeſt of the iſlands is about 18 leagues long, in the direction E. and W. The inhabitants are a fierce intractable people, going quite naked, except that they have ſhells on their legs and arms, by way of ornament. They are of a dark copper colour, nearly black, with woolly heads, which they profuſely powder; they alſo paint their cheeks with white ſtreaks. Lat. about 2 S. and lon. from 146. to 152. E.

Adney, Shropſ. 3 miles SW. of Newport.

ADOLPH-FREDERICK'S-SCHADT, a ſilver mine in Sweden.

ADONE, a populous village of Stuhl-Weiſſenburg, Hungary.

ADOUR, a river in the dept. of Gers, which riſes in the mountains of Bigorre, and paſſing by Tarbes and Dax, falls into the Bay of Biſcay a little below Bayonne.

ADRA, a ſea-port of Granada.

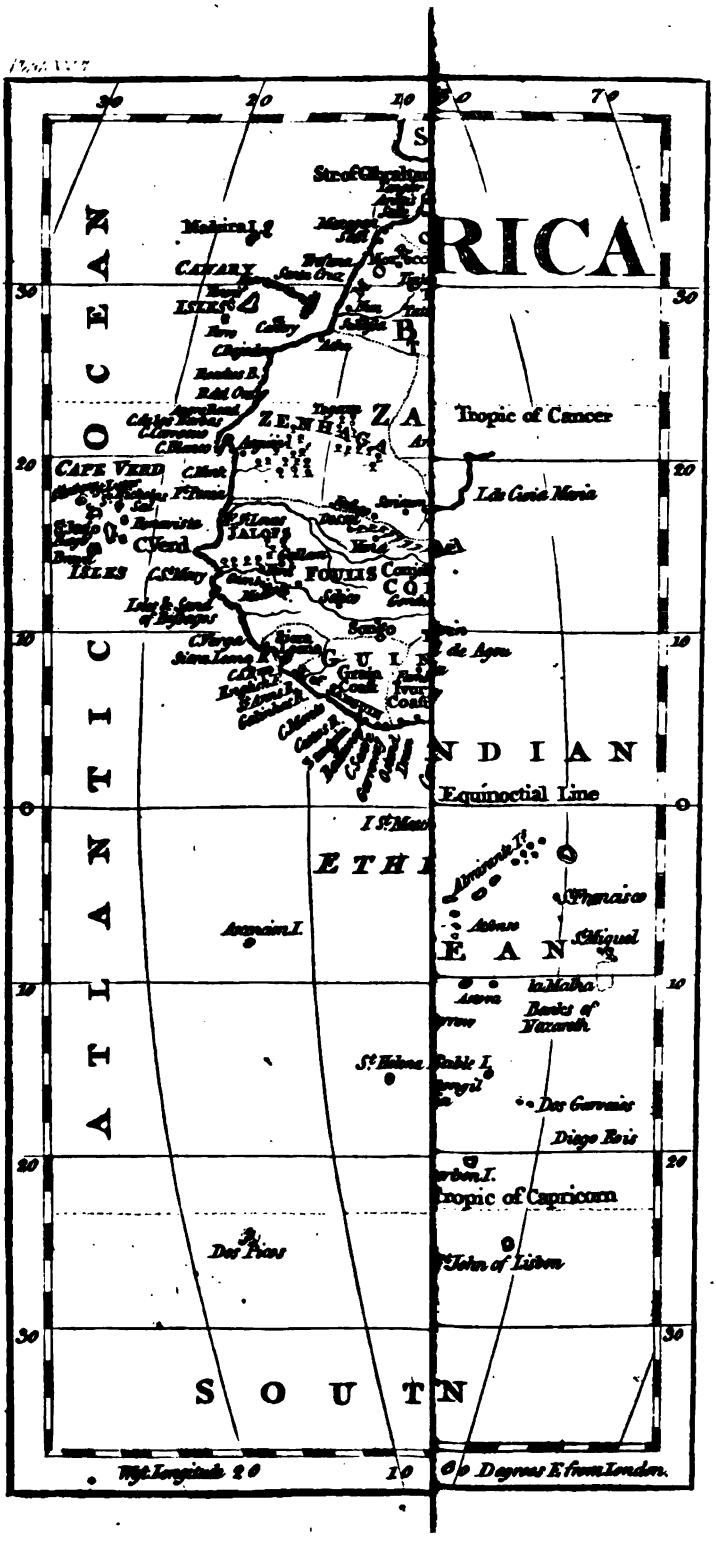
Adragoal, in Bantry Bay, Cork.

ADRIA, a decayed town of Venice, ſeated on the Tartaro, between the mouths of the Po and the Adige; it was formerly very conſiderable, but has been greatly reduced by inundations. The preſent inhabitants are chiefly fiſhermen. It claims the honour, however, of having given name to the Adriatic Sea, though this denomination is alſo ſaid to have taken it's riſe from Hadria, a town in ancient geography, ſituated in the territory of the Piceni.

ADRIANO-A-SIERRA, a chain of mountains of Biſcay, in Spain. There is a road over them to Aalba and old Caſtile, which at it's beginning is a dark path of fifty paces, cut through a rock, and then leads over the higheſt of the Pyrenees.

ADRIANOPLE, a conſiderable city of Romania, and the ſee of an archbiſhop, under the patriarch of Conſtantinople. It is about 7 or 8 miles in circumference, including the old city and ſome gardens. The houſes are low, moſtly built of mud and clay, and ſome of brick; and the ſtreets are exceedingly dirty. The public buildings are the moſques, and a beautiful bazar, or exchange, called Ali Baſſa, which is a vaſt arched building, with 6 gates, and 365 rich, well-furniſhed ſhops, extending half a mile in length, and kept by Turks, Greeks, Armenians, and Jews. The inhabitants are eſtimated at about 100,000. The Turks took this city from the Greek emperors in 1362, and made it the ſeat of their empire, till Mahomet II.

took



RICA
ATLANTIC OCEAN
Tropic of Cancer
Equinoctial Line
Tropic of Capricorn
CAPE VERD
ISLES
C. Verd
JALOFS
FOULIS
ZENHAGA
Madeira I.
CANARY Ascension I.
St. Helena
Des Pices
Diego Rois
Des Garvaies
Ste. Miguel
Ste. Francisco
Wgt. Longitude 20
10
0 Degrees E from London.

took Conſtantinople in 1453. Adrianople is pleaſantly ſituated on a beautiful plain, and is watered with three rivers, (ſuppoſed to be branches of the ancient Hebrus) the largeſt of which, called the Mariza, is navigable. It is 115 miles NW. of Conſtantinople. Lat. 41. 45. N. lon. 26. 27. E.

Adrington, Suſſex, near Arundel. Adrington, Devonſ. near Barnſtaple.

ADRUMETUM. See MAHOMETTA.

Adſcomb, Surry, near Croydon. Adſet, Glouceſ. near Weſtbury. Adſtock, near Buckingham. Adſton, or Adſon, Northamp. between Brackley and Daventry. Advene, Cornwall, near Leſneath.

ADVENTURE ISLAND, a ſmall iſland in the S. Sea, ſo called from the ſhip Adventure, in which Capt. Furneaux, the diſcoverer, ſailed. The inhabitants appear mild and cheerful, but not enterpriſing or active. Lat. 17. 5. S. lon. 144. 18. W.

ADVENTURE BAY, in Van Dieman's Land, on the E. coaſt of New Holland. Lat. 43. 23. S. lon. 147. 30. E.

ADUGAK, one of the Fox Iſlands, in the Northern Archipelago.

ADULA, a mountain of Navarre, Spain.

Aiur, a river in Suſſex, which falls into the Engliſh Channel below Arundel. Adwalton, Yorkſ. 5 miles from Leeds. Adwel, Oxfordſ. between Thame and Warlington. Adwick on Stratton, or on the-Street, Yorkſ. near Doncaſter.

ADZEL, a ſmall town near Riga.

ADZENETA, a ſmall town of Valencia, on the frontiers of Arragon.

ADZUD, a town of Moldavia.

ÆBORA, ÆBURA. See TALAVERA.

ÆGADES, or ÆGATES, three iſlands, viz. Levenzo, Favignana, and Maritimo, on the W. ſide of Sicily.

ÆLEN, a diſtrict of Bern.

ÆGELSTAWIK, a harbour of Sudermania.

ÆLST. See ALOST.

ÆGEAN SEA. See ARCHIPELAGO.

ÆGINA, an iſland in the Archipelago, anciently Genone and Myrmidonia, the inhabitants of which were called Myrmidons, that is, pismires or emmets, from the great pains they took in cultivating the earth.

ÆMILIAN WAYS, two conſular roads in Italy, made before the Chriſtian æra.

ÆRDENBURG. See ARDENBURG.

ÆRDING, a town and diſtrict of Lower Bavaria.

ÆRSHOT, or AERSCHOT, a large walled town of Brabant, 9 miles NE. of Louvain. It is the chief place of a dukedom of the ſame name, lying eaſtward of Mechlin, about 14 miles long and 4 broad.

ÆTH. See ATH.

ÆTHIOPIA. See ETHIOPIA.

ÆTHRA, a river of Sweden.

ÆTNA. See ETNA.

Aſerwick, Worceſ. near Sukely.

Affane, a pariſh in Waterford county.

Affington, Dorſetſ. near Blandford. Affordby, Leiceſterſ. near Hallaton. Affpiddle, Dorſetſ. near Bere-regis.

AFGHANS, the general name of a military horde, in Perſia, employed by the late Kouli Khan.

AFRA, a caſtle of Biledulgerid, on the borders of Zaara, built by Cherif Mahomet, king of Sus. Lat. 28. 20. N. lon. 23. 10. E.

AFRICA, one of the four grand diviſions of the globe, is bounded on the N. by the Mediterranean, which ſeparates it from Europe; on the NE. by the Red Sea, which ſeparates it from Aſia, ſave where they are connected together by the iſthmus of Suez; it's other ſhores are waſhed by the Ocean. The greateſt part of this largeſt of all peninſulas, lies within the torrid zone, hence the inhabitants are all of dark complexions; and in the centre and ſouthwards they are quite black. The mountains and rivers of Africa are very large; the country is extremely fertile, except in thoſe extenſive tracts that are unſupplied with moiſture; there the country is parched up, and the heat becomes inſupportable. In croſſing theſe arid deſerts, the ſands are ſometimes ſo raiſed by the winds, that whole caravans are buried under them: on the other hand, nothing can be more beautiful than the fertile parts of Africa; the luxuriancy of the landſcape, continually clothed with all the beauties of ſpring, ſummer and harveſt, ſurpaſſes all deſcription; and the variety of animals, is much greater here than in the other parts of the globe. Africa lies between the parallels of 37. 0. N. and 35. 0. S. latitude, and between 17. 0. W. and 51. 0. E. longitude, and may be divided as follows: Morocco, Algiers, Tunis, Tripoli, Barca, Egypt, Biledulgerid, Zaara, Negroland, Guinea; Upper Ethiopia, including Nubia, Abyſſinia, and Abex; Lower Ethiopia, Loango, Congo, Angola, Benguela, Mataman, Ajan, Zanguebar, Monomotapa, Monoemugi, Sofala, Terra de Natal, and Caffraria. The length of Africa, from the Cape of Good Hope to the moſt northern part, is 4600 miles; and it's greateſt breadth, from Cape Verd to Cape Guardafui, is 3500.

AFRICA, or MEHEDITA, a ſea-port of Tunis. Lat. 35. 36. N. lon. 11. 10. E.

AFUERA. See MASAFUERO.

AFWESTAD, a town of Sweden, in Dalecarlia, which has large copper-works, and a mint for ſmall ſilver coin. Lat. 61. 10. N. lon. 14. 10. E.

AFWIOWARA, a village of Daniſh Lapland, ſituated among the mountains. It has a bailiwick and a court of law. Lat. 69. 20. N. lon. 26. 12. E.

AGA, or AGAG, a kingdom of Abyſſinia.

AGADES, a town, and a kingdom of Negroland, between Gubur and Cano, formerly, and perhaps ſtill, tributary to the king of Tombuctou. It produces excellent graſs, cattle, ſena, and manna. Lat. 20. 10. N. lon. 14. 0. E.

AGAMENTICUS, a mountain of N. America, in the province of Main, in lat. 43. 16. N. It is a noted landmark for ſailors, about 8 miles from the ſea, and a few miles W. from Wells.

AGAN, one of the Ladrone iſlands, where Magellan, in ſearch of the Molucca iſlands, was aſſaſſinated.

AGANARA, a town of Hither India.

AGATHA, ST. 4 towns of Naples.

Agatha, St. Yorkſ. N. Riding.

AGATTON, a town of Guinea, near the mouth of the river Formoſa.

Agborough, Worceſ. near Bromſgrove. Agbury, Lanc. near Weſt Derby.

ADGE, a populous town in the department of Herault, ſituated on the river Herault, about a league and a half from it's mouth, where it falls into the Gulf of Lyons. Lat. 44. 19. N. lon. 3. 33. E.

Agden, near Broxton; Agden, near Bucklow; both in Cheſhire.

AGDENAS, a ſmall diſtrict of Drontheim. AGDESIDE, of Chriſtianſand, both in Norway.

AGEN, a populous and ancient city in the dept. of Lot and Garonne, capital of Agenſis; it is ſeated on the banks of the Garonne, in one of the moſt agreeable countries in France: but the city is, in itſelf, a very diſagreeable place, the houſes being ill-built, and the ſtreets narrow and dirty. Prunes here form a conſiderable object of commerce, and they have alſo manufactures of table-linen, camblets, ſerges, and ſail-cloth. This city was the reſidence of Julius Scaliger, and the birth place of his ſon Joſeph, that prodigy of learning. It is 108 miles SE. of Bourdeaux. Lat. 44. 12. N. lon. 0 4. E.

AGENEBAT, a town of Tranſylvania.

AGER, a town of Catalonia.

Ageſton, Wight Iſle, near Medina. Agford, a hamlet of Fromeſelwood, in Somerſetſhire.

AGGA, AGONNA, or AGUNA, a country of Benin, in Africa, where the Engliſh have a fort.

AGGERHUYS, a very mountainous dioceſe or province, the largeſt in the kingdom; alſo a town, it's capital; and a mountain-fortreſs of Norway; all in the S. part of Norway. This laſt, an old caſtle, the general reſidence of the governor, and which gives name to the reſt, is ſituated on or near a bay, about a league W. of Chriſtiana.

AGGEROE, a fortreſs, and AGGERHERRED, a diſtrict of Aggerhuys, or Chriſtiana.

Agbabee, in Queen's co. Leinſter. Agbabollage, in Cork, Munſter. Agbadoe, in Kerry, Munſter. Agbadown, in Cork, Munſter. Agbagower, in Mayo, Connaught. Agbamore, in Kerry, Munſter. Agbavallin, in Kerry, Munſter. Agbclare, in Mayo, Connaught. Agbills, certain loughs, near Skibbereen, in Cork, Munſter. Agbogill, or Abogill, in Antrim, Ulſter. Agbrim, in Wicklow, Leinſter. Agbrim, or Aughrim, a village of Galway, Connaught, famous for a deciſive battle fought near it July 12, 1691, between General Ginckle and Monſieur St. Ruth, the commanders under king William III. and James II. when St. Ruth was ſlain, with about 4000 of his men; but the loſs of the Engliſh did not exceed 800 killed. It is diſtant about 74 miles from Dublin.

AGHUNALASHKA. See UNALASHKA.

Agilſwell, Devon, near Newton Buſhel.

AGIMERE, or AZMERE, a town and territory of Hindooſtan, having Delhi on the N. and Guzerat on the S. It contains many ſmaller ſtates, as Agimere Proper, Rampour, Joodpour, Rantampour, Joinagur, Banſwaleh, Nagore, and Bickaneer.

AGINAR DE SOUSA, a diſtrict in Entre Minho e Duero, Portugal.

AGINCOURT, a village in the county of St. Pol, in the depart. of the Straits of Calais, rendered famous to all poſterity, by a battle fought near it, Oct. 25. 1415, wherein Henry V. king of England, with an army variouſly ſtated at from 22 to 10,000 men, obtained a complete victory over an army of French, conſiſting of 60,000 men, by the loweſt accounts; but according to ſome cotemporary writers, of 100, or even 140,000 men. The French left dead 92 barons, 1500 knights, and 8000 gentlemen of family, and ſeveral thouſand private men, without including 14,000 priſoners, among whom were the Duke of Orleans, and many others of great diſtinction: while the loſs of the Engliſh, including the Duke of York and the Earl of Suffolk, who were killed, did not exceed ceed 100 men. Lat. 50. 31. N. lon. 2. 10. E.

AGIRU, one of the four bailiwicks of Corfu, in the Gulf of Venice; it has 20 villages, and 8000 inhabitants.

AGIVAS, a ſmall town in Alentejo.

Agle, Lincolnſhire, near Boothby Pannel. Agleaby, Cumberland, in the pariſh of Warwick.

Aglish, co. Waterford, Munſter.

AGMAT, or AGMET, in the province, and on a river of the ſame name, in Morocco, is a pleaſant town on the declivity of one of the mountains of Atlas. Lat. 30. 56. N. lon. 7. 15. W.

Agmondesham. See Amerſham.

AGNABAT, or AGNETHIN, a town of Tranſylvania. Lat. 46. 40. N. lon. 24. 20. E.

AGNADELLOA, a village of the Milaneſe, near the river Adda.

AGNAN, a ſmall town in the dept. of Loire and Cher, in the form of an amphitheatre, at the foot of which runs the Cher. It is diſtant 60 miles from Bourges.

AGNANO, a circular lake in Terra di Lavora.

AGNES, ST. one of the Scilly Iſles.

Agnes, St. and it's Well, Corn. between St. Ives and St. Michael.

AGNO, a diviſion of Lauvis, Swiſſ.

AGNON, or AGNO, the Clanius of the ancients; a river of Terra di Lavora.

AGNONA, a town of Abruzzo Citra.

AGON, an iſland and harbour on the coaſt of Sweden. Lat. 61. 20. N. lon. 18. 10. E.

AGONNA. See AGGA.

AGOSTA, a ſea-port of Sicily, moſtly ſwallowed up by an earthquake in 1763, but ſince rebuilt. It is 18 miles N. of Syracuſe.

AGRA, the capital of a province of the ſame name in Hindooſtan; was, in the laſt century, a moſt extenſive and opulent city, where the Great Mogul ſometimes reſided. His palace was prodigiouſly large, and the ſeraglio contained above 1000 women; the palaces of the Omrahs and others were numerous; here were above 60 ſpacious caravanſeras, 800 baths, 700 moſques, and 2 magnificent mauſoleums. The Perſians, Chineſe, and Engliſh reſorted here, and the Dutch had a factory; the inhabitants dealt in ſcarlet, looking-glaſſes, ſilver, gold, lace, hardwares, cloth of Jelapour, and ſpices. It was fortified in the Indian manner, and had a wall and fine citadel, built of a red freeſtone. Agra has ſince rapidly declined. It is ſeated on the river Jemma, 100 miles S. by E. of Delhi. Lat. 27. 20. N. lon. 78. 30. E.

AGRAMONT, a ſmall town of Catalonia, capital of a diſtrict.

AGREABLE, an iſle in a river of Fez.

AGREDA, a populous town of Old Caſtile, in lat. 41. 50. N. lon. 2. 0. W. and a town of Popayan, S. America.

AGRIA. See EGER.

AGRIGNAN, one of the Ladrone Iſlands.

AGRIMONT, a town of Baſilicata.

AGROPOLI, a town of Principato Citra.

AGUA DE PAO, a town in the iſland St. Michael, one of the Azores.

AGUADA, in Goa, India.

AGUA DE PEIXES, a town in Alentejo.

AGUA REVES, a town in Tra-los-Montes.

AGUAS BELLAS, and AGUEDA, or AGADA, towns in Portugueſe Eſtremadura.

AGUEPERSE. See AIGUEPERSE.

AGUIAR, a town of Beira, and a place in Alentejo.

AGUIAR DE SOUSA, a conceltho, or particular juriſdiction in Entre Duero e Minho.

AGUIAS, a town in Alentejo.

AGUILA, a town and river of Fez.

AGUILAR, a town of Navarre, in Spain.

AGUILAR DEL CAMPO, a town in Old Caſtile.

AGUIR, a town of Alentejo.

AGURANDE, a town in the depart. of Indre.

Abarcroſs, in Cork, Munſter.

Abaſcragh, in Galway, Connaught.

AHLEN, a town of Munſter, Weſtphalia.

AHSAH, a town of Chuſiſtan, Perſia.

AHUYS, a ſea port of Schonen.

AJACCIO, or AJAZZO, a town on the weſtern ſide of Corſica, pretty populous, and the ſee of a biſhop, with a good harbour. It is one of the nine diſtricts of the department. Lat. 41. 50. N. lon. 8. 59. E.

AIAL, a down of Berdoa, in Africa.

AJAN, or AJEN, a country on the eaſt coaſt of Africa, ſouth of Abyſſinia and the Straits of Babelmandel; it extends about 1500 leagues in length, from Magadoxa to Cape Guardafui. The eaſtern coaſt is ſandy and barren, but to the N. the country is more fertile, producing, more particularly, an excellent breed of horſes, which the Arabian merchants, who come to trade in their ports, take, together with ivory, gold, Abyſſinian ſlaves, captured in war, &c. in exchange for ſilks, cottons, and other cloths. The inhabitants are not ſo dark complexioned as thoſe on the weſt coaſt, and their hair is rather long. They are accounted good Muſſulmans. Farther from the ſea, there are negroes, who, marrying trying with the Bedouins, a kind of Arabs, have children that are mulattoes.

AJALON, a valley between Jeruſalem and Gath.

AJAS, a town of Natolia.

AJAZZA, a ſea-port of Caramania.

AICHA, a town of Bavaria, on the Par.

AICHSTADT, or EICHSTADT, capital of an extenſive biſhopric of the ſame name in Franconia. Here are ſeveral hoſpitals, an alms-houſe, a ſeminary for ſtudents, a cathedral and other churches, one of which is built after the model of that called the Holy Sepulchre at Jeruſalem; here is alſo a curious piece of workmanſhip, called the Sun of the Holy Sacrament; it is of maſſy gold, of great weight, and is enriched with 350 diamonds, 1400 pearls, 250 rubies, and other precious ſtones. The biſhop is a ſovereign prince. Aichſtadt is ſeated in a valley, on the river Altmul, 30 miles S. of Nuremburg. Lat. 48. 57. N. lon. 11. 0. E.

AIDAB, or GHAIDAB, a town on the coaſt of the Red Sea, in Africa, oppoſite to Gidda; from hence great numbers of Africans take ſhipping to viſit Mecca.

AIDERBEZAN, or AZERBEYAN, a fruitful province of Perſia, W. of the Caſpian Sea, and having Georgia on the N. It's chief town is Taurus. The climate is healthy, but cold.

AIELLO, a town and lordſhip of Calabria Ultra.

Aighton, Lanc. near Blackbourn.

AIGLE, a little town in the depart. of Orne, where they carry on a trade in corn, hardware, and pins. It is 47 miles SW. of Rouen. Lat. 48. 45. N. lon. 1. 0. E.

AIGLE, a neat little town in the canton of Berne, the houſes of which are built with a white marble, found in the neighbourhood. It is ſeated on the Rhone, about 6 miles from its entrance into the Lake of Geneva.

AIGNAN, ST. a town in the depart. of Dordogne.

AIGNEBELLE, or AIGUEBELLE, a little town in the dept. of Mont Blanc, on the river Are; and a town in the dept. of Drome.

AIGUE-PERSE, a town in the dept. of Puy-de-Dome, near which there is a very cold ſpring, which bubbles up with a ſtrong ebullition. It is 18 miles N. of Clermont, and 261 S. of Paris. Lat. 46. 6. N. lon. 3. 20. E.

AIGUESCAUDES, a diſtrict in the dept. of Lower Pyrenees, remarkable for a warm ſpring, the waters of which are oily, ſaponaceous, and ſpirituous; they have a fœtid ſmell, and are uſed both externally and internally.

AIGUESMORTES, an inconſiderable town in the dept. of the Gard. It formerly ſtood near the ſea, and had a harbour, but this is choked up, and the ſea has retired two French leagues from the town, leaving it in a moraſs. Lat. 43. 34. N. lon. 4. 3. E.

AIGUES VIVES, a town in the dept. of the Gard, 15 miles NE. of Montpellier.

AILAH, thought to be the Elath mentioned in Scripture, a ſmall town of Arabia Petræa, moſtly in ruins. It is ſituated on the E. ſide of one of the north bays of the Red Sea, near the road which the pilgrims take from Egypt to Mecca.

AILESBURY, the largeſt and moſt populous town in Buckinghamſhire, and the centre of the buſineſs of the vale of Aileſbury, one of the moſt fertile tracts in England, extending from the edge of Oxfordſhire to Leighton in Bedfordſhire. The number of houſes is about 700. The Lent aſſizes and quarter ſeſſions for the county are held here. In William the Conqueror's time, it was a royal manor, his favourites holding it of him by this tenure, that they ſhould find litter and ſtraw for the king's bedchamber; provide him three ells in winter, and three green geeſe in ſummer, thrice a year, if he ſhould come there ſo often, beſides herbs for his chamber. Aileſbury is 16 miles SE. of Buckingham, and 41 NW. of London.

Aileſham, or Ailam, Norfolk, near Norwich. Aileſweſthorp, or Elweſthorpe, commonly called Gayton Thorpe, Norfolk, near Lynn Regis. Aileſton, near Leiceſter. Ailmerton, Norfolk.

AILSA, or AILZE, one of the weſtern iſlands of Scotland, ſteep, rocky, and acceſſible only on the NE. where ſteps, or a kind of ſtairs, are cut out of the rock. It is near the iſle of Bute, about 2 miles in circumference, and only the reſort of ſea-fowl.

AIME, or AXIMA, a ſmall town in the dept. of Mont Blanc, on the river Iſere.

AIN, a dept. of France. It takes it's name from a river which riſes at the foot of Mount Jura, and falls into the Rhone above Lyons. Before the revolution, it contained the countries of Gex, Dombes, and Breſſe.

AIN, a ſmall town of Berdoa, Africa.

AINAON. See HAINAN.

AINSA, a town of Arragon, ſeated on the river Ara, where it joins the Cinca.

Ainſtable, Cumberl. between Brampton and Kirk-Oſwald. Aintlorp, Cumb. in the pariſh of Boulneſs.

Ar. See Ayr.

Aire, a town in the dept. of Landes, ſeated on the river Adour, on the declivity of a mountain, 65 miles S. of Bourdeaux. Lat. 43. 42. N. lon. 0. 16. W.

Aire, or Arien, a ſtrong town in the dept. of the Straits of Calais, taken by the allies, under the duke of Marlborough, in 1710, after a vigorous defence. It is ſituated among moraſſes, on the river Lys, 22 miles S. of Dunkirk, and communicates with St. Omer by a canal from the river Aa.

Aire, a river in Yorkſhire, which runs into the Ouſe a little above Hoke. Aiſlaby, Durham, near Stockton. Aiſlaby, Yorkſ. in the pariſh of Whitby.

Aisne, a dept. of France, compoſed of what, before the revolution, was a part of Picardy, the Laonnois, and the Soiſſonnois. It takes it's name from a river which runs by Soiſſons, and falls into the Oiſe a little above Compeigne.

Aix, a populous and ancient city, in the dept. of the Mouths of the Rhone, adorned with ſeveral beautiful ſquares and fine fountains. It's hot baths have been celebrated ſince the time of the Romans, who firſt founded this town, calling it Aquæ Sextiæ, and whoſe firſt ſettlement it was in Gaul. The baths, without the city, which have good buildings, were diſcovered not many years ago. In the neighbourhood is produced excellent wine, but the principal trade is in oil, uncommonly fine: here are alſo ſome ſtuff-manufactures. It is 17 miles E. of Montpellier.

Aix, a ſmall iſland on the coaſt of France, between the Iſle of Oleron and the continent. It is about 12 miles NW. of Rochefort. The Engliſh made a deſcent on it in 1758, and demoliſhed the fort. Lat. 46. 45. N. lon. 1. 5. W.

Aix, an ancient town of the dept. of Mont Blanc, ſituated 2 miles E. of the Lake of Bourget. Here are mineral waters much frequented. It is 8 miles N. of Chamberry.

Aix-la-Chapelle, a free imperial city of Juliers, Weſtphalia. There are hot baths in it, and ſome mines near it. The caſtle ſtands upon a hill, from which it is ſaid that 60 cities or towns, the ſea, and even England, can be ſeen on a clear day. This city, which has 30 parochial churches, and a very ſpacious market-place, was known to the Romans by the name of Aquæ Granii. It was deſtroyed by the Huns in 451, but repaired, beautified, and enlarged by the emperor Charlemagne, who made it the capital of his empire. He lies interred in the church of Notre Dame, where his ſword and belt are kept to this day. Two celebrated treaties of peace were concluded here, in 1668 and 1748. It has been twice taken by the French in the preſent war, viz. in 1792 and in 1794, and is now in their poſſeſſion. It is 27 miles N. of Limburgh, 22 NE. of Liege, and 40 W. of Cologne. Lat. 30. 58. N. lon. 6. 3. E.

Aka, or Roche, a river of Lancaſhire.

Akalzika, a town and caſtle of Satabago, in Georgia, Aſiatic Turkey. Lat. 41. 55. N. lon. 44. 55. E.

Akeham, with it's Grange, near York. Akelington, Northumb. between Morpeth and the coaſt. Akely, Bucks. Aken, Nottingh. Akenham, Suff. near Ipſwich.

Akerman, or Bielgord, an old town of European Turkey, ſituated at the efflux of the Dneiſter into the Black Sea.

Aketon, Yorkſ. near Pontefract.

Akim, a town on the gold coaſt.

Akissat, the ancient Thyatira, a town of Natolia, ſeated in a fertile plain, 17 miles over, producing corn and cotton. It has about 5000 inhabitants, chiefly Mahometans, and is watered by the river Hermus. Lat. 38. 48. N. lon. 28. 30. E.

Akley, Notting. near Bawtree. Akring, Nottinghamſhire, near Sherwood Foreſt.

Adaba, a fertile diſtrict of Biſcay, 20 miles in length, and 17 in breadth, which formerly had the title of a kingdom. It produces rice, barley, good wine, and fruits, and has fine iron mines. It lies W. of Guipuſcoa. Victoria is the capital.

Alabanda, a decayed town of Caria, in Aſiatic Turkey. In the Roman diviſion of the country, this city was made the head of a juriſdiction, and the judicial conventus was held in it; there ſtill remain ſome magnificent ruins of it's former ſplendor.

Alacarnes, iſlands on the coaſt of Mexico, ſo called from the number of ſcorpions found there.

Aladulia, a province of Natolia, called by the Turks Dulgadir. It has Caramania on the W. and Syria on the S.

Alafoens, a diſtrict or duchy of Beira, comprehending 37 pariſhes.

Alagoa, a town of St. Michael, one of the Azores Iſlands.

Alagon. See Allagon.

Alains, or Alans, a barbarous people from the North, who in the fourth and fifth century, joining themſelves to the Goths and Vandals, carried terror and deſolation wherever they went, overſpreading a great part of the ſouth of Europe, and the north of France.

ALAJOR, a diſtrict of Minorca.

ALAIS, a town in the dept. of Gard, near a beautiful plain or meadow at the foot of the Cevennes. It contains about 10,000 inhabitants, and the annual export of raw ſilk from it, is 1,200,000lbs. From the foot of one of the adjacent mountains, iſſues a hot medicinal ſpring, and many apertures in the rocks ſhew that mines have been formerly wrought here. It is 350 miles nearly S. of Paris, and 37 N. of Montpellier. Lat. 44. 8. N. lon. 4. 10. E.

Alall, Lanc. near Ormſkirk. Alan, or Camel, a river of Cornwall, which runs into St. George's Channel at Padſtow.

ALANBY, Cumb. an agreeable watering place, much reſorted to in the bathing ſeaſon. The inhabitants are employed in the herring fiſhery, and there is good anchorage in the bay. It is about 20 miles N. of Whitehaven, and as far SW. of Carliſle.

ALAND, or ALANDT, a cluſter of Swediſh iſlands, at the entrance of the Gulf of Bothnia, in the Baltic Sea. The principal iſland, which gives name to the reſt, is about 40 miles long, and from 12 to 16 broad. It contains 15 villages, the principal of which is Caſtleholm, about 9000 inhabitants, and lies 75 miles NNE. of Stockholm.

ALANDRA, a ſmall town of Portugueſe Eſtremadura, ſituated on the Tagus, 15 miles NNE. of Liſbon.

ALANDROAL, a town in Alentejo.

ALANQUAR. See ALENQUIR.

ALANTA, a ſmall city of Wallachia.

ALAPAEWSHOI SAWOD, an iron forge in the Catharinburg diviſion of Siberia.

ALARCON, a town of New Caſtile, on the river Xucar. Lat. 39. 40. N. lon. 2. 4. W.

ALATAMAHA, pronounced Ottamahaw, or the river St. George, a large river of N. America, which riſes in the Allegany mountains, and running SE. through Georgia, falls into the Atlantic Ocean below Frederica.

ALATRI, or ALATRO, a town on a hill in the Campagna di Roma, 40 miles SE. of Rome.

ALATYR, ALATYRSKOI, a diſtrict and town of Caſan in Aſiatic Ruſſia.

ALAVA. See ALABA.

ALAUTA, or ALT, a conſiderable river of European Turkey, which, after watering part of Tranſylvania and part of Wallachia, falls into the Danube almoſt oppoſite Nicopolis, in Bulgaria.

ALBA, a ſmall town of Montferrat, in Italy, pleaſantly ſituated on the river Tanaro, 20 miles SE. of Turin. Under the Romans, it was a principal city of Liguria. Lat. 44. 46. N. lon. 8. 20. E.

ALBA JULIA. See WEISSENBURG.

Alba, Pembrokſ. Albanbury, Yorkſ Alba, and Alaxton, Leiceſ.

ALBANIA, or ARNAUT LAROS, province of European Turkey, comp bending the ancient Epirus, and a ſm part of Illyricum. It has the Adriatic the W. and Macedonia on the E. and p duces flax, cotton, wax, honey, excell wine, and ſalt, which is dug out of t mountains. The inhabitants make tap try, which they export with their oth commodities; they are ſtrong, courageo of a military character, and, in gener excellent horſemen. This country w formerly an independent kingdom, gover ed by it's own princes, the laſt of who the famous John Caſtriot, known bett by the name of Scanderberg, one of t greateſt heroes in hiſtory, bequeathed at his death to the Venetians; who ye or lately did, hold a ſmall part of it on t coaſt. Lat. from 38. 20. to 43. 30. N lon. from 18. 49, to 21 50. E.

ALBANO, a town on a lake of the ſam name, in the Campagna di Roma, cele brated by Horace for it's excellent wine, virtue which the ſoil has not yet loſt. I is 15 miles nearly S. of Rome, and muc reſorted to in the ſummer months. Lat 41. 43. N. lon. 12. 50. E.

ALBANO, a town of Baſilicata, in Naple

ALBANOPOLIS, a town of Albania formerly the capital.

*ALBAN'S, ST. a town of Hertford ſhire, which aroſe from the ruins of th ancient Verulam. In the ancient abbe church are the funeral monuments and ef figies of king Offa on his throne. Of th magnificent abbey itſelf, erected by Offa in honour of Albanus, the firſt martyr i Britain, not the leaſt veſtige remains, ex cept the gateway, a large ſquare buiding It is ſeated on the river Ver, or Moore, branch of the Coln, 21 miles N. by W of London. Markets on Wedneſday an Saturday.

Alban's, St. Dorſetſ. on the coaſt, S. o Swannage-Bay, a noted ſea-mark. Alban's St. Kent, near Canterbury.

ALBANY, a river, and an Engliſh fortreſs, on the SW. of James's-Bay, Hudſon's Bay. Lat. 52. 20. N. lon. 81. 20 W.

ALBANY, a city and county in the State of New York, ſituated on the W. ſide of Hudſon's River. The former contained, a few years ago, 600 houſes, and 4000 inhabitants, many of whom are the deſcendants of the firſt coloniſts, the Dutch; but adventurers, from various parts, are daily daily flocking here, by the advantages for trade, which the place affords, it being ſituated on one of the fineſt rivers in the world, and the ſtore-houſe of the trade to and from Canada and the Lakes. It is 160 miles N. of the city of New York. Lat. 42. 36. N. lon. 73. 20. W.

ALBANY. See BRAEDALBANE.

ALBARGARIA, a poor town of Alentejo.

ALBARGARIA DE PANELA, a diſtrict of Portugal, in the province of Entre Minho e Douro.

ALBARRAZIN, an ancient city of Arragon, bordering on New Caſtile, which contains about 5000 inhabitants. It is ſeated on a craggy hill, by the Guadalaviar, 100 miles E. of Madrid. It's wool is the fineſt in Arragon. Lat. 40. 30. N. lon. 1. 16. W.

ALBAZETE, a ſmall town of New Caſtile.

ALBAZIN, a town of Great Tartary, ſituated on the river Yamour, on the road from Moſcow to Pekin. Lat. 54. 0. N. lon. 103. 30. E.

ALBECK, a county and town of Suabia, 4 miles N. of Ulm.

ALBEGNE, a town in the dept. of Lot.

ALBEMARLE, or AUMALE, a town in the dept. of Lower Seine; having a manufacture of ſerges and other ſtuffs. It is ſeated on the declivity of a hill, 35 miles NE. by N. of Rouen, and 70 NNW. of Paris. Lat. 49. 50. N. lon. 1. 30. E.

ALBEMARLE, a county of Virginia.

ALBEMARLE SOUND, in N. Carolina, an inlet of the ſea, at the mouths of the rivers Roanoke, Meherrin, Nottaway, &c.

ALBEN, a mountain of Carniola.

ALBENGA, a ſmall city on the coaſt of Genoa, and a little iſland or unſhapen rock in the ſea, oppoſite thereto, called Iſlota d'Albenga. The town is ſurrounded with olive trees, but the air is unwholeſome. It is a ſea-port, 37 miles SW. of Genoa. Lat. 44. 10. N. lon. 8. 30. E.

Alberbury, or Alberbury, Shropſ. near the Severn, between Salop and Welſhpool. Alberton, Suſſex, near Bramber. Alberton, Somerſetſ. 3 miles from Axbridge, ALBI, a town of Abruzzo, Ultra.

Albins, Eſſex, near Witham.

ALBION, the ancient name of Britain, ſuppoſed to be derived from the Latin albus, white, on account of the chalky cliffs on it's ſea-coaſts.

ALBISOLA, a ſmall town of Genoa, where there is a porcelain manufacture.

ALBOLODUY, a ſmall town of Granada.

ALBONA, a ſmall town of Iſtria, Venice.

ALBORAN. See ABORAM.

Alborn, Suſſex, near Bramber, Alborn, Wilts, near Marlborough. Alborough, Nort. near Reppis and Erpingham. Albrighton, near Stafford. Albrighton, Shropſ. on the edge of Staffordſ. 10 miles NNE. of Bridgenorth.

ALBUQUERQUE, a town and duchy of Spaniſh Eſtremadura. The former ſtands on an eminence, and carries on a conſiderable trade in wool and woollen cloth. Lat. 39. 21. N. lon. 7. 3. W.

ALBURG, or ALBOURG. See AALBURG.

Alburgh, Yorkſ. E. Riding, near the ſea, S. of Mapleton. Alburgh, or Alberghe, Norfolk, near Bungay. Alburn, Eſſex, W. of Southminſter. Albury, or Alderbury, Surry, near Boxhill; the river Wye runs through it. Albury, Herts, near Putmore Heath. Albury, Glouceſterſ. near Wickwar. Alby, Norfolk, 4 miles from Aleſham.

ALBY, an ancient town in the dept. of Tarn. There are very beautiful walks in the environs of the town, and the adjacent country is very fertile, producing grain, wines, flax, hemp, ſaffron, aniſeed, coriander, and wood: the fine paſtures afford wool of a good quality, which is manufactured into ſtockings, ratteens, ſhalloons, coarſe woollens, &c. and the wax-candles made here are much eſteemed. This town is ſeated on the river Tarn, 42 miles NE. of Toulouſe, and 335 S. of Paris. Lat. 44. 15. N. lon. 2. 14. E. The Albigenſes, or Albigeois, ſo called from their making their firſt appearance in this city, were a people who, ſo early as the 11th century, diſputed the authority of the pope; for this they were excommunicated; and ſeveral very cruel perſecutions were raiſed againſt them by means of cruſades.

ALCACAR, a palace on one ſide of Toledo, in New Caſtile. It ſtands on the top of a ſteep rock, and commands a proſpect of the city, and of the river Tagus, running at it's foot through the neighbouring fields.

ALCACAR, QUIBER a town of Garb, Morocco.

ALCACAR ZEQUER, a town and fortreſs of Fez, between Tangier and Ceuta.

ALCACERE, or ALCACAR DO SAL, a town of Setiwal, in Portugueſe Eſtremadura, called Salagia by the Romans, on account of the ſalt produced here. It is ſeated on the river Cadaon. The country around it, from it's barrenneſs, produces little elſe but ruſhes; theſe are carried to Liſbon, and worked into fine mats. Lat. 38. 22. N. lon. 8. 17. W.

ALCACOVA, a citadel of Santaren.

ALCALA-DE GUADAIRA, a town of Seville, ſituated on the river Guadaira.

ALCALA-DE-LOS GAZULES, an old town of Seville, ſituated on a mountain.

ALCALA DE HENAREZ, a town of New Caſtile, anciently called Complutum, having been a conſiderable Roman colony. It is pleaſantly ſituated on the banks of the Henarez, over which there is a ſtately bridge. The univerſity is a handſome building; it was re-eſtabliſhed, in 1494, by the Cardinal Francis Ximenes, at whoſe charges, and under whoſe direction the firſt Polyglot Bible was printed here. It is 15 miles ENE. of Madrid.

ALCALA DE REAL, a large, populous town of Jaen, in Andaluſia, in a mountainous country, which yet produces excellent fruits and wine. It is ſeated near the river Guadalquiver, 6 miles N. of Seville.

ALCAMER. See ALCMAER.

ALCAMO, a town of Mazara, Sicily, 20 miles SW. of Palermo.

ALCANDRO, a town of Old Caſtile, ſituated on the Ebro.

ALCANEDE, a town of Portugueſe Eſtremadura. Lat. 39. 0. N. lon. 6. 0. W.

ALCANI, or ALCAN, a town in Egypt, on the weſtern branch of the Nile, 30 miles NNW. of Grand Cairo.

ALCANIZ, or ALCANITZ, a town of Arragon, ſituated on the river Guadaloupe.

Alcannings, Wilts, near the Devizes.

ALCANTARA, a town of Spaniſh Eſtremadura. It has a magnificent bridge over the Tajo, 67 feet long, 28 broad, and 200 high, ſaid to have been built by the emperor Trajan. It is 42 miles N. by W. of Seville. Lat. 39. 20. N. lon. 6. 7. W.

ALCANTARA, in Andaluſia, ſtands on an eminence, near the Guadalquiver; adjoining which there is a moraſs, over which the Romans built a bridge with a tower at each end.

ALCARAZ, or ALCAREZ, a city of New Caſtile; has a remarkably ancient aqueduct. It is ſituated on the river Guardarama, near the ſource of the Guadalquiver, 135 miles SSE. of Madrid. Lat. 38. 51. N. lon. 2. 25. W.

Alcaſton, Shropſ. near Munſlow.

ALCATRASES, an iſland in the Pacific Ocean, 21 leagues nearly S. from Acapulco. Lat. 15. 50. N. lon. 102. 30. W.

ALCAUDETE, a ſmall town of Cordova, in Andaluſia, 18 miles W. of Jaen.

ALCAZAR. See ALCACAR.

ALCAZZAVA, a caſtle of Malaga.

ALCESTER. See AULCESTER.

Alcheſter, Oxfordſ. a little to the SW. of Biceſter; formerly very extenſive, and a place of great ſtrength under the Romans

Alchurch, Worceſterſhire, 5 miles NNE of Bromſgrove.

ALCINO, MT. a ſmall town of Tuſcany, ſituated on a mountain. In this neighbourhood is produced the moſt exquiſite wine in Italy, called Muſcatello di Mont Alcino; but the inhabitants are not allowed to ſell a ſingle pipe of it, till the great duke has firſt ordered what number he judges proper for his own uſe.

ALCMAER, or ALKMAER, a clean, populous town of N. Holland. They make great quantities of cheeſe and butter here eſteemed the beſt in the country. In 1633 there was a public auction here, of 120 tubs, which, with the off-ſets, ſold for 90,000 guilders; a ſingle one of them named the Viceroy, ſold for 4203 guilders and not only the name and price, but the weight of theſe flowers are particularly ſet down in the city regiſters. The paſſion of giving enormous prices for flowers and flower-roots by which many individuals were ruined, had become ſo prevalent, that the ſtates interfered, and put a ſtop to it by ſevere penalties. It is 20 miles N. by W. of Amſterdam.

ALCMINA, a diſtrict, or marquiſate in Mazara, Sicily.

ALCOA, a river; ALCOBACA, ALCOCHETTE, and ALCOENTRE, towns of Portugueſe Eſtremadura.

Alcomb, Somerſetſ. near Dunſter.

Alconbury, 5 miles from Huntingdon.

ALCONCHOE, or ALCONCHOEL, a fortreſs of Spaniſh Eſtremadura. Lat. 38. 42. N. lon. 6. 37. W.

ALCORIZ, a town of Gallicia, in Spain

ALCOSSIR, See COSEIR.

Alcot, Devonſ. near Barnſtaple.

ALCOVENDAS, a town of Old Caſtile

ALCOUTIM, or ALCOYTIM, a town of Algarve, ſituated on an iſland in the Guadiana, on the borders of Alentejo.

ALCOY, a town of Valencia, near a iron mine; alſo a river, which runs into the Mediterranean, 3 miles NE. of Gandia ALCUDIA, a town in Majorca, of about 1000 houſes, with a conſiderable bay, to which it gives name. It is ſituated on the NE. coaſt, between two large harbours Lat. 39. 50. N. lon. 3. 0. E.

ALDAN, a river of Aſiatic Ruſſia which riſes on the borders of China, and taking a NE. courſe, which it afterwards changes to WNW. joins the Lena in lat 63. 25. N. and lon. 164. 10. E.

ALDBOROUGH, near the river Ald, ſea-port in Suffolk. The town was formerly much larger; but the ſea has ſwallowed up one of the ſtreets. It is pleaſan ly ſeated in the Vale of Slaughden, 3 miles from Orford, 40 miles E. of Bury, and 94 NE. of London. Markets on Wedneſday and Saturday. See Slaughden.

ALDBOROUGH, or OLDBOROUGH, a town in the W. Riding of Yorkſ. on the Ouſe, was the Iſurium Brigantium of the Romans, though not ſo much as the ruins are now to be ſeen, except ſome remains of walls, pavements, and baths. It is 8 miles from Rippon, 15 miles NW. of York, and 205 N. by W. of London.

Aldborough, or Aldborough, Lincolnſ. near Winterton-Cliff, in the NW. extremity of the county. Albourne; ſee Alburn. Aldburgh, Yorkſ. E. Riding, on the ſea-coaſt. Aldbury, Hertf. near Berkhamſtead Aldbury, Hertf. between Buntingford and Biſhop's Stortford. Aldby, in Dacre parish, near Penrith, Cumberland. Aldby, Norfolk, on the borders of Suffolk. Aldby, Yorkſ. E. Riding, on the river Derwent, 4 miles N. of Stanford Bridge.

ALDEA GALLEGA, and ALDEA GALLEGA DE MERCIANA, towns in Portugueſe Eſtremadura.

ALDEGO, a river of Italy, which runs into the Adige.

ALDENBURG, a town of Berg, Weſtphalia; and a town of Anhalt Bernburg, Upper Saxony.

Aldenham, Hertf. 2 miles from Watford, and 5 from St. Alban's. Aldenham, or Audenham, Shropſ. near Bridgenorth. Alder, a river in Suſſex, which runs by Shoreham into the ſea. Alderbury, Wilts, 2 miles from Saliſbury, on a heathy hill, near the Avon. A manufacture of cottons and fuſtians is carried on here. By a fire in 1777, 200 houſes were deſtroyed. Alderford, Norf. near Sparham.

ALDERHOLM. See GEFFLE.

Alderhelt, Dorſetſ. near Corfe-Caſtle. Alderkirk, Linc. near Kirton. Alderly, Glouceſ. near Wotton-Underedge, formerly the utmoſt bounds of Kingſwood Foreſt. On ſome of the hills here are found foſils, apparently petrifactions of marine ſhells. Alderley Hall, Cheſh. near Macclesfield. Alderley, Staffordſ. near Seiſdon. Aldermarſton, Berks, beautifully ſituated on an eminence that overlooks the river Kennet. It is 3 miles from Silcheſter, the Roman ſtation, 3 from Bagshurſt, and 8 from Reading. Aldermerſton, and Aldermineſter, Worc. both in Perſhore hundred, encompaſſed by Warwickſhire.

ALDERNEY, a pleaſant and healthy iſland, on the coaſt of Normandy, fruitful in corn and paſture, and remarkable for a fine breed of cows. It is about 8 miles in compaſs, 2 leagues from Cape la Hogue, and about 30 from the neareſt part of England, which holds poſſeſſion of it. On the S. there is a harbour, called Crabb's, which only admits ſmall veſſels, and in the centre ſtands the town of Alderney, which conſiſts of at leaſt 200 houſes, and 1000 inhabitants. This iſland is ſeparated from France by a ſtrait, called the Race of Alderney, which is a dangerous paſſage in ſtormy weather, when the two currents meet; otherwiſe it is ſafe, and has depth of water ſufficient for the largeſt ſhips. To the W. lie the range of rocks, called the Caſkets, where the ſon of Henry I. was ſhipwrecked on his paſſage to France: and here, Oct. 5, 1744, the Victory, a firſt rate man of war, the fineſt in the world, Sir John Balchen commander, was loſt.

Alderney, Glouceſ. ſee Alderley. Alderſey, Cheſh. near the Dee, between Malpas and Cheſter. Alderſhot, Hants, near Farnham. Alderſton, Somerſ. near Ilminſter. Alderſton, Wilts, on the borders of Hampſhire. Alderton, Glouc. 7 miles from Tewkeſbury, and 15 NE. of Glouceſter. Alderton, or Aldrington, Wilts, near Chippenham. Alderton, Shropſ. between Salop and Oſweſtry. Alderton, Suff. near Deben river, 6 miles from Wood bridge.

ALDERWAS, or ALREWAS, Staff. between Lichfield and Burton-upon-Trent; has a ſmall market on Tueſday.

Alderwaſhley, Derbyſ. near Wirkſworth. Aldfield, Yorkſ. W. Riding, near Studley. Aldford, near Cheſter. Aldfriſton, Suſſ. near Pevenſey. Aldham, Eſſex, near Colcheſter. Aldham, Suff. near Hadley. Aldingborn, Suſſ. near Chicheſter. Aldingham, Lancaſ. near Ken-Sands. Aldington, Kent, near Limne. Aldington, Worc. on the borders of Warwickſhire. Aldon, Shropſ. near Munſlow. Aldridge, Staff. near Walſal: near this place is a noted pool, called Druidmeer. Aldringham, Suff. near Dunwich. Aldrington, Northamp. near Preſton. Aldrington, Suſſex, near Lewes, almoſt overflowed by the ocean. Aldſiſton, Suſſex, near Seaford. Aldwark, Yorkſ. W. Riding, between Doncaſter and Rotherham. Aldwark, near York. Aldwark, Derbyſ. near Wirkſworth. Aldworth, Berks, between Newbury and Wallingford, 3 miles from Iſeley. Aldworth - Wheatcroft, Yorkſ. W. Riding, near Stafford. Aldſworth, Glouceſ. on the Bath and Oxford road, 10 miles from Cirencester, and 7 from Burford. Aleby, Linc. near Alford. Alecoats, Nott. near Worksop. Aled, a river in Denbighſhire, which runs into the Elney, or Elwy.

ALEFCHIMO. See ALFECHIMO.

ALEGRETTE, a ſmall town of Alentejo, ſeated on the river Caia.

ALESKIN, a ſmall town in the province of Moſcow, and government of Tula.

ALEMANNI, one of the German nations who overran the weſtern empire of Rome. They were not known till the times of the Antonines, and are ſuppoſed to have been a collection from all parts of Gaul, (as the name imports) and to have firſt ſettled in the Agri Decumates, or preſent duchy of Wirtemburg. From theſe ſmall beginnings, they were, in after times, greatly enlarged.

ALEMPIGNON. See ALMIPIGON.

Alen, a river in Denbighſhire, which runs into the Dee.

ALENÇON, a large and populous town in the dept. of Orne, ſeated on the river Sarte, in an open fertile country. It is 20 miles N. of Mans, and 87 SW. of Paris. Lat. 48. 28. N. lon. 0. 12. E.

ALENQUIR, an ouvidoria, or audience, and it's capital, in Portugueſe Eſtremadura, 14 miles SW. of Santaren, upon a ſmall river that runs into the Tajo, 3 miles below it.

ALENTEJO, a province of Portugal, about 100 miles long, and nearly as many broad, lying between the rivers Tajo and Guadiana. From it's fertility, and improved ſtate, it is called the Granary of Portugal.

ALEPPO, a city of Syria, called by the natives Haleb, and anciently Beræa, is the capital of a province and reſidence of a pacha, and only yields to Conſtantinople and Cairo in extent, population, and riches; in buildings, however, it is inferior to none of the Turkiſh cities. The inhabitants are computed, by ſome travellers, at 235,000, of whom 200,000 are Turks, 30,000 Chriſtians, and 5000 Jews; but this computation is thought to be large. The language generally ſpoken is vulgar Arabic: but the Turks, Armenians, Syrians, and Jews, in converſing with thoſe of their own nation, uſe their reſpective languages. The Chriſtians have their houſes in the ſuburbs, and carry on a conſiderable trade in ſilks, camlets, Turkey leather, &c. Several European nations have factories and conſuls, which are much reſpected here. Conſidered as a commercial city, Aleppo is the great emporium of this part of the world, communicating, by it's caravans, with Iſpahan, Buſſorah, Damaſcus, Egypt, Mecca, and Conſtantinople. Commerce is carried on here chiefly by barter. Each ſeparate branch of buſineſs has it's particular bazar, or market. The ſlaughter houſes are in the ſuburbs, open to the fields. Here are a caſtle, a great many ſtately moſques, and caravenſeras, with fountains and reſervoirs of water, and vineyards and gardens well plant with moſt kinds of fruit. The ſtreets narrow, but well paved with large ſqu ſtones, and kept very clean. The wa in all the wells in the city is brackiſh; b good water is brought from ſome ſprin about five miles off, by an aqueduct, f to have been built by the empreſs Hele Aleppo is ſeated on a ſmall ſtream of fr water, which is very dry, called Heyl and is 170 miles N. by E. of Damaſc and 60 miles from the ſea. Lat. 35. 4 N. lon. 37. 20. E.

ALEPPO, OLD, anciently Chalcis, bout 12 miles S of the preſent Aleppo.

Alerton, Hunts, near Peterboroug Alery, or Averbury, Wilts, near the D vizes. Aleſbear, Devonſ. near Exminſte

ALESBURY. See AILESBURY.

Aleſby, Linc. near Grimſby.

ALESHAM, or AYLESHAM, a town Norfolk, conſiſting chiefly of knitters ſtockings. Here are about 400 houſ The ſtreets are well paved, but narro It is ſeated on or near the river Thyr 12 miles N. of Norwich, and 121 NN of London. Market on Tueſday.

ALESSANDRIA, a town; ALESSA DRINO, a territory of Italy, 37 mil SSW. of Milan. It was aſſigned to t king of Sardinia by the treaty of Utrech

ALESSANO, a town of Otranto, Naple

ALESSIO-LISSUS, a town of Turki Albania, ſituated near the mouth of t Drino. Here is a caſtle, where the famo Scanderberg, prince of Epirus, died, a was buried in 1467. The Turks ha ſuch a veneration for his memory, th they carry away pieces of his tomb for r lics, and eſteem them as an effectual char for animating their courage in battle.

Aleſworth, Nott. near Mansfield. Al worth, Northamp. near Thrapſton.

ALET, a town in the dept. of Aud remarkable for it's baths, and for t grains of gold and ſilver found in t ſtream which runs from the Pyrenees, the foot of which it ſtands, and fro whence the Romans dug gold. It is ſea ed on the river Aude, 15 miles S. of C caſſone. Lat. 42. 59. N. lon. 2. 25. E

ALEXANDRETTA, or SCANDEROO a town, or rather village, of Syria, t ſea port of Aleppo, from which it is di tant about 70 miles W. The climate he is very unwholeſome in ſummer, from malignant, intermitting fever; ſome ſhi having loſt even their whole crews in ſhort time: while the heats are ſo exce ſive, many of the inhabitants retire to t neighbouring villages among the mou tains, where they have excellent water, a delicious fruits. A traveller obſerve th that tombs are more numerous here than houſes: the road, however, is the only one on the coaſt of Syria, where veſſels can anchor on a ſolid bottom. Lat. 36. 35. N. lon. 36. 23. E.

ALEXANDRIA, or SCANDERIA, once a magnificent, rich, and celebrated city of Egypt, built by Alexander the Great, near the moſt weſterly branch of the Nile, ſoon after the overthrow of Tyre, about 333 years before the Chriſtian era. It was long eſteemed the fineſt city in the world after Rome; we may form ſome idea of it's inhabitants from the account of Diodorus Siculus, who relates that it had on it's rolls in his time (44 years before the Chriſtian era) 300,000 freemen. The celebrated library, which was founded here by Ptolemy Soter, and placed in the temple of Serapis, containing, in his time, 400,000 volumes, and by addition of his ſucceſſors 700,000, was, in 642, deſtroyed by order of the Saracen khalif, who became maſter of the city. The Saracen general who took it, ſaid, in his letter to the khalif, that he found in it 4000 palaces, 4000 baths, 40,000 Jews, who paid tribute, 400 royal circi, and 12,000 gardeners, who ſupplied the city with all kinds of herbs in great plenty. At preſent it does not contain above 12,000 or 14,000 inhabitants: a mixture from different nations, as well as from various parts of the Turkiſh empire. The Chriſtian Copti, Greeks, and Armenians, are very numerous here; the Europeans all paſs under the name of Franks. Although Alexandria is now ſo much decayed, that the rubbiſh in ſome places overtops the houſes, yet there are ſtill ſome remains of it's ancient ſplendor, particularly Pompey's Pillar, and two obeliſks of hieroglyphics. The ancient Pharos, a watch-tower, ſo famous in antiquity, that it was numbered among the ſeven wonders of the world, is now turned into a caſtle, called Pharillon, and is ſtill uſed to direct veſſels into the harbour. This city was a place of great trade, before the Portugueſe diſcovered the paſſage to India by the Cape of Good Hope, the commodities of the Eaſt Indies being depoſited here on their way to Europe by the Red Sea. Lat. 30. 21. N. lon. 31. 11. E.

ALEXANDRIA, a town of Catherinoſlav, Ruſſia, and of Volhynia, Poland.

ALEXANDRIA. See ALESSANDRIA.

ALEXANDRIA, a town of Virginia, on the S. bank of the river Potomack. The ſituation is elevated and pleaſant, and the ſtreets are laid out regularly on the plan of Philadelphia. It contains upward of 300 houſes, many of which are handſome, and is 100 miles N. of Richmond. Lat. 38. 30. N. lon. 77. 0. W.

Alexton, Leiceſ. near Hallaton.

ALFACHS, an iſland near the mouth of the Ebro, Catalonia, with a town on it, of the ſame name.

ALFANDEGA DA FE, a town in Tralos-Montes.

Alfarig, a diſtrict in Roſsſhire, abounding with large woods, chiefly of fir, ſome of which extend 15 or 20 miles.

ALFAYATES, a town of Beira.

ALFECHIMO, a diſtrict of Corfu.

ALFEIZERAO, a town of Portugueſe Eſtremadura, on the ſea coaſt.

ALFELD, a town of Hildeſheim, Lower Saxony.

ALFIDENA, a town of Abruzzo Citra.

ALFORD, a town in Lincolnſhire, 6 miles from the ſea, 20 N. of Boſton, and 133 N. of London. Market on Tueſday.

Alford, or Aford, a pariſh or preſbytery in Aberdeenſhire, ſurrounded on all ſides by hills and mountains.

Alford, Somerſetſ. 5 miles from Bruton, noted for it's mineral-water. Alford, Cheſhire, on the Dee, between Malpas and Cheſter. Alford, Somerſetſ. near Caſtle-Carey.

ALFRETON, (ſuppoſed to have been founded by king Alfred), a town of Derbyſhire, 6 miles from Cheſterfield, 13 miles N. of Derby, and 141 NNW. of London. Market on Friday.

Alfriſton, Suſſex, 8 miles from Lewes.

ALFWOM, a domain of W. Gothland.

ALGAGIOLA, or ARGOGLIOLA, a ſea-port of Corſica, ſituated on the W. coaſt, at the mouth of the river Aregno.

ALGARRIA, a fertile diſtrict of New Caſtile, including Madrid the capital of Spain.

ALGARVA, the moſt ſoutherly province of Portugal, 67 miles in length, and 20 in breadth; it contains 3 cities, beſides Faro the capital, 14 towns, 67 pariſhes, and about 61,000 inhabitants; it is bounded on the N. by Alentejo, on the E. by the Guadiana, and on the S. and W. by the ocean. It is mountainous, but fertile, producing figs, almonds, dates, olives, and excellent wines, and has a profitable fiſhery.

ALGERI, or ALGHER, a populous city on the NW. coaſt of Sardinia. Lat. 40. 40. N. lon. 8. 40. E.

ALGEZIRA, a decayed ſea-port of Andaluſia, on the Straits of Gibraltar, from which town it is diſtant 10 miles NW. by W.

ALGEZUR, a ſmall town in Algarva,

17 miles NW. of Lagos. It's old caſtle is borne in the royal arms of Portugal.

ALGIATE, a little town in the Milaneſe.

ALGIBAROTTA. See ALJUBAROTTA.

ALGIERS, a country of Africa, extending about 500 miles in length from E. to W. and from 40 to 100 in breadth, along the Barbary coaſt; has Mount Atlas on the S. Tunis on the E. and Morocco on the W. The Turks, who are not above 7000 in number, have the government in their hands, and the Moors, or natives, have no ſhare in it. It is a kind of republic, under the protection of the grand ſeignior, and is governed by a ſovereign, or dey, who ſeldom undertakes any thing of importance without the counſel of the Janizaries. The Arabs, who live in tents, are a diſtinct people, governed by their own laws, though the Turks interfere when they think fit. The dey is abſolute in ſome reſpects, although he is elected by the Turkiſh ſoldiers, and frequently depoſed and put to death by them. The revenues of the government riſe from the tribute paid by the Moors and Arabs; and the prizes they take, or the piracies they commit at ſea, ſometimes equal the taxes they lay upon the natives. The ſtems of the vines here are ſo large, that a man can hardly graſp them with his arms, and the bunches of grapes are a foot and a half long. The natives are ſtrong and of a tawny complexion; their religion is Mahometaniſm, and their language a dialect of the Arabic: they alſo uſe that jargon, compoſed of the French, Italian, and Spaniſh languages, called Lingua-Franca, which prevails along the ſhores of the Mediterranean.

ALGIERS, a large town of Barbary, and capital of the country of Algiers. It is built on the declivity of a hill, and is of the form of an amphitheatre, next the harbour, ſo that the houſes, appearing one above another, make a very fine appearance from the ſea. The tops of the houſes are all flat, and the people walk on them in the evenings, to take the air: they are alſo covered with earth, and are uſed as gardens. The ſtreets are very narrow; the adjoining country, however, is adorned with gardens and fine villas, watered with fountains. The mole of the harbour is 500 paces in length, extending from the main land to a ſmall iſland. The number of inhabitants is ſaid to conſiſt of 100,000 Mahometans, 15,000 Jews, and 4000 Chriſtian ſlaves. Algiers is ſituated oppoſite Minorca, 380 miles W. of Tunis. Lat. 36. 49. N. lon. 2. 18. E.

ALGODRES, a ſmall town of Beira.

ALGONQUINS, a tribe of Indians in Canada, near Lake Ontario.

ALGOW, a conſiderable diſtrict of Suabia, having the Danube on the N. and the county of Tyrol on the S.

ALGOZO, a ſmall town of Tra los Montes. Lat. 41. 50. N. lon. 7. 10. W.

ALHALLOW, a ſmall iſland in the Orkneys, noted for a good fiſhery.

Alhan, Lancaſhire, near Blackburn.

ALHAMA, a populous, well-built town of Granada, ſeated on the river Motril and a town of Arragon: at both places there are medicinal baths. Alſo, a town of Cordova, in Andaluſia; and another town of Granada.

ALHAMBRA, a town and river of Arragon.

Alhampton, Somſ. near Shepton-Mallet

ALHANDRA, a town in Portugueſe,

ALHANGA, a town in Spaniſh, Eſtremadura.

ALIBALUC, an iſle in the Caſpian Sea.

ALICANT, a ſmall rich city, of Valencia, in Spain, well known for it's fine wines, (particularly that called Tent, or Alicant) excellent fruits, &c. It has a good harbour, and an extenſive trade. The Engliſh, Dutch, Italians, &c. have conſuls here. It is ſeated on the Mediterranean, on a bay of the ſame name, 7 miles S. of Valencia. Lat. 38. 24. N. lon. 0. 0.

ALICATA, the Leocata of the ancients, a town of Noto, in Sicily, remarkable for corn and good wine. Lat. 37. 14. N. lon. 14. 16. E.

ALIFI, a town of Lavora, Naples, 7 miles N. of Capua.

ALINGRAHS, or ALINGSAHS, an inland town of W. Gothland, in Sweden where there are ſilk, woollen, tobacco, and pipe manufactories. It is 5 miles S. of Bahus.

Alington, Northum. near Warkworth.

ALISE, a town in the dept. of Cote d'Or, ſeated on a hill, the foot of which is waſhed on two ſides by two rivers, and ſuppoſed to be the famous Alexia, in ancient geography, beſieged by Julius Cæſar. It is not far from Dijon.

ALJUBAROTTA, a ſmall town of Portugueſe Eſtremadura.

ALJUSTREL, a town of Alentejo.

Alker, Lancaſhire, near Altmouth.

ALKAN. See ALCANI.

Alkerington, Oxfordſhire, near Banbury

Alkeſham, or Alkham, Kent, near Dover.

Alkham, Glouceſterſhire, near Berkeley.

Alkington, Glouceſ. near Stroud; Alkley, Nott. near Worksop.

ALKMAER. See ALCMAER.

Alkmanton

Alkmanton, Derbyſhire, near Worksop. Alkmere, near Shrewſbury. Alkmonbury, Hunts, near Leighton-ſtone. Alkrington, Lancaſhire, near Mancheſter. Alkington, Shropſhire, near Wem.

ALLAGON, or ALAGON, a ſmall town of Arragon, ſituated on the Xalon, 4 leagues from Saragoſſa; alſo a river of Spaniſh Eſtremadura, which falls into the Tajo, a little above Alcantara.

ALLAHABAD, a province and city of Hindoodan. The former is about 160 miles in length, and 120 in breadth; having Bahar on the E. and Oude on the N.: the latter is ſeated at the confluence of the Ganges and Jumna, and is 470 miles NW. of Calcutta. Lat. 25. 45. N. lon. 82. 0. E.

Allan, St. Cornwall, near Truro. Allanton, Northumb. near Rothbury.

ALLAS, a town on, and a ſtrait, between the Iſle of Lambock, and Combava, in the E. Indies. Lat. 10. 20. N. lon. 86. 14. E.

Allchurch, Worc. 5 miles from Bromſgrove, on the road to Leiceſter; it was much more extenſive formerly.

ALLE, or ALLA, a river of Ducal Pruſſia, which runs into the Pregel, 15 miles above Koningſberg.

ALLEGANY, or APALACHIAN MOUNTAINS, a chain, or range of mountains, in N. America, which extend north-eaſterly and ſouth-weſterly, nearly parallel with the coaſt of the ſouthern ſtates, through which they run. They occupy a ſpace of about 900 miles in length, and from 60 to 200 in breadth, eaſtward of the Miſſiſſippi and the five lakes; that is, from Hudſon's River to Georgia. The different ridges, which compoſe this immenſe range, have different names in different ſtates; as, the Kittattiny, the Blue, the North, and South Mountains. They are not confuſedly ſcattered and broken, riſing here and there into high peaks, over-topping each other; but ſtretch along, in uniform ridges, ſcarcely half a mile high, ſpreading towards the ſouth. Some of them terminate in high, perpendicular bluffs; others gradually ſubſide into a level country, giving riſe to the rivers which run ſoutherly into the Gulf of Mexico. In the back parts of Pennſylvania, ſcarce one acre in ten of this range is capable of culture; in other parts, extenſive tracts of fine arable and paſture land intervene between the ridges, having generally a rich, black ſoil, and ſome of the mountains will admit of cultivation almoſt to their tops.

ALLEGANY, a river of N. America, which riſes in the Allegany mountains, in the ſtate of New York, in lat. 42. 0. N. At Fort Venango, at the mouth of French Creek, it is 200 yards wide, and navigable for light batteaux. At Pittſburg it joins the Monongahela, and is then called Ohio. See OHIO.

ALLEGRANZA, one of the Canary Iſlands, ſituated N. of Gratioſa, NW. of Rocca, and E. of St. Clare. The harbour is defended by ſeveral forts.

Allen, a river in Dorſetſhire, which runs into the Stour, near Blanford. Allen, a river of Flintſhire, which ſinks under ground near Mold, and diſappears for a ſhort ſpace.

Allen, in Kildare, Leinſter. Iſle of Allen, apparently an Engliſh name, ſeems to be only a corruption of the Iriſh Hy allain, i. e. the diſtrict of the great plain country. In this diſtrict (in Kildare, as above) ſtands the Hill of Allen, the Mount Cromla of the ancient bards. The bog of Allen, an immenſe tract of turf-bog, or peat-moſs, the largeſt in the kingdom, runs through part of the counties of Dublin, Carlow, Kildare, Kilkenny, and Meath. A great part of it has of late years been reclaimed and cultivated, by burning, and ſowing it with rape ſeed.

ALLENBURG, or ALLERBURG, a narrow, dark, little town of Ducal Pruſſia, ſituated on the river Alle, near it's junction with the Pregel.

ALLEN CASTLE, a fort in Brunſwick-Lunenburg.

ALLENDORF, a ſmall town of Heſſe-Caſſel, where ſalt-works are carried on. It is ſeated on the Weſer, 15 miles E. of Caſſel. Lat. 51. 19. N. lon. 9. 59. E.

Allenſmore, 2 miles from Hereford.

ALLER, a river of Germany, which riſes in Magdeburg, runs NW. through Lunenburg, and, paſſing by Zell, falls into the Weſer a little below Verdun.

Allercar, near Derby. Allercomb, Cornw. near Stratton. Allerford, Somerſetſ. near Carhampton.

ALLERIA, a decayed town in Corſica. Lat. 42. 5. N. lon. 8. 50. E.

ALLERSTEIN, or OLSCHNECH, a town of Ermeland, Pruſſia.

Allerthorp, Yorkſhire, in the pariſh of Wakefield. Allerthorp, Yorkſ. N. Riding, near Thirſk. Allerton, Nott. in the pariſh of Edinſtow. Allerton-Chapel, Allerton-Gledhow, Allerton-Grange, Allerton Moor, hamlets of Leeds, in Yorkſhire. Allerton Maulevrer, Yorkſ. near Knareſborough. Allerton, Lanc. near W. Derby. Allerton, Shropſ. near Wem. Allerton, Somerſ. 3 miles from Axbridge. Allerton, Yorkſ. W. Riding, 3 miles from Bradford. Allertown, Northumb. 8 miles SW.

of Hexham. Allefiry, Derbyſ. near W. Derby Allhallows, Kent, 7 miles from Graveſend. Allhallows, Cumb. on the river Elne, between Cockermouth and Wigton. Allhallows, Linc. near Waynfleet.

ALLESANI, a town of Corſica, 13 miles ENE. of Corte.

ALLIER, a department of France, ſo called from a river which croſſes it in the centre, from S. to N. and which, after flowing by Moulins, falls into the Loire, 3 miles W. of Nevers. This department is compoſed of what was called, before the revolution, the Bourbonnois.

Allington, Dorſetſ. from whence a bridge leads over the Simondbury, which here joins the river Bret to Bridport.

ALLINGTON-CASTLE, a town of Kent, near the Medway, called by the Saxons, the Caſtle of Medway. Market on Tueſday.

Allington, Wiltſhire, near Devizes. Allington, E. and W. Devonſ. near Kingſbridge. Allington, Linc. near Grantham. Allington, Suff. near Hoxon. Allington-Cobham, Kent, near Malling. Allington, Wilts, NE. of Biſhop's Cannings. Allington, Wilts, between Boſcomb and Newton Tony. Allington, Hants, near Buſh-Waltham. Allington, Suffolk, near Eye. Alliſon, or Aluredſon, Glouc. a hamlet of Lydney. Alliſton, Suſſex, near Pevenſey.

ALLOA, a town on the N. ſide of the Frith of Forth, in the ſhire of Clackmannan. It conſiſts of one ſpacious ſtreet, well paved and ſhaded with rows of lime-trees. It has a commodious harbour, and an excellent dry dock. It's great export is coals, and there is alſo a glaſs-houſe, with ſome other manufactories. The caſtle of Alloa is beautifully ſituated, and was, heretofore, the reſidence of the earls of Mar. It is about 5 miles E. from Stirling, and 30 NW. from Edinburgh.

Allom-Houſe, Hants, near Chriſt Church, Allon, Northumb. near Beltingham. Allonby, Cumberland, in the pariſh of Abbey Holme. Alloſtock, Cheſhire, near Northwich. Allow-Eaſt, a river of Durham, which runs into the Tyne. Allow-Weſt, a river of Northumb. which alſo runs into the Tyne.

ALL SAINTS BAY, one of the moſt rich and fertile captainſhips in all Braſil, producing abundance of cotton, and vaſt quantities of ſugar. It has ſeveral cities and towns, of which St. Salvador is the capital. The bay of that name, on the coaſt, is ſecure, and large enough for a fleet of ſhips. Lat. 13. 10. S. lon. 39. 15. W.

All Saints, Kent, near Canterbury. All-Saints, Suff. near Bungay.

ALLSTADT, a town of Eiſenach, Upper Saxony.

ALMACARRON, or ALMAZARON, a ſea-port of Murcia, where great quantities of alum are made. It is 18 miles S. by W. of Carthagena.

ALMACTA, a tract in Old Caſtile.

ALMADA. See ALMEDA.

ALMADEN, a town of La Mancha, New Caſtile, celebrated for it's mines of quick-ſilver.

ALMAGRA, or ALMAGUER, a town of Popayan, in Terra Firma, S. America.

ALMAGRO, a town of New Caſtile.

Almand, or Aman, a river of Athol, a branch of the Tay. It has a caſcade near 30 yards high, cloſe by which two rocks meet over the river ſo as to form a natural bridge.

Almanington, Suſſex, near Chicheſter.

ALMANSOR, a town of Fez, ſeated on the river Guir.

ALMANZA, a town of Murcia, on the borders of Valencia, famous for a victory obtained here, April 25. 1707, by the Marechal Duke de Berwick, commanding the French and Spaniſh troops, over the Engliſh and Portugueſe, under the Earl of Galway and the Marquis de las Minas. The latter loſt 120 ſtandards, with all their artillery and baggage, beſides about 6000 made priſoners, and a great number killed. It is 50 miles SW. of Valencia, and 50 NW. of Alicant. Lat. 38. 54. N. lon. 1. 56. W.

Almar, in Limerick, Munſter.

ALMAREZ, a town of Spaniſh Eſtremadura, ſeated on the Tajo.

ALMARSTAK, in Upland, Sweden.

ALMAS, in the Bannat of Temeſwar.

ALMAZAN, a town in Old Caſtile, ſituated on the Douro.

ALMEDA, a town of Portugueſe Eſtremadura, ſeated on the Tajo, oppoſite to Liſbon.

ALMEDINA, a decayed town of Morocco, from which city it is diſtant 90 miles, on the edge of Mount Atlas. It's ruins are conſiderable, and the adjacent country is very fertile.

ALMEIDA, in Tra-los-Montes, on the confines of Leon; and ALMEIDA, in Beira, ſeated on the little river Coa, before it joins the Pinhel; both towns of Portugal.

ALMELON, a ſmall town of Overyſſel.

ALMENARA, a town of Valencia.

ALMENDROLEJO, a town of Spaniſh Eſtremadura, 12 miles S. of Merida.

Almer, Dorſetſ. near Whitchurch.

ALMERIA, a ſea-port of Granada, ſeated on the river Almeria, in the Mediterranean, ranean, 62 miles SE. of Granada. Lat. 36. 51. N. lon. 2. 20. W.

ALMERIA, a ſea port of Mexico. Lat. 20. 18. N. lon. 97. 30. W.

Almerley, or Almeſtree, Herefordſ. near Weobly. Almerſworthy, Somerſetſ. near Dunſter.

ALMIPIGON, a lake of Canada.

Almisford, Som. a hamlet of Caſtle-Carey.

ALMISSA, a ſmall town in Venetian Dalmatia, at the mouth of the Cetina. It ſtands between two high mountains, on a ſteep rock, 16 miles nearly E. of Spalatro. Lat. 44. 4. N. lon. 17. 45. E.

Almſter, Somerſetſhire.

ALMO, a little rivulet of Campagna, which falls into the Tiber at Rome.

ALMODAVAR, a ſmall town of Alentejo; ALMODAVAR DEL CAMPO, a town of La Mancha, in New Caſtile; and ALMODAVAR, a town of Arragon.

Almond, a river in Perthſhire.

Almondbury, Yorkſ. W. Riding, near Huthersfield. Almondſbury, Glouceſterſ. near Berkeley.

ALMONTE, a town of Andaluſia; and a river of Spaniſh Eſtremadura.

Almos-cliff, Yorkſ. W. Riding, near Ripley.

ALMOUCHIQUOIS, a tribe in Canada.

ALMUGNA, a town of Arragon.

ALMUNECAR, a city and port of Granada, ſeated on the Mediterranean, 30 miles SSE. of Alhama. Lat. 36. 30. N. lon. 3. 45 W.

Almore Hall, Cheſhire, near Malpas.

Alne, a river in Cumberl. which runs into the Tyne below Kirk-Haugh; another in Northumb. which runs into the German Ocean at Alnemouth; and a third in Warwickſhire, which runs into the Arrow at Round-Alne. Alne, Cumb. near Kirk-Oſwald. Alne, near York. Alne Magna and Parva, Warwickſ. near Henley.

Alnemouth, Northumb. a ſmall ſea-port at the mouth of the Alne, where bones of a gigantic ſize have been dug up. Alneſton, Oxfordſhire, near Witney.

*ALNEWICK, or ALNWICK, the county town of Northumberland, 306 miles from London, on the road to Berwick, from which it is diſtant 26 miles, and from Newcaſtle 30; is ſeated on the little river Aine, and is populous and well-built. It has handſome ſhambles, ſurrounded with piazzas, as likewiſe 3 gates, and it was formerly ſurrounded with a wall. Here is an old ſtately Gothic caſtle, the ſeat of the Duke of Northumberland, which has continued in the poſſeſſion of the Percy family ever ſince the year 1309: it has lately been repaired and beautified. Mark. on Sat.

Alney, a little iſland near the city of Glouceſter, famous for the ſingle combat fought on it, between Edmund Ironſide and Knute the Dane, for the whole kingdom, in ſight of both their armies; in which the latter being wounded, he propoſed an agreement; accordingly the kingdom was divided between them; the S. part falling to Edmund, the N. to Knute.

Alnham, or Yarwell, Northumb. 13 miles from Alnewick, on the road to Scotland.

ALOST, or AELST, a tract and a city of Flanders, on the river Dender, 15 miles NW. of Bruſſels, and 15 SE. of Ghent.

ALOVENT, a very high mountain of Perſia, a part of Mount Taurus.

ALPAHANO, a ſmall town of Alentejo.

Alperton, or Apperton, Middleſex, in the road from London to Harrow-in-the Hill. Alphamſton, Eſſex, near Henningham. Alpheton, Suff. near Sudbury. Alphington, Devonſ. 2 miles from Exeter. Alphington, Norf. near Loddon. Alport, Derbyſ. in Youlgrave pariſh, in the High Peak. Alpram, Cheſh. near Ediſbury.

ALPEDRINHA, a ſmall town of Beira; ALPEDRIZ, in Portugueſe Eſtremadura.

ALPHEN, a town near Leyden, in S. Holland.

ALPHEUS. See ORPHEA.

ALPS, the higheſt mountains in Europe, being about 2 miles in perpendicular height, dividing Italy from France, Swiſſerland, and Germany. They have ſeveral names. The Maritime Alps extend from Vado as far as the ſource of the river of the ſame name, or even the Po; the Cottian Alps, from the ſource of the Vado to the city of Suſa; the Grecian Alps, from the city of Suſa to the mountain of St. Bernard; the Pennian Alps, from Mount St. Bernard to Mount St. Gothard; by the latter are bounded the Rhetian Alps, which extend to the ſource of the river Piave: and, laſtly, the Norician, or Carnician Alps, extend themſelves from the Piave as far as Iſtria, and the ſource of the Sau or Saave. The Alps have but few paſſes, and thoſe difficult of acceſs; Hannibal, the Carthaginian general, attempting thoſe on the ſide of Piedmont, when he invaded Italy, loſt moſt of his elephants; he accompliſhed his purpoſe, however, by making his way with acets; not with vinegar (as it has been erroneouſly tranſlated) for diſſolving the ſnow, but with hatchets for cutting it away. The proſpect from many parts of this enormous range of mountains is extremely romantic. The Glaciers of the Alps are immenſe maſſes of ice, lodged upon the gentler declivities of the mountains, and exhibiting the moſt groteſque and and fantaſtic repreſentations. From the valley of Chamouni there is a view of a vaſt chain of mountains, inacceſſible, and covered with ice, and of Mont Blanc above the reſt, whoſe top ſeems to reach and even pierce the higheſt region of the clouds. The chain, upon which this mountain ſeems to look down, like a giant, is compoſed of maſſes of rocks, which terminate in pikes or ſpires, called the Needles, and which ſeem ranged like tents in a camp. Their ſides are covered with fretted ſtreaks of ice and ſnow.

ALPS, LOWER, a department of France including part of the late province of Provence, is ſo called from it's vicinity to the mountains of the ſame name. Digne is the capital.

ALPS, UPPER, a departm ent of France including part of the late province of Dauphiny. The capital is Gap.

ALPUJARRAS, or ALPUXARRES, LOS, mountains of Granada, inhabited by the ancient Moriſcoes, who profeſs Chriſtianity, ſpeak a medley of Arabic and Spaniſh, and carefully cultivate the ground, which produces excellent fruits and wine. Theſe mountains extend about 50 miles in length from E. to W. and are ſo high that their ſummits are viſible, not only from Gibraltar, but even from the coaſt of Africa, between Ceuta and Tangier.

Alresford, Eſſex, near Tendring.

*ALRESFORD, a town in Hampſhire, on the little river Itching, called Alre by Camden. It has about 200 houſes, in two principal ſtreets, which are large and broad. A ſmall manufacture of linſeys is carried on here. Part of a Roman highway, that goes from this place to Alton, ſerves for the head to a great pond, or lake, near this town, where there is a large ſwannery. It is 18 miles ENE. of Southampton, and 57 WSW. of London, in the road to Wincheſter. There is a neighbouring village, called Old Alresford. Market on Thurſday.

Alrewick, Staff. near Lichfield, Alrington, Devonſ. between Barnſtaple and the ſea.

ALROA, or ALROE. See ARROE.

ALSACE, UPPER and LOWER, late provinces of France, having the Rhine and Switzerland on the E. and SE. and Straſburg being the capital of the whole, they are now included in the departments of the Upper and Lower Rhine.

Alſager, Cheſh. near Namptwich. Alſtet, Shropſ. near Newport. Alſcot, Shropſ. near Drayton.

ALSEN, an iſland of Sleſwick, between that duchy and Funen, in the Baltic. It is chiefly noted for producing anſeeds, a carminative much uſed as a ſeaſoning for food, and mixed with bread, all over the Daniſh dominions.

ALSEN SUND, or SOUND, which ſeparates it from the main land, is 6 leagues long and 2 wide. Lat. 55. N.

ALSHED, a town of Upper Heſſe.

Alſerig, a place in Cromartyſhire, noted for large fir woods near it.

ALSHEDA, in Smaland, Sweden, near which a gold mine was diſcovered in 1738.

Alſley, Warw. 21 miles from Coventry.

Alſop, Derbyſ. near Wirkſworth.

ALSO-SAJO, a diſtrict or place; ALSOSDANY, a town in Hungary; in the former, great quantities of cinnabar are dug; in the latter, there is a mineral ſpring.

ALSTON MOOR, a town and populous pariſh in Cumberland, ſeated on a hill, at the bottom of which runs the Tyne, with a ſtone bridge over it: near it are lead-mines, which employ above a thouſand hands. It is 20 miles E. by S. of Carliſle, and 303 NNW. of London. Market on Saturday.

Alſton, Glouc. near Cheltenham. Alſton, Lanc near Kirkham. Alſton, near Shrewſbury. Alſton, Worceſ. in Overbury pariſh. Alſton Mary's, Somerſ. near Mere-Pool. Alſtretton, Shropſ. near Church-Stretton.

ALSVEG, an iſle near Sky, Scotland.

ALSUNGEN, a lake of Halland, Sweden.

ALSWANGEN, a town in Courland.

Alſwick, Herts, near Meaſden.

ALSZA, a ſmall place of the Tartar diſtricts, in European Turkey, between the Nieper and the Don; and a river of Bavaria, which runs into the Inn.

Alt, a river of Lancaſhire, which runs into the Iriſh Channel, at Altmouth.

ALTAISCH, an immenſe range of mountains, in Aſia, forming a ſort of ſouthern boundary to Siberia. It begins at the vaſt mountain Bogdo, paſſes between the rivers Irtiſh and Ob, and, either by the principal chain or it's branches, extends as far as Kamtſchatka, which it runs through, and approaches the Icy Sea.

ALTALA, a diſtrict of Corſica.

ALTAMIRA, a town of Galicia, Spain.

ALTAMONT, a town of Calabria Citra.

ALTAMURA, a town of Bari, Naples.

ALTDORF, a town of Hungary.

ALTEA, a ſea-port of Valencia, ſeated on the Mediterranean. It is 42 miles SE. of the city of Valencia, and 110 S. by E. of Madrid. Lat 38. 40. N. lon. 0. 15. E.

ALTEN, or ALTENBOTTEN, a diſtrict and gulf, or bay, of Wardhuys, on the coaſt of Finmark, Norway.

ALTENA,

ALTENA, or ALTONA, a ſea-port of Holſtein, a little W. of Hamburg. The merchandiſe brought from Aſia, by the Daniſh Eaſt India Company, is ſold here. Lat. 53. 37. N. lon. 9. 52. E.

ALTENBURG. See OLDENBURG.

ALTENBURG, a town of Spire. Upper Rhine; two towns in the arch-duchy of Auſtria; two towns of Styria; two towns of Upper Saxony; a town of Tyrol; a town of Hungary, 17 miles S. of Preſburg; and another town in the circle of Upper Rhine.

Alterinnis, Heref. on the borders of Monmouthſhire, nearly encompaſſed in the windings of the river Munnow. Alternon, Cornw. 4 miles from Pickering.

ALTESSAN, a town of Piedmont, 3 miles N. of Turin.

ALTEZEY, or ALZEY. See ALTZHEIM.

Althome, Lanc. near Blackburn. Althorne, Eſſex, near Southminſter. Althorne, Yorkſ. N. Riding, near Swale Dale Foreſt. Althorp, 4 miles from Northampton. Althorp, Lincolnſ. near Alford. Althorp, Norf. near Fakenham. Althorp, Northamp. near Towceſter.

ALTHUUS, a town in Poliſh Pruſſia.

ALTIN, a lake and mountain in Siberia; from the former iſſues the river Oby, in lat. 52. 0 N. lon. 85. 55. E. This lake is ſaid by ſome geographers, to be 90 miles long and 50 broad; though others repreſent it as only 18 miles long and 12 broad. The Ruſſians call it Teloſkoi Olero.

ALTKIRCH, a town in the dept. of the Upper Rhine, on the river Ille, 45 miles SSW. of Straſburg.

ALTLAND, a diſtrict of Tranſylvania.

Altmore, in Tyrone, Ulſter, 7 miles NW. of Duncannon.

Altmouth, Lanc. N. of Liverpool.

ALTMULL, a river of Germany, which has it's ſource in Culmbach, Franconia, and falls into the Danube at Kelheim, in Bavaria, 12 miles above Ratiſbon.

ALTON, a town in Hampſhire, ſeated on the river Wye. It conſiſts of about 300 houſes, chiefly laid out in one pretty broad ſtreet, and has a large market for cattle and proviſions. Here are manufactures of plain and figured baragons, corded druggets, and ſerge de Niſmes; and round the town are extenſive woods and plantations of hops. It is 28 miles ENE. from Southampton, on the road to London, from which it is 50 miles WSW. Market on Saturday.

Alton-Grange, Leic. near Aſhby-de-la-Zouch. Alton, Derbyſ. near Cheſterfield. Alton, Dorſetſ. near Whitchurch. Alton, Worceſ. near Droitwich. Alton, Staff. 3 miles from Cheadle. Alton-Berns, Wilts, near Marlborough. Alton-Dangerous, Wilts, in the pariſh of Langford-Little. Alton-Hall, Derb. near Keddleſton. Alton Lodge, Staff. on the river Dove, and borders of Derbyſhire. Alton, N. and S. Wilts, both 3 miles from Ambreſbury. Alton-Pancras, Dorſetſ. between Cerne-Abbey and Middleton. Alton-Priory, Wilts, near Marlborough Downs.

ALTORF, a town of Franconia, with a fine univerſity, a library, and a phyſic-garden.

ALTORF, a town of Switzerland, capital of the canton of Uri. It is ſituated on the river Ruſs, where it empties itſelf into the Lake of the Four Cantons: here the tyrant Geſler expoſed his hat to be ſaluted.

ALTORF, a town of Wertemburg, Suabia.

ALTORF, is the name of ſeveral ſmaller places in Germany, and of ſome in Hungary.

ALTRINGHAM, or ALTRINCHAM, a town of Cheſhire, on the Merſey, between Stockport and Warrington. It is ſituated on a canal which runs from Mancheſter to Runcorn, Warrington, &c. and is 10 miles E. of Warrington, 24 from Cheſter, and 180 NW. of London. Market on Tueſday.

ALTRIP, a village of Spires, Upper Rhine.

ALTSOHL, a diſtrict and town of Hungary, 100 miles E. of Vienna.

ALTSTADT, ALTSTED, and ALTSTETTEN, a town of Meiſſen, Upper Saxony; or Munſter, Weſtphalia; and of Upper Rhinthal, Switzerland.

ALTZHEIM, a territory, town, and caſtle in the Lower Palatinate, Lower Rhine.

ALVA-DE-TORMES, a town of Salamanca, in Leon, ſituated on the river Tormes, 20 miles SSE. of Salamanca.

ALVA, ALVARENGA, ALVAYAZERE, and ALVA-CO-DE-SERRA, ſmall towns in Beira.

ALVALLADE, ALVITO, ſmall towns in Alentejo.

ALVARO, ALVARES, ALVERCA, and ALVORNINHA, ſmall towns in Portugueſe Eſtremadura.

Alveley, Eſſex, between Dagenham and Tilbury Fort. Alveley, near Worceſter. Alveley, Salop. Alverdiſcot, Devonſ. near Barnſtaple.

ALVERNO, a mountain of Tuſcany.

Alverſtock, and Alverſton, Hants, both near Fareham. Alverſton, Wilts, near Wardour-Caſtle. Alverton, Notting. near Newark.

Newark. Alveſcot, Oxf. near Burford. Alveſton, near Derby. Alveſton, Warw. near Stratford-upon-Avon. Alveſton, Dorſetſ. 1 mile NE. of Folke. Alveſton, Glouc. near Thornbury, near the Severn. Alvingham, Linc. near Louth. Alvington, Glouc. near Lidney.

ALUTA. See ALAUTA.

Alwalton, Hunts, near Yaxley. Alwarby, Cumb. in the pariſh of Aſpatrick. Alwepton, Northumb. Alwen, a river of Denbighſhire, which runs into the Dee above Langer. Alwington, Devonſ. on the coaſt near Hartland Point. Alwoodley, called Allingley, Yorkſ. W. Riding, near Otley. Alworth, Wilts, near Bradford. Alwye, or Olwy, a river in Monmouthſ. which runs into the Uſk at Ragland Caſtle.

ALWEIL, a lake in Berne, 7 miles long and one and a half wide.

ALY, a town of Georgia, in Aſiatic Turkey.

ALZYRA, ALCYRA, or ALGEZIRA, a town of Valencia, which carries on a conſiderable trade in ſilk. It is ſeated on the river Xucar, 17 miles S. of the city of Valentia. Lat. 39. 15. N. lon. 0. 10. W.

AMA, or AMAN, a decayed town of Syria, once the beautiful and rich city of Apamea, 92 miles N. of Damaſcus. See APAMEA.

AMACUSA, an iſland, city, and principality of Japan. Lat. 31. 25. N. lon. 129. 15. N.

AMADABAT, a large, populous, and trading city, the capital of Guzerat. The Gentoos have hoſpitals here for birds and ſick animals. The rajah lives very ſplendidly, and maintains 12,000 horſe and 50 elephants. Amadabat is pleaſantly ſituated, has 12 gates, and is ſurrounded by a wall flanked with towers. The royal ſquare, 700 paces long, and 400 broad, (planted round with palm, date, orange, and citron trees) is formed by the caſtle, of itſelf as large as a little town, the courts of judicature, palaces, and the grand caravanſera, for lodging ſtrangers and travellers. Beſides ſmaller moſques, here are 30 large ones, one of them being very magnificent; alſo, 16 pagodas, one of which was converted into a moſque, by Aurengzebe, who ordered a cow to be killed in the temple, being aſſured, that the Gentoos, conſidering it as polluted, would never enter it again. Here the Armenians, Abyſſinians, and Jews, have their reſpective places of worſhip; and the Engliſh, and other European merchants have their factors, and purchaſe fine chintz, calicoes, and other Indian merchandiſe. It lies 120 miles N. of Surat, and 40 NE. of Cambaya. Lat. 23. 10. N. lon. 72. 22. E.

AMADAN, or HAMADAN, a conſiderable town of Irak-Agemi, Perſia, where the Jews are pretty numerous; they flock here in pilgrimage, to viſit the tombs of Mordecai and Eſther, which they allege to be here. Theſe tombs are in the place which ſerves them for a ſynagogue. It is 85 miles NW. of Iſpahan. Lat. 35. 15. N. lon. 47. 4. E.

AMADANAGAR, or ANDANAGAR, a rich and populous town in the Decean, Hindooſtan, ſituated 120 miles E. of Bombay. Lat. 18. 10. N. lon. 74. 15. E.

AMADIA, a trading town and fortreſs of Curdiſtan, ſituated on a high mountain.

AMAK, an iſland in the Sound, about 4 miles long, and 2 broad. It contains 6 villages and 2 churches, is laid out in gardens, and paſtures, and ſupplies Copenhagen with milk, butter, and vegetables. It is connected with the city by bridges, one of which is a mile and a half long, and half a mile in breadth; a part of the city, called Chriſtianſhafen, ſtanding on it. The inhabitants, who are between 3 and 4000, retain the old national habit, firſt brought here by a colony of E. Frieſlanders; it reſembles the habit of the ancient Quakers, as repreſented in the Dutch and Flemiſh prints.

AMAL, a town of Daland or Thalland, in Sweden, on the Wenner Lake. It has a good harbour, and carries on a conſiderable trade in timber, deals, and tar.

AMALFI, a ſea-port of Principato Citra, ſituated on the bay of Salerno. Flavio Bembo, a native of this place, is ſaid to have invented the mariner's compaſs, about the beginning of the fourteenth century. It is 10 miles SW. of Salerno.

Amalrie, a village of Perthſhire.

AMANA, one of the Bahama Iſlands.

AMAND, ST. a town in the dept. of the North, ſituated on the river Scarpe, 7 miles N. of Valenciennes.

AMAND, ST. a town in the dept. of Cher, ſituated on the river Cher, 20 miles S. of Bourges: alſo a town in the reſpective depts. of Nyevre, Loire and Cher, Marne, Charente, Tarn, and two in Puy de Dome.

AMANTEA, a ſea-port of Calabria Citra, on the W. coaſt, 12 miles SW. of Coſenza.

AMANZIRIFDIN, a town of Arabia Felix. Lat. 20. 25. N. lon. 67. 30. E.

AMAPALLA, a city, port, and large bay of Nicaragua, Mexico. The former trades in cochineal, cocoa, hides, indigo, &c. Lat. 12. 40. N. lon. 91. 10. W.

AMARA,

AMARA, a diſtrict of Abyſſinia.

AMARANTE, or VILLA D'AMARANTE, a town of Entre Douro e Minho, Portugal, with a linen manufacture. It is 23 miles SE. of Braga.

AMARIN, or DAMARIN, a ſmall town in the dept. of the Upper Rhine.

AMASIA, a city of Natolia, capital of a province of the ſame name, near the river Iris, or Caſalmack. It was the birth place of Strabo, the geographer, and anciently the ſeat of the kings of Cappadocia. Amaſia is the reſidence of a Baſhaw, and gives it's name to the province, where there are the beſt wines and fruits in Natolia. Lat. 40. 31. N. lon. 36. 0. E.

AMASTRIS, or AMASTRO, a ſea-port of Anatolia; but it's two harbours have been long ago choked up with ſand, and there now remains little of it's ancient ſplendor, except ſome ruins.

AMATHA, a city on the Jordan.

AMATIQUA, a gulf in Honduras. Lat. 15. 24. N. lon. 89. W.

AMATO, a town and river of Calabria Citra.

AMAYA, a town of Leon.

AMAZON, or ORELLANA, a river of S. America, which has it's ſource among the Andes, in Peru, not far from the S. Sea, from whence running eaſtward, it pours into the ocean, directly under the equinoctial line. This largeſt of all rivers is, at it's mouth, 150 miles broad, and 1500 miles from its mouth, 30 or 40 fathoms deep. It runs at leaſt 3000 miles, forms during it's courſe many iſlands in itſelf, receives near 200 other rivers, many of which have a courſe of 500, or 600 leagues, ſome of them not inferior to the Danube, or the Nile; and, in pouring itſelf into the ocean, repels the waters of the ſea, to the diſtance of many leagues from the land.

AMAZONS, a ſuppoſed race of warring women, in antiquity, living in Amaſia, on the banks of the Euxine, and maintaining themſelves as a nation of women, on their own ſeparate territory, diſtinctly from the men. Perhaps, in the ruder ages of antiquity, companies of women following their huſbands to battle, and ſometimes fighting their enemies, may have given riſe to the romantic deſcriptions of the Amazons, by the ancients; as in later times, the Amazons of S. America ſeem to have had a ſimilar origin, with the wonder-ſtricken Spaniards.

AMAZONIA, a country in S. America, bounded on the N. by Terra Firma and Guiana; on the E. by the Atlantic and Braſil; on the S. by Paraguay and Peru; and on the W. by Peru. It was firſt traverſed in 1580, by Franciſco Orellana, who coming from Peru, ſailed down the great river, to the Atlantic Ocean. Obſerving companies of women (or perhaps of men, for the Indians have a cuſtom of plucking out the beard by the roots) in arms, on it's banks, he called the country Amazonia, or the Land of the Amazons, and gave the name of Amazon to the river, which had formerly been called Maragnon. Condamine, who afterwards went into thoſe parts, to meaſure a degree on the meridian, could perceive no ſuch appearance of hoſtile women. The ſoil is very rich and fertile; the trees, fields, and plants, are verdant all the year round. The rivers and lakes are infeſted with crocodiles, alligators, and ſerpents. Their banks are inhabited by different tribes of Indians, governed by petty ſovereigns, diſtinguiſhed from their ſubjects by coronets of beautiful feathers. The Spaniards have made many attempts to ſettle in this country; but difficulties and diſaſters have hitherto rendered their deſigns abortive. On a part of the coaſt, between Cape North and the mouth of the Amazon, the Portugueſe indeed have made ſome ſettlements.

AMBAMARJAM, or AMBARA, the capital of Abyſſinia. Lat. 13. 12. N. lon. 35. 14. E.

AMBAR, a river of Bavaria.

Ambaſton, Derbyſ. on the Derwent, between Derby and the Trent. Ambaſton, Shropſ. near Newport. Amber, a river in Denbighſhire.

AMBERG MOUNTAIN, in E. Gothland.

AMBERG, a town of Bavaria, capital of the Upper Palatinate. It's chief trade ariſes from it's iron-mines and manufactures. It is ſtrongly fortified, having a caſtle and armoury. It is ſeated on the river Ills, 40 miles E. of Nuremburg. Lat. 49. 30. N. lon. 11. 17. E.

Amberley, Suſſ. 4 miles from Arundel. Amberley, Heref. near Marden. Amberley, near Monmouth. Amberſham, Hants, near Petersfield.

AMBERT, a town in the dept. of Puy de Dome, ſeated in a beautiful valley, on the river Ore. It carries on the paper manufacture very extenſively, and has alſo a trade in coarſe laces, camlets, ferrets, &c. It is 21 miles E. of Iſſoire, and 300 from Paris. Lat. 45. 25. N. lon. 3. 50. E.

Ambell, Northumb. near Morpeth.

AMBIANCUTIVA, a city and kingdom of Upper Ethiopia, on the Nile.

Amblecote, Staff. near Wolverhampton.

AMBLESIDE, a pretty little town in Weſtmorland,

Weſtmorland; ſituated among lofty mountains, at the upper end of Winandermere lake, and near a remarkable waterfal. Here is a manufactory of cloth. It is 13 miles NW. by N. of Kendal, and 271 NNW. of London. Lat. 54. 28. N. lon. 3. 6. W. Market on Wedneſday.

AMBLETEUSE, a ſea-port in the dept. of the Straits of Calais, 8 miles N. of Boulogne. Lat. 50. 49. N. lon. 1. 41. E.

AMBOISE, a town in the dept. of Indre and Loire, ſeated near the confluence of the Loire and Maſſet. It is 12 miles E. of Tours, 118 S. by W. of Paris. Lat. 47. 25. N. lon. 0. 54. E.

AMBOULE, a fertile province of Madagaſcar, ſomewhat to the northward of lat. 23. S.

AMBOYNA, the chief of the Molucca Iſlands, remarkable for the quantity of cloves and nutmegs it produces. The natives wear large whiſkers, and their dreſs is only a piece of ſlight ſtuff, wrapped round their middle. The Engliſh and Dutch had factories here, by mutual agreement, at the beginning of the ſeventeenth century; but the Dutch, with a perfidy and atrocious barbarity, which will ſtain their annals to the lateſt ages with indelible infamy, expelled the Engliſh by force, and tortured and put to death many of them, pretending that they had entered into a conſpiracy with the Chineſe, againſt them. Since that time, the Dutch have poſſeſſed the entire dominion of the Spice Iſlands, and excluded the reſt of the world from trading there. The Engliſh, however, have taken them in the preſent war, and have now a number of troops in each of their forts; particularly in Fort Victoria, at Amboyna, a place ſo ſtrong by nature and art, as to be, in a manner, impregnable. Lat. 4. 0. S. lon. 127. 20. E.

AMBRAS, AMRAS, or OMBRA, a town and fortreſs of Tyrol, in Auſtria, 2 miles SE. of Inſpruck, which was, as its name (ſhade) rather imports, a ſummer retreat for the arch-dukes. The ſtatues, medals, treaſures of gold, precious ſtones, and rarities, in the muſeum here, are immenſe. There is alſo the trunk of an oak, incloſing the whole body of a deer, ſuppoſed to have periſhed in the ſnow, and to have been covered with the mud and wreck of the trees, &c. waſhed from the mountains by the thaw. The tree, thus depoſited, and taking root, incloſed with it's roots the body of the animal, and, in it's further growth, raiſed the body up with it. Here is alſo a good library, and a gallery of buſts and admirable paintings.

AMBRESBURY, or AMESBURY, an ancient town in Wiltſhire, on the Avon, conſiſting of two ſtreets, that interſect each other. It is 80 miles from London, and 8 from Stonehenge. Market on Friday.

AMBROSE, a town of Piedmont.

AMBRYM, one of the New Hebrides.

AMBY, a town of the Netherlands, in Limburg, on the E. ſide of the Meuſe, oppoſite Maeſtricht.

Amcotes, Lincolnſhire, on the Trent, 5 miles S. of Burton.

AMEDABAD. See AMADABAT.

AMEDNAGUR, a city of Hindooſtan, in the Deccan, once the capital of the ſoubah of the ſame name, which is now better known by that of Dowlarabad. This place was the reſidence of the emperor Aurengzebe, during his conqueſt of the Deccan and the Carnatic. It is 63 miles NE. of Poonah, and 181 from Bombay. Lat. 18. 6. N. lon. 74. 0. E.

AMEL, a kingdom of Negroland.

AMELAND, an iſland near the coaſt of Frieſland, 12 miles long and 3 wide. Lat. 53. 30. N. lon. 6. 12. E.

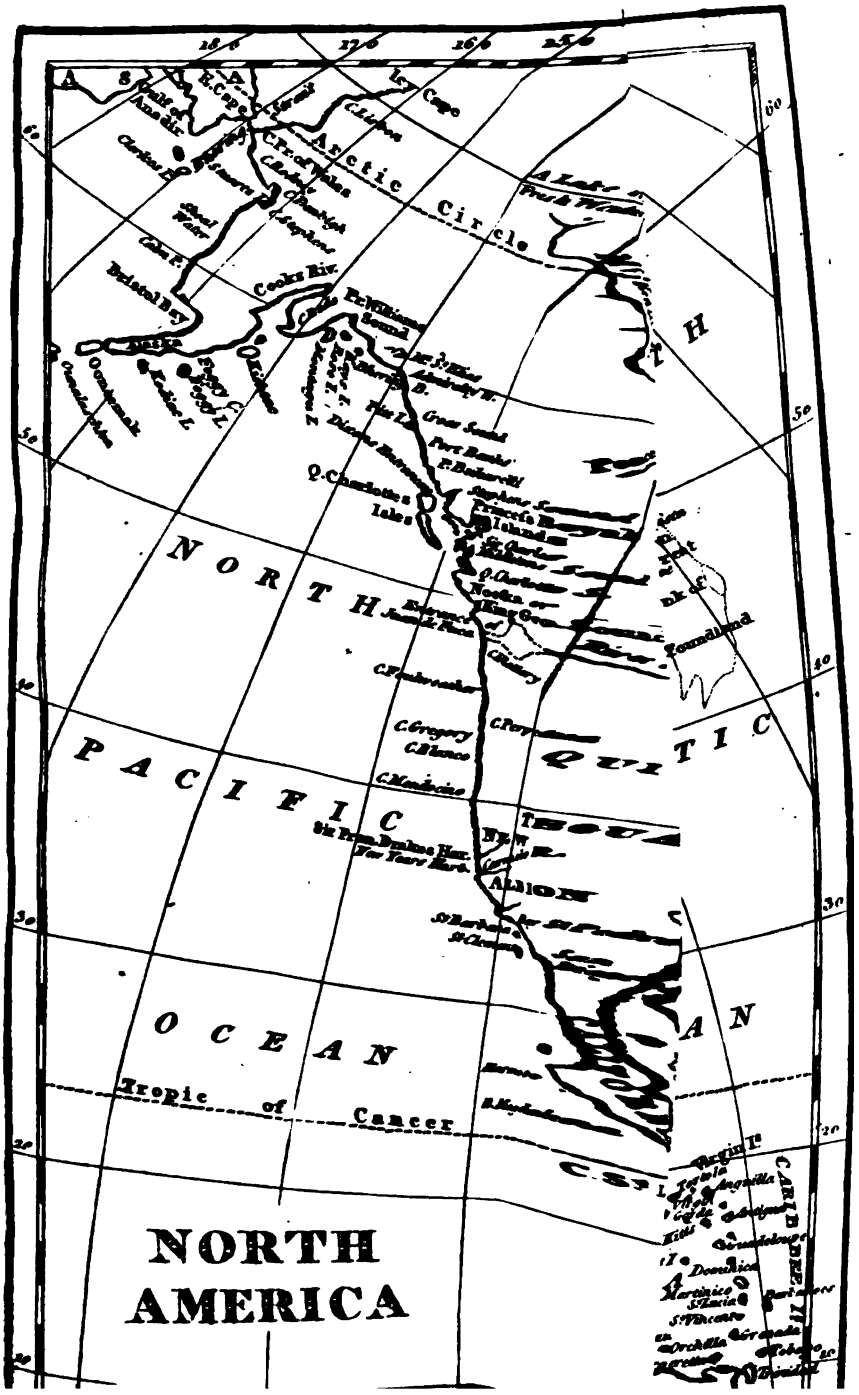
AMELIA, formerly AMERIA, or ÆMILIA, a ſmall city in the pope's territories, ſeated on a mountain between the Tiber and Nira, in a fertile country, 20 miles SW. of Spoleto, and 45 N. of Rome. Lat. 42. 33. N. lon. 12. 30. E.

AMELIA, a county of Virginia.

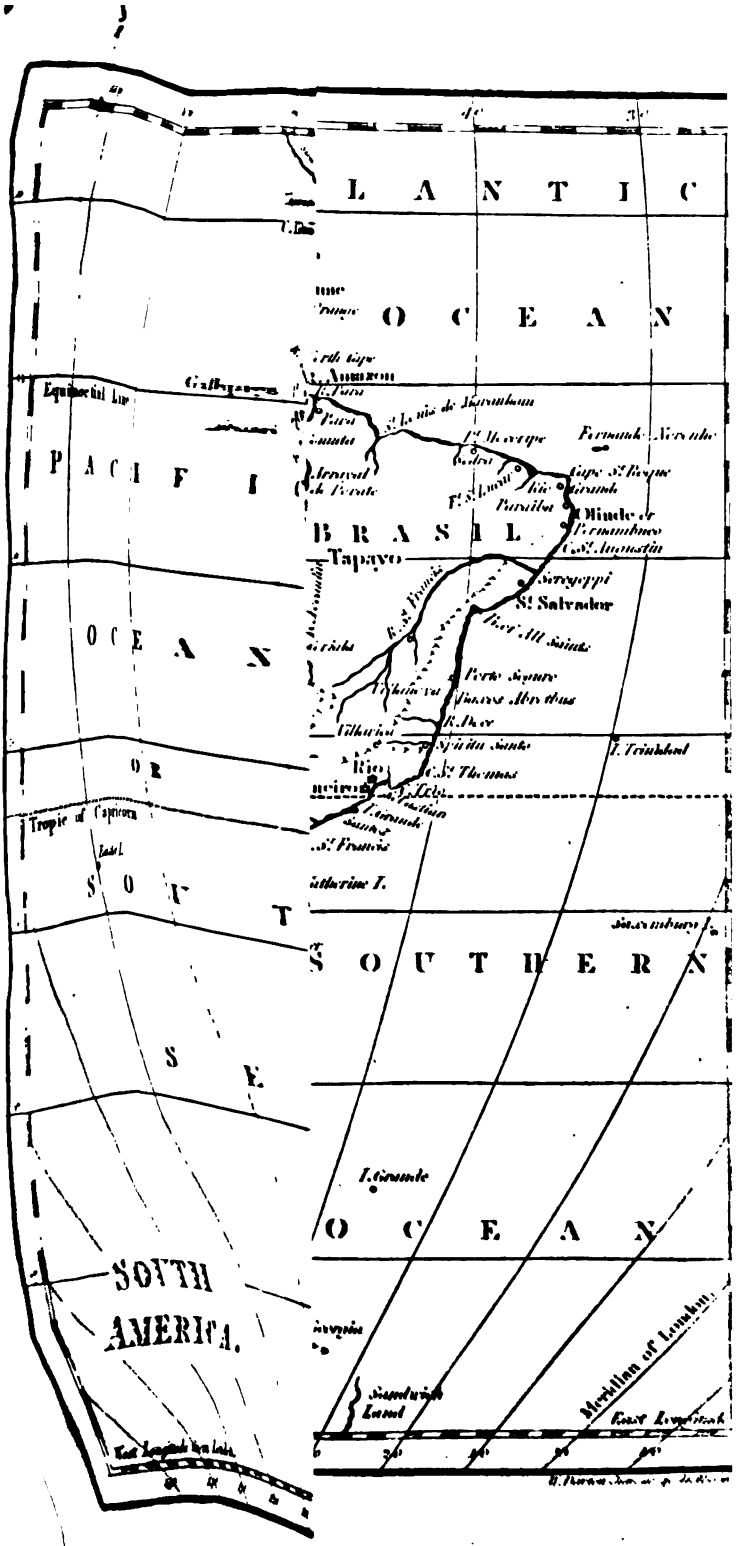
Amerden-Hall, Eſſex, near Audley-End.

AMERICA, the largeſt of the four grand diviſions of the globe, is bounded on all ſides by the ocean, and ſtretches, in it's extenſive range, through every inhabited latitude or climate in the world; and the waters on it's northern extremity ſeem to be bound up in everlaſting froſt. The parts that have a vertical ſun, are ſo near the ſea, or the lofty Andes, conſtantly covered with ſnow, that they experience not the exceſſive heats of Africa; and the complexion of the natives, or aborigines, is by no means very dark; it is generally of a reddiſh or copper colour, from the Straits of Magellan to the borders of Hudſon's Bay. This immenſe continent is divided into N. and S. America, which are joined by the Iſthmus of Darien. It's mountains, rivers, and lakes, are the largeſt in the world. America took it's name from Americus Veſputius, a Florentine, who having accompanied Ojeda, a Spaniſh adventurer thither, and drawing up an amuſing hiſtory of his voyage, inſinuated therein, that he had firſt diſcovered that continent. The diſcovery of America, was made ſo lately as 1491, by Chriſtopher Columbus, a Genoeſe, a bold adventurer, a patriot, and a man of humanity.

At



NORTH AMERICA
Arctic Circle
Tropic of Cancer
NORTH PACIFIC OCEAN
Cooks Riv.
Bristol Bay
Q. Charlottes Isles
Princess Royal Islands
Nootka
Foundland
Iry Cape
Gulf of Anadir
Alaska
Oomanak
Kodiac I.
Kiskane
Fogg C.
Stuarts
Clarkes I.
Sheal Water
Calm P.
Pr. Williams Sound
Cross Sound
Port Banks
P. Bukarelli
Stephens Sound
Dixons Entrance
Entrance Juan de Fuca
C. Fonkweather
C. Gregory
C. Blanco
C. Mendocino
C. Perpetuo
Six Prim. Drakes Har.
New Years Harb.
ALBION
St. Barbara
St. Clement
Virgin Is.
Anguilla
Antigua
Guadeloupe
Dominica
Martinico
St. Lucia
St. Vincent
Orchilla
Granada
Tobago
Trinidad
CARIBBEE IS.
Lat. 60
Lat. 50
Lat. 40
Lat. 30
Lat. 20
Lat. 10
Lat. 0
Lat. 10
Lat. 20
Lat. 30
Lat. 40
Lat. 50
Lat. 60
Lat. 70
Lat. 80
Lat. 90
Lat. 100
Lat. 110
Lat. 120
Lat. 130
Lat. 140
Lat. 150
Lat. 160
Lat. 170
Lat. 180



L A N T I C
O C E A N
Equinoctial Line
P A C I F I C
O C E A N
Tropic of Capricorn
S O U T
S E
SOUTH AMERICA.
Amazon
Fernando Noronha
Olinda or Pernambuco
C. St. Augustin
B R A S I L
Tapayo
Seregoppi
St. Salvador
Bay of All Saints Porto Seguro
Vilhaneva
R. Doce
Spiritu Santo
Rio
C. St. Thomas
I. Trinidad
Catherine I.
S O U T H E R N
I. Grande
O C E A N
Meridian of London
East Longitude

time, the authority of the pope, whole world, was generally ac- ed throughout Europe. He had to the Portugueſe, all the lands, e. they had diſcovered, or might to the eaſtward of the Azores; other Europeans were deprived antages of the trade to the Eaſt the Cape of Good Hope, which gueſe had but lately diſcovered. articles of the eaſt, which had come through the Red Sea and ean, and afforded to the Ge- rative trade, were now brought e of Good Hope. Columbus concern, the loſs his country had and concluding the earth to be poſed to evade the force of the by ſailing to India by a weſt- . His countrymen were not graphers than the biſhop of hey treated his ſchemes as the a mad man; he tried other Europe with ſimilar ſucceſs, rth Iſabella, queen of Spain, r jewels to fit him out for the America furniſhes moſt of ble and mineral productions, to the other parts of the world, ith a variety of valuable drugs commodities, which were un- e before it's diſcovery. The the north are much the ſame all ole, but, in the ſouthern parts they are generally more dimi- eble; and ſome tribes there are, er they exiſted in the old world , Aſia, and Africa are called) become extinct, while the moſt avage quadrupeds ſeem not to rrived here. Nearly the ſame birds is found in the new world parts, and ſome there are, that to the climate. America may into Indian Nations, United d European Colonies. The eſſeſſed by Great Britain, are or New Britain, Upper and da, Nova Scotia, and New . The thirteen United States d New Hampſhire, including e of Main, Maſſachuſetts, d, and Connecticut in New ew York, New Jerſey, Penn- elaware, Maryland, Virginia, South Carolina, and Georgia. New England, and Kentucky, lately added to the union; country to the N. of Ohio, ex- n Pennſylvania to the E. the N. and Miſſiſſippi on the W. by congreſs to be divided into ten new ſtates, to be called Waſhing- ton, Metropotamia, Peſilippi, Michiganai, Illinoia, Cherſoneſus, Saratoga, Sylvania, Aſſenipi, and Polopotamia. In North A- merica, Spain poſſeſſes E. and W Florida, part of Louſiana, New Mexico, Califor- nia, and Old Mexico, or New Spain. In South America, they hold Terra Firma, or Caſtile del Oro, Peru, Chili, and Para- guay, or La Plata. The French have Cayenne, and the Dutch, Surinam; and the Portugueſe have Braſil. America ex- tends a diſtance of 9000 miles, from lat. 56. o. S. to the impenetrable depths of the northern frigid zone, where it nearly extends through every degree of weſtern longitude from London; and varies in it's breadth, from it's narroweſt part, 60 miles at the Iſthmus of Darien, to 3690, it's greateſt breadth, acroſs the northern part of N. America.

AMERSFORT, a conſiderable town of Utrecht, in the Netherlands, with a manu- facture of dimity and bombazine. It is ſeated in a fertile country, on the river Ems, 12 miles NE. of Utrecht. Lat. 52 14. N. lon. 5. 22. E.

Amerſden, or Ambroſeden, Oxfordſhire, 2 miles from Biceſter, or Burceſter.

*AMERSHAM, or AGMONDESHAM, an ancient town of Buckinghamſhire, ſituated in the Chiltern, a ſort of hills, which abound with chalk. It conſiſts of a long ſtreet, on the road from Uxbridge to Buck- ingham, divided about the middle by a ſhorter croſs ſtreet. The woods, on the neighbouring hills, render the proſpects very agreeable. It is 12 miles from Ayleſ- bury, 26 miles SE. of Buckingham, and 29 NW. of London. Market on Tueſ.

Amerſham, Hampſhire, near Petersfield. Amerton, Staff. near Ingeſtre.

AMID, a town of Natolia.

AMIENS, a handſome, large, and an- cient city in the dept. of Somme. It has 3 bridges over as many branches of the Somme, 5 gates, and contains 35,000 in- habitants: It has manufactures in linen and woollen cloth, which employ, in the city and adjacent country, 30,000, people. It is on the road from Calais to Paris, 29 miles SE. of Abbeville, and 84 N. of Paris. Lat. 49. 54. N lon. 2. 28. E.

Amington, Staff. near Stone. Amington, Oxfordſ. near Watlington. Amington, Warw. near Coleſhill. Amlwich, Angle- ſey, in N. Wales.

AMMERCOT, a fort in Hindooſtan Pro- per, in an extenſive ſandy deſert between the Indus, the territories of Agimere and Moultan, and the Puddar. It is 190 miles N. by E. of Tatta.

Ammerſorm,

Ammerſcrm, or Ammer-Farm, Hants, 6 miles from Buſh-Waltham and Fareham.
Amney Crucis, Glouceſ. 2 miles from Cirenceſter; adjoining which is Amney St. Mary, Glouc. 3 miles from Cirenceſter.
Amney St. Peter, adjoins the two former pariſhes, and is very ſmall.

AMOL, a river and town of the Uſbecks.
Amond, a river in Carmarthenſhire.

AMORGO, or MORGO, an iſland of the Archipelago, fertile in oil, wine, and corn; it's inhabitants are generally of the Greek church. It is 30 miles in circumference, and 67 N. of Candia. Lat. 36. 20. N. lon. 26. 15. E.

Amotherby, Yorkſhire, N. Riding, near Rydel.

AMOY, an iſland of Fokien, on the SW. coaſt of China.

AMPASA, an iſland of Zanguebar.
Ampleford, Yorkſhire, near Thirſk.

AMPLEPUIS, a town in the dept. of Rhone and Loire. It is celebrated for it's wines, and is 16 miles ESE. of Rouanne.
Ampney Down, Glouc. near Fairford, and near Cricklade, in Wilts. Ampney-Holy-Rood, Glouc. near Fairford. Amport, Hants, near Andover.

*AMPTHILL, a pretty town in Bedfordſhire, 44 miles from London, between the roads from thence to Buckingham and Royſton. It is almoſt in the centre of the county, ſituated between two hills, and was the reſidence of the injured Catharine of Arragon, wife of Henry VIII. Market on Thurſday.
Ampton, Notting. near Tuxford. Ampton, Suff. N. of Edmundſbury.

AMPUGNANO, a diſtrict of Corſica.

AMPURDAN, a diſtrict to which belongs

AMPURIAS, a ſea-port of Catalonia, 15 miles E. of Girona.

AMPURIAS, an inland town of Sardinia.

AMRAS. See AMBRAS.
Amſford, Kent, near Sevenoaks.

AMSOM, or AMSOMOE, an iſland on the W. coaſt of Denmark. in lat. 54. 40. N.

AMSTEL. See AMSTERDAM.

AMSTERDAM, a large, rich, populous, trading, and handſome city of Holland, the capital of the United Provinces. The walls are high and ſtrongly fortified, and the bridge, which joins the rampart, is built over the Amſtel, and is an extraordinary piece of architecture. The public buildings are fine and numerous. Here are many handſome churches and hoſpitals, for perſons of different ages, ſexes, religious profeſſions, and countries. To the good ſenſe and candour of the Dutch, in tolerating all profeſſions of religion, when perſecution prevailed in other part we may, in a great meaſure, attribute th proſperity, and the populouſneſs of th capital. This city is computed to be bout half the ſize of London; the found tion is laid upon piles, driven into t moraſs whereon it ſtands, and under t ſtadthouſe alone, there are 13,000. T exchange is one of the principal ornamer of the city; and the harbour, though di ficult of acceſs, becauſe of the ſhoals, is o of the largeſt and fineſt in Europe, whe a vaſt number of ſhips may be ſeen co ſtantly; the ſtreets are ſpacious and w paved, and moſt of them have canals wi rows of trees of each ſide. It is ſeated the confluence of the rivers Amſtel a Wye, 65 miles N. of Antwerp, 175 E. l N. of London, 240 N. by E. of Paris, a 560 NW. of Vienna. Lat. 52. 23. l lon. 4. 50. E.

AMSTERDAM, or TONGATABOO, a iſland in the South Sea, firſt diſcovered b Taſman. It is about 21 miles in exte from E. to W. and about 13 from N. t S. Lat. 21. 11. S. lon. 175. 0. W.

Amſby, a pariſh of Hertfordſhire. Amſworth, Lanc. near Mancheſter.

AMU, AMUR, or JAMUR, a river i Aſiatic Ruſſia, 400 miles in length. It formed by the junction of the rivers Argu and Schilk, and, paſſing by Nertchinſk falls into the N. Pacific Ocean, in lat. 5 N. lon. 142. E.

AMUL, a river of Siberia, which run into the Tuba, 48 miles ESE. of Aba kanſk.

Amwell, a village in Hertfordſhire, little to the S. of Ware, and 21 miles fro London. One part is called Amwell Magna, and the other Amwell-Parva; th head or ſource of the New River, whic ſupplies London with water, is at the la ter place. This canal was projected b Sir H. Middleton; he began it in 160 and finiſhed it in 1612, by the aſſiſtance o the city of London, and by aid of parlia ment; but with a conſiderable loſs of hi own property, he perfected the work. Th extent of the canal is near 39 miles; it ha 43 ſluices, and there are 215 bridges ove it. Amwick, Lincolnſhire, between Slea ford and Tatterſhall.

ANABOA. See ANNOBONA.

ANADIR, a river of Siberia, which fall into the N. Pacific Ocean, in lat. 65. N.

ANADIRSKOI, a town on the above ri ver, belonging to Ruſſia.
Anadorn in Down, Ulſter.

ANAGNI, a city of Campagna di Ro ma, ſituated on an eminence, in the Vi Latina, but now almoſt in ruins. Nea thi this, are the hot waters, anciently called Thermæ Aninæ. Lat. 41. 56. N. lon. 13. 25. E.

ANAKOPIR, capital of the Abkas.

ANARSTAPINN, a ſea-port of Iceland.

ANATOLIA, or NATOLIA PROPER, the moſt weſtenrly diviſion of Natolia.

ANATTOM, one of the New Hebrides.

ANBORD, a town of Choraſan, Perſia.

ANCARANO, a town of Ancona, in the pope's territories, 82 miles NE. of Rome.

Ancaſter, a village of Linc. 8 miles from Grantham, and 15 miles S. of Lincoln.

Ancaſtle, Oxfordſ. on the borders of Berks.

ANCENIS, a town ſeated on the river Loire, in the dept. of the Lower Loire, 20 miles NE. of Nantz.

ANCLAM, a town of Swediſh Pomerania, in Upper Saxony. It made a good figure once among the Hanſe towns, and has an advantageous ſite among good corn lands and excellent paſture, with the conveniency of fiſhing and exporting their commodities, by means of the river Pene, on which it is ſeated. Formerly it was called Tanglim, and ſome have ſuppoſed it to have been the ſeat of the Angli, mentioned by Tacitus; ſome of whom removed from thence to the Elbe, and afterwards to S. Britian. Anclam is 20 miles S. of Gripſwald. Lat. 53. 52. N. lon. 14. 2. E.

Ancliff, Lanc. 2 miles from Wigan, has a curious ſpring, called the burning well; which, on putting a lighted candle to it, immediately catches fire, with a heat ſtrong enough to make a pot boil, though the water itſelf ſtill remains cold. Ancoates, Lanc. 1 mile from Mancheſter.

ANCOBER, or RIO CORBE, a territory of Guinea, between the gold coaſt and the country of Axim, and a river of the ſame name flowing through it, the banks of which are adorned with fine, lofty trees, affording a very agreeable ſhade. On the weſtern bank is a populous village. Lat. 4. 43. N.

ANCONA, anciently ANCON, a diſtrict, and conſiderable ſea-port in the pope's territories, on the Adriatic Sea, having Umbria on the S. and Urbino on the W. Commerce has rapidly increaſed here of late years, through the patronage of Clement XII. who made it a free port, and built a mole to render the harbour ſafe. It is erected on the ruins of the ancient mole, built by the emperor Trajan, and is above 200 feet in length, 100 in breadth, and about 60 in depth, from the ſurface of the ſea. Near this ſtands the Triumphal Arch of Trajan, which, next to the Maiſon Carrée, at Nilmes, is the moſt beautiful and entire monument of Roman magnificence exiſting. Here, likewiſe, Clement erected a lazaretto, which advances a little way into the ſea, in the form of a pentagon, and is an elegant, as well as uſeful edifice. The Jews have a ſynagogue here, and are eſtabliſhed in great numbers. Ancona is 116 miles NNE. of Rome. Lat. 43. 38. N. lon. 13. 35. E.

Ancraſt, Northumb. near Belford.

ANCYRA. See ANGORA.

ANDAJA, a river of Old Caſtile, which runs into the Douro.

ANDALUSIA, the moſt rich and fertile province of Spain, divided into Upper and Lower. It is 250 miles in length, and 150 in breadth. The river Guadalquiver runs through it's whole extent, and Seville is it's capital. It was reſorted to in antiquity by the Tyrians, Rhodians, Phœnicians, Grecians, Carthaginians, and Romans, on account of it's gold and ſilver mines. It is ſtill a place of great trade, having many commodious harbours which open to the Weſtern Ocean, near the entrance to the Mediterranean, as Cadiz, &c. and abounding in fruits, corn, wine, oil, honey, ſugar, herds of cattle, &c. The Andaluſian breed of horſes have long been celebrated for their beauty and fleetneſs.

ANDALUSIA, NEW, or PARIA, a province of Terra Firma, ſituated on the Atlantic, with the Oronoque to the SW.

ANDAMAN, two iſlands on the E. ſide of the entrance of the Bay of Bengal. The Greater Andaman is about 50 leagues long and 8 wide, in lat. 12. N. and lon. 93. E.; and the Little Andaman is about 8 leagues in length, and 5 in breadth. The inhabitants are a harmleſs race, living chiefly on rice, fruits, and herbs.

ANDANAGAR, a beautiful, rich, and populous town of the Deccan, Hindooſtan, 120 miles SE. of Bombay.

ANDAYE, a town in the dept. of the Lower Pyrenees, famous for it's brandy. It is ſituated at the mouth of the river Bidaſſoa, oppoſite Fontarabia in Spain, 18 miles from Bayonne. Lat. 43. 25. N. lon. 1. 45. W.

Ande, a river of Hampſhire, that riſes in the foreſt of Chute.

ANDELY, or ANDELIS, LES, a town of France, in the dept. of Eure, divided by a paved road into two towns, Great and Little Andely; the former on the little river Gambons, the latter on the Seine. The cloths manufactured here are very fine. It is 20 miles SE. of Rouen, and 60 NW. of Paris. Lat. 49. 20. N. lon. 1. 30. E.

Andenas Caſtle, Cornwall, near S. Colomb.

ANDENES, an iſland on the coaſt of Drontheim, in lat. 69. 30. N.

ANDER, or ANDERO, ST. a ſea-port of Biſcay, where the Spaniards build, and lay up ſome of their men of war. It is 60 miles W. of Bilboa. Lat. 43. 25. N. lon. 3. 51. W.

Anderby, Linc. near Alford. Anderby-Aniers, Yorkſ. N. Riding, near Bedal. Anderby-Steeple, Yorkſ. N. Riding, near Richmond. Anderby-Wherneow, Yorkſ. N. Riding, near Northallerton.

ANDERLECHT, a town of Brabant, 3 miles SW. of Bruſſels.

ANDERNACHT, a town of Cologne, on the Rhine, near which are excellent mineral waters. They trade here in large timber, which is floated down to this place, and hence to Holland. It is 10 miles NW. of Coblentz. Lat. 50. 29. N. lon. 7. 22. E.

ANDERSKOW, a town of Zealand, Denmark.

ANDERSON ISLAND, in the North Pacific Ocean. Lat. 63. 10. N. lon. 167. 40. W.

Anderſton, Dorſetſ. near Bere. Anderton, Cheſh. near Bucklow. Anderton-Ford, Lanc. near Ormſkirk. Anderton, Lanc. between Eccleſton and Wigan.

ANDES, or CORDILLERAS, a chain of mountains, or rather two huge ridges, running almoſt the whole length of South America, from the Iſthmus of Darien to the Straits of Magellan, through Peru and Chili, a diſtance of 5000 miles; and in a line parallel to, and but a little diſtance from the Pacific Ocean. They are alſo the loftieſt, as well as the moſt extenſive range of hills in the whole world. Even the plain of Quito, which may be conſidered as a baſe of the Andes, is elevated farther above the ſea, than the top of the Pyrenees; and, in different places, they riſe more than one third higher than the Pike of Teneriffe, heretofore accounted the higheſt part of the whole earth. The Andes may literally be ſaid, to hide their heads in the clouds: the ſtorms often roll, and the thunders burſt below their ſummits; which, though expoſed to the rays of the ſun, in the centre of the torrid zone, are covered with everlaſting ſnows. From experiments made with a barometer, on the mountain of Cotopaxi, it appeared, that it's ſummit was elevated 6252 yards, which is ſomething more than 3 geographical miles, above the ſurface of the ſea. Theſe mountains give riſe to the largeſt rivers in the world: and, when the volcanos, which are numerous here, break out among the ſnows, the ſudden thaws produce ſuch torrents of water, as to deluge the plains, and carry off the inhabitants, both man and beaſt.

ANDES. See PIETOLA.

Andiffer, near Lancaſter.

ANDORA, a large village of Genoa producing excellent wine.

ANDORNO, a town of Vercelli, Piedmont.

ANDORRA, a town and valley of Cerdagne, in Catalonia.

*ANDOVER, a large, well-built, populous town in Hampſhire, pleaſantly ſituated on the river Ande, on the edge of the Downs. It has a manufacture of ſhaloons and is a great thoroughfare on the weſtern road, from Newbury and Saliſbury, and from London down to the weſt, 10 miles N. by W. of Wincheſter, and 65 W. by S. of London. Market on Saturday.

ANDRAGHIRA, a river of Sumatra, on which the Dutch have a factory.

ANDRAIG, a harbour and fort of Majorca.

ANDRARUM, or ANDERUM, a town of Schonen, 14 miles S. of Chriſtianſtadt; here are the greateſt alum works in Sweden.

ANDRE, ST. two towns in the dept. of Mont Blanc, and ſeveral others in different parts of France; alſo, a diſtrict of Corſica.

Andre, St. Northumberl. 6 miles E. of Hexham.

ANDREASBERG, or ST. ANDREW, a town of Brunſwick Lunenburg. Near are rich iron mines.

ANDREW, ST. a town of Carinthia.

ANDREW, ST. an iſland, and a town of Hungary.

ANDREW'S, ST. a town, or royal borough, of Fifeſhire, formerly the metropolis of the Pictiſh kingdom. It is ſeated on a bay, on the level top of a ſmall hill, commanding a view of the German Ocean. The cathedral, once a large Gothic ſtructure, founded in 1161, and 157 years in building, was ſo completely demoliſhed in a ſingle day, by John Knox and his adherents, that little of it now remains. The univerſity, founded by the biſhop Wardlaw, in 1411, conſiſts of 3 colleges, the Old College, the St. Leonard's, and the New College, and has produced many learned men. The houſes, though built of ſtone, are gone to decay, there being no manufactures here, except the trifling one of golf-balls, which, however, maintain a great number of people; and the harbour which has ſuffered greatly by the encroachments of the ſea, is only an artificial one formed by piers, with a narrow entrance. It is 30 miles NE. of Edinburgh.

ANDREW'S, ST. a town in Nova Scotia

ANDREW'S ST. an iſland, with a town of Dalmatia.

Andrew's, St. Suff. near Beccles. Andrew's Caſtle, St. Hampſhire, between Southampton and Petersfield.

ANDRIA, a town of Bari, Naples.

ANDROS, an iſland, with it's capital, a ſea-port of Turkey, in the Archipelago. The inhabitants are moſtly of the Greek church, and about 5000 in number. The principal riches of this iſland conſiſt in ſilks; and it produces wine, oil, corn, oranges, citrons, mulberries, pomegranates, figs, &c. It is almoſt oppoſite to Athens, and near the S. end of Negropont.

ANDROSS, one of the Bermuda iſles.

ANDRUSSOW, a village of Smolenſkow.

ANDRZEIOW, a little town of Cracow.

ANDST, a diſtrict in N. Jutland.

ANDUJAR, or ANDUXAR, an ancient, large, and populous city of Andaluſia. It has ſeveral fine buildings, a ſtrong caſtle, and is ſeated on the Guadalquiver, over which there is a ſtately bridge. It vends great quantities of ſilk, and the country around abounds in corn, wine, oil, honey, &c. It is 25 miles NE. of Corduba. Lat. 38. 10. N. lon. 3. 48. W.

ANDWORTSKOW. See ANDERSKOW.

ANEGADA, one of the Carribee iſles. Lat. 18. 40. N. lon. 64. 7. W.

ANFA, a diſtrict of Temecen, Algiers.

Anfield, Hants, near Southampton.

ANFILOCHA, now JEROIRLIA, a town of the ancient Epirus; it was almoſt ruined, during the wars between the Venetians and Turks.

Angabury, Herts, near Hitching.

ANGARA, a river of Aſiatic Ruſſia, which runs into the Jeneſei near the town of Jeniſeiſk.

ANGAZYA, one of the Comora iſlands, inhabited by Moors, many of whom read and write Arabic with great facility. Lat. from 10. to 15. S.

Angel, a river in Montgomeryſhire.

ANGELO, ST. a town in the pope's territories; a ward and a caſtle of Rome, to which the pope retires, on apprehenſion of danger; a ſtrong caſtle of Malta; a caſtle and diſtrict of Corfu; a ſea-port of Apulia; a town, two cities, and a mountain of Naples.

ANGELOS, the ſecond city of Mexico, capital of an extenſive province of the ſame name, otherwiſe called Tlaſcala. The ſtreets are large, clean, and regularly built. The ſquare, in the centre is beautified on three ſides with uniform porticos, where are ſhops, furniſhed with all ſorts of merchandiſe: on the other ſide, is it's ſtately cathedral, built in the modern taſte. It has a mint, glaſs-houſe, and other manufactures, and the country around it is very fertile: but the inhabitants, both prieſts and people, are accounted extremely profligate and licentious in their manners. Angelos is 62 miles SE. of Mexico. Lat. 19. 30. N. lon. 99. 22. W.

Angelſley, Somerſetſhire, near Taunton.

ANGERAP, a river of Pruſſia, which runs into the Pregel near Georgenburg.

ANGERBURG, a diſtrict, and a well-built town on a lake of the ſame name in Pruſſia.

ANGERMANNIA, or ANGERMANLAND, a province in Sweden, 24 miles long, and 16 broad, having Jempterland on the W. and Medelpal on the S. It is diverſified with rocks, mountains, and foreſts; rivers and lakes abounding with fiſh; and here are conſiderable iron works.

ANGERMUNDE, a town of Courland; and a town of Berg, Weſtphalia.

ANGERN, iron works in Courland.

ANGERO, a town of Principato Citra.

ANGERS, a large and populous city in the dept. of Maine and Loire, formerly capital of Anjou. It is ſeated near the confluence of the Sarte and Loire, and is divided by the Maine into two parts; the weſtern, extending into the plain, and the eaſtern, which riſes on the acclivity of a hill. It's environs preſent a pleaſing view of numerous country-houſes, upwards of a hundred wind-mills, well cultivated kitchen-gardens, and eminences that produce good white wine. The inhabitants are computed at 28,000. The manufacture of handkerchiefs and ſail cloth, is carried on here; the produce of the ſlate-quarries at the extremity of the ſuburb of Breſſigny, forms likewiſe an important article of commerce. In Angers there is a ſpacious ſquare, and four beautiful public walks. It is 50 miles NE. of Nantz, and 175 SW. of Paris. Lat. 47. 30. N. lon. 0. 35. W.

Angerton, Cumberl. in Holme-Cultram.

Angerton, Northumb. near Morpeth.

ANGERVILLE, a town in the dept. of the Seine and Oiſe; and a town in the dept. of Lower Seine.

ANGHIERA, a county, and a town of Milan, on the E. ſide of the Lake Maggiore, 30 miles NW. of Milan. Lat. 45. 42. N. lon. 8. 40. E.

ANGIHART, a village of Tuſcany.

ANGLE, a town in the dept. of La Vendee; and a town in the dept. of Vienne.

ANGLEN, or ANGELEN, a tract of country in Sleſwick, from 16 to 20 miles in length, and little leſs in breadth, lying between Flenſburg and Sleſwick. It is ſubject, for the moſt part, to the duke of Sleſwick Gottorp. Many authors ſuppoſe, that this ſmall country was the aboriginal ſeat of the Angli, or Angles, who, joining with the Saxons, when called in to aſſiſt the Britons, in proceſs of time became maſters of the country, and gave it the name which it now bears, England.

ANGLES, a town in the dept. of Herault.

Angleſtorough, in Limerick, Munſter.

ANGLESEY, or ANGLESEA, ISLE OF, the moſt weſtern county of N. Wales, through which the packets regularly paſs between London and Dublin. It was called by the ancients Mona, and was the ſeat of the Druids, of whom there ſeem to be ſome monumental remains, in the erections of huge ſtones, ſingly and collectively, in circles, and one upon another, as at Stonehenge; they are without any inſcription, to ſhew the time or occaſion of their erection. Here are alſo found ſome Roman and other antiquities. Angleſey is an iſland, being ſeparated from Carnarvonſhire by a long and narrow ſtrait, called Menai, or Menu, which, in ſome places, however, is fordable at low water. It is about 24 miles long and 14 broad; contains 74 pariſhes, and about 11,000 inhabitants. It is a fertile ſpot, has ſome valuable quarries, and a very rich copper mine on Pary's Mount.

Angleſey Abbey, Camb. near Botſham.

Angleton, Suſſex, near Lewes.

Angmering, E. and W. Suſſex, two ſmall villages on the Engliſh Channel, near Arundel.

ANGOL, a pleaſant, well-watered city of Chili, ſituated on a very fertile plain, 125 miles N. of Baldivia. Lat. 37. 56. S. lon. 72. 59. W.

ANGOLA, a fertile kingdom of Lower Guinea, or Congo, ſituated between the rivers Dande and Coanza. It is bounded on the N. by Congo Proper, on the E. by Matamba, on the S. by Benguela, and on the W. by the Ocean. It produces Indian corn, beans, oranges, lemons, and ſeveral other fruits. The country is divided among ſeveral petty princes; the Portugueſe have ſeveral ſettlements on the coaſt, and the Engliſh and Dutch yet carry on that infamous traffic, the ſlave-trade. Polygamy is allowed in this country, and they practiſe the initiatory rite of the Hebrews. They ſeem to be an amiable and peaceful people; they are tall, and are reckoned to be elegant figures, and very handſome; and from the fertility of the ſoil, and the ſimplicity of their manners, they live very much at their eaſe; it is perhaps from this circumſtance, that theſe injured people, when carried into ſlaver ſhew an impatience of fatigue, and an i dependency of ſpirit, ſuperior to thoſe fro the Gold Coaſt, where the ſoil is barre and where they have been accuſtomed hardſhip and labour. Angola is ſituat between 9 and nearly 12 degrees S. la and between 10 and 20 E. lon.

ANGORA, or ANGOURA, ancient ANCYRA, a town of Natolia, in Aſiat Turkey, remarkable for it's remains antiquity, as inſcriptions, pillars, ruins temples, &c. of porphyry and old marbl The caſtle, which is as large as a ſm town, and well inhabited, both by t Chriſtians and Turks, is built of whi marble, and ſtone reſembling porphyr and throughout the walls of the tow which are low, and thoſe of the houſe which are generally built of unburnt bric antique fragments are interſperſed. T city of Angora is computed to ha 100,000 inhabitants in it, 90,000 of who are Turks; and about 1600 of theſe janizaries: Greeks, Armenians, &c. co poſe the remaining 10,000. The cou try produces very good red wine, and th have excellent rice on ſome of the river They have the fineſt breed of goats he in the world; their hair or wool is qui white, and almoſt as fine as ſilk; a gre trade is carried on in this article, a the fineſt ſtuffs, eſpecially camlets, a made of it. The exports of Angora Holland, France, and England, are abo 1600 camel loads yearly. It is 212 mil SE. of Conſtantinople. Lat. 39. 30. lon. 32. 5. E.

ANGOT, a fruitful kingdom of Upp Ethiopia, environed with ſteep mountain It has been wreſted from Abyſſinia by t Gallas.

ANGOULESME, a town of France the dept. of Charente. It ſtands on mountain ſurrounded with rocks, the ver Charente running at the foot of it. is 20 miles SW. of Limoges, and 250 by W. of Paris. Lat. 45. 39. N. lon. 14. E.

ANGOUMOIS, late a province of Franc of which Angouleſme was the capital, b now included in the dept. of Charente. is hilly, but fertile, has good iron min and excellent paper manufactories.

ANGRA, a diſtrict, and a ſea-port the S. ſide of the iſland of Tercera. T city of Angra is the metropolis of all t Azores. The harbour is good, and t town well built and populous; it has t privilege of ſending a deputy to the cort or ſtates of Portugal. The Engliſh a Dutch have conſuls here, though the co merce is inconſiderable; what they import, is moſtly wood and corn, and other proviſions. Lat. 38. 38. N. lon. 27. 12. W.

ANGROGNE, or ANGROGNA, a mountainous, yet fruitful pariſh, or townſhip of Piedmont, through which runs a little river of the ſame name. It is acceſſible only by two paſſes at the S. and E. and there are retreats among the rocks, where, during the moſt violent perſecutions againſt the Vaudois, their old barte, bards, as they are called, or valley-miniſters, preached without interruption. Sometimes the valleys of Piedmont are called by the name of Angrogne. The town of Angrogne is 7 miles W. of Pignerol.

Angton, Suſſex, near Arundel.

ANGSO, a caſtle of Upland.

ANGUED, a province of Algiers, or rather a deſert of Temecen. Hordes, or clans of Arabs, and others, live here moſtly on plunder, obliging travellers to pay them money for their paſſports, which are a kind of ſmall flag at the end of a lance. They have but little corn, and they feed principally on dates, milk, and what wild game they kill. They range at pleaſure about the country, acknowledging none but their own chief, and paying no tribute to the Algerines.

ANGUILLA, or SNAKE ISLAND, a woody, fertile, level tract, and the moſt northerly of the Engliſh Carribee Iſlands. It is about 30 miles in length, and 10 in breadth; and there is good anchorage on the ſouth ſide. Lat. 18. 21. N. lon. 63. W.

ANGUILLARA, a town of Patrimonio, in the pope's territories; alſo a lake, and a ſmall but handſome town of Padua.

ANGUS, a ſhire of Scotland, ſometimes called Forfar, from the name of the county town, is bounded on the N. by Aberdeenſhire, on the NE. by Kincardineſhire on the E. by the German Ocean, on the S. by the Frith of Tay, and on the W. by Perthſhire. It is about 40 miles in length, and 30 in breadth. It has many lakes and hills, with quarries of ſlate and freeſtone, and mines of lead and iron ore; the lower grounds are fertile in corn and paſture; and along the coaſt, the ſalmon fiſhery is very extenſively carried on. The principal rivers are the N. and S. Eſk.

ANHALT, a principality of Upper Saxony, 41 miles long and 8 broad. It abounds in corn and hops, has rich mines, and is watered by the Elbe, the Saala, or Sale, and the Mulda.

ASHALT, or ANHOLT, an iſland in the Categat, 8 miles from the coaſt of Jutland, and 10 from Zealand. It is dangerous for ſeamen, for which reaſon a light-houſe is erected on it. Lat. 56. 38. N.

ANIAN, a barren, ſandy deſert of Ajan, in Africa.

ANIAN. See BEERING.

ANJENGO, a ſmall town of Malabar, held by the Eaſt India Company. Their merchandiſe conſiſts chiefly in pepper and calicoes. Lat. 8. 49. N. lon. 76. 1. E.

ANJOU, a ci-devant province of France, forming, with the late provinces of Maine and Touraine, the 4 departments of Maine and Loire, Indre and Loire, Maine, and Sarte.

Anker, a river of Warwickſ. which falls into the Tame at Tamworth. Ankerden, Worceſ. on the borders of Herefordſhire. Ankham, a river of Lincolnſ. falling into the Humber by N. Ferriby. Ankerton, Oxfordſ. NW. of Banbury. Ankerwick, Bucks, near Windſor. Anlaby, Yorkſ. near Hull.

ANNA, or ANAH, a diſtrict and town of Turkey in Aſia. The latter is ſeated on the weſtern bank of the Euphrates, where there is a plenty of olives, oranges, citrons, lemons, pomegranates, and dates. The fields produce cotton, and the corn grows exceedingly high; but the inhabitants are great freebooters, diſperſing themſelves from hence all over the deſert. The city is tributary to the grand ſeignior; but it is with great difficulty that the Turkiſh aga and janizaries kept here, can levy the tribute. It is 130 miles W. of Bagdad, and 120 SSW. of Mouſſol. Lat. 34. 30. N. lon. 41. 0. E.

ANNA, ST. a Ruſſian town and fortreſs, ſituated on the Don. It's ſtreets are ſtraight, broad, and well built; but the country about it is marſhy.

ANNABON. See ANNOBONA.

ANNABURG, a town in the archduchy of Auſtria; a town of Ertzeburg, Saxony; and another town of Saxony, 16 miles ESE. of Wittenburg.

Annacloy, in Down, Ulſter, on a branch of Strangford Lake. Annacotty in Limerick, Munſter, 91 miles from Dublin. Annadorn, in Down, Ulſter, at the ſource of the river of the ſame name, which falls into the inner bay of Dundrum. Annagh, in Cork, Munſter, near Charleville: the linen manufacture is carried on in this village.

Annagh, an iſland of Ireland, between the iſle of Achill and main land of Mayo.

ANNA LIFFEY, a river in Leinſter. It riſes in the co. of Wicklow, and, by a circuitous courſe, runs into the co of Kildare; there it paſſes through the Leinſter aqueduct under the grand canal, is precipitated pitated from the rocks of Leixlip, forming a moſt beautiful water-fall, and thence gently gliding through a beautiful and improved country, it paſſes through the county and city of Dublin, and falls into Dublin Bay.

Annalong, a river, ſmall harbour, and village in Down, Ulſter, 69 miles from Dublin.

ANNAMABOE, or JAMISSA, an Engliſh factory on the Gold Coaſt of Guinea.

ANNAMOOKA. See ROTTERDAM.

ANNAN, a ſea-port of Annandale, on the river Annan, about 3 miles NE. of Solway Frith, and 60 S. of Edinburgh.

ANNANDALE, a diſtrict of Dumfrieſſhire, in Scotland. The mountains in the N. of this diſtrict, called Moffat Hills, are the higheſt in the S. of Scotland, and from them deſcend the Tweed, the Clyde, and the Annan.

ANNANO, a fort of Milan, on the Tanaro.

ANNAPOLIS, the capital of Maryland, ſeated at the mouth of Severn river. The houſes, about 270 in number, are generally large and elegant. The plan of the city is a circle, with the ſtadthouſe, a very elegant building, in the centre, and the ſtreets, like radii, diverging from thence in different directions. It is 30 miles S. of Baltimore. Lat. 39. 0. N. lon. 77. 20. W.

ANNAPOLIS, a town of Nova Scotia, on the eaſt ſide of Fundy Bay, has one of the fineſt harbours in America, but the entrance is narrow and difficult. Lat. 44. 52. N. lon. 64. 5. W.

Anne's, St. Eſſex, near Chelmsford. Anne's Chapel, St. Devonſ near Barnſtaple. Anne's Hill, St. Surry, near Chertſey.

ANNECY, a town in the dept. of Mont Blanc, ſeated on the river Siaar, and on a lake of the ſame name, about 10 miles long, and 4 broad. It is 20 miles S. of Geneva, and 22 NE. of Chamberry.

ANNENBURG, a caſtle of Courland.

ANNENHOF, an imperial ſeat near Peterſburg, on the banks of the Neva.

Anneſley, Nott. near Sherwood-Foreſt. Anneſley, or Houndſley, Staff. 1 mile from the Dove.

ANNET, one of the Scilly iſles, without inhabitants. On it are ſome druidical remains, and, at low water, the foundations of ruined habitations are viſible, which are ſuppoſed to have been deſtroyed by the ſea.

Anngrove, in Cork, Munſter.

Anniſor, a river in Pembrokeſhire, which runs into the Iriſh Channel at Newport.

Ann Little, Hampſhire, near Wherveł.

ANNOBONA, an iſland near the coaſt o Loango, ſubject to the Portugueſe. It i well ſtocked with cattle and fruit: the ai is healthful, and proviſions are very cheap Lat. 1. 45. N.

ANNONAY, a town in the depart. o Ardeche, ſeated at the confluence of th Cances and Deumes. Very fine paper i manufactured here; and it was in thi place that the two brothers, Montgolfier paper-makers, in 1782, made the diſco very of air balloons. They floated ther with rarefied air, obtained by means of fire ſuſpended beneath them; and balloon of this kind are ſtill called Montgolfier in honour of the inventors, and to diſtin guiſh them from thoſe that are filled wit gas, or inflammable air: both kinds hav burſt, and the individuals been killed b the fall. Annonay is 12 miles SW. of V enne. Lat. 45. 15. N. lon. 4. 55. E.

ANNONE, a fort of Montſerrat.

ANO-CAPRI, the largeſt town in th iſland of Capri. It is ſubject to Naple Anowthan, Cornw. near St. Ives.

ANSEDE, a diſtrict of Entre Douro Minho.

ANIKAN, a town of Africa, on th Gold Coaſt, where both the Engliſh an Portugueſe have a factory and fort.

ANSLOE, or OPSLOE. See CHRISTIANIA.

ANSPACH, or ONOLZBACH, a princi pality and town of Franconia; the coun try, which is beautifully interſperſed wit woods, produces corn and tobacco. Her are alſo ſeveral iron mines and medicina ſprings. In the town, ſome valuable ma nufactures are carried on, and in the pa lace there is a very fine cabinet of curioſ ties. It is ſeated on the river Anſpach 25 miles SW. of Nuremburg. Lat. 49 20. N. lon. 10. 47. E.

Anſtel, Cornwall, between Bodmin an Grampound. Anſtey, Leiceſ. near Groby Anſtey, Warw. near Coventry. Anſte Hants, near Alton. Anſtey, Suſſex, nea Lewes.

ANSTRUTHER, a town on the SE coaſt of the ſhire of Fife, which annuall employs, in commerce, 20 ſmall veſſels, t the amount of about 1172 tons. In th ſeaſon, the tradeſmen and mariners fit ou 4 large boats for the herring fiſhery: 2 miles NE. of Edinburgh. Lat. 56. 15. N lon. 2. 34. W.

Anſty, Wiltſhire, near Wardour-Caſtle Anſty, Devonſ. near South Moulton.

ANTEN, or HANTA, a country o Guinea, about 30 miles in length.

ANTEQUIERA, a handſome and popu lous city of Granada, ſuppoſed to be th

Singilia of Pliny, and the Antiquaria of Antoninus's Itinerary. The upper part of the town is ſeated on a hill, and has a caſtle: the lower ſtands in a fertile plain, and is watered by a great number of brooks. Some rocks near this town have a very romantic appearance, and, in pits of the mountain, when the water is evaporated by the heat of the ſun, conſiderable quantities of ſalt are obtained. Here are ſtill to be ſeen the mines, whence the Romans drew ſuch immenſe quantities of precious metals. It is 26 miles NW. of Malaga. Lat. 37. 1. N. lon. 4. 40. W.

ANTEQUIERA. See GUAXACA.

Anter Cheſter, Northumb. near Learmouth. Anthony, E. and W. Cornw. near Saltaſh. It has a fiſh-pond which lets in the ſea, and furniſhes the inhabitants with fiſh. There are two other villages called Anthony, the one E. the other W. of Falmouth. Anthony, Somerſetſ. 8 miles from Somerton. Anthony, St. in Meney, Cornw. near Helſton-Downs.

ANTIBARI. See ANTIVARI.

ANTIBES, a ſea-port in the dept. of Var, with a caſtle, and a harbour only capable of receiving ſmall veſſels. It is ſeated on the Mediterranean, 9 miles SW. of Nice. Lat. 43. 35. N. lon. 7. 13. E.

ANTICOSTE, a ſandy, barren iſland, in the mouth of the river St. Lawrence, about 80 miles in length, and 20 in the middle, where wideſt. Lat. about 49. to 50 N. lon. from 61 30. to 64. 12. W.

Anticarbridge, in Antrim, Ulſter.

ANTIGUA, one of the Engliſh Carribee iſlands, about 20 miles in length, and nearly the ſame in breadth. The inhabitants, from the want of ſprings, are obliged to ſave the rain-water in ciſterns, and to fetch it from the other iſlands. It is very rocky, but has excellent harbours, contains about 60,000 acres, 6 towns and villages, 6000 whites, and 3600 negroes. The chief produce is ſugar, of which there is annually 16,000 hogſheads produced. The capital, St. John's, has a royal navy yard and arſenal, with conveniencies for careening ſhips of war. It is 60 miles SE. of St. Chriſtopher's. Lat. 17. 5. N. lon. 62. 5. W.

ANTILLES, the name the French give to the Carribees. See INDIES WEST.

Antingham, Norf. near Reppis.

ANTIO, or ANZIO, a promontory of Campagna di Roma, in the pope's territories, in the Mediterranean, near which is a harbour. It takes it's name from the ancient city Antium, the ruins of which extend over a long tract of land.

ANTIOCO, a ſmall iſland near Sardinia. Lat. 41. N. lon. 9. E.

ANTIOCH, now ANTHAKIA, an ancient and celebrated, but now ruinous city of Syria, where the diſciples of Jeſus firſt received the name of Chriſtians. It's ruins are yet magnificent; they ſtretch along the river Orontes, now Aſſi, 15 miles E. of the Mediterranean, and 40 SW. of Aleppo. Lat. 35. 17. N. lon. 36. 45. E.

ANTIOCHETTA, a ſmall town in Caramania, on the ſea-coaſt.

ANTIPACHSU. See PACHSU.

ANTIPAROS, the ancient Oliaros, an iſland of the Archipelago, 2 miles W. of Paros, in which there is a ſurpriſing natural grotto, 40 fathoms high and 50 broad: from the top of it there hang lapideous concretions, in form like grapes, feſtoons, curtains, ſpears, &c. and on the ſides and bottom are petrifactions equally groteſque. Lat. 37. 8. N. lon. 25. 44. E.

ANTIVARI, a town of Turkiſh Albani, ſeated on a rock, in the Adriatic, at the foot of which is the harbour. Lat. 42. 25. N.

ANTIVETRA, a diſtrict of Terra Firma, in S. America, S. of Carthagena.

ANTOINE, ST. a fort of Corunna.

ANTOINE, ST. a town in the dept. of Iſere.

ANTONGIL, a large bay of Madagaſcar, on the E. ſide. Lat, 16. S.

ANTONIO, ST. a ſea-port, and a mountain of Biſcay in Spain; alſo a town of Cuba; a town of Braſil; and a bay or harbour of Jamaica.

ANTONIO, ST. one of the Cape de Verd iſlands, the moſt northerly, about 15 miles from St. Vincent. It is well watered and very fruitful, having about 500 inhabitants, chiefly negroes. The principal town ſtands among the mountains, which are high. Lat. 17. 0. N. lon. 24. 40. W.

ANTONOWOKOI GORKA, a convent of Novogorod.

ANTRIM, a county of Uiſter, bounded on the N. and E. by the ſea, on the S. by the county of Down, and on the W. by the counties of Londonderry and Tyrone. The country is pretty fruitful, and the linen manufacture is carried on here very extenſively, to the ſuppoſed amount of £263,000 annually. The inhabitants are computed at 160,000, and the number of houſes at 21,922. The principal river is the Bann.

*ANTRIM, the capital of the country is a ſmall trading town, ſituated at the NE. end of Lough Neagh, 13 miles W. of Carrickfergus, and about 84 miles N. of Dublin.

Antrobus, Cheſh. near Bucklow. Antron, Cornw. near Helſton-Downs.

ANTWERP, a large, handſome city of Brabant, with a ſtrong citadel, ſeated on the Scheldt. About 200 years ago it was the greateſt place for trade in Europe; but the civil wars, that were the conſequence of the tyranny of Philip II. diminiſhed that commerce, which was almoſt annihilated in 1648, when, by the treaty of Munſter, between Spain and the United Provinces, the navigation of the Scheldt to large ſhips, was ſhut. Upon the Seven United States of Holland being thus declared a free ſtate, and the navigation of the Scheldt yielded to them, the Dutch built forts upon the river, to hinder all ſhips from coming up, except ſuch as paid them cuſtom, and after that time the trade was principally removed from Antwerp to Amſterdam, till then an inconſiderable town; but by the late revolutions, all theſe reſtrictions are done away. The ſtreets of Antwerp are large and regular, in number 212, beſides which are 22 public ſquares: the harbour is very commodious, the river being 400 yards wide, and, at the time of high water 22 feet deep; ſo that large veſſels may come up to the quay; and, by the canals from the river, to the doors of the houſes. The public buildings are very handſome, and, at leaſt, 200 in number. The exchange coſt 300,000 crowns. From this building Sir Thomas Greſham took the model of the Royal Exchange, in London, as did the burghers of Amſterdam that of theirs. The town-houſe is a grand piece of architecture, and ſtands in the great market place. The houſe of the Hanſe towns, built for the accommodation of the Oofterlingen, or eaſtern merchants from the Baltic, is a ſquare building of ſtone. In the middle ſtory, which has a gallery quite round the ſquare, there are 300 lodging rooms: the cellars ſerve for ſtables. It is 24 miles N. of Bruſſels, 22 NE. of Ghent, and 65 S. of Amſterdam.

ANWICK. See ALNEWICK.

Anwick, a pariſh of Lincolnſhire.

ANXI, a town of Baſilicata, Naples.

Any, 12 miles SE. of Limerick, Munſter.

ANZERMA, a town and province of Popayan, on the river Coca, in S. America, where there are mines of gold. Lat. 4. 58. N. lon. 75. 25. W.

ANZICO, or MACOKO, a kingdom of Lower Guinea, the country of the Jagas, divided from Congo by the river Zaira. The inhabitants are ſtrong, nimble, and very intrepid; they are deſcribed as cannibals, publicly expoſing human fleſh on their ſhambles for ſale. They do not till the ground, but, like the Arabs, wander from place to place. The pay ſome reverence to the ſun and moon, and have other idols: and they carry off ſlaves, to barter at Angola for the commodities of Europe.

AONIA, the hilly part of Bœotia, in ancient Greece, in which was Mount Helicon.

AOSTA, a town and diſtrict of Piedmont. Here are ſeveral antiquities of the Romans, who, under their general, Terentius Varro, reduced it's ancient and hardy inhabitants, the Salaſſi, a people of Celtic extraction. It is ſeated at the foot of the Alps, on the river Doria, 50 miles NW. of Turin. Lat. 45. 43. N. lon. 7. 30. E. The valley of Aoſta is 30 miles in length, and abounds in paſtures and all ſorts of fruits. The preſent inhabitants have moſtly the krope, or ſwoln throats, and are accounted the moſt ſimple people among all the Piedmonteſe.

APACHES, or APACI, Indians of New Mexico, who live under the government of their own cacique, and have ſeveral ſtrong holds in the mountains.

APAFALVA, a village of Tranſylvania.

APALACHTY COLA, a town and harbour; APALACHE, a river; and APALACHES, a nation of Indians, in E. Florida.

APALACHIAN. See ALLEGANY.

APAMEA, or AMAN, a city of Syria, on the river Orontes, ſtill populous, though it has loſt much of it's former ſplendor. It was governed by it's own kings, till the coming of Pompey into Syria: near it, Zenobia, queen of Palmyra, was overthrown by the Emperor Aurelius, who led her in triumph, at Rome, ſo overloaded with jewels, that ſhe ſunk under the weight of them.

APANORMIA, a town of Santorin, an iſland in the ſea of Candia. It has a ſpacious harbour in the form of a half-moon; but ſo deep, that ſhips cannot anchor there. Lat. 36. 18. N. lon. 25. 59. E.

APANTA, and APARIA, provinces of S. America, near the Amazon river.

APEE, one of the New Hebrides, in the S. Sea. Lat. 16. 46. S. lon. 168. 32. E.

Apedale, Staffordſ. near Stone; noted for it's coarſe iron ore, which, mixed with others of a better ſort, is uſed for two-penny nails, and ſheeting nails for ſhips.

Apeley, Devonſ. near Barnſtaple.

APENNINES, a chain of mountains which divides Italy through it's whole length, from Genoa to Calabria, and generally gives riſe to the ſeveral brooks and rivers which water that fertile country.

It

It takes different names, however, in different ſtates.

APENRADE. See ABENRADE.

APENZEL, a canton of Swiſſerland, ſurrounded by the Rhinthal and the territory of St. Gall. The inhabitants are eſtimated at 50,000. It was received into the Helvetic league in the year 1513, and is divided into 12 communities; 6 of which are Romaniſts, the other 6 Proteſtants. It's capital is APENZEL, a rich, large, and populous city, 40 miles E. of Zurich.

Aperley, Northumb. near Bellingham. Aperley, Durham, W. of Chopwell. Aperſide, Yorkſ. N. Riding, near Middleham. Apeſ reſs, Glouc. near Wickware. Apeſley, Bedfordſ. near Woburn. Apethorp, Northamp. 4 miles from Oundle. Apeton, Staff. near Church-Eaton and the river Penk. Apewood, Staff. NW. of Kinver.

APHGASI. See ABKHAS.

APHION, APHIUM, or APPIOM KARAHISSART, a city of Natolia, formerly the patrimony of Othman, the founder of the Turkiſh empire. It has it's name from the great quantity of opium (by the Turks called aphium) produced here. Lat. 38. 35. N. lon. 31. 48. E.

Apiscomb, Somerſetſ. near Caſtle-Cary. Apleton, Durham, near Sherborn. Aplby, Lincolnſ. near Market-Raiſin. Apley, Shropſ. near Bridgenorth. Apley, Shropſ. near Wellington.

APOLLONIA, a town of Albania; another in Macedonia; another in Thrace, now in ruins; a fourth in Barca, with a capacious harbour, called, by the Arabs, Bonandrea; a fifth by the ſea-ſide, in Natolia, thought to be the Aſſos mentioned in the Acts of the Apoſtles; with ſeveral other of leſs note; alſo a promontory of Greece.

Appiles, Herts, near Hitching. Apperley, Glouc. in Deerhurſt pariſh.

APPENZEL. See APENZEL.

APPERSHOVEN, a village of Suabia, about 4 miles SSE. of Blenheim.

APPIAN-WAY, an ancient paved highway of Italy. It began within the city of Rome, at the places where Conſtantine's triumphal arch is erected. The firſt projector of it, Appius Claudius Cæcus, at an immenſe expence, from the public treaſury, carried it as far as Capua; Julius Cæſar, from Capua to Beneventum; and Auguſtus thence to Brundufium. The Appian-Way, a great part of which remains entire to this day, was above 300 miles in length, and about 15 feet in breadth. Caius Gracchus placed ſtones along it, called cippi, for travellers to ſit and reſt on, and riders to mount at, who, in thoſe days, had no ſtirrups; alſo mile-ſtones, called miliaria, or lapides.

*APPLEBY, the aſſize-town of Weſtmorland, pleaſantly ſeated on the river Eden, by which it is almoſt ſurrounded. It was formerly a Roman ſtation, named Aballaba; and, from the old Engliſh ſtatutes, it appears, that parliaments have been holden here. It is 10 miles SE. of Penrith, and 266 NW. of London. Market on Monday.

Appleby, Lincolnſ. between Glandford-bridge and Burton-upon-Trent. Appleby, Magna and Parva, Leiceſ. near Normanton. Appleby, Derbyſ. between Burton-upon-Trent and Aſhby-de-la-Zouch. Appleby-Street, near Hertford. Appledore, Devonſ. on the coaſt, the firſt harbour within the bar of Barnſtaple. Appledore, Kent, near Tenderden. Appledore-Comb, Iſle of Wight. Appledrum, Suſſex, between Chicheſter and Thorney-Iſland. Appleford, Berks, near Abingdon. Applegarth, Foreſt of, Yorkſ. N. Riding, in Richmond diſtrict. Appleſhaw, Hants, 4 miles from Andover. Applethwaite, Weſtmor, near Winandermere Lake. Appleton Nun, between Selby and York. Appleton, Berks, near Abingdon. Appleton, Cheſhire, near Warrington. Appleton, Lancaſ. near Preſcot. Appleton, Norfolk, N. of Flitcham. Appleton, Yorkſ. near Tadcaſter. Appleton, Yorkſ. 5 miles S. of Yarum. Appleton, Yorkſ. N. Riding, near Rydel. Appleton, E. and W. Yorkſ. near Bedal. Appletree-Wick, Yorkſ. near Skipton. Apſe, Iſle of Wight, near Medina. Apſley, Suſſex, near Bramber.

APT, an ancient town in the depart. of the mouths of the Rhone. It's commerce conſiſts in prunes, coarſe ſerges, and wax-chandlery, for which laſt there is a great demand. Here are many fine Roman antiquities. It is ſituated on the river Calavon, 20 miles N. of Aix, and 25 SE. of Orange. Lat. 43. 51. N. lon. 5. 30. E.

Apton-Combe, Iſle of Wight, near Medina.

APUEIS, an Indian nation of Braſil.

APULIA. See PUGLIA, LA.

APURIMA, or APORAMAC, a rapid river of Peru in S. America.

APURWAÇA, a river of Guiana.

AQUA-NEGRA, two towns of Italy, one in the Mantuan, and another in the Cremoneſe.

AQUILA, a large, handſome town of Naples, capital of Abruzzo Ultra. Lat. 42. 20. N. lon. 13. 39. E.

AQUILAR-DEL-CAMPO, a ſmall town of Old Caſtile.

Aquilate,

Aquilate, Staffordſhire, near Newport.

AQUILEA, or AQUILEIA, a town of Friuli in Italy, formerly rich and flouriſhing, but now decayed. It was taken and ſacked by Attila, in 452. Lat. 46. 0. N. lon. 13. 8. E.

AQUINO, a town of Terra di Lavora, Naples, conſiſting of only 35 houſes. It lies 30 miles NW. of Capua.

AQUITAINE. See GUIENNE.

ARA, a river of Spain, which joins the Cinca at Ainſa, in Arragon.

ARABIA, a country of Aſia, on the SW. It may be accounted a peninſula, being joined on the N. to Syria; bounded on the NE. by the river Euphrates, which divides it from Diarbeck, or Diarbekar, the ancient Meſopotamia; on the E. by the Gulfs of Perſia and Ormus; on the S. by the Indian Ocean; and on the W. by the Red Sea, which ſeparates it from Africa. It lies between 12 and 32 degrees N. latitude, and between 35 and nearly 60 E. lon. extending 1430 miles in length, and 1200 in breadth. It is divided, by Europeans, into Petrea, Deſerta, and Felix; or the Stony, the Deſert, and the Happy; but, by the Arabians themſelves, into 6 provinces, viz. Hedjas, Yemen, Hadramaut, Oman, Lachſa or Hadsjar, and Nedsjid. Arabia Petrea is the ſmalleſt of the three, and towards the N. very mountainous, having few inhabitants becauſe of it's barrenneſs. This is the wilderneſs through which the children of Iſrael paſſed, in their journeying from Egypt to Canaan. In Arabia Deſerta, the plains of ſand are ſo immenſe, that travellers, in croſſing them, are obliged to make uſe of the mariner's compaſs, as if at ſea; and the tempeſts are not leſs terrible here than on the ocean. The air is exceſſively hot; ſprings or ſtreams are ſcarcely to be met with: a peſtilential vapour ſometimes paſſes along, which inſtantly kills thoſe who happen to inhale it; and when the wind riſes high, the deſert aſſumes the appearance of the moſt rough and tempeſtuous ſea. The ſand is lifted from it's bed by the force of the winds, and driven along like waves, clouds, and rain; every thing that falls in it's way is overwhelmed, and whole caravans of travellers, with their horſes and camels, find one common grave in the deluge of ſand. "In the general aſpect of this deſert region," ſays a modern traveller, "which is that of a vaſt plain, terminated on all ſides by the horizon, the eye ſeeks in vain for ſome intervening object to reſt upon; and after flitting over a diſmal waſte of ſand, or ſcorched brambles it returns to enjoy relaxation in the herds, and other property, with which the Arabian is ſurrounded. A deep and diſmal ſilence reigns over this heavy landſcape no beaſt, no bird, no inſect, is ſeen to diverſify the ſad uniformity of the ſcene. M. de Pagés obſerves that, in traverſing the whole extent of Arabia Deſerta, he ſaw "only 4 rabbits, 5 or 6 rats, 3 large and 7 or 8 ſmall birds." "Here, indeed all our ideas of deſerts, as found in the poetical language of oriental tales, fall ſhort of the truth! A ſtillneſs, like the ſilence of night, the faint remains of a breeze, ſtill glowing with the fervour of the meridian ſun, but ſinking with his orb: an unbounded waſte, covered with dark, grey ſand, reſembling the aſhes of a furnace, and according with the raging heat of thoſe regions; above, the vaſt canopy of heaven, acroſs whoſe pale atmoſphere no other object is ſeen, but the reddiſh diſk of the ſun dipt in the horizon, are circumſtances which conſpire to impreſs the mind of a ſpectator with an unpleaſing melancholy." Along the banks of the Euphrates, however, where the land is fertilized, there are great flocks of ſheep, and large herds of cattle and camels. Oſtriches, alſo, are found there in great numbers. The produce of Arabia Felix, which is, by far, the moſt conſiderable of the three provinces, is myrrh, aloes, caſſia, frankincenſe, ſpikenard, manna, and other coſtly gums; cinnamon, dates, oranges, lemons, pomegranates, figs, and other fruits; honey and wax in plenty; and immenſe quantities of coffee. In a country ſo various, and of ſuch extent, we may expect the manners of the inhabitants to vary. Thoſe in the fertile parts have long been domeſticated; to them we are indebted for many valuable diſcoveries; they have been our preceptors in chemiſtry and mathematical ſcience; they firſt introduced into Europe the invention of the ten arithmetical figures, and taught us their uſe. On the other hand, the Arabs in the Deſert have no houſes, but tents; they lead wandering lives, removing from place to place, partly for the ſake of paſture, and partly to lie in wait for the caravans, which they often rob, as they travel over the Deſert from Buſſorah to Aleppo, and from Egypt to Mecca, the place of Mahomet's nativity.

ARACAN, or RECCAN, a fertile, but not a populous, country of Aſia, on the NE. coaſt of the Bay of Bengal, having Meckley, on the N. and Burmah on the E. It is governed by 12 princes, ſubject to the chief king, who reſides in his capital, called alſo Aracan, a city about as large as

as Amſterdam; through which the large and beautiful river, Chaberis or Aracan, glides in many ſtreams. Lat. 20. 38. N. lon. 93. E. His palace is very large, and contains, it is ſaid, 7 idols of caſt gold, two inches thick, each of a man's height and covered with diamonds, rubies, and other precious ſtones; and, in his ſtables, he has horſes, elephants, lions, tigers, &c. They have only two ſeaſons, the rainy and the fair; the rainy ſeaſon is, while the ſun is on the N. ſide of the line, or during our ſpring and ſummer months; the reſt of the year is their ſummer. Elephants, buffaloes, and tigers are numerous here. The articles of commerce are, timber, lead, tin, and elephants' teeth; and ſometimes traders meet with diamonds, rubies, and other precious ſtones. The inhabitants are idolatrous; polygamy is permitted among them: admiring broad and flat foreheads, they bind leaden plates on their children's foreheads, as ſoon as they are born, and accounting long ears as a beauty, they ſo load them with rings, as to make them at laſt hang down to their ſhoulders.

ARAD, a country and a town of Hungary, 14 miles N. of Temeſwar.

ARAFAT, a mountain of Arabia, near Mecca, where great numbers of Muſſulmen reſort annually, having a tradition that Abraham offered to ſacrifice Iſhmael there.

Araguiſs, Northumb. near Morpeth.

ARAGUA, a town of Cumana, in Terra Firma.

ARAL, or ARAT, a lake of Aſia, 200 miles E. of the Caſpian Sea, into which many rivers are now found to run, which were formerly thought to diſcharge themſelves into the latter. It is about 250 miles long, and in ſome places 150 broad. It lies between 42 and 47 degrees N. lat. and between 58 and 62 E. lon.

ARANDA DE DUERO, a town of Old Caſtile, 42 miles SE. of Valladolid.

ARANIAS, a river of Tranſylvania.

ARANJUEZ, a town and palace of the king of Spain, remarkable for it's grand and elegant gardens, reckoned the moſt delightful in the world, with a public walk, 4 miles long, that croſſes the Tajo twice before it loſes itſelf in the thickets. It is ſituated in New Caſtile, 25 miles S. of Madrid.

ARANYAS-SZEK, ARANYOS-MAROTH, ARANYOS-MEDGYES, and ARANY-VAR, 4 villages in Hungary.

ARARAT, the name anciently given to part of Mount Caucaſus, in Armenia, between the Black and Caſpian Seas, where Noah's ark is ſuppoſed to have reſted after the flood. It is 60 miles S. of Erivan.

ARARI, a river of Braſil.

ARAS, ARASSOW, or ARAXES, a river of Armenia, which, after running SE. acroſs that country and part of Perſia, fall, into the river Kur, or Cyrus.

ARASSI, a maritime town of Genoa.

ARASTH, or ARRAIS, a maritime town of Fez, on the river Lucar, where it falls into the Atlantic.

ARAVA, a fortreſs of Upper Hungary.

ARAUCO, a fortreſs and town of Chili, ſeated in a fine valley, and on a river of the ſame name. The natives of it, after 100 years war, though deſtitute of fire-arms, drove the Spaniards out of it; but in 1650, concluded a peace with them. Lat. 30. 30. S. lon. 73. 20. W.

ARAW. See AARAW.

ARAYA, a cape of S. America, forming the N. point of the Oronoque. Here are ſalt pits, from which the Dutch uſed freely to ſupply themſelves, till the year 1605, when their ſhips were unexpectedly deſtroyed by the Spaniards, who, in 1622. built a fort there.

Arbago, in Weſtmorland, furniſhes a vaſt quantity of iron ore.

ARBA, a town and iſland lately of Venice, on the coaſt of Dalmatia.

ARBELA. See IRBIL.

Arbella, in Kerry, Munſter, near the ruins of Ballycarthy Caſtle, 138 miles from Dublin.

ARBERG, a town on the river Aar, in the canton of Berne. It ſtands on a rock, out of which there is cut a fort, 27 miles S. of Baſle; alſo another town of Berne, 12 miles NW. of the city of that name.

ARBES, a city of Tunis, in a beautiful plain, watered by many fine ſprings. It is two days journey S. of Bona; here are ſeveral Roman antiquities and inſcriptions to be met with.

Arbirlot, a village and pariſh of Forfar.

Arbiſtock, a pariſh of Denbighſhire.

ARBOGA, or ABROGA, a neat, inland town of Weſtmanland, on the river Storae, which a little lower falls into Maeler lake. It is 56 miles W. of Stockholm.

ARBOIS, a ſmall, populous town in the dept. of Jura, celebrated for it's white wines. It is 22 miles SW. of Beſançon. Lat. 46. 55. N. lon. 5. 40. E.

ARBON, an ancient town of Swiſſerland, in the Turgow, on the S. ſide of the lake of Conſtance, with a caſtle built by the Romans. It is 12 miles SE. of Conſtance. Lat. 47. 30. N. lon. 9. 30. E.

ARBROATH, See ABERBROTHWICK.

Arbury, near Cambridge. Arbury-Banks, Herts, near Aſhwell, Arbury, Warwickſhire, near Nuneaton.

ARBURTHIE, a diſtrict in the ſhire of Kincardin, or Mearns, Scotland.

ARC, a river of the dept. of Mt. Blanc, which, in tumbling along it's rocky courſe, before it joins the Iſere, forms many remarkable waterfalls.

ARCADIA. See TRACONIA.

ARCADIA, a ſea-port of the Morea, near the gulf of the ſame name. It is nearly oppoſite to the Iſle of Zante, 64 miles SW. of Corinth, and 22 N. of Navarin. Lat. 37. 24. N. lon. 21. 42. E.

ARCAHAYE, or L'ARCAHAYE, a pariſh, plain, or territorial diſtrict, in the French part of St. Domingo, which, tho' one of the ſmalleſt in the colony, embraces a ſpace of about 74 miles in length. In the pariſh are 57 ſugar eſtates, 300 coffee ditto, 4 indigo ditto, and about 100 ſmall places where cotton is cultivated. The ſlaves are computed at 18,090, and the white inhabitants, from 1000 to 1200.

ARCHANGEL, a ſea-port of Ruſſia, ſeated on the Dwina, 4 miles from the White Sea, which is frozen up for three months in the winter, but the reſt of the year is open. The paſſage to it, through the N. Sea, was firſt diſcovered by Capt. Richard Lane, an Engliſhman, in 1553, his ſhip being ſeparated from the fleet of Sir Hugh Willoughby, then on an expedition to diſcover a NE. paſſage to China. Sir Hugh, with 70 men periſhed in Lapland; Lane wintered here. On the Engliſh firſt entering the White Sea, they found a fiſhing boat, the people in which, having never ſeen a ſhip before, fled before them; but, on a nearer approach, fell at their feet, and though they could hardly be perſuaded to ſell any thing without their prince's leave, gave them plenty of victuals for nothing. The Engliſh, from Elizabeth's time, had the excluſive privilege of trading here, and in the other northern ports of Ruſſia, from Wardhus to the river Oby, till the death of Charles I. when the czar was ſo exaſperated at their conduct, that he wholly deprived them of it; and ſince that time it has been open to all nations. The trade here is yet conſiderable, though it is greatly diminiſhed ſince the building of Peterſburg, from which it is diſtant 400 miles NE. Lat. 64. 34. N. lon. 39. 0. E.

ARCHANCEL-GOROD, one of the governments of Ruſſia, comprehending Samoides, Laplanders, &c. It's capital is Archangel.

Archenfield, Herefordſ. Arches, Berks, in E. Hendred pariſh. Archeſter, Northamptonſ. 2 miles from Wellingborough.

ARCHIDONA, a town of Andaluſia.

ARCHIPELAGO, anciently called the Ægean Sea, that part of the Mediterranean which lies between Europe and Aſia, having Macedonia and Romania on the N. Natolia on the E. Livadia and the Morea on the W. and the Iſle of Candia on the S. It contains many large and ſmall iſlands, as Rhodes, Negropont, Lemnos, Tenedos, Scyros, Mytelene, Scio, Samos, Patmos, Paros, Antiparos, Cerigo, Santorin, Andros, Tino, Naxia, Milo, Delos, &c.

ARCHIPELAGO NORTHERN, four principal cluſters of iſlands, between the E. coaſt of Kamtſchatka and the W. coaſt of America. The firſt, called Saſignan, contains 5 iſlands; the ſecond, called Khao, includes 8 iſlands; and both theſe groupes together are ſtyled the Aleuthian Iſlands. The third group is called, the Andreanoffski Oſtrova, and compriſes 16 iſlands. The fourth group, is the Lyſſie Oſtrova, or the Fox Iſlands, alſo 16 in number.

ARCIGOVINA, a duchy of Dalmatia.

ARCIS-SUB-AUBE, a ſmall town on the river, and in the dept. of Aube, 15 miles N. of Troyes.

Arclid, Cheſhire, near Northwich.

ARCO, or ARCH, a town and caſtle in the Trentin, on the river Sarca, near the N. extremity of the Lake de Garda. It is 16 miles SW. of Trent.

Arcole, Shropſ. a hamlet of Pullid, 3 miles SW. of Hinſtock. Arcole, or Arkhul, now High-Ercal, 4 miles from Salop. Arcop, Herefordſhire.

ARCONATO, a town of Milan.

ARCOS, a town of Old Caſtile; and a town of Seville, Andaluſia, on a craggy hill, at the foot of which runs the Guadaleto, 28 miles NE. of Cadiz.

ARCOT, a large city, the capital of the Carnatic, in the peninſula of Hindooſtan. It is ſituated on the river Paliar, 73 miles from Madras, and 217 from Seringapatam. Lat. 12. 30. N. lon. 79. 0. E.

ARCUEIL, a village, 3 miles S. of Paris, remarkable for an aqueduct, which is thought to equal the works of the ancient Romans. It was built in 1624 by Mary de Medicis, and ſupplies the different parts of Paris with water.

Ardagh, in Longford, Leinſter. Ardagh, near Rathkeale, in Limerick, Munſter. Ardaragh, in Donegal, Ulſter. Ardbraccan, a neat village, in Meath, Leinſter, 3 miles W. of Navan, and 25 NW. of Dublin.

Ardbury, or Erdbury, Warwickſhire, near Coventry.

ARDEA, a village of the Campagna di Roma.

Ardeath, in Meath, Leinſter.

ARDEBIL, an ancient town of Adirbeitzan, for ſeveral centuries the reſidence and burial place of the Perſian kings, particularly of Scheich Eider, founder of the Schah ſect. Pilgrims reſort to this place from all parts of Perſia. It is 25 miles E. of Tauris. Lat. 38. 15. N. lon. 48. 20. E.

ARDECHE, a department of France, before the revolution, called the Vivarois. It takes it's name from the river Ardeche, which falls into the Rhone.

ARDEE, or ATHERDEA, a town in the county of Louth, in Leinſter, 34 miles NW. of Dublin. Lat. 53. 54. N. lon. 6. 46. W. Here is a mount, called Caſtle-guard, nearly 90 feet high, apparently a work of art; the depth of the main trench is between 30 and 40, the circumference at the top is not leſs than 140, and round the foundation it is upwards of 600 feet. Some conclude it to have been a ſepulchral monument, and burying-place of ſome of the Iriſh kings; others, that it was a place of aſſembly, for the people to debate on public affairs.

Arden, Yorkſhire, near Thirſk.

ARDENBURG, a town of Dutch Flanders, 10 miles NE. of Bruges.

ARDENNES, a department of France, compriſing the N. part of Champagne. It is ſo named from a famous foreſt, lying on the river Meuſe, extending in Cæſar's time far into Germany; what remains of it at preſent, lies between Thionville and Liege.

Ardenora, Cornw. between Grampound and Leſtwithiel. Ardenſide, Yorkſ. near Arden, abovementioned.

Ardes, a peninſula in the county of Down, in Ulſter, being nearly ſurrounded by the Iriſh Channel and the Bays of Strangford and Carrickfergus. This barony was anciently a county of itſelf, as it appears by a patent roll of Henry I. (A. D. 1400) now in Bermingham's tower, Dublin-caſtle, that the ſaid king granted to Robert Fitzjordan Savage, the office of ſheriff of the Ardes, in Ulſter.

Ardeſley, Yorkſ. near Settle. Ardeſley, E. and W. Yorkſ. near Otley.

Ardfert, in Kerry, Munſter, diſtant from Dublin 144 miles. Ardfinnan, in the county of Cork, Munſter.

ARDGLASS, now a decayed, but once a principal town of Down, in Ulſter. Here is a long range of buildings, in the caſtle ſtyle, called by the inhabitants, the new works, though they have no tradition of it's deſign or uſe. It extends 250 feet in length, in breadth only 24; the thickneſs of the walls is 3 feet: it has three towers in front joined to it, one at each end, and one in the centre, conſtructed on a deſign uniform and elegant. It has been divided into 18 apartments below, and the ſame number above, with a ſtair-caſe in the centre; each apartment on the ground floor had a ſmall Gothic door, and a large ſquare window, which ſeems to denote that they were ſhops or ware-rooms, occupied at ſome very early period, by merchants from foreign parts. Within 10 feet of the S. tower of this building ſtands a ſquare caſtle, called Horn-caſtle, from the great quantity of ox, deer, and cow horns being found about it; it is 40 feet by 30, conſiſts of two ſtories, and from the fire-places and other marks, appears to have been the kitchen and dining hall belonging to the merchants. Here are the remains of ſeveral other caſtles, towers, and gates, and within the NE. point of Ardglaſs harbour, is a very curious and natural cave, with a large entrance on the ſhore. The duties of this port were let to farm, ſo lately as the beginning of the reign of Charles I. It lies 7 miles NE. of Downpatrick.

Ardgroom, a harbour of Kerry, Munſter.

Ardingleigh, Suſſ. near Lewes. Ardington, Berks, N. of Wantage, and near the Vale of White Horſe. Ardingworth, Northamp. near Rothwell. Ardley, Eſſex, near Tendring. Ardley, Oxf. near Biceſter.

ARDMEANAGH, a territory of Roſsſhire.

Ardmillan Spa, in Down, Ulſter, a chalybeate water of Caſtlereagh, on the Lake Strangford. Ardmore, a pariſh of Waterford. Ardmorehead, a noted promontory on the S. coaſt of Ireland, in the county of Waterford, which forms the E. ſide of Youghall Harbour.

ARDRA, or ARDER, a ſmall kingdom and town of the Slave Coaſt, on the E. ſide of the Volta, Upper Guinea. The country is fertile in Indian corn, palm-wine, plants and fruits, which laſt all the year, and the inhabitants make a great deal of ſalt; they live to a great age, but the ſmall pox is very fatal to them. The town of Ardra is in lat. 5. 5. N. lon. 4. 10. E.

Ardrahin, in Galway, Connaught.

ARDRES, a town in the dept. of Puy de Dome; and a ſmall town in the dept. of the Straits of Calais. At this laſt place, Francis I. and Henry VIII. of England had an interview, in 1520, when the two kings and their attendants, diſplayed their wealth and finery with ſuch emulation, that the plain where they met was named, the Field of the Cloth of Gold. Ardres is ſeated in a moraſs 8 miles S. of Calais. Lat. 50. 50. N. lon. 1. 59. E.

Ardroſs, the heights of Roſsſhire.

Ard-

Ardnamurchan, a diſtrict of Argyleſhire.

Ardnaree, in Mayo, Connaught. Ardpatrick in Munſter, 19 miles S. of Limerick.

Ards, NW. of Inverneſs.

Ardſallah, in Roſcommon, Connaught. Ardſallas, in Clare, Munſter. Ardtully, near Callan, in the pariſh of Kilgarwan, in Kerry, Munſter.

Ardwick, Lanc. near Mancheſter. Are; ſee Aire.

AREBATILLO, a river of Old Caſtile, that falls into the Douro.

AREBO, or ARBON, a town of Africa, capital of Benin, 60 miles from the ſea. The Engliſh had once a factory here, as the Dutch have ſtill. Lat. 6. 0. N. lon. 5. 5. E.

ARECA, an iſland in the gulf of Perſia, 9 miles long and 3 wide. It is 3 miles SW. of Ormus.

AREGNO, a diſtrict of Corſica.

AREKEA, a port on the Red Sea, 55 miles from Suaquen. Lat. 15. 40. N. lon. 39. 0. E.

Arelagh, Lanc. near the river Duddon, oppoſite to Millum-caſtle. Areley, or Arnley, Staff. ſtretches above a mile on the Severn. Areley, Cheſh. near Norwich. Areley, Staff. near Seiſdon. Areley Kings, Areley Nether, Worceſ. 6 or 7 miles S. of Bewdley.

AREMBERG, a neat, pleaſant city in the circle of the Lower Rhine, and capital of a duchy of the ſame name. It is ſeated on the river Aer, 22 miles S. of Cologne. Lat. 50. 22. N. lon. 7. 3. E.

AREMORICA, or ARMORICA, a name, in the lower ages, applied ſolely to Bretagne in France; but Cæſar extends it to all the countries between the Loire and the Seine.

Aren, Dorſetſ. on the coaſt, 4 miles E. of Wareham, and 1 from Pool Harbour.

ARENA, a town of Calabria Ultra.

ARENDONK, a town near Antwerp.

ARENS, or ARENSHARDE, a diſtrict of Sleſwick, through which paſſes the famous Danneuaſke, that is, the great wall or rampart, which the Daniſh king, Gotric, about the beginning of the ninth century, built acroſs the country from Hollingſted as far as the Sley, a length of 46 Engliſh miles, as a defence againſt the incurſions of the Saxons and Sclavi. The people of this diſtrict were the firſt in the country who profeſſed Chriſtianity, and their church, built in the year 826, was often demoliſhed by thoſe who turned again to idolatry.

ARENSBERG, a town and county of Weſtphalia, ſubject to the elector of Colonge. The former is ſeated on the Roer, 50 miles NE. of Cologne: alſo, another town of Schauenberg, Weſtphalia.

ARENSBURG, a ſea-port town of Ruſſia, in Livonia, in the Iſle of Oeſel, on the Baltic. Lat. 58. 15. N. lon. 25. 40. E.

ARENTIM, in Entre Douro e Minho.

ARENSWALDE, a town in the New Marche of Brandenburg, on the frontiers of Pomerania. Lat. 53. 13. N. lon. 15. 32. E.

AREQUIPA, a populous city of Peru, ſeated on a river, in a fertile country, or diſtrict, of the ſame name, 290 miles S. by E. of Lima. The air is very temperate; but near it there is a dreadful volcano. Lat. 16. 40. S. lon. 72. 30. W.

ARES. See ARAS.

Arey-beck, Weſtmor. near Gowburrow-Park, on the borders of Cumberland.

AREZZO, or AREZZA, an ancient town of Tuſcany, on a mountain. It is 34 miles SE. of Florence. Lat. 43. 27. N. lon. 12. 0. E.

ARGA, a river of Spain, which waters Navarre, and falls into the Ebro.

ARGAN, a town of New Caſtile.

ARGANIL, a town of Beira.

ARGENCES, a town in the dept. of Calvados, on the river Meauce, 10 miles E. of Caen. Lat. 49. 12. N. lon. 0. 2. W.

ARGENTA, a river of Albania, which runs into the Adriatic, 6 miles N. of Durazzo.

ARGENTAN, a town in the dept. of Orne. It's trade conſiſts of corn, fine linen, lawns, gauze, and other thin cloths, hats, and tanned leather. It is ſeated on an eminence, in the middle of a fertile plain, on the banks of the Orne, 12 miles NW. of Seez, and 110 W. of Paris. Lat. 48. 45. N. lon. 0. 5. E.

ARGENTARO, MONTE, a cape and promontory on the coaſt of Tuſcany, about 12 miles S. of Orbitello; it juts out into the ſea, in the form of a peninſula, and is a ſerviceable landmark.

ARGENTEUIL, a town in the dept. of the Seine and Oiſe, 8 miles NW. of Paris. It is a very beautiful place, with fine vineyards; and in the environs, they have quarries of plaiſter of Paris; alſo a town in the dept. of the Yonne.

ARGENTIERA, a barren iſland of the Archipelago, about 18 miles in circumference. It's name is taken from the ſilver mines in it. It's inhabitants are Greeks, but there is only one village in the iſland. Lat. 37. 10. N. lon. 25. 10. E.

ARGENTIERE, L', a town in the dept. of the Upper Alps.

ARGENTINA, a town in the dept. of Mont Blanc; and a town of Calabria Citra.

ARGENTON, a town in the dept. of the the Indre, divided into two by the river Creuſe. It is 37 miles SW. of Bourges, and 62 SE. of Poitiers. Lat. 46. 35. N. lon. 1. 38. E.

Argholme, Lancaſ. near Cartmel.

ARGOL, a town in the dept. of Finiſterre.

ARGOS, a ſea-port in the Morea, on a bay, 25 miles SW. of Corinth. Lat. 37. 30. N. lon. 23. 5. E.

ARGOSTOLI, a ſea-port town of Cefalonia, the beſt in the iſland.

ARGOW, a diſtrict of Switzerland, on the river Aar, including a conſiderable part of Berne.

ARGUIN, a rocky iſland on the coaſt of Negroland, 30 miles SE. of Cape Blanco. It has been ſucceſſively in the hands of the Portugueſe, Dutch, Engliſh, and French; which laſt, in 1678, demoliſhed the fortreſs which the Portugueſe had built: ſince that time, the Dutch have begun to ſettle there again. Lat. 20. 30. N. lon. 17. 20. W.

ARGUN, ORGON, ORKON, or ARGUNSKOI, a town of E. Tartary, on a river of the ſame name, which ſeparates the Tartar and Ruſſian dominions in that part, and falls into the Amur, in lat. 53 N. lon. 121. E. There are mines of ſilver and lead near it, and a pearl fiſhery in the river. Lat. 50. 50. N. lon. 120. E.

ARGYLESHIRE, or INVERARY, a county of Scotland, bounded on the N. by Inverneſsſhire, on the E. by the counties of Perth and Dumbarton, on the S. and W. by the Atlantic Ocean, by which it is broken into iſlands and peninſulas, with bays and inlets, which afford good harbours for ſhipping; and the country is well watered with rivers and lakes, which yield abundance of fiſh. It is not quite 100 miles long, from the Mull of Cantyre to it's NE. extremity; it's breadth is unequal, about 30 miles where greateſt, and in ſome parts only 1 or 2. To the NW. is a peninſula, detached from the reſt of the county; it contains the diſtricts of Ardnamurchan, Morven, Sunart, and Ardgowar; the two laſt remarkable for numerous veins of lead, which, however, are not very productive. The peninſulas of Cantyre and Cowall, are likewiſe very large. A great part of the country abounds with rocks, frightful precipices, and ſtupendous mountains, apparently piled one upon another; yet, even in the high grounds, the ſoil, though little fitted for cultivation, affords excellent paſture.

ARHUSEN. See ARHUUS.

ARIANO, a town of Principato Citra, 15 miles E. of Benevento, and 10 NW. of Trevico. Lat. 41. 8. N. lon. 15. 19. E.

ARIANO, a town in the pope's territories, on a branch of the river Po, 22 miles NE. of Ferrara. Lat. 45. 0. N. lon. 12. 8. E.

ARICA, a ſea-port of Peru, almoſt deſtroyed by an earthquake, in 1605. It ſcarcely ever rains here; and many farms are employed in the cultivation of Guinea pepper, in which they have a good trade to Lima, from which it is 550 miles SE. Here they uſed to ſhip the treaſure which was brought from Potoſi, from which it is 270 miles W. but it has now, for many years, been carried overland to Lima. Near it is a mountain of rock ſalt.

ARIPO, or ARINO, a town on the W. coaſt of Ceylon, at the mouth of the river Sarunda, ſubject to the Dutch. To the E. of it is a pearl-fiſhery. Lat. 8. 42. N. lon. 25. 80. E.

Ark, a river in Yorkſ. which falls into the Swale near Grinton. Arkendale, Yorkſ. in the pariſh of Knareſborough. Arkendale, Yorkſhire, near Applegarth-Foreſt. Arkeſden, Eſſex, near Newport. Arkley, Yorkſ. between Richmond and Weſtmorland.

ARKLOW, a neat market town and ſea-port of the county of Wicklow, with a harbour for ſmall veſſels. The tide flows very little here. It is 13 miles S. of Wicklow, and 26 of Dublin.

Arkſey, Yorkſ. 5 miles N. of Doncaſter. Arkſton, Herefordſ. between Druxton and Kingſton. Alladon, Cumb. near Whitehaven. Arle, Glouc. 1 mile from Cheltenham, where is a remarkable ſpring.

ARLES, a large, handſome, and ancient city, in the dept. of the Mouths of the Rhone. The adjacent country is very pleaſant, and produces good wine, manna, oil, fruits, and vermilion, and the air is excellent, yet the city is not populous. Conſtantine, the Roman emperor, took great delight in this place, and made it the ſeat of the empire in Gaul; and here are ſome remains of their antiquities, of which the amphitheatre and obeliſk are the moſt remarkable. It is ſeated on the Rhone, 12 miles SE. of Niſmes, 35 NW. of Marſeilles, and 430 S. by E. of Paris. Lat. 43. 41. N. lon. 4. 43. E.

Arleſcote, Warw. under Edgehill. Arleſley, Bedfordſhire, near Shefford.

ARLESHEIM, a town of Baſil, Switzerland, 13 miles S. of the city of Baſil.

Arleſton, Derbyſ. between Barrow and Findern. Arley, War. W. of Nuneaton, Arlingham, Glouc. near Berkeley, peninſulated by the Severn, which is here a mile in breadth. It's exhalations are thought to render the air unwholeſome; the paſſage over it is near this place. Arlingham, near Glouceſter.

Glouceſter. Arlington, Suſſex, near Pevenſey. Arlington, Bedf. between Harlington and Shepeſton. Arlington, Glouceſ. near Bybury. Arliſcot, Shropſ. near Ford.

ARLON, an ancient town of Luxemburg, now diſmantled. It is ſeated on a mountain, near the ſource of the river Semoy, 10 miles NW. of the city of Luxemburg.

Arlſey, Yorkſ. N. of Doncaſter.

ARMADABAD. See AMADABAT.

ARMAGH, a county of Ireland, in the province of Ulſter, bounded on the W. by Tyrone and Monaghan; on the N. by Tyrone and Lough Neagh; on the E. by Down; and on the S. and SE. by Louth and Monaghan. It's ſoil is rich and well cultivated; the ridge of mountains, called the Fewes, excepted, which runs acroſs it. It is a great linen county, it's trade therein being eſtimated at 291,900l. annually. The inhabitants are about 120,000, and it contains 21,983 houſes.

*ARMAGH, the county-town, where the aſſizes are held, and the ſee of an archbiſhop, who is primate of all Ireland. Here is a noble ſchool, a royal foundation; alſo a public library, and an obſervatory, endowed with a liberal income for an aſtronomer. It is about 30 miles SE. of Londonderry, and 63 N. of Dublin. Lat. 54. 27. N. lon. 6. 57. W.

Armaghbregah, in Meath, Leinſter.

ARMAGNAC, a ci-devant province of Guienne, in France, having Languedoc on the E. and Gaſcony on the W. it now forms part of the department of Gers.

ARMAMAR, a town of Beira.

Armanthwaite, Cumb. near the river Eden, between Kirk-Oſwald and Corby-caſtle. Armanthwaite, Yorkſ. near Danby. Armanthwaite, Cumb. adjoining Outebridge, at the foot of Baſſingthwaite-water. It commands a delightful proſpect of that beautiful lake, of the romantic hills of Withop on the right, and the towering Skiddaw on the left; and the diſtant hills of Borrodale, or Keſwick, terminate the view. Armeboth, Cumb. near the river Thurlemyre, and Legburth-water. Armed Knight, Cornwall, a rock at the Land's-End.

ARMENIA, a large, healthy, and very fertile country in Aſia, watered by ſeveral large rivers. It is bounded on the W. by the Euphrates; on the N. by Georgia; on the E. by Schirvan and Ghilan; and on the S. by Aderbeitzan, Curdiſtan, Diarbeker, and Ghilan. It was formerly governed by it's own kings, but the Turks and Perſians hold poſſeſſion of it at preſent. That part of it which is ſubject to the Perſians, is called Upper, Grand, or Eaſtern Armenia; and that which is ſubject to Turkey, Weſtern, Lower, or Little Armenia. The inhabitants are much attached to commerce, and undertake long journeys to carry it on. They profeſs Chriſtianity, but are charged with being Eutychians. They have patriarchs, archbiſhops, biſhops, doctors, preachers, and monks. Erzerum is the capital.

ARMENTIERS, a ſmall, handſome town in the dept. of the North, ſeated on the river Lis, 8 miles NW. of Liſle.

Armeſton, Northamp. near Polbrook. Armethorp, Yorkſ. near Doncaſter.

ARMIERS, a town in the dept. of the North, on the river Sambre, 20 miles S. of Mons. Lat. 50. 20. N. lon. 4. 3. E.

Armin, Magna and Parva, Yorkſ. near Barkſton, on the river Air. Armingale, Norf. near Cringleton, 5 miles S. of Norwich. Armington, Devonſ. on the river Arm, near Plympton.

ARMIRA, a town of Theſſaly, on the Gulf of Volo, or Velo, 30 miles SE. of Lariſſa. Lat. 39. 30. N. lon. 23. 22. E.

Armitage, Staff. on the river Sow. Armitage, Cheſh. near Northwich. Armley, Yorkſhire, near Leeds.

ARMORICA. See AREMORICA.

Armoy, in Antrim, Ulſter, 109 miles from Dublin.

Armſide, Weſtmorl. near Little Langdale, on the borders of Cumb. Armſwell, Dorſetſ. 1 mile from Pluſh. Armtree, Linc. near Horncaſtle.

ARMUYDEN, or ARNEMUDEN, a ſea-port of Zealand, one of the Seven United Provinces, in the Iſle of Walcheren, now inconſiderable, the ſea having ſtopped up the harbour with ſand. The ſalt works are it's chief trade. It is 3 miles E. of Middleburg, with which it communicates by a canal.

ARNAU, a town of Koningratz, Bohemia.

ARNAY LE DUC, a town in the dept. of Côte d'Or. It has a good trade, and is ſeated in a valley near the river Arroux, 25 miles SW. of Dijon. Lat. 47. 7. N. lon. 4. 26. E.

Arncliff, Yorkſ. N. Riding, near Wharlton caſtle. Arncliff, Yorkſ. W. Riding, on a river, a little to the E. of Pennygent-hill. Arncot, Oxfordſ. near Amerſden and Biceſter.

ARNDAL, or ARENDAL, a town and landing-place of Chriſtianſand, in Norway, ſituated on a rock in the middle of the ſtream Nid. The old forge of Baaſelandſwerk, and ſeveral iron mines are in the neighbourhood.

ARNEBERG, a town of the Old March, Brandenburg, ſituated on the Elbe, between Angermund and Werben.

ARNEDO, a town of Peru, with a good harbour, 25 miles N. of Lima.

Arneſby, Leic. near Sleaſby. Arneſide, Lanc. on the borders of Cumb. Arneſide-Fewer, Lanc. on the borders of Weſtmorl. Arnhill, N. Riding, on the river Lune. Arnbale, Warwickſhire.

ARNHEIM, a town of the United Provinces, in Guelderland, ſituated on the Rhine, 8 miles N. of Nimeguen, and 32 E. by S. of Utrecht. Lat. 52. 2. N. lon. 5. 50. E.

ARNHUSEN, a ſmall town of Pruſſian Pomerania, near the river Riga, 4 leagues from Colberg and the Baltic.

ARNIS, an iſland of Sleſwick.

ARNO, a large river of Tuſcany. It riſes in the Apennines, and having received in it's courſe the Sieva, Piſa, and Elſa, falls into the ſea a little below Piſa. The valley (Val di Arno) through which it runs, is very pleaſant, abounding in fruits. Part of this valley is thought to have once been a lake, before the Arno made or deepened it's paſſage through the rock at Rignano. In digging here, the ſtrata of the earth are found regular, and elephants' bones are met with.

Arnold, a mile N. of Nottingham, on the E. ſide of Beſkwood Park. Arnolds, Eſſex, near Chelmsford.

ARNSHEIM, a town in the palatinate of the Rhine, circle of the Lower Rhine, 10 miles NW. of Worms.

ARNSTADT, a town of Schwartzburg, Upper Saxony, ſituated on the river Gera, 10 miles SW. of Erfort. Lat. 50. 54. N. lon. 11. 15. E.

Arnwood, Hants, near Chriſtchurch.

AROMAIA, a province of New Andaluſia, on the river Oronoque, S. America.

ARONA, a town of Milan, on the Lake Maggiore, ſubject however to Piedmont.

ARONCHES, a town of Alentejo, on the river Caro. Lat. 39. 3. N. lon. 7. 2. W.

AROOL, a town of the Kioſ, in the Ukraine, on the river Occa, 200 miles S. of Moſcow. Lat. 51. 58. N. lon. 36. 40. E.

AROSBAY, a town of the Eaſt Indies, on the iſland of Madura, near Java. Lat. 6. 30. S. lon. 114. 30. E.

AROUCA, a town in Beira.

ARPINO, a town of Lavora, Naples, 8 miles N. of Apuina. Lat. 41. 44. N. lon. 13. 46. E.

ARQUA, a town in the Paduan, a territory of Venice, 10 miles S. of Padua.

ARQUES, a town ſeated on a ſmall river of the ſame name, in the dept. of Lower Seine, 4 miles SE. of Dieppe.

ARRACIF, a harbour of Pernambuco, in Braſil. It is ſmall, and much ſhut up with rocks and ſands. Lat. 8. 20. S. lon. 35. 10. W.

ARRAGON, a province of Spain, bounded on the W. by Navarre and the Two Caſtiles; on the N. by Navarre and the Pyrenean Mountains; on the E. by Catalonia, and a part of Valencia; and on the S. by Catalonia and New Caſtile. It's extent from N. to S. is nearly 120 miles, and from E. to W. about 78. The river Ebro runs from NW. to SE. through the province, and divides it into two parts nearly equal. The air is pure and wholeſome, and the country, near the rivers, is fertile in corn, wine, flax, and fruit; but, in general, it is dry, ſandy, mountainous, and ſtoney. It produces ſaffron, and there are mines of ſalt. Saragoſſa is the capital.

ARRAGON, or ARAGON, a river of Spain, which riſes in the Pyrenees, and falls into the Ebro, between Calahorra and Tudela.

ARRAN ISLES, three iſlands on the W. coaſt of Ireland, in the mouth of Galway-Bay. Lat. 53. 0. N. lon. 10. 0 W. They are called the S. Iſles of Arran, to diſtinguiſh them from another iſland of the ſame name, called the N. Iſle of Arran, ſituated on the coaſt of Donnegal in Ulſter. Lat. 55. 0. N. lon. 9. 2. W.

ARRAN, a rocky and mountainous iſland of Scotland, in the Frith of Clyde, to the SW. of the Iſle of Bute; about 23 miles long and 12 broad. It abounds with cattle, ſheep, goats, and fowl; and agriculture here is ſomewhat advancing. The ſtreams are ſtored with fiſh, eſpecially ſalmon. The climate is cold, but healthful; and invalids annually reſort thither to drink the whey of goats-milk. Among the rocks are found iron ore, ſpar, and a great variety of beautiful pebbles, ſuſceptible of poliſh. On the coaſt are many ſpacious and wonderful caverns, which uſed to afford ſhelter to ſmugglers; one of theſe occaſionally ſerves the inhabitants to hold a religious meeting in. They were once the retreats, perhaps the habitations, of ancient heroes. Tradition, in theſe parts, ſtill preſerves the memory of Fingal; and Robert Bruce took refuge in this iſland in the times of his greateſt diſtreſs. Lat. 55. 40. N. lon. 5. 10. W.

ARRAN. See AARAW.

Arran, Yorkſ. E. Riding, near Lund.

ARRAS, a large and ancient city in the dept. of the Straits of Calais, containing 11 pariſh churches, beſides the cathedral.

The inhabitants are about 10,000. Before the revolution, it was the capital of Artois. It is ſeated on the Scarp. Lat. 50. 19. N. lon. 2. 61. E.

ARRIEGE, a department of France, compoſed of what, before the revolution, was called Conſerans & Foix. It is ſo named from the river of the ſame name, which has it's ſource among the Pyrenees, and, paſſing by Foix and Pamiers, falls into the Garonne 2 miles above Toulouſe. Gold duſt has been found among it's ſands.

Arrington, 9 miles from Cambridge, has a bridge over the Cam, towards Wendy.

Arro, a river in Herefordſhire, which runs into the Lug, near Leominſter.

ARROE, an iſle of Denmark in the Baltic, S. of Funen, has ſeveral villages but no town. Lat. 55. 10. N. lon. 10. 20. E.

ARROJO DE ST. SERVAN, a town of Spain, in Eſtremadura, 8 miles S. of Merida, and 25 E. of Badajox. Lat. 38. 36. N. lon. 6. 20. W.

Arrow, a river in Worceſterſhire and Warwickſhire, that runs into the Avon near Bilford Grange. Arrow, Warw. near Aulceſter and the river Arrow. Arrow, Cheſh. between the river Dee and Lancaſter.

ARSAMAS, a town of European Ruſſia, on the river Mokcha-reca, 300 miles S. by E. of Moſcow, and 300 N. by W. of Aſtracan.

Arsham, Yorkſ. near the Tees.

ARTA, or LARTA, a ſea-port of Lower Albania, ſeated on the river Aſdhas, in the bay of Arta, 70 miles NNW. of Lepanto. Lat. 39. 28. N. lon. 21. 20. E.

ARTEMUS, a promontory of Valencia.

Arth, a river in Cardiganſ. Arthington, W. Riding, between Otley and Gawthorp. Arthuret, Cumb. near the river Kirkſop, S. of Long-town Arthur's caſtle, Cornw. on the coaſt, near Tintagel and Boſcaſtle. Arthur's hall, Cornw. near Penpont, and the Temple-Moors. Artington, Surry, near Godalmin. Artleborough, Northamptonſhire, near Higham Ferrers.

ARTOIS, a ci-devant province of French Flanders, now principally included in the department of the Straits of Calais.

Artro, a river in Merionethſ. which runs into river Llanbeder, at Llanbeder. Arvans, St. Monm. a little N. of Chepſtow, on the ſame river.

ARUBA, or ORUBA, an iſland near the coaſt of Terra Firma, in the W. Indies, ſubject to the Dutch. It is about 15 miles in circumference, and 14 leagues W. of Curaçoa. Lat. 12. 30. N. lon. 67. 35. W.

ARVE, a river in the dept. of Mont Blanc, which riſes in Faucigny, and falls into the Rhone near Geneva.

Arum, Lancaſhire, near Hornby.

*ARUNDEL, a town in Suſſex, pleaſantly ſituated on the declivity of a hill, on the ſummit of which ſtands the caſtle, an ancient ſeat of the dukes of Norfolk. This caſtle, formerly one of the ſtrongeſt in England, confers the honour of earldom on it's owner, without creation; a particular privilege, confirmed by parliament in the reign of Henry VI. As it ſtands near the mouth of the river Arun, it had once a good harbour, that admitted ſhips of 100 tons up to the bridge, till it was almoſt choked up by a ſand beach, thrown up by the ſea; but in 1733, there was an act of parliament paſſed for repairing it: it yet admits ſmall veſſels, and great quantities of timber for the dock-yards are ſhipped off here. It is 8 miles E. of Chicheſter, and 68 SW. by S. of London. Markets on Wedneſday and Saturday.

Arwanack, Cornw. near Pendennis and Falmouth. Arwerton, Suff. a little to the NW. of Harwich, near the junction of the Orwel and the Stour. Arwothal, Cornw. 4 miles SW. of Truro.

ARZILLA, a ſea-port of Fez, 15 miles SSW. of Tangier. Lat. 35. 30. N.

ARZINA, a river of Ruſſian Lapland.

ASAD-ABAD, a town of Irac, Perſia.

Aſalt, Cornw. near Crimble Paſſage.

*ASAPH, ST. a ſmall city of Flintſhire, in N. Wales, which ſcarcely contains above 50 houſes. It is ſituated in a pleaſant and rich vale, at the conflux of the rivers Elway and Clwyd, 24 miles W. of Cheſter, and 209 NW. of London. Market on Saturday.

Aſby Cotsford, Aſby Magna and Parva, Aſby-Overgrange and Aſby-Wyenderwarth, villages in Weſtmorland.

ASCENSION, a barren, mountainous, uninhabited iſland, upwards of 200 miles in circumference, and about 600 miles NW. of St. Helena. It has, however, an excellent harbour, at which the Eaſt India ſhips often touch, to furniſh themſelves with turtle, which are here very plentiful and large. Vaſt quantities of fiſh and ſea-fowl are alſo found here, as well as ſome goats, whoſe fleſh is not inferior to mutton in ſweetneſs and delicacy. Lat. 7. 40. S. lon. 14. 18. W.

ASCHAFFENBURG, a town of Franconia, ſubject to the elector of Mentz, and 36 miles E. of that city. Lat. 50. 4. N. lon. 9. 5. E.

ASCHERSLEBEN, a town of Halberſtadt.

ASCOLI, a town of Ancona, ſeated on a mountain, at the foot of which runs the Fronto, 80 miles NE. of Rome. Lat. 42. 44. N. lon. 13. 29. E.

ASCOLI DI SATRIANO, a town of Capitanata, ſeated on a mountain, 65 miles E. of Naples. Lat. 41. 8. N. lon. 15. 50. E.

Aſcome, Weſtmor. Aſcot, Oxfordſ. near Shirehampton, Aſcot, Warw. a little S. of Ladbrook, near the road from Banbury to Dunchurch. Aſcot, Bucks, near Wing and Winſlow. Aſcot, Midd. between Ryſlip and Pinner-Green. Aſcot, Oxf. near Thame. Aſcot, Warw. near Whichford. Aſcot-Heath, 4 miles from Windſor, on the road to Reading.

ASEER, or ASEERGUR, a ſtrong fortreſs of the Soubah of Candeiſh, in the Deccan, 20 miles NE. of Burhampour. Lat. 21. 35. N. lon. 76. 0. E.

Aſerby, Leiceſ. near Friſby. Aſerley, Yorkſ. a little S. of Stanley. Aſgarby, Linc. 3 miles from Sleaford. Aſgarth-Force: the river Tees, which divides Durham from Yorkſ. collects itſelf together at this place, which is a few miles W. of Barnard-Caſtle, at the top of a frightful precipice, and falls, with prodigious force, down a perpendicular cataract of 23 yards, forming a ſcene at once tremendous and delightful. It is ſaid to reſemble exactly the cataracts of the Nile in Egypt. Aſh, Devonſ. near Axminſter. Aſh, Derb. near Elvall. Aſh, Devonſ. between Branton and Weſtcoate. Aſh, Dorſ. near Netherby. Aſh, Dorſ. near Pimpern. Aſh, Hants, near Baſingſtoke. Aſh, Hants, near Overton and Polhamton. Aſh, Kent, near Sandwich. Aſh, Kent, between Ridley and Kingſdown. Aſh, Somerſetſ. in the pariſh of Martock. Aſh, Staff. near Stone. Aſh, Suff. near Wickham. Aſh, Surry, near Anderſhot, in Hants. Aſh, Magna and Parva, Shropſ. a little to the SE. of Whitchurch. Aſh, Iſle of Wight, near E. Medina. Aſhamſtead, Berks, near Eaſtſidon. Aſhbaſton, Shropſ. near the river Terne, between High-Ercal and Rowton.

*ASHBORN, a large, populous town in Derbyſhire, ſeated between the rivers Dove and Compton. It's chief trade is in cheeſe, ſent from it up and down the Trent. It is 10 miles from Derby, 10 NE. of Uttoxeter, and 139 NNW. of London. Market on Saturday.

Aſhbridge, Bucks, 4 miles from Ivingo. Aſhbright, Brampton, Devonſhire. Aſhbrittle, Somerſetſhire, 5 miles from Minehead. Aſhburn, a river in Suſſex, falling into the ſea at Pevenſey. Aſhburnham, Suſſex, 9 miles from Haſtings, and 51 from London.

*ASHBURTON, in Devonſhire, one of the four Stannery Towns, ſeated among the hills, where the mines of tin and copper are. It carries on a conſiderable trade in wool, yarn, and ſerges, and ſtands near the river Dart, 19 miles SW. of Exeter, and 192 W. by S. of London. Markets on Tueſday and Saturday; the former for wool, &c. the latter for proviſions.

Aſhbury, Berks. Aſhbury, Devonſ. near Oakhampton, Aſhby, Linc. near Great Grimſby. Aſhby, Linc. near Candleſhow. Aſhby, Linc. near Wellingborough. Aſhby, Linc. near Horncaſtle. Aſhby, Linc. midway between Grimſby and Bilſbroke. Aſhby, Norfolk, near Thurſton. Aſhby, Norf. between Yarmouth and Hickling. Aſhby, Suffolk, between Leoſtoff and Yarmouth. Aſhby Caſtle, Northamp. 6 miles from Wellingborough and Northampton.

ASHBY-DE-LA-ZOUCH, a populous town in Leiceſterſhire, with a conſiderable manufactory of ſtockings and hats. It is 13 miles S. of Derby, and 115 NNW. of London. Market on Saturday.

Aſhby-Folville, Leiceſ. between Melton-Mowbray and Billeſden. Aſhby-Ledgers, Northamp. near Daventry. Aſhby-Canons, Northamptonſ. pleaſantly ſituated between Brackley and Fauſley. Aſhby-Childs, Linc. near Spilſby. Aſhby-Cold, Northamp. 2 miles NW. of Naſeby. Aſhby-Friers, Dorſetſ. near Dorcheſter. Aſhby-Meers, Northamp. between Overſton and Wellingborough. Aſhby, Magna and Parva, Leic. 4 or 5 miles to the N. and NE. of Lutterworth. Aſh-Chapelry, Durh. 4 miles NW. of that city. Aſh-Church, Glouc. 2 miles from Tewkeſbury. Aſhcomb, Devonſ. near Exminſter. Aſhcroft, Devonſ. near Hartland. Aſhdon, Eſſex, on the borders of Suffolk. Aſhdon, Eſſex, 3 miles NE. of Saffron-Waldon, and near the borders of Cambridgeſhire. Aſhdown, Berks, near E. Ilſley. Aſhe, Suffolk, near Wickham. Aſhe-Bigod, or Bocking, Suff. near Bradley and Needham. Aſheldan, Eſſex, near Dengy. Aſhele, Norf. between Watton and Swaffham. Aſhelworth, Berkeley, Glouc. Aſhelworth, Glouceſ. near Laſſington. Aſhenden, Bucks, 8 miles NW. of Ayleſbury. Aſhendon, Dorſetſ. near Dorcheſter. Aſhenhurſt, Staff. a little to the SE. of Leeke. Aſher, Suſſex, near Pevenſey. Aſherſt, Kent, near Tunbridge. Aſhfield, Cornw. 4 miles from Leſtwithiel. Aſhfield, Suffolk, near Ixworth. Aſhfield, Suffolk, 3 miles NE. of Dabenham.

*ASHFORD, a town in Kent, ſeated on the river Stour, 12 miles from Canterbury, 24 SE. of Maidſtone, and 57 SE. by E. of London. Market on Tueſday; and a monthly market for cattle on the firſt Tueſday.

Aſhford, Derb. in the high Peak. Aſhford, Devonſ. 6 miles N. of Barnſtaple. Aſhford, Devonſ. a little W. of Uffcolumb. Aſhford, Midd. near Staines. Aſhford-Bewdley, Shropſ. S. of Ludlow. Aſhford-Carbonnel, Shropſ. E. of the former. Aſhgate, Rutl. near Oakham. Aſhurſt, Suſſ. near Bramber. Aſhurſt, Suſſ. near Pevenſey. Aſhull, Somerſ. 2 miles from Ilminſter. Aſhingdon, Eſſex, 3 miles from Rochford. Aſhington, Suſſex, 10 miles from Horſham. Aſhley, Staff. NW. of Eccleſhal. Aſhley, Dorſetſ. a hamlet 2 miles S. of Litton. Aſhley, Camb. 18 miles from Cambridge. Aſhley, Cheſh. on the river Ringay, between Knutsford and Stockport. Aſhley, Lanc. between Layland and the river Yarrow. Aſhley, Northamp. on the river Welland. Aſhley, Northamp. near Preſton. Aſhley, Hants, W. of St. Croſs and the W. Foreſt. Aſhley, Wilts, near Malmſbury. Aſhley Barn, Glouceſ. near Briſtol. Aſhley-Green, Bucks, in Cheſham. Aſhley N. and S. Hants, near Chriſtchurch. Aſh Lench, Worceſ. a village in the pariſh of Lench Church. Aſhling, E. and W. Suſſex, near Chicheſter. Aſhlington, or Aſherton, Wilts, near Weſtbury. Aſhmanhall, Norf. near Wurſted. Aſhmanſworth, Hants, W. of Sidmanton. Aſhmore, Dorſetſ. 2 miles from Milton-Abbas. Aſhmore brooke, or Aſhenbroke, Staff. near Lichfield. Aſholt, Somerſetſ. between Bridgewater and Stokegomer. Aſhorne, Warw. near Cheſterton. Aſhover, Derb. near Milntown. Aſhow, Warw. near Stonely. Aſhpot, Lanc. near Manchester. Aſhprington, Devonſ. N. of the river Harebone, near it's fall into the Dart. Aſhpriors, Somerſetſ. near Wivelſcomb. Aſh-Regis, or King's-Aſh, Devonſ. near Tawton. Aſhridge, Herts, 3 miles from Berkhampſtead. Aſhted, Surry, near Epſom-Wells. Aſhton-Cantlow, or Canthupe, Warw. E. of Aulceſter. Aſhton-in-the-Wall, Northamp. near Chipping-Warden. Aſhton, Cheſh. near Frodſham. Aſhton, Cheſh. near Kellal. Aſhton, Cheſh. near Namptwich. Aſhton, Devonſ. 6 miles from Exeter. Aſhton, Devonſ. near Chumleigh. Aſhton, Heref. near Orlton. Aſhton, Lanc. at the confluence of the Conder and Lune, near the ſea. Aſhton, Lancaſ. near Warrington. Aſhton-Hall, near Lancaſter. Aſhton, Northamp. near Grafton. Aſhton, Northamp. near Peterborough. Aſhton, Northamp. in the pariſh of Oundle. Aſhton, Shropſ. near Wem. Aſhton, Somerſetſ. 2 miles from Glaſtonbury, Aſhton Chapel, Cheſh. N. of the Weever, almoſt oppoſite to Frodſham. Aſhton-Chapel, Lanc. in the pariſh of Leigh. Aſhton, E. and W. Hants. near Wherwell. Aſhton-Weſt, Wilts, near N. Bradley. Aſhton-Gifford, Wilts, near Heyteſbury. Aſhton-Grange and Hall, Cheſh. W. of Aſhton. Chapel, Aſhton-in-Makerfield, Lanc. near W. Darby. Aſhton-Keyns, 3 miles W. of Cricklade. Aſhton-Underhill, Glouc. near Sedgebar-row. Aſhton-under-Line, Lanc. 6 miles from Mancheſter. Aſhton-upon-Curran, near the vale of Eveſham. Aſhurſt Lancaſ. between Wigan and Ormſkirk. Aſhwater, Devonſ. near Taviſtock. Aſhwell, Herts, near Caldicot, on the borders of Cambridgeſhire. Aſhwell, Northamp. 2 miles from Brackley. Aſhwell, Rutland on the W. Aſhwell-Thorp, Norf. near Wymondham. Aſhwick, Somerſetſ. near Kilmerſden. Aſhwood, Staff. in the pariſh of King's Swynford. Aſhworth-Chapel, Lanc. W. of Rochdale.

ASIA, one of the four grand diviſions of the globe, is ſituated between 25 and 180 degrees E. lon. and extends nearly from the equator to the impenetrable regions of the Arctic Pole. It is 4740 miles in length, from the Dardanelles to the eaſtern ſhore of Tartary, and 4380 in breadth, from the moſt ſouthern part of Malacca, to the northern parts of Nova Zembla. Aſia is bounded on the W. by the Red Sea, the Mediterranean, the Black Sea, the Don, the Wolga, and an imaginary line extending from 54 to nearly 80 degrees N. latitude; on the N. by the Frozen Ocean; on the E. by the Pacific, and on the S. by the Indian Ocean. From the richneſs of it's ſoil, the deliciouſneſs of it's fruits, the fragrancy and balſamic quality of it's plants, ſpices, gums, &c. the quantity, variety, beauty, and value of it's gems, the fineneſs of it's ſilks, and cottons, and the richneſs of it's metals, it has generally been conſidered as the fineſt quarter of the globe. It exhibits nearly every variety of animals. Aſia contains Siberia, Eaſtern and Weſtern Tartary, China, India within and without the Ganges, Thibet, Perſia, and the Turkiſh empire in Aſia, which comprehends Georgia, Turcomania, Diarbeck, or Meſopotamia, Natolia, Paleſtine, Syria, and part of Arabia.

ASIA MINOR. See NATOLIA.

ASINARA, a fertile and populous iſland of Sardinia, on the NW. coaſt, about 30 miles in circumference. In the mountains are great numbers of wild boars, deer, buffaloes, and falcons. Lat. 41. 5. N. lon. 8. 0. E.

ASIA EUROPE AMERICA
North
Clerkes I.
G. of Anadir
St Thadeus Bay
Beering R.
Anadir R.
Penschinskoi Sea
Kamtschatka
Beherings I.
Copper I.
Attoo
Aleutian Is.
Conyocks
Onmocks
Aniui
Kamtschatka R.
Awatchinskoi or St Peter & Paul
Petropawlowskoi
Sapirouf I.
OKHOTSK
Lopatka Kurile Is.
Danube R.
BLACK SEA
Constantinople
Russia
Natolia
Archipelago
Cyprus
Crete
Jerusalem
Gaza
Holla
Tebuc
Mecca
Medina
Jambo
Aden
Liqueo
Tropic of Cancer
The Garden ARABIA
Mocha
Cape Guardafui
Madagascar
Mozambique
Isles of Japan
Jesso
Nadeg de Pic
The 3 Sisters
Tedoney
Matsmai
Nambi
Meaco
Jedo
EASTERN OCEAN
LADRONE
ISLES Aguigan
Anatajan
Saypan
Tinian
Guahan
Fere
Hogoleu
Lamurek
Scheming
Pelew Islands
Pelew
Gilolo I.
Ceram
Schouten I.
Admiralty I.
New Ireland
NEW GUINEA
Arou
C. Walsh
Timorland
Louisiade
C. Deliverance
Timor
Java
Sumatra
Ceylon
Malabar
Coromandel
Ganges
Bengal
Pegu
Siam
Cambodia
Cochinchina
Tonquin
Borneo
Celebes
Banda
Amboyna Molucco Is.
Gilolo
Papua Solomon Is.
Arafura Sea
Timor Sea
Carpentaria
Van Diemens Land
Endeavour R.
Port Jackson
New Holland
Tasmania Admiralty Is.
Hogoleu
Lamurek
Scheming
Pelew Islands
Pelew
Gilolo I.
Ceram
Schouten I.
New Ireland
NEW GUINEA
Arou
C. Walsh
Timorland
Louisiade
C. Deliverance

ASINDUM, a town of Andaluſia.

ASITIO, or ASSESI, a town of Spoleto, in the Pope's territories, 66 miles N. of Rome. Lat. 43. 0. N. lon. 12. 40. E.

Aſk, Yorkſ. near Richmond. Aſkerſwell, E. from Bridport. Aſkerſton-Caſtle, Cumb. near the Picts' Wall. Aſket, Midd. near Pinner. Aſkew, Yorkſ. near Bedal.

Aſkeyton, 16 miles W. of Limerick.

Aſkham, Nott. a little N. of the Markhams. Aſkham, Weſtmorl. near Barton. Aſkham-Bryan, Richards, Yorkſ. W. Riding, Biſhopſthorp. Aſkham-Hoſpital, Nott. 4 miles N. of Tuxford.

ASKERSUND, a ſea-port of Nericia, Sweden, ſituated on the Wetter Sea.

ASKRIG, a town in the N. Riding of Yorkſ. 6 miles S. by E. of York, and 192 N. of London. Market on Thurſday.

Aſlaby, Yorkſ. N. Riding, near the Eſk, S. of Mulgrave Caſtle. Aſlaby, Yorkſ. N. Riding, near Pickering. Aſlackby, or Aſkby, Linc. 2 miles S. of Folkingham. Aſlacton, Norfolk, near Aſhwellthorp.

ASOLA, a town of the Treviſano, Venice.

ASOPH, called alſo ZABAK, anciently the Palus Mæotis, a ſea between Europe and Aſia, about 210 miles in length, and from 40 to 60 in breadth. It lies N. of the Black Sea, with which it communicates by the Strait of Caffa, the ancient Cimmerian Boſphorus.

ASOPH, a diſtrict of the Ruſſian empire, bordering on the Sea of Aſoph. It was ceded by the Turks in 1774, and ſince that time, ſeveral towns have been built by the late Empreſs Catharine, one of which, Catharineſlaf, (that is 'the glory of Catharine,') is now the capital. The branch of the Don, at the mouth of which, Aſoph, the former capital ſtands, in lat. 47. N. lon. 39. E. is now ſo choaked with ſand as ſcarcely to admit the ſmalleſt veſſel.

Aſpale, Suff. near Debenham. Aſpatrick, pronounced Spyatry, Cumb. between Maryport and Wigton. Aſpenden, Herts, near Buntingford. Aſperley, Linc. near Sleaford.

ASPEROSA, a town of Romania, on the coaſt of the Archipelago.

Aſperſheles, Northumb. near the borders of Scotland. Aſperton, Heref. near Stow-Chapel and Stretton. Aſpley, Warw. near Tamworth. Aſpley, Staff 2 miles SW. of Standon. Aſpley, Staff. near Penkridge. Aſpley-Guiſe, Bedf. near Woburn. Aſpley-Heyford, Warw near Tamford. Aſpy, Linc. a little N. of Ravendale.

ASSAM, or ACAAM, a country of Aſia, bounded on the W. by Bengal and Bootan, on the N. by the mountains of Thibet, and on the SE. and S. by Meckley. The river Burampooter flows through the whole length of it. It's capital is Gerghon. The natives are fond of the fleſh of dogs. Almoſt every houſekeeper has an elephant: they live comfortably, and as the king is the ſole proprietor of all the gold, ſilver, and other metals found in this kingdom, they pay no taxes. The invention of gunpowder is aſcribed to the Aſſameſe. It was known in China and Hindooſtan in very remote antiquity; and in the code of Gentoo laws, there is a prohibition of the uſe of fire-arms; but, perhaps, theſe fire-arms were only ſome ſort of miſſive torches, and the powder very ſhort in it's effect of that which is made in later times. Aſſam lies between 91 and 96 degrees of E. lon. and between 25 and 28 N. lat.

ASSANCALE, a ſtrong town of Armenia, with walls built, in a ſpiral line, all round the rock on which it ſtands, and ſtrengthened with ſquare towers. The ditches are about 2 fathoms over, cut out of the hard rock. It is ſituated on or near the river Ares, 22 miles E. of Erzerum.

Aſſelby, Yorkſ. E. Riding, NW. of Howden. Aſſembly, Yorkſ. near Thirſk.

ASSENS, a diſtrict and ſea-port of Funen iſland, ſituated on the W. coaſt, on the Little Belt.

Aſſenton, Upper and Nether, Oxf. two hamlets near Henley. Aſſington, Suff. 3 miles NW. of Nayland. Aſſington, Suſſ. 3 miles NW. of Steyning.

ASSISIO. See ASITIO.

ASSOS, a ſea-port of Natolia, on a bay of the ſame name. Lat. 39. 32. N. lon. 26. 36. E.

ASSUMPTION, a populous city, the capital of Paraguay, ſituated in a fertile country, on the river Paraguay. The air is wholeſome and temperate, and the trees are always green. Lat. 26. 0. S. lon. 57. 40. W.

ASSYNT, a diſtrict in Sutherland, Scotland, mountainous, rugged, and ſterile, but containing plenty of lime-ſtone and marble.

ASSYRIA, a country in Aſſia, celebrated in ancient hiſtory. It was one of the earlieſt empires, and contained the provinces now called Diarbek, Curdiſtan, and Irak; and involved, under it's dominion, when, at it's greateſt extent, many other provinces and kingdoms, ASTRABAT, a handſome town of Armenia, 3 miles diſtant from the river Aras, and 12 S. of Nakſivan. This is the only country that produces ronas, a root which dyes a beautiful red. Lat. 38. 28. N. lon. 45. 30. E. Alſo a town of Segeſtan, Perſia.

Aſtacton, Nott. near Bingham. Aſtanton, Shropſ. near Purſlow. Aſtbury, Cheſh.

8 miles from Congleton. Aſterby, Linc. 3 miles E. of Ranby. Aſterbey, Shropſ. 4 miles SW. from Weſtbury. Aſtery, a river in Suſſex. Aſthorp, Linc. 2 miles S. of Scampton.

ASTI, a city of Monſerrat, in Italy, 24 miles E. of Turin. The diſtrict to which it gives name is 25 miles long and 10 broad.

Aſtleham, Midd. between Staines and Sunbury. Aſtley, Warw. near Milverton. Aſtley, Lanc. between Leigh and Mancheſter. Aſtley, Lanc. near Liverpool. Aſtley, Shropſ. near Hadnal. Aſtley, Shropſ. 3 miles from Bridgenorth. Aſtol, Oxf. between Burford and Whitney. Aſtolly, Oxf. 3 miles from Whitney. Aſton, Berks, near Moulesford. Aſton-upon-Carron, Glouc. near Tewkeſbury. Aſton, Oxf. near Brampton. Aſton, Staff. near Birmingham. Aſton, or Aſſerton, Wilts, on the Downs, near E. and W. Everley. Aſton, Bucks, in the pariſh of Ivingo. Aſton, Cheſhire, near Budworth. Aſton, Derbyſ. in the High Peak. Aſton, Derb. near the Trent, towards Caſtle-Dunnington. Aſton, Derb. near Middleton Park. Aſton, Herts, near the river Beane. Aſton, Herefordſ. near Wigmore. Aſton, Heref. between Luckton and Leominſter. Aſton, Wilts, near Berwick. Aſton, Wiltſhire, near Berwick St. John's, on the S. ſide of the county. Aſton, Shropſhire, near Sheſnal. Aſton, Shropſhire, a little E. of Brampton. Aſton, Shropſ. near Oſweſtry Aſton, Shropſ. a little NW. of Biſhop's Caſtle. Aſton, Shropſ. near Newport. Aſton, Staff. near Birmingham. Aſton, Hants, near Kingſwood in the Iſle of Wight. Aſton, Yorkſ. 4 miles S. of Rotherham. Aſton Abbots, Bucks, near Ayleſbury. Aſton. Worceſ. near Campden. Aſton-Blank, or Cold-Aſton, Glouc. 6 miles from Stow, 22 from Glouceſter. Aſton, or Cold Aſton, Glouc. 5 miles from Bath, and 34 from Glouceſter. Aſton-Botterel, Shropſ. E. of Brown Clee-hill. Aſtonby, Cumb. between Carliſle and Langton. Aſton-Cantlow, Warw. on the borders of Staffordſhire. Aſton-Chapel, Staff. between Penkeridge and Tong-Caſtle. Aſton-Church, Shropſ. near Newport. Aſton Clinton, Bucks, near Wendover. Aſton Cold, Bucks, near Ayleſbury. Aſton-Cold, Derb. near Scardale. Aſton-Eyre, Shropſ. NE. of Tenbury. Aſton-Flamville, Leic. near Sapcote, Aſton-Ingham, Herefordſ. near Newent. Aſton Magna, Worc. 6 miles from Perſhore. Aſton Middle, Oxfordſ. 3 miles S. of Charwell. Aſton North, Oxf. on the W. ſide of the Charwell, oppoſite to Somerton. Aſton-Parva, Staff. near Walſall. Aſton-Parva, near Stafford. Aſton-Pigot, Shropſ. near Chirbury. Aſton Rowen, Oxf. near Adwel and Crowel. Aſton-Rogers, Shropſ. near Chirbury. Aſton-Somerville, Glouc. near Campden, 4 miles from Eveſham. Aſton Steeple, Oxf. near Steeple Barton and Heyford. Aſton Steeple, Wilts, in the road from Saliſbury to Bath. Aſton Subege, Glouc. in the Vale of Everſholm, 2 miles from Campden. Aſton Tyrrel, Berkſhire, near Abingdon. Aſton-Weſt Wilts, near Worwelſdown. Aſton Wheaten, Suff. between Lapley and Water Eaton. Aſton under hill, Glouceſterſhire, 5 miles from Eveſham.

ASTORGA, a ſmall city of Leon, pleaſantly ſituated in a plain, on the little river Tuera, 28 miles W. of the city of Leon. It is ſtrong both by nature and art and is called the City of Prieſts, from it's cathedral being filled with eccleſiaſtics.

ASTRABAD, a trading town of Perſia capital of a diſtrict, to which it gives name It is ſituated on the mouth of a river, a the SE. end of the Caſpian Sea, 20 mile NE. of Iſpahan. Lat. 36. 40. N. lon. 72 10. E.

ASTRACAN, a territory in Aſiatic Ruſſia, including the N. and part of the W ſide of the Caſpian Sea, was formerly kingdom, but is now divided into th governments of Caucaſus and Saratof.

ASTRACAN, a large and populous city ſeated on an iſland formed by the rive Wolga, 50 miles NW. of the Caſpian Sea It is ſurrounded by ſtrong walls, and ha an excellent harbour, where the Europea embark for Perſia. It is noted for havin excellent fiſh. It ſeldom rains here, bu the river, on which it ſtands overflow like the Nile; and when the water is ru off, the graſs grows in leſs than a month From Aſtracan to Terki, on the ſide o the Caſpian Sea, there are long marſhe which produce a vaſt quantity of ſalt, wit which the Ruſſians carry on a great trad This city is ſuppoſed to have been, i very early times, the general ſtaple for th productions of Perſia, India, and Arabi In the 14th century, when the Venetian were in poſſeſſion of the trade of the Blac Sea, they drew from this port, to the ſtaple at Tanais, the Aſiatic production with which they ſupplied the ſouther parts of Europe, while the articles deſigned for the north, were conveyed partl along the Wolga, and partly by land-car riage, to Ladoga, on the Volkhouc, whenc they were tranſported to Wiſby, on the Iſ of Gothland. The deſtructive expedition of Tamerland drove, for ſome time, th trade of Aſia from this channel to that o

Smyrn

Smyrna and Aleppo; and the diſcovery of the paſſage to India by the Cape of Good Hope, gave, to a great part of it, quite a different route. Aſtracan is ſtill reſorted to by many nations, and it's trade with India, Perſia, &c. is yet conſiderable. It lies 800 miles SE. of Moſcow. Lat. 46. 22. N. lon. 47. 40. E.

Aſhrop Wells, Northamp. near Banbury, in Oxfordſ. much reſorted to on account of the virtues of their waters.

ASTURIAS, a province of Spain, 120 miles in length, and from 20 to 45 in breadth; bounded on the W. by Galicia, on the N. by the ocean, on the E. and SE. by Biſcay and Leon, and on the S. by Old Caſtile and Leon. It is divided into two parts, Aſturia d'Oviedo, and Aſturia de Santillana, and is mountainous and woody. It's wines, horſes, and fruits are excellent, and it has mines of gold, lapis-lazuli, and vermilion. The eldeſt ſon of the king of Spain takes the title of Prince of Aſturias, and bears the arms of the country.

Aſtwick, Yorkſ. 5 miles NW. of Settle. Aſtwick, Herts, near Buntingford. Aſtwick, Bedf. near Biggleſwade. Aſtwick, Bucks, near Newport. Aſwardby, Linc. 5 miles NW. from Spilby. Aſwardby, Linc. among the Fens.

ATACAMA, an inland town of Peru, on the borders of Chili, about 45 miles from the Pacific Ocean. Lat. 20. 45. S. 62. 40. W. There is alſo a great deſert of this name, and a chain of mountains which ſeparates Peru from Quito.

ATALAYA, a town of Portugueſe Eſtremadura, containing about 200 inhabitants. It is ſituated on an eminence, 5 miles S. of Tomar, and 5 from the Tajo.

ATAYADA, a river of Old Caſtile, which falls into the Douro.

Atcham, 3 miles SE. of Shrewſbury.

ATENA, a town of Principato Citra, ſituated on the river Negro.

Atford, Wilts, near Chippenham. Atforton, Heref. near Wigmore.

ATH, or AETH, a ſmall, but ſtrong and populous town of Hainault, yielded to France by the treaty of Aix-la-Chapelle, in 1668, and then pretty regularly fortified by Vauban; it was reſtored, however, to the Spaniards, by the treaty of Nimeguen, in 1678. The French, under Marechal Catinat, took it in 1697, but reſtored it in the ſame year, by the peace of Ryſwick. The allies, under Field-marſhal d'Averque, took it Oct. 1, 1706; and Aeth remained in the poſſeſſion of the Dutch till the year 1716, when it was given up to the emperor, with the reſt of the Spaniſh Netherlands. It is ſituated on the Dender, 9 miles NW. of Mons.

ATHBOY, a town of Meath, in Leinſter, 3 miles SW. of Trim, and 28 NW. of Dublin.

Athelarton, Staff, near Penkridge. Athelhamſton, Dorſetſ. E. of Puddleton, near the river Frome. Athelney, or Athelingey, Somerſetſ. a river iſland, conſiſting of a riſing ſpot of ground, formed by a conjunction of the Thone with the Parret, a few miles below Taunton. Here Alfred reſided when the Danes overran England; as the floods of the rivers anciently made this place inacceſſible, and the firm ground then was not above 2 acres.

*ATHENRY, a town of Galway, in Connaught, 10 miles E. of Galway, and 91 W. of Dublin. It was formerly a place of conſiderable ſtrength and note, there being numerous ruins hereabouts, of churches and cathedrals, walls and towers.

ATHENS, a city of ancient and modern Greece, formerly capital of Attica, and celebrated for it's learning and arts, it having been the principle academy of the Roman empire. It is now called Setines, or, according to Dr. Chandler, Athini, and contains about 15,000 inhabitants, who are moſtly of the Greek church, and ſpeak a corrupt ſort of Greek. It was taken by Mahomet II. in 1455, and is ſtill under the dominion of the Turks; but there are many magnificent ruins, (particularly the parthenon, or great temple of Minerva, in the acropolis; or citadel; and the temple of Jupiter Olympus.) which ſufficiently teſtify it's former grandeur. In it's preſent ſtate, Athens is a city or fortreſs, with a thick, irregular wall, ſtanding on the brink of precipices, and incloſing a large area, about twice as long as broad. Some portions of the ancient wall may ſtill be diſcovered on the outſide. The garriſon conſiſts of a few Turks, who reſide there with their families, and are called by the Greeks Castriana. The rock of the acropolis is lofty, abrupt, and inacceſſible, except the front, which is toward the Piræus. Athens is the capital of Livadia, and ſituated in the Gulf of Engia, 100 miles NE. of Lacedæmon, and 320 SW. of Conſtantinople. Lat. 38. 5. N. lon. 23. 57. E.

ATHERDEE, a town of Louth, in Leinſter, 34 miles NW. of Dublin.

Atherington, Devonſ. near North Tawton. Atherley, or Adderley, Shropſ. near Newport.

ATHERSTONE, a town of Warwickſhire, containing about 2500 inhabitants, chiefly employed in the manufactures of hats, ribbons, ſhalloons, &c. It is ſituated on, or near, the river Anker, 13 miles N. of Coventry, and 103 NW. of London. Market on Tueſday.

ATHERSTON ON-THE-STOUR, a town of Warwickſhire, ſituated on the Stour, a little above it's junction with the river Avon, and 3 miles from Stratford. Market on Tueſday; and a cheeſe fair on Sept 19, reckoned the largeſt in England.

Atherton, Lanc. near W. Derby. Atherton, Iſle of Wight, in E. Medina. Athill, or Adle, Yorkſ. W. Riding, near the Air.

Athleague, in Roſcommon, Connaught.

*ATHLONE, a town of Ireland, pleaſantly ſituated on the large and beautiful river Shannon. Part of the town ſtands in Weſtmeath, on the Leinſter ſide of the river; the other part in Roſcommon, on the Connaught ſide; theſe are joined by a long bridge of many arches, which is a grand paſs between the two provinces. Though Athlone is ſo advantageouſly ſituated for trade and improvement, it yet remains, in many parts, a poor, ruinous, dirty looking place. On the bridge are ſome badly-executed figures and inſcriptions, celebrating the ſucceſs of Elizabeth of England, and relating how the rebels in her reign were executed, quartered, and their ſculls, &c. ſtuck upon poles about the country, and at Dublin Caſtle, and every thing 'with a bleſſing,' &c. brought into a ſtate of the greateſt proſperity. How much of allegiance they owed her may be judged, when it is conſidered that it was a law in her reign, that if any one killed 'a mere Iriſhman,' he ſhould be mulcted, or fined; and what were the fruits of ſuch oppreſſive laws, we find in the reigns of the unhappy Stuarts. It is 59 miles W. of Dublin. Lat. 53. 22. N. lon. 8. 41. W.

ATHOL, a mountainous diſtrict of Perthſhire, forming the northern part of the county, and containing ſome fine lakes. The chief town is Blair Athol.

ATHOS, or MONTE SANTO, a remarkable mountain of Greece, on a peninſula in the mouth of the Gulf of Conteſſa. It has a number of churches, monaſteries, hermitages, &c. on it's towering aſcent, and is inhabited chiefly by Greek monks, who cultivate the olive and vineyards, and are carpenters, maſons, &c. leading a very auſtere life, and living many of them to a great age. It is ſo lofty, that it is ſaid to caſt it's ſhadow as far as Stalimene, upwards of 40 miles. It is 70 miles E. of Salonichi. Lat. 40. 30. N. lon. 26. 20. E.

*ATHY, a neat, little town of Kildare, in Leinſter, ſituated on the river Barrow, through which the boats paſs by Calrow, to and from Waterford river. It is 10 miles S. of Kildare, and 32 SW. of Dublin, from which city the grand canal, by one of it's branches extends, and packets, or paſſage-boats, paſs between them daily through the whole extent both ways.

ATLANTIC OCEAN, an immenſe ſea, bounded on the E. by Europe and Africa, and on the W. by America.

ATLAS, GREAT, called by the natives AYDUCAL; and ATLAS, LITTLE, called ERRIFF; a chain of high mountains, in Africa, the former extending from the Deſert of Barca to the weſtern coaſt of Morocco; and the latter, from the Straits of Gibraltar to Bona, in the country of Algiers. They are inhabited almoſt in every part, and are not of the height and magnitude aſcribed to them by the ancients. From theſe the Atlantic Ocean takes it's name; and from the fiction of Atlas carrying the world on his back, the name Atlas, applied to a book of maps of different parts of the world, is derived.

Atlow, Derbyſhire, near Aſhborn.

ATOOI, one of the Sandwich Iſlands, about 10 leagues in length, from E. to W. and ſuppoſed to contain 50,000 inhabitants. There is a good road and anchoring place on the SW. ſide. Lat. 21. 57. N. lon. 160. W.

Atre, a river in Cornwall, running into the Tamer, near the hill of Bromwelly.

ATRI, a town of Abruzzo Ultra.

Atrim, Dorſetſ. near Bridport. Attenton, Nottingh. 2 miles NW. of Barton. Attercliffe, Yorkſ. near Sheffield. Atterton, Leic. between Witherley and Upton. Attugton, near Worceſter.

ATTLEBOROUGH, a town in Norfolk anciently a city, the metropolis of the county, having a palace and a collegiate church. It is ſtill a conſiderable place and ſtands in the road from Thetford to Norwich, about 12 miles from each, and 93 from London. A good market once a fortnight, beſides a weekly market on Thurſday.

Attleborough, Warw. between Ardburn and Horeſton. Attleridge, Norf. a little S. of Alderford. Atton, Shropſ. a little NE. of Wolſton.

ATTOCK, a river of Aſia, which riſes in the Tartarian mountains, N of Hindooſtan, and paſſing by Cabul, flows into the Indus at the city of Attack.

ATTOCK, a city of Hindooſtan Propre capital of a province of the ſame name. It is ſituated on the conflux of the Attock and the Indus, here called the Nilab, 12 miles NW. of Lahore, and 158 N. Moultan. Lat. 32. 27. N. lon. 70. 36.

Atwick, York. E. Riding, near the coaſt, N. of Hornſey. Atwood, near Worceſter.

AVA, or MENAUKIOU, a large river of Aſia, which riſes in Thibet, croſſes the kingdoms of Burmah and Pegu, and falls into the Bay of Bengal, by ſeveral mouths, about lat. 16. N.

AVA, a large city in India, the capital of Burmah. It is ſeated on the river Ava. The ſtreets are very ſtraight, and the houſes are built with teek planks and bamboos. It is 520 miles E. of Calcutta, and 276 ENE. of Aracan, Lat. 21. 0. N. lon. 96, 30. E.

AVA, or BURMAH, a territory on the E. ſide of the Gulf of Bengal, bounded on the N. by Thibet; on the W. by Bengal and Aracan; and on the S. and E. by Pegu. The air is healthy, the climate temperate, and the ſoil rich. It abounds with mines of ſilver, copper, and lead, and the elephants and horſes are numerous. The articles of commerce are, aloes, muſk, benzoin, ſpices, varniſh, canes, turquoiſes, emeralds, rubies, &c.

AVA, or AMA, a kingdom and city of Japan, in the iſland of Xicoco, or Sicock, between thoſe of Niphon and Bongo. Alſo a kingdom of Japan, in the peninſula of Niphon.

AVALLON, an ancient town in the dept. of Yonne. It carries on a conſiderable trade in grain, wines, and cattle, and has a manufacture of cloth. It is ſituated on the river Couſin, in a country ſurrounded by hills, covered with fine vineyards, 20 miles SSE. of Auxerre, and 50 SSW. of Troyes.

AUBE, a department of France, ſo called from a conſiderable river which riſes in the dept. of Upper Marne, and paſſing by the towns of Ferte, Bar, Arcis, &c. falls into the Seine near Nogent. It is compoſed of a part of Champagne, and has the dept. of Marne on the N. and thoſe of Yonne and the Côte d'Or on the S.

AUBENAS, a town in the dept. of Ardeche. It has a manufacture of cloths of Spaniſh wool and of red cotton, in imitation of Indian handkerchiefs. Beſides corn and wine, it's diſtrict produces truffles, oranges, figs, olives, cheſnuts, walnuts, and mulberry trees. They wind ſilk here by a machine, invented by Vaucanſon, which conſiſts of 3 wheels, turned by a canal brought from the Ardeche: theſe wheels move 36 looms, each conſiſting of 6 double rows of ſpindles in the length of 15 feet. Aubenas is ſeated on the river Ardeche, at the foot of the Cevennes, nearly 2 miles from the mineral waters of Vals, and 15 NW. of Viviers.

AUBIGNY, a town in the dept. of Cher, ſeated in a fine plain, on the river Nerre, 24 miles N. of Bourges; alſo a town in the diſtrict of St. Pol, in the dept. of the Straits of Calais.

AUBIN, ST. a bay, and well built town, or ſea-port, of the iſland of Jerſey, 3 miles from St. Hiliary. The market here is ſo thronged with merchants, that it has rather the appearance of an exchange. The harbour, which has a pier that runs out into the ſea, is defended by a fort, Mark. on Mon.

AUBIN DU CORMIER, a town in the dept. of Ille and Vilaine, 10 miles E. of Rennas.

AUBONNE, a handſome town of Vaux, in the canton of Berne, ſituated in a diſtrict or bailiage, and on a river of the ſame name, 10 miles W. of Lauſanne.

Aubrey, or Ambroſe, St. Notting. near Hareby. Auburn, Linc. near Boothby.

AUBURN, a town of Wiltſhire, with a conſiderable manufacture of fuſtian. It is ſituated near Ramſbury, on a branch of the Kennet, 3 miles NE. of Marlborough, and 81 W. of London. It had 72 dwelling houſes, to the value of 20,000l. deſtroyed by fire, in 1760. Market on Tueſday.

AUBUSSON, a populous, trading town, in the dept. of Creuſe, with a manufactory of tapeſtry. It is ſeated on the river Creuſe, 37 miles NE. of Limoges.

AUCAUGREL, a town of Africa, in the country of Adel, ſeated on a mountain. Lat. 9. 10. N. lon. 44, 25. E.

AUCHE, a conſiderable town in the dept. of Gers, ſeated on the ſummit and declivity of a hill, at the foot of which runs the river Gers. A few years ago it was very ill built, except it's cathedral, one of the moſt beautiful and magnificent in France; but it has been adorned lately with many fine ſtructures. Before the revolution, it was the metropolis of Gaſcony, capital of Armagnac, and ſee of an archbiſhop, who was ſtyled primate of Aquitaine. They have manufactories of velvet, ſerges, crapes, hats, and leather. It is 37 miles W. of Toulouſe. Lat. 43. 39. N. lon. 0. 40. E.

AUCHTERARDER, a diſtrict and town of Perthſhire, near Ochil Hills.

Auchtermuchty, Fifeſhire. Aucote, or Aulcote, Warw. near Poletworth.

AUDE, a depart of France, compoſed of a part of Languedoc. It receives it's name from a river, which riſes in the Pyrenees, and flowing by Quilan, Limoux, Carcaſſon, &c, falls into the Mediterranean about 10 miles E. of Narbonne.

Audlem, Cheſ. near Namptwich. Audley, ley, Oxf. near Thame. Audley, Staff. 4 miles from Newcaſtle-under-Line. Audley, Devonſ. near Littleham. Audley, Shropſ. near Bridgenorth. Audley End, Eſſex, 1 mile S. of Saffron Walden; an elegant ſeat, replete with internal grandeur and external beauties; once a royal palace, the largeſt in England, built out of the ruins of Walden Abbey, of which there ſtill remains one large court.

Audley-Road, on the coaſt of the county of Down, in Ulſter; is a part of Strangford Bay, on the W. ſide, where ſhips may lie ſafely. Audley-Caſtle, built on a promontory, commands a proſpect of the whole lake of Strangford.

Audre, Camb. on the N. ſide of the Ouſe, in the Iſle of Ely. Audrey, Somerſ. near Weſton Moor.

AVEIRO, or BRACANÇA NOVA, a town of Beira, in the neighbourhood of which great quantities of ſalt are made. It has a harbour fit for veſſels of a moderate ſize, and is ſituated at the mouth of the Vouga, 30 miles S. of Oporto. Lat. 40. 40. N. lon. 8. 30. W.

AVEIRON, a dept. of France, ſo called from a river which riſes near Severac le Chateau, and flowing by Rhodez and Villefranche, falls into the Tarn 24 miles below Montauban.

Aveley, Upper, Shropſ. E. of the Severn, oppoſite Highley. Aveley, Shropſ. near Bridgenorth. Aveley, Eſſex, 20 miles from London, on the road to Tilbury Fort.

AVELLA, anciently ABELLA, a town of Campania, now a town of Lavora, Naples.

AVELLINO, a town of Principato Ultra, almoſt ruined by an earthquake, in Sept. 1693. It is 25 miles NE. of Naples.

Avenage, Glouceſ. a hamlet to Bilſley. Avenbury, Heref. on the river Frome, near Bromyard.

AVENCHE, a decayed town in the canton of Berne, formerly the capital of Helvetia. It is ſituated at the S. end of the Lake Morat, 15 miles SW. of Berne.

Avening, Glouceſ. near Tedbury and Minchinghampton. Averham, Nott. between Southwell and Newark. Averley, Wilts, near Pewſey.

AVENTINE MOUNT, one of the 7 hills on which ancient Rome was built. It was taken within the compaſs of the city by Ancus Martius.

AVERNO, a ſulphureous lake of Lavora, Naples, near Puzzuoli; it is about 600 yards in diameter, and lies in a narrow valley, 2 miles long and 1 broad. Before Auguſtus cauſed the woods round it to be cut down, it was unhealthy; and the poets deſcribed the effluvia, ariſing fro the lake, to be of ſo noxious a quality, to prove fatal to the birds that attempt to fly over it. There is a cavern near which they called Avernus, or Cave of t Sybil; and through this, they feigne that there was a deſcent to the regions Pluto.

AVERSO, a town of Lavora, 8 mil N. of Naples.

Averston, Iſle of Wight, in E. Medin

AVES, or ISLE OF BIRDS, one of t Caribbees, lying to the E. of Curaço with a good harbour for careening veſſel There is another of the ſame name, lyi to the NE. of this. Lat. 15. 10. N. An a third, near the eaſtern coaſt of Nev foundland, in Lat. 50. 5. N. Alſo a ſm iſland in the Gulf of St. Lawrence; o of the Bermuda iſlands; an iſland, about miles in circumference, in the S. Paci Ocean, in lat. 17. 48. S. and lon. 216. 2. E.; another in the S. Pacific Ocean, ne the NW. coaſt of the iſland New Georgia and ſmall iſlands near the NE. coaſt New Holland, about 4 leagues NW. Cape Grenville.

AVESNES, a town in the dept. of th North, ſeated on the Heſpre, 25 miles E of Cambray, and 100 NE. of Paris.

AUGHER, a town of Tyrone, in Ulſte 12 miles SW. of Dungannon, and 75 N by W. of Dublin.

*AUGHNACLOY, Tyrone, in Ulſter.

Aughrim; ſee Aghrim. Aughteran Galway, in Connaught.

Aughton, Yorkſ. E. Riding, near th river Darwen, S. of Ellerton. Aughto Yorkſ. 3 miles S. of Rotherham. Augh ton, Lancaſ. NW. of Hornby. Aughto Lanc. S. of Ormſkirk.

AUGSBURG, or AUSBURG, the me tropolis of Suabia, in Germany, is an im perial city, of conſiderable trade, governe by the town council, or magiſtracy, 45 i number, of whom 31 are patricians, an the repreſentatives of the burghers, wh are half Romaniſts and half Proteſtants The public buildings are magnificent Beſides the cathedral, here are 6 Roma catholic pariſh churches, and 6 Lutheran It is ſurrounded by beautiful plains an large foreſts, abounding with game. I 1462, 11,000 perſons died here of th plague; as did next year, one-fourth o their neighbours; and in 1535, 13,00 were carried off by the ſame diſorder The biſhop, who is a prince of the empire and has a pretty conſiderable, thoug ſcattered, territory, holds his court a Augſburg, but reſides principally at Dil lingen. It is ſeated between the Werdac an

and Lech, 30 miles NW. of Munich. Lat. 48. 27. N. lon. 11. 4. E.

AUGUSTA, capital of Georgia, in N. America, about 130 miles from the ſea, ſeated on the SW. bank of the river Savannah, which flowing through a fine plain country, is navigable for barges managed by means of poles. Here is a bridge over the water to the Carolina ſide, which is hilly. From it's excellent ſoil, and central ſituation, between the upper and lower counties, it is riſing into importance.

AUGUSTA, a county of Virginia.

AUGUSTIN, ST. a town of N. America, on the coaſt of E. Florida, ſituated at the foot of a pleaſant hill, well covered with trees; but ill ſituated for trade, the coaſt being too ſhallow to be approached by veſſels that draw more than 12 feet water. It is built in the form of an oblong ſquare, divided into 4 ſtreets, and has a church, a monaſtery of the order of St. Auguſtine, and a fort, or caſtle, called St. John's. Lat. 29. 53. N. lon. 81. 10. W.

AUGUSTINE, a cape of Braſil, 300 miles NE. of All Saints Bay. Lat. 9. 51. S. lon. 35. 40. W.

AUGUSTOW, a fine town of Poland, in Polachia, 30 miles NW. of Grodno.

AVIGLIANO, a little town of Piedmont, 7 miles W. of Turin.

AVIGNON, a large city in the dept. of Vaucluſe, declared a part of France ſince the revolution; but before it, the capital of a little ſovereignty, ſubject to the pope, whoſe legate reſided here Avignon was the reſidence of ſeveral popes ſucceſſively, from 1307 to 1377. It is advantageouſly ſeated on the Rhone, 20 miles NE. of Niſmes, and 20 S. of Orange.

AVILA, an ancient city of Old Caſtile, with a univerſity, and a manufactory of fine cloth. It is ſeated in a large plain, ſurrounded by mountains, and covered with fruit-trees and vineyards, 40 miles NW. of Madrid.

AVILES, a town of Aſturia, on the Bay of Biſcay, 25 miles N. of Oviedo.

Avington, Berks, in the road from Spinham Land to Hungerford. Avington, Hants, near Wincheſter.

AVIS, a ſmall town of Alentejo, ſeated on an eminence, with a caſtle, near the river Avis. It is 65 miles E. of Liſbon.

Aukborough, Linc. in the NW. angle of the county, near Yorkſ. and Nott. Aukſcurk, Yorkſhire, near Barneſley.

AUKLAND, BISHOP, a pretty, large, and well-built town in Durham, chiefly remarkable for one of the Palaces of the biſhop of Durham. A manufacture of calico and muſlin has been lately eſtabliſhed here. It is ſituated near the conflux of the Wear with the Gaunleſs, or Wandleſs, 19 miles from Bernard Caſtle, 12 from Durham, and 250 from London. Market on Thurſday.

Aukland, St. Andrew's, and Aukland, Weſt, both near Biſhop Aukland. Aukley, Linc. on the borders of Yorkſ. near a river that runs into the Dun. Aulcaſton, Shropſhire, near Auckon Scot.

AULCESTER, an ancient town of Warwickſhire, with a manufactory of needles. It is ſituated at the union of the rivers Aln and Arrow, 7 miles W. of Stratford-upon-Avon, 14 from Waſwick, and 102 NW. of London, Market on Tueſday.

Auldby; ſee Auldby. Auldon, Shropſ. between Chingonas and Bromfield.

AULEN. See AWLAN.

AULENDORF, a town of Suabia, ſituated on the Schus, 8 miles N. of Ravenſpurg.

Auler, or Alre, Somerſetſ. near Somerton. Auleſcomb, Devonſ. NW. of Honiton, Aulefworth, Glouceſterſ. between Little Barington and the river Leck. Aulfrick, Worc. on the borders of Heref.

AULPS, or AUPS, a town in the dept. of Var.

Aulſton, Staffordſ. N. of Church-Eaton, Aulſton, Warwickſ. near Loxley. Aulſton, and Auxley, Worc. near Perſhore.

AUMALE. See ALBEMARLE.

Aumer, Norf. 6 miles E. of Caſtle Riſing, in the road from Walſingham. Aune, a river of Devonſ. running into the Engliſh Channel E. of Plymouth.

AUNIS, lately a ſmall territory of France, in Poictou, having Santonge on the E. and S. and comprehending the iſles of Rhé and Oleron; and now forms part of the department of Lower Charente. It's ſalt is reckoned the beſt in France.

Aunſbury, Glouceſ. near the New Ferry over the Severn. Aunſby, Linc. 10 miles from Grantham, in the road to Boſton. Aunſley, or Anſly, Nott. Aunſlop, Bucks, S. of Stoke Gelding. Avon, Hants, N. of Chriſtchurch. Avon, rivers of Glamorganſ. Monmouthſ. and Merionethſ.

AVON, a river which riſes in Wiltſhire, paſſes by Saliſbury, coaſts the edge of the New Foreſt, and enters the Engliſh Channel a little below Chriſtchurch, in Hampſhire.

AVON, a river that riſes in Leiceſterſ. and running SW. by Warwick and Eveſham, falls into the Severn at Tewkeſbury.

AVON, LOWER, or WEST AVON, a river that riſes near Tedbury, in Glouceſ. and running W. to Claverton, about 4 miles from Bath, is joined near it by the Frome;

Frome; the augmented ſtream then becomes navigable, and paſſing by the cities of Bath and Briſtol, falls into the Severn at Kingroad.

AURACH, a town of Wirtemburg, in Suabia, ſeated at the foot of a mountain, on the rivulet Ermſt, 15 miles E. of Tubingen.

AVRANCHES, a city in the dept. of the Channel, very ancient, and called the Bouleward of France, before Bretagne was united to the crown. The Bretons, however, took it and deſtroyed it's fortifications in 1203, but they were rebuilt in the reign of St. Louis. It is ſeated on a mountain, at the foot of which flows the river See, one mile and a half from the Engliſh Channel, and 30 E. of St. Malo. Lat. 48. 41. N. lon. 1. 38. W.

AURAY, a ſea-port, on a river of the ſame name, in the dept. of Morbihan, 8 miles W. of Vannes.

AURICK, a town of E. Frieſland, 12 miles NE. of Embden.

AURILLAC, a populous, trading town, in the dept. of Cantal, with a manufactory of lace and velvet. Before the revolution is was the capital of Lower Auvergne. It is ſeated on the river Jordanne, 30 miles SW. of St. Flour, and 250 S. of Paris. Lat. 44. 55. N. lon. 2. 22. E.

AURORA ISLAND, one of the New Hebrides, in the South Sea, about 20 leagues in circumference, with a ſmall bay on the NE. coaſt. Here is plenty of wood and freſh water. Lat. 15. 8. S. lon. 168. 12. E.

AURUNGABAD, one of the largeſt and moſt populous cities of India, in the Deccan, capital of a country of the ſame name. It was enlarged, and partly rebuilt, by Aurungzebe, who made it his place of reſidence. It is 545 miles S. of Delhi, and 260 NE. of Bombay. Lat. 19. 45. N. lon. 76. 2. E.

Auſeley, Warw. near Mereden. Auſrie, Worc. on the borders of Herefordſ. Auſt, Glouc. by the ſide of the Severn, 10 miles above Briſtol; a dirty village among the marſhes, only frequented for it's ferry over the Severn to Bleachley. Camden remarks, that King Edward the Elder paſſed over from this place, to hold a conference with Llewellyn, a prince of Wales. See New Paſſage.

AUSTEL, ST. a town of Cornwall, a little NE. of Grampound, 6 miles from Fowey, and 239 from London. Market on Friday.

Auſterfield, Yorkſ. near Sheffield. Auſterley, Yorkſ. near Bawtry. Auſterton, Cheſh. near Namptwich. Auſthorp, Linc. in the Fens, near Howel. Auſtkorp, Linc. near Burwell, and 4 or 5 miles NE. of Sleaford. Auſthorp, Rutland, between Burley and Cotteſmore. Auſtin-Kirk, Yorkſ. W. Riding, near Todwick. Auſtrey, Warw. 2 miles from Bramcote.

AUSTRIA, one of the circles of the German empire, bounded on the W. by Swiſſerland; on the N. by Suabia, Bavaria, Bohemia, and Moravia; on the E. by Hungary; and on the S. by Italy and Croatia. It contains the archduchy of Auſtria; the duchies of Stiria, Carinthia and Carniola; the county of Tyrol; the biſhoprics of Brixen and Trent; the four Foreſt Towns; Auſtrian Suabia; and the Briſgaw.

AUSTRIA, an archduchy, in the circle of the ſame name. The river Ens divides it into the Upper and Lower: Vienna the capital of the Lower, and Lintz of the Upper. Auſtria excels all the provinces of Germany, in the fertility of it's ſoil, the richneſs of it's paſtures, and the wholeſomeneſs of the air. Corn, wine, and fruit are very plentiful; and the ſaffron better than that of the E. Indies.

Auſtwick, Yorkſhire, near Clapham.

AUTUN, anciently AUGUSTODUNUM, a city in the dept. of Saone and Loire ſituated near the river Arroux, at the foot of three mountains. It contains beſides the cathedral, 8 pariſh churches; and, before the revolution, had ſeveral religious houſes. Here are alſo a great number of Roman antiquities, particularly, the temples of Janus and Cybele. They have manufactories of tapeſtry, from cow's hair and thread, carpets, coverlets, and delf ware. It is 45 miles E. by S. of Nevers and 162 SE. of Paris. Lat. 46. 57. N. lon. 4. 23. E.

AUVERGNE, a ci-devant province of France, having Forez on the E. and Bourbonnois on the N.; is was uſually divided into Upper and Lower, which latter was alſo called Limagne. Upper Auvergne is a cold, mountainous diſtrict; Lower Auvergne is temperate and fertile. It now forms the two departments of Cantal and Puy de Dome.

AUXERRE, a city in the dept. of Yonne, formerly governed by it's own counts, and capital of a diſtrict, called the Auxenois, in the N. part of Burgundy. The inhabitants are computed at 16,000. It contains 12 pariſh churches, 2 hoſpitals, ſeveral fountains and ſquares, and is ſeated on the declivity of a hill, at the foot of which flows the Yonne, 25 miles S. of Sens. Lat. 47. 48. N. lon. 3. 39. E.

Auxley, Worceſterſhire, near Perſhore.

AUXONNE, a ſmall town in the dept.

of Côte d'Or; ſeated on the Soane, over which there is a bridge of 23 arches, to facilitate the running off of the waters, after the overflowing of the river; and, at the end of the bridge, a cauſeway 2250 paces long. It is 17 miles E. of Dijon.

AWATSKA BAY, a harbour on the eaſtern coaſt of Kamtſchatka; ſaid to be the ſafeſt and moſt extenſive that has been yet diſcovered: it is the only one in that part of the world that can admit veſſels of a large burthen. The entrance to it is in lat. 52. 51. N. lon. 158. 48. E.

Awcliff, near Lancaſter.

AWE, LOCH, a beautiful lake in Argyleſhire, about 30 miles long, and in ſome parts 2 broad, containing many fine little iſlands, tufted with trees.

Awfold, Surry, 7 miles E. of Haſlemere.

AWLAN, or AALEN, an imperial town of Suabia, on the river Kocher, 40 miles NW. of Augſburg.

Awlby, or Auldby, 7 miles from York, on the river Derwent. Awre, Glouc. on the W. ſide of the Severn, between Newenham and Gatcomb, 3 miles from each. Awrish, a river of Durham, running into the Tees at Eggleton. Awthorp, Linc. in the Iſle of Axholm, and near the Trent. Ax, a river riſing in Dorſetſ. and falling into the ſea at Axmouth, in Devonſ.

AXBRIDGE, a neat, little town in Somerſetſ. conſiſting of one principal ſtreet, which is long but narrow. It contains near 200 houſes, and about 1000 inhabitants, many of whom are employed in knitting ſtockings. It is ſeated on the river Axe, about 7 miles from it's mouth, 10 miles NW. of Wells, and 152 W. of London. Market on Thurſday.

Axe, a river in Somerſ. falling into the Severn below Uphill. Axe, Dorſetſ. in the pariſh of Broad Windſor. Axey, Linc. the chief town in the Iſle of Axholme. Axford, Wilts, 3 miles W. of Ramſbury. Axholme, Linc. a river iſland in the NW. part of the county, formed by the Trent, Idle, Dun, and other rivers that encompaſs it. It is about 10 miles long, 4 broad, and 20 in compaſs, and has 3 villages, Crowle, Epworth, and Hyrſt on it.

AXEL, a town in Dutch Flanders, in a moraſs, 10 miles N. of Ghent.

AXEM, or AXIM, a territory on the Gold Coaſt, containing 2 or 3 villages on the ſea-ſhore. The inhabitants, who are generally rich, ſell gold to the Engliſh and Dutch: they likewiſe exchange vaſt quantities of fiſh and rice, to other places on the coaſt, for Indian corn, yams, potatoes, and palm oil. The Dutch have a fort and factory here, called St. Anthony. Lat. 5. 4. lon. 4. 7. W.

*AXMINSTER, a conſiderable town of Devonſ. with a manufactory of broad and narrow cloths, cotton tapes, druggets, and an extenſive one of carpets, wrought with needles by women. Here is a minſter yet ſtanding, erected by King Athelſtan; and the monuments yet remain in the church, of ſome who were killed in his army and buried here, when he defeated the Danes in a neighbouring field, called to this day King's Field. It is ſeated on the river Axe, 26 miles E. by N. of Exeter, and 147 W. of London. Market on Saturday.

Axmouth, Devonſ. on the coaſt between Lyme and Sidmouth. Axknoll, Dorſetſ. 2 miles NE. of Beminſter.

AXUM, a village, once a very large city, of Abyſſinia, as appears from its extenſive ruins. In one ſquare, Mr. Bruce found 40 obeliſks with ſculptures, but no hieroglyphics. Lat. 14. 13. N. lon. 36. 4. E.

Axwell, Durham, 2 miles W. of Ravenſworth Caſtle.

AYAMONTE, a well-fortified ſea-port of Andaluſia, at the mouth of the river Guadiana, 80 miles NW. of Cadiz. Lat. 37. 12. N. lon. 7. 15. W.

AYDON, or HAYDON BRIDGE, a town of Northumb. 5 miles W. of Hexham. Market on Tueſday.

Aydon Caſtle, Northumb. 10 miles W. of Newcaſtle. Ayford, Glouc. a little E. of Taunton. Aylburton, Glouceſ. on the Severn, oppoſite Berkeley. Ayleſborough, Worc. on a hill, 1 mile from Perſhore.

*AYLESBURY. See AILESBURY.

Ayleſford, Kent, on the Medway, 4 miles N. of Maidſtone, and 6 S. of Rocheſter.

AYLESHAM. See ALESHAM.

Ayleſton, Warw. in the pariſh of Atherſton, near the Avon. Aylmerton, Norf. near Fellbrigg. Aylmouth; ſee Alnemouth. Aylton, Herefordſ. W. of Lydbury. Aylton, Hunts, near Yaxley. Aylverton, Glouc. near Auſtferry. Aylwood, Dorſetſ. 2 miles E. of Corfe Caſtle, in the Iſle of Purbeck. Aylworth, Glouc. near Wythington. Aylworth, Suſſ. N. of Eaſtbourne. Aymeſtree, Herefordſ. 3 or 4 miles S. of Wigmore and W. of Leominſter.

AYMOUTH, a town of Berwickſhire, Scotland, with a ſmall harbour, principally for fiſhing veſſels. It is 6 miles N. of Berwick.

Ayno on the hill, Northamp. near Oxfordſhire and the river Charwell. Aynot, Little and Great, Herts, near Walthamſted. Ayſokling, Eſſex, near the Thorndons.

dons. Ayot Green, Herts, between the river and Kempton.

AYR, a ſea-port of Ayrſhire, ſituated on a ſandy plain, and built on both ſides of the river Ayr, which riſes on the borders of Lanerkſhire, and croſſing the county, to which it gives name, runs into the Clyde, near the town of Ayr. It's waters poſſeſs a petrifying quality, and wood petrified in it makes excellent hones for razors. Over it there is a bridge of 4 arches, in the middle of the town. The inhabitants carry on a conſiderable trade in coals and grain, and there is a profitable fiſhery of cod and haddock on the coaſt; they have alſo flouriſhing manufactures of cotton, iron, tambour works, &c. The market-croſs here is a valuable relic of antiquity, purporting, by the date which it bears, to have been built in 1055. It is 65 miles SW. of Edinburgh.

Ayreton, Yorkſ. SE. from Settle. Ayron, a river in Cardiganſhire.

AYRESHIRE, a large, commercial county of Scotland, bounded on the W. NW. and N. by the river Clyde and Renfrewſhire; on the E. by the counties of Lanerk and Dumfries; and on the SE. and S. by the ſhires of Kirkcudbright, and Wigtown. It is about 60 miles in length, and from 20 to 25 in breadth; it is divided into 46 pariſhes, and, in 1791, contained about 83,892 ſouls, having gained an increaſe, within the laſt forty years, of 14,883 inhabitants. It exhibits the ſhape of two wings, extending to the NW. and SW. and forming a large bay S. of the Frith of Clyde.

Ayſton, Rutl. near Uppingham Park. Ayton Field, Lancaſ. near Bolton. Ayton, Cheſh. near Northwich. Ayton, Shropſ. near Purſlow. Ayton, Northumb. 5 miles from Berwick. Ayton, Great and Little, Yorkſ. near Stokeſley. Ayton Eaſt Yorkſ. near Wickham. Ayton-Eaſt, Yorkſ. near the river Harford. Ayton-Weſt, Yorkſ near Stokeſley.

AZAMOR, a town of Duguella, Morocco, ſituated on the river Morbeys near the ſea; but the entrance of the river is dangerous. Lat. 33. 20. N.

AZEM. See ASSAM.

Azemon-Darby, and Azetley, Yorkſhire both in the W. Riding, near Rippon.

AZOF. See ASOPH.

AZORES, TERCERAS, or WESTERN ISLES, a group of iſlands, in the Atlantic Ocean, between 25 and 32 degrees of W longitude, and between 37 and 40 N. latitude; 900 miles W. of Portugal, and as many E. of Newfoundland. They are 9 in number, St. Maria, St. Michael, Tercera, St. George, Graciosa, Fayal, Pico Flores, and Corvo. They were firſt diſcovered in 1439, by John Vanderberg, merchant of Bruges, who was driven here by ſtreſs of weather. On his arrival at Liſbon, he boaſted of his diſcovery; on which the Portugueſe ſet ſail, and took poſſeſſion of them, which they have ever ſince retained. All theſe iſlands enjoy a very clear ſky and ſalubrious air: they are extremely fertile in corn, wine, and a variety of fruits; and they breed large quantities of cattle. No venomous animal, it is ſaid, is to be found here; and ſhips bound from Europe to America, on touching here, are immediately freed from the vermin that before infeſted them. Geographers are not determined whether they belong to Africa, to America, or to Europe. Theſe iſlands are ſubject to earthquakes; perhaps, it is to theſe dreadful convulſions, that they owe their origin.

AZUA DE COMPOSTELLA, a ſmall town on the S. coaſt of St. Domingo, on a deep bay, 12 leagues SSE. of Cape Salinas.

AZUL, RIO, i. e. Blue River, in California, N. America.

BAAR, a land graviate of Suabia. The river Danube riſes in this country, of which Furſtenburg is the principal town.

BABA, a town, juriſdiction, and river of Guayaquil, in Terra Firma. The country produces abundance of cocoas, of which they make two gatherings in a year.

BABA, a town and gulf of European Turkey, in Bulgaria, on the Black Sea, NE. of Siliſtria.

Babcary, Somerſ. on a branch of the river Parret, near N. and S. Berrowes.

BABELMANDEL, a ſtrait between Africa and Arabia, uniting the Red Sea with the Indian Ocean: near it there is a ſmall barren iſland, about 5 miles in circumference, almoſt uninhabited, of the ſame name. Lat. 12. 40. N. lon. 44. 30. E.

BADENAUSEN, a town of Wirtemberg, Suabia, ſituated on the Guntz. It is 16 miles SE. of Ulm.

Babe

Baker Bridge, Middl. near Hounſlow-Heath. Baberham Hall, 6 miles from Cambridge, S. of Gogmagog Hills. Baberſtock, Wilts, near Wilton. Babewell, Suff. near Ickworth. Babham, Berks, 2 miles N. of Maidenhead. Babingley, or Babyngley, upon the ſhore of Lynn-deep. Babington, Somerſ. near Kilmarſden. Bablack, Oxfordſ. near Radcot Bridge, over the Iſis.

BABOLITZA, CARETHNA, a town of Scalvonia, ſituated near the river Drave, between Poſſega and Zygeth.

Babworth, Nott. near Redford.

BABYLON. See IRAC ARABIC.

BACA, or BAZA, a populous town of Spain in Granada, ſituated on the S. ſide of the Guadalentin, 20 miles NE. of Guadix.

BACAIM, or BAZAIM, a ſea-port town in the iſland of Salſette. Lat. 19. 21. N. lon. 72. 40. E.

BACANO, a river, village, and ſmall lake, from which iſſues the river Varca, in the pope's territories.

BACASERAY, or BRACHISERIA, a town in the peninſula of the Crimea, 70 miles S. of Precop. Lat. 45. 30. N. lon. 35. 40. E.

BACCARACH, a town of the Lower Palatinate, Lower Rhine, famous for it's wines. It is ſeated on the W. ſhore of the Rhine, 20 miles W. of Mentz.

Bach, near Cheſter. Bache, a ſmall river in Montgomeryſhire. Bachefor, or Batsford, Glouc. near Morton in Marſh.

BACHIAN, one of the Molucca Iſlands, fertile in ſago, fruits, and all neceſſaries. The principal town is Sabrongo. It is ſituated under the equator, in lon. 125. E.

Backford, N. of Cheſter. Backton, Heref. S. of Morehampton. Backton, Norf. near the coaſt. Backton, Suff. 3 miles W. of Mendleſham. Backton, Suff. near Wulpit. Backwell, Somerſ. Backworth, Northum. 5 miles NW. of Tinmouth. Bacon End, Warw. near Solihull. Baconſthorp, Norf. near Hempſted. Baconſthorp, Norf. near Beckenham. Bacop-Booth, Lancaſ. near the river Irwell.

BADAJOX, a city of Spain, capital of Eſtremadura. It ſtands on an eminence, on the S. ſide of the Guadiana, over which there is a bridge 700 paces long and 14 broad, built by the Romans. It is 175 miles S. by W. of Madrid. Lat. 38. 32. N. lon. 6. 50. W.

Badbury, Dorſetſ. Badbury, near Norwich. Badbury, Wilts, N. of Aldeburnchaſe. Badby, Northamp. between Cateſby and Daventry. Baddeley, Cheſh. 2 miles from Namptwich. Baddeſley, Hants, NE. of Rumſey. Baddeſley South, Hants, near Lymington. Baddeſworth, Yorkſ. 4 miles from Doncaſter. Baddingham, Suff. near Framlingham. Baddington, Cheſh. near Namptwich. Baddleſton, Somerſetſ. near Milverton. Baddow, Great and Little, Eſſex, both near Chelmsford.

BADEN, a margravate of Suabia, divided into two principalities, Baden Baden and Baden Durlach, and it's capital ſituated near the Rhine, 4 miles S. of Raſtadt. Lat. 48. 50. N. lon. 8. 14. E.

BADEN, a county and bailiwick of Switzerland, in Argow, and it's capital, ſituated on the river Limmat, 14 miles NW. of Zurich. Lat. 47. 25. N. lon. 8. 20 E.

BADEN, a town in the archduchy of Auſtria, ſituated on the river Schwocha, 15 miles SW. of Vienna. The above places are all noted for their Baths, as their name Baden implies.

BADENWEILER, a town of Baden Baden, Suabia, ſeated near the Rhine, 10 miles SE. of Friburg.

Badgeworth, a village of Glouceſterſhire, 3 miles from Cheltenham, noted for a mineral ſpring. Badgeworth, Somerſ. NW. of Axbridge and Mendip Hills. Badhampton, Wilts, 3 miles W. of Stapleford. Badhampton, Wilts, near Lavington. Badington, Glouceſ. near Hawkeſbury.

BADIS, a fortreſs of Livonia, 20 miles E. of Revel.

Badleſmere, Kent, 8 miles from Canterbury, S. of Feverſham. Badingham, Camb. on the borders of Suff. Badenagh, Northumb. in the ward of Tyndale. Badley, Suff. near Needham. Badmington, Wilts. Badmington, Magna and Parva, Glouc. NE. of Chipping-Sudbury. Badſell, Kent, E. of Tunbridge. Badſey, Worceſ. E. of Eveſham. Badſey, Yorkſ. W. Riding, between Bramham Moor and Gawthorp Hill. Badshot, Surry, N. of Farnham. Badwell Aſh, Suff. near Walſham in the Willows.

BAEZA, a large and handſome town of Jaen, in Andaluſia, with an univerſity. It is ſeated near the Guadalquiver, 17 miles NE. of Jean.

BAFFIN'S BAY, a very large gulf in N. America, NE. of Hudſon's Bay, diſcovered by Baffin, an Engliſhman, in 1616, in his attempting to diſcover a NW. paſſage from Europe to the Pacific. It extends from 70 to 80 degrees N. lat. and from 45 to 85 W. lon.

BAFFO, a conſiderable town of Cyprus, in lat. 34. 50. N. lon. 32. 20. E.

Bagbere, Dorſetſhire, near Stourminſter-Newton.

Newton. Bagborough, Dorſetſ. 7 miles W. of Stourminſter. Bagborough-Eaſt, Somerſ. near Wivelſcomb. Bagborough-Weſt, Somerſ. 4 or 5 miles SE. of Stoke-Gomer. Bagby, Yorkſ. SE. of Thirſk.

BAGDAD, a large and populous city, the capital of Irac-Arabic (the ancient Chaldea, or Babylon) a province of Turkey, in Aſia. It is ſeated on the E. ſide of the Tigris, along the banks of which it extends about 2 miles. The ſuburbs being very extenſive, and on both ſides of the river, which is broad, deep, and rapid, and at certain ſeaſons riſes to a prodigious height, overflowing tracts of the country, the communication is kept up by a bridge of boats. About half of the inhabitants are Turks, Perſians, Arabs, &c. the reſt conſiſts of Armenians, a few Europeans, and Jews; which laſt act in the capacity of bankers to the reſt. Their numbers are variouſly ſtated, at from 15 to 60.000. It's trade is conſiderable, being annually viſited by the Symrna, Aleppo, and Weſtern caravans. It was the capital of the Saracen empire, till taken by the Turks in the thirteenth century. It is 250 miles N. by W. of Baſſora. Lat. 32. 20. N. lon. 43. 52. E.

Bagenderby, Lincolnſ. 6 miles NW. of Spilſby. Bagendon, Glouc. 3 miles from Cirenceſter. Baggeley, Shropſ. between Wem and Oſweſtree. Baggington, Warw. 4 miles SE. of Coventry. Baggot's Hope, Shropſ. at the foot of Stitterſtones Hill. Bagburſt. Hants E. of Kingſclear. Baglake, Weſt, Dorſetſhire, in the pariſh of Longbridy.

BAGLANA, or BOCKLANA, a mountainous, but fertile country of Hindooſtan, in the Deccan, extending from the Surat river to Poonah, having Guzerat to the N. Candeiſh and Dowlatabad to the E. and SE. and the Gauts mountains to the S.

Bagley Wood, Berkſhire, 2 miles up the river, above Abingdon. Bagmermere, Cheſh. 1 mile SW. of Congleton. Bagnall Chapel, Staff. near Hilton Abbey and the ſource of the Trent.

Bagnal's Arms, Bagnal's Bridge, and Bagnal's Town, all in the county of Carlow, in Leinſter, between 40 and 50 miles from Dublin.

BAGNARA, a ſea-port of Calabria Ultra, 8 miles S. of Palmi. In this town, 3017 perſons periſhed by an earthquake, in 1783. Lat. 38. 15. N. lon. 16. 8. E.

BAGNAREA, a town of Patrimonio, in the pope's territories, 5 miles S. of Orvieto.

BAGNERES DE LUCHON, a town in the dept. of the Upper Pyrenees, much frequented on account of it's hot mineral waters. It is ſituated on the river Adour 10 miles SE. of Tarbez.

BAGNERES EN BIGORRD, a town in the dept of Upper Garonne, ſituated near the ſource of the river Garonne, 60 miles SW. of Thoulouſe.

BAGNIALACK, or BANJALUKA, a town of Boſnia, 30 miles NE. of Spalatro.

BAGNOLS, a town in the dept. of Gard near the river Ceſe (in the bed of which ſome gold ſand is found) 8 miles SW. of Pont St. Eſprit.

Bagnor, Berks, 2 miles from Newbury Bagpath, Glouc. near Berkeley. Bargrave Leiceſ. between Hungerton and Crawſton Bagshaw, Derb. in the High Peak.

*BAGSHOT, between Staines and Hartley-Row, 7 miles from Windſor. Bagſhot-Heath, extending many miles in Berkſhire and Hampſhire, is very deſert and barren, producing little but furze.

Bagthorp, Norf. 7 miles W. of Walſingham. Bagthorp, Nott. near Mansfield Baguleigh, Cheſh. between Altringham and Stockport. Bagwarth, near Leiceſter.

BAHAMA, or LUCAYA ISLANDS, ſituated to the S. of Carolina, between 22 and 27 degrees of N. latitude, and 73 and 81 of W. longitude. They extend along the coaſt of Florida to the Iſle of Cuba and are ſaid to be 300 in number, moſtly mere rocks; but 12 of them large and fertile: Providence, one of the leaſt of theſe is reckoned the moſt valuable. The iſland of Bahama, which is the largeſt, and gives name to the reſt, is about 60 miles long 9 wide. Lat. about 26. and 27. N. lon about 78. and 80. W. They are poſſeſſed by the Engliſh, who have introduced the cotton ſeed here from Georgia, which is found to be well adapted to the ſoil and climate. The quantity of cotton they exported, in 1792, was 5047 bales, weighing 1,162,822 pounds.

BAHAR, a country of Hindooſtan Proper, bounded on the W. by Oude and Allahabad; on the N. by Napaul and Oude on the E. by Bengal; and on the S. by Bengal and Oriſſa. It produces wheat rice, peas, &c. but the principal article of export, is the ſaltpetre, manufactured in this province. The town of Bahar formerly the capital, is about 30 miles SE of Patna, it's preſent capital. It is ſubject to the Engliſh Eaſt India Company.

BAHEREN, or BAHHREIN, a town in the iſland of Aval, the largeſt among the cluſter called Bahhrein, in the Gulf of Perſia, containing, beſides the fortified town of Bahhrein, about 60 poor villages

It is famous for it's pearl fiſhery. Lat. 26. 10. N. lon. 49. 5. E.

BAHUS, or BOHUS, a town of W. Gothland, capital of a government of the ſame name. It ſtands on a rock in an iſland, 10 miles N. of Gottenburg.

BAIA, a town of Lavora, Naples, famous under the ancient Romans for it's hot bath, ſumptuous palaces, moles like promontories, erected to drive out the ſea; and other eſtabliſhments of enormous expence. The ruins of marbles, moſaics, ſtucco, and other fragments here, are innumerable. This once favourite ſeat of health and pleaſure, is now the den of peſtilence, (at leaſt during the eſtival heats), occaſioned by ſtagnant waters, mephitic vapours, &c. It is 11 miles W. of Naples.

BAIKAL, a lake in Siberia, 320 miles in length, and 26 in breadth, interſperſed with iſlands. In it are pikes, black ſeals, and ſturgeons, of an immenſe ſize. Lat. from about 51. to 55. N. lon. from 104. to 110. E.

BAILEUL, a town in the dept. of the North, 9 miles SW. of Ypres.

Bailey, Bucks, between Slough and Salthill. Bailham, Suff. near Nettleſted.

Bailieborough, in the county of Cavan, Ulſter, 43 miles from Dublin.

BAIN-GONGA, a large river of Hindooſtan, which, riſing near the ſouth bank of the Nerbudda, runs ſouthward through Berar, and after a courſe of near 400 miles, unites with the Godavery, within the hills, that bound the Britiſh Northern Circars.

Baint Brig, Yorkſ. near Swaleſdale Foreſt. Baire, Linc. near Hetſbank Paſſage, over the Leven Sands. Baits, Cheſh. E. of the branch of the Merſeys that runs S. into the Dee. Baits Croſs, Northumb. within the bounds of Berwick. Bake, Cornw. in the pariſh of St. Germains.

BAJA, a populous town of Hungary, on the Danube, 35 miles NE. of Eſſeek.

BAKEWELL, a pretty, large town, in Derbyſhire, on the NW. ſide of the Peak. It is ſeated on the river Wye, near it's influx into the Derwent, 20 miles NNW. of Derby, and 151 from London. Market on Monday, chiefly for lead.

BAKU, a town of Perſia, in the province of Schirvan; the moſt commodious haven of the Caſpian Sea, on the W. coaſt of which it is ſituated, 300 miles S. of Aſtracan. Lat. 40. 2. N. lon. 49. 15. E.

BALA, a town of Merionethſhire, ſeated on the lake of Bala, or Pemblemere, which is 13 miles in length, and 6 in breadth, and abounds with a fiſh called guinard, reſembling a ſalmon in ſhape, and in taſte a trout. The river Dee, noted for ſalmon, runs through the lake. This town carries on a conſiderable trade in knit, woollen ſtockings, flannels, and corn. It is 36 miles from Holywell, and 165 NW. of London. Market on Saturday.

BALAGAT, or BALLA-GAUT, a country in the Deccan, conſiſting of a vaſt extent of fertile and populous plains, extending along a ſtupendous wall of mountains, called the Gauts. It is ſubject to the Poonah Mahrattas, and extends through their territories and the Peninſula, to the S. extremity of the kingdom of Myſore. See GAUTS.

BALAGUER, a town of Catalonia, ſituated on the river Segra, 63 miles WNW. of Barcelona.

Balam, Surry, between Camberwell and Clapham.

BALARUC, a town in the dept. of Herault, famous for it's baths.

BALASORE, or JELLASORE, a ſea-port of Oriſſa, on the NW. of the Bay of Bengal, 4 miles from the ſea by land, and 20 by it's river, the Gongahar. The inhabitants make ſtuffs of ſilk, cotton, and a ſort of graſs. The adjoining country is very fertile, and fiſh is very plentiful. It is 104 miles SW. of Calcutta. Lat. 22. 0. N. lon. 87. 1 E.

BALBASTRO, a town of Arragon, on the river Verò, 40 miles NE. of Saragoſſa.

BALBEC, the ancient Heliopolis, a town of Syria, ſituated at the foot of Anti-Lebanon, exactly where the mountain terminates in the plain. The magnificent remains of the once famous Temple of the Sun, in this city, though mutilated and deformed by the Turkiſh minarets, houſes, moſques, &c. made up of the ruins, are well preſerved, and diſplay the boldeſt and moſt beautiful plan that ever was attempted in architecture. This temple is ſuppoſed to have been built by Antoninus Pius, in place of the more ancient temple gone to decay. Balbec is chiefly inhabited by Chriſtians of the Greek church, and is 37 miles N. of Damaſcus. Lat. 34. 22. N. lon. 37. 22. E.

*BALBRIGGEN, a ſea-port of the county of Dublin, in Leinſter, 15 miles from the metropolis, or city of Dublin.

Balby, Yorkſhire, near Doncaſter.

Balcarra, in Mayo, Connaught, 115 miles from Dublin.

BALCH, or BALK, a conſiderable town and province of Uſbeck Tartary, S. of Samarcand, and E. of Bucharia Proper. The latter is about 360 miles long and 250 broad. The former is ſituated on the frontiers of Perſia, in lat. 37. N. lon. 65. 20. E.

Balcomb, Suſſex, E. of Horeſham. Balden March and Balden Toot, two villages NE. of Oxford. Balderſby, Yorkſ. near Thirſk. Balderton, Nott. near Newark. Balderton, Lanc. near Blackburn. Balderwood Lodge, Hants, in the New Foreſt.

BALDIVIA, or VALDIVIA, a ſea-port of Chili, in S. America, ſituated on a bay of the ſame name, between the rivers Callacalles and Portero, where they fall into the S. Sea. The inhabitants, who are about 2000, ſend ſome large ſhips to Lima, with gold, corn, hides, and ſalt proviſions, in exchange for ſlaves, ſugar, chocolate, and European commodities and manufactures. The town is incloſed with walls, built of earth, and ſeveral forts have been erected at the entrance of the harbour. Lat. 38. 18. S. lon. 73. 20. W.

BALDOCK, a pretty large town in Herts, ſeated between the hills, in a chalky ſoil, 9 miles from Barkway and Royſton, and 38 NNW. of London. A conſiderable market on Thurſday for corn and malt.

Baldox-Fee, Hants, W. of the Bay of Southampton, oppoſite Redbridge.

BALI, an iſland, forming the E. ſide of the Straits of Bali, or Java, through which the E. India ſhips ſometimes return from China. The iſland is populous, and abounds in rice and all ſorts of fruits. The inhabitants are Pagans, and much addicted to war: they are of a black, or very dark complexion. Lat. 7. 10. S. lon. 115. 50. E.

Balinagar, in Galway, 83 miles from Dublin. Balintra, in Roſcommon, 83 miles from Dublin, both in Connaught.

Balking, Berks, near Offington and Shirevenham. Balkington, Dorſetſ. in the Iſle of Purbeck, near Warbarrow Bay.

Ball, in Mayo, Connaught, 107 miles from Dublin. Ballaghadireen, in Mayo, Connaught, 89 miles from Dublin. Ballaghneed Inn, in Tyrone, Ulſter, 78 miles from Dublin. Ballaghy in Sligo, Connaught, 20 miles S. of Sligo, and 105 from Dublin. Lat. 53. 48. N. lon. 8. 55. W. Ballaghy, in Mayo, Connaught, 97 miles from Dublin. Ballaghy, in Londonderry, Ulſter, 92 miles from Dublin.

Ballamono, a village in the iſle of Man, near Caſtletown.

Ballaſedere, in Sligo, Connaught, 100 miles from Dublin; here is a water-fall.

Ballendon, Bucks, near Amerſham.

Ballengary, in Kerry, Munſter, at the mouth of the Shannon, near Ardfert.

Balles, Herts, in Little Amwell. Balley Salley, a village in the Iſle of Man, 5 miles from Caſtletown. Balhill, Devonſ. near Hartland.

Balliclare, in Antrim, Ulſter. Balliclagh, in Cork, Munſter.

Ballidon, Derbyſ. near Wirkeſworth.

Balliduan, Weſt, in Clare, Munſter.

Ballihaneſs, in Mayo, Connaught. Ballileague, in Roſcommon, Connaught.

*BALLIMORE, a town in Weſtmeath, Leinſter, ſituated halfway between Mullingar and Athlone, 50 miles from Dublin.

*BALLINA, or BELLEEK, a town in Mayo, Connaught, 14 miles N. of Caſtlebar, and 120 from Dublin.

Ballinacargy, in Weſtmeath, Leinſter, nearly 46 miles from Dublin. Ballinacrigg, in Cavan, Ulſter. Ballinachora, near Middletown, in Cork, Munſter. Ballinafad, in Roſcommon, Connaught. Ballinafad, in Sligo, Connaught, about 8 miles from Dublin. Ballinagar, in King County, Leinſter, 41 miles from Dublin. Ballinagh, in Cavan, Ulſter. Ballinalack, in W. Meath, Leinſter, nearly 48 miles from Dublin. Ballinamullard, in Fermanagh, Ulſter. Ballinamore, in Galway, Connaught, 48 miles from Dublin. Ballinanaght, in Cavan, Ulſter, 54 miles from Dublin.

*BALLINASLOE, a village in Roſcommon, Connaught, remarkable for it's great fairs of cattle, wool, &c. It is 72 miles from Dublin.

Ballinavar, in Cork, Munſter. Ballinclare, in Kerry, Munſter. Ballindaggin in Mayo, Connaught, nearly 100 miles from Dublin. Ballinderry, in Wicklow Leinſter. Ballinderry, in Antrim, Ulſter, 73 miles from Dublin. Ballindrait, in Donegal, Ulſter, 104 miles from Dublin. Ballingarry, in Limerick, Munſter, 12 miles from Dublin. Ballingarrycrane, in Limerick, Munſter.

Ballingham, Heref. SE. of Aconbury.

Ballington, Eſſex, NW. of Sudbury.

Ballinlough, in the pariſh of Anahilt in Down, Ulſter. Ballinlough, in Roſcommon, Connaught, 90 miles from Dublin. Ballinphelic, in Cork, Munſter; here is ſulphureous chalybeate water.

*BALLINROBE, a town of Mayo, in Connaught, 112 miles from Dublin.

Ballinſpidle, in Cork, Munſter. Ballintobber, in Roſcommon, Connaught, 7 miles from Dublin. Ballintogher, in Sligo Connaught. Ballintoy, on a bay in Antrim, Ulſter, 150 miles from Dublin. Coals are raiſed here. Balintra, in Donegal, Ulſter, nearly 106 miles from Dublin. Ballinroony, in Cork, Munſter.

BALLOGISTAN, a territory of Delhi, in Hindooſtan, bordering weſtward on the country of the Seiks, and approaching to the N. of Mewat. It's extremity is about 14 miles W. from Delhi. It is of an oval form, about 80 miles long, and from 20 to 30 broad. The country is rugged, being full of ravines, and the inhabitants are savage and cruel.

Balbirnie, a pleasant peninsula, in Louth, Ulster; in which are remaining evident marks of a druid's grove, or dwelling, supposed to have been the supreme seat of the drew, or arch-druid.

*BALLYBAY, a town in Monaghan, Ulster, 53 miles from Dublin.

Ballybracen, in Waterford, Munster. Ballybeg, in Cork, Munster. Ballybeggan, in Kerry, Munster, 2 miles E. by N. from Traice. Ballyboffey, in Donegal, Ulster, 113 miles from Dublin. Ballybogan, in Meath, Leinster. Ballybough Bridge, one mile from Dublin, Leinster, on an arm, or creek of the bay.

*BALLYBOY, a town in the King's County, Leinster, 56 miles from Dublin.

Ballybritas, in Queen'sCounty, Leinster. 33 miles from Dublin. Ballybrood, in Limerick, Munster. Ballycam Bay, near Killough, in Down, Ulster. Ballycanoe, in Wexford, Leinster, 4 miles from Gorey, and 49 from Dublin. Ballycarney, in Wexford, Leinster. Ballycarry, in Antrim, Ulster, 92 miles from Dublin. Ballycasedy, on the E. side of Lough Earne, in Fermanagh, Ulster; 83 miles from Dublin. Ballycastin, in Waterford, Munster.

*BALLYCASTLE, a sea-port town of Antrim, in Ulster, about 30 miles N. of Carrickfergus, and 113 from Dublin. It is noted for it's adjacent colleries, and near it there is a chalybeate spring.

Ballycleave, in Kerry, Munster. Ballicleribaa, in Tipperary, Munster. Ballyclough, in Cork, Munster, one mile from Mallow.

*BALLYCONNEL, a town in Cavan, Ulster, 67 miles from Dublin, and 11 NW. of Cavan.

Ballycopland, in Down, Ulster. Ballycotton, a village, island, and bay of Cork, in Munster, 4 miles from Cloyne. Ballycowan, in King's County, Leinster. Ballycumber, in King's County, Leinster, about 51 miles from Dublin. Ballydargan, in Down, Ulster. Ballydehob, in Cork, Munster. Ballydesmond, now called Ballydevlin, a castle in the county of Cork, Munster, on a rock projecting into the sea. Ballydougan, in Down, Ulster, S. of Hollymount, on the verge of Lake Strangford. Ballyferan, in Roscommon, Connaught, 71 miles from Dublin. Ballygamboon, in Kerry, Munster, produces large quantities of cyder. Ballygawly, in Tyrone, Ulster, 74 miles from Dublin. Ballygobbin; see Bantry. Ballygorcen, in Cork, Munster. Ballygunner, in Waterford, Munster. Ballyhack Ferry, in Wexford, Leinster, 91 miles from Dublin. Ballyhalbert, in Down, Ulster, 86 miles from Dublin. Ballyhasfik, in Cork, Munster.

*BALLYHAUNIS, in Mayo, Connaught, 93 miles from Dublin.

Ballyhaven Road, near Strangford Bay, in Down, Ulster. Ballyhays, in Cavan, Ulster, 57 miles from Dublin. Ballyhean, in Mayo, Connaught. Ballyheen, in Cork, Munster. Ballyheigh Bay, coast of Kerry, Munster. Ballyhenry Road, in Strangford Bay, in Down, Ulster. Ballyhilluck, in Kilkenny, Leinster. Ballyhighland, in Cavan, Ulster. Ballyhinch, in Kilkenny, Leinster. Ballyholm Bay, coast of Down, in Ulster, between Carrickfergus and the Copland Islands. Ballyhooly, in Cork, Munster, pleasantly situated on the Blackwater, in a woody country, 111 miles from Dublin. Bally James Duff, in Cavan, Ulster. Ballykelly, in Londonderry, Ulster, 125 miles from Dublin. Ballyket, in Clare, Munster, 141 miles from Dublin. Ballylaghan, in Mayo, Connaught, 110 miles from Dublin. Ballylemon, in Waterford, Munster. Ballylongford, in Kerry, Munster, 121 miles from Dublin. Ballymacandan, in Kilkenny, Leinster, 59 miles from Dublin. Ballymagory, in Tyrone, Ulster. Ballymagowran, in Cavan, Ulster.

*BALLYMAHON, a town of Longford, in Leinster, 52 miles from Dublin.

Ballymalbe Castle, in Cork, Munster. Ballymalony, in Clare, Munster, 92 miles from Dublin. Ballymalus Castle, on the river Lane, in Kerry, Munster. Ballymaney, in Kildare, Leinster. Ballymanlagh, in Tipperary, Munster, 91 miles from Dublin. Ballymascanlan, in Louth, Leinster, 44 miles from Dublin. Ballymegarry, in Tyrone, Ulster, 104 miles from Dublin.

*BALLYMENA, a town of Antrim, in Ulster, 20 miles NW. of Belfast, and 93 N. of Dublin.

Ballymoney, in Galway, Connaught.

*BALLYMONEY, a town of Antrim, in Ulster, 107 miles from Dublin.

BALLYMORE, a small town in West Meath, Leinster, 47 miles W. of Dublin.

Ballymorreen, in Tipperary, Munster, 68 miles from Dublin. Ballymore Eustace, on the Liffey, about 17 miles from Dublin. Ballymote, in Galway, Connaught. Ballymullalon, in Roscommon, Connaught, 64 miles from Dublin. Ballymurry, in Roscommon, Connaught, 69 miles from Dublin. Ballymurtogh, in Wicklow, Leinster. Ballyna, in Mayo, Connaught, 115 miles from Dublin. Lat. 54. 4. N. lon. 9. 10. W. Ballynacargy, in Cavan, Ulster.

ſter, 131 miles from Dublin. Ballynacarrow, in Sligo, Connaught. Ballynacleſſan, in Cork, Munſter. Ballynaclush, in Carlow, Leinſter, 2 miles from Rathdrum. Ballynaganny, in Meath, Leinſter, 40 miles from Dublin. Ballynahaſſack, in Cork, Munſter. Ballynahown, in Weſt Meath, Leinſter.

*BALLYNAHINCH, in Down, Ulſter, nearly 76 miles from Dublin.

Ballynakelly, in Cork, Munſter.

*BALLYNAKILL, a town in Queen's County, Leinſter, 48 miles SW. of Dublin.

Ballynamara, in Kilkenny, Leinſter. Ballynamona, in Cork, Munſter, 137 miles from Dublin. Ballynamore, in Galway, Connaught, 74 miles from Dublin. Ballynaries, in Down; ſee Dromore. Ballynaſkeligs, a village and bay of Kerry, Munſter. Ballynaſloe; ſee Ballinaſloe. Ballynaſpeg, or Biſhop's Town, 2 miles W. of Cork, Munſter. Ballynatray, in Waterford, Munſter. Ballyneety, in Limerick, Munſter, 169 miles from Dublin. Ballynegalga, in Down; ſee Dromore. Ballynegall, in Limerick, Munſter, near Kilmallock. Ballynekill, 1 mile E. of Waterford, Munſter. Ballynguile, in Cork, Munſter. Ballyntobber, in Cork, Munſter, near Kinſale. Ballynure, in Antrim, Ulſter, nearly 91 miles from Dublin. Ballynvreney, in Limerick, Munſter. Ballyonan, in Kildare, Leinſter. Ballyporeen, in Tipperary, Munſter, nearly 97 miles from Dublin. Ballygragget, in Kilkenny, Leinſter, nearly 50 miles from Dublin. Ballyroan, in Queen's County, Leinſter, 44 miles from Dublin, and about 5 from Maryborough. Ballyroney Lake, in Down, Ulſter, near Rathfryland. Ballyſcandlan, in Limerick, Munſter. Ballyſeedy, in Kerry, Munſter, 2 miles SE. of Tralee.

*BALLYSHANNON, a town of Donegal, Ulſter, 101 miles from Dublin. It has a good harbour SE. of Donegal Bay, and a bridge of 14 arches over a river, which runs out of Lough Erne, and falling from a ridge of rocks, about 12 feet at low water, forms a moſt beautiful and pictureſque caſcade. It is a great ſalmon-leap, and large quantities of that fiſh are got here.

Ballyſodare, in Sligo, Connaught.

*BALLYTORE, a beautiful village, in Kildare, Leinſter, ſeated on the river Griſs, 28 miles from Dublin, on the road to Cork.

Ballytrain, in Monaghan, Ulſter. Ballytriſna, in Kilkenny, Leinſter. Ballyvary, in Mayo, Connaught. Ballyvely, in Mayo, Connaught. Ballyvenine, in Cork, Munſter, about a mile W. of Roſs. Ballyvogy Head, in Cork, Munſter; between this and the oppoſite cape, Mizen-Head, there is a large bay. Ballyvolane at the Cove of Cork, Munſter. Ballyvourney, in Cork Munſter. Ballywalter, in Down, Ulſter, 89 miles from Dublin.

Balms, or Barms, Middleſex, near Daſton, part of Hackney.

Balnabara, in Weſt Meath, Leinſter. Balnalack, in Weſt Meath, Leinſter. Balnaglera, in Armagh, Ulſter.

Baln Hall, Yorkſ. near Snaith.

Balon, in Carlow, Leinſter.

Balrigg, near Lancaſter.

BALRUDDERY, or BALROTHERY, town of Dublin, Leinſter, 14 miles N. of the city, and about 1 from the ſea.

Balſborough, Somerſ. SE. of Glaſtonbury. Balſhall, Warw. W. of Coventry. Balſhall, Yorkſ. near the conflux of the Ribble and the Holder, E. of Raddc Park. Balſham, 10 miles from Cambridg E. of Gog Magog Hills. Baltoſlow, Suſex, SW. of Winchelea.

BALTIC, a large inland ſea, in the N. Europe, having Denmark and Sweden the W. Ruſſia and Poland on the E. an Poland, Pruſſia and Germany on the The Baltic neither ebbs nor flows, and the is always a ſuperficial current ſets throug the Sound into the ocean, while the wate at a conſiderable depth, keeps ruſhing i There is a method of keeping a boat ſt tionary in ſuch a ſituation; it is by mal ing uſe of a large baſket full of ſtones, i ſtead of an anchor; when this is throw overboard, and ſuſpended at a proper dept from the boat by a rope, the boat is pr vented from being carried along with t upper current, by the preſſure of the opp ſite current, beneath on the baſket. T Baltic is generally frozen in the winter.

BALTIMORE, a town of Cork, Munſter, with a good harbour: it ſtands on headland, which runs into the ſea, 5 mil NE. of the iſland of Cape Clear. It w taken and plundered by the Algerines 1631, on which the affrighted inhabitan fled, and it has never ſince recovered it former conſequence. It is 15 miles SW of Roſs, and 168 from Dublin.

BALTIMORE, a large and trading tow of Maryland, in America, ſeated on the P tapſee, which runs into Cheſapeak Ba It is divided into the Town and Fell Point, by a creek, over which there are bridges. At Fell's Point, the water deep enough for ſhips of burden; but ſma veſſels only go up to the town. In 1787 t number of houſes was 1955; the numb of inhabitants is upwards of 12,000: th religious profeſſions are various. Balt more is 45 miles NE. of Annapolis. La 39. 45. N. lon. 76. 25. W.

BALTIMORE, a large county, in the weſtern part of Maryland.

BAMBA, a fertile province of Congo, in Africa, between the rivers Ambriſi and Loſe. The ſea-coaſt produces vaſt quantities of ſalt, and they fiſh here for the zimbi, a little ſea ſnail, which is the current coin, not only here, but in the moſt diſtant parts of Africa.

*BALTINGLASS, a town of Wicklow, Leinſter, having extenſive manufactures of linen, woollen, and diaper. It is ſituated on the river Slaney, 39 miles SW. of Dublin.

Bamber, Yorkſ. near Horncaſtle.

BAMBERG, a large, populous, and handſome city of Franconia, formerly imperial, and now capital of a biſhoprick of the ſame name, about 60 miles in length, and 40 in breadth, having the biſhoprick of Wurtzburg on the W. The country about it is very fertile in grain, ſaffron, liquorice, figs, lemons, and oranges, and is watered by the rivers Rednitz and Pegnitz, which run through the town, and fall into the Mayne a little below it. Here is an univerſity. It is 35 miles N. of Nuremburg. Lat. 50. 2. N. lon. 11. 7. E.

BAMBERG, a town of Bohemia, on the frontiers of Moravia, near the river Orlitz, 30 miles from Glatz. Lat. 49. 55. N. lon. 16. 50. E.

Bamborough, Northamp. near Brackley.

Bamborough, Northumb. 5 miles from Belford, and the ſame diſtance from Farn Iſlands.

BAMBUCK, a pretty large, and populous country, in the interior of Africa, (mentioned by Abbé Raynal, but without ſpecifying his authorities,) under the 12th or 13th deg. of N. lat. governed by village lords, called Farims. There are 6 gold mines in it, and others of ſilver, tin, lead, iron, and loadſtone. Here are apes, whiter than the whiteſt European rabbits, white foxes, and an animal called the Giraſa, as high, but not ſo large, as the elephant; made more like a camel, and of extraordinary ſwiftneſs.

Bamburgh, Linc. near the Bane, NW. of Horncaſtle. Bamburgh Caſtle, Northum. or rather the remains of it, ſituated on a very ſteep rock, that is waſhed by the ſea. It was in great repute during the Saxon heptarchy, and often ſuſtained the whole power of the Scottiſh nation; 14 miles SE. of Berwick.

BAMF. See BANFF.

BAMPTON, a town of Devonſhire, ſeated on a branch of the river Ex, in a bottom ſurrounded by hills, 21 miles from Exeter, and 163 W. by S. of London. Market on Saturday.

BAMPTON, a large town in Oxfordſ. trading largely in fellmongers wares, as leather jackets, gloves, breeches, and ſtockings. It is ſeated on the Iſis, where it is navigable by boats, on the borders of Berkſhire. It is 5 miles from Burford, 12 W. of Oxford, and 70 W. by N. of London. A conſiderable market on Wedneſday.

Ban, a river of Down, Ulſter, which riſes about 8 miles E. of Newry, and falls into Lough Neagh. Banada, in Sligo, Connaught.

*BANAGHER, a town of King's County, Leinſter, ſeated on the Shannon, over which it has 2 bridges. It is about 15 miles S. of Athlone, and 66 from Dublin.

Banagher Church, in Tyrone, Ulſter, 101 miles from Dublin. Banagroth, in King's County, Leinſter.

Banbery, 4 miles from Norwich.

*BAINBRIDGE, a village of Down, Ulſter, noted for it's great fairs of linen cloth. It is about 18 miles W. of Down-Patrick, and 60 from Dublin.

*BANBURY, a town in Oxfordſ. noted in Camden's time for good cheeſe, but now chiefly for cakes and ale. It has a manufacture of pluſh, or ſhag cloth, contains about 709 houſes, including 6 hamlets belonging to it, and is ſeated on the Cherwell, in a fertile ſoil, 17 miles from Oxford, and 75 NW. of London. Market on Thurſday.

BANCA, an iſland, in the Indian Archipelago, on the ESE. of Sumatra, between that iſland and Borneo; with a town and ſtrait of the ſame name. It is about 100 miles long and 30 broad, populous, and tolerably fertile. Lat. 2. 35. S. lon. 106. 50. E.

BANCALIS, a ſea-port of Acheen, on the E. coaſt of Sumatra, 130 miles W. of Malacca. The Dutch have a ſettlement here. Lat. 1. 15. N. lon. 100. 7. E.

BANCOCK, or FOU, a town of Aſia, in Siam. The houſes are made of canes, and covered with palm leaves; but there is very little furniture in them, and the inhabitants, who go almoſt naked, ſit on the floor. It is ſituated in an iſland, formed by the river Menan, 40 miles S. of Siam.

BANDA, the general name of 5 Iſlands, in the Indian Ocean. They lie between 4 and 5 degrees of S. lat. and between 127 and 128 E. lon. and are denominated Banda, or Lantor, Poleron, Roſinging, Poolaway, and Gonapi. The nutmeg, covered with mace, grows only on 3 of theſe iſlands, where there are whole foreſts of it. Theſe iſlands are ſubject to earthquakes, and all very ſmall, the largeſt, Banda, being ſcarcely 20 miles in length. They have been entirely ſubject to the Dutch ever ſince the year 1609, when they expelled both the Engliſh and the natives. They alſo keep unceaſing war againſt the birds, which, ſwallowing the ſeeds whole, they fear might void them, in other iſlands, in a ſtate capable of vegetation; and they ſend out parties of their troops thither, on excurſions, to diſcover and extirpate every appearance of the young plants. The iſlands contain about 5000 inhabitants. The natives uſe the pith of the ſago for bread, and the Europeans, who are ſettled here, import their proviſions from Java, Macaſſar, or the very fertile iſland of Bali, as the land will not bring forth any kind of corn. Banda was taken by an Engliſh ſquadron, under Rear-admiral Rainier, March 8, 1796. Lat. 4. 50. S. lon. 128. 5. E.

BANDER CONGO, a ſmall ſea-port on the SE. coaſt of the Gulf of Perſia, 70 miles nearly W. of Ormus. Lat. 27. 10. N. lon. 54. 0. E.

*BANDON, a town of Cork, Munſter, ſeated on a river of the ſame name, 12 miles SW. of Cork, 137 from Dublin.

BANDORA, the capital of the Iſland of Salſette, in the Indian Ocean, ſeparated from Bombay by a narrow channel. Lat. 19. 0. N. lon. 72. 40. E.

Band-wood-Wiger, near Lancaſter. Bane, a ſmall river in Lincolnſhire.

*BANFF, the county-town of Banffſhire, in Scotland. It is well-built, on the declivity of a hill, with a harbour, often ſtopped by the ſhifting of the ſands, at the mouth of the Deveron, over which there is a handſome bridge, of 7 arches. It is 32 miles NW. of Aberdeen.

BANFFSHIRE, a county of Scotland, bounded on the W. by the county of Elgin, on the N. by the ocean, and on the E. SE. and S. by Aberdeenſhire. From NE. to SW. it's greateſt length, is 46 miles, and it's breadth from 4 to 24.

BANGALORE, a ſtrong fortreſs of Myſore, in Hindooſtan, 60 miles N. of Seringapatam. Lat. 13. 0. N. lon. 77. 39. E.

*BANGOR, a ſmall city of Carnarvonſhire, conſiſting of only one ſtreet, half a mile in length. A new harbour has been lately erected here, at the charge of Dr. Warren, biſhop of this dioceſe. It is ſituated in a deep valley, 16 miles SW. of Aberconway, and 251 NW. by W. of London. Market on Wedneſday.

*BANGOR, a town of Down, in Ulſter, ſituated on the S. ſide of Carrickfergus Bay, nearly 4 miles ESE. from Carrickfergus, and 90 N. of Dublin.

Banham, Norf. near New-Buckenham and Harling.

BANJAR, or BENJAR MASSON, a river of Borneo, on the mouth of which is a town, where the Engliſh E. India company have a factory. Lat. 2. 40. S. lon. 113. 40. E.

Banningham, Norfolk, near Erpingham. Bankhall, Lanc. N. of Liverpool.

Bankmore, a ſand bank, 1 mile S. of Portaferry Harbour, in Down, Ulſter. Banlahan, in Cork, Munſter.

Banniker Hall, Northumb. near Morpeth.

Bannockburn, a village of Stirlingſhire, ſeated on the Bannock, a rivulet of that county, which runs into the Forth. It is memorable for a deciſive battle fought near it, June 25, 1314, between an immenſe army of Engliſh, under Edward II. and 30,000 Scots, under Robert Bruce, wherein the former were totally defeated, and Scotland was thereby completely emancipated from the Engliſh yoke.

BANNOW, and BANNOW BAY, 10 miles SW. of Wexford.

Banon, a ſmall river in Pembrokeſhire. Banſbrook, Eſſex, near Finchingfield. Banſtead, a village of Surry, 13 miles nearly S. of London, noted for an abundance of walnut-trees, but more for it's neighbouring downs, which are ſmooth, like a carpet, being covered with ſhort herbage, perfumed with thyme and juniper, which makes the mutton of this place very ſweet. The downs form a tract of 30 miles, extending, under different denominations, from Croydon to Farnham.

BANTAM, a town with a good harbour, on the NW. coaſt of Java, capital of a kingdom of the ſame name. It was once populous and flouriſhing, but is now poor and reduced. The Engliſh and Danes had factories here till 1682, when they were expelled by the Dutch, who have alſo depoſed the kings of the ancient race, and ſuffer nothing to be done here but what they pleaſe: the produce is pepper, of which they, excluſively, export great quantities, not ſuffering any other Europeans to have a footing here. Lat. 6. 20. S. lon. 105. 26. E.

Banton, Banton Kirk, and Bauton Parva, Weſtmorland.

*BANTRY, a barony, town, harbour, and bay of Cork, Munſter. The barony is large, but barren, and deſolate: the bay, 26 miles long, a league broad, and in the middle 40 fathoms deep, is one of the fineſt in the world, being capable of holding all the ſhipping of Europe; the town is ſeated at the bottom of the bay, 30 miles SW. of Cork, and 164 SW. of Dublin.

Barcal,

Barstal, Somerſ. near Churchill.

BAPAUME, a town in the dept. of the Straits of Calais, 12 miles S. of Arras.

Bapchild, Kent, between Sittinbourne and Oſſpringe, Bapthorp, Yorkſ. E. Riding, on the Derwent, near it's conflux with the Ouſe. Bapton, Wilts, near Badhampton. Bar, Magna and Parva, Staff. near Walſal.

BAR, a town of Podolia, ſituated on the river Kiow, 40 miles NW. of Bracklaw. Lat. 49. 14. N. lon. 28. 20. E.

BAR, or the BARROIS, a duchy or territory of France, S. of Luxembourg, W. of Lorrain, and lying on both ſides of the Meuſe; it now forms the department of the Meuſe.

BAR LE DUC, a town in the dept. of the Meuſe, conſiſting of about 8000 inhabitants, and divided into the upper and lower town; the latter is watered by the rivulet Ornain, in which are very fine trouts. Their wine is excellent. It is 35 miles NW. of Nancy, 27 of Toul, and 138 E. of Paris.

BAR SUR AUBE, an ancient town in the dept. of Aube, noted for it's wines. It is ſeated on the river Aube, 18 miles SW. of Joinville. Lat. 48. 15. N. lon. 4. 55. E.

BAR SUR SEINE, a town in the dept. of Aube, ſeated on the river Seine, 20 miles SW. of Bar ſur Aube.

BARA, one of the Hebrides, or Weſtern Iſles of Scotland, to the S. of S. Uiſt. It is about 12 miles in length, and from 3 to 6 in breadth, low and flat on the W. coaſt, uneven and rocky on the E. where, however, the natives cultivate the ground with a kind of crooked ſpade, called caſchrom, as they cannot apply the plough. The inhabitants are about 1500. The coaſt abounds with cockles, and other ſhell-fiſh, and they ſend annually about 30,000 ling, beſides cod, to Glaſgow. Lat. 56. 55. N. lon. 7. 30. W.

BARACOA, a ſea-port on the NE. of the Iſle of Cuba. Lat. 21. 0. N. lon. 76. 10. W.

Baram-Wood, Herts, NW. of Barnet.

BARANCA DEL MELAMBO, a town of Terra-Firma, with a good harbour, ſeated at the mouth of the river Magdalen, 75 miles N. of Carthagena. Lat. 11. 40. N. lon. 75. 30. W.

BARANOWKA, a town of Volhynia, Poland.

BARBADOES, the eaſternmoſt of the Windward Iſles in the W. Indies. It is 25 miles in length, and 15 in breadth, and poſſeſſed by the Engliſh. The country is in general level, and had formerly a good deal of wood; but this is moſtly conſumed by the ſugar-works. It is divided into 5 diſtricts, and contains 11 pariſhes, and 4 towns. The whites are about 18,000, the negroes 70,000. In 1786, this iſland exported, on an average of three years, 9554 hogſheads of ſugar, 5448 puncheons of rum, 6320 bags of ginger, and 8331 bags of cotton, beſides aloes, ſweetmeats, figs, tamarinds, cedar, maſtich, &c. It has ſuffered much from hurricanes, particularly from the dreadful one of 1780. The capital is Bridgetown.

BARBARY, a country of Africa, extending along the Mediterranean, from Egypt to the Atlantic, and containing the kingdoms of Tripoli, Tunis, Algiers, Fez, and Morocco. It was known to the ancients by the name of Mauritania, Numidia, and Proper Africa. It is fertile in corn, maize, wine, citrons, oranges, figs, almonds, olives, dates and melons. Their chief trade conſiſts in their fruits, in their horſes, called barbs, Morocco leather, oſtrich-feathers, indigo, wax, tin, and coral. The national profeſſion is Mahometaniſm; and there are ſome Jews, but few Chriſtians, except the ſlaves.

Barbary, Lanc. in the hundred of Weſt Darby. Barbeacon, Staff. near Lichfield.

BARBE, ST. a town of New Biſcay, in Mexico, near which there are rich ſilver-mines. It is 500 miles NW. of Mexico. Lat. 26. 0. N. lon. 107. 5. W.

BARBERINO, a town of Tuſcany, 16 miles from Dublin.

Barberſtown, in Kildare, Leinſter, 23 miles from Dublin.

BARBEZIEUX, a town in the dept. of Charente. It has a mineral ſpring, and a manufacture of linen cloth. It is 45 miles NE of Bourdeaux.

Barbie, Northamp. NE of Aſhby-Legers. Barbone, near Worceſter. Barborn-Chapel, Weſtmorl. near Kirby Lonſdale.

BARBUDA, one of the Leeward Iſlands, in the W. Indies, poſſeſſed by the Engliſh, about 20 miles long, and 12 broad. The land is low but fertile. The inhabitants (about 1500) are chiefly employed in raiſing corn, and breeding ſheep, kids, fowls, and other ſtock, for the neighbouring iſlands. They likewiſe cultivate citrons, pomegranates, oranges, raiſins, Indian figs, pepper, indigo, &c. Here is no harbour, but a well-ſheltered road on the W. ſide. It is near 20 miles NE. of St. Chriſtopher's. Lat. 18. 30. N. lon. 61. 50. W.

Barbury Hill and Caſtle, Wilts, W. of Ogborn St. George, and near Marlborough Downs.

BARCA, the ancient Lybia, a ſterile country of Africa, on the S. coaſt of the Mediterranean, between Egypt and Tripoli. It is governed by a ſangiac, who depends on the Turkiſh baſhaw at Tripoli. The chief towns are Derna, Tolomata, and Grena, or Curen.

BARCELONA, a handſome, large, and rich city of Spain, in Catalonia, of which it is the capital. It is ſeated on the Mediterranean Sea, contains about 15,000 houſes, and has a wide, deep, and ſafe harbour, and a mole, 750 paces long, with a quay, at the end of which is a lighthouſe and a ſmall fort. The ſtreets, ſquares, and public buildings, are very elegant, and the inhabitants are remarkably induſtrious and polite. It is a place of great trade. They make curious works in glaſs; they have ſilk and woollen manufactures, and they excel in ſteel and iron works. The country about is well watered, and thick ſet with villages, and abounds with wood, corn, wine, oil, fruits, honey, cattle, fowl, &c. It is 250 miles NE. of Madrid. Lat. 41. 26. N. lon. 2. 13. E.

BARCELONETTE, a town in the dept. of the Lower Alps, 12 miles NE. of Embrun. Lat. 44. 23. N. lon. 6. 49. E.

BARCELORE, a ſea-port town of Malabar, the capital of Canara. It is a Dutch factory, 130 miles S. of Goa. Lat. 14. 25. N. lon. 74. 15. E.

BARCELOS, a town of Entre Douro e Minho, ſeated on the river Sourilla, 20 miles N. of Oporto.

Barcheſton, Warw. near Shipton. Barcomb, Suſſex, N. of Lewes. Barden, Yorkſ. N. Riding, near Swaledale Foreſt. Barden-Tower, Yorkſ. W. Riding, near the river Wharf.

BARDEWICK, a town of Lunenburg, on the river Ilmenau, 17 miles SE. of Hamburg.

Bardfield Magna, Eſſex, near Thaxted. Bardiallon, Somerſ. near Milverton. Bardney, between Lincoln and Horncaſtle. Bardolfeſton, Dorſetſ. in the pariſh of Piddleton. Bardon Hills, in Leiceſterſhire, to the NW. part of the county. Bardop, a river of Northumb. which runs into the Read above Rocheſter. Bardſey, Yorkſ. near Leeds. Bardſey, Lanc. near the Ken Sands, NW. of the county. Bardſey Iſle, forms the N. point of Cardigan-Bay.

BARDT, a town and river, with a harbour, in Swediſh Pomerania, on the Baltic, 12 miles W. by N. of Stralſund.

Bardwell, Suffolk, N. of Ixworth.

BAREGES, a village in the dept. of the Upper Pyrenees, much frequented on account of it's mineral baths. It is ſeated in the valley of the ſame name, (which contains the little town of Luz, and 17 villages) 12 miles S. of Bagneres.

BAREITH, a town of Culmbach, Franconia, capital of the principality, which is often called Bareith. It has been ſubject to the king of Pruſſia ſince 1782; 15 miles SE. of Culmbach. Lat. 50. 0. N. lon. 11. 56. E.

Bareſby, Leiceſ. near Aſhby-Folvil.

BARFLEUR, a ſea-port town in the dept. of the Channel, in former ages, the beſt on the coaſt of Normandy. Here, in the year 1035, William, duke of Normandy, fitted out his fleet, with which he made his deſcent on England; and his ſucceſſors afterwards uſually ſailed to and took their departure from it. It is about 12 miles E. of Cherburg, and 175 WNW. of Paris.

Barfoot, Northamptonſ. near Rothwel. Barford, near Warwick, on the Avon. Barford, near Bedford. Barford, Norfolk, near Hingham. Barford, Wiltſhire, near Sarum. Barford, Yorkſh. on the Tees, near Caldwell. Barford, St. John's and St. Michael's, Oxfordſ. near Clifton. Barford, Lancaſ. near Eccles. Barford, Lanc. W. of Ormſkirk. Barfreſton, Kent, near Bettiſhanger. Bargh, Magna and Parva, Yorkſ. near Pickering. Bargham, Suffolk. Bargholt, Suff. 5 miles SE. of Hadley. Bargholt, Eaſt, Eſſex, near Colcheſter. Barham, Hunt. between Leighton and Buckworth. Barham, Kent, near Canterbury. Barham, Suffolk, between Ipſwich and Needham.

BARI, a populous, trading town of Naples, on the Gulf of Venice, the capital of Terra di Bari, a province which has the Capitanata on the W. the Baſilicata on the S. and the ſea on the N. and NE.

BARJOLS, a town in the dept. of Var, 27 miles N. of Toulon.

Barkby, and Barkbythorp, Leic. Barkham, Berks, near Ockingham. Barkham, Suſſex, between Pevenſey Rape and Marſh. Barkhart, Kent, S. of St. Mary Cary.

BARKING, a town of Eſſex, ſeated on a creek of the river Rothing, near the Thames, from which goods are brought up in veſſels to its quay. It is 9 miles E. of London. Market on Saturday.

Barkings cum Dernſden, Suffolk, near Bradley and Needham. Barkley, Somerſ. NE. of Frome. Barkley, King's, Hants in the New Foreſt, near Malwood Caſtle. Barkmeſton, Hampſh. near Redbridge. Barkſton, Leic. near Granby. Barkſton, Linc. between Hougham and Fulbrook. Barkſton, Yorkſ. N. of Sherborn. Barkſwell, Warw. NW. of Coventry.

BARKWAY, a populous town of Herts, being a great thoroughfare, 3 miles from Royſton, Royſton, 11 from Cambridge, and 55 from London, on the road to Lynn, in Norfolk. Market on Friday.

Barkworth, Herts, not far from Abbot's Langley. Barkworth, E. and W. Linc. near Randby. Barlaſton, Staff. N. of Stone. Barlavington, Suſſex, between Burton and Sulton. Barlborough, Derby. Barleby, 15 miles S. of York, near the Ouſe. Barlſtn, Leic. NE. of Boſworth.

BARLETTA, a town of Bari, Naples, on the Adriatic.

Barley, a ſmall river of Devonſ. Barley, Herts, 2 miles from Barkway. Barley Grange, Nott. near the Trent, between Newark and Tuxford. Barley Houſe, Devonſ. near Exeter. Barlinch, Somerſ. near Dulverton. Barling, Eſſex, near Rochford. Barlington, Devonſh. near Biddeford. Barlow, Derbyſ. 4 miles NW. of Cheſterfield. Barlow, Lanc. 3 miles S. of Manchester. Barlugh-Arches, Suſſex, W. of East Grinſted. Barly, Yorkſ. W. of Howden. Barleythorp, Rutland, a hamlet of Okeham. Barmborough, Yorkſ. 4 miles W. of Doncaſter. Barmby-on-the-Moor, Nott. a hamlet of Blithe. Barmby-on-Dun, Yorkſ. 6 miles N. of Doncaſter. Barmby-Marſh, Yorkſ. near Pocklington. Barmby in the Willows, Nott, a little E. of Newark. Barmebow, Yorkſ. SW. of Aberforth. Barmer, Norfolk, near Bagthorp. Barmeſton, Yorkſ. near the coaſt, between Fordlingham and Flamborough. Barmeſton, Barmyſton, or Barneſton, Eſſex, near Dunmow. Barming, Kent, near Maidſtone. Barmingham, Yorkſ. N. Riding, near Gatherley-Moor. Barmoor, Northumb. E. of Wark-Caſtle, among the hills. Barnack, Northamp. on the river Welland. Barnacre, Warw. near Long Itchington. Barnacre, Lanc. near Garſang. Barnaſby, Linc. near Grimſby. Barnardiſton, or Barondiſton, Suffolk, 6 miles N. of Haverill.

*BARNARD CASTLE, a handſome town of Durham, containing about 3000 inhabitants. It takes its name from a caſtle, (a large ſtructure, ſituated on a rock, by the river, a great part of which is ſtill ſtanding) built here by Bernard Baliol, great grandfather of John Baliol, king of Scotland. Here are ſome manufactures of bridles, reins, belts, ſtockings, ſerges, and camlets, which laſt employs about 400 weavers. It is ſeated on the river Tees, 30 miles SW. of Durham, and 244 NNW. of London. A great market for corn, &c. on Wedneſday.

BARNAVELDT, two iſlands to the S. of Terra del Fuego, in lat. 55. 49. S. and lon. 66. 58. W.

Barnbie, Yorkſhire, near Pocklington. Barnby, Suffolk, 4 miles NE. of Beccles. Barncot, Devonſ. near S. Moulton. Barndeſley, Worceſ. near Bromſgrove. Barne, Kent, 6n the coaſt near Hythe. Barn-Elms, Surry, near the Thames, between Putney and Barnes. It is ſo called from its majeſtic trees, the theme of many a paſtoral poet, and conſiſts, or lately did, of two houſes only. In the firſt of theſe, and ancient manſion, Jacob Tonſon, the bookſeller, lived and died; and here he occaſionally accommodated the members of the Kit-Kat Club, conſiſting of all the celebrated wits of the time, in a gallery, which he built for the purpoſe. Barnefield, Kent, between Horſemanden and the Twyſt. Barnes, Surry, 5 miles from Kingſton, and 7 from London, is almoſt encompaſſed by the Thames. Barneſley, Dorſetſ. N. of Winborn-Minſter. Barneſley, Glouc. near Fairford, and 4 miles from Cirenceſter. Barnes-Hall, near Worceſter. Barnes-Burton, Yorkſhire.

*BARNET, HIGH BARNET, or CHIPPING-BARNET, a thoroughfare town, ſituated on the top of a hill, partly in Middleſex and partly in Hertfordſhire. It is 11 miles N. by W. of London. A large market on Wedneſday for hogs, cattle, &c.

Barnet, Eaſt, is a village near it, once much frequented on account of a medicinal ſpring. Barnet-Friarn, joins E. Barnet. Barnetby, Lincolnſ. near Lymbergh and Beckby. Barnetton, Durh. near Lumley. Barney, Norf. near Walſingham. Barney, a river in Yorkſh. running into the Swale, near Bladen. Barnford, Lanc. near Bolton. Barnhill, 10 miles from Cheſter. Barnholm, Linc. near Market-Deeping. Barnham, or Burnhill, Suſſex, 3 miles SW. of Arundel. Barnham-Brome, Norf. near Kimberly-Park. Barnham, George and Martyn, Suffolk, on the ſide of Norfolk. Barningham-Northwood, and Barnham-Winter, Norf. 2 villages W. of Thurgarton. Barningham, Norf. near Saxthorp. Barningham, Suff. between Ixworth and Buddeſdale. Barniton, Durh. 3 miles NE. of Darlington. Barnley, Shropſh. near Bridgenorth. Barnoldſweek, Yorkſ. near Settle. Barnſdale, Yorkſ. 5 or 6 miles from Pontefract. Barnſhall, Yorkſ. near Doncaſter. Barnſhaw, Cheſh. near Northwich. Barnhurſt, Staffordſ. near Wolverhampton. Barnſide, Lanc. NE. of Colne. Barnſide, Weſtm. on the river Ken, near Kendal.

*BARNSLEY, BLACK, a town in the W. Riding of Yorkſhire, with manufactures of linen, wire, and hardwares, of iron and and ſteel. It is ſeated on the ſide of a hill, 15 miles from Doncaſter and Wakefield, and 174 N. by W. of London. Market on Wedneſday.

*BARNSTAPLE, a town of Devonſhire, trading in fiſh, wool, yarn, &c. The ſtreets are clean and well paved, and the houſes are of ſtone. It is pleaſantly ſeated among hills, in the form of a ſemicircle, at the mouth of the river Taw, over which there is an old ſtone bridge, of 16 arches; 38 miles NNW. of Exeter, and 191 W. of London. Market on Friday.

Barnſton, Cheſ. near Thingwall. Barnſton, Dorſetſ. 3 miles SW. of Corfe-Caſtle. Barnſton, Nott. near Granby. Barnſton, Suff. near Kedyton. Barnſton, Eſſex, near Dunmow. Barnſtreet, Kent, on the road from Cliff to the Buoy of the Nore. Barnton, Cheſh. near Northwich. Barnwell, 1 mile from Cambridge. Barnwell, St. Andrews, Northamp. a little SE. of Oundle. Barnwell All Saints, Northamp. near Great and Little Haddington. Barnwood, 1 mile from Glouc. on the London road.

BAROACH, a town in the NW. of the Deccan, Hindooſtan, ſeated on the S. bank of the river Nerbudda, 40 miles N. of Surat.

BARRA. See BARA.

BARRAUX, a fortreſs at the entrance of the Valley of Greſivaudan, ſeated on the river Iſere, 6 miles S. of Chamberry.

Barobon, Weſt, 4 miles N. of Kirby-Lonſdale. Baroby, Linc. one mile from Grantham. Barodon, Northumb. 6 miles N. of Newcaſtle. Baroheat, Lanc. near Walney Iſland. Baropeg, Hants, 4 miles N. of Baſingſtoke. Broughdon, Rutl. 4 miles NE. of Haringworth. Barowcote, 4 miles from Derby. Barrels, Warw. near Stratford-upon-Avon. Barret, Cornw. 3 miles from Leſtwithiel. Barrington, Magna and Parva, Glouceſ. 2 villages ſeparated by the river Windruſh, near Burford. Barrington, near the river Cam, 7 miles SW. of Cambridge. Barrington, Northamp. 7 miles S. of Berwick. Barrington, Somerſ. 4 miles NE. of Ilminſter. Barisford, Northumb. 8 miles S. of Bellingham. Barrow, a river of Weſtm. running into the Burbeck, near Howſe-houſe. Barrow-upon-the-Soare, or Stour, Leic. 4 miles S. of Loughborough. Barrow, or Berk, Rutl. Barrow, Derb. N. of Trent, oppoſite to Ingleby. Barrow, Linc. near Barton, on the N. ſide of the county. Barrow, Norf. between Porland and Aſhby. Barrow, Norf. SE. of North-Tuddenham. Barrow, Shropſ. near Wenlock. Barrow, Somerſetſ. 3 miles from Briſtol. Barrow, Suffolk, 4 miles W. of Edmundſbury. Barrowford, Lanc. betwee Bowland Foret and the Ribble. Barrow hedges, Surry, near Croydon and Carſhal ton. Barrow, Magna and Parva, Cheſ SW. of Delamere-Foreſt. Barrow, N. an S. Somerſetſ. a little N. of Queen-Came Barrow-Point-Hill, Middl. 3 miles fro Harrow.

BARROW, a river of Ireland, whicl riſing in the Queen's County, and paſſin by Portarlington, Monaſtereven, Ath Carlow, &c. is joined by the Nore, befo it arrives at Roſs, after which, continuin S. it joins the Suir, in Waterford Have BARRY, an iſle on the SW. coaſt Glamorganſhire.

Barry, in Longford, Leinſter, 54 mil from Dublin. Barrymore, a barony, an an iſland of Cork, Munſter.

Barſeland, Yorkſ. W. Riding, N. fro Blackſtone-Edge. Barſham, Suff. on t Ouſe, between Beccles and Bungay. Ba ſted, Kent, near Maidſtone. Barſto Warw. on the river Blith, W. of Berke well. Barterton, Cheſh. S. of Namp wich. Barteſtrie, on the river Frome, miles NE. of Hereford. Bartherton, Che NW. of Northwich.

BARTHOLOMEW ISLE, one of the Ne Hebrides, in lat. 15. 42. S. lon. 167. 24.

BARTHOLOMEW, a county of S. Car lina.

BARTHOLOMEW, ST. one of the Carib bee iſlands, in the W. Indies, 30 miles N of St. Chriſtopher's. It is about 24 mil in circumference, and has a convenie road or harbour. It's chief products f exportation are drugs, lignum-vitæ, t bacco, caſſava, limes, &c. The Frenc in 1785, ceded this iſland to Swede Lat. 17. 56. N. lon. 63. 10. W.

Bartholomew, in Cork, Munſter.

Bartlow, Camb. 2 miles E. of Linto

BARTON, a large ſtraggling town, Lincolnſhire, ſeated on the Humber, fro which there is a horſe-ferry, by hoys paſſage-boats, every day, to Hull, of co ſiderable advantage to the town. It 35 miles N. of Lincoln, and 166 N. London. Market on Monday.

Barton, Bedf. Barton, Iſle of Wigh one mile from Cowes. Barton, SW. Buckingham. Barton, 3 miles W. Cambridge. Barton, Cheſhire, NW. Malpas. Barton, Hereſ. W. of Kynetor Barton, Hereſ. near Webley. Barto Lanc. between Preſton and Garſtang. Ba ton, Leic. near Hog's-Norton. Barto Northamp. S. of Aſhby. Barton, Not near the Trent. Barton, Oxf. near Beck ley-Park. Barton, Oxf. it's heath extend near Chipping-Norton. Barton, Somer

nea

near Bath. Barton, Somerſ. W. of the Lydfords. Barton, Som. S. of Pitmiſter. Barton, Staff. near Bradley. Barton, Suff. near Edmunſbury. Barton, Warwickſ. a hamlet of Bitford. Barton, Weſtm. near Penrith. Barton, Yorkſ. W. of New Malton. Barton, Yorkſ. near Barneſley. Barton-on-the-Heath, Warw. near Long Compton. Barton upon Need-wood, Staff. near Whichnor. Barton, All Saints, Blenſh, Row, St. Andrew's, and St. Mary's, all in the SW. of the county of Norfolk. Barton Bak-Puiz, and Barton-Blunt, both in Derbyſhire. Barton-Court, Berks, near Sunningwell. Barton Parva, Suff. SE. of Miidenhall. Barton-Peverel, Hants, 2 miles NE. of Rumſey. Barton-Regis, Glouc. Barton-Seagrave, Northamp. E. of Kettering. Barton-Stacy, Hants, 3 miles SE. of Andover. Bartou Steple, Oxf. near Kiddington. Barton Street, near Glouceſter. Barton-Underwood, Staff. Barton-Weſtcote, Oxf. SW. of Barton-Steple. Bartrams, Herts, between Ware and Hadham, 2 miles from each.

BARUTH, a decayed town of Syria, 60 miles W. of Damaſcus. Here is a church of the Neſtorian Chriſtians.

Barwell, Leic. 2 miles NE. of Hinckley. Barwell-Court, Surry, 2 miles from Kingſton, Hampton Court, and Epſom. Barwick in Elmet, Yorkſ. near Aberforth. Barwick, Shropſ. near Wellington. Barwick, Somerſ. S. of Yeovil. Barwick, Yorkſ. on the Tees, near Ingleby. Barwick Baſſet, Wilts. N. of Marlborough. Barwick-Field, Cumb. near Wigton. Barwick-in-the-Brakes, Norf. NW. part of the county, between Bagthorp and Stanboo. Barwick, Magna and Parva, Shropſ. near the Severn, N. of Shrewſbury. Barwick-Roundbury, Yorkſh. near Bradford. Barygate, Shropſh. between Bewdly and Bridgenorth.

BASARTSCHICK, a well-built, trading town of Romania, ſeated on the river Mertiz. Lat. 42. 19. N. lon. 24. 40. E.

Baſchurch, Shropſ. 2 miles E. from Ryton of the 11 towns. Baſcomb, Hants, SW. of Chriſtchurch. Baſcote, Warw. S. of Long-Itchingſton. Baſe, Herts, near Broxburne. Baſford, Nott. in the SW. of the county. Baſford, Staff. 7 miles E. of Leake. Baſhall, Yorkſ. near Milton. Baſham, E. and W. Norf. SW. of Walſingham. Baſham, North, 3 miles SW. of Walſingham.

BASIL, a canton of Switzerland, about 24 miles long and 20 broad, bounded on the NW. by France, and on the other ſides, chiefly by the canton of Soleure and the territory of Rhenfelden.

BASIL, BISHOPRICK OF, a conſiderable principality in the circle of the Upper Rhine, having France on the W. and the Sundgaw on the N. It extends from the Lake Bienne, acroſs Mount Jura, almoſt to the city of Baſil. The biſhop is elected by 18 canons, and inveſted in his temporalities by the emperor.

BASIL, BASLE, or BALE, the capital of the canton of Baſil, in Swiſſerland, is ſurrounded by thick walls, flanked with towers and baſtions. It is divided into two parts by the Rhine; the larger of which is on the ſide of Swiſſerland, the leſs on that of Germany; but they are joined by a handſome bridge. The larger has 5 gates, 6 ſuburbs, 200 ſtreets, 6 large ſquares, and 40 fountains, and is partly ſeated on a hill. The other ſtands on a plain, and has but two gates, with 20 ſtreets and ſome fountains. The town-houſe and paintings are much admired, and the univerſity has produced many celebrated ſcholars, as Oecolampadius, the Buxtorfs, father and ſon, Wenſtein, Euler, the Bernouillis, &c. The library contains a prodigious number of books and manuſcripts, and there is a rich collection of medals, among which are ſeveral exceedingly ſcarce. Baſil is the largeſt, and ſeems to have been once the moſt populous town in Swiſſerland: it is capable of containing 100,000 inhabitants, whereas the number at preſent is ſcarcely more than 14,000. The art of making paper is ſaid to have been invented here. They have ſeveral manufactories, particularly of ribands, cottons, ſilk ſtuffs, painted linens, gloves, and cutlery. The ſumptuary laws are very ſtrict at Baſil, and no perſon is allowed to have a ſervant behind his carriage. In general the burghers' ſons receive an excellent education; and it is not uncommon for even the poor ſort of tradeſmen, to employ their leiſure hours in reading Virgil, Horace, Plutarch, &c. It is 175 miles N. by E. of Geneva, and 250 E. by S. of Paris. Lat. 47. 45. N. lon. 7. 34. E.

BASILICATA, a territory of Naples, having the Gulf of Tarento on the E. and Principato Ultra on the W. It abounds in corn, wine, oil, cotton, ſaffron, honey, and wax. Acerenza is the capital.

Baſing, Hants, N. of Baſingſtoke. Baſingfield, Nottinghamſhire.

*BASINGSTOKE, a populous town in Hampſhire, having a great trade in malt, as alſo in druggets, ſhalloons, &c. A navigable canal has been lately made from this town to Weybridge. It is 16 miles NE of Winchester, 35 E. by N. of Saliſbury, bury, and 47 W. by S. of London. A conſiderable market for corn, barley, &c. on Wedneſday.

Baſingſtoke, Surry, SW. of Bagſhot.
Baſlow, Derbyſhire, in the High-Peak.
Baſon, Devonſhire, near Perry-Poméry.

BASQUES, LES, a territory of France, toward the Pyrenees. It included Lower Navarre, Lobourd, and Soule, and now forms, with Bearn, the department of the Lower Pyrenees.

BASS, an inſulated rock, 1 mile in circumference, 1 mile NE. of the coaſt of Haddington, and 4 NW. of Dunbar, in Scotland. On the S. ſide it is almoſt conic, on the other it overhangs the ſea in a tremendous manner. It is acceſſible only in the SW. and there it requires the aid of a rope and ladder. It is ſupplied with water by a well at the top, and in ſpring is almoſt covered with neſts, eggs, and young birds of the gannets, or ſolan geeſe: the flocks of birds in flight are ſo prodigious, as to darken the air like clouds; and their noiſe is ſuch, that people cloſe by each other hear with difficulty what is ſpoken. The rock of Baſs has a rabbit-warren, and paſture for a few ſheep.

Baſſaleg, Monm. SW. of Newport.

BASSANO, a town of Venice, on the river Brante, in the Treviſano; and a town in the pope's territories, 3 miles W. of Orta.

BASSEE, LA, a town in the dept. of the North, ſeated on the Dyle, 18 miles SW. of Liſle.

BASSEEN, or BASIN, a city and fortreſs of Baglana, in Hindooſtan, 27 miles N. of Bombay.

Baſſet, Eſſex, near Little Baddow.

BASSETERRE, a town of St. Chriſtopher's, in the W. Indies, on the S. ſide of the iſland, conſiſting of about 800 houſes; it is the capital, and is ſituated at the mouth of a river, that opens into a bay called Baſſeterre Road. Lat. 17. 24. N. lon. 62. 37. W.

BASSETERRE, a ſea-port town on the SW. coaſt of the iſland of Guadaloupe, defended by a citadel. Lat. 16. 5. N. lon. 62. 0. W.

Baſſet's Croſs, Warwickſ. E. of Sutton-Colfield. Baſſildon, Eſſex, between N. Benfleet and Langdon. Baſſildon, Berks, on the Thames, 8 miles NW. of Reading. Baſſinghall, Eſſex, near Biſhop-Stortford. Baſſingham, Linc. NE. of Stapleford. Baſſingham, Norf. between Aleſham and Holt. Baſſingthorp, Lincolnſhire, near Corby.

BASSINGTHWAITE, Cumb. 5 miles N. of Keſwick, in the road to Cockermouth, on the N. ſide of Baſſingthwaite-Water, which is an extenſive lake, 4 miles long, and 1 broad, on the river Derwent, (a few miles below Keſwick Lake) having, on one ſide, the vale of Baſſingthwaite, and the lofty Skiddaw, and on the other the ſteep and woody mountains of Whithop. The mountains piled on mountains, by which it is ſurrounded, form an awful circle, and ſeem to ſhut it out from the reſt of the world.

BASTIA, a ſea-port of Turkiſh Albania, ſeated on the river Calamu, oppoſite Corfu iſle; alſo a ſeaport of Iſtria, 8 miles SSE. of Umago.

BASTIA, a ſea-port, the capital of Corſica, with a good harbour, and only fit for ſmall veſſels. The number of inhabitants is about 6000. It is ſituated on the NE. coaſt of the iſland, in lat. 42. 36. N. lon. 9. 30. E.

Baſtian-Bridge, Somerſetſ. over a ſtream that runs into the Parret, near Huntſpill.

BASTIMONTOS, ſmall, inhabited iſlands, near the Iſthmus of Darien, on the coaſt of Terra Firma, at the mouth of the Bay of Nombre de Dios, forming a good harbour.

Baſtian, Weſt, Devonſ. between Barnſtaple and Biddiford.

BASTOGNE, a well-built, populous town of Luxemburg, 22 miles NW. of Luxemburg.

Baſton, Linc. near Langtoft. Baſton, Kent, near Bromley. Baſtwick, Norfolk, near Ludham. Baſwich, near Stafford.

BATAVIA, a very large, handſome city, in the Iſle of Java, the capital and ſtore-houſe of all the Dutch ſettlements, and the reſidence of their governor-general in the E. Indies, ſituated at the mouth of the river Jucarra. It contains a prodigious number of inhabitants of different nations. They have canals in the different ſtreets, planted on each ſide with evergreen trees. The harbour is the moſt beautiful in the E. Indies; it is large, and the bottom is ſecure; but the air is very unwholeſome, and the place has been repreſented by Captain Cook as the grave of European navigators. Here is a citadel, with lofty, thick walls, which commands the place of landing, beſides other forts, redoubts, and a rampart, ditch, &c. round the town. Lat. 6. 10. S. lon. 106. 51. E.

Batch, Heref. between the Golden Vale and Radnorſ. Bathcott, Salop, near Munſlow. Batcomb, Dorſetſ. 4 miles E. of Everſhot. Batcomb, Somerſ. 4 miles N. of Bruton. Bateley, Yorkſ. 7 miles E. of Halifax.

*BATH, a city of Somerſ. famous, from the times of the Romans, for it's hot ſprings. They are not only uſed as baths, but internally ternally as a medicine, and great benefits are derived from them in gouty, paralytic, bilious, and a variety of other caſes. Bath is a place of ſuch general reſort, that it ſeems like a great national hoſpital; it is ſo far, however, from being a houſe of mourning, that it exceeds every other part of England in amuſements and diſſipation: it's buildings are alſo more elegant and ſplendid. It is laid out in ſquares, circuſes, creſcents, terraces, &c. theſe are conſtructed of white freeſtone, which abounds here, and are executed in an elegant ſtyle of architecture. It is ſeated on the river Avon; but, in it's later improvements, the buildings, riſing, one range above another, have nearly reached the ſummit of the hill, on the declivity of which it ſtands. The principal ſeaſons of the waters are ſpring and autumn; and, beſides the great infirmary, here are ſeveral other hoſpitals and alms-houſes, for the relief and ſupport of indigent patients. Conſiderable manufactures of cloth are carried on in Bath. It is 12 miles ESE. of Briſtol, and 107 W. of London. Market on Saturday.

BATH, or BACHIA, a town of Hungary, ſituated near the Danube, 60 miles S. of Buda.

Bath, Devonſ. E. of the Taw river, near N. Tawton. Bathampton. See Badhampton. Bathelay, Norf. W. of Holt. Bathelton, Somerſ. 3 miles E. of Bath. Bathford, Somerſ. 4 miles NE. of Bath. Bathgate, a Roman cauſeway, in Derbyſhire. Bathing-Hall, Devonſ. E. of the Taw, a little S. of Barnſtaple. Bathly, Nott. near Sherwood-Foreſt. Batburſt-Wood, Suſſex. near Battle Abbey. Batbwick, Somerſ. 1 mile from Bath. Batings, Yorkſ. near the hills of Blackſtone-Edge. Batiſmore, Suſſ. 5 miles W. of Needham. Batlow, Suſſex, near Haſtings. Batnall, 1 mile from Worceſter. Batsford, Glouceſ. 4 miles from Campden, and 6 from Stow.

BATTEL, a town in Suſſex, ſo named from an abbey, called Battel-Abbey, erected by the Conqueror, on the ſpot where the deciſive battle was fought between Harold and William, duke of Normandy, Oct. 14, 1066. The gatehouſe of the abbey, (which was a ſtately pile, nearly a mile in circumference) remains almoſt entire, and ſerves for the ſeſſions, and other public meetings. The town, which is low and dirty, conſiſts of one good ſtreet, has a harbour for barges, and a manufacture of gunpowder, of conſiderable eſtimation among ſportſmen. Battel is 6 miles NW. of Haſtings, 22 E. of Lewes, and 57 SE. of London. A weekly market on Thurſday, for proviſions, and a market every ſecond Tueſday in the month for cattle, corn, &c.

Battledon, Bedfordſhire, near Cranfield.

BATTENBURG, a town of Dutch Guelderland, ſituated on the N. bank of the Meuſe, almoſt oppoſite to Ravenſtein, 10 miles SW. of Nimeguen.

Batten Hall and Park, 2 miles from Worceſter. Batten's-Drain, Camb. in the Iſle of Ely. Batterſby on the Wear, near Durham. Batterſby, Yorkſh. near Cleveland. Batterſea, a village of Surry, on the Thames, over which there is a timber bridge to Chelſea. Here is a curious, horizontal air-mill, 140 feet high, uſed for grinding malt for the diſtillery, and, adjoining to it, extenſive bullock-houſes have been erected, capable of holding 650 bullocks, fed with the grains from the diſtillery, mixed with meal. A part is yet left ſtanding, converted into a dwelling-houſe, of the demoliſhed family-ſeat of Lord Bolingbroke, one of the parlours of which, fronting the Thames, was the favourite ſtudy of Pope, and the ſcene of many a literary converſation between him and his friend St. John. Here is a free-ſchool for 20 boys, founded by Sir Walter St. John, in 1600, who gave 21 acres of land, at Peckham, for it's ſupport for ever. It's gardens have been long noted for producing the beſt aſparagus. It is 4 miles WSW. of London. Battin-Caſtle, Devonſ. near Dartmore. Battle-Bridge, Eſſex, SE. of Chelmsford. Battle-Bridge, Middleſex, near London, in the way to Pancras. Battle-Edge, Oxf. near Burford. Battlefield, Shropſ. 5 miles NE. of Shrewſbury. Battleham, Surry, between Clapham and Tooting. Battleſton, Bedfordſ. NW. of Hockley-in-the-Hole, and 12 miles SW. of Bedford. Battris, Yorkſ. near Settle.

BAVARIA, one of the circles of Germany, bounded on the W. by Suabia, on the NW. by Franconia, on the NE. by Bohemia, and on the E. and S. by Auſtria. It is compoſed of 20 ſtates, eccleſiaſtical and ſecular, conſiſting of archbiſhops, dukes, landgraves, abbots, lords, cities, towns, &c. convoked by the elector of Bavaria and the archbiſhop of Saltzburg, who direct alternately.

BAVARIA PROPER, ELECTORATE, or DUCHY OF, comprehends the greater part of the circle of Bavaria, and is about 125 miles long from E. to W. and 87 broad from N. to S. The air is wholeſome, and the country fertile. It is divided into Upper and Lower Bavaria, and the Upper Palatinate. They reckon here 48 cities, cities, 123 towns, 1200 villages, 100 chateaux, 86 convents, 1500 parishes, and about 4 millions of ſouls. The principal river is the Danube, and the chief towns are Munich, Landſhut, Donawert, Ingoldſtadt, and Ratiſbon.

BAVARIA, UPPER, is divided into 2 regencies or governments, Munich and Burkhauſen.

BAVARIA, LOWER, is likewiſe divided into 2 governments, Landſhut and Straubing. See PALATINATE.

BAVAY, a little town in the dept. of the North, 3 miles SW. of Malplaquet, and 12 miles SW. of Mons.

Baveleigh, Devonſ. near Worlington.

BAUGE', a town in the dept. of Maine and Loire, ſeated on the river Coeſnon, 18 miles ENE. of Angers.

BAUGENCI, a town in the depart. of Loiret, noted for it's wines and brandy. It is ſeated on the Loire, over which there is a bridge of 22 arches, 6 miles SW. of Orleans.

Bavington, Magna and Parva, Northumberland, between Swinburn-Caſtle and Kirkharle. Baulterley, Staffordſ. 5 miles from Newcaſtle.

BAUME LES NONES, or BAUTE LES DAMES, a town in the depart. of Doubs, 15 miles NE. of Beſançon.

Baunboy, in Cavan, Ulſter.

Baunton, Dorſetſ. on the coaſt, 4 miles S. of Bridport. Baunton, Glouceſterſh. on the Churn, 1 mile from Cirenceſter.

BAUTZEN, or BUDISSEN, a town, capital of Upper Luſatia, ſituated on the river Spree, 30 miles ENE. of Dreſden.

BAUX, a town in the department of the Mouths of the Rhone, 10 miles E. by N. of Arles.

Bawburgh, 4 miles from Norwich. Bawder, a river of Durham, running into the Tees by Cudderſton. Bawdrip, W. of the Parret, juſt below Bridgewater. Bawdſey, Suff. near Harwich. Bawdſwell, Norf. W. of Repeham. Bawne, Yorkſ. 6 miles from Pontefract. Bawſey, Norf. 2 miles E. of Lynn Regis. Bawthorp, Lancaſhire, N. of Townley. Bawton, Glouceſterſh. N. of Cirenceſter.

*BAWTRY, or BAUTRY, a town in the W. Riding of Yorkſhire, ſeated on the river Idle, by which millſtones, grindſtones, and lead, are brought from Derbyſhire, and iron-ware, &c. from Sheffield, it being a centre of exportation from the riding wherein it is ſituated, to Hull, &c. It is a great thoroughfare on the N. road, 9 miles S. by E. of Doncaſter, and 152 N. of London. Markets on Wedneſday and Saturday.

Baxfield, Eſſex, near Chelmsford. Baxterley, Warw. 4 miles W. of Atherſton.

BAXOS DE ABREOLHOS. See ABROLHOS.

BAXOS DE BABUCA. See ABROJO

BAYA. See BAJA.

Baydon, Wilts, N. of Auburn. Baydale, Yorkſ. 8 miles SE. of Stokeſley.

BAYEUX, a town in the dept. of Calvados, trading principally in leather. The inhabitants are about 8000. It is ſeated on the river Aure, 4 miles from the Engliſh Channel, 13 miles WNW. of Caen and 140 W. by N. of Paris.

Bayfield, Norf. N. of Holt. Bayford, 3 miles from Hertford, and 18 from London. Bayhall, Kent, near Penbury. Bayham, Suſſex, near Tunbridge-wells. Bayldon, Yorkſ. 6 miles SW. of Otley. Bayle, Berks, 3 miles from Windſor. Baylie Court, Suſſ. on the coaſt between Middleton and the mouth of the river Are. Bayley Park, in Heathfield, Suſſex. Baynard, Surry. Bayntun, Yorkſhire, 8 miles SW of Fordlingham. Bayntun, Northamp. miles from Stamford, and 6 from Peterborough. Baynton, Wilts, 5 miles NE of Weſtbury.

BAYON, a town in the department of Meurthe, ſituated on the Moſelle, 14 miles S. of Nancy.

BAYONA, a ſea-port of Galicia, in Spain, ſituated near the mouth of the Minho, on a ſmall bay of the Atlantic 9 miles SW. of Vigo. Alſo two ſmall iſlands in the ſaid bay.

BAYONNE, a large, rich, populous, commercial, and well-fortified city, in the dept. of the Lower Pyrenees, noted for hams and chocolate, and exporting maſts, brought from the Pyrenees, by the rivers, to Breſt, &c. Two rivers, the Nive and the Adour, unite their ſtreams in the middle of this city, and proceed to the ſea at the diſtance of a quarter of a league. The firſt, which is deeper and more rapid than the Adour, divides the town into two unequal parts; the ſmaller of which is called the Bourg Neuf, or New Town; and they have a communication by three timber bridges. The entrance of the harbour is difficult; but veſſels, when they have once entered, find it ſafe. It is 25 miles SW. of Dax, and 425 S. by W. of Paris. Lat. 43. 29. N. lon. 1. 30. W.

Bayton, Suſſex, near Wulpit. Bayton, Worceſterſhire, 9 miles SW. of Bewdley.

BAZAS, a ſmall city in the dept. of Gironde, formerly capital of the Bazadois, 5 miles S. of the Garonne, and 30 SE. of Bourdeaux.

Beabridge,

Beabridge, Shropſ. 4 miles E. of Bridgenorth. Beach, Kent, near Hartlip. Beach, Wilts, near Ambreſbury, Beachampton, Bucks, on the Ouſe, 3 miles SW. of Stoney Stratford. Beachams, Herts, 2 miles N. of Buntingford. Beaches, Herts, on the borders of Eſſex. Beach Land and Water, 5 miles from Cambridge. Beach Wood, Herts, in the pariſh of Flamſtead. Beachworth, Eaſt, between Darking and Rygate. Beachworth, Weſt, Surry, on the other ſide of the Mole, oppoſite Eaſt Beachworth. Beachley, Bucks, near Fenny Stratford. Beachley, Monm. near Chepſtow.

BEACHY HEAD, a noted promontory of Suſſex, projecting perpendicularly over the beach, and the higheſt on all the S. coaſt of England, between Haſtings and Shoreham, in Lat. 50. 54. N. lon. 0. 20. E.

BEACON HILL, Eſſex, on the S. ſide of the mouth of the port of Harwich, with a large, high, light houſe on it.

Beacon Hill, Wilts, between Marlborough and Sandy Lane.

*BEACONSFIELD, a town in Bucks, conſiſting of not more than 100 houſes, among which, however, are ſeveral good inns. It is ſeated on a hill, 8 miles from Marlow, and 23 WNW. of London, on the road to Oxford. Market on Thurſday.

Beadle End, Eſſex, near Chelmsford. Beadlow, Bedf. near Wreſt. Beaforme, Eſſex, near Gosfield. Beakeſborn, Kent, 4 miles SE. of Canterbury.

Beal, in Kerry, Munſter.

Beale, a river of Suſſex and Kent, which runs into the Medway, near Twyford Bridge. Bealing, Magna, and Parva, Suff. one NW. the other SW. of Wood Bridge.

BEALT, BEALTH, or BUILTH, a town of Brecknockſhire, pleaſantly ſituated on the river Wye, over which it has a bridge into Radnorſhire. It conſiſts of about 100 houſes, and it's inhabitants have a trade in ſtockings and flannels. It is 16 miles N. of Brecknock, and 171 WNW. of London. Markets on Monday and Saturday.

Beamburſt, Staff. 4 miles NE. of Utoxeter. Beaminſter; ſee Bemſter. Beamiſh, Durham, near Cheſter-in-the-ſtreet. Beamond, Cumb. near Carliſle. Beamond, Hants, between Fareham and Portſmouth. Beamond End, NE. of St. Albans. Beamond Hill, Durh. a little N. of Darlington. Beamond cum-Moſe, Eſſex, near Colcheſter. Beamond, Rutl. in Lyfield Foreſt. Beane, a river in Herts, running into the Lea, near Hoddeſdon. Bear, Devonſ. 4 miles from Plymouth. Bear, Devonſ. 2 little S. of Bradninch.

Bearagh, in Tyrone, Ulſter.

BEARALSTON, or BORALSTON, anciently BEERALVESTON, a ſmall town of Devonſhire, ſituated on the river Tave, 10 miles N. of Plymouth, 7 from Taviſtock, and 212 from London. Mark. on Thurſ.

Beard Hall, Derbyſ. in the High Peak. Bear Hall, Staffordſ. near Cheadle. Bear Houſe, Hants, 5 miles N. of Fareham. Bear Houſe, Yorkſ. 4 miles N. of Hull. Bearle, Northumb. in the ward of Tyndale. Bearley, Herefordſ. 3 miles NE. of Webley. Bearley, Warw. 4 miles N. of Stratford-upon-Avon.

BEARN, a ci-devant province of France, at the foot of the Pyrenees, having Bigorre on the E.; it is about 40 miles in length, and 30 in breadth; the plains are fertile in paſture, &c. and the hills are laden with fir trees or vines. It now forms, with Baſques, the depart. of the Lower Pyrenees.

Bear Park, 2 miles NW. of Durham: Bearſton, Shropſ. near Staffordſ. Bearton, Bucks, NE. of Aileſbury. Bearwerk, Hants, NW. of Wincheſter.

BEAUCAIRE, a trading town, in the dept. of Gard, ſituated on the right bank of the Rhone, oppoſite Taraſcon, with which it communicates by a bridge of boats. It is 10 miles E. of Niſmes.

BEAUCE, a ci-devant prov. of France, laying between the Iſle of France, Blaiſois, Orleanois, Le Maine, and Normandy, and very fertile in wheat. It now forms the department of Eure and Loire.

Beauchamp Oton, Eſſex, near Clare; in it's neighbourhood are the 2 villages, Beauchamp, St. Peter and Walter. Beauchamp's Court, Warw. N. of Aulceſter. Beauchief, Derbyſ. near Dronfield. Beauchin, Dorſetſhire, in the pariſh of Whitchurch. Beaudeſert, Staff. 5 miles from Lichfield.

BEAUDESERT, or BELDESERT, a town of Warwickſhire, NE. of Henley. Market on Monday.

Beauford, or Bairford, Devonſ. 3 miles SE. of Torrington.

BEAUFORT, a town in the dept. of Maine and Loire, 15 miles E. of Angers.

BEAUFORT, a town in the dept. of Mont Blanc, ſeated on the river Oron, 30 miles ENE of Chambery; alſo a town in the dept. of the Drome; a county, and a ſea-port of N. Carolina; and a town of S. Carolina.

Beaufront, Northumb. on the Tyne.

BEAUJEU, a ſmall town in the dept. of Rhone and Loire, formerly the capital of the Beaujolois. It is ſeated on the river Ardiere, 8 miles W. of the Saone, and 20 ENE. of Roanne.

Beaulieu, Hants, 4 miles SW. of Southampton.

*BEAUMARIS, the county-town of Angleſeagleſea, has a bay before it, which affords good anchorage, and is a frequent refuge for ſhips in ſtormy weather. It is 59 miles W. by N. of Cheſter, and 257 NW. of London. Markets on Wedneſday and Saturday.

BEAUMONT, a town in the dept. of the North, ſeated between the Maeſe and Sambre, 10 miles SE. of Maubeuge; alſo a town in the reſpective departments of Côte d'Or, Calvados, Straits of Calais, the Channel, Puy de Dome, Nyevre, Marne, Dordogne, Ardennes, Seine and Marne, Upper Garonne and Eure.

BEAUMONT SUR OISE, a town in the dept. of Seine and Oiſe, ſeated on the river Oiſe, 20 miles N. of Paris.

BEAUMONT LE ROGER, a town in the dept. of Lower Seine, 22 miles SW. of Rouen.

BEAUMONT LE VICOMTE, a town in the dept. of Sarte, 10 miles N. of Mans.

BEAUNE, or BEAUME, a town in the dept. of Côte d'Or, 25 miles nearly S. of Dijon; alſo a town in the dept. of Mayne and Loire, 9 miles E. of Angers; and a town in the dept. of the Loiret, 12 miles WNW. of Montargis.

Beauſale, Warw. near Wedgenock Park.

BEAUVAIS, a city in the dept. of Oiſe, having, beſides the cathedral, 6 collegiate and 3 pariſh churches. Before the revolution, it was capital of the Beauvaſis. It is ſeated on the river Theſin, 42 miles nearly N. of Paris.

Beauvale, Nott. near Greiſley Caſtle.

BEAUVOIR SUR MER, a maritime town in the dept. of Vendee, 25 miles SW. of Nantes; alſo a town in the dept. of the Two Severs; and a town in the dept. of Iſere.

Beawbuſt, Suſſex, near Bramber. Beawley, Hants, near South mpton. Beaworth, Hants, 5 miles E. of Wincheſter.

BEBELINGUEN, a town of Wirtemburg, in Suabia, ſeated on a lake, from which the river Worm proceeds, 10 miles NW. of Stutgard.

Bebington, Upper and Nether, Cheſhire, near the middle land of the river Merſey.

BEC, LE, a town in the dept. of the Eure, 22 miles WSW. of Rouen.

BEC, CRESPIN, a town in the dept. of the Lower Seine, 9 miles E. of Havre.

Becca, Yorkſhire, near Otley.

*BECCLES, a large, populous town, in Suffolk, ſeated on the river Waveney, which is navigable hither by barges from Yarmouth, 12 miles SW. of Yarmouth, and 108 NE. of London. Market on Saturday.

Beckham, or Becam, a river of Montgomeryſhire, running into the Severn at Caſtle Doleveren, or Dolforwyn.

BECAIN, a town of Bohemia, capital of a circle of the ſame name, ſeated on the river Luſchnitz, 50 miles S. of Prague.

Bechiff, Derbyſ. 4 miles NW. of Dronfield. Beck, Norf. near Sparham. Beckbury, Shropſ. W. of Snawdenpool. Beckby, Linc. W. of Lymbergh. Beckenham Kent, 2 miles on the NW. of Bromley 10 from London. Beckenſall, Lanc. near Eccleſton. Beckermet, Cumb. near Brumfield. Becket, Berks, near Farringdon Beckfield, Shropſ. near Chirbury. Beckfield, Northumb. in Tyndale Ward. Beckford, Glouceſ. near Dumbleton, 5 miles from Winchcomb. Beckham, Hants, E of Fordingbridge. Beckham, Eaſt, Norf S. of Cromer. Beckham, Weſt, Norf. E of Holt. Beckingham, Nott. near Gainſborough. Beckingham, Linc. N. of Grantham. Beckington, Somerſ. 2 miles NE. of Frome Selwood. Beckley, Oxf. between Woodſtock and Thame. Beckley, Suſſex, 5 miles NW. of Rye. Beckley, Shropſ. near Purſlow. Beckring Hall, Linc. near E. and W. Barkworth. Beck's Wire, Oxf. one of the locks in the Thames, 1 mile from Radcot Bridge.

BECKUM, or BECKEM, a town of Munſter, Weſtphalia, ſituated on or near the river Werſe, 17 miles SSE. of the city of Munſter.

BECSANGIL, the ancient Bithynia, a province of Natolia, on the ſea of Marmora and the Black Sea. It's capital is Burſa.

Bective Bridge, in Meath, Leinſter.

*BEDAL, a ſmall town in Yorkſhire, 6 miles from Northallerton, 8 from Richmond, and 220 from London. The Roman cauſeway, leading from Richmond to Barnard's Caſtle, which, for 20 miles together, is called Leeming Lane, paſſes through this place. All the adjacent country is full of jockies and horſe-dealers, here being ſome of the beſt hunting and road horſes in the world. Market on Tueſday.

Bedal, a river of Yorkſhire, which runs into the Swale below Morton. Bedborn, N. and S. Durh. near Darlington. Bedborough, Wilts, N. of Biſhop's Cannings. Bedcister, Dorſetſ. between Sturminſter and Shaftſbury. Beddenham, Norf. NW. of Bungay. Beddgelert, 10 miles from Caernarvon, near the Snowdon mountains. Beddington, Surry, between Carſhalton and Croydon. Beden, or Beding, a village in Suſſex, 13 miles from Lewes, near a river of it's own name, which runs into the ſea at New Shoreham, and abounds with excellent mullets, pikes, eels, &c.

BEDER,

BEDER, a city of the Deccan of Hindooſtan, in the Soubah of Dowlatabad, large, well-built, and ſtrongly fortified. It is celebrated for a great number of magnificent pagodas, and is about 70 miles NW. of Hydrabad. Lat. 17. 0. N. lon. 78. 0. E.

Bedefton, Shropſhire, near Wellington. Bedeve, Cornw. NW. of Egloſhale. Bedfield, Suff. W. of Framlingham. Bedfont, E. and W. Midd. between Hounſlow and Staines.

*BEDFORD, the county town of Bedfordſhire, ſeated on the Ouſe, which divides it into two parts, united by a bridge, with a gate at each end. It contains 5 churches, 3 on the N. and 2 on the S. ſide of the river; which latter part, called Mileſgate, was united to the former by Edward the Elder, ever ſince which time they have both gone by the name of Bedford. The great King Offa choſe to have his bones interred here, in a ſmall chapel by the river, which, however, happening to overflow, carried them quite away. By the Ouſe, which is made navigable, it is rendered a place of conſiderable trade; the ſoil about it being fertile in wheat, barley, &c. which they ſend to Lynn. It is 27 miles E. by N. of Buckingham, and 50 N. by W. of London. Markets on Tueſday and Saturday.

BEDFORDSHIRE, a county in England, about 35 miles in length and 22 in breadth, is bounded on the SW. by Bucks; on the NW. by Northamptonſhire; on the NE. by Huntingdonſhire; on the E. by Cambridgeſhire, and on the SE. by Herts. It contains 9 hundreds, 10 market towns, 124 pariſhes, and about 67,350 inhabitants. The air is pure and wholeſome, and the face of the country is, in general, varied with ſmall hills and dales; there being few extenſive levels. It's principal rivers are the Ouſe and the Ivel. It's chief products are corn, butter, woad, and fuller's earth; it's manufactures lace, straw hats, baſkets, and toys.

BEDFORD LEVEL, a tract of fens, conſiſting of 300,000 acres, in the counties of Norf. Suff. Huntingdonſ. Northamp. Linc. Camb. and the Iſle of Ely, which appear to have been dry land formerly, by the ruins of houſes, large trees, &c. that have been found in ſeveral parts. After divers expenſive attempts to drain theſe fens, in the reigns of Henry VI. and Charles I. William, duke of Bedford, and others, in 1649, undertook and completed it, ſo far as to bring about 100,000 acres of good land to uſe. In theſe fens are ſeveral decoys, where aſtoniſhing quantities of wild fowl are taken during the ſeaſon. One of theſe, not far from Ely, generally ſends 3000 couple weekly to London, and is let for 500l. a year.

Bedford, Lanc. near W. Derby. Bedgbury, Kent, 2 miles SW. of Cranbrook. Bedhampton, Hants, 3 miles NW. of Havant. Bedick, Weſt, Durh. in the pariſh of Waſhington, on the N. ſide of the Wear. Bedick, South, on the S. bank of the Wear. Bedingfield, Suff. near Eye. Bedingham, Suſſex, 3 miles SE. of Lewes. Bedingſtreet, Suſſex, 4 miles E. of Bramber. Bediſton, Devonſ. SW. of Oakhampton. Bedleyhay, Camb. 5 miles SE. of Ely. Bedlington, Northumb. 5 miles SE. of Morpeth. Bedlington, Northumberl. not far from Tweedmouth. Bedminſter, Somerſ. SW. of Briſtol. Bedmont, Herts, N. of Langley Abbey. Bethnal Green, Middl. one of the hamlets of Stepney, containing upwards of 3000 houſes, and 25,000 people. Bednall, Northumb. near Shields. Bednall, 5 miles from Stafford.

BEDNORE, or BIDDANORE, a town of Hindooſtan, capital of a country of the ſame name, lying NW. of the Myſore country, and to which it is, or was lately united. It is 330 miles SSE. of Bombay, and 140 NW. of Seringapatam. Lat. 14. 0. N. lon. 74. 48. E.

Bedſton, Shropſ. between Hopton Caſtle and Heref. Bedwelty, Monm. on the borders of Glamorganſ. Bedwes, Monm. between Kirton, Beacon, and the river Rumney.

BEDWIN, GREAT, a decayed town of Wiltſhire, (under the Saxons a city, with a caſtle, the ditches whereof are ſtill viſible) ſituated in the E. part of the county, towards Berkſhire, 69 miles from London. Market on Tueſday.

Bedwin, Little, 3 miles N. of Great Bedwin. Bedwin, Cornw. 6 miles NE. of Camelford. Bedworth, Warw. 3 miles S. of Nuneaton. Beech Wood, Herts, near St. Alban's. Beeding, Suſſex.

BEEMAH, a river in the Deccan, a principal branch of the Kiſtna, and joining it near Edghir. It riſes in the mountains to the N. of Poonah, and is eſteemed one of the ſacred rivers by the Gentoos.

Beenmore, in Kerry, Munſter.

Beere, Kent, a manor in the pariſh of Weſt Clive. Beere, Somerſ. 3 miles S. of Curry Mallet.

BEER HAVEN. See BANTRY.

BEERING'S STRAITS, or ANIAN STRAITS, the narrow ſea between the W. coaſt of N. America, and the E. coaſt of Aſia, about 13 leagues wide.

BEERING'S ISLAND, in the N. Pacific

Ocean, about 90 miles long and 33 wide, 30 leagues W. of Kamſchatka, in lat. from about 54 to 56 N.

Bees, St. Cumb. a large pariſh between Whitehaven, Egremont, &c. noted for it's public claſſical ſchool. St. Bees Head is a lofty promontory, with a light-houſe on it, and a church ſtill remaining of an ancient nunnery, from which to Whitehaven, a diſtance of about 3 miles, it is nearly one continued range of rock, riſing perpendicularly from the beech. Beeſon, Cheſh. near Staff. Beeſton, Yorkſ. S. of Leeds, Beeſton Caſtle, Cheſh. near Bunbury. Breſton, Bedf. near Warden. Breſton, Norf. near Wroxham. Beeſton, Norf. on the coaſt, near Cromer. Beeſton, Shropſ. 4 miles S. of Shrewſbury. Beeſton, St. Lawrence, Norf. between Wurſted and Ludham. Beazley, Hants, 5 miles E. of Petersfield. Beg-brook, Oxf. 2 miles S. of Woodſtock. Begermans, Yorkſ. between Camhill and the river Wharfe.

BEFORT, a ſmall, but ſtrong town, in the dept. of the Upper Rhine, with ſeveral forges of iron works. It is ſituated at the foot of a mountain, 28 miles nearly W. of Baſil.

Beggar's Bridge, in Weſt Meath, Leinſter, 57 miles from Dublin.

Beggar's Buſh, Midd. 10 miles from London. Beggar's Buſh, Huntingdonſ. near Godmanchester.

Beggar's Inn, in Kilkenny, Leinſter, 58 miles from Dublin.

Begham, Kent, 5 miles W. of Lamberhurſt. Begimer, Northumb. belongs to the manor of Woller. Beginnis; ſee Blaſques.

BEHAT-RIVER. See CHELUM.

BEJA, a city and lake in Alentejo.

BEJAPOUR. See VISIAPOUR.

BEICHLINGEN, a town of Thuringia, Upper Saxony, 17 miles N. of Weimar.

Beighton, Derbyſ. 8 miles NE. of Dronfield. Beighton, Norf. near S. Walſham.

BEILA, a town in Piedmont, 32 miles N. of Turin.

BEILSTEIN, a town and lordſhip of Naſſau Dillenburg, Weſtphalia; and a town of Naſſau Orange Dietz, circle of Lower Rhine.

BEINHEIM, a town of Baden, Suabia; and a town in the dept. of the Lower Rhine.

BEIRA, a province of Portugal, bounded on the W. by the Atlantic; on the N. by Tra los Montes and Entre Douro e Minho; on the E. by Leon and Spaniſh Eſtremadura; and on the S. by Portugueſe Eſtremadura and Alentejo. It is divided into 6 juriſdictions, called Comarcas. This province is nearly ſquare, being about 90 miles in extent each way: it is well watered and fertile, at leaſt in corn and fruits; but the people are indolent, and much given to mendicity.

Beith, a village and pariſh of Ayrſhire on the road from Glaſgow, by Paiſley, to Ayr and Port Patrick.

Belan, Nott. 2 miles NE. of Retford.

Belanagar, in Roſcommon, Connaught 81 miles from Dublin.

Belaport, Shropſ. 2 miles NE. of Atherley. Belaugh, Norf. near Sparham. Belbroughton, Worc. 3 miles from Bromſgrove. Belby, Yorkſ. near Howden.

Belcara, in Mayo, Connaught.

BELCASTRO, a town of Calabria Ultra.

Belchalwell, Dorſetſ. near Stourminſter. Belcham, Water and Pauls, Eſſex, 2 villages near Clare. Belchford, Lincolnſ. SE. of Burwell.

BELCHITE, a town of Arragon, 2 miles S. of Saragoſſa.

BELCHOE, a town of Fermanagh, in Ulſter, ſeated on Lough Nilly, 18 miles SE. of Ballyſhannon.

Belchy, Yorkſ. S. of Pocklington.

BELEM, a town of Portugal, in Eſtremadura, ſeated on the N. ſide of the Tajo 3 miles W. of Liſbon, where all ſhips falling up the river, are obliged to bring to. In the church, many kings and princes of the blood lie interred; alſo town of New Navarre, N. America; town of Oſnaburg, Weſtphalia; and a ſea port of Braſil, S. America, in lat. 130. S.

Belefby, Lincolnſ. between Aſhby and Caſtor.

BELESTAT, a town in the dept. of the Aude, 24 miles SW. of Limoux.

Belby, Worc. 2 miles from Bromeſgrove. Belfaſt, Linc. SE. of Belwood Hall.

*BELFAST, a large town and ſea-port of increaſing importance, in the county of Antrim, in Ulſter, ſeated on Carrickfergus Bay, at the mouth of Lagan river, with a ſtately bridge over it, of 21 arches, which including the dead work at each end, is 2562 feet long. A navigable canal, connecting the harbour with Lough Neagh was completed in 1793. In 1791, the town contained 3107 houſes, and about 18,320 ſouls. Here are conſiderable manufactures of cotton, cambric, ſtilcloth and linen; with others of glaſs, ſugar, earthen ware, a large export of proviſion &c. It is 9 miles SW. of Carrickfergus and 20 from Dublin.

Belfont, Wilts, near Saliſbury.

*BELFORD, a ſmall, neat town in Northumberland, ſituated on the ridge of a hill, 2 miles from the Lear. 14 N. Alnwick Alnwick, and 319 from London. Market on Tuesday.

Belgie, Derbyſ. NE. of Scarſdale.

BELGOROD. See AKERMAN.

BELGRADE, a large, and formerly a ſtrong city, of Turkey in Europe, the reſidence of a ſangiac, and chief place of Servia. It is ſeated on a low hill, which reaches to the Danube, a little above it's confluence with the Save. It is ſtill a place of conſiderable trade, being reſorted to by merchants of different nations; but its fine fortifications, which rendered it ſo important, were demoliſhed, agreeably to treaty, in 1738. It is 60 miles SW. of Temeſwaer, 265 SE. of Vienna, and 400 NW. of Conſtantinople.

BELGRADE, a ſmall town of Romania, on the Strait of Conſtantinople.

Belgrave, 2 miles N. of Leiceſter. Belbeigh, Dorſetſ. near Winfrith. Bellhouſe, Eſſex, near Billericay. Belliſton, Linc. N. of Holbeſh. Bellirk, Northumb. in the road from Berwick to Carliſle. Bell, Dorſetſhire, near Sturminſter Newton.

BELLAC, a ſmall town in the dept. of Upper Vienne, ſeated on the Vincon, 20 miles NNW. of Limoges.

Bellamont, a village in Connaught, 10 miles from Sligo, and 126 NW. of Dublin.

Bellamore Hill, Staff. near Stone. Bellbank, Cumb. near Brankin and Harper Hills.

BELLCLARE, a town of Sligo, Connaught, 20 miles SW. of Sligo.

Belleek, in Donegal, Ulſter, 105 miles from Dublin. Belleek, in Fermanagh, Ulſter, 97 miles from Dublin.

BELLEGARDE, in the dept. of the Eaſtern Pyrenees, above the defile of Pertuis, about 15 miles S. of Perpignan. It is fortified, and an important paſſage of the Pyrenees.

BELLEGARDE, a town in the dept. of Saone and Loire, ſeated on the river Saone, 15 miles N. E. of Chalons; alſo a town in the reſpective depts. of the Creuſe, the Loiret, and the Aveiron.

BELLE ISLE, an iſland of France, 115 miles from the coaſt of the dept. of Morbihan. It is 15 miles long, 5 broad, and diverſified with craggy mountains, ſalt works, and fertile plains. The capital is Palais. It was taken by the Engliſh in 1761, and reſtored in 1763. Lat. 47. 18. N. lon. 3. 6. W.

BELLE ISLE, an iſland of N. America, at the mouth of the ſtrait, between Labrador and the N. end of Newfoundland. The paſſage between them is called the Straits of Belle Iſle. Lat. 51. 55. N. lon. 55. 25. W.

Bellerby, Yorkſ. N. Riding, near Burton Conſtable.

BELLESME, a town in the dept. of Orne, 75 miles SW. of Paris.

BELLEY, a town in the dept. of Ain, before the revolution the capital of Bugey. It is ſeated near the Rhone, 12 miles NW. of Chamberry, and 250 SE. of Paris.

Bellfield, in Weſt Meath, Leinſter.

Bell Hammond's, Middl. near Uxbridge. Bell Houſe, Eſſex, between Morehall and N. Ockinden. Bell Houſe, Eſſex, near Halſtead. Bell Houſe, Eſſex, near Chipping Ongar. Bellingford, Norfolk, near Repeham.

BELLINGHAM, a town in Northumb. 14 miles NW. of Hexham, and 294 from London. Market on Tueſday.

Bell Inn, Worc. E. of Kidderminſter.

BELLINZONA, a town of Swiſſerland, capital of a ſmall country, bordering on the Milaneſe. It is ſituated at the northern extremity of Lake Maggiora, 25 miles NNW. of Como.

Belliſter, Northumb. near Haltweſle. Belloſſyſe, Durh. in the pariſh of Billingham. Bellow, Lincolnſ. NW. of Alford. Bellow, Nott. near Rufford.

BELLUNESE, a territory of Venice, in Italy, in which are iron mines; it has Friuli on the E. and the Treviſano and Feltrin on the S.

BELLUNO, it's capital, is ſeated among the Alps, on the river Piava, 15 miles NE. of Feltri. Lat. 46. 13. N. lon. 12. 9. E.

Bellwood Hall, Lincolnſ. E. of Temple Bellwood. Bellwood Temple, Lincolnſ. in the pariſh of Belton. Bellyng, Northumb. near Yarrow.

BELMONT, a town in the dept. of Rhone and Loir; and a town in the dept. of Aveiron.

BELMONTE, a town of Calabria Citra, 11 miles WSW. of Coſenza.

Below, or Belan, a river of Weſtmorl. running into the Eden near Great Muſgrave. Below, Norf. 4 miles S. of Wurſted. Below, Norf. near Repeham. Belper, Derbyſ. in the pariſh of Duffield. Belſerdine, Shropſ. between Sheaton and the little Wrekin Hill. Belſey Caſtle, Northumberland, near Newcaſtle. Belſo, Northumb. near Hexham. Belſtead, Suff. 5 miles S. of Ipſwich. Belſton Tor, Staff. near Throwley.

BELT, THE GREAT, a ſtrait of Denmark, between the iſlands of Zealand and Funen, forming a communication between the Cattegat ſea and the Baltic. It is not ſo commodious, nor ſo much frequented as the Sound.

BELT, THE LITTLE, to the W. of the Great Belt, a narrow ſtrait between Funen and Jutland. It is alſo one of the paſſages between the German Ocean and the Baltic.

Belthorp, Rutl. on the borders of Linc.

Beltingham, Northumb. near the influx of Weſt Alun into the Tyne.

Belton, Leic. between Loughborough and Stanton Harold.

Belton, Rutl. near Ridlington and Wardley.

Belton, Lincolnſ. 1 mile from Grantham.

Belton, Linc. in the Iſle of Axholm.

Belton, Suff. 5 miles SW. of Yarmouth.

Belton, Yorkſ. near Nun Appleton.

Beltoft, Linc. near Epworth.

Beltra, in Sligo, Connaught.

BELTURBET, a town of Cavan, in Ulſter, ſeated on the river Earn, 8 miles NNW. of Cavan, and 61 from Dublin.

BELTZ, BELZO, or BELCZ, a ſpacious town and palatinate of Poland, in Red Ruſſia, 30 miles N. of Leopold. Lat. 50. 20. N. lon. 24. 5. E.

BELVEDERE, a town and province of Greece, whence the Belvedere raiſins come. The province lies on the W. coaſt, and is the moſt fertile in all the Morea. The town is 20 miles S. of Chiarenza. Lat. 38. 0. N. lon. 21. 45. E.; alſo a town of Otranto, Naples; and a town of Calabria Citra.

Belvedere, Kent, near Erith.

Belvoir, or Bever, Caſtle, Lincolnſ. 4 miles from Grantham; the ancient ſeat of the dukes of Rutland, with a fine, extenſive proſpect over the the fruitful valley under it. The Vale of Belvoir, ſpreads from within a mile of Grantham, into the counties of Lincoln, Leiceſter, Nottingham, &c.

Bely, Derbyſ. in the High Peak.

Bemerton, Wilts, near Saliſbury.

Bemingborough, Yorkſ. SW. of the Foreſt of Gaultres.

Bemingham, Yorkſ. near Heydon.

BEMSTER, or BEMINSTER, a town of Dorſetſhire, having a manufacture of woollen and ſail cloth. The inhabitants are about 2000. It is ſeated on the river Bert, 14 miles WNW. of Dorcheſter, and 138 W. by S. of London. Market on Thurſday.

Bempſton, Kent, near Rolvenden.

Bempfield, South, Eſſex, near Horndon.

Benager, Somerſ. near Mendip Hills.

Benaker, Suff. between Southwold and Leoſtoff.

Benall, Nott. NW. of Hucknall.

Benallock, Cornw. SE. of Helſton.

Benallock, Cornw. on the W. ſide of Grampound.

BENARES, a populous and fertile country, or ſoubah, of Hindooſtan, bounded on the N. and NW. by Oude, and on other parts by Bahar, Allahabad, and Oriſſa. It is about 120 miles long and 100 broad, and contains the circars of Benares, Jionpour, Chunar, and Gazypour, and produces a revenue of near 400,000l. a year. It was ceded to the Engliſh Eaſt India Company in 1775.

BENARES, a fine, rich, and populous city, the capital of a ſoubah of the ſame name, is built along the N. ſide of the Ganges, which is here very broad and the banks are very high. It's appearance from the water is very beautiful; ſeveral Hindoo temples embelliſh the banks of the river, and many other buildings, both public and private, are magnificent. The ſtreets are narrow, the houſes high and crowded with inhabitants: but the more wealthy Hindoos live in detached houſes, with an open court ſurrounded by a wall. Benares is more celebrated as the ancient ſeat of Braminical learning, than on any other account; and the ſame manners and cuſtoms ſtill prevail among the people as at the moſt remote period that can be traced in hiſtory, as they moſt pertinaciouſly guard againſt innovations from foreigners. It is 425 miles SE. of Delhi, and 335 NW. of Calcutta. Lat. 25. 20. N. lon. 83. 10. E.

BENAVARRI, a town of Arragon.

BENAVENTO, a large town of Leon.

Benbridge Point, Hants, between the bay of St. Helens and Culvercliff.

Benbury, Somerſ. near Bath.

Benby, Linc. in the road from Glanford Bridge to Barton.

Benburb, in Tyrone, Ulſter.

BENCOOLEN, a town and fortreſs on the SW. coaſt of the iſland of Sumatra, in the Indian Ocean, held by the Engliſh who firſt ſettled here in 1685, and in 169 built a fort, which they called Fort York and afterwards another, with regular fortifications, called Fort Marlborough, in more wholeſome ſituation. The natives build their dwellings on bamboo pillars. A convenient river, on the NW. ſide brings the pepper out of the inland country; but there is a great inconveniency in ſhipping it, by reaſon of a dangerous bar at the river's mouth. Tame buffalo may be had here in plenty; but fiſh and poultry are ſcarce and dear. The ſoil is a fertile clay, producing high graſs. Lat. 3. 49. S. lon. 102. 5. E.

BENDERMASSEN. See BANJAR.

BENDER, or TEKIN, a town of Beſſarabia, ſituated on the river Dneiſter, 80 miles NW. of Belgorod. It is famous for being the retreat of Charles XII. after he was defeated by the Ruſſians at Pultowa. Lat. 46. 58. N. lon. 30. 2. E.

Beneckar, Wilts, near Melkſham.

BENEDETT

BENEDETTO, ST. a town in the Mantuan, 15 miles SSE. of Mantua.

Benefield, Eſſex, near Birchanger. Beresfield, Northamp. 4 miles N. of Oundle. Bewley, Northumb. near the Till, 6 miles NW. of Alnwick. Benenden, Kent, near Rolvenden and Cranbrook.

BENESOEUF, a town in Egypt, 50 miles S. of Cairo. It is the capital of a diſtrict, and reſidence of a bey.

Benet, St. Cornwall, 4 miles SW. of Bodmin.

BENEVENTO, anciently BENEVENTUM, a large and rich city of Naples, capital of the Principato Ultra. This city, with a duchy, or ſmall diſtrict round it, producing about 6000 crowns a-year, is ſubject to the pope. It is ſeated in a fertile valley, near the confluence of the Saboro and Calore, 30 miles NE. of Naples.

BENFELD, a town in the dept. of the Lower Rhine, ſeated on the river Ille, 12 miles SSW. of Straſburg.

Benfield Side, Durham, on the edge of Northumb. Benfleet, North, Eſſex, 4 miles N. of Benfleet Magna. Benfleet Magna, Eſſex, near Canvey Iſland. Benford, Devonſ. near Great Torrington. Bengworth, Worc. on the Avon, oppoſite to Eveſham.

BENGAL, a country of India, in the E. part of Hindooſtan, extending from E. to W. upward of 400 miles, and from N. to S. above 300. It is bounded on the W. by Oriſſa and Bahar; on the N. by Napaul and Bootan; on the E. by Aſſam and Meckley; and on the S. by the Bay of Bengal. The country conſiſts of one vaſt plain, of the moſt fertile ſoil in the world, which, in common with other parts of Hindooſtan, annually renders two, and in ſome parts, even three crops. It's principal products are ſugar, ſilk, cotton, fruit, pepper, opium, rice, ſaltpetre, lac, and civet. The Ganges here divides into ſeveral ſtreams, and annually, like the Nile, overflows the country. Bengal has been ſubject, ever ſince the year 1765, to the Engliſh Eaſt India Company. It's net annual revenue, including that of Bahar, is 1,190,000l. Calcutta is the capital.

BENGUELA, a kingdom on the W. coaſt of Africa, bounded on the W. by the ocean; on the N. by Angola; on the E. and SE. by parts unknown; and on the S. by Matamam, or Matapan. The men wear ſkins about their waiſts; the women a kind of cloth made of the bark of a tree. At Benguela, the capital, on the bay or river Benguela, the Portugueſe have a ſettlement; their houſes are ſhaded with orange, lemon, banana, and other trees. The productions are manioc, palms, dates, vines, caſſia, and tamarinds; and from the humidity of the ſoil, they have two fruit ſeaſons in the year. Lat. from 13. to 15. S. lon. from 12. to 20. E.

Benhall, Suff. near Saxmundham. Benham, Berks, near Reading. Benham, Bucks, near Uſton. Benham, Surry, near Darking. Benham Heath, Berks, near Wargrave. Benick, Camb. in the Iſle of Ely.

BENIN, a kingdom of Africa, extending from 1. 0. S. lat. to 9. 0. N. lat. and bounded on the W. by Dahomy and the ocean; on the N. by Dahomy and Biafara; on the E. by parts unknown; and on the S. by Loango. The country exhibits many beautiful landſcapes; but the air, in ſome places, is noxious or peſtilential, on account of the groſs vapours exhaled from the marſhes by the heat of the ſun. The natives are ſkilful in making various ſorts of dyes, and in manufacturing cottons or calicoes, which they wear and alſo export. Their king is abſolute, and has a great number of petty princes under him, and polygamy is allowed among them. Benin, the capital, ſeated on the river Benin, or Formoſa, is a ſpacious city; the houſes are large and handſome, with clay walls, and covered with reed ſtraw, or leaves; the ſhops are ſtocked with European merchandiſe; as well as with the commodities of the country, and the ſtreets are kept neat and clean by the women. Lat. 7. 50. N. lon. 5. 4. E.

Benington, Herts, 4 miles from Stevenage. Beningworth, Linc. 7 miles SE. of Market Raiſin. Benjoy, near Hertford. Bennet's, St. commonly called St. Bennet's in the Holm, i. e. a river iſland, Norf. SE. of Repeham. Bennet's, Shropſhire, near Shrewſbury.

Bennet's Bridge, 3 miles from Kilkenny, in Leinſter, and 57 from Dublin.

BENNEVIS, a mountain of Inverneſs, riſing 4300 feet above the level of the ſea. It's ſummit affords one of the moſt extenſive and beautiful proſpects in Scotland.

BENNINGTON, the principal town of a county of the ſame name (containing 19 townſhips) of Vermont, in New England, in the SW. corner of the ſtate; at the foot of the Green Mountains. It's public buildings are a court-houſe, jail, and church; but the aſſembly commonly holds the ſeſſions at Windſor. Near the centre of the town is Mount Anthony, which riſes very high, in the form of a ſugar-loaf. Bennington is 30 miles E. by N. of Albany. Lat. 45. 0. N. lon. 73. 19. W.

Bennington, Linc. near Boſton. Bennington, Yorkſ. near Hornſey. Benning- ton Long, Linc. on the borders of Leicef. Benonis, Leicef. near Henckley. Benſford, Wilts, NW. of Briſtol. Benſham, Surry, near Croydon.

BENSHEIM, a town of Germany, in the palatinate of the Rhine, Upper Rhine, 10 miles ENE. of Worms. Lat. 49. 36. N. lon. 8. 41. E.

Benſhington, or Benſon, Oxfordſ. on the Thames, a little below it's conjunction with the Iſis. Bentall, Lanc. near Manchester. Bentall, Shropſhire, 5 miles Shrewſbury. Bentall, Shropſhire, 2 miles NE. of Wenlock. Bentham, Yorkſ. W. Riding, E. of Hornby Caſtle. Bentham, near Glouceſter.

BENTHEIM, a town of Weſtphalia, capital of a county of the ſame name, about 40 miles long, and from 3 to 12 broad, bounded by Munſter on the E. and S. and Overyſſel on the N. and W. The town of Bentheim contains one Roman Catholic and one Proteſtant church, and has a caſtle, or palace, flanked with towers. It is 32 miles NW. of Munſter.

BENTIVOGLIO, a town and caſtle in the principality of Bologna, 10 miles NE. of Bologna.

Bentley, Warw. between Kingſbury and Shiſtock. Bentley, Derbyſ. near Middleton Park. Bentley, Hants, near Farnham, in Surry. Bentley, Staff. W. of Walſall. Bentley, Suff. near Ipſwich. Bentley, Suſſex, 8 miles NE. of Lewes. Bentley, Yorkſ. 4 miles SW. of Beverley. Bentley, Yorkſ. near Doncaſter. Bentley Fenny, Derbyſ. NE. of Aſhborn. Bentley Hall, Eſſex, near Elmſted. Bentley Hungry, Derbyſ. near Bentley Fenny. Bentley, Magna and Parva, Eſſex, near Tendring. Bentley, Worceſ. a hamlet to Tandebigg. Benton Magna, or Mickle Benton, Northumb. near Newcaſtle. Benton Parva, or Little Benton, near Benton Magna. Benton, Yorkſ. NE. of Bridlington. Bentworth, Hants, NW. of Alton. Benville, Dorſetſ. 1 mile from Corfecombe.

Benvoliben, a mountain 4 miles N. of Sligo, in Connaught, and 2 from the ocean.

Beauvell, Northumb. near Newcaſtle. Benwyke, Northumb. in Coquetdale ward. Benny, Cornw. near Boſcaille, to the NE. Bepton, Suſſex, 2 miles S. of Midhurſt.

BERAR, or BARAR, an extenſive ſoubah of the Deccan, in Hindooſtan, bounded on the N. by Malwa and Allahabad; on the E. by Oriſſa and the northern circars; on the W. by Candeiſh and Dowlatabad; and on the S. by Golconda. It is fertile in wheat, rice, poppies, and leguminous plants. The ſheep here have lengthened necks, very thort tails, long ears, and wool not curled. It is partly ſubject to rajah, and partly to the nizam of th Deccan.

BERBICE, a river of Guiana, whic runs into the Atlantic in about lat. 6. N and lon 59. W.

BERCHTOLSGADEN, a town and prin cipality of Bavaria, environed in th achbiſhopric of Saltzburg, but only ſul ject to the pope. It is 10 miles SW. Saltzburg.

BERDOA, a country of Africa, betwee Egypt and Zaara.

Berdon, Eſſex, S. of Clavering. Ber wold, Suff. N. of Ixworth Bere, Corn 4 miles SE. of Stratton.

BEREALSTON. See BEARALSTON.

Bere Church, Eſſex, near Colcheſte Bere Hugard, Dorſetſ. near Yetminſter.

BERELLY, a ſmall city of Hindooſt Proper, capital of the Rohillas countr SE. of Delhi, and NW. of Lucknow, a about 120 miles from each. Lat. 28. 3 N. lon. 79. 40. E.

BERENICE. See SUEZ.

BERE REGIS, a town of Dorſetſhir ſeated on a rivulet of it's own name, no it's influx into the river Piddle, betwee Wareham and Middleton, 12 miles E. N. of Dorcheſter, and 113 SW. of Londo Market on Wedneſday.

Bere, Dorſetſ. near Ockford Shillin and Durveſton. Bere Hacket, Dorſet 2 miles SE. of Bradford Abbas. Bere ford, Staff. on the Dove, near Narrow dale. Bereſton, Dorſetſ. W. of Winbor St. Giles's. Berfield, Berks, near Winte bourn. Berford, Dorſetſ. near Winbo Minſter. Berford, Wilts, 4 miles N. Wilton.

BERG, a territory of Weſtphalia, ha ing the duchy of Cleves on the N. a that of Marck on the E. about 60 mil long, and from 8 to 22 in breadth. Alon the Rhine, (which parts it from the arc biſhopric of Cologne) the country is flat a fertile in corn, paſtures, &c. on the hil they cultivate vines, and there are vaſt t reſts on the mountains. It is ſubject the Elector Palatine. Duſſeldorp is th capital.

BERGAMASCO, a province of Venic having the country of the Griſons on th N. and the Milaneſe on the W. It exceedingly fertile about it's capital, Be gamo, (which is an ancient city, noted f it's wool, ſilks, ſerges, and tapeſtry) bu mountainous, rocky, and uncultivated the northern parts. They have, howeve ſome iron mines, and alſo quarries of mil ſtones, wine, oil, and delicious fruits Bergamaſco is 25 miles NE. of Milan.

BERGAR

BERGARAC, a populous, trading town in the dept. of Dordogne, ſeated on the river Dordogne, 46 miles E. of Bourdeaux.

BERGAS, or BORGAS, a town of Romania; and a town of Natolia.

BERGEN, a handſome and ancient ſea-port of Norway, capital of the province of Bergenhus, containing about 20,000 inhabitants. The harbour is excellent, and well fortified. Their exports are ſkins, timber, tallow, fiſh, &c.; but their wheat is brought from other places. It is 209 miles NW. of Gottenburg, and 350 N. by W. of Copenhagen. Lat. 60. 11. N, lon. 5. 45. E.

BERGEN, a town in the Iſle of Rugen. See RUGEN.

BERGEN, a town of Hanau Muntzenburg, Upper Rhine; alſo a town of Zell, Lower Saxony; and a county of New Jerſey, N. America.

BERGENHUS, the moſt weſterly province of Norway, between Aggerhuys and the ſea, about 60 leagues long and 27 wide.

BERGEN OP ZOOM, a ſtrong town of Dutch Brabant, in the marquiſate of the ſame name. It is ſeated partly upon a hill, and partly on the river Zoom, which communicates with the Scheldt by a canal. It is 15 miles N. of Antwerp, and 22 SW. of Breda.

Bergerade, Lanc. near Thornton. Bergh, Norf. near Kimberley Park. Berghampſtead, Nort. near Broke and Loddon. Bergholt, Suffolk. Bergholt Eaſter, Eſſex, near Colcheſter, Bergill, Shropſhire, near Babby's Wood.

BERGUES ST. VINOX, a town in the dept. of the North, ſeated on the river Colme, at the union of ſeveral canals, with conduct to Dunkirk, Graveline, St. Omer, Furnes, &c. 5 miles SE. of Dunkirk.

BERIARA, or BERII ARBISTAN, the ancient name for Arabia Deſerta.

Berin, a river of Norfolk, running into the Yar, below Norwich. Beringham, Norfolk, 5 miles SW. of Budgeſdale. Berington, Shropſh. 2 miles E. of Cundover, Berington, Shropſ. near Clun. Berington, Magna and Parva, Oxfordſ. on the edge of Glouceſterſ. Berion, Cornw. between North Hill and South Hill. Beriton, Hants, near Peterfield.

BERKELEY, a town of Glouceſterſhire, famous for it's Gothic caſtle, begun in the reign of Henry I. and finiſhed in that of Stephen. The room, in which king Edward II. was impriſoned, is ſtill to be ſeen. It is ſituated on the Severn (by which it carries on a conſiderable trade in timber, coals, malt, and cheeſe) 18 miles SSW. of Glouceſter, and 113 from London. Market on Tueſday.

Berkeſwell, Warwickſ. near Coventry. Berkford, Bedf. N. of Tomſford.

*BERKHAMPSTEAD, a town of Hertfordſhire, formerly a Roman ſtation, and where the kings of Mercia afterwards reſided, in a very large, ſtrong caſtle, encompaſſed by a moat that covers above 4 acres, the ruins of which, as alſo of its bridge, are ſtill viſible. A wittenagemot, or Saxon parliament, was held here, in 697, and Ina's laws were publiſhed here. It is 9 miles from St. Alban's, and 26 NW. of London. Market on Monday.

Berkhampſtead, Little, 4 miles from Hertford.

BERKS, or BERKSHIRE, a county of England, bounded on the W. by Wilts; on the N. by Oxfordſhire and Bucks, from both which it is divided by the Thames; on the E. by Bucks and Surry; and on the S. by Hants. From E. to W. it extends above 50 miles, and from N. to S. it is 25 miles, in the wideſt, though not more than 6 in the narroweſt part. It contains 20 hundreds, 12 market-towns, 140 pariſhes, and about 115,000 inhabitants. The air in general is very healthy. It's principal rivers are the Thames, Kennet, Lamborn, and Loddon. The E. part has much uncultivated land, as Windſor-Forreſt and it's appendages: the W. and middle parts, particularly the Vale of White Horſe, produce grain in great abundance.

BERKSHIRE, a county of Pennſylvania, and a county of Maſſachuſetts, in the United States, N. America.

Berley, Shropſ. between Walcot and Shipton-Caſtle. Berley, Yorkſhire, N. of Snaith.

BERLIN, a large and handſome city of Germany, capital of the electorate of Brandenburg, where the King of Pruſſia reſides. It ſtands on the banks of the Spree, in a ſandy ſoil, amidſt woods and marſhes; yet it is encompaſſed with fruitful gardens and vineyards, and manufactories of various cloths, metals, and glaſs are carried on. The inhabitants, including the garriſon, are eſtimated at 130,000 of whom about 4000 are Jews. The palace is magnificent, and there is a fine library, a rich cabinet of curioſities and medals, an academy of ſciences, and an obſervatory. There is a canal cut from the river Spree to the Oder on the E. and another thence to the Elbe to the W. It has a communication by water both with the Baltic Sea and German Ocean; and is 42 miles NW. of Frankfort on the Oder, and 300 N. by W. of Vienna. Lat. 52. 32. N. lon. 13. 31. E.

BERLIN, a town of York county, and a town of Somerſet county; both in Pennſylvania.

Berling, Northumb. near Harbottle-Caſtle. Berlings, near Lincoln.

BERMUDA, or SOMERS' ISLANDS, a cluſter of ſmall iſlands, about 500 miles E. of Carolina, in the Atlantic Ocean. They are properly rocks, or hard ſand-banks, about 400 in number, and not containing in all above 20,000 acres; ſome of them are ſo near each other, that paſſengers ſtep acroſs the intervening ſea from iſland to iſland. They are inhabited by the Engliſh, enjoy a pure and temperate air, and have plenty of fiſh, fleſh, garden ſtuff, land and water birds, Indian corn, tobacco, fruits, &c. The common employment of the inhabitants is in building ſloops of the cedar, which grows here in abundance, and they frequently build their houſes and churches of it. The moſt conſiderable of theſe iſlands, are St. George, St. David, Cooper, Ireland, Somerſet, Long Iſland, Bird Iſland, and Nonſuch. The firſt contains a town, the two following have ſome villages, the others only diſperſed farms. It is a perpetual ſpring here; the trees never loſe their verdure, as the leaves only fall when new ones begin to appear, and birds ſing and breed without intermiſſion. The town of St. George, on St. George's Iſland, is the capital. Lat. 32. 20. N. lon. 65. 0. W.

BERN, the largeſt of the 13 cantons of Swiſſerland, having for its ſouthern boundary the Lake of Geneva, the Valais, and the duchy of Savoy: it is about 150 miles in length, and 75 in breadth, and is divided into two principal parts, called the German and Roman. The latter is moſt commonly called the Pays de Vaud, or Country of Vaud. The people are Calviniſts.

BERN, the capital of the canton of Bern, ſtands on a peninſula, formed by the river Aar. Here is a celebrated ſchool, and a rich library. The houſes are of a fine white free-ſtone, and pretty uniform, particularly in the principal ſtreet, where the houſes are all of a height. There are piazzas on each ſide, with a walk raiſed 4 feet above the level of the ſtreet, very commodious in wet weather, and the public buildings are magnificent. Moſt of the ſtreets are paved with flints, and traverſed by a canal lined with freeſtone. Bern is 70 miles NE. of Geneva. Lat 46. 52. N. lon. 7. 20. E.

BERN, a town of Bohemia, 15 miles W. of Prague.

BERNARD, THE GREAT, ST. a mountain of Swiſſerland, between Vallais and Val d'Aoſte, at the ſource of the river Drance. The top of it is always covered with ſnow, and there is a large convent, where the monks entertain all ſtrangers, gratis, for three days, without diſtinction of religious profeſſion.

BERNAU, two towns in the archduchy of Auſtria; a town in the Upper Palatinate; and a town in the Middle Marche of Brandenburg.

BERNAY, a trading town, in the dept. of Eure, ſeated on the river Carantone, 20 miles SW. of Rouen.

BERNBURG, a town of Upper Saxony, capital of Anhalt Bernburg, and the reſidence of the prince.

Bernham, Suff. S. of Thetford.

BERNKASTEL, a town of Treves, noted for it's good wine. It is ſituated on the Moſelle, 18 miles ENE. of Treves.

Bernthorp, Nott. 6 miles NE. of Newark. Berrewood Foreſt, Bucks, bordering on Oxf. Berrick Priory, Oxf. 4 miles NW. of Watlington. Berrick-Salome, Oxf. near Watlington. Berrier, Cumb. near Penrith. Berrington, Glouc. near Campden. Berrington, Worceſ. near Tenbury. Berrington, Som. 4 miles N. of Axbridge. Berriſlow, Derbyſh. in the High Peak. Berrough, Somerſ. between the Brent and the coaſt. Berrow, Norf. near Hingham. Berrow, Worceſterſ. 8 miles from Overbury.

BERRY, a ci devant province of France, having Nivernois on the E. and Poitou on the W. It is fertile in corn, wine, fruits, hemp, and flax, and has alſo mines of ſilver, iron, and ochre. It now forms the two departments of Cher and Indre.

Berry, Berks, near Maidenhead. Berry, Eſſex, near Great and Little Wendon. Berry, Dorſetſ. near Blandford. Berry, Lancaſhire, near Manchester. Berry End, Bedf. near Hockley. Berry End, Bedf. near Carlton. Berry Nerbert, Devonſ. on the coaſt, W. of Comb-Martin. Berry-Pomeroy, Devonſ. near Totneſs. Berry-Street, Middl. near Northolt. Berſfeldon, Hants, near Titchfield.

BERSELLO, or BRISELLO, a ſmall but ſtrong town, in the Modeneſe, ſituated on the Po, 27 miles NW. of Modena.

Berſted, Herts, 3 miles SW. of Hemſtead. Berſted, N. and S. Suſſex, SE. of Chicheſter.

BERSUIRE. See BRESSUIRE.

Bert, a river in Dorſetſhire, which runs into the Engliſh Channel near Bridport.

BERTINORO,

BERTINORO, a town in the pope's territory, 15 miles S. of Ravenna.

Bertle, Lancaſ. near Manchester. Berton Hills, Suffolk, near Mildenhall.

BERTRAND, ST. DE COMINGES, a ſmall town in the dept. of Upper Garonne, 43 miles SE. of Auch.

*BERVIE, or INVERBERVIE, a river, ſea-port, and ſmall bay, on the coaſt of Kincardine, 23 miles SSW. of Aberdeen.

Berythin, Hereſ. near Roſs.

*BERWICK, a town on the borders of England and Scotland, properly belonging to neither. It is a town and county of itſelf; it is large, populous, well-built, and regularly fortified; the old caſtle, however, is gone to decay. Berwick has very conſiderable fiſheries of ſalmon, exports wool, and eggs, collected through all the country, in vaſt abundance, to London, for the uſe of ſugar-refiners. They alſo import timber from Norway and the Baltic. It is ſeated on the Tweed, over which there is a handſome bridge of 15 arches, 52 miles SE. of Edinburgh, 147 N. of York, and 336 N. by W. of London. Markets on Wedneſday and Saturday, and a fair on Friday, in Trinity Week, for black cattle and horſes.

BERWICK, a town of Northumberland county, ſeated on the Suſquehannah, and a town of York county, both in Pennſylvania.

BERWICK, NORTH, a town of Scotland, in Haddingtonſhire, on the Frith of Forth, 30 miles NW. of Berwick upon Tweed.

BERWICKSHIRE, a county of Scotland, ſometimes called the Merſ; is bounded on the W. by the ſhires of Edinburgh and Selkirk; on the NW. by Haddingtonſhire: on the E. by the German Ocean; and on the SE. and S. by the Tweed and Roxburghſhire. The principal rivers are the Tweed, Leader, Blackadder, Whiteadder, Eye, and Ednel.

Berwick, Herts, between Ware and Puckeridge. Berwick, Dorſetſhire, near Bridport. Berwick, Suſſex, SW. of Pevenſey-Marſh. Berwick Hill, Northumb. near Mitford. Berwick St. James, Wilts, 3 miles SW. of Stonehenge. Berwick St. John, Wilts, 3 miles S. of Wardour-Caſtle. Berwick St. Leonard, Wilts, near Hindon. Berwood-Hall, Warwickſ. in the pariſh of Curdworth. Berwyn-Hills, a ridge of mountains near Bala in Merionethſhire. Bery-Baron, Iſle of Wight, in Weſt Medina. Berythorp, Yorkſ. S. of New Malton.

BESANÇON, a city in the depart. of Doubs, containing 8 pariſhes, and about 20,000 inhabitants. It was formerly the capital of Franche-Comte, and is ſituated on a peninſula formed by the river Doubs, 52 miles nearly E. of Dijon, and 298 SE. of Paris.

Beſcot, Staff, 1 mile from Church-Eaton. Beſebey, Linc. 4 miles N. of Alford. Beſford, Shropſ. near Lee-Bridge. Beſford, Worceſ. near Perſhore. Beſill, Cornwall, 4 miles SE. of Camelford. Beſkwood Lodge, Nott. S. of Sherwood-Foreſt.

BESSARABIA, or BUDZIAC TARTARY, in ancient geography called the DESERT OF THE GETÆ, a ſmall territory of Turkey in Europe, having Moldavia on the W. and the Danube on the S. The chief towns are Bender, Akerman, Kilia, and Iſmail.

Beſborough, in Kilkenny, Leinſter.

Beſſelſleigh, or Beſſis Leigh, Berks, 3 miles SW. of Oxford. Beſſonby, Yorkſ. near Bridlington. Beſthorp, or Beſtrup, Nott. on the borders of Linc. Beſthorp, Norf. between Buckenham and Hingham. Beston, North, Nottinghamſhire, near Lenton and Bramcot. Beston, Norfolk, near Eaſt Beckenham, 6W. of Cromer. Beſton, Norfolk, E. of the road from Norwich to N. Walſham. Beſtow, Shropſ. W. of Wrekin-Hill.

BESTRICIA, or BESTERTZE, a town of Tranſylvania, ſeated on the river Biſtritz.

Beſtwall, Dorſetſhire, near Wareham. Beſwick, Yorkſ. near Baynton.

BETANZOS, a ſea-port of Galicia, 9 miles SW. of Corunna.

Betchton, Cheſ. 2 miles from Sandback and 4 from Congleton. Betchworth Caſtle, Surry, between Dorking and Ryegate.

BETELFAUGI, a town of Arabia Felix, a large market for coffee. Lat. 15. 40. N. lon. 57. 20. E.

Betham Caſtle, or Hall, Weſtm. near the river Kan. Betherſden, Kent, SW. of Aſhford.

BETHLEHEM, a poor village of Paleſtine, ſituated on the ridge of a hill, 6 miles SE. of Jeruſalem. Here is a very large church, built, in the form of a croſs, by the Empreſs Helena, and, adjoining to it, a large monaſtery of Franciſcan friars, indifferently built.

BETHLEHEM, a town of Brabant, 2 miles N. of Louvain.

BETHLEHEM, a town of Northampton county, Pennſylvania, ſituated on the river Lehеigh, a weſtern branch of the Delaware. The town being partly on an eminence, and partly on the lower banks of the Manakes, (a fine creek, affording red and yellow-bellied trout and other fiſh) has has a very pleaſant and healthy ſituation. It is the principle ſettlement of the Moravians, in America, who were fixed here by Count Zinzendorf in 1741. The houſes, which are mostly built of lime-ſtone, are about 72 in number, including an excellent ſchool, and two large houſes for the ſingle men and ſingle women, the latter under a female ſuperintendant, the former under an elder, or warden; and the inhabitants are between 5 and 600. The German language is more in uſe here than the Engliſh: the latter, however, is taught in the ſchools; and both are made uſe of in the church, a ſimple ſtone building, furniſhed with an organ. Bethlehem is 53 miles N. of Philadelphia.

Bethlem, in Weſt Meath, Leinſter, 5 miles from Athlone.

BETHUNE, a ſtrong town in the dept. of the Straits of Calais, ſeated on a rock by the river Belſe, or Brette, 20 miles SE. of St. Omer, and 120 N. of Paris.

Bettsford, Suffolk, near Ipſwich.

BETLEY, a town of Staffordſhire, about 5 miles from Newcaſtle and Namptwich, 16 miles NNW. of Stafford, and 156 from London. Market on Tueſday.

BETLIS, or BEPLIS, a town of Aſia, capital of Curdiſtan, on the frontiers of Turkey and Perſia, but ſubject to neither, and an aſylum for the ſubjects of the neighbouring powers. It is the reſidence of a bey, who commands an army of 20 or 25,000 horſemen, beſides infantry; and is ſituated between two high mountains, 100 miles E. of Diarbek. Lat. 37. 30. N. lon. 42. 50. E.

Betlunſtrey, or Bethmyſley, Yorkſh. between Skipton and Ripley. Betonet, Cornw. S. of Launceſton. Betsford, near Nottingham. Betſhanger, Kent, near Knowlton. Betteley, Norf. 6 miles SW. of Repeham. Bettescomb, Dorſetſ. 1 mile from Pilleſden, and 9 NW. of Bridport. Bettesley, Glouc. between the Severn and the Foreſt of Dean. Betton, Shropſ. N. of Drayton. Betton, Shropſ. SE. of Shrewſbury. Bettus, Merionethſ. 6 miles from Bala. Bettus, Monm. 5 miles W. of Caerlon. Bettus, Shropſ. near Radnorſhire and the river Temde. Bettus Chapel, Monm. on the borders of Brecknockſ. Bettus Newith, Monm. on the river, and near the town of Uske.

BETUWE, BETUYE, or BETAW, a territory of Dutch Guelderland, ſituated between the rivers Maeſe and Leck, and ſuppoſed to have given name to the ancient Batavia.

Betwerth, Warw. near Solyhull. Bettwcys, Caernarvonſhire, 10 miles SE. of Aberconway.

BEVECUM, a town of Brabant, 8 miles SE. of Louvain.

BEVELAND, N. and S. two iſlands of the United Provinces, in Zealand, between the E. and W. branches of the Scheldt. The latter is about 24 miles long and 7 wide.

Bever, Kent, S. of Aſhford. Bevercotes, Nott. near Weſt Markham.

BEVERGERN, a town of Munſter, Weſtphalia.

*BEVERLEY, a town in Yorkſhire, chiefly famous for it's minſter, a large ſtructure, founded by king Atheiſtan, but conſumed by fire, in 1188, and afterwards rebuilt: it is now a parochial church. The inhabitants trade in malt, oatmeal, and tanned leather, and here is a manufacture of bone lace. It ſtands near the river Hull, from which there is a canal of 6 furlongs to the town, called Beverley-Beck, (which was cleanſed, deepened, and widened, in 1727) for the conveyance of boats and barges, 8 miles from Hull, 30 from York, and 183 from London. Markets on Wednesday and Saturday.

BEVERLEY, a town in Eſſex county, Maſſachuſetts.

Beverley, an iſland formed by the Severn, near Worceſter. Beverſton Caſtle, Glouc. 2 miles NW. of Tedbury. Bevington-Cock, and Bevington-Wood, Warw. hamlets of Salford Priors. Bewcaſtle, Cumb. on the river Leven, above Sallom Moſs. Bewcot, Berks, near the Vale of White Horſe. Bewdlam, Yorkſ. near Kirby Moreſide.

*BEWDLEY, a neat and populous town of Worceſterſhire, having manufactures of horning in all it's articles; tannery, and Dutch and ſailor's caps, valued for the excellence of the napping. It is ſeated on the Severn, 14 miles N. of Worceſter, and 128 NW. of London. Market on Saturday.

Bewers ad Montem, Eſſex, near the Maningtree river, on the road from Colcheſter to Sudbury. Bewers St. Mary, Eſſex, near Nayland. Bewers-Giffard, Eſſex, between N. and S. Benfleet. Bewers-Hamlet, Eſſex, near Steeple Bumſted. Bewſront, Northumb. between Hexham and the Pict's wall. Bewholm, Yorkſ. in Holderneſs. Bewick-Tower, Northumb. on the river Bramiſh, S. of Hebborn. Bewick, Yorkſhire, near Aldborough.

BEWLEY, or BEAULIEU, a river of Scotland, which riſes in the SW. of Roſſſhire, and paſſing near the N. border of Inverneſſhire, forms the fine eſtuary on which ſtands Inverneſs, and which terminates, in the Frith of Murray. At the mouth south of this river is the ferry of Kiſſock, near which is a good ſalmon fiſhery.

Bewdy, Hants, 4 miles E. of Lymington. Bewe, or Beau-Manor, Leiceſ. near Burley-Park. Bewworthy, Devonſ. between Hatherley and Launceſton. Bewye Park, Durham, near Nevil's Croſs. Bewſey, Lancaſhire, NW. of Warrington. Bewſfield, Kew, SW. of Walderſhare.

BEXA. See BEJA.

BEX, a pleaſant village of Bern, 4 miles SSE. of Aigle: it is remarkable for it's ſalt-works which are entered by a ſubterraneau paſſage cut through the ſolid rock.

Bexington, and Bexington-Weſt, Dorſetſhire, near Abbotſbury. Bexley, Kent, SW. of Crayford, 13 miles from London. Bexton, Cheſhire, near Knottesford. Bexwell, Norfolk, E. of Downham.

BEZIERS, a large town in the dept. of Herault, containing about 18,000 inhabitants. It is ſeated near 8 ſluices of the Grand Canal, on a hill, at the foot of which flows the Orbre, and is 8 miles from the Mediteraneau, and 12 NE. of Narbonne.

BIAFARA, a kingdom and it's capital, in Negroland, on the river Los Camarones, SE. of Benin. Lat. 10. 10. N. lon. 17. 40. E.

BIALOGOROD, a town of Wilna, in Lithuania.

BIANCA, LA, a town of Calabria Ultra.

Biarſgarth, E. of Durham. Biarſgreen, Durham, NE. of Bincheſter. Biarſide, Norfolk, near Ebcheſter. Bibelham, Suſſex, in Mayfield pariſh.

BIBERACH, a free imperial town of Suabia, having a manufacture in ſuſtain. It is ſeated in a fertile valley on the river Riſs, 17 miles SSW. of Ulm.

BIBERSPERG, a town of Upper Hungary, 12 miles NE. of Preſburg.

Bibleswell, Herts, W. of Digtwell. Bilcot, Kent, N. of Aſhford.

*BICESTER, BURCESTER, or BISSETER, a town in Oxfordſhire, noted for it's excellent malt liquor. Here is a manufacture of ſlippers. It is ſituated on the road between Oxford and Buckingham, about 12 miles from each, and 56 from London. Market on Friday.

Bicham, St. John. St. Mary, All Saints, Well, Norf. villages between Downham and Swaffham. Bichborn, Durham, near Darlington. Bickfield, Northumb. N. of the Pict's wall.

BICKANEER, a town of Agimere, in Hindoſtan, capital of a circar. It is 42 miles W. of Nagore.

Birkenhill, Warw. SW. of Coleſhill. Bickerſtaff, Lanc. near Ormſkirk. Bickerton, Cheſh. W. of Cholmondeley. Bickerton, Herefordſ. near Roſs. Bickerton, Northumberl. SE. of Harbottle-Caſtle. Bickerton, Yorkſh. NE. of Wetherby. Bickford, Staff. SW. of Penkridge. Bickington, Devonſ. N. of Aſhburton. Bickington Abbots, Devonſ. near Bradworthy. Bickington High, Devonſ. E. of Torrington. Bickleton, Heref. near Thornbury. Bickley, Cheſ. near Cholmondeley. Bickley, Devonſ. W. of Bradninch. Bickley, Devonſh. NW. of Plympton. Bickley, Yorkſh. near the Foreſt of Pickering. Bickmarſh, Warwickſ. on the borders of Glouceſ. Bicknall, Staff. 4 miles S. of Mowcop Hill. Bicknaller, Somerſ. near Stoke-Gomer. Bicknell, Somerſ. 4 miles from Taunton. Bicknore, Kent, between Maidſtone and Milton. Bicknore, Engliſh, Glouc. 3 miles from Colford, and 5 from Monmouth, on the Wye; on the oppoſite or W. bank of the Wye, is Bicknore-Welſh, in Monmouthſ. Bickton, Cornw. near St. Neot's. Bickton, Devonſ. 4 miles SW. of Sidmouth. Bickton, Shropſ. SW. of Brockton. Bickton, Shropſhire, W. of Shrewſbury.

BIDACHE, a ſmall town in the dept. of the Lower Pyrenees, ſeated on the river Bidouſe, 12 miles E. of Bayonne.

BIDDASSOA, a river which riſes in the Pyrenees, and falls into the Bay of Biſcay, between Andaye and Fontarabia, ſeparating France from Spain.

Bidborough, Kent, E. of Penſhurſt.

*BIDDEFORD, a clean, well-built, populous town, in Devonſhire, ſeated on the river Towridge, (near it's union with the Taw) over which is a very long bridge, of 24 arches. It has a noble quay for ſhips of good burden, and carries on a conſiderable trade in coarſe earthen ware, Iriſh wool, &c. They alſo ſend ſhips to Newfoundland, America, and the W. Indies. It is 16 miles S. by W. of Ilfracombe, and 203 W. of London. Market on Tueſday.

Biddén, Berks, near Ilſey.

*BIDDENDEN, a town of Kent, 5 miles from Cranbrook, Smarden, and Tenterden.

Biddenham, Bedf. 3 miles W. of Bedford. Bidder, a river in Cardiganſhire. Biddulph, Staff. bordering on Cheſhire. Bidſden, Wiltſhire, near Luggerſhall. Bideſton, Wiltſhire, near Chippenham. Bidleſden, Buckinghamſ. near Brackley in Northamptonſ. Bidleſton, Heref. Bidleſworth, Norfolk, betwe Thetford and Herling. Bidlington, Suſſex, near Bramber. Bidſton, Cheſhire, between Hyle-lake and the river Merley.

BIECZ,

BIECZ, a town of Cracow, Poland, 48 miles SE. of the city of Cracow.

BIELA, or BIELLA, a town of Piedmont.

BIELGOROD, a town of Kurſk, in Ruſſia. See alſo AKERMAN.

BIELOI, a town of Smolenſko.

BIELSK, a town, capital of Polachia; alſo a town of Plockzko, both in Poland.

BIENNE, a town, ſmall territory, containing about 5500 inhabitants, and lake of Swiſſerland, at the foot of Mount Jura, 17 miles NW. of Bern. It is partly ſubject to the biſhop of Baſil, and partly to it's own magiſtracy.

BIEROLIET, or BIERVLIET, a town of Dutch Flanders, 6 miles E. of Sluys.

Biſrons, Kent, near Barham Downs. Biga, or Riga, a river in Montgomeryſh. running into the Severn. Bigbury, Devonſhire, 10 miles from Plymouth.

BIGGAR, a town and pariſh of Lanerkſ.

Bigger, Lancaſh. near Walney Iſland. Biggin, Warwickſh. near Stoke. Biggin, Warwickſh. near Newton. Biggin, Derbyſhire, in the pariſh of Duffield. Biggin, Derbyſhire, near Aſhborn.

*BIGGLESWADE, a town in Bedfordſhire, much more conſiderable than formerly, being a great thoroughfare between London and York. It is ſeated on the Ivel, (which is navigable for boats, and brings up coals, timber, merchandize, &c. from Lynn) 10 miles from Bedford, and 45 from London. It's market, which is one of the greateſt in England, for barley, peas, and horſe corn, is on Tueſday.

Bighton, Hants, near Alresford.

Big Iſland, in Down, Ulſter, at the entrance of Carrickfergus Bay.

Bigland, Lancaſh. NW. of Cartmeal. Bigmore, or Bignore, Suſſex, 11 miles N. of Arundel.

BIGORRE, a ci-devant prov. of France, a part of Gaſcony, S. of Armagnac; it now forms the department of the Upper Pyrenees.

BIHAEZ, WIHATZ, or VIHITZ, a town of Croatia. Lat. 44. 51. N. lon. 16. 32. E.

BIJINAGUR. See BISNAGUR.

BIJORE, a province of Hindooſtan Proper, lying between the rivers Indus and Attock. It's dimenſions are not more than 50 miles by 20, and in many parts it is wild and mountainous.

Biker, Linc. near Donnington. Bicker, Northumb. 1 mile E. of Newcaſtle. Biland-Abbey, Yorkſ. near the valley of Ryedale.

BILBOA, or VILVAO, a healthy, ſeaport town, of Spain, capital of Biſcay, conſiſting of about 800 houſes, with 5 pariſh churches, and 12 convents. Here is a good, well-frequented harbour, the town is well ſupplied with water, proviſion fiſh, &c. and the environs are fertile leguminous plants and fruits. The chi exports are wool, ſword-blades, and oth iron and ſteel wares. It is ſeated on t river Ibaicabal, 50 miles W. of St. Seba tian, and 180 N. of Madrid. Lat. 4 23. N. lon. 3. 10. W.

Bilboa, in Limerick, Munſter.

Bilbrook, Staff. near Codſall. Bilburg NW. of Nottingham. Bilburgh, York near Wetherby. Bilby, Notting. near R Retford. Bildas, Magna and Parv Shropſ. near Little Wenlock. Bildas, Buldas, Shropſ. at the foot of the Wrekin

BILDESTON, or BILSTON, a dirty tow in Suffolk, with mean buildings, but good church. It has a woollen manufa tory, chiefly in ſpinning of yarn, and ſeated on the river Breton, 12 miles S of Bury, and 63 NE. of London. Ma ket on Wedneſday.

BILEDULGERID, the ancient Numidi an inland country of Africa, in Barbar S. of Tunis. The air is hot, but the ſoi though dry, yields a conſiderable quantit of barley. The country in ſome parts i covered with large woods of palm-trees from which the inhabitants gather va quantities of dates, with which they carr on a conſiderable trade. The inhabitant are compoſed of the ancient Africans, wh lead a ſettled life, and the Arabs who roa about at large. It lies between 28 and 3 deg. N. lat. and between 5 and 11 E. lon Bileſwick, Glouceſterſ. near Briſtol.

BILEVELT, or BIELFELD, a town i Ravenſburg, Weſtphalia, divided by th river Lutterbach, into the Old and th New Town.

Billam, Yorkſhire, NW. of Doncaſter.

BILLERICAY, a town of Eſſex, ſeated on a hill, 4 miles from Brentwood, 9 from Chelmsford, and 23 from London. A conſiderable market on Tueſday, for corn &c.

Billeſby, Lincolnſhire, near Aylesford.

BILLESDEN, a town of Leiceſterſhire, 9 miles nearly E. of Leiceſter. Market on Friday.

Billeſdun, Northumb. near the rocks of Cheviot Hills. Billeſley, Warw. near 5 miles W. of Stratford upon Avon. Billeſton, Northumb. N. of the Coquet and Uſway rivers. Billing, Lanc. 7 miles SW. of Leigh. Billing, Magna and Parva, 2 miles from Northampton. Billingay, Linc. 5 miles W. of Tatterſhalſ. Billingbarck, Berks, in Windſor Foreſt. Billingborough, Linc. E. of Fokingham. Billingford, Norf. S. of Harleſton. Billingham, Durham, 2 miles from Stockton. Billingburſh, Suſſex, Suſſex, 4 miles from Horſham. Billingley, Yorkſ. W. Riding, between Newhall and Ickleton. Billingſley, Shropſh. between Sudbury and the Severn. Billington, a little S. of Stafford. Billington, Magna, and Parva, Bedf. in the pariſh of Leighton-Buzzard. Billington, Great and Little, Kent, 5 miles E. of Tenterden. Billockby, Norf. 6 miles NW. of Yarmouth.

BILLOM, a little town in the dept. of Puy de Dome, 15 miles ESE. of Clermont.

BILMA, a vaſt burning deſert of Africa, N. of Bornou, and SE. of Fezzan, ſituated between 21 and 25 degrees of N. lat.

Bilney Eaſt, Norfolk, N. of Billington. Bilney Weſt, Norf. between Swaffham and Lynn. Bilſborough, Lanc. near Garſtang. Bilſdale, Yorkſ. NW. of Kirby-Moreſide. Bilſham, or Bideſham, Somerſ. near Axbridge. Bilſbey, Dorſetſ. a little N. of Bridport. Bilſington, Great and Little, Kent, 5 miles E. of Tenterden.

BILSEN, a ſmall town of Liege, ſituated on the Demer, with the privileges of a city. It is 15 miles N. of Liege.

Bilſbury, Nott. E. of Lindhurſtwood. Bilſton, Staff. near Wolverhampton. Bilſton, Leic. in the pariſh of Hog's-Norton. Bilton, Warw. SW. of Rugby. Bilton, Northumberl. W. of Aylmouth. Bilton, near Hutton, SW. of York. Bilton in Holderneſs, Yorkſhire.

BIMINI, one of the Bahama Iſlands, covered with trees, pleaſant, and inhabited by the native Americans; about 8 miles in length, and as many in breadth; with a good harbour. Lat. 25. N. lon. 79. 34. W.

BIMLEPATAM, a ſea-port in the circar of Cicacole, in the Deccan, ſeated on the Bay of Bengal, 12 miles N. of Vizagapatam. The Dutch have a ſmall factory here. Lat. 18. 0. N. lon. 83. 45. E.

BINAROZ, a ſmall town of Valencia.

BINBROKE, a ſtraggling, decayed town, of Lincolnſhire, ſituated on the river Ankham, (remarkable for it's fine eels) between Caſtor and Louth, 30 miles NE. of Lincoln. Market on Wedneſday.

Bindury, Kent, near Boxley. Binchester, near Durh. on the river Wear. Bincomb, Dorſetſ. N. of Weymouth. Binderton, Suſſex, NW. of Chicheſter. Bindon, Cornw. NE of Eaſtlow. Bindon, Devonſ. in the pariſh of Axmouth. Bindon, Dorſetſ. 6 miles SW. of Wareham. Binerton, Cornw. near Godolphin. Binfield, Berks, near Billingbear. Binfield Parva, Berks, between Reading and Henley.

Bingan, a mountain in Down, Ulſter.

BINCHE, a town of Hainault, ſituated on the river Haiſne, 8 miles ESE. of Mons. It's juriſdiction included 51 towns and villages.

BINGAZI, a ſea-port of Barca, in Africa, formerly it's capital, but now a mean place, with a harbour only fit for veſſels of 200 tons burden. Lon. 19. 9. E.

BINGEN, a town of Mentz, circle of the Lower Rhine, ſeated at the confluence of the rivers Nave, or Nahe, and the Rhine, 19 miles W. of Mentz.

Bingfield, Northumb. between Hexham and Morpeth.

BINGHAM, a ſmall, ſtraggling town, of Nottinghamſhire, ſeated in the Vale of Belvoir, 9 miles E of Nottingham. Market on Thurſday.

Bingham's, Dorſetſh. S. of Beminſter, near Worth-Francis.

BINGLEY, a little town in the W. Riding of Yorkſhire, ſeated in a valley, on the river Aire, but though there are high hills about it, the ſituation is dry. The canal from hence towards Skipton in Craven, is raiſed at once, up the ſide of a hill, by a ſucceſſion of locks one above another, whereby a very long level is obtained. It is 30 miles W. by S. of York, and 202 NNW. of London.

Binham, Norfolk, 4 miles from Wells. Binley, Warw. near Coventry. Binnage, Dorſetſ. 2 miles from Wareham. Binſcomb, Surry, near Godalmin. Binſted, Hants, 4 miles from Farnham. Binſtead, Suſſex, near Arundel. Binſtead, Iſle of Wight, in E. Medina. Bintrey, Norfolk, 4 or 5 miles N. of Repeham.

BIORNEBURG, a town of Finland, 80 miles N. of Abo. Lat. 61. 42. N. lon. 22. 5. E.

BIR, BEER, or BIRAIDSCHIK, a town of Diarbeck, in a fertile country, on the Euphrates, 50 miles NE. of Aleppo.

Birchgrove, in Wexford, Leinſter.

Birch, Lanc. near Warrington. Birch, Shropſhire, near Ryton of the 11 towns. Birch, Great and Little, Eſſex, 5 miles S. W. of Colcheſter. Birchall, Heref. N. of Leominſter. Birchanger, Eſſex, in the pariſh of Newport. Birches, The, Shropſ. betweenColebrookdale and Builder's-bridge. An earthquake happened here in 1773, when the ground was rent in ſeveral places, and thrown into confuſed heaps; a wood, turnpike-road, fields, hedges, houſes, &c. were thrown out of their former ſituations, the bed of the Severn was choked up, and the river devirted into a new channel, cauſing for the time a great inundation above, and ſo ſudden a fall below, that many fiſhes were left on dry land, and ſeveral barges were heeled over, till the river, remarkably deep deep at the time, forcing it's way down, overwhelmed or ſunk them, and, in three days time, wore a navigable channel thro' a large meadow. Birches, Cheſh. W. of Macclesfield, on the river Pever. Birchets, Derbyſh. in Scarſdale. Birchill, Derbyſ. NE. of Bakewell. Birchington, Kent, in the Iſle of Thanet, W. of Margate. Bircholt, Kent, near Aſhford. Birchover, in the High Peak of Derby. Birocdie, Nott. W. of Tuxford.

BIRD ISLAND. See AVES.

Birdenbury, Herefordſ. near Bromyard. Birdley, Glouceſ. 6 miles NE. of Painſwick. Birdſall, Yorkſ. near Malton. Birkbey, Coomb, near Maryport. Birkbey, Yorkſ. NW. of N. Allerton. Birkdale, Yorkſ. on the borders of Weſtm. Birkenhead, Cheſh. between the Dee and the Merſey.

BIRKENFIELD, a town and bailiwick, containing 32 villages, of Sponheim, circle of Upper Rhine, 30 miles ENE. of Treves.

Birkes, Northumb. between Whitechester and the Tyne. Birkin, a river in Cheſhire, running into the Bollin, below Aſhley. Birkin, Yorkſ. near Ferry-bridge. Birkley, Northumb. near Wark, but on the N. ſide of the Tyne. Birkley Street, a mile N. of Cheſter. Birling, Kent. near Town-Malling. Birlingham, Worceſ. 4 miles SW. of Perſhore. Birling St. Andrew, St. Edmund, and St. Peter, 4 miles NE. of Norwich.

*BIRMINGHAM, a large town in Warwickſhire, long noted for its hardware manufactures. It is no corporation, and therefore free for any perſon to ſettle there, which has greatly contributed to the increaſe, not only of the buildings, but of the trade, which is now no longer confined to ſmall wares, but includes the more maſſive works of the founders, and alſo the improved ſteam engines, by means of which, indeed, they carry on their heavier works, as they have not here any conſiderable ſtream of water. The houſes have been computed at 7000, and the inhabitants at 60,000, but their number is continually increaſing, and the ſurrounding country, to a conſiderable diſtance, eſpecially towards Wolverhampton, ſeems like a continued town peopled with induſtrious inhabitants. Birmingham, from the appearance of the houſes, the buſtle in the ſtreets, and particularly from the continual paſſing of the ſtage-coaches, has much the reſemblance of the metropolis. It's manufactures are ſent to every quarter of the globe, and in cheapneſs and beauty are unrivalled. A navigable canal was completed from hence to the collieries at Wedneſbury, in October, 1769. It ſtands on the ſide of a hill, 17 miles NW. of Coventry, and 116 of London. Market on Thurſday.

*BIR, now called PARSON'S TOWN, a town in King's County, Leinſter, 6 miles from Dublin.

Birrinton, Heref. near Tenbury. Birriton, Heref. 3 miles N. of Leominſter. Birthin, a river in Monmouthſhire. Birtelm Lodge, Huntingdonſ. W. of Budge. Birtley, Durh. W. of Monk Wearmouth. Birts Morton, Worceſ. near Perſhore.

BIRVIESCA, or BIRBUSCA, a town in Old Caſtile, 15 miles NE. of Burgus.

BIRZA, a town of Troki, Poland.

BISACEIO, a town of Naples, 12 miles NNE. of Conza.

Biſcroke, Rutl. E. of Uppingham. Biſcaw Woan, Boſkenna, or Boſcawen, Cornwall, at the Land's End.

BISCAY, a province of Spain, bounded on the W. and SW. by Aſturias and Old Caſtile, on the N. by the Bay of Biſcay, on the E. by Navarre, and on the S. by Old Caſtile and Navarre. It is about 40 miles in length, and 30 in it's greateſt breadth. Biſcay produces apples, oranges, citrons, corn, &c. They have timber for ſhip-building, and mines of iron and lead which they alſo manufacture; the adjoining ſea alſo ſupplies them with fiſh, and renders their trade very flouriſhing; their ſeamen are accounted the beſt in Spain. The Biſcayners are of Celtic extraction, and ſtill preſerve their peculiar language, the Baſque, which has no affinity with any other in Europe. Bilboa is the capital.

BISCAY, NEW, a province of Mexico having New Leon on the E. and Culiacan on the W. It is, in general, mountainous, and has ſome mines of ſilver and lead.

BISCHOFSHEIM, a town of Hanau Muntzenburg, Upper Rhine; a town of Wartzburg, Franconia; and another town of Franconia, ſubject to the elector of Mentz.

BISCHOFS WERDA, a town of Meiſſen, Upper Saxony, trading in white threads. It is 20 miles E. of Dreſden.

BISCHOFS ZELL, a town of Thurgau in Swiſſerland, ſeated at the confluence of the rivers Sitter and Thur, 12 miles S. of Conſtance. The inhabitants are both Romaniſts and Proteſtants, and alternately make uſe of the ſame houſe for publick worſhip.

BISCHWEILLER, a town in the dept. of the Lower Rhine, 4 miles SE. of Hagenau.

Biſcott, Bedf. in the pariſh of Luton.

BISEGLIA, a town of Bari, Naples, ſituated near the Gulph of Venice, 6 miles E. of Trani.

BISERTA, a well fortified, ſea-port town of Tunis, ſaid to contain 5000 houſes. Lat. 37. 5. N. lon. 9. 46. E.

Biſham, Berks, on the Thames, nearly oppoſite to Great Marlow. Biſhampton, Worceſ. N. of Perſhore. Biſhcourt, Surry, near Burſtow. Biſhop Auckland; ſee Auckland Biſhop.

*BISHOP'S CASTLE, a clean, neat, little town in Shropſhire, ſeated on the river Clun, 41 miles NW. of Worceſter, 8 SE. of Montgomery, and 152 NW. by W. of London. It's market (on Friday) is much frequented by the Welch.

BISHOP AND HIS CLERKS, little iſlands and rocks on the coaſt of Pembrokeſhire, near St. David's, dangerous to ſeamen, where a light-houſe was erected in 1777. Lat. 51. 57. N. lon. 5. 20. W.

Biſhopbourn, Kent, near Canterbury. Biſhop's Candle; ſee Candle Biſhop's. Biſhop's Edge, Derbyſ. in the High Peak. Biſhop's Hall, Midd. between Mile End and Hackney. Biſhopſley, Durham, SW. of Wollingham. Biſhop's Lidiard, Somerſ. 5 miles from Taunton. Biſhop's Lyntze, Devonſ. near Teignmouth.

*BISHOP STORTFORD, a town of Herts, ſeated on the river Stort, which has been made navigable hence to the river Lea. It is 12 miles NE. of Hertford, and 30 N. by E. of London. A large market for corn, malt, &c. on Thurſday.

BISHOP'S WALTHAM. See WALTHAM.

Biſhopſton, Warw. a hamlet of Stratford-upon-Avon. Biſhopſton, Bucks, near Aylesbury. Biſhopſton, Herefordſ. SW. of Credenhill. Biſhopſton, Suſſex, near Newhaven. Biſhopſton, Wilts, 7 miles SW. of Salisbury. Biſhopſton, Wilts, near Wanborough. Biſhopſtrow, Wilts, between Heytesbury and Warminſter. Biſhop's Wyre, near Worceſter. Biſhopton, Durh. 3 miles W. of Stockton. Biſhton, Glouc. in the pariſh of Tiddenham. Biſhton, Staff. near Stone. Biſhton Caſtle, Monmouthſ.

BISIGNANO, a town of Calabria Citra.

Biſſbory, Linc. on the river Bane, between Market Raiſin and Burwell. Biſley, Surry, 3 miles N. of Woking.

BISLEY, Glouceſterſhire, 9 miles from Cirencester. Market on Thurſday.

BISNAGAR, a town of Myſore in Hindoſtan, in the circar of Sanore, formerly the capital of a mighty kingdom; for, when the Europeans firſt opened a paſſage to the Indies by ſea, the peninſula, without the Ganges, was moſtly ſubject to the emperor of Biſnagar; his dominions extending from the frontiers of Oriſſa to Cape Comorin. About 1627, this kingdom was ſubdued by Aurengzebe. Biſnagar is ſeated on the W. bank of the river Tungebadra, or, as ſome ſay, Nigouden, 140 miles E. by S. of Goa. Lat. 15. 30. N. lon. 76. 10. E.

Biſpham, Linc. in Amounderneſs, near the Iriſh Sea. Biſpham, Lanc. near Rufford Chapel, in the road to Wigan. Biſport, Somerſ. S. of Bedminſter.

BISSAGOS, a cluſter of iſlands, on the coaſt of Negroland, about 200 miles S. of Cape Verd. The largeſt, BISSAO, is 80, ſome ſay, 40 miles in circumference. The inhabitants are negroes and Portugueſe intermixed. Lat. 11. 0. N. lon. 16. 0. W.

Biſtern, Hants, S. of Ringwood. Biſton Barkley, Hants, W. of Southampton Bay.

BISTRICZ. See BESTRICIA.

Bitchamſtock, Wilts, S. of Alcannings.

BITCHE, a fortified town in the dept. of the Moſelle, ſeated on or near the river Schwelb, 30 miles N. by W. of Straſburg.

Bitchfield, Linc. 5 miles from Grantham.

BITETO, a town of Terra di Bari.

BITFORD, Warw. 5 miles W. of Stratford-upon-Avon. Market on Friday.

Bithorn, Huntingdonſ. near Moleſworth. Bitham, Linc. near Stamford. Bitham Caſtle, Linc. near Witham. Bithborrow, Kent. N. of Hythe.

BITONTO, a town in Terra di Bari.

Bittedon, Devonſ. near Ilfracomb. Bitterley, Shropſ. 3 miles NE. of Ludlow. Bittern, Hants, NE. of Southampton. Bitteſcomb, Somerſ. near Dulverton. Bitteſwell, Leic. N. of Lutterworth. Bitton, Glouc. between Bath and Briſtol. Bittring, Norf. near Lytcham. Bewell, Northumb. was formerly, a barony and caſtle, for the guard of Newcaſtle, near which it lies. Bix Brand, and Bix Gebeon, Oxf. NW. of Henley upon Thames. Bixley, near Norwich. Bixten, Norf. 6 miles NW. of Windham. Blabey, 5 miles S. of Leiceſter, on the Soar.

Black Abbey, in Down, Ulſter.

Black Auton, Devonſhire, NW. of Dartmouth.

Black Bank, 7 miles S. of Armagh, in Ulſter, and 55 from Dublin.

Blackboys, Suſſex. Blackbrook, a river in Leiceſterſhire.

*BLACKBURN, a town in Lancaſhire, with a large manufacture of calicoes, for printing. It is ſeated near the river Derwent, called ſometimes Blackwater, 12 miles E. of Preſton, and 203 NNW. of London. Market on Monday.

Blackburn Edge, Derbyſ. near Chesterfield. Blackburton, Yorkſ. Black Chapel, Eſſex, 4 miles from Dunmow. Blackcoe, Shropſ. SW. of Whitchurch. Blackdon, Somerſ. between Axbridge and Pensford. Blackdon, Devonſ. near Torbay. Blackdown, or Bladen, Dorſetſ. a hill or heathy ridge, running from Piddleton to Pool. Blackdown, Dorſetſ. a hamlet of Broad Windſor. Blackdown, Wilts, 3 miles N. of the Foreſt of Chute. Blackdown Beacon, Suſſex, near Haſlemere. Blackford, Somerſ. near Carhampton. Blackford, Somerſ. near N. Cadbury.

BLACK FOREST, or SCHWARTZ WALD; in Germany, a part of the ancient Hyrcanian foreſt, now chiefly confined to that part of Suabia, which is ſituated between the Rhine, Switzerland, and the duchy of Wirtemburg.

Blackhall, Cumb. near Carliſle. Blackhall, Durham, near the ſea. Blackhall, Durham, between Bradley Hall and the coal-pits. Blackhall, Northumberl. near Chipchaſe. Blackham, Suſſex, near Withyham. Blackhead, Cornw. on the coaſt, between Fowey and Tregony. Blackheath, a fine elevated plain, adorned with ſeveral fine ſeats, an hoſpital for decayed merchants, &c. and commanding rich and beautiful proſpects. It is ſituated in the pariſhes of Greenwich, Lewiſham, and Lee, 5 miles SE. of London. Blackheath, Wilts, 4 miles N. of Ambreſbury. Blackheden, Northumb. between Hexham and Morpeth. Blackholm, Yorkſ. NE. of Howden. Black Houſe, Suſſex, near Walden. Blackland. Midd. between Chelſea and Knightſbridge. Blackland, Wilts, SE. of Calne. Blackland, Staff. in the pariſh of Bobbington. Blacklands, Devonſ. near Exeter. Blacklaw, Northumb. NW. of Billingham. Blackley, Lanc. NE. of Manchester. Blacklow Hill, Warw. in the pariſh of Wotton. Blackmanſbury, Kent, 3 miles SE. of Canterbury. Blackmanston, Dorſetſ. in Purbeck Iſle. Blackmanstone, Kent, near Dymchurch, on the coaſt, SW. of Hythe. Blackmere Manor, Shropſ. N. of Whitchurch. Blackmore, Eſſex, NW. of Ingateſtone, and 7 miles from Chelmsford. Blackmore, Heref. E. of the Golden Vale. Blackmore, Staff. NE. of Leek. Blackmore, Worceſ. near Great and Little Malvern. Blackmore Park, Berks, S. of Windſor Foreſt. Blackney, Dorſetſ. 1 mile from Stoke Abbots. Blackpool, Lancaſ. near Poulton, much reſorted to for ſea bathing.

BLACK SEA, THE, formerly the Euxine, is bounded on the W. by Romania, Bulgaria, and Beſſarabia; on the N. by the ſea of Aſoph and Tartary; on the E. by Circaſſia and Georgia, and on the S. by Natolia. It is ſaid to be 3800 miles in circumference, receives many large rivers and has not any diſcernible flux or reflux. It lies between 41 and upwards of 46 degrees N. lat. and between 32 and 41 lon.

Blackſtaff River, called alſo the Annadorn, in Down, Ulſter.

Blackſton, Suſſex, near Alborn and Woodmancote. Blackston Hall, Durham, W. of Billingham. Black Tail, Eſſex, below Canvey Iſland, or Leigh Road, is a great ſhoal or bank of ſand, which runs out 3 leagues into the ſea, and has a mark at the end of it, as a ſea mark. It is called Shoe Beacon, from Shoebury Neſs, where it begins. Blacktborn, Oxf. on the E. border of the county. Blackwall, Midd. E. of London, near Poplar. Blackwater, Hants, between Bagſhot and Hartley Row. Blackwater Bay, Eſſex, near Malden, where the Walfleet oyſters lie; the river Blackwater, which enters this bay, riſes in the NW. part of Eſſex.

BLACKWATER, a town of Armagh, in Ulſter, 66 miles from Dublin.

Blackwater, in Wexford, Leinſter. Blackwater Bridge, in Kildare, Leinſter, 22 miles from Dublin. Blackwater Foot, in Down, Ulſter, 72 miles from Dublin. Blackwater, a river of Ireland, running from Kerry, through the counties of Cork and Waterford, into Youghall Bay. Blackwater, a river of Armagh, falling into Lough Neagh. Blackwater, a river of Meath, falling into the Boyne at Navan. Blackwater, a river of Longford, falling into the Shannon, N. of Lanesborough. Blackwater, a river of Wexford, falling into the ſea at Bannow Bay.

Blackwell, Derbyſ. in the High Peak, NW. of Bakewell. Blackwell, Derbyſ. NE. of Alfreton. Blackwell, Durh. SW. of Darlington. Blackwell, Somerſetſ. 4 miles SW. of Bedminſter. Blackwell, Worceſ. near Shipton. Bladen, Oxf. near Woodſtock. Blading, Yorkſ. N. Riding, on the river Swale. Blagdon, Devonſ. near Torbay. Blagdon, Dorſetſ. near Cranborne.

Blair Athol; ſee Athol.

Blaiſdon, Glouc. 3 miles from Mitchel Dean, 4 from Newnhaven, and 8 from Glouceſter. Blaiſe, St. Cornw. near St. Auſtel.

BLAISOIS, a ci-devant province of France, having Berry on the S. and Touraine on the W. the capital of which was Blois. It now forms the dept. of Loire and Cher.

Blackmore Forest, Dorſetſ. E. of Sherburn. Blaken Hall, Cheſh. NW. of Cheſter. Blakenham, Great and Little, Suff. SE. of Needham. Blakemore, Yorkſ. N. Riding.

Riding, N. of Pickering of Foreſt. Blakeney, Glouc. between the foreſt of Dean and Gaſcomb, on the Severn. Blakeney, Norf. near Lynn Regis. Blakeney Norf. near Cay, now called Snitterby. Blakeſley, Northamp. 6 miles SW. of Towceſter. Blakeworth, Northumb. 6 miles NE. of Newcaſtle.

BLAMONT, a town in the dept. of Meurthe, ſeated on the river Vezouze, 12 miles E. of Luneville; alſo a town in the dept. of the Doubs.

Blanerwent, Monmouthſ. on the borders of Brecknockſhire.

BLANC, LE, a town in the dept. of Indre, ſeated on the river Creuſe, 35 miles E. of Poitiers.

BLANC, MONT, formerly SAVOY, a department of France, bound on the W. by the Rhone, which parts it from Ain, on the N. by the Lake of Geneva, which parts it from Swiſſerland, on the E. by the Alps, which divide it from the Vallais and Piedmont, and on the S. by the departments of Upper Alps and Iſere. It is 83 miles in length, and 67 in breadth. The country is hilly, and the air cool; but the ſoil is pretty fertile, and the mountains, which are not covered with ſnow in winter, abound with paſtures that feed a vaſt number of cattle. There is alſo a great deal of game, among which are ſtags, fallow-deer, roe-bucks, wild-boars, bears, marmouts, hares, partridges, wood-cocks, pheaſants, &c. The lakes abound with fiſh, and the inhabitants are induſtrious and ſober. The principal rivers are the Iſere, Arc, and Arve. Chamberry is the principal town. See SAVOY.

BLANC, MONT, one of the higheſt mountains of the Alps, in that department of France to which it gives it's name. It is diſtinguiſhed from the other mountains by having it's ſummit and ſides clothed, to a conſiderable depth, by a mantle of ſnow, almoſt without the intervention of the leaſt rock to break the glare of the white appearance; it is from this circumſtance that it is called Mont Blanc. It riſes 15,662 feet above the level of the ſea, which is 4½ feet higher than the Peak of Teneriff. The ſummit was deemed inacceſſible till 1786, when Pacard aſcended it, as did Sauſſure in 1787. The barometer on the ſummit was down to 16 inches 1 line.

BLANCA, a ſmall iſland, a little N. of Margaritta, near the coaſt of Terra Firma; and a ſmall iſland in the Gulf of Mexico, 6 miles SSE. of Vera Cruz.

Blanchland, Northumb. on the borders of Durham.

BLANCO, a cape of Peru, on the S. Sea. Lat. 3. 45. S. lon. 83. 0. W.

BLANCO, CAPE, on the W. coaſt of Africa, N. of the river Senegal. Lat. 20. 55. N. lon. 17, 5. W. Alſo 11 other capes, more or leſs noted, in the Atlantic, Mediterranean, &c.

*BLANDFORD, a handſome and populous town of Dorſetſhire, conſiſting of about 400 houſes, and having a manufacture of ſhirt buttons, of which more are made here than in any other part of England; cloth alſo, and malt are made here. It is ſeated on the river Stour, 18 miles NE. of Dorcheſter, and 104 W. by S. of London. Market on Saturday.

BLANES, or BLANDA, a ſea-port of Catalonia.

BLANET. See PORT LOUIS.

BLANKENBERG, a town of Berg, Weſtphalia; a town and principality of Brunſwick Wolfenbuttle, Lower Saxony; and a ſea-port of Flanders, 10 miles NE. of Oſtend.

BLANKENHEIM, a town and county of Treves, Weſtphalia.

Blankney, Linc. NE. of Sleaford.

BLAREGNIES. See MALPLAQUET.

Blarney, in Munſter, 3 miles W. of Cork, and 128 from Dublin.

Blaſey, St. Cornw. 5 miles from Fowey. Blaſe Chapel, St. Glouc. between Henbury and Weſtbury. Blaſon, Leic. near Hallaton.

BLASQUES, a cluſter of ſmall iſlands, 12 in number, but 4 of them are only rocks, off Dingle Bay, in Kerry, Munſter. Lat. 52. 0. N. lon. 10. 40. W.

BLAUBEUREN, a town and ſmall bailiwick of Wirtemburg, in Suabia.

Blaugherby, Leiceſterſhire, near Aſhby-de-la-Zouch. Blawith, Lancaſhire, N. of Ulverſton. Blaxhall, Suffolk, between Orford and Tramlingham. Blaydon, Durham, W. of Newcaſtle.

BLAYE, a ſea-port town in the dept. of Gironde, ſituated on the river Gironde, which is here 3800 yards wide, near it's confluence with the Dordogne. Veſſels depoſit their arms and cannon here, before they proceed to Bourdeaux. It is 17 miles N. of Bourdeaux.

Blayſon, Glouceſ. NW. of Weſtbury, Bleachley, Bucks, W. of Fenny Stratford. Bleachley, Monmouthſ. at the mouth of the Wye. Bleakſware, Herts, near Ware. Bleane, Kent, 4 miles NW. of Canterbury. Bleaſbey, Nott. a hamlet of Southwell. Blechingley, Surry, 5 miles from Ryegate. Blechington, 6 miles from Oxford. Bleck Hall, Cumb. S. of Carliſle. Bleck Hall, Midd. on the Lea river, oppoſite Chigford in Eſſex. Bledlow, Bucks, between Prince's Riſborough and Oxfordſhire. Bleadington, Glouceſ. 4 miles SE. of Stow on the Would. Blegon, Somerſ. 7 miles from Huntſpill. Blencogo, Cumb. in the pariſh of Bromfield. Blencow, Magna and Parva, Cumb. in the pariſh of Dacor. Blencragg, or Blincrake Hall, Cumb. near Gilcrois. Blendworth, Hants, between Portſmouth and Petersfield. Blengo, Cumb. a river running into the Irt, near Irton.

BLENHEIM, a village in Suabia, memorable for a victory gained over the French and Bavarians, under Marechal Tallard, Count Marſin, and the Elector of Bavaria, by the allies, under the Duke of Marlborough and Prince Eugene, Aug. 2. 1704. In this celebrated battle 10,000 French and Bavarians were left dead on the field, the greater part of 30 ſquadrons of horſe and dragoons periſhed in the Danube, and about 13,000 (including Marechal Tallard) and many other officers of diſtinction, were made priſoners. Of the allies, about 4500 men were killed, and about 8000 wounded. Blenheim is 8 miles SW. of Donawert.

Blenheim Houſe, Oxf. near Woodſtock, a magnificent palace, built for the firſt duke of Marlborough, at the expence of the nation, in commemoration of the abovementioned victory; ſee WOODSTOCK. Blenkarn, Cumb. 4 miles NW. of Appleby. Blenkenſhip, Northumb. near the Picts' Wall, on the edge of Cumb. Blennerhaſſet, Cumb. pariſh of Torpenhoe.

*BLESSINGTON, a town of Wicklow, in Leinſter, pleaſantly ſeated on a riſing ground, near the Liffey, 14 miles SW. of Dublin.

Bletarn, Weſtm. NW. of Kirkby Lonſdale. Bletchington, Suſſex, near Brighthelmſtone. Bletchington, Suſſex, N. of Eaſtbourn. Blitherwick, Northamp. near King's Cliff. Bletſoe, Bedf. on the Ouſe, between Bedford and Odehill. Blewbury, Berks, near Wallingford. Blew-Houſe, Midd. W. of Enfield Chaſe. Bleydon, Somerſ. near Uphill. Bilborough, Linc. S. of Kirton. Blickling, Norf. near Aleſham. Blideſlow, or Blikſlow, Glouceſterſ. near Awre. Blimhill, Staff. W. of Penkridge. Blijland, Corn. S. of Temple Moor.

BLITH, a town of Nottinghamſhire, 23 miles NNW. of Newark, and 146 N. by W. of London. Market on Thurſday.

Blithfield, Staff. near Paget's Bromley, Blithford, Suff. E. of Haleſworth. Blith Hall, Warw. near Shuſtock. Bliton, Linc. W. of Bliborough. Bleckfield, Surry, near E. Grinſtead. Blockley, a village of Worceſ. though encompaſſed by Glou It is 7 miles SE. of Eveſham. Bloc Glouceſ. between Stow and Camden.

BLOCKZYLL, a town of Overyſſel tuated at the mouth of the river Zuyder Zee, where there is a good bour. 8 miles SW. of Stenwick. Lat. 44. N. lon. 5. 49. E.

Blodwal, Shropſ. S. of Oſweſtry. B worth, Nott. S. of Sherwood Foreſt.

BLOIS, an ancient and handſome ci the dept. of Loire and Cher, once the a of the kings of France. The ſpectat ſtruck with the idea of an amphitheatr ſeeing the manner in which the ſtreets diſpoſed, like rows of ſeats one above other againſt the hill. Here are ſome fountains and a new bridge, one of beſt in France. The French langua thought to be ſpoken here with the gre purity. It has manufactures of ſerges ticking, and a commerce in wines and b dy. Blois is pleaſantly ſeated on the Loire, in a fine country, 47 miles NE Tours, and 100 SW. of Paris. Lat. 35. N. lon. 1. 25. E.

BLONEIZ, or BRONEIZ, a town Dicherſk, in Poland.

Blore Hall, Staff. near Okeover. Heath, Staff. on the borders of Shr Bloſtenhim, Cornwall, NW. of Salt Blowfield, 4 miles NE. of Norw Blow Norton, Norf. SE. of E. Harl Bloxham, Oxf. near Banbury. Blox Linc. near Sleaford. Bloxwich, S NW. of Walſal. Bloxworth, Dorſe miles E. of Bere. Blundoleſhay, Dor in the pariſh of Whitchurch. Blund Suffolk, NW. of Leoſtoff. Blund's C Oxf. SW. of Henley. Blungoed, Mo 6 miles SW. of Abergavenny. Blun Bedf. 4 miles W. of Potton. Blu Broad, Bury St. Andrews, Wilts, bet Bricklade and Berks. Blunſham, H S. of Erith. Blurton, Staff 2 miles of Newcaſtle under Line. Blyſoog, a in Pembrokſ. Blyſworth, between No ampton and Towceſter. Blytaborough, on the Blythe. Blythe, a river in W which runs into the Tame about a from Coleſhill; another in Suff. w runs into the German Ocean at So wold; a third in Northumberland, w runs into the ſea near Blyth, or Blyth a ſmall ſea-port of Northumb. bet Hartley and Newbiggin, trading in and ſalt; and a fourth of Staffordſ. w runs into the Trent 4 miles NE. of L field. Bobbing, Kent, near Sittingbo

BOBENHAUSEN, a town of U Heſſe, 3 miles from Frankfort on Maine.

Bolington, Staffordſ. on the borders of Shropſ. Bolingworth, Eſſex, NE. of Epping Foreſt.

Bobbio, a town and diſtrict of the Milaneſe, ſituated on the Trebia.

Bobio, or Biobio, a river of Chili, which runs into the Pacific Ocean, in lat. 37. S.

Bocat, a fine valley of Syria, in which are ſituated the ſplendid ruins of Balbec.

Bocca Chica, the entrance into the harbour of Carthagena, in S. America.

Bocca del Drago, a ſtrait between Trinidad Iſle and Paria, in Terra Firma.

Bochampton, 3 miles NE. of Dorcheſter.

Bocharia. See Bokhara.

Bochetta, a chain of mountains, in the territory of Genoa, over which there is a road to Lombardy; the paſs on the peak of the higheſt mountain, which is ſo narrow as hardly to admit three men to go abreaſt, is alſo called Bochetta.

Bockham, Magna and Parva, Surry, near Leatherhead, 5 miles from Guildford. Bockingfield, Northumb. near Eland. Bocking, Eſſex, near Braintree, from which it is only parted by a ſmall ſtream: it is noted for the manufacture of baize. Bockleton, Worc. S of Tenbury. Boconnock, Cornw. SE. of Leſtwithiel. Bockton Aleph, Kent, NW. of Wye. Bocton Malherb, Kent, SW. of Lenham. Bocton Street, Kent, E. of Bocton under Blean. Bocton under Blean, Kent, 5 miles W. of Canterbury. Boden, Lanc. near Manchester. Bodington, between Glouceſter and Cheltenham. Bodiam, Suſſex, 9 miles N. of Winchelſea. Bodham, Norf. near Holt. Bodicot, Oxf. near Banbury. Bodington, Huntingdonſ. near Bugden. Bodington, Northamptonſ. N. of Chipping Warden. Bodsham Hall, near Cambridge.

Bodmin, a town of Cornwall, 32 miles NE. of Falmouth. Near it are thoſe monumental ſtones called the Hurlers, which ſtand on a down in 3 circles, and are ſuppoſed, by Dr. Stukely, to be the remains of an ancient Druid temple. Market on Saturday.

Bodregen, Cornw. on Trewardreth Bay.

Bodrigy, Corn. near St. Ives Bay.

Bodrog, a town of Hungary, ſituated on the Danube, 30 miles SE. of Colocza.

Boeschot, a town of Brabant.

Bog, a river which riſes in Podolia, and runs into the Dnieper a little above Orchakow.

Boglio, or Beuil, a town, and mountainous country of Savoy, about 21 miles NNW. of Nice.

Bogner, Suſſex, on the coaſt, near Selſey.

Bogoto, the capital of New Granada, in Terra Firma, near which are gold mines. Lat. 4. 0. N. lon. 73. 53. W.

Bohemia, a kingdom of Europe, bounded on the W. by Bavaria, Franconia, and Upper Saxony; on the N. and NE. by Miſnia, Luſatia, and Sileſia; on the E. by Sileſia and Moravia; and on the S. by Auſtria. It is 200 miles in length, and 150 in breadth, is fertile in corn and paſture, and has ſeveral foreſts, in which there is a variety of wild animals. In the mountains there are mines of gold, ſilver, copper, tin, iron, and lead, and in ſome parts, precious ſtones of different kinds are found. The language of the Bohemians is the Sclavonic, with a mixture of the German; their profeſſion of religion, the Romiſh: here are ſeveral Proteſtants and Jews. The capital is Prague. It is ſubject to the Houſe of Auſtria.

Boiano, a town of Moliſo, Naples.

Bois le Duc, or Hertogenbosch, a city of Dutch Brabant, capital of a diſtrict called Mærory, which comprehends 3 cities and 102 villages. It is ſeated among moraſſes, between the rivers Dommel and Aa, 22 miles ENE. of Breda, 45 NE. of Antwerp, and 45 SSE. of Amſterdam.

Bokhara, the capital of Great Bokharia, Bocharia, or Bucharia, which is a well-cultivated country, of W. Tartary, the ancient Sogdiana, having little Bucharia on the E. Hindooſtan and Perſia on the S. and a part of Perſia and the Caſpian Sea on the W. It is a large, populous place, ſeated on a riſing ground: the houſes are low, and moſtly built of mud, but the caravanſeras and moſques, which are numerous, are of ſtone. Great numbers of Jews and Arabians frequent this place: but the khan ſeizes on their poſſeſſions at his pleaſure. It is 100 miles W. by S. of Samarcand. Lat. 39. 15. N. lon. 65. 50. E.

Bucharia, Little, a country of Tartary, having Thibet and Hindooſtan on the S. and Chineſe Tartary on the E. Yarkian is the capital.

Bolarola, one of the Society Iſlands, about 7 leagues in circumference. Lat. 16. 32. S. lon. 151. 52. W.

Bolam, Northumb. 5 miles SW. of Morpeth. Bolas Magna, Shropſhire, 7 miles NW. of Newport. Bolbroke, Suſſ. 3 miles from Eaſt Grinſtead. Bold, Lanc. SE. of Preſcot. Bolden, Durh. 2 miles from Sunderland, and 3 from Shields. Bolderhurſt, and Boldre, Hants, both in the New Foreſt. Bole Hall, Warw. a hamlet in the pariſh of Tamworth.

Boleslaw, or Buntzlau, a town and circle of Bohemia, on the confines of Luſatia and Sileſia.

BOLI, or BOLLI, a town of Natolia

BOLINGBROKE, a town of Lincolnſhire, noted for being the birth-place of king Henry IV. Here is a manufacture of earthen ware. Market on Tueſday.

BOLKOWITZ, a town of Sileſia, 20 miles S. of Glogaw.

Boll, Nott. near Gainſborough. Bollin, a river in Cheſhire. Bollington, Cheſh. near Macclesfield. Bolliſaon, Northumb. in Woller. Bolliſton, Cornw. near the Land's End. Bolney, Norf. near Creſſingham Parva. Bolney, Oxf. near Henley upon Thames. Bolney, Suſſex, near Cuckfield. Bolnhurſt, Bedfordſ. between Wodhil and Buſh Mead.

BOLOGNA, anciently FELSINA, a large and rich city of Italy, capital of the Bolognese. It's palaces, churches, and other public buildings, are very numerous, and finiſhed in a ſuperior ſtyle of architecture; and, perhaps, no town in the world, Rome excepted, is ſo rich in paintings. The private houſes are well-built, and the city contains about 60,000 inhabitants. They carry on a conſiderable trade in ſilks and velvets, which are manufactured here in great perfection: alſo in crapes, paper, glaſs, &c. The river Remo, which runs near the city, turns 400 mills for the ſilk-works; and there is a canal hence to the Po. Bologna is ſubject to the pope, but the people have preſerved their ancient privileges. It is ſeated at the foot of the Appenines, 22 miles SE. of Modena, and 175 NW. of Rome. Lat. 44. 30. N. lon. 11. 26. E.

BOLOGNESE, a province of Italy, in the pope's territories, bounded on the W. by Modena; on the N. by the Ferrareſe; on the E. by Romagna; and on the S. by Tuſcany. It is watered by many ſmall rivers, and it's ſoil is extremely fertile, producing all ſorts of grain and fruits, particularly muſkadine grapes, which are in high eſteem, and oil in immenſe quantities; hence it's capital is called Bologna the Fat. The country round it, for ſeveral miles, ſeems one continued garden. The vineyards are not divided by hedges, but by rows of elms and mulberry trees, the vines hanging in feſtoons from one tree to another, in a very picturesque and beautiful manner. Here are mines of alum and iron.

Bolſcot, Oxf. near Chadlington.

BOLSENA, a lake and town in the Patrimonio, 45 miles N. of Rome.

BOLSOVER, a town of Derbyſhire, ſeated on an eminence, and noted only for the manufacture of tobacco-pipes. M on Friday.

Bolſton Borough, near Wells, Sh Mallet, and Glaſtonbury.

BOLSWAERT, a town of W. Frie formerly one of the Hanſe Towns has a fort, about a league diſtant fro town, and is 13 miles SW. of Lewa Boltby, Yorkſ. near Northallerton.

*BOLTON, or BOLTON LE MOO town of Lancaſhire, noted for it's me nal waters, but more ſo for it's man tures of fuſtians and counterpanes, ties, and muſlins. Here are navigabl nals, which conduct from this tow Manchester and Wigan. It ſtands a dreary moors, 11 miles NW. of Man ter, and 193 NNW. of London. M on Monday.

Bolton, N. of Lancaſter, 237 miles London. Bolton, Cumb. near Ireby. ton. Yorkſ. E. of Richmond. B Yorkſ. W. of Barnard Caſtle. B Yorkſ. SW. of Giſborn. Bolton, Yo NE. of Skipton. Bolton, Yorkſ. N Rotheram, and 7 miles W. of Donca Bolton, Lanc. between Bury and Wi Bolton E. W. and Little, Yorkſ. N. ing, near Midlam and Wenſlaw D Bolton in the Sands, Weſtm. near Ken Bolton Percy, York. near Nun Apple

BOLZANO, or BOSTZEN, a tow the Tyroleſe; and a town in the Vi tine, Venice.

BOMAL, a town of Luxemburg.

BOMBAY, an iſland of Hindooſtan the W. coaſt of the Deccan, 7 mil length, and about 21 in circumfere The ground is barren, and good w ſcarce. It was formerly accounted unhealthy; but by draining the ſwa and bogs, the air is improved. It h capacious harbour, or bay, reckoned fineſt haven in the Indies, where w fleets find ſhelter and ſecurity in all ſea Beſides the town of Bombay, whic about a mile in length, with mean houſ few excepted; there are other ſmaller upon this iſland. The inhabitants a ſeveral nations, and very numerous: have abundance of cocoa-nuts, but ſc ly any corn or cattle. It is one o three preſidencies of the Engliſh E Company, by which their oriental te ries are governed, and it is 150 miles Surat. Lat. 18. 58. N. lon. 72. 38.

BOMENE, a ſea-port of Zealand, i iſland of Schowen.

BOMMEL, a ſtrong town of D Guelderland, ſituated on the Waal, i iſle of

BOMMEL WAERT, which is abo miles long, and hardly 2 broad, formed by the waters of the Maeſe and Waal. The town of Loveſtein, with a ſmall diſtrict at the W. end of the iſland, belongs, however, to S. Holland.

Bonjon, Dorſetſ. near Bockhampton.

BONAIRE, an iſland of Terra Firma, about 90 miles in circumference, with a good harbour and road on the SW. ſide. Lat. 12. 26. N. lon. 68. 18. W.

BONAVENTURA, a ſea-port, in Popayan, S. America.

BONAVISTA, a Cape de Verd iſland, about 18 leagues in circumference. It is moſtly a low ſoil, but in ſome places rocky and mountainous. The inhabitants live principally on milk, goats, fiſh, and turtle; and they make ſome ſalt, which they exchange with Engliſh veſſels, for old clothes, biſcuits, meal, and raw ſilk, &c. Lat. 16. N. lon. 22. 51. W.

BONAVISTA, a fine bay, and a cape on the E. ſide of Newfoundland. Lat. 47. 43 N. lon. 52. 49. W.

Bonaſton, Somerſ. near Bath. Bondſ, Nott. a hamlet of Cokeney. Bone Church, Iſle of Wight, in Eaſt Medina. Bonewell, Heref. near Richard's Caſtle and Croft's Caſtle.

BONIFACIO, a ſmall, but fortified ſea-port, of Corſica, with a ſafe harbour. Lat. 41. 11. N. lon. 9. 13. E.

Bonnegale, Shropſ. near Albrighton. Bonington, Kent, in Romney Marſh, near Wye. Bonington, Kent, united to Fakenherff.

Bonnagy, in Longford, Leinſter.

BONN, a city of Cologne, ſituated on the W. ſide of the Rhine. The ſtreets are wide and beautiful, and the fortifications are in good repair. It is 14 miles SSE. of Cologne.

BONNA, or BONA, a ſea-port of Algiers, Lat. 39. 4. N.

BONNETABLE, a town in the dept. of Sarte. It carries on a great trade in corn, and is 15 miles NE. of Mans.

BONNEVAL, a town in the dept. of Eure and Loire, ſeated on the Loire, 15 miles S. of Chartres.

BONNEVILLE, a town in the dept. of Mont Blanc, ſituated on the Arve, 20 miles S. of Geneva.

Bonnieſball, Derb. 6 miles N. of Wirkſworth. Bonyck, Suſſex, N. of Horſham. Bonys, Nott. near Widmer-pool. Bonyton, Cornwall, near Gunwallo.

BOODGE-BOODGE, a town of Hindooſtan Proper, capital of the rajah of Cutch, 350 miles NE. by E. of Surat, Lat. 23. 16. N. lon. 69. 0. E.

Boomer, Somerſetſ. between Bridgewater and Taunton.

Boomhall, near Londonderry, Ulſter.

BOOTAN, a country of India, ſituated between Bengal and Thibet, and ſurrounded on all ſides by very high mountains. It is a feudatory, or dependency of Thibet. It's capital is Taſſaſudon.

Booth, Yorkſ. E. Riding, near the Ouſe. Boothby Pagnel, Linc. SE. of Grantham. Boothby, Linc. near Bloxham. Booth's, Derby. in the High Peak. Booth's-Hall, Lancaſh. 3 miles NE. of Leigh. Bootle, Cumb. 5 miles from Ravenglaſs. Booton, Norfolk, E. of Repeham.

BOPAL, a town and circar of Malwa, in Hindooſtan.

BOPPINGEN, a free town, of Oettingen, in Suabia, ſituated on the Eger.

BOPPART, a town of the Lower Electorate, Lower Rhine, 8 miles S. of Coblentz.

Boraby, Yorkſ. NW. of Whitby.

BORCH, a town of Magdeburgh.

BORCHLOEN, or LOOSZ, a town and county of Liege.

Borden, Cornw. joining to Devonſhire. Borden, Kent, near Milton. Bordeſley, Worceſ. near Hewel Grange. Bordeſley, Warw. near Aſton. Bordley, Yorkſ. W. Riding, E. of Settle. Boreatton, Shropſ. 6 miles NW. of Shrewſbury. Boroatton, Shropſ. between Brown Clee Hill and the river Rea. Boreham, Eſſex, near Chelmsford. Boreham, Suſſex, near Aſhburnham. Boreham, Wilts, near Warminſter. Boreham, Surry, near Homeſbury-Hill. Borely, Eſſex, on the borders of Suffolk. Bore-Place, Kent, 3 miles W. of Tunbridge. Boreſworth, or Boſworth-Huſbands, Leic. bordering on Northamptonſhire.

BORGO, in Nyland, Sweden, on the Gulf of Finland. Lat. 60. 34. N. lon. 25. 40 E.

BORGO FORTE, a town of Mantua.

BORGO SAN DOMINO, in Placentia, Italy, 12 miles NW. of Parma.

BORGO DI SAN SEPOLCHRO, a town of Tuſcany, 48 miles ESE. of Florence.

BORGO VAL DI TARO, a town and territory of Parma.

Borheen, in Limerick, Munſter.

BORJA, or BORIA, a town of Arragon.

BORIQUEN, or BREQUE, a W. India iſland, a little E. of Porto-Rico. It is uninhabited, though agreeable and fertile, the air wholeſome, and the water good. Land-crabs are numerous here, whence ſome call it Crab-Iſland. Lat. 18. 0. N. lon. 66. 0 W.

BORISTHENES. See DNIEPER.

BORKELO, a town of Zutphen.

Bormer, Suſſex, W. of Lewes.

BORMIO, a town and county of the Griſons, bordering on the Tyroleſe. The latter is about 30 miles long and nearly as many broad. The former is the reſidence of the podeſta, or governor, who is appointed every two years, with a very confined authority. It is 45 miles NW. of Trent.

Borne, a river in Staff. running into the Tame. Borne End, Bedf. near Woburn.

BORNEO, an iſland in the Indian Archipelago, about 800 leagues in circumference, and divided into ſeveral ſtates or kingdoms. It produces aromatic herbs, oranges, lemons, mangoes, pines, palms, &c. in great abundance, excellent maſtic, and other gums, wax, rice, caſſia, coffee, honey, cotton, camphire, frankincenſe, muſk, aloes, agaric, braſil-wood, ſapan, pepper, cinnamon, and other ſpices: diamonds and gold duſt are found in their rivers and ſands. Their animals are elephants, buffaloes, oxen, horſes, tigers, leopards, bears, monkeys, deer, wild boars, goats, parrots, parroquets, and a great variety of beautiful birds; and they have plenty of ſea and river fiſh. The inhabitants on the ſea coaſt are Mahometans; but in the interior parts, which are but little known, they are Gentoos. In 1772, the Engliſh obtained a grant from the Sooloos, of the N. part of the iſland. On the ſea-coaſt, and near the rivers, the land is uſually overflowed half the year by the heavy and continual rains, for which reaſon ſome of the houſes are built on floats, and others on high pillars. Borneo lies E. of Sumatra and Malacca. The capital, of the ſame name, large, populous, and built on piles, with a good harbour, is ſeated on the NW. ſide of the iſland. Lat. 4. 55. N. lon. 111. 27. E.

BORNHOLM, an iſland of Denmark, in the Baltic, about 20 miles in circumference, nearly ſurrounded with rocks. The ſoil is ſtoney, but fertile. Lat. 55. 15. N. lon. 15. 0. E.

BORNOU, an extenſive country, in the interior part of Africa, lying to the SE. of Fezzan and Berdoa; between 16 and 20 degrees of N. lat. having the Deſert of Bilma on the N.; Nabia on the E.; and Begarmee on the S. Two ſeaſons divide their year. During our ſummer months they have intenſe heat, violent winds, deluges of rain, and dreadful tempeſts of thunder and lightning; but, during the winter of Europe, the ardent heat ſubſides, the air becomes ſoft and mild, and the weather ſerene. They have a great variety of animal and vegetable productions. They cultivate the ground with hoes; the plough being unknown. The country is ſaid to abound in flocks, millet, and cotton, which laſt they manufacture a wear. Their religious profeſſion is M hometaniſm; their government a ſort elective monarchy. In their manners t people are courteous and humane.

BORNOU, the capital of the empire Bornou in Africa, is ſituated in a f country, on the banks of a ſmall river. is of greater extent than Tripoli; but houſes, though neat, are ſo irregula placed, that they can hardly be ſaid form ſtreets. Their moſques are conſtru ed of brick and earth, and they h ſchools in which the Koran is taught, in the principal towns of Barbary. I 650 miles SE. of Mourzouk. Lat. 19. N. lon. 25. 30. E.

Borocate, Hants, between Micheldo and Brown Condover. Borodean, Han between Bram's Dean and Prior's Dean

*BOROUGHBRIDGE, a town in the Riding of Yorkſhire, with a ſmall ma facture of hardware. It is ſituated on river Ure (over which there is a fine brid of ſtone, with very wide, high arches, a high ſtone cauſeys at each end, to keep the water) 17 miles NW. of York, 218 N. by W. of London. Market Saturday.

Borough-Caſtle, Hants, near Spithe Borough Green, Norf. 2 miles NE. of tleborough. Borough, Glouc. near Ber ley.

Borris,, in Carlow, Leinſter.

*BORRIS, or BURROS IN OSSORY, Queen's County, Leinſter.

Borriſokeen, in Tipperary, Munſ Borriſoleagh, in Tipperary.

BORRODALE, in the SE. part of Cu berland; bordering on Weſtmorland, a mantic valley among Derwent-water te Theſe fells or hills are ſome of the loft in England, and it is in one of them t the black lead, or wad, is found whe with almoſt all the world is ſupplied: mines are opened only once in ſeven ye and when a ſufficient quantity of this va able and ſingular mineral is taken out, t are carefully cloſed again. In travell among theſe mountains, the idea that p ſents itſelf to the aſtoniſhed ſpectator, that of the earth having being in an upr like the ocean in a ſtorm; the hills app like wave riſing one behind another, were it not for the abrupt and ſudden ſe the immenſe maſſes of rugged rocks t give the idea of fixedneſs and ſtability, bewildered fancy might be ſo loſt as to i gine they were in a ſtate of undulation, ready to mingle with each other. beautiful Vale of Borrodale is watered the cleareſt brooks, which precipita fr from the hills, and, forming many beautiful waterfals, meet together in the dale, and, forming one large ſtream, paſs out of the dale under the name of Borrodale-Beck, when it's waters ſpread out into an expanſive lake, containing ſeveral beautiful iſlands. This lake is called Derwentwater, or Keſwick Lake. Borrodaile is 4 miles from Keſwick, in paſſing from which, the traveler has the lake on his right hand, and ſtupendous, rocky precipices on his left; huge ſtones, or rugged maſſes of rock, which have tumbled from above, lie ſcattered along his way. As he approaches the dale, he ſees the ledges of the rocks covered with herbage, ſhrubs, and trees; villages and farms ariſe upon his view, the larger cattle are ſeen feeding in the lower grounds, and the ſheep, in large flocks, upon the mountains.

Borrow, Cornwall, S. of Stratton.

Borrowſtounneſs, or Bouneſs, a village on the S. ſide of the Frith of Forth, in the ſhire of Linlithgow. It has numerous collieries and ſalt-works, and a good pier and harbour lately made.

Borſhil, Suſſex, near Ticehurſt. Borſty, Suſſex, SW. of Aſhdown Foreſt. Borton, near Buckingham. Borton on Dunſmore, Warw. Borwick, Lanc. between the rivers Docker and Lune.

BOSA, a ſea-port on the W. coaſt of Sardinia, in lat. 40. 0. N.

Boſbury, Heref. near Ledbury.

BOSCASTLE, a town of Cornwall, ſituated on the Briſtol Channel. They export ſlate, dug in the neighbouring quarries, to Briſtol. Market on Thurſday.

Boſcaw-Woan, Cornw. at the Land's End. Here is a remarkable monument of antiquity; 19 ſtones, fixed in a circle about 12 feet diſtant from one another.

BOSCO, or BOSCHI, in the Milaneſe.

Boſcobel, Shropſ. near White Ladies, in the pariſh of Tong. It's grove is noted for the oak in which Charles II. was hid, and ſaw the parliament ſoldiers paſs by, in ſearch of him, after the battle of Worceſter.

Boſcomb, Wilts, 3 miles SE. of Ayleſbury, and 9 from Sarum. Boſeham, Suſſex, between Chicheſter and Thorney Iſle. Boſgrave, Suſſex, NE. of Chicheſter. Boſley, Cheſhire, NE. of Congleton.

BOSNA SERAJO, a large, commercial town, of Boſnia, ſeated on the river Boſna, 110 miles SW. of Belgrade. Lat 44. 40. N. lon. 17. 57. E.

BOSNIA, anciently PARNORNIA INFERIOR, a province of Turkey in Europe, bounded on the N. by Sclavonia and Croatia; on the E. by Servia; on the S. by Albania; and on the W. by Croatia and Dalmatia. It takes its name from the river Boſna, which runs through ſome parts of it into the Save.

BOSSINEY, or TINTAGEL, (or rather, it is the borough of Boſſiney and town of Trevenna, in the pariſh of Tintagel) Cornwall, 3 miles NW. of Camelford.

Boſſingſdale, Devonſ. NW. of Dartmouth.

Boſſington, Hants, near the Wallops.

BOSSUPT, 8 miles S. of Louvain.

BOST, a town, capital of Sableſtan, in Perſia. It is 30 miles S. of Candahar.

Boſtall Bucks, N. of Bernwood Foreſt.

Boſtock, Cheſhire, NW. of Middlewich.

*BOSTON, a large, well-built town, of Lincolnſhire, ſeated on both ſides of the river Witham, by means of which, much aſſiſted by navigable canals, it carries on a conſiderable trade to London, and ſome to the Baltic, &c. The church ſpire is very lofty, and a noted ſea-mark. It has a fair, December 11, that holds nine days, for cattle and merchandiſe, called a mart; an ancient name, only uſed for this town, Gainſborough in Lincolnſhire, Lynn Regis in Norfolk, and for Beverley and Headon in Yorkſhire. Boſton is 37 miles SE. of Lincoln, and 115 N. of London. Markets on Wedneſday and Saturday.

Boſton, Middl. W. of Little Ealing.

BOSTON, the capital of Maſſachuſets Bay, in N. America, ſeated on a peninſula, at the bottom of a fine bay, containing many ſmall iſlands and rocks. It lies in the form of a creſcent about the harbour, and the country within, riſing gradually, has a very fine and ſtriking appearance, at entering. There is only one ſafe channel to the harbour, and that ſo narrow, that two ſhips can ſcarcely ſail abreaſt; but within the harbour there is room for 500 ſail to anchor, where they are covered by the cannon of a regular and very ſtrong fortreſs. At the bottom of the bay is a pier near 2000 feet in length, to which ſhips of the greateſt burden may come cloſe, and on the N. ſide are warehouſes for the merchants. The ſtreets are generally ſpacious and well built, particularly the principal one, extending from the pier to the town houſe. On the W. ſide of the town is the Mall, a beautiful public walk. Beſides the ſtate-houſe, and other public buildings, there are 16 churches, of various denominations. It is 310 miles NE. of Philadelphia. Lat. 42. 25. N. lon. 70. 33. W.

BOSWORTH, or MARKET-BOSWORTH, a town in Leiceſterſhire, remarkable for a battle fought near it, Auguſt 22, 1458, between Richard III. and the earl of Richmond, afterwards Henry VII. in which Richard was ſlain, and the earl of Richmond crowned in the field. It is ſeated on a high hill, 13 miles NW. of Leiceſter, and 106 NNW. of London. Market on Wedneſday.

Botadon, Cornwall, SW. of Launceſton. Botalleck, Cornw. 10 miles W. of St. Ives.

BOTANY BAY, is a bay of New South Wales, on the E. coaſt of New Holland, ſo called by captain, then lieutenant Cook, from the great quantity of herbs found on the ſhore, when diſcovered in 1770. It was originally fixed on for a colony of convicts from Great Britain; but, in the ſequel, Port Jackſon, 15 miles farther to the N. was preferred. Lat. 34. 0. S. lon. 131. 22. E.

Botchefton, Leiceſ. Boteſdale, Suff. near Redgrave, 15 miles from Bury. Bothall, Northumb. near Morpeth. Bothall, Staff. N. of Pagets Bromley. Bethel, Cumb. between Cockermouth and Wigton. Bothemſhall, Derb. in the High Peak. Bothenwood, Dorſetſ. near Winborn Minſter. Botherton, Cheſhire, near Beeſton Caſtle.

BOTHNIA, EAST, a province of Sweden, ſituated on the E. ſide of the Gulf of Bothnia: it is bounded on the N. by Swediſh Lapland; on the E. by Ruſſia; and on the S. by Finland; about 100 leagues in length, and from 20 to 70 in breadth. Eighty thouſand inhabitants, divided into 28 pariſhes, are ſpread over this large ſpace. Their cattle are ſmall, and bears are numerous.

BOTHNIA, WEST, a province of Sweden, ſituated on the W. ſide of the Gulf of Bothnia, bounded on the N. and W. by Lapland, and on the S. by Angermania. Their principal articles of commerce are the ſkins of foxes, ermines, bears, wolves, martens, &c.

Bothumſal, Nott. NW. of Tuxford. Botlow, Northumb. in Tindale Ward. Botley, Hants. S. of Buſh Waltham. Botley, Berks, W. of Oxford. Botley, Bucks, pariſh of Cheſham. Botley, Surry, near Fangrove and Chertſey. Botolph's Bridge, Hunt. near Peterborough. Botolph, St. Linc. N. of Boſton. Botſborough, Cornw. near Devonſ. Botſey, Hunt. N. of Ramſey. Botsfield, Shropſ. 5 miles from Shrewſbury. Botsford, Leic. near Normanton. Botford, Leiceſ. in the Vale of Belvoir. Botſham Hall, 7 miles from Cambridge. Botteridge Pool, Dorſetſ.; ſee Great Kimeridge. Botteſdale; ſee Buddeſdale. Botteſlow, Staffordſ. SW. of Bucknal. Botolph, St. Rutland, near Empingham.

BOTZENBURG, a town in the dutchy of Mecklenburg, Lower Saxony; and a town in the Ucker Marck of Brandenburg.

BOVA, a town of Calabria Ultra.

Bovaugh Bridge, in Tyrone, Ulſter.

BOUCHAIN, a ſmall, but ſtrong town ſituated in the midſt of moraſſes, in the dept. of the North, and divided into two parts by the Scheldt. It was taken by the duke of Marlborough, in September, 1711, after a ſiege of 30 days, and is 9 miles SW of Valenciennes.

BOUCHART, a ſmall town in the dep of Indre and Loire, on a ſmall iſland the river Nienne, 15 miles from Tours.

Boucott, Nottinghamſhire, near Burto

BOUDRY, a town and chatellany Neufchatel.

Boughton, near Cheſter, called Spit Boughton. Boughton, Northamp. 2 mil from Kettering. Boughton, Nott. 3 mil SW. of Tuxford. Boughton Munchelſe Kent, SW. of Beckton Malheth.

BOUILLON, a town of Luxembur ſeated on an almoſt inacceſſible rock, ne the river Semois, 12 miles NE. of Sedan.

BOVINES, a town in the Netherland on the river Maeſe, 10 miles S. of Namu

BOVINO, a town of Capitanata, Naple

Bould, Oxf. pariſh of Idbury. Boulg Suff. 5 miles NW. of Woodbridge. Boulh herſt, Bedfordſ. near Thurley. Boulnej Cumb. on the Solway Frith, where, b croſſing the ſands at low water, betwee England and Scotland, paſſengers ſave great many miles travelling. It was th weſtern termination of the Picts Wall.

BOULOGNE, a large and handſome fe port in the dept. of the Straits of Cala It is divided into the Higher and Low Town. The harbour has a mole for th ſafety of ſhips, which prevents it fro being choked up with ſand. It is ſeat at the mouth of the river Liannæ, 14 mil S. by W. of Calais, and 130 N. of Paris.

Boulſton, Heref. E. of Aconbury. Bou tham, SW. of Lincoln.

BOURBON, a very healthy, pleaſan and profitable iſland of Africa, in the In dian Ocean, producing plentifully, wit little culture, wheat, oats, and other Eu ropean grains, rice, Indian corn, ſuga canes, ebony, excellent tobacco, cinn mon, and moſt kinds of greens, roots, an pulſe; as alſo gums, reſins, benzoin, & the ſoil yielding two crops a year. Th country is every where well watered, an well ſtocked with horned cattle, hog goats, &c. but the chief production o the iſland is coffee, which was originall imported from Mocha, and is eſteemed be ter than any of the growth of the Weſt In dies. The French firſt ſettled here in 167 and here their Eaſt India ſhips touch fo refreſhments. It is divided into eight pa

riſhes

rifes, whereof St. Dennis is the principal. St. Paul's, on the leeward ſide of the iſland, is the next place of note, and is large and populous. The other principal places are Foul Point, Mataman, and Fort Dauphin. There are about 25,000 inhabitants on the iſland, of which near 18,000 are ſlaves. It was firſt diſcovered by the Portugueſe, who gave it the name of Miſcarenas. It is nearly of an oval form, and about 150 miles in circumference. It is 300 miles E. of Madagaſcar. Lat. 20. 52 S. lon. 55. 30. E.

BOURBON LANCI, a town in the dept. of Saone and Loire, remarkable for it's mineral waters. It is 15 miles SW. of Autun.

BOURBON L'ARCHAMBAUD, a ſmall town in the dept. of Allier, remarkable for it's hot baths. It is 15 miles W. of Moulins.

BOURBONNE LES BAINS, a town in the dept. of Upper Marne, famous for it's hot baths. It is 17 miles NE. of Langres.

BOURBONNOIS, a ci devant province of France, which now forms the dept. of Allier. It abounds in corn, fruit, wine, paſture, wood, &c.

BOURDEAUX, an ancient, maritime city, in the dept. of Gironde, and one of the firſt in France, for magnitude, riches, and beauty. It is ſeated on the Garonne, which river is bordered by a large quay; and, as the tide flows here 4 yards perpendicular, large veſſels come up to the town: moſt of the great ſtreets lead to the quay. The inhabitants are upwards of 100,000; their trade is very extenſive, and they ſhip annually 100,000 tons of wine and brandy. It is 87 miles SE. of Rochelle, and 325 SW. of Paris. Lat. 44. 50. N. lon. 0. 30. W.

Boxfield, Kent, E. of Lenham.

BOUVADINES, a town of Namur, 5 miles NW. of Huy.

BOURG, a town of Cayenne, in South America. Lat. 5. 2. N. lon. 52. 50. W.

BOURGEN BRESSE, a town in the dept. of Ain, ſeated on the river Reſſouſſe, 32 miles NE. of Lyons, and 232 SE. of Paris.

BOURG, a ſmall town in the dept. of Gironde, with a good harbour, ſituated on the river Dordogne, near the confluence of that river and the Garonne, 15 miles N. of Bourdeaux. Alſo a town in the reſpective depts. of Ille and Vilaine, Indre, Puy de Dome, Lower Charente, Iſere, Paris, the Sarte, Drome, the Lot, the Somme, the Eure, Lower Seine, and two in the dept. of Ardeche.

BOURGANEUF, a ſmall, well-built town in the dept. of Creuſe, ſeated on the river Taurion, 20 miles NE. of Limoges.

BOURGES, the chief town in the dept. of Cher, before the revolution, the capital of Berry. Although, in extent, it is one of the greateſt cities in France, the inhabitants hardly amount to 25,000, and they have manufactures of cloth, woollen ſtuffs, and ſtockings. It is ſeated on the rivers Auron and Yevre, 25 miles NW. of Nevers, and 125 S. of Paris.

BOURGET, a town in the dept. of Mont Blanc, on a lake of the ſame name, 6 miles N. of Chamberry. Alſo a town in the dept. of Paris, 6 miles N. of that city.

BOURMONT, a town in the dept. of the Upper Marne, 24 miles N. of Langres.

*BOURN, a large town in Lincolnſhire, noted for the tanners' trade. It is ſeated near a fine ſpring, called Burn Well Head, from which proceeds a river that runs through the town. It is 35 miles S. of Lincoln, and 97 N. of London. Market on Saturday.

Bourn, Yorkſ. SE. of Sherborn. Bourn, a river in Warwickſh. Bourn, a river in Wilts. Bourn-Hall, Camb. 8 miles NW. of Shengay.

BOURO, one of the Molucca Iſlands, between Celebes and Ceram, about 150 miles in circumference. Some mountains in it are exceedingly high, and the ſea on one ſide is uncommonly deep. It is well cultivated, and produces nutmegs and cloves, as well as cocoa and banana trees, beſides a variety of vegetables introduced by the Dutch. In the mountains there are foreſts of ebony and lary. Lat. 4. 0. S. lon. 126. 0. E.

Bourther Hall, Eſſex, in the pariſh of Pentlow. Bourton, Dorſetſ. near Gillingham. Bourton on the Hill, Glouc. 5 miles from Stow, and 5 from Campden. Bourton on the Water, Glouceſ. about a mile from the preceding place, has ſeveral good houſes, and a tolerable trade. The river, which riſes near it here, ſpreads 30 feet, and there are ſeveral bridges over it.

BOUSSAC, a town in the dept. of Creuſe, 20 miles NE. of Gueret.

Bouth, Lancaſ. 4 miles. N. of Cartmel. Boutham, near York. Bouthes, Cheſ. S. of Knutsford. Bouveney, Berks, near Windſor. Boveridge, Dorſetſ. near Cranborne. Bovil's Hall, Eſſex, near Clackton. Bovington, Herts, near Hampſtead and Berkhampſtead. Bovington, Dorſetſ. near Affpiddle.

BOUTON, an iſland in the Indian Archipelago, one of the Moluccas, inhabited by olive-coloured Malays, who profeſs Mahometaniſm. Lat. 5. 50. S. lon. 6. 1, E.

BOW, or BOVY, a ſmall, neat town of Devonſhire,

Devonſhire, ſeated at the ſpring head of a river that falls into the Taw. It is 14 miles NW. of Exeter. Market on Thurſ.

Bow, or Stratford le Bow, a village 2 miles NE. by E. of London. It has ſeveral mills, manufactories, and diſtilleries on the river Lea, which here ſeparates Middleſex from Eſſex, and over which is a ſtone bridge, ſaid to be the firſt ever erected in England. Bow, a river in Shropſ. running into the Warren. Bowbent, a river in Northumb. running into the Till. Bowcomb, Dorſetſ. near Buckland Abbas. Bowden, Devonſ. near Ivy Bridge. Bowaen, Devonſ. near Ilfracomb. Bowden, Cheſh. near Altrincham. Bowden Edge, and Bowden Hall, Derbyſh. in the High Peak. Bowden, Magna, Leic. near Market Harborough, on the N. ſide of the river Welland, oppoſite which, on the S. ſide, is Bowden, Parva, in Northamptonſ. Bowden, E and W. Durh. NW. of Sunderland, on the road to Shields. Bowditch, Dorſetſh. near Chardſtock. Bowden and it's Park, Wilts, E. of Laycock. Bowden Heath, Berks, between Pangborn and Reading. Bowerland, Kent, near Moldaſh. Bowers, Staffordſ. N. of Standon. Bowes, Yorkſh. 2 miles from Barnard Caſtle. Bowes, Suſſex, E. of New Shoreham. Bowesden, Northumb. between the Tweed and Holy Iſland. Bowland Foreſt, Yorkſhire, on the borders of Lancaſhire. Bowley, Suſſex, near Pagham. Bowling, Yorkſ. 1 mile from Bradford. Bowlton, Derbyſhire, W. of Alveſton. Bowmere, Northumb. N. of Aylmouth. Bowneſs, a village of Weſtmorland, pleaſantly ſeated on Winandermere Lake, oppoſite to which lies the iſland. Bowood, Dorſetſh. 2 miles W. of Netherby. Bowſden Green, Herts. 3 miles SW. of Buntingford. Bowe's Farm, Middl. near Hornſey. Bowſtead Hill. Cumb. on the edge of Burgh-Marſh. Bowſterton, Yorkſ. 9 miles NW. of Barnſley. Bowtell, Cumb. SE. of Seaton. Bowthorp. Glouc. N. of Fairford. Bowthorp, Norf. W. of Norwich. Bowton, Norf. SE. of W. Dereham. Bowton, Northumb. 3 miles W. of Alnwick. Box, Wilts, between Bath and Chippenham.

*BOXFORD, a town of Eſſex, 4 miles SW. of Hadley, and 8 N. of Colcheſter.

Boxford, Berks, near Winterborn. Boxgrove, Suſſex, near Chicheſter. Box-hill, Surry, near Darking, ſo called from the box-trees planted here by the earl of Arundel, in the reign of Charles I. The river Mole runs under the foot of it for about a quarter of a mile. There is a large warren upon it, but no houſes, only arbours cut out in the box-wood upon the top of the hill. From it there is an enchanti proſpect of a fine country, ſcarcely to equalled, for affording ſo ſurpriſing a magnificent an idea of both earth and ſi Boxley Abbey, Kent, near Maidſtone. B leys, Surry, near Chertſey. Boxted, H W. of Dedham. Boxted cum Hartſt, S folk, 5 miles W. of Lavenham. Boxt Glouceſ. 6 miles from Tewbury. B worth, 7 miles W. of Cambridge. B cot, Shropſ. 3 miles SE. of Weſt Boydon, Eſſex, 4 miles from Epping Waltham.

BOYLE. See ABBEY BOYLE.

Boylſton, 10 miles SW. of Derby.

BOYNE, a river of Ireland, which ri in the county of Kildare, croſſes that Meath, and falls into the Iriſh Channel miles below Drogheda. It is celebra for a victory, obtained by William I king of England, and prince of Oran over James II. July 1, 1690.

Boynton, Yorkſ. near Bridlington.

BOYOLO, or BOZOLO, a town and t ritory of Italy, adjoining to the Cren neſe, and formerly belonging to Mant Boyſlorp, Yorkſ. NE. of Butterwic Boyton, Cornw. near Tamerton. Boy Norf. NE. of Blofield. Boyton, Suff. E. Woodbridge. Boyton, Wilts, 6 miles of Hindon. Boxiet, Northam. near Olne Bruan, a river of Perthſhire.

BRABANT, ci-divant AUSTRIAN, large duchy or province of the Netherlan bounded on the W. by Hainault, Flande and Zealand; on the N. by Dutch B bant; on the E. by Liege; and on the by Namur. The capital is Bruſſels, a the principal rivers are the Scheldt and Lys.

BRABANT, DUTCH, a diſtrict belon ing to the United Provinces, of whi Breda is the capital.

BRABANT, WALLOON, a ſmall pa towards the S. of the ci-devant duchy Brabant.

Braborn, Kent, 5 miles E. of Aſhfo Braby, Yorkſ. between New Malton a Kirby Moorſide. Brabrooke, Northan between Kettering and Harborough.

BRACCIANO, a town, ſituated on a la of the ſame name, 12 miles NW. of Ro Bracebу, Lincolnſ. W. of Fokingha Bracemead, Shropſh. S. of Shrewſbury. Brackenburgh, Yorkſh. W. of Thirſk. Brackenfield, Derbyſh. NW. of Alfret Brackenhill, Berks. between Oakingha and Sunning Hill.

Brackenſtown, 6 miles from Dublin.

BRACKLAW, a city of Podolia, on t river Bog. Lat. 48. 49. N. lon. 29. 30.

*BRACKLEY, a town of Northampto ſhir ſhire, ſeated on a branch of the Ouſe, 18 miles SW. of Northampton, and 64 NW. of London. Market on Wedneſday.

Brathwa-Inn, in Kerry, Munſter.

Brachnold, Old, Berks, 3 miles from Oakingham.

Bradburn, Derby, 4 miles from Wirkſworth. Bradburn, Kent, 5 miles from Maidſtone. Bradbury, Durh. 4 miles E. of Biſhop-Aukland. Bradel, Dorſetſh. in Purbeck Iſle, SW. of Corfe Caſtle. Bradenham, Bucks. W. of Miſſenden. Bradenham, E. and W. Norf. E. of Swaffham. Bradenſtoke, Wilts, between Chriſtian Melford and Lyneham. Bradeſley, or Badeſley, Worceſ. near Bromſgrove. Bradfield, a river in Shropſhire.

BRADFIELD, MAGNA, a town of Eſſex, near Thaxted, 38 miles from London. Market on Thurſday.

Bradfield, Eſſex, near Maningtree. Bradfield, Yorkſ. near Doncaſter. Bradfield, Berks, NW. of Theal. Bradfield, Herts, near Hide Hall. Bradfield, Norf. NW. of N. Walſham. Bradfield, Wilts, S. of Malmſbury. Bradfield Brand, or Combuſh, Suff. 4 miles SE. of Bury. Bradfield Could, Bucks, near Olney. Bradfield Little, Eſſex, E. of Thaxted. Bradfield, Monk's, or St. George, Suffolk, on a large hill. Bradfield, Saling, Eſſex, SE. of Eaſton Magna. Bradfield, St. Clare, Suffolk, SE. of Monk's Bradfield.

*BRADFORD, a town in Wilts, the centre of the greateſt fabric of ſuperfine cloths in England, which it ſhares with the ſurrounding towns of Trowbridge, Melkſham, Corſham, and Chippenham. It is ſeated on the Avon, 11 miles nearly W. of Devizes, and 102 W. of London. Market on Monday.

*BRADFORD, a town in Yorkſhire, ſeated between Leeds and Halifax, on a branch of the Aire, from which a canal has been made to join the Grand Canal from Leeds to Liverpool. It has a conſiderable trade in ſhalloons, everlaſtings, and other worſted ſtuffs, which are made in the neighbourhood. Here are alſo ſome iron founderies. It is 36 miles SW. of York, and 193 NNW. of London. Market on Monday.

Bradford, or Headford, a river in Derbyſhire. Bradford, Shropſh. in the N. Bradford, Devonſh. E. of Houlſworthy. Bradford, Devonſ. between Honiton and Bamford. Bradford, Northumb. SW. of Bamburgh Caſtle. Bradford, Somerſ. between Wellington and Taunton. Bradford Abbas, Dorſetſ. in the NW. on the banks of the Ivel. Bradford Mill, Kent, N. of Goudhurſt. Bradford-Peverel, NW. of Dorcheſter. Bradſworth, Yorkſ. near Bowland Foreſt. Bradgate, 4 miles NW. of Leiceſter. Bradgate, Rutl. SE. of Uppingham Bradhurſt, Kent, 5 miles SE. of Rocheſter. Bradicot, 6 miles NE. of Worceſter. Brading, Iſle of Wight, at the upper end of St. Helen's Bay. Bradley, Cheſ. near Thelwell. Bradley, Glouc. near Wotton under Edge. Bradley, Wilts. near Cricklade. Bradley, near Derby. Bradley, Dorſ. S. of Corfe Caſtle. Bradley, Lanc. 6 miles NW. of Warrington. Bradley, Leic. SE. of Hallaton. Bradley, Lincolnſ. SW. of Great Grimſby. Bradley, Somerſetſhire, NW. of Caſtle Carey. Bradley, Hants, W. of Alton. Bradley, Staff. NW. of Penkridge. Bradley, Staff. SE. of Cheadle. Bradley, Surry, S. of Woking. Bradley, Worc. 8 miles E. of Droitwich. Bradley, Yorkſhire, N. Riding, near Biſhop's Dale Chace. Bradley, Yorkſh. S. of Halifax. Bradley, Yorkſ. W. Riding, E. of Settle. Bradley, and Bradley-Aſh, Derb. E. of Aſhborn. Bradley Hall, Cheſh. 3 miles from Sandbach. Bradley Hall, Durh. 5 miles NW. of Biſhop Aukland. Bradley Hall, Lanc. W. of Clithero. Bradley Hall, Northumb. 9 miles E of Thirlewall. Bradley, Magna, and Parva, Suff. near Catlidge. Bradley, North, Wilts S. of Trowbridge. Bradmers, Nott. near Bunny. Bradmore, Warwickſh. S. of Honington. Bradney, Shropſ. 3 miles N. of Bridgenorth.

BRADNINCA, or BRADWICK, a town of Devonſhire, 6 miles N. of Exeter. Market on Saturday.

Bradnop, Staff. E. of Leek. Bradpole, Dorſ. NE. of Bridport. Bradſhall, NE. of Derby. Bradſhaw, Lanc. near Bury. Bradſhaw Edge, Derb, in the High Peak. Bradſtone, Devonſ. near Launceſton. Bradſtone, Glouc. near Berkeley. Bradſtone, Shropſh. near Hungerford. Bradwall, Staff. N. of Newcaſtle under Line. Bradway, Glouc. S. of Campden. Bradway, 10 miles from Worceſter, in the road to Hereford. Bradwell, Eſſex, near Coggeſhall. Bradwell, Bucks, 2 miles from Stony Stratford Bradwell, Cheſh. N. of Sandbach. Bradwell, Derbyſh. in the High Peak. Bradwell, Suffolk, between Yarmouth and Leſtoff. Bradwell, Warw. near Granborough. Bradwell Grove, Oxfordſh. near Burford. Bradwell Juxta Mare, Eſſex, near Tillingham. Bradwin, Northamp. N. of Towceſter. Bradwood, Durh. near Stanhope. Bradworthy, Devonſ. 5 miles NE. of Stratton.

BRAEDALBANE, or ALBANY, a diſtrict of Perthſhire, in the weſtern part, bordering on Argyleſhire.

Brae Mar, a fertile vale of Aberdeenſhire, ſurrounded by rocky hills. Braefbridge, bridge, S. of Lincoln. Brafferton, Durh. 3 miles N. of Darlington. Brafferton, Yorkſ. NE. of Boroughbridge.

BRAGA, a city, the capital of Entre Minho e Douro, ſeated on the Cavedo, 180 miles N. of Liſbon. Lat. 41. 42. N. lon. 8. 29. W.

Bragan's Town, in Louth, Leinſter, 35 miles from Dublin.

BRAGANZA, a city, the capital of the audience of Braganza, in the province of Tra los Montes, in Portugal. It is ſeated on the river Fervança, and carries on a manufacture of ſilk ſtuffs, velvets, and grogram. Lat. 41. 40. N lon. 6. 30. W.

Brager End, Herts, N. of Datchworth, and W. of Watton. Braggs, Dorſetſ. in the pariſh of S. Perrot.

BRAHILOW, a town of Walachia, ſeated on the Danube, oppoſite Siliſtria.

Brailes, Warw. 3 miles from Shipton. Brailesford, Derbyſ. near Kedleſton.

BRAILOW, a town of Podolia, ſeated on the river Bog, 30 miles NW. of Bracklaw.

BRAIN LE COMPTE, a town of Hainault, 15 miles SW. of Bruſſels.

Brainfield, Northamp. near Houghton, Magna and Parva. Brainton, near Hereford.

BRAINTREE, a town of Eſſex, near the village of Bocking, and, with it, carrying on a conſiderable manufactory of baize. It is 12 miles N. of Chelmsford, and 41 NE. of London. Mark. on Wedn.

Braiſton, Derbyſ. SE. of Derby.

BRAKEL, a town of Weſtphalia, 5 miles E. of Paderborn.

Braken Aſh, Norfolk, E. of Windham. Brakenburg, Linc. N. of Louth. Brakendale, near Norwich. Braken Hill, Cumb. SE. of Longtown. Brakenthwaite, Cumb. near the river Cocker, N. of Loweſwater.

BRALIO, a lofty mountain of the Alps, in the country of the Griſons.

BRAMANT, a town of Maurienne, in the dept. of Mont Blanc. It is ſeated on the river Arck, 35 miles NW. of Turin.

Bramber, Suſſex, adjoining Steyning. Bramble, Suſſex, near E. Grinſted. Bramble Lodge, Hants, in the New Foreſt. Bramby upon Dun, Yorkſ. N. of Doncaſter. Bramcot, Warw. near Bulkington. Bramcot, Warw. near Poleſworth. Bramcott, Nott. on the borders of Derbyſhire. Bramcroft Caſtle, Shropſ. NW. of Brown Clee Hill. Bramdean, Hants, near Alreſford. Brame, Camb. in the Iſle of Ely. Bramew, Hants, NW. of Fordingbridge. Bramerton, Norfolk, between Bixley and Claxton. Bramfield, 3 miles from Hertford. Bramfield, Herts, near Stapleford. Bramfield, Suffolk, near Walpole. Bramford, Derb. in the High Peak. Bramford, Suffolk, near Ipſwich. Bramford Speke, Devonſ. 4 miles from Exeter.

Bramhall, in Meath, Leinſter.

Bramham Moor, Yorkſ. near Tadcaſter. Brambope, Yorkſ. 2 miles from Otley. Bramlaw, Shropſ. between Wilming. and Hockſtow Foreſt. Bramley, Surry near Godalmin. Bramley, Yorkſh. near Leeds. Bramley, Hants, near Stra. Bramley Grange, Yorkſhire, W. Riding near Kirby Maledale.

BRAMPTON, a town in Cumberland, miles NE. of Carliſle, and 311 NNW. of London. Market on Tueſday.

Brampton, Northumb. NW. of Alnwick. Brampton, Derb. near Cheſterfield. Brampton, Yorkſ. near Richmond. Brampton, 1 mile from Huntingdon. Brampton, Norf. near Aleſham. Brampton, North amp. near Rothwell. Brampton, Shropſ near Montgomery. Brampton, Shropſh near Wroxeter. Brampton, Shropſ. near Purſlow. Brampton, Suff. near Beccles Brampton, Yorkſhire, NE. of Barnetby. Brampton, Yorkſ. N. of Northallerton. Brampton, Yorkſhire, SE. of Doncaſter. Brampton Abbots, Herefordſ. near Ross. Brampton Bank, Staffordſ. near Newcaſtle under Line. Brampton Bierley, Yorkſh. SE. of Rotherham. Brampton Brian, Heref. N. of Pembridge. Brampton Chapel and Church, Northamp. between Althorp and Boughton. Brampton Hall, Northamp. near Dingley and Stoke Albany. Brampton in Morthing, Yorkſ. SE. of Rotherham. Bramſhall Houſe, Hants, near Hartford Bridge. Bramſhot, Hants, near Petersfield. Bramſhot, Hants, near Elvetham. Bramſton, Eſſex, SE. of Dunmow. Bramſton, Northamp. near Wilby. Brampton, Linc. near Torkſey. Bramwith, Yorkſ. W. Riding, near Fiſh Lake. Bramwith Hall and Kirk, Yorkſ. 5 miles from Doncaſter. Brancaſter, Norf. on the coaſt, to the E. of the promontory called St. Edmunds; it was anciently Branodunum, a conſiderable city of the Romans, and their coins have been frequently dug up here. The contiguous lands are celebrated for producing excellent barley, and this place has ſome traffic in the exportation of corn and malt. Here is ſaid to be the largeſt malt-houſe in all England.

BRANCHON, a town of the Netherlands, ſeated on the river Mehaigne, 8 miles N. of Namur.

BRANDEIS, in Koningratz, Bohemia.

Brandon, Northumberland, on the river Breamiſh, SE. of Cheviot Hills.

BRANDENBURG, THE MARCHE OF, a country of Germany, bounded on the W. by by Lunenburg; on the N. by Pomerania and Mecklenburg; on the S. by Silesia, Lusatia, duchy of Saxony, and Magdeburg; and on the E. by Poland and Polish Prussia. It is divided into 5 principal parts; the Old Marck, or Marche, Pregnitz, the Middle Marche, Ucker Marche, and the New Marche. The greater part of the inhabitants are Lutherans; but there are also Romanists. Berlin is the capital; and the principal rivers are the Elbe, Havel, Spree, Ucker, and Warte.

BRANDENBURG, a city of Upper Saxony, divided into the Old and New Town, by the river Havel. It is a prosperous, trading place, 26 miles W. of Berlin.

BRANDENBURG, a town of Natangen, Prussia, 12 miles SW. of Koningsberg.

BRANDENBURG, NEW, a town of Mecklenburg, 48 miles W. of Stettin.

Brandeston, Suffolk, near Glemham.

Brandleham, Lancas. N. of Bury.

*BRANDON, a town in Suffolk, between Newmarket and Swaffham. It is seated on the Lesser Ouse, over which it has a bridge and, at a mile distance, a ferry, whereby corn, malt, timber, iron, &c. are conveyed to and from the Isle of Ely. It is 12 miles N. of Bury, and 78 NE. of London.

Brandon, Warw. between Rugby and Coventry. Brandon, Linc. S. of Newark. Brandon, Shropsh. E. of the river Temde. Brandon, E. and W. Durh. W. of Sunderland. Brandon, Parva, Norfolk, E. of Dereham.

Brandon Hill, in Kerry, Munster.

Brandsburton, Yorks. E. Riding, near Fordlingham, in Holderness. Brane, a river in Carmarthensh. and another in Brecknockf. Branham, Yorks. near Tadcaster. Branksfon, Northumb. between Flodden Hill and the Tweed. Branksey Island; see Brownsea. Bransaugh, Northumb. near Akelinton. Bransby, Yorksh. S. of Hovingham. Branscomb, Devonsh. 3 miles S. of Culliton. Bransdale, Yorksh. N. Riding, between Baisedale and Rosedale Abbeys. Bransford Bridge, Leic. on the river Swift and borders of Northamptonsh.

BRANSK, a town of Bielsk, in Poland.

Bransperth Castle, among the hills SW. of Durham, on the W. side of the Wear. Branstill Castle, Heref. E. of Ledbury. Branston, Staff. on the Trent, SW. of Burton. Branston, Norf. E. of Repeham. Branston, near Lincoln. Branswell, Linc. near Temple Bruere. Brant, a river in Anglesea. Brant-Broughton, Linc. W. of Lincoln Heath. Brantham, Suffolk, near Deadham. Branthingham, Yorks. between S. Cave and Hull. Branthingthorp, Leic. NE. of Lutterworth. Branthingthorp Westcot, near Leicester. Brantoft, Durh. near Gretham. Branton, Devonsh. near Raleigh. Branton, Northumb. 6 miles W. of Alnwick. Branton, Westm. NE. of Appleby. Brantsnatt, Sussex, W. of Cuckfield. Brasborough, Linc. N. of Market Deeping. Brascot, Leic. W. of Hog's Norton. Brasewell, Yorksh. W. Riding, 3 miles E. of Gisborne.

BRASIL, a large country of S. America, on the E. between the equinoctial and 35. 0. S. lat. and between 35 and 60 degrees W. lon. extending from the river of Amazons, to that of La Plata, a length of coast, through all it's windings, of above 3000 miles. It is bounded on the W. by Paraguay and Amazonia; its other boundaries are formed by the great Atlantic Ocean. The air of this country is temperate and wholesome; the soil is fertile, producing immense quantities of sugar, also tobacco, brasil-wood, Indian corn, and several sorts of fruits and drugs; their beasts, birds, and fishes are various, and within the country there are gold, and several sorts of precious stones. The Portuguese chiefly inhabit the coast. The residence of the viceroy, till of late years, was at St. Salvador, but is now at St. Sebastian. The natives, or aborigines, are divided into several nations or tribes, as the Tupinamboes, Tobajaras, Petiguaras, Topayas, &c. and speak different languages. They are of a copper colour, and have black hair like the other Americans. They who live near the coast, copy the European manner of dress; those in the interior, content themselves with a covering round their middle.

Brassa, one of the Shetland Isles, about 4 miles long and 2 broad. Brassa Sound, which separates it from the main land of Shetland, is one of the best and largest harbours in the world. The inhabitants fit out 26 large fishing boats.

BRASSAW. See CRONSTAT.

Brasted, Kent, NE. of Westram. Bratforton, Worcest. E. of Evesham. Braithwaite, Cumb. S. of Inglewood Forest. Braithwaite, near Keswick, at the foot of the mountain road leading to Cockermouth. Brathwell, Yorks. W. Riding, near Tick Hill. Bratley, Lanc. near Ambleside, in Westm. Bratoft, Linc. NE. of Spilsby. Brattleby, Linc. near Scampton. Bratton, Shropsh. E. of Little Wenlock. Bratton, Shropsh. S. of Apley Castle. Bratton, Somersets. near Shepton Montaigne and Wincaunton. Bratton Castle, Wilts, E. of Westbury. Bratton Clovelly, Devonsh. W. of Okehampton. Bratton Fleming, Devonshire, near Chulmley.

BRAUBACH,

BRAUBACH, a town of Heſſe Darmſtadt.
Braughing, Herts, N. of Puckeridge.
BRAUNAW, a town in the duchy of Bavaria, ceded to the houſe of Auſtria, by the treaty of Teſchen, in 1779.
BRAUNSPERG, a ſea-port of Ermeland, Pruſſia; and a town of Weid Runkel, Weſtphalia.
BRAUNSFELD, a town of Solmes, in the circle of the Upper Rhine.
Braunsford, 3 miles from Worceſter. Braunſton, Rutland, near Oakham Soke. Braunſton, near Leiceſter. Braunſton, Leiceſ. between Waltham in the Would and Belvoir Caſtle.
BRAVA, a ſea-port of Ajan, or, as ſome ſay, Zanguebar, in lat. o. 45. N.
BRAVA, or ST. JOHN, one of the Cape de Verd Iſlands, containing ſcarcely 300 inhabitants. The land is very high, and conſiſts of mountains, which look like pyramids. Oranges and lemons grow in great plenty, and they cultivate maize, gourds, water melons, potatoes, &c. Horſes, cows, aſſes, and hogs are numerous, there is plenty of fiſh on the coaſt, the earth yields a great proportion of ſaltpetre, and there are many vitriolic ſprings. It is alſo remarkable for it's excellent wines, and is 4 leagues WSW. of Fuego, in lat. 14. 45. N.
Brawnſton, near Lincoln. Braxted, Magna and Parva, Eſſex, NE. of Witham.
BRAY, a ſea-port of Wicklow, Leinſter, 13 miles N of Wicklow, and 10 S. of Dublin.
Bray, Berks, on the Thames, 1 mile from Maidenhead, famous for it's changeable vicar, who having been twice a papiſt, and twice a proteſtant, in the reigns of Henry VIII. Edward VI. Mary, and Elizabeth, was accuſed of being a turncoat; but he replied, that he always ſtuck faſt to his principle, which was, to live and die vicar of Bray! Bray, a river in Devonſ. which runs into the Mole, near Wortley. Brayan, a river in Pembrokeſ. which runs into the Towy, near Cardigan. Brayfield Could, Bucks, beyond Olney Bray High, Devonſ. 4 miles E. of Barnſtaple. Brayne, Somerſ. on the coaſt, S. of the river Axe. Brainsford, Worceſ. a hamlet to Powick. Brayton, Yorkſ. W. Riding, S. of Selby. Brayton, Cumberl. near Aſpatrick. Bray-wick, Berks, near Maidenhead.
BRAZZA, a town and iſland, 30 miles long and 9 broad, on the coaſt of Dalmatia, oppoſite Spalatro.
Breage, Cornw. 3 miles NW. of Helſton. Breakſpear, Middl. near Uxbridg Bream, Glouceſterſ. in the pariſh of New land. Brearidge, Northumberland, ne Witcheſter. Brearton, Durham, SW. Hartlepool. Brearton, Yorkſhire, 4 mil N. of Knareſborough.
BRECHIN, a town of Angus, with manufacture of linen and cotton, and conſiderable tannery. It is 45 miles N of Edinburgh. Market on Tueſday.
*BRECKNOCK, or BRECON, a larg populous town of S. Wales, the capit of Brecknockſhire, ſeated at the confluen of the rivers Honddey and Uſk. Th houſes are well built; it has a good trad in clothing, and its markets are well ſup plied with cattle, corn, and other provi ſions. It is 34 miles NW. by W. Monmouth, and 162 W. by N. of Londo Markets on Wedneſday and Saturday.
BRECKNOCKSHIRE, a county of Sout Wales, 39 miles in length, and 27 i breadth. It has 4 market towns, 6 hun dreds, 61 pariſhes, and upwards of 30,00 inhabitants It is bounded on the W. b Carmarthenſhire and Cardiganſhire; o the N. and NE by Radnorſhire; on th E. by Radnorſhire, Herefordſhire, an Monmouthſhire; and on the S. by Gla morganſhire and Monmouthſhire. It very mountainous, but has large ferti plains and valleys; its principal river are the Wye, the Uſk, and the Yrvon.
BREDA, a large, ſtrong, and beautifu city, of Dutch Brabant, containing ſeveral public buildings, 4 ſpacious market places which are plentifully ſupplied with freſh and ſalt water fiſh, and about 2200 houſes It is ſeated on the rivers Aa and Merck 22 miles W. by S. of Bois le Duc, 2 NE. of Bergen op Zoom, 25 NNE. o Antwerp, and 60 S. of Amſterdam.
Bredagh, in Down, Ulſter.
Bredbury, Cheſ. E. of Stockport. Bre deley, Staff. Manor of Alton. Bredera Head and Foot, Weſtm. both near Orton Bredfield, Suff. between Woodbridge an Dalinghoe. Bredgar, Kent, near Sittingburn. Bredicot, a little E. of Worceſter Bredlesford, Hants, in the Iſle of Wight Bredon, Worceſ. at the foot of Breden Hills, towards Tewkeſbury. Bredwardine Heref. 2 miles W. of Mockas. Breda Parva, Dorſetſ. N. of Abbotſbury. Breed Suſſex, NW. of Winchelſea. Breedon on the Hill, Leiceſ. near Stanton Harold.
BREGENTZ, a county, town, and river of Suabia, but annexed to the circle of Auſtria, having the Tyroleſe and biſhoprick of Augſburg on the E. and the Rhine and Lake of Conſtance on the W.

BREHAL,

BREHAR, or BRYER, one of the Scilly Iſlands. It is rocky and monntainous, with but few inhabitants.

Brehill, Hants, near Andover. Bremble, Wilts, E. of Chippenham. Bremblebam, or Cowitch, Wilts, near Malmſbury.

BREMEGARTEN, a town of Swiſſerland, ſeated on the river Ruſs, 10 miles W. of Zurich.

BREMEN, a duchy in the circle of Lower Saxony, the whole a vaſt plain, almoſt ſurrounded by the Weſer and the Elbe, with Oldenburg and the German Ocean on the W. It contains 111 Lutheran churches, and 137 paſtors, under a general ſuperintendant. The air is cold, but the country is well peopled, and fertile in grain, fruits, flax, &c. and produces large breeds of cattle. They have manufactures of cordage, linen and woollen ſtuffs. It formerly was ſubject to the Swedes, but was conquered by the Danes in 1712, who transferred it, together with Verden, to the elector of Hanover, in 1715, for 700,000 rix-dollars, and in 1719, the crown of Sweden renounced all the rights and appurtenancies of the two duchies, in favour of the Elector, George I. of England, for a million of rix-dollars. In the winter it is ſubject to inundations, and particularly in 1617, ſeveral thouſands of cattle were drowned, beſides ſeveral hundreds of the inhabitants. The capital is Bremen, a large, populous, and imperial city, ſeated on the Weſer. Lat. 53. 6. N. lon. 8. 48. E.

BREMENWOERD, a town of Bremen.

Bremer, Dorſetſhire, near Blandford. Brempton, Somerſ. near Webmore. Bren, Cornw. 4 miles W. of Bodmin. Brenchley, Kent, 6 miles from Tunbridge Welles Brenkborn, Northumb. S. of Rothbury. Brenning, a river in Cardiganſhire. Brenſet, Kent. W. of New Romney.

BRENT, a town of Devonſhire, 26 miles SW. of Exeter, and 200 W. by S of London. Market on Saturday.

Brent, a river of Somerſetſhire. Brent-Eley, Suffolk, E. of Lavenham. Brent, E. and W. Somerſetſ. Brent, S. Somerſetſ. near E. Brent, 18 miles from Briſtol. Brent Marſher, Somerſetſ. between Glaſtonbury and the Start Point.

BRENTA, a river which riſes in the Tyrol, E. of Trent, and paſſing by Padua, falls into the Adriatic a little S. of Venice.

BRENTFORD, a town in Middleſex, 7 miles from London, ſeated on the river Thames, into which, at the W. end of the town, flows a rivulet called the Brent. Market on Saturday.

Brent Street, Midd. in the pariſh of Hendon. Brent Tor, Devonſ. between Lidford and Milton Abbey, ſtands on the top of a high hill, and ſerves for a ſeamark. Brentknoll, Somerſ. near the Brent Marſhes. Brentingby, Leiceſ. near Melton Mowbray.

BRENTWOOD, a town in Eſſex, ſituated on a fine eminence, 11 miles WSW. of Chelmsford, and 18 ENE. of London. Market on Wedneſday.

Breock, St. Cornw. near Wardbridge. Brereton, Cheſh. near Congleton.

BRESCIA, a ſtrong and handſome city of Italy, capital of the Breſciano. It is ſeated on the river Garza, which runs through it, and it's walls are watered by the Mela on the W. and the Navilio on the E. The number of it's inhabitants are nearly 50,000; they manufacture cloths, excellent fire-arms, &c. It is 35 miles NE. of Cremona, and 95 W. of Venice.

BRESCIANO, or THE BRESSAN, a province, late of Venice. It has the county of Bormio on the N. and the Bergamaſco on the W. and although mountainous, yet abounds in wine, oil, wheat, and other grain: it alſo contains mines of iron, copper, ſilver, gold, alum, and marble of different colours. It is watered by ſeveral ſmall rivers, and abounds in towns and villages.

BRESELLO, a town of Modena.

Breſingham, Norfolk, near Diſs.

BRESLAW, or WRATISLAW, a large city of Germany, capital of Sileſia, with a univerſity. It is ſeated at the confluence of the rivers Oder and Ohlau, which laſt runs through ſeveral of the ſtreets. It has ſeveral large ſquares, and the public buildings are very ſtately; the ſtreets are ſtrait, and wide, and the houſes generally well built. It is populous, and much frequented by Hungarian, Bohemian, Poliſh, and other merchants; it lies 112 miles NE. of Prague, and 165 N. of Vienna. Lat. 51. 3 N. lon. 17. 14. E.

BRESLE, a river in the N. of France, which riſes near Aumale, and ſeparating the depts. of the Somme and Eure, falls into the Engliſh Channel at Treport.

BRESSE, a ci-devant province of France, having Savoy on the E. and Viennois on the S. it now forms the department of Ain.

BRESSUIRE, a town in the dept. of the Two Sevres, 35 miles NW. of Poitiers.

BREST, a town in the dept. of Cape Finiſterre, ſeated on the N. ſide of a large commodious harbour, or bay, opening to the Atlantic, the fineſt in France; it's entrance, however, called the Goulet, is narrow and difficult, by reaſon of certain rocks, which are covered at high water.

The

The town ſtands upon a declivity, and the ſtreets are narrow and crooked; but the quay is above a mile in length, and here is every accommodation for the ſhipping and marine ſervice. It is 30 miles SW. of Morlaix, and 325 W. by S. of Paris. Lat. 48. 22. N. lon. 4. 26. W.

BRESTE, or BRESSICI. See BRSE6TZ.

Breſworth, Suffolk, near Mendleſham.

BRETAGNE, a ci-devant province of France, now formed into 5 departments, viz. North Coaſt, Finiſterre, Ille and Vilaine, Lower Loire, and Morbihan.

Brethey, 7 miles from Derby.

BRETEUIL, a town in the dept. of the Eure, ſeated on the river Iton, 15 miles SW. of Evreux.

Bretford, Warwickſ. near Baggington. Bretforton, Worceſ. near Eveſham. Breton, a river in Suffolk.

BRETON, CAPE, an iſland of N. America, about 140 miles in length, and 50 in breath. It is ſeparated from Nova Scotia by the Strait of Canſo, or Fronſac, about a league wide. It is full of mountains and lakes, and interſected by a great number of creeks and bays. In the mountains are coal mines; the valleys afford excellent paſture, and the coaſt abounds in fiſh. It was taken from the French, in 1758, by Admiral Boſcawen and General Amherſt. Lat. between 45 and 47 deg. N.

Bret's Hall, Warwickſ. in the pariſh of Auſley. Brettel, Staff. N. of Sturbridge. Brettenham, Norfolk, NE. of Thetford. Brettenham, Suffolk, NW. of Bilſton. Bretton, Yorkſ. near Wakefield. Bretton Hall, Yorkſ. NW. of Barneſly.

BREVORDT, a town in Zutphen.

Breward, Cornwall, 3 miles SW. of Camelford. Brewer's Hill, Hants, near Wincheſter. Brewerton, Staffordſ. NE. of Lichfield.

BREWOOD, a town of Staffordſhire, 10 miles S. by W. of Stafford. Market on Tueſday.

BREY, a little town of Liege, 14 miles NW. of Maeſtricht.

Breynandy, a river in Pembrokeſhire.

Brial Point, in Down, Ulſter.

BRIANÇON, a town in the dept. of Upper Alps, formerly capital of the Briançonnois, a diſtrict about 36 miles long, and 18 wide. Manna is gathered in it's neighbourhood, on the leaves and branches of a ſort of pine, and by making inciſions into the bark. It is ſeated on the Durance, over which there is a bridge, 180 feet in height, 17 miles NE. of Embrun.

Brianſcombe, Dorſetſ. 2 miles E. of Corfe Caſtle.

Brian's Ford, in Down, Ulſter.

Brianſton, Dorſetſhire, near Blandfor

Briant's Piddle, or Tubervilſton, Dorſe ſhire, a hamlet to Affpiddle.

BRIARE, a town in the dept. of Loir It is ſeated on the Loire, and from hen there is a communication by a canal wi the Seine. It is 6 miles SE. of Gien, SE. of Orleans, and 88 S. of Paris.

Briaval's, St. Glouc. 4 miles from C ford. Brichenden, near Hertford. Bric hampton, Cloun. near Cheltenham. Bric hill Bow, Brickhill, Magna and Parv Bucks; villages near Woburn. Brick hampton, Worc. near Perſhore. Brick ſey, Eſſex, near Merſey Iſle. Brick Lodge, Staff. in Needwood Foreſt.

Brick River, in Kerry, Munſter. Bric River, in Waterford, Munſter.

Brickton, Hants, near Fording Bridg Briddiſtow, Devonſ. 4 miles SW. of Oa hampton. Bride's Bay, St. Pembroke where ſhips ride ſafely in 7 fathoms wat Bride, St. Monm. near Iſton and the S vern. Bride, St. Monm. S. of Tredega Bridekirk, Cumb. 3 miles N. of Cocke mouth. Bridenbury, Heref. near Bromyar Bride River, in Cork, Munſter.

Bride's, St. near Caernarvon Caſtl Bridge, Weſtmor. near Appleby. Brid Kent, 4 miles SE. of Canterbury. Bri Court, Iſle of Wight, in E. Medin Bridgeford, Devonſ. 4 miles E. of Che ford. Bridgemore, Cheſh. 6 miles SE. Namptwich.

BRIDGEND, a populous town of Gl morganſhire, ſeated on the river Ogmor 7 miles W. by N. of Cowbridge, and 1 W. of London. Market on Saturday.

Bridgeverel, Devonſ. W. of Houlſwo thy. Bridgeford, Eaſt, or on the Hill, Not N. of Bingham. Bridgford, Weſt, ne Nottingham. Bridgford, Great and Litt 3 miles NW. of Stafford. Bridgha Norf. near E. Harling.

*BRIDGENORTH, a town of Shropſhir ſeated on the Severn, which divides it in two parts, joined by a ſtone bridge. T ſtreets are broad and paved, and it's ſitu ation is commodious for trade. It's fair which fall on the Thurſday before Shro Sunday, June 30th, Auguſt 2d, and O 29th, are much reſorted to for cattle, ſhee butter, cheeſe, bacon, linen cloth, hop and other merchandiſe. The laſt, whic holds 3 days, is the largeſt. It is 2 miles nearly W. of Birmingham, and 13 NW. of London. Market on Saturday.

Bridgerule, Cornwall, bordering on D vonſhire. Bridgeſellers, W. of Hereford Bridgeſtock, Northamptonſ. near Oundl Bridgetown, Warw. near Stratford upo Avon.

Bridgetown, in Cork, Munster. Bridgetown, in Clare, Munster.

BRIDGETOWN, the capital of Barbadoes, situated in the SW. part of the island, on Carlisle Bay, which is capable of containing 500 ships. The town lies at the entrance of St. George's Valley, which runs several miles into the country. Here is a free school, an hospital, and a college. The houses, about 1500 in number, are very elegant, the streets are broad, and the wharfs and quays commodious and well fortified. This is the seat of the governor, council, assembly, and court of chancery. Lat. 13. 5. N. lon. 58. 38. W.

*BRIDGEWATER, a town of Somersetshire, containing about 500 houses, and 3000 inhabitants. The streets are wide and well paved. It stands 12 miles from Start Point, where the Parret runs into the Bristol Channel; from whence a spring tide flows 22 feet at the quay, at which time it rushes with much violence and roaring; the perpendicular height, as it presses along, being several feet. This sudden rage of the tide is called the Boar, and is frequent in all the rivers of the channel, especially in the Severn. Ships of 200 tons burden come up to the town. They import, in large trows, the manufactures of Manchester, Liverpool, Birmingham, &c. which are conveyed from hence, in waggons, for the internal parts of Devonshire and Cornwall. About 40 vessels, from 30 to 100 tons, are employed in bringing coals from Wales to this place. The duties on custom-house imports amount to about 2500l. a year. It is seated on the river Parrot, 31 miles SSW. of Bristol, and 137 W. by S. of London. Markets on Thursday and Saturday for corn, cattle, &c. and particularly for cheese.

*BRIDLINGTON, or BURLINGTON, a sea port of Yorkshire, seated on a pretty large bay, near Flamborough Head. It has a commodious quay for ships, and is a place of good trade. It is 36 miles N. of Hull, and 208 NE. of London. Market on Saturday.

*BRIDPORT, a small, neat town, in Dorsetshire. It has a safe port for about 40 vessels, and stands on a little hill near the English Channel. The number of houses is about 400; the market is remarkable for hemp, and it furnishes lines, twine, nets, sail-cloth, &c. to the Newfoundland fishery. It is 12 miles W. of Dorchester, and 135 W. by S. of London. Market on Saturday.

Bridstow, Heref. near Ross. Bridy, Long and Little, and Bonvil's Bridy, all in Dorsetshire.

BRIE, a ci-devant district of France, partly in Champagne, and partly in the Isle of France.

BRIEG, a town and principality of Silesia, 22 miles SE. of Breslaw.

BRIEL, or THE BRILL, capital of the island of Voorn, at the mouth of the Meuse, 13 miles SW. of Rotterdam.

BRIENTZ, a town and lake of Bern.

Brierley, Herefords. SE. of Leominster. Brierley, Staff. E. of Sedgeley. Brierley, Yorks. near Barnesley.

BRIESCIA. See POLESIA.

BRIEUX, ST. a town in the dept. of the North Coast, with a small harbour, situated one mile from the sea, and 44 NW. of Rennes.

BRIEY, a town in the dept. of Moselle, 16 miles NW. of Metz.

BRIGG, a town in Lincolnshire, seated on the river Ankam, 25 miles N. of Lincoln, and 153 N. of London. Market on Thursday.

Briggens, Herts, near Hunsdon and Epping Forest. Briggesley, Lincolns. 6 miles S. of Grimsby.

Briggs, a range of rocks N. of Carrickfergus Bay, in Down, Ulster.

Brigham, Cumberland, 2 miles W. of Cockermouth. Brigham, Yorkshire, near Frodlingham.

*BRIGHTHELMSTON, or BRIGHTON, a town of Sussex, on the coast, much resorted to in the bathing season. The Steine is a fine lawn, or public walk. Brighton, in time of peace, is the station of the weekly packet-boats to and from Dieppe. It is 56 miles S. of London, and 74 NW. of Dieppe. Market on Thursday.

Brightley, Devons. SW. of Moulton. Brightling, Sussex. Bright Walton, Berks, near Farnborough. Brightwell, or Bretwell, Berks, near Wallingford. Brightwell, Oxfords. near Astrop Wells. Brightwell, Suffolk, E. of Ipswich. Brigley, Yorkshire, N. of Bradford. Brigmiston, Wilts, opposite Ablington. Brignel, Yorks. 2 miles from Barnard Castle.

BRIGNOLES, a town in the dept. of Var, noted for its prunes. It is seated in a pleasant country, 18 miles N. of Toulon.

Brigowne. in Cork, Munster.

Brigster. Westmorland, near Leven's Bridge. Brigstock, Northamptonsh. near Weldon.

BRIHUEGA, a town of New Castile, trading in wool. In 1710, General Stanhope was forced to surrender this place, with 8 squadrons of English, 8 of Spaniard's, and 1 battalion of Portuguese, prisoners of war to the Duc de Vendome. It is ſeated on the river Tajiena, 40 miles ENE. of Madrid.

Brill, Middleſex, between London and Pancras. Brill, Bucks, near Aſhenden. Brilley, Heref. near Eardiſley. Brimley, near little Hereford. Brimington, Derb. near Cheſterfield, Brimpſfield, Glouc. 6 miles from Cheltenham, and 7 from Glouceſter. Brimpton, Berks. Brimpton, Somerſetſ. near Yeovil. Brimſley, Nott. pariſh of Grieſley. Brimſtage, Cheſhire. near Barnſton.

BRINDISI, the ancient BRUNDUSIUM, a decayed city of Naples, 35 miles NW. of Otranto.

Brindle, Lanc. Brindley, Cheſh. near Namptwich. Brindley, Staff. N. of Brewood. Bringhurſt, Leiceſ. near Weſton. Brington, Great and Little, Northamptonſ. near Althorp. Bringwin, Monm. near Ragland Caſtle. Brinham, Yorkſ. near Potley Bridge. Brinkhill, Lincolnſ. near Somerby. Brinkley, Camb. near Carlton, Brinkley, Northumberland, near Blakedon. Brinklow, Warw. near Comb. Brinkworth, Wilts, S. of Brandon Foreſt.

BRINN, or BRUNN. a city and circle of Moravia, 32 miles SW. of Olmutz.

Brinny, in Cork, Munſter.

Brinſop, Lanc. N. of Wigan. Brinſop, 4 miles NW. of Hereford. Briaſpudell, near Aſſpudell. Brinton, Huntingdonſhire, near Moleſworth. Brinton, Norfolk, near Holt.

BRIOUDE, a town in the dept. of Upper Loire, ſeated on the river Allier, (over which it has a bridge of one arch, 171 feet in diameter) 21 miles NW. of Le Puy, and 225 S. by E. of Paris.

BRISACH, OLD, in Germany, formerly the capital of Briſgaw, is ſeated on the Rhine, over which there is a bridge of boats, 25 miles S. of Straſburg. It is ſubject to Auſtria.

BRISACH, NEW, a handſome town in the dept. of Upper Rhine, about a mile from the W. ſide of the Rhine, and oppoſite to Old Briſach.

Briſco, Cumberl. near Carliſle. Briſco, E. and W. Yorkſ. W of Barnard Caſtle. Briſe Norton, Oxf. near Burford. Briſet, Suffolk, near Bliſton.

BRISGAW, a territory in Suabia, adjoining the Rhine, ſubject to the houſes of Auſtria and Baden. Friburg is the capital.

Briſley, Norfolk, near Lytcham. Briſlington, Somerſ. near Briſtol.

BRISSAC, a town in the dept. of Maine and Loire, ſeated on the river Aubence, 13 miles S. of Angers.

*BRISTOL, a city and ſea-port, partly in Glouceſterſhire, and partly in Somerſhire, to which laſt it was accounted belong, before it formed a ſeparate juriſdiction. In wealth, trade, and population, it has long been reckoned the ſecond in England; the cuſtom-houſe receipts Liverpool, however, have lately exceeded thoſe of Briſtol. It is ſeated at the confluence of the Avon and Frome, about miles from the place where the Avon charges itſelf into the Severn. Ships conſiderable burden come up to the quay and their trade is extenſive; ſending a ſhips yearly to different parts of the world. The ſtreets are moſtly narrow, but here ſome elegant ſquares, and the new part the town are magnificent, they are built of ſtone, and much in the ſame ſtyle Bath. Like it, they alſo extend, ra above range, till they have nearly reached the ſummit of the hill, againſt which Glouceſter ſide of the city ſtands. The proſpects in the vicinity of Briſtol are lightful, and the banks of the Avon, lofty rocks, through which it finds a paſſage to the ſea, covered with herbage trees, and preſenting the moſt awful pr pices, are highly romantic. They have plenty of coal from King's Wood Mendip Hills, and the glaſs houſes, ſo deries, ſugar-works, &c. are numer They make uſe of ſledges inſtead of c which, from their weight and friction ſeem a heavy load in themſelves; neither do the horſes pull together, the hind being perpetually raiſing the fore part the ſledge, and the fore horſes perpetually pulling or preſſing him to the ground. ought to be obſerved, however, that a of the town having been built upon a raſs, carts and waggons are not allowed ply there, from the apprehenſion of t ſhaking and endangering the buildi Briſtol is 40 miles nearly S. of Hereford 60 NE. of Exeter, 34 SW. by S Glouceſter, 50 SSW. of Worceſter, WNW. of Bath, and 124 W. of Lond Lat. 51. 28. N. lon. 2. 36. W. Mark on Wedneſday, Friday, and Saturday.

BRISTOL, a county in the ſtate of Maſſachuſets.

BRISTOL CHANNEL. See SEVERN.

BRISTOL, NEW, capital of the county of Bucks, ſituated on the river Delaware 20 miles NE. of Philadelphia.

Briſtow Cauſeway, Surry, near Cheham. Briſtow Park, Leiceſ. near Aſh de la-Zouch.

BRITAIN, or GREAT BRITAIN, largeſt of all the European iſlands, is vided into England, Scotland, and Wales. It extends from the Lizard Point, in 50. 0. N. to Dunnesbay Head, in lat. 58. 10. N or taking it in a straight line, from N. to S. about 8 degrees, or 550 miles; and, from Dover Head on the E. to the Land's End on the W. about 7 degrees of longitude, or about 290 miles.

BRITUS, NEW. See HUDSON'S BAY and LABRADOR.

BRITAIN, NEW, an island N. of New Guinea, in lat. 40. 0. S. lon. 152. 19. E. On the N. there is a strait, on the opposite side of which lies New Ireland. The shores of both islands are rocky, and the inland parts mountainous, but covered with trees of various kinds, among which are the nutmeg, the cocoa-nut, and the palm. The inhabitants are black and woolly headed, like the Negroes, but have not the flat nose and thick lips.

BRITTANY. See BRETAGNE.

Britten, Essex, near Hornchurch. Britten, Yorks. near Barnesley. Britwell, Oxfords. 3 miles from Maidenhead. Britwell Salome, Oxfords. near Watlington.

BRIVES, LA GAILLARDE, an ancient town in the dept. of Correze, seated in a pleasant valley, near the confluence of the Correze and Vezere. Here are elegant public buildings, fine walks, and manufactories of silk handkerchiefs, muslins, gauzes, &c. It is 37 miles SE. of Limoges, and 220 S. by W. of Paris.

BRIXEN, a town, capital of a bishopric of the same name, mountainous, but producing excellent wine, in league with the Tyrol. It is 39 miles NNE. of Trent.

Brixham, Devons. on the coast, SW. of Berry Point. Brixton, Isle of Wight, 3 W. Medina. Brixton, Devons. SE. of Plymouth. Brixton Causey, Surry, in the south of Lambeth. Brixworth, 7 miles from Northampton.

Brize, in Mayo, Connaught.

BRIZEN, or BRIETZEN, a town of the Middle Marche, in Brandenburg.

Brizlee, Northumb. 2 miles from Alnwick. Broadbull, Kent, between Hythe and Romney. Broad Campden, Glouces. Broad Chalk, Wilts, near Salisbury. Broad Fair, Herts, near Buntingford.

Broadford, in Clare, Munster.

Broad Hill, Sussex, near Cuckfield. Broad Holme, Yorks. N. of Hatfield Chase. Broadhurst, Sussex, NW. of Ashdown.

BROAD TENESSEE, a large and broad river, which rises in North Carolina, and reaching the parallel of 36. 0. N. lat. is so compressed in it's passage through the mountainous land, or Laurel mountains, as to produce a very rapid whirl; below this it spreads into it's common width, and except the interruption of some muscle-shoals, flows in a beautiful and placid stream, till it joins the Cherokee River, under which name it mingles with the Ohio.

Broad Lands, Hants, near Rumsey. Broad Meadow, Staff. between Longnor and Hartington. Broad Main, Dorsets. see Main. Broadstairs, Kent, between the N. Foreland and Ramsgate. Broadsworth, Yorks. NW. of Doncaster. Broadwas, on the N. bank of the Tame, W. of Worcester. Broadwater, Sussex, W. of New Shoreham. Broadwater, Herts, between Welwyn and Stevenage. Broad Way, and Hill, Glouces. between Moreton and the Vale of Evesham. Broadway, Dorsets. near Weymouth. Broadway, Worces. W. of Campden. Broadway, Shrops. between Church Stock and Baybury. Broadway, Kent, N. of Hythe. Broadway, Somers. in the parish of Buckland Mary.

Broadway, in Wexford, Leinster.

Broad Weldon, Somers. W. of Bishop's Chew. Broadwell, Oxf. 4 miles W. of Bampton. Broadwell, Glouces. 2 miles from Stow. Broad Windsor, Dorsetshire, W. of Beminster. Broadwood Kelly, Devonshire, NE. of Hatherley. Broadwood Wigier, Devons. W. of Lyston. Broberry, Heref. SW. of Stanton. Brockdish, Norf. W. of Needham. Brockford, Suff. N. of Mendlesham. Brocket Hall, Herts, near Digswell. Brockham, Surry, near Beachworth. Brockhampton, Heref. Brockhampton, Dorsets. 2 miles NE. of Bulkland Abbas. Brockhampton, Glouces. Brockhole, Northamp. near the Bringtons. Brockholm, Nottingh. Brockhurst, Warw. between Coventry and Lutterworth. Brockington, Dorsets. between Knowlon and Bereston. Brockleshy, Linc. near Caston. Brockleton, Worces. S. of Tenbury. Brockley, Somers. N. of Wrinton. Brockley, Suffolk, near Debden. Brockley Hill, Herts. Brockley Hill, Dorsets. near Abbotsbury. Brockmonton, Heref. E. of Leominster. Brockmore Heath, Staffordshire, near Swynford. Brockrup, or Brockthorp, Glouces. 3 miles from Painswick, and 4 from Glocester. Brockton, Staff. Brockton, Shrops. near Lower Down. Brockton, Shropshire, near Easthop. Brockton, Shrops. between Walton and Lee. Brockton, Shrops. NE. of the Forest of Clune. Brockworth, Glouces. 5 miles from Painswick, and 4 from Glocester.

BROD, or BRODT, a fortified town of Sclavonia, situated on the Save, 50 miles N. of Serajo.

Brodagh, in Clare, Munster.

BRODERA, a principal town of Guzerat, in Hindoostan, between Surat and Ougein. The country produces cotton, wheat, barley, rice, indigo, &c. and immenſe quantities of gum lac. It's public buildings are ſtately, and the gardens fine. The calico manufacture is carried on here pretty extenſively. It is 55 miles SSE. of Amedabad.

Broadwell, Glouceſterſhire, 2 miles from Stow. Brodnam. Dorſetſhire, in the pariſh of Netherbury.

BROD NENEMI, or TEUTS-CH-BROD, a town of Czazlau, Bohemia, ſituated on the Sazava, 54 miles SE. of Prague.

Brodock, Cornw. near Boconcock. Brodſteer; ſee Broadſtairs. Brodſworth, Yorkſ. 3 miles from Doncaſter.

BRODZIEC, a town of Lithuania.

BROEK, a town and county of Berg, Weſtphalia.

BROEK, a neat and beautiful village, 6 miles from Amſterdam. The manners of the inhabitants, according to Madame de Sillery, late Counteſs of Genlis, and Mr. Pratt, are extremely ſingular. They marry invariably among themſelves. In every houſe they have one door ſet apart for the occaſion of marriage or death. It is called the door of ceremony; the new-married couples enter in at it, and never paſs through it again but to their graves; in the interval it is kept conſtantly ſhut. The women ſcarcely ever ſtir from Broek, and Amſterdam is as little known to them as London or Conſtantinople. The houſes are roofed with tiles ſo gloſſy, that in the ſunſhine they glitter like ſpar. Their little gardens are adorned with china vaſes, grottos of ſhell-work, &c. and their ſtreets are paved with inlay work of beautifully ſmall pebbles, of various forms and colours, ſquared or diamonded, croſſed and intercroſſed, with ſhells, pieces of glazed brick, marbles, glaſs beads, &c. called in as auxiliaries. Behind their houſes and gardens are extenſive meadows, with large herds of cattle grazing. Their outhouſes are likewiſe behind, ſo that waggons, carts, and cattle do not enter their ſtreets, which, except one, (through which they are permitted to paſs) are neat, clean, and charming beyond compariſon. Every part, alſo, of every houſe, within and without, is painted with the moſt coſtly colours, and all ornamented with a care, which, it ſeems, not only profanation, but peril in the paſſenger, to tread upon or to touch.

Broke, a river in Lanc. which runs into the Wire. Broke, Norf. 5 miles from Norwich. Broke Hampton, Warw. near Kyneton.

BROKEN BAY, a bay of New S. Wales, New Holland, at the mouth of the river Hawkeſbury. Lat. 33. 34. S.

Brokenborough, or Brokenbridge, Wil a mile from Malmſbury. Brokenbu Hants, in the New Foreſt. Broke Leicef 4 miles W. of Melton Mowbr Brockwer, Glouceſ. Bromborough, Che Brome, Bedf. near Biggleſwade. Bro W. of Durham city. Brome, Norf. n Bungay. Brome, Shropſ. near Clunbu Brome, Shropſ. 3 miles W. of Wenlo Brome, Staff. near Clent. Brome, Suf miles from Dis. Brome Burnell's, W wickſhire, between Bitford and Salfo Brome Hall, Norf. between Loddon Bungay. Brome Hall, Shropſ. near weſtry. Brome Hall, Yorkſ. near Sh field. Bromeham, Suſſex, near Battle bey. Bromehill, Dorſetſ. near Mort Bromehill, Norf. N. of Walſham. Bro bill, Kent, 3 miles SW. of Lydde. Br Houſe, Midd. near Fulham. Brome Kin Warw. near Brome Burnells. Br Park, Northumberl. NW. of Alnwi Bromfield, Eſſex, near Chelmsford. Br field, Kent, near Lenham. Bromfi Yorkſ. between South Cave and the Hu ber. Bromford. Northumb. NW. Wooller. Bromhall, Cheſh. NW. of Sto port Bromhall, Cheſh. near Comberm Bromley, Dorſetſ. a mile and a half S of Abbots Stoke.

*BROMLEY, a town of Kent, ſeated the river Ravenſburn, 10 miles from L don, on the road to Tunbridge. Mar on Thurſday.

Bromley, Midd near Bow, 2 miles fr London. Bromley, Cheſh. near Comb mere. Bromley, Shropſ. between Kin wood and Nether Heath. Bromley, Shr between Bridgenorth and Worril. Br ley, Staff. between Swinford and Brockm

BROMLEY ABBEY, or ABBO BROMLEY, a town of Staffordſ. 6 m from Staffordſ. Market on Tueſday.

Bromley Bagots, W. of Bromley Abb Bromley Gerards, Staff. near Blorche Bromley Hurſt, Staff. SE. of Pagets Br ley. Bromley, Magna and Parva, E near Maningtree. Bromley Regis, or Ki Bromley, Staff. on the Trent. Bromp Kent, near Rocheſter. Brompton, M in the pariſh of Kenſington. Bromp Dorſetſ. near Bridport. Brompton Br Heref. 7 miles from Ludlow. Brom rough, Glouc. 4 miles from Ledbury.

*BROMSGROVE, a town of Worce ſhire, with conſiderable manufacture worſted, linſey, linen cloths, fiſh-hoo needles, and nails. It is ſituated near riſe of the river Salwarp, 15 miles NE. N. of Worceſter, and 115 NW. of L don. A good market on Tueſday corn, cattle, and proviſions.

Brom

Bromfall, Staffordſ. SW. of Uttoxeter. Bromfhorp, Norf. near Rudham. Bromſwell, Suffolk; near Woodbridge. Bromwich, Shropſ. near Oſweſtry. Bromwich, Great and Little, and Bromwich Caſtle, Warw. near Coleſhill. Bromwich, Weſt, Staffordſ. S. of Walſal.

*BROMYARD, a town of Herefordſhire, ſituated in a country full of orchards, 16 miles NE. of Hereford, and 125 WNW. of London. Market on Monday.

Bromyhe, or Till, a river in Northumb. which runs into the Tweed at Tillmouth.

Bromfton, Cumb. in the pariſh of Dalſton.

BRONNI, or BRONNO, a town in the Milaneſe, 10 miles SW. of Pavia.

Bronke, Rutl. near Oakham. Brook, Wilts. S of N. Bradley. Brook, Kent, near Aſhford. Brook, Iſle of Wight, in W. Medina. Brook Green, Midd. near Hammerſmith. Brookhouſe, Kent, near Dartford. Brookland, Kent, in Romney Marſh, 3 miles NW. of Lyd. Brookley, Kent, between Eltham and St. Mary Cray.

Brook Borough, in Fermanagh, Ulſter, early 87 miles from Dublin.

Brookſtreet, Eſſex, near Burntwood.

BROOM, LOCH, a lake and arm of the ſea, on the W. coaſt of Roſsſhire, noted for fine herrings, being eſteemed one of the beſt fiſhing ſtations on the coaſt.

BRORA, a ſea-port, river, and lake of Sutherlandſhire, on the SE. coaſt.

Broſeley, Shropſ. 5 miles from Bridgenorth, has a manufacture of glazed tobacco pipes.

Brofny, in King's County, Leinſter.

Brofna, Norf. 2¼ miles E. of Norwich.

Brotherbaſe, Linc. 4 miles S. of Spalding.

Brothertoft, Linc. NW. of Boſton.

Brotton, Yorkſ. 4 miles from Giſborough.

BROUAGE, a town in the dept. of Lower Charente. Here are the fineſt ſalt-works in France; the ſalt is called bay-ſalt, becauſe it lies on a bay of the ſea. It is 17 miles S. of Rochelle.

BROUCK, a town of Berne, ſituated on the river Aar, 21 miles S. of Baſil; alſo a town of Culmbach, Franconia; a town in the archduchy of Auſtria; a town of the Lower Palatinate; and a town in the electorate of Saxony.

BROUERSAVEN, a ſea-port in the iſle of Schowen, 9 miles SW. of Helvoetſluys.

Brough upon Sands, Cumberl. 5 miles W. of Carliſle.

*BROUGH, or BURGA upon STANMORE, a town of Weſtm. 6 miles from Appleby. Market on Thurſday.

Brough, Yorkſ. in Holderneſs near the ruins of Roman city, Cataractum, with a bridge, called Cataract Bridge. Broughham, Weſtm. near Penrith.

Broughſhane, in Antrim, Ulſter, 95 miles from Dublin.

Broughton, Lanc. 4 miles NW. of Ulverſton. Broughton, Linc. near Glandford Bridge. Broughton, Northamptonſ. near Kettering. Broughton, Oxfordſ. near Banbury. Broughton, Hants, near the Wallops. Broughton, Wiltſhire, between Bradford and Laycock, Broughton, Staff. 5 miles NW. of Eccleſhall. Broughton, Bucks, 2 miles E. of Ayleſbury. Broughton, Bucks, between Woburn and Newport. Broughton, Warwickſ. a hamlet, of Whitchurch. Broughton, Herts, near Hoddeſdon. Broughton, Hunt. 4 miles S. of Ramſey. Broughton, Lanc. 5 miles from Preſton. Broughton, Shropſ. in the pariſh of Wurthen. Broughton, Shropſ. 3 or 4 miles from Wem. Broughton, Yorkſ. 5 miles SW. of Skipton. Broughton, Yorkſ. 3 miles SE. of Stokeſley. Broughton, Great and Little, Cumb. near Cockermouth. Broughton Aſhley, Leiceſ. 4 miles N. of Lutterworth. Broughton Caſtle, Cumberl. E. of Penrith. Broughton Church, Derbyſ. 4 miles E. of Saperton. Broughton Hacketts, 3 miles E. of Worceſter. Broughton Over, Nottingh, and Broughton Nether, Leiceſterſ. adjoins each the other. Broughton Poges, Oxf. near Lechlade. Broughton on the Sands, Cumb. on Solway Fritn. Broungelly, Cornw. on a hill N. of Leſkard. Brounrigg, Cumb. near Abbey Holm. Brown, Somerſ. near Carhampton. Brown Candover, Hants. Brownrigg, Northumb. between Ford Caſtle and Woller. Brownſell, Dorſetſ. near Candle Wake. Brownſea Iſle, Dorſ. in the harbour of Pool. Brownſover, Warwickſ. N. of Rugby. Brownſwell, Midd. on Finchley Common. Broxham, Kent, nearly 5 miles W of Penſhurſt. Broxbourn and Broxbournbury, Herts, near Hoddeſdon. Broxey, Yorkſ. N. of Pickering Foreſt. Broxholm, 4 miles NW. of Lincoln. Broxted, Eſſex, 4 miles S. of Thaxted. Broxton, Cheſhire, S. of Beeſton Caſtle. Broxton, Hants, 4 miles E. of Alton. Broxtow, or Broculſtow, NW. of Nottingham. Broxwood, Heref. 3 miles E. of Kyneton. Broyle, Suſſex, 3 miles SE. of Lewes.

BRSESTZ, BRZESC, or BRESTE, a town and palatinate of Poland, 80 miles WNW. of Warſaw; and a town and palatinate of Lithuania, ſituated on the Bog, 100 miles E. of Warſaw.

Bruce Caſtle, Midd. near Tottenham.

BRUSCHAL, a town, of Spire, Germany.

BRUCK, or BRUGG. See BROUCK.

Bruck Caſtle, Hunt. between the Saltrys and Stilton. Bruck Smalk, Suſſex, between Burwaſh and Itchingham. Bruern, Oxfordſ. near Banbury. Bruerton, Staffordſ. near Rugeley.

Bruff, in Limerick, Munſter.

BRUGES, a large city of the ci-devant Auſtrian Flanders, formerly the Engliſh ſtaple for wool, and the centre of communication between the Lombards and the Hanſeatic merchants. Hither the Lombards brought the products of India, and the manufactures of Italy, and exchanged them for the commodities of the north. It was then the greateſt trading town in Europe, every commercial nation of which had a conſul here. But, in the 16th century, the civil wars, occaſioned by the tyranny of Philip II. drove the trade firſt to Antwerp, and then to Amſterdam. Bruges is not therefore populous now in proportion to it's extent; but it's ſituation ſtill commands ſome trade, as it communicates by canals with Ghent, Oſtend, Sluys, Nieuport, Furnes, Ypres, and Dunkirk. It is 8 miles nearly E. of Oſtend.

BRUGGE, or BRUGGEO, a town of Hildeſheim, in Lower Saxony; and a town of Juliers, Weſtphalia.

Brughan, a river of N. Wales, which runs into the Severn, about 2 miles above Llandyllos, in Montgomeryſhire.

BRUGNETO, a town of Genoa.

Brumfield, Cumberland, 4 miles W. of Wigton. Brumfield, Somerſ. 5 miles from Taunton, and 5 SW. of Bridgewater. Brumham, 2 miles from Bedford. Brumham, Wilts, 4 miles NW. of Devizes. Brumley, Northumb. between Newbiggen and Newcaſtle. Brumpton, Yorkſ. near Northallerton. Brumpton, Yorkſ. 5 miles SW. of Scarborough. Brumpton Ralph, Somerſetſh. 2 miles SW. of Stokegomer. Brumpton Regis, Somerſ. 2 miles NE. of Dulverton. Brunſtal, or Brunſal, Yorkſ. W. Riding, near Appletrewick. Brunwell, Norf. 3 miles N. of Brandon Ferry. Brundall, Lancaſhire, SW. of Houghton Tower. Brundal, 3 miles E. of Norwich. Brunden, Eſſex, near Sudbury. Brundiſh, Suff. 4 miles NE. of Framlingham. Brundiſh Hall, Eſſex, 2 miles from Ongar.

BRUNETTO, a ſtrong fortreſs in Piedmont, near Suſa.

Brunleſs, Brecknockſ. near Crickhowel. Brunn, Yorkſ. in Howden wapentake.

BRUNN. See BRINN.

BRUNSBUTTLE, a city of Holſtein, in Lower Saxony, ſeated at the mouth of the Elbe, 13 miles NW. of Gluckſtadt.

Brunſlow, Shropſ. between Barlow and Lidbury. Brinſted, Norf. 4 miles N Hickling.

BRUNSWICK, a populous city, ca of the duchy of Brunſwick, and the dence of the prince of Brunſwick Wo buttle, ſeated on the river Ocker, 7 N. of Wolfenbuttle, and 47 WNW Magdeburg.

BRUNSWICK, a country in the cir Lower Saxony, divided into four du and two counties. The duchies of B wick Proper, and Brunſwick Wolfen tle, with the counties of Rheinſtei Blackenberg, are ſubject to the du Brunſwick Wolfenbuttle, while the tor of Hanover is duke of Brun Grubenhagen and Brunſwick Galen which alſo includes the duchy of Gö gen. Brunſwick is fertile in corn paſture, and has mines of copper, &c. It's principal rivers are the W the Ocker, the Leyne, and the Ilmen BRUNSWICK, a town of Georgi N. America, where the Turtle Rive charges itſelf into St. Simon's Sound has a ſafe and extenſive harbour, ca of containing the largeſt ſhips. The is regularly laid out, but not compl From it's advantageous ſituation, an fertility of the back country, it pro to be a great trading town. It is 70 SW. by W. of Savannah. Lat. 31. lon. 82. 0. W.

BRUNSWICK, a city of New Jerſe N. America, on the SW. bank of Ra River, 12 miles above Perth Amboy. inhabitants have a conſiderable t trade, and many ſmall veſſels. Here a flouriſhing college, called Queen's lege. Lat. 40. 20. N. lon. 74. 10.

BRUNSWICK, NEW, the NW. di of Acadia, or Acadie, which, in was divided into two governments. Scotia, is now properly the penin New Brunſwick forms the reſt of the land E. of the river St. Croix, having nada on the W. and N. and the Sta New York and New England on t It's capital is Frederick's Town. the concluſion of the American war emigration of loyaliſts to this pro from the United States, has been con able. Large tracts of land have bee tivated, and ſeveral new towns laid among, which are, Shelburne, Parr T Digby, and New Edinburgh. The vince is now rapidly advancing in lation and fertility.

Brunthorp, Linc 2 miles SE. of A Brunton, Northumb. near Dunſtan Caſtle.

Bruy, in Limerick, Munſter.

Bruſebridge, Notting. near Worksop. Bruſford, Devonſ. S. of Winkley. Bruſiard, Suff. 4 miles NE. of Framlingham. Bruſwith, Cumb. a river running into the Eden, near Carliſle.

BRUSSELS, a large city in Flanders, capital of the late Auſtrian Brabant, about 7 miles in circumference. The ſtreets are ſpacious, and the houſes pretty high. In Bruſſels are 7 ſquares or market-places. The great market-place is elegant and beautiful. The public buildings are ſumptuous, and here are numerous fountains. The Rivage is the lower part of the city, cut out into canals for the convenience of ſhipping, for which a canal has been cut from the Scheldt about 15 miles from Bruſſels, which coſt this city 1,800,000 dollars, and by which trech-ſchuyts, or paſſage boats, paſs between Bruſſels and Antwerp. Bruſſels is celebrated for it's lace, camlets, and tapeſtry. It is ſeated partly on an eminence, and partly on a fertile plain, on the river Senne, 22 miles S. of Antwerp, 26 SE. of Ghent, and 148 N. by E. of Paris. Lat. 50. 51. N. lon. 4. 28. E.

BRUTON, a well-built, populous town, of Somerſetſhire, with manufactures of ſerges, ſtockings, matting, and ſilk throwing. It is ſeated on the river Brew, near it's head, 12 miles SE. of Wells, and 109 W. of London. Market on Saturday.

BRUYIERS, a town in the dept. of the Voges, 22 miles nearly S. of Luneville; and a town in the dept. of the Aiſne, 3 miles SE. of Laon.

Bry, Brow, or Brent, a river in Somerſetſhire, which riſes in Selwood, on the borders of Wiltſhire, running W. near Glaſtonbury, and falls into the Briſtol Channel, in Bridgewater Bay.

Bryan's Bridge, in Clare, Munſter, on the Shannon, 8 miles N. of Limerick.

Bryanſtown, a few miles from Dublin.

Bryn, Lancaſ. near Wigan. Bryning, Lancaſ. 5 miles SW. of Kirkham. Bryntin, Staff. N. of Blimhill.

BUA, or ISLE OF PARTRIDGES, a ſmall iſland, on the coaſt of Dalmatia, joined to the town of Trau by a bridge.

BUARCOS, or BUARGAS, a town of Beira, 21 miles SW. of Coimbra.

Buhnall, Derbyſ. in the Peak. Buhnall, Warw. W. of Dunſmore Heath. Bubton, Derbyſ. in Appletree hundred. Bubwith, York. W. of Wighton. Bucham, Norf. near Havergate, W. of Yarmouth.

BUCHAN, a diſtrict of Aberdeenſhire, forming the NE. part of Scotland, from Deveca to the river Ythan, on the SW.

BUCHANNESS, a promontory, in the diſtrict of Buchan, the moſt eaſtern part of Scotland. Lat. 57. 28. N. lon. 1. 26. W. Between this promontory and Peterhead, is the place called the Bullers or Boilers of Buchan; a large oval cavity in the rocks, open at the top and perforated by 3 ways of entrance; it is 30 fathoms deep, and about 50 fathoms in diameter, with a foot-path round it. Boats ſail into it, from the ſea, under a natural arch, reſembling a large gothic window. At a little diſtance is a vaſt inſulated rock, divided by a narrow and very deep chaſm from the land. About the middle of this rock, many feet above the level of the water, is a large triangular aperture, through which the ſea, when agitated, ruſhes in with a tremendous noiſe.

BUCHARIA. See BOKHARA.

BUCHAU, a free town of Suabia, ſituated on the Feder Lake, 24 miles SW. of Ulm.

BUCHOREST, a large town of Walachia, ſituated on the Dunbrowitz.

BUCHORN, a free town of Suabia, ſituated on the N. ſide of the Lake of Conſtance.

Buck-a-Bank, Cumb. in Dalſton pariſh. Buckby, Long, Northamp. 3 miles NE. of Daventry. Buckden; ſee Budgen. Buckdon, Yorkſ. near Biſhopſdale Chaſe. Buckelly, Cornw. 4 miles SW. of Camelford. Bucken Hall, Eſſex, N. of Bocking.

BUCKENHAM, NEW, a town of Norfolk, ſituated on the river Waveney, between Ipſwich and Norwich, 96 miles from London. Market on Saturday.

Buckenham, Old, NW. of New Buckenham. Buckenham Ferry, over the river Yare, 5 miles E. of Norwich. Buckenham Houſe, Norfolk, 4 miles N. of Thetford. Buckerell, Devonſ. 3 miles W. of Honiton. Buckern, Cornw. 3 miles N. of Bodmin. Buckfaſtleigh, Devonſ. 3 miles from Aſhburton. Buckham, Surry, near Egham. Buckhampton, Berkſhire, near Lamborn. Buckhole, Suſſex, 2 miles SE. of Hoo. Buckholt Foreſt, Hants, on the edge of Wilts. Buckhorn Weſton, Dorſetſh. near Wincanton. Buckhurſt, Suſſex, under Aſhdown Foreſt.

BUCKINGHAMSHIRE, or BUCKS, a county of England, bounded on the W. by Oxfordſhire; on the N. by Northamptonſhire; on the E. by Bedfordſhire, Herts, and Middleſex; and on the S. by Berks and Surry, from which it is ſeparated by the Thames, as it is from Middleſex by the Coln. It is 46 miles in it's greateſt length, and 18 in breadth; containing 8 hundreds, 185 pariſhes, 15 market towns, and above 111,400 inhabitants. The air is healthy, and the ſoil fertile, being chiefly chalk or marle. Fine wheat is grown in the uplands, barley is cultivated in the Chiltern Hills, herds of cattle, and vaſt flocks of ſheep, the largeſt in England, graze in the meadows, eſpecially in the tertile Vale of Aileſbury: and the hills, in many places, are covered with woods, in which are great quantities of beech. The principal manufactures of this county are paper and bone-lace.

*BUCKINGHAM, a town of Buckinghamſhire, with ſome manufactures of lace, and many paper mills near it, on the Ouſe. The county gaol ſtands in this town, and the ſummer aſſizes for the county are held here. The houſes in the town and pariſh amount to about 540. It is ſeated on the river Ouſe, by which it is nearly ſurrounded, and over which it has 3 handſome ſtone bridges, 25 miles NE. of Oxford, and 57 NW. of London. Market on Saturday.

Buckingham, Suſſex, N. of Shoreham, Buckington, Wilts, between Devizes and Trowbridge. Buckland Monachorum, Devonſ. near Taviſtock. Buckland, Berks, near Farringdon. Buckland, Bucks, NE. of Wendover. Buckland Rivers, Dorſetſh. SW. of Radipole. Buckland, Glouceſ. 5 miles W. of Campden. Buckland, Herts, 34 miles from London. Buckland, Kent, near Dover. Buckland, Kent, near Maidſtone. Buckland, Kent, near Feverſham. Buckland, Linc. between Tatterſhall and Horncaſtle. Buckland, Somerſetſ. 2 miles NE. of Frome. Buckland, Somerſ. 5 miles from Taunton. Buckland, Surry, near Ryegate. Buckland Abbots, Wilts, near Calne. Buckland Bruer, Devonſ, NW. of Torrington. Buckland, E. and W. Devonſ. near South Moulton. Buckland Fee, Somerſ. near North Petherton. Buckland Filly, Devonſ. NW. of Sheepwaſh. Buckland Houſe, Hants, in the New Foreſt. Buckland Mary, Somerſ. 4 miles SW. of Ilminſter. Buckland, North, Devonſ. near Bear Alſton. Buckland Tovnſand, Devonſ. near Dartmouth. Buckland, Somerſ. near Wellington. Buckland Abbas, or Newton, Dorſetſ. 4 miles NE. of Cerne-Abbas. Buckland's Palace, Glouc. near Badgworth. Buckebury, Berks, NE. of Newbury. Buckleſham, Suff. between Ipſwich and Bawdſey. Buckley, Cheſ. W. of the Lake Combermere. Buckley, Cornw. 3 miles NW. of Camelford. Buckly Feke, Northamp. near Daventry. Buckminſter, Leiceſ. bordering on Rutl. Buckminſter, Wilts, 4 miles N. of Ambreſbury. Bucknall, Linc. 5 miles W. of Horncaſtle. Bucknell, Oxfordſ. near Biceſter. Bucknal Shropſ. on the borders of Heref. Buckna Somerſ. near Staple Fitz Pain. Buckne Staffordſh. 3 miles N. of Stone. Buckney Cumb. W. of Stapleton. Buckrul, Do 1 mile SW. of Corfe Caſtle. Buckſtea Suſſex, near Aſhdown Foreſt. Buckſtee Suſſex, near Hayſham. Buckthorp, 4 mil S. of Glouceſter. Buckton, Heref. ne Brampton Bryan. Buckton, Northamp. W of Moulton. Buckton, Northumb. ne Fenwick. Buckton, Yorkſ. N. of Bridlin ton. Buckware, Eſſex, W. of Rodi Abbey. Buckwell, Kent, between Ca terbury and Whitſtable. Buckwort Northumb. near Newcaſtle. Buckwort Huntingdonſ. near Leighton.

BUDA, or OFFEN, the capital of Low Hungary, ſituated on the ſide of a hill, the W. bank of the Danube, oppoſite Pe formerly the reſidence of the kings of Hu gary. The public buildings are elegan it's warm baths very magnificent, and the adjacent country are vineyards, pr ducing a red wine, in great eſtimation. is 125 miles ESE. of Vienna, and 56 NW. of Conſtantinople. Lat. 47. 25. N lon. 18. 22. E.

Buabrook, two miles W. of Warwick Budworth, 3 miles from Warwick. Bu by, Nottinghamſ. near Thowerſby.

BUDDESDALE, or BOTESDALE, a long mean-built town, of Suffolk, on the bor ders of Norfolk, 15 miles NE. of Bury on the road to Yarmouth. Market o Thurſday.

BUDELICH, a town of Treves.

Budeſden, Cheſ. W. of the Merſey, op poſite to Liverpool. Budeſton, St. Peter or Biddleſton, Wilts, near Chippenham Budic, Northumb. near Bamburgh Caſtle

BUDISSEN. See BAUTZEN.

BUDLEY, a town of Devonſhire, ſituated on the river Otter, near it's mouth Market on Monday.

Budnaboc, Bedf. NW. of Biggleſwade.

BUDOA, a ſea-port town of Dalmatia, 30 miles SSE. of Raguſa.

Bvacc, Cornw. near Penryn and Falmouth. Budox, St. Devonſ. 4 miles N. of Plymouth.

BUDRIO, a town in the Bologneſe.

BUDWEIS, a town of Bechin, Bohemia, ſituated on the Moldaw, 18 miles S. of Bechin.

Budworth, Magna and Parva, Cheſh.

BUENOS AYRES, or CIVIDAD DE LA TRINIDAD, is the ſeat of a viceroy, and a conſiderable ſea-port of La Plata, ſeated on the river Plata, in a country truly paradiſaical, 50 miles from the ſea, on the E. coaſt of S. America. Part of the treaſures ſures and merchandiſe of Peru and Chili, which are exported to Spain, is brought here, and received by the regiſter ſhips, and they have a conſiderable commerce in the ſkins of wild bulls and cows. It contains about 3000 houſes, and 30,000 inhabitants. The vice-royalty, erected in 1776, has Yapeyaga and Paraguay on the N. Brazil and the Sea on the E. and Cordova and Tucuman on the W. Lat. 34. 35. S. lon. 58. 26. W.

Bueriy, Yorkſ. near Patley Bridge. Buerly, Yorkſ. NW. of Halifax. Buerton, Cheſh. E. of Combermere.

Bug, a river of Poland, which runs into the Viſtula, between Porcz and Warſaw.

Bugbarrow, Dorſetſh. adjoining Brere Regis. Bugbrook, 2½ miles W. of Northampton. Bugden, Hunt. N. of Boddington.

Bugia, or Boujeiah, a ſea-port, of Algiers, exporting oil, wax, and agricultural iron inſtruments, obtained from mountains near the town. In 1674, Sir Edward Spragg directed a fire-ſhip into the harbour, which is large, confined by a wall of ſquare ſtone, and defended by 2 caſtles, when 7 veſſels, of from 24 to 34 guns, were burned, the town and caſtles conſiderably damaged, and between 3 and 400 men killed. Lat. 37. 10. N. lon. 5. 10. E.

Bugie, a port of Egypt, on the W. coaſt of the Red Sea, in lat. 22. 15. N.

Bugill, Suſſex, W. of Rotherbridge. Bugthorp, Yorkſ. 5 miles N. of Pocklington.

Builth. See Bealt.

Buis, Le, a town in the dept. of Drome, 21 miles ENE. of Orange.

Bukari, a ſea-port of Hungarian Dalmatia, in lat. 45. 29. N.

Bulac, a town of Egypt, of conſiderable trade, containing about 4000 families. It is ſeated on the E. ſhore of the Nile, 2 miles W. of Grand Cairo, being the ſea-port of that city. On the N. ſide of it is the Caliſch, whoſe banks are cut every year to convey the waters of the Nile, by a canal, to Grand Cairo.

Bulam, a fertile iſland of Africa, about 8 leagues long and 3 broad, at the mouth of the Rio Grande. An attempt has been lately made to coloniſe it by free negroes, under the direction of the Bulam Aſſociation in England; as alſo to eſtabliſh a friendly intercourſe with the natives, and a trade unpolluted by ſlavery; but the ſettlement was deſtroyed by Africans from the continent. It is about a league and a half from the continent, in lat. 10 deg. N.

Buley, Linc. near Stainfleet. Buley Caſtle, Weſtmor. near Appleby. Buley Grange, Durh. 5 miles NE. of Stockton. Bulford, Wilts, 3 miles N. of Ambreſbury.

Bulgaria, a mountainous province of Turkey, bounded on the W. by Servia and Macedonia; on the N. by Walachia; on the E. by the Black Sea; and on the S. by Romania. The valleys produce ſome corn and wine.

Bulham, in the Iſle of Wight.

Bullock, 6 miles from Dublin.

Bultinton, Wilts, near Pottern. Bulkington, Warw. 4 miles from Coventry. Bulkley, Cheſh. NW. of Chomondeley. Bulkworthy, Devonſ. W. of Torrington. Bullingham, Upper and Lower, S. of Heretord. Bullingham, Hants, 4 miles E. of Andover. Bullings, 6 miles E. of Lincoln. Bullington, Berks, between Wallingford and Oxford. Bullington, Heref. 2 miles W. of Kinnerſley. Bullington, Linc. 2 miles W. of Wragby. Bully, Glouc. 2 miles W. of the Iſle of Alderney. Bullmarſh Court, Berks, near Sunning. Bullmaſh Heath, Berks, near Reading. Bulmer, Eſſex, on the borders of Suffolk. Bulmer, Yorkſ. 4 miles SW. of New Malton. Bulneſs; ſee Boulneſs. Bulpham, Eſſex, NW. of Horndon. Bulſtrode, Bucks, near Gerard's Croſs. Bull Point, Devonſ. near Salcomb. Bullwell, 7 miles from Nottingham. Bulwick, Northamp. 5 miles NW. of Oundle. Bumford, Derbyſ. in the High Peak. Bumſtead Helion, Eſſex, near Haveril. Bumbury, Cheſh. E. of Beeſton Caſtle. Bunbrook, a river in Derbyſhire.

Buncloady, in Wexford, Leinſter. Buncrana, in Donegal, Ulſter.

Bundela, or Bundelcund, a circar of Hindooſtan, in the country of Allahabad, ſeparated from the Jumna by a narrow tract of low country. It is a mountainous, woody tract, of more than 100 miles ſquare, and contains the celebrated diamond-mines of Panna or Purna. It was formerly ſubject to a rajah, named Hindooput, but is now divided among his deſcendants. It is inhabited by a tribe of Rajpoots, and is ſurrounded by the dominions of Oude, Benares, and the Mahrattas. The principal towns are Chatterpour, which lies in lat. 25. 0. N. Mow, and Panna. The principal river is the Cane or Ken.

Bundeley, Dev. 4 miles E. of Hatherly.

*Bungay, a town in Suffolk, ſeated on the river Waveney, which is navigable for barges to Yarmouth. It has a conſiderable trade, and the women are much employed in knitting worſted ſtockings. It is 36 miles N. by E. of Ipſwich, and 107 NE. of London. Market on Thurſd.

Bungo,

BUNGO, a conſiderable kingdom in the iſland of Bungo, of Ximo, in Japan. The capital is Fumay. The king of Bungo was baptized by the name of Francis Civan, and ſent a ſolemn embaſſy to Pope Gregory XIII. in 1582.

BUNGO, a province of Loango, in Africa.

Bunbill, Worceſ. in Bromſgrove.

Bunnidane, in Sligo, Connaught. Bufinglaſs, in Mayo, Connaught.

BUNTINGFORD, a town of Herts, ſituated on the little river Rib, 7 miles S. of Royſton, and 31 N. by E. of London. Market on Monday.

Buntingſdale, Shropſh. near Drayton. Bunwell, Norf. 4 miles from Wymundham. Bupton, Wilts, 5 miles N. of Calne. Burbach, Leiceſ. near High Croſs and Hinckley. Burbeck, Weſtm. SW. of Appleby. Burbeck, a river of Weſtm. running into the Lune. Burbich, Wilts, W. of Great Bedwin. Burbrook, Eſſex, between Aſhden and Steeple Bumſted. Burchalk, Wilts, SW. of Saliſbury Plain. Burcham, Magna, Newton, and Tofts, Norf. 3 villages 4 miles N. of Caſtle Riſing. Burchills, Staff. 1 mile NW. of Walſal. Burchope, between Hereford and Leominſter. Burcomb, Dorſetſ. in the pariſh of S. Perrot. Burcomb Lodge, Somerſ. NE. of Bruton. Burcomb, N. and S. Wilts, near Saliſbury. Burcot, Northamp. near Towceſter. Burcot, Shropſ. NW. of Great Wenlock. Burcot, Somerſ. SE. of Wrinton. Burcot, Oxf. near Dorcheſter. Burdforth, Yorkſ. S. of Thirſk. Burdham, Suſſex, 4 miles from Chicheſter. Burdingbury, Warwickſ. N. of Long Itchington. Burldon, Durham. Burdon, Durh. N. of Seaton. Burdon, Great and Little, Durh, between Darlington and Stockton. Burdon, Old, Durham, near Lumley Caſtle, Burdop Craig, Northumb. NW. of Elleſdon. Burdrop, Oxf. 5 miles SW. of Banbury. Burdrop, Wilts, near Swindon. Burdſwold, Cumb. E. of Aſkerton Caſtle, BURELLO, a town of Calabria Ultra.

BUREN, a town and county of Dutch Guelderland, 18 miles SE. of Utrecht.

BUREN, a town of Weſtphalia, ſituated on the Alme.

Bureſs, Suffolk, near Neyland. Burfield, Berks, SW. of Reading.

*BURFORD, a town of Oxfordſhire, with manufactories of duffels, rugs, and ſaddles. It is ſeated on the river Windruſh, 71 miles from London. Market on Saturday.

Burford, near Warwick. Burford, Shropſ. near Tenbury.

BURG, a town of Zutphen; a town of Berg, Weſtphalia; a town of Culmbach Franconia; a town of Newburg, Bavaria a town of Thuringia; a town of Magdeburg; and a town of Reuſs, Upper Saxony Burgat, Hants, near Fordingbridge Burgat, Suff. near Buddeſdale. Burgat Surrey, S. of Godalmin. Burgat Dam ram, Wilts, on the borders of Dorſetſh.

BURGAW, a town and margraviate Auſtria, 15 miles N. of Augſburg; and town of Eiſenach, Upper Saxony.

BURGDORF, a town and bailiwick Bern; and a town of Lunenburg Zell.

BURGH, a town of Lincolnſhire, miles NNE. of Boſton, and 133 N. London. Market on Thurſday.

Burgh, Derb. in the Peak, near Caſtl ton. Burgh, Dorſetſ. 3 miles from A minſter. Burgh, Shropſ. 5 miles fro Wem. Burgh, or Borough, Camb. 8 mil S. of Newmarket. Burg, Norf. W. Kirby. Burgh, Lancaſ. S. of the Pe Burgh, Suff. near Clopton. Burgh, York E. Riding, near Ferriby. Burgh Caſtl Suff. at the mouth of the Waveney, 4 mil SW. of Yarmouth. Burgh Clere, Hant W. of King's Clere. Burgh Hall, York N. Riding, N. of Maſham. Burgh Hil Yorkſ. near Bainbridge. Burgh Hill, N of Hereford. Burgh Houſe, Surry, 2 mil SE. of Epſom. Burgh upon Bone, Lin E. of Market Raiſin. Burgh, St. Marga ret and St. Mary, Norf. near Yarmouth Burgh upon Sands; ſee Brough upon Sand Burgham Caſtle, Weſtmorland, 5 miles SE of Appleby.

BURGOS, a city of Spain, capital o Old Caſtile, ſeated partly on a mountain and extending to the river Arlanzon The ſquares, public buildings, and foun tains are magnificent, and the walks agree able. Many manufactures are carried o here. It is 95 miles E. by S. of Leon and 117 N. of Madrid. Lat. 42. 20. N lon. 3. 30. W.

BURGUNDY, a ci-devant province o France, bordered on the E. by Franch Comte; on the S. by Lyonnois; and o the N. by Champaigne. It is fertile i corn, fruits, and excellent wine, and i now formed into the depts. of Aube, Côt d'Or, Saone and Loire, and Yonne.

Burgus, Cornw. near Padſtow Haven Burham, Kent, near Aylesford. Burham Linc. in Goſwell pariſh. Burham, N. and S. Somerſetſ. near Bruton.

BURHANPOUR, a city of Hindooſtan th capital of Candeiſh, and, at one period of the Deccan alſo. It has conſiderable manufactures in fine cottons, white and painted, plain, and mixed with gold and ſilver, for veils, ſhawls, handkerchiefs, &c.

&c. It is 100 miles N. of Arungabad, and 125 miles E. by N. of Surat. Lat. 21. 25. N. lon. 76. 19. E.

BURHANPOUR, a town of Bengal, 85 miles N. of Calcutta.

BURICK, a town of Cleves, on the Rhine.

Burian, St. Cornw. 5 miles from Penzance. Buricourt, Hants, between Bentley and Dogmersfield. Buringham, Linc. near the Isle of Axholm. Burket, Berks, near Shrivenham.

BURKHAUSEN, a town of Up. Bavaria.

Burland, Chesh. SE. of Combermere. Burland, Somers. between Taunton and Combe St Nicholas. Burlaton, Staff. near Sheriff Hales. Burleigh House, Northamp. 1 mile SE. of Stamford. Burlescamb, Devons. near Holcombe. Burleston, Dorset. near Athelhamston. Burley on the Hill, Rutland, near Oakham; near it is a fine seat of the Earl of Winchelsea. Burly, Yorks. near Otley. Burley, Hants, in the New Forest. Burley, Shropsh. N. of Ludlow. Burley Park, Leices. near Loughborough. Burlington; see Bridlington. Burlington, Shropshire, SW. of Wem.

BURLINGTON, a trading town of New Jersey, in N. America, capital of a county of the same name. It is seated on Delaware River, which is here a mile broad, and under shelter of Mittinnicunk and Burlington Islands, affords a safe and convenient harbour. It has a mayor and court of aldermen. The majority of the inhabitants are Quakers. Burlington is 17 miles NE. of Philadelphia, and 55 SSE. of New York.

BURMAH. See AVA.

Burmash, Kent, in Romney Marsh. Burmington. Warwickshire. SE. of Shipton. Burnay, Suffolk, E. of Beccles. Burnby, York. near Pocklington.

Burnchurch, in Kilkenny, Leinster.

burnep, Durh. on the borders of Cumb. Burnare, Cornwall, near Padstow Haven. Burnas, Cumb. N. of Keswick. Burnat, Somers. 4½ miles W. of Bath. Burneton Butail, Northumb. near Bamburgh Castle. Burnball, SW. of Durham. Burngate, Durh. 1 mile E. of Lulworth. Burnham, Bucks, 3 miles E. of Maidenhead. Near it are Burnham Bovency, and Burnham East. Burnham Deepdale, Norfolk, in the NW. part of the county, noted for it's salt-marshes, on which sheep thrive well.

BURNHAM, a town of Norfolk, seated near the sea, with a good harbour, and a considerable trade in corn, 29 miles NW. of Norwich, and 126 NE. of London. There are several villages in it's neighbourhood, which are also called Burnham, as well as that of Burnham Deepdale. Market on Saturday.

BURNHAM, a fishing-town of Essex, at the mouth of the river Crouch, which is here called Burnham Water. The Wallfleet and Burnham oysters are the product of the creek and pits of this river. It is 40 miles E. by N. of London.

Burnham, Somers. near the Start Point. Burnham, Nether and Upper, Linc. in the Isle of Axholm. Burnholm, N. and S. Yorksh. E. Riding, E. of Pocklington. Burningham, Norf. 4 miles SE. of Holt. Burniston, Yorkshire, N. of Scarborough. Burnitton, Yorkshire, between Bedal and Thirsk.

BURNLEY, a little town of Lancashire, with woollen and cotton manufactures, printing houses, dying houses, mills, &c. It is seated in a very healthy situation, near the Leeds and Liverpool canal, 35 miles SE. of Lancaster, and 208 NNW. of London. Market on Saturday.

Burnsal, Yorksh. on the Wherfe, between Settle and Paitley Bridge. Burnt Ely, Suff. between Sudbury and Bilston.

BURNTISLAND, a town in Fifeshire, with a good, deep, and large harbour. It is seated under a stupendous rock, on the Frith of Forth, 10 miles NW. of Edinburgh.

Burph, Dorsets. N. of Bridport. Burpham, Sussex, NE. of Arundel. Burphants, Surry, S. of Woking.

BURRAMPOOTER, or SANPOO, a river of Asia, which rises near the head of the Ganges in the mountains of Thibet. Issuing from opposite sides of the same ridge of mountain, these rivers flow in different directions, till they are 1200 miles asunder; yet meet in one point about 40 miles from the sea, after each has run through a winding course of about 2000 miles. The Burrampooter, for 60 miles before it's junction with the Ganges, is regularly from 4 to 5 miles wide, and, but for it's freshness, might pass for an arm of the sea; in other respects, it bears an intimate resemblance, during a course of 400 miles through Bengal, to that river.

Burham, E. and W. Hants. Burrel, Yorks. N. Riding. 3 miles N. of Snape, and W. of Bedal. Burrels, Westmorl. S. of Appleby. Burrington, Devons. a little N. of Chumleigh. Burrington, Devonsh. N. of Plympton.

Burris, in Carlow, Leinster, 54 miles from Dublin. Burrisaleigh, in Tipperary, Munster, 78 miles from Dublin.

Burroby, Yorks. 3 miles from Thirsk. Burroded, Northumberl. near Upper and Lower Trewhet. Burrough, Norf, between tween Fakenham and Holt. Burrow, Norfolk, near Aleſham. Burrow, S. of Lancaſter: it communicates with all the late inland navigations. Burrow, Leiceſ. near Billeſdon. Burrow Green, 2 miles from Cambridge, and 2 from Newmarket. Burrow Hill, Northamptonſh. near Daventry.

BURSA, anciently PRUSA, one of the largeſt and moſt beautiful cities of Natolia, containing about 40,060 Turks, 400 families of Jews, 500 of Armenians, and 300 of Greeks. It ſtands at the foot of Mount Olympus, on the edge of a fine plain, covered with mulberry, and various fruit trees, and, in 1356, was made the capital of the Ottoman dominions. The moſques and caravanſeras are elegant, and every houſe has it's fountain. The bezeſtine is a large ſtructure, full of warehouſes and ſhops, containing all the commodities of the Eaſt, beſide their own manufactures in ſilk ſtuffs, velvets, beautiful carpets, &c. Here, indeed, are the beſt workmen in Turkey, who are excellent imitators of the tapeſtry of Italy and France. Burſa is the capital of a province of Natolia Proper, called by the Turks Becſangil, and anciently Bithynia. It is 60 miles S. of Conſtantinople. Lat. 32. 22. N. lon 29. 5. E.

Burſcough, Lancaſh. near Latham and Ormſkirk. Burſledon, 5 miles E. of Southampton, ſituated on a branch of the Southampton Water, with yards for ſhip-building. Burſlem, Staff. 3 miles from Newcaſtle under Line, celebrated for it's potteries. Burſeſley, Worc. 4 miles SE. of Bromſgrove. Burſtall, NE. of Leiceſter, on the Stour. Burſtall, Suffolk, W. of Ipſwich. Burſtall, Yorkſ. between Huddersfield and Leeds. Burſtall Garth, Yorkſ. in Holderneſs. Burſted, Great and Little, Eſſex, near Billericay. Burſtock, Dorſet. W. of Beminſter. Burſton, Staff. NE. of Newcaſtle under Line. Burſton, Bucks, NE. of Aileſbury. Burſton, Dorſetſ. 4 miles W. of Bere Regis. Burſton, Norfolk, 1 mile from Diſs. Burſton, Norf. 4 miles S. of Holt. Burſtow, Surry, near E. Grinſtead. Burſtwick, Yorkſ. in Holderneſs. Burtford Houſe, Wilts, near Salisbury. Burthorp, Glouc. near Lechlade. Burtle Houſe, Somerſ. near Bridgewater.

BURTON STATHER, a ſmall town of Lincolnſhire, ſeated on a hill, near the Trent, on which it has ſeveral mills, 30 miles NW. of Lincoln, and 164 N. by W. of London. Market on Monday.

BURTON, a town of Weſtmorland, 11 miles N. of Lancaſter, and 247 NNW. of London. It communicates with all the late inland navigations. Market on Tueſday.

Burton, 3 or 4 miles from Nottingham, on the road to Newark. Burton, Berks, near Aſhbury and White Horſe Hill. Burton, Cheſh. NW. near the Dee. Burton, 5 miles E. of Cheſter. Burton, near Buckingham. Burton, Dorſetſh. W. of Wareham. Burton, Dorſ. near Bridport. Burton, Great and Little, Dorſetſ. a little N. of Dorcheſter. Burton, Heref. NE. of Pembridge. Burton, Kent, near Aſhford. Burton, Kent, near Tunbridge. Burton, Lincolnſ. between Grantham and Market Deeping. Burton, NW. of Lincoln. Burton, Norf. 3 miles SE. of Wurſted. Burton, Northumb S. of Bamburgh Caſtle. Burton, Shropſ. between Wenlock and Shrewſbury. Burton, Shropſ. S. of Wenlock. Burton, Somerſ. near Wyncaton. Burton, Somerſ. W. of Bedminſter. Burton, Somerſ. near Somerton. Burton, Iſle of Wight, near Cowes. Burton, Hants, between Lymington and Chriſt Church. Burton, Staff. near Penkridge, Burton, E. and W. Suſſex, between Petworth and Arundel. Burton, E. and W. Weſtmor. E. of Appleby. Burton, E. and W. Yorkſ. in Holderneſs. Burton, E. and W. Yorkſ. 4 miles NE. of Richmond. Burton, Worc. in Lower and Upper Sapy. Burton Agneſs, Yorkſhire, E. of Kilham. Burton Biſhops, Yorkſh. N. of Beverley. Burton, Black, Oxfordſ. N. of Bradwell. Burton Cherry, Yorkſ. NW. of Beverley.

BURTON CONSTABLE, a town of Yorkſhire, ſituated between Midlam and Richmond. Market on Friday.

Burton Conſtable, Yorkſ. NE. of Hull. Burton Dorſet, Warw. 3 miles from Kyneton. Burton Grange, Yorkſ near Barnſley. Burton Haſtings, Warw. near the road between Coventry and Leiceſter. Burton Hill, Wilts, S. of Malmſbury. Burton in Biſhopſdale, Yorkſ. N. Riding, SW. of Midlam. Burton Latimer, Northamptonſ. SW. of Kettering. Burton Leonard, Yorkſ. W. of Boroughbridge. Burton, Long, Dorſetſ. N. of the Vale of White Hart. Burton Lazers, Leiceſterſ. S. of Melton Mowbray. Burton Magna, Oxf. N. of Banbury. Burton, North, Yorkſ. NW. of Bridlinton. Burton Overy, Leic. near Hallaton. Burton Parva, Oxfordſ. SE. of Burton Magna. Burton Pidſey, Yorkſh. in Holderneſs. Burton Salmon, Yorkſ. N. of Pontefract. Burton ſuper Montem, Glouc. W. of Morton in Marſh. Burton upon Oldo, Leiceſterſhire.

*BURTON UPON TRENT, a town of Staffordſhire, ſituated on the river Trent, over which it has a bridge of freeſtone, a quarter quarter of a mile in length. It conſiſts chiefly of one long ſtreet, and has long been noted for it's excellent malt and ale, great quantities of which laſt are exported to London, Leith, the Baltic, &c. It has alſo manufactures in woollen and cotton, of hats, ſpades, and other articles, beſides forges for forming iron bars. The houſes are about 750, and the inhabitants 4000. Beſides the Trent, it communicates, by canals, with Liverpool, Briſtol, Coventry, and all the late inland navigations. It is 11 miles SW. of Derby, and 124 NNW. of London. A well-ſupplied market for corn and proviſions on Thurſday.

Burton on the Water, Glouc. Burton, E. and W. Nott. 3 miles from Gainſborough. Burton Wood, Lanc. in W. Derby. Burwarton, Shropſhire, near Brown Clee Hill. Burwaſh, Suſſex, N. of Rotherbridge. Burwell, Camb. 3 miles N. of Newmarket Heath. On the 8th of Sept. 1727, a melancholy event took place here: 160 perſons, among whom were ſeveral young ladies of fortune, being aſſembled in a barn, on the exhibition of a puppet-ſhow, the place took fire, by a careleſs accident, when only five or ſix eſcaped; the bodies of the dead were ſo disfigured by the fire, and the fall of the roof, &c. that their friends could not recogniſe them, and they were promiſcuouſly interred in one large grave. A tablet has been erected in the church, to perpetuate the event. Burwell, Linc. near Althorp. Burwell, Hants, near Hambledon. Burwell's Green Herts, NW. of Ware Park. Burwood, Surry, S. of Walton upon Thames.

BURY, a town of Lancaſhire, noted for it's manufacture of fuſtians, half thicks, kerſeys, calicoes, &c. A melancholy event happened here July 5, 1787, by the fall of the theatre, by which more than 320 perſons were buried in the ruins: ſome eſcaped unhurt; many were killed, and others greatly bruiſed. Bury is ſituated on the Irwell, near a canal, which goes to Manchester, 36 miles SE. of Lancaſter, and 190 NNW. of London. Market on Thurſday.

BURY ST. EDMUND'S a town of Suffolk, which contains 2 pariſh churches, about 1000 houſes, and 7000 inhabitants. It owes it's name to a celebrated abbey, one of the largeſt and richeſt in the kingdom, founded in honour of Edmund, king of the Eaſt Angles, who was born, crowned, murdered, and buried here. It is ſituated in a healthy, delighful ſpot, affording beautiful proſpects, (from which it has been called the Montpellier of England) 14 miles nearly E. of Newmarket, and 72 NNE. of London. Large markets for corn, fiſh, fowl, &c. on Wedneſday and Saturday.

Buſhby, Yorkſ. N. Riding, N. of Wharlton Caſtle. Buſham, Suſſ. S. of Arundel. Buſhbury, Staffordſ. between Brewood and Walſall. Buſhby Parva, Yorkſ. N. Riding, S. of Stokeſley. Buſhford, Somerſ. near Dulverton. Buſh Hill, Middl. near Edmonton. Buſhley, Worc. near Tewkſbury. Buſh Mead, Bedf. near Eaton.

Buſhmills, in Antrim, Ulſter.

Buſhton, Wilts, in the pariſh of Clave Pepper. Buſhy, Herts, near Watford. Buſhy, 2 miles from Leiceſter. Buſhy Hall, Herts, NW. of Watford. Buſhy Leaze, Hants, in the pariſh of Fackham. Buſhy Park, Middl. near Hampton Court. Buſſage, Glouceſterſ. a hamlet to Biſley.

BUSSARAH, BASSORAH, or BASRAH, a conſiderable city and ſea-port of Turkey in Aſia, in Irac Arabi, on a canal, navigable for veſſels of 50 tons, to the Euphrates, 40 miles NW. of the Gulf of Perſia. The circumference of the town is large, but a great number of date-trees are planted within the walls. It is rather an Arabian than a Turkiſh city, and the prince pays but little reſpect to the Ottoman court. The inhabitants are computed at 50,000.

Buſtleton, Northumberl. near Heydon. Buſtleton, Hants, 12 miles from Portſmouth. Buſton, Kent, near Maidſtone. Buſton, Northumb. near Alnwick. Buſtwath Hill, Cumberl near Burgh Marſh. Butcomb, Somerſ. SE. of Wrinton.

BUTESHIRE, a county of Scotland, conſiſting of the iſlands of Bute, Arran, and Inchmarnoc, which lie in the Frith of Clyde, S. of Argyleſhire. They are fertile in corn and paſtures; and there is a conſiderable herring fiſhery on their coaſts. The chief town is Rothſay.

Butler's Bridge, in Cavan, Ulſter.

Butler's Court, Glouc. near Bodington. Butley, Cheſhire, near Preſtbury. Butley, Somerſ. between Bruton and Bridgewater. Butley Abbey, Suff. 4 miles from Orford.

BUTRAGO, a town of New Caſtile.

Buttleſdon, Northumb. in the manor of Warkworth. Butt's Aſh, Hants in New Foreſt. Butſbury, Eſſex, near Ingateſton. Butteland, Northumb. near Billingham. Butterby, Durh. near Branſpeth. Butter Cramb, Yorkſ. near New Malton. Butter Haugh, Northumb, near the ſource of the Tyne. Butterley, Derbyſ. near Codnor Caſtle. Butterley, Devonſ. near Collumpton.

BUTRINTO, a ſea-port and gulf of Venetia,

Venetian Albania, ſeparated by a ſtrait from the Iſland of Corfu, at the entrance of the Adriatic, in lat. 39. 49. N.

BUTTERMERE WATER, a lake of Cumberland, near the ſource of the Cocker. The lakes of Buttermere and Lowſwater are not ſo extenſive as thoſe of the Derwent or Keſwick, but quite as beautiful, and the country about them is as mountainous and romantic as Borrowdale.

Butterſide, Yorkſhire, N. Riding, near Aſkrig. Butterwike, Dorſetſ. a mile S. of Folke. Butterſwick, Yorkſ. N. Riding, near Newſom. Butterton, Staff. SE. of Leek. Butterton, SW. of Stafford. Butterwick, Linc NE. of Boſton. Butterwick, Durh. between Stockton and Durham. Butterwick, Herts, near St. Albans. Butterwick, E. and W. Lincolnſ. E. of Axholm.

Buttevant, in Cork, Munſter.

Buttolph, Suſſex, near Bramber.

BUTTON'S BAY, a bay in the NW. part of Hudſon's Bay, through which Sir T. Button and others have in vain attempted to diſcover a NW. paſſage to China. It lies in the 60th deg. of N. lat.

BUTZAW, a town of Schwerin, Lower Saxony.

Buxhall, Suff. between Bildeſton and Wulpet. Buxlow, Suff. near Dunwich. Buxted, or Buckſtead, Suſſex, 10 miles from E. Grinſtead.

*BUXTON, a town in Derbyſhire, one of the wonders of the Peak, having 9 wells that riſe near the ſource of the river Wye. Their waters were noted in the times of the Romans. Although hot and ſulphureous, they are palatable; they create an appetite and remove obſtructions, and, if bathed in, afford relief in ſcorbutic rheumatiſms, nervous caſes, &c. It is much reſorted to in ſummer. The public rooms are in an elegant building, in the form of a creſcent, erected by the Duke of Devonſhire. It is of the Doric order, and under it are a piazza and ſhops. Buxton has a manufacture of cotton, and is ſituated in an open, healthy county, with a variety of fine views, 28 miles from Mancheſter, 32 NW. of Derby, and 160 NNW. of London.

Buxton, Norf. SE. of Aleſham.

BUZBACH, a town of Solmes, Upper Rhine.

Bybury, Glouc. NW. of Fairford.

BYCHOW, or BYSZOW, a town of Courland.

Byerley, N. and S. Yorkſ. near Bradford. Byfield, Northamp. between Banbury and Daventry. Byfleet, Surry, near Cobham. Byford, Heref. near Bredwardine Caſtle. Byford, Yorkſ. in Holderneſs. Bygrave Hall, Herts, a little NW. of Baldock. Bykeſbore, Northumb. 1 mile from Newcaſtle. Bykeware, Glouc. near Hawkſbury. Byland, Yorkſ. near Thirſk. Byley, Cheſh. NE. of Middlewich. Bynall, Wilts, 3 miles SE. of Wooton Baſſet. Bynamy, Cornw. near Beeds Haven. Bynith Wood, Cornw. between Leſkard and Launceſton. Bynton, Warw. near Bittord. Bynweſton, Shropſ. on the borders of Montgomeryſ. Byram, Lanc. between Newton Chapel and Leigh. Byrch, Magna and Parva, Heref. SW. of Aconbury. Byrom, Yorkſ. near Ferrybridge.

BYRON'S ISLAND, in the South Pacific Ocean, is low, woody, and populous, and about 12 miles in length. The natives are tall, robuſt, active, and cheerful. Lat. 1. 18. S. lon. 173. 46. E.

Byton, Heref. E. of Preſteign, in Radnorſhire. Byworth, Suſſ. near Petworth.

CAANA, a town of Egypt, ſeated on the E. ſide of the river Nile, 260 miles S. of Cairo, whence they tranſport corn and pulſe to Mecca. Lat. 26. 30. N.

CABECA, a town of Andaluſia; a town of Seville; and a town of Cuba, 130 miles SW. of the Havannah.

CABECA DE VIDE, a town of Alentejo.

CABEÇON, a town of Leon, in Spain.

CABENDA, a ſea-port of Loango, in lat. 4. 5. S.

Cabons, Kent, near Denge Marſh.

Cabragh, within 2 miles of Dublin.

CABREIRA, in Latin, CAPRARIA, an iſland, 2 leagues and a half S. of Majorca, with a large and ſafe port. It is mountainous, deſert, and chiefly uſed as a place of baniſhment for criminals.

CABUL, CABULISTAN, or ZABULISTAN, was anciently a province of Perſia, but having been annexed to the Mogul empire, was again transferred to Perſia by Nadir Schah. It is now, however, a ſeparate territory, and is bounded on the W. and SW. by Candahar and Sableſtan, or Segeſtan; on the N. by Uſbeck Tartary; on the E. by Caſhmere; and on the S. by Lahore. The country conſiſts of mountains tains conſtantly covered with ſnows, hills, of moderate height, and eaſy aſcent, rich plains, and ſtately foreſts, and theſe enlivened by numerous ſtreams. It produces every article neceſſary for human life, with a variety of delicate fruits and flowers. The city of Cabul is capital of the province. It is ſituated near the foot of the Hindoo-Ko, or Indian Caucaſus, near the ſource of the Attock. It's ſituation is romantic and pleaſant, having, within it's reach, the fruits and products of the temperate and torrid zones. It has ſpacious caravanſeras and palaces; and is 550 miles NW. of Delhi, and 176 NE. of Candahar. Lat. 34. 36. N. lon. 69. 58. E. See CANDAHAR.

Cabarn, Linc. near Caiſtor. Cabus, Lanc. in Amounderneſs.

CAÇAÇA, a town of Fez, 16 miles S. of Melilla.

CACERES, a town of Eſtremadura, in Spain; a town of the Iſle of Lucon, in the Manillas; and a town of Tlaſcala, in Mexico.

CACHAN, or KASCHAN, a town of Irac Agemi, in Perſia, the inhabitants of which trade in ſilks, ſtuffs, ſilver and gold brocades, and fine earthen-ware. It is 55 miles N. by W. of Iſpahan.

CACHAO, a large town, capital of a province of the ſame name, in Tonquin. It contains about 20,000 thatched houſes: the people are Pagans. The Engliſh and Danes have each a factory, which purchaſe ſilks and lackered wares. Lat. 22. 10. N. lon. 105. 31. E.

CACHEMERE. See CASHMERE.

CACHEO, a town of Negroland, ſubject to the Portugueſe. Lat. 12. N. lon. 16. 40. E.

Cackham, Suſſex, near Selſey.

CACONGO, a ſmall kingdom of Congo, in the country of Congo, with it's chief town on the N. bank of the Zaira. Lat. 5. S. lon. 14. 20. E.

CACORLA, a town of Jaen, Andaluſia.

CADAON, CALDAO, or SANDAO, a river of Portugal, which riſes on the confines of Algarva, and runs N. through the territory of Evora; after which it waſhes Alcazer, and bending its courſe W. falls into the Atlantic at St. Ubes.

Cadbury, N. and S. Somerſetſ. between Queen Camel and Wincanton. Cadbury, Yorkſ. W. of Doncaſter. Cadbury, Devonſhire, W. of Bradninch. Caddington, Bedf. between Kneeſworth and Luton. Caddon, Northumb. 7 miles SW. of Hexham. Cudeby, near Leiceſter Foreſt.

CADENAC, or CAPDENAC, a town in the dept. of Lot, ſituated on the river Lot, 27 miles ENE. of Cahors.

CADENET, a town in the dept. of the Mouths of the Rhone, 28 miles SE. of Avignon.

Cader Idris, a mountain in Merionethſhire, at the foot of which are ſome very deep pools. Near it is Dolgelly.

CADILLAC, a town in the dept. of Gironde, ſituated on the Garonne, 15 miles SSE. of Bourdeaux.

CADIZ, a large, rich, and ancient city, of Andaluſia, firſt built by the Phenicians, who called it Cadez; ſeated on an iſland, from which it has a communication with the continent by a bridge. The bay formed by it is 12 miles in length, and 6 in breadth. It is the emporium of the Spaniſh foreign trade. Here the galleons and regiſter ſhips are fitted out for Terra Firma and La Plata, and the flota for Mexico; and here the bullion of America is imported, to be diſtributed to the foreign merchants, who principally ſupply the outward-bound fleets with their cargoes. Cadiz contains 50,000 inhabitants, has manufactures of linen and ſalt, and is 45 miles NW. of Gibraltar, and 90 W. by S. of Malaga. Lat. 36. 31. N. lon. 6. 6. W.

Cadiz Head, Lanc. near Warrington. Cadland, Hants, in the New Foreſt. Cadley, Devonſ. W. of Columbton. Cadley, Devonſ. near Ottery St. Mary's. Cadnam Houſe, Wilts, near Chriſtian Malford. Cadney, Linc. S. of Glandford Bridge.

CADORA, the capital of Cadorino.

CADORINO, a ſmall and mountainous diſtrict of the Treviſan, late a province of Venice.

CADSANDT, an iſland at the mouth of the Scheldt, famous for it's excellent cheeſe. Caſſandria is the principal place.

CAEN, a city, capital of the dept. of Calvados, containing about 4000 inhabitants. Before the revolution, it was the capital of Lower Normandy, and had a celebrated univerſity, founded by Charles VII. It is ſituated on the rivers Orne and Odon. (the former of which runs through the town, the tide bringing up large veſſels) 65 miles W. by S. of Rouen, and 125 NW. of Paris.

Caergwrley, Flintſhire, 7 miles from Cheſter.

CAERFILLY, a ſmall, ſtraggling town, of Glamorganſhire, ſeated between the rivers Taff and Rumney, 5 miles N. of Landaff. One half of a round tower, here, part of it's large, ancient caſtle, overhangs it's baſis more than 9 feet, and is reckoned as great a curioſity as the leaning tower of Piſa, in Italy. Market on Thurſday.

Caer

ning of the preſent century it was a village, but now it is an extenſive city, ſuppoſed to contain 500,000 inhabitants. The houſes variouſly built, ſome of brick, others with mud, and a greater number with bamboos and mats, make a motley appearance: and the mixture of European and Aſiatic manners obſerved in Calcutta, is wonderful; coaches, phaetons, hackeries, two-wheeled carriages, drawn by bullocks, palankeens, carried by the natives, the paſſing ceremonies of the Hindoos, and the different appearances of the faquirs, form a diverſified and curious ſcene. Here the governor general and council of Bengal reſide, who have a controul over the preſidencies of Madras, Bengal, and Bencoolen. The houſes have, many of them, the appearance of palaces, or temples, and their inhabitants are very hoſpitable. The ſituation of this city is not happily choſen; for it has extenſive muddy lakes, and a vaſt foreſt cloſe by it, from which, in ſo hot a climate, unwholeſome vapours muſt ariſe. Here are four judges, who diſpenſe juſtice according to the laws of England. Calcutta is 1030 miles NE. by N. of Madras. Lat. 22. 23. N. lon. 88. 28. E.

Caldbeck, Cumb. E. of Wigton. Caldecot, Rutl. near Lydington. Caldecot, Monm. Caldecot, Bucks, in the pariſh of Newport. Caldecot, Yorkſ. near Leeds. Caldecot, 7 miles from Cambridge. Caldecot, Cheſh. NW. of Malpas. Caldecot, Herts, near Aſhwell and Hinxworth. Caldecot, Warw. near Granborough. Caldecot, Northumb. in the manor of Eland. Caldecot, Warw. near Weddington. Caldecot, or Calcot, Glouceſterſ. near Coln St. Dennis. Calder, a river of Yorkſ. which riſes on the edge of Lancaſhire, and running E. joins the river Aire, 2 miles N. of Pomfret. Calder, a river in Lancaſhire, which runs into the Ribble, 3 miles S. of Clithera; alſo another river of the ſame name, which riſes in Lanc. and runs into the Wire near Garſtang. Calder, Cumb. near Copeland Foreſt. Caldey Iſland, Pembrokeſ. near the ſhore, 2 miles SW. of Tenby. Caldey, Magna and Parva, Cheſh. on the Dee, near Hyle Lake. Caldicot, Glouceſ. in the pariſh of Guiting Power. Caldmerton, Northumb. in the barony of Veſey. Caldmore, Staff. N. of Walſal. Caldwell, near Bedford. Caldwell, Derb. in the pariſh of Stapenhill. Caldwell, Yorkſ. N. Riding, near Forcet. Caldwell, Worceſ. near Kidderminſter.

CALEDONIA, NEW, a large iſland in the S. Pacific Ocean, extending from lat. 19. 0. to 23. 0. S. and from lon. 164. 0. to 168. 0. E. The inhabitants are ſtrong and active; their clothing is a wrappe made of the bark of a tree, or of leave They ſubſiſt chiefly on roots, and cultivat the ſoil with ſome art and induſtry. Fro the hills, the ſummits of which are, man of them, clothed with wood, ſpring num bers of rivulets, which fertilize the plain Plantains and ſugar-canes are not plent ful; bread-fruit is very ſcarce, and t cocoa-nut trees are but thinly planted but their yams and taras are in great abu dance.

CALEDONIA, New, a ſea-port and ſe tlement on the iſthmus of Darien, founde by ſome Scotch families, in 1699, b abandoned ſoon afterwards. Lat. 9. 3 N. lon. 77. 36. W.

Cale Hill, Kent, near Charing.

CALENBERG, a principality of Brun wick, in Lower Saxony, ſubject to Han ver. It contains about 36 towns, amon which are Hanover, Hameln, Gottinge and Newſtadt. It takes it's name fro an ancient caſtle, now in ruins, ſituated the Leina, 11 miles S. of Hanover.

Calbourn, Iſle of Wight, in W. Medin

CADI, a town and valley of Popayan

CALICOULAN, or QUILON, a Dut fort and factory on the coaſt of Malaba 80 miles NW. of Cape Comorin.

CALICUT, a town of Hindooſtan, t capital of a country, formerly the mo flouriſhing on the Malabar coaſt, and mo ly ſubject to a Brahman prince, called t Samorin. It is 95 miles SE. of Sering patam, and 320 miles SW. of Madra The Engliſh have a factory here. Lat. 1 18. N. lon. 5. 40. E. The country Calicut, or Malleami, is 25 leagues lon and from 14 to 18 broad. It aboun with woods and marſhes, produces peppe ginger, aloes, rice, &c. and the trees a always green. Here is a tree which pr duces a kind of dates, from which they o tain ſugar and oil. In 1792, part of th territory was ceded to the Engliſh Tippoo Sultan.

Calidon, Northumb. in the manor Eland.

CALIFORNIA, a large and fertile peni ſula, of N. America, on the Pacific Ocea reaching nearly from the 23d to the 46 deg. of lat. and from 10 to 40 leagu wide. It is claimed by the Spaniard who have a number of villages here, St Maria, St. Ignatio, St. Iſidoro, &c.

CALKA. See KALKA.

Calke Abbey, near Derby.

Callaghan's Mills, in Clare, Munſte

Callaghene, in Fermanagh, Ulſter.

Callaly Hall, Northumb. 4 miles W. Alnwick.

CALLA

CALLAN, a town of Kilkenny, in Leinſter, 65 miles from Dublin.

Callan, in Kerry, Munſter. Callan Mountain, in Clare, Munſter.

CALLAO, a city, the port of Lima, in Peru, with a large, beautiful, and ſafe harbour. Lat. 12. 9. S.

CALLA SUSUNG, a town, capital of Bouton, in the Indian Ocean. The inhabitants are Malays, but Mahometans Callow, in Tyrone, Ulſter. Callow Hill, in Fermanagh, Ulſter.

CALLOO, a fortreſs of Waes, on the Scheldt, 4 miles W. of Antwerp.

Callow Hill, Staff. near Blith. Callow Land, Herts, near Watford.

CALMAR, a ſea-port of Smaland, in Sweden, exporting planks, alum, hemp, &c. It is 150 miles SW. of Stockholm.

CALMUCS. See KALMUCS.

*CALNE, a town of Wilts, with a manufactory of cloth, ſituated on a river of the ſame name, 12 miles W. of Marlborough, and 88 W. of London. Market on Tueſday.

Calverts, Wilts, near Chippenham. Calver, Derb. SW. of Wirkſworth. Calva, near Hereford. Calſbot Caſtle, Hants, at the entrance of Southampton Bay. Calſtock, Cornw. between Exeter and Truro. Calſton, Wilts, near Market Lavington. Calthorp, Norf. near Erpingham. Calton, Yorkſ. W. Riding, E. of Settle.

Caltragh, in Galway, Connaught.

CALVADOS, a department of France, ſo called from a long ridge of rocks, of the ſame name, on the coaſt of Normandy. It extends from the mouth of the Seine, eaſterly to the river Vire, weſterly, about 50 miles, and 30 miles from N. to S. Caen is the chief town.

Calver, Derb. in the High Peak, Calverley, Yorkſ. near Bradford. Calverley, Chesh. near Minſhull.

Calverſtown, in Kildare, Leinſter.

Calvertborp, Lincolnſ. W. of Sleaford. Calverton, Bucks, 1 mile from Stony Stratford. Calverton, Nott. S. of Sherwood Foreſt.

Calves Iſlands, in Cork, Munſter, 3 iſles between Cape Clear and the Main.

Calvet Houſe, Yorkſ. N. Riding, near Muckar, in Swaledale. Calvert Heath, Staff.

CALVI, a town of Lavora, 5 miles N. of Capua.

CALVI, a ſea-port, diſtrict, and gulf (forming a beautiful harbour) of Corſica, on the NW. coaſt, about 32 miles SW. of Baſtia. Lat 42. 26. N. lon. 9. 16. E.

Cam, Glouc. 1 mile from Durſley; the inhabitants are chiefly clothiers. Cam, a river of Cambridgeſ. and another of Glouc.

CAMANA, a town, juriſdiction, and river of Peru, near the S. Pacific Ocean. It is 70 miles W. of Arequipa.

CAMARAN, an iſland in the Red Sea, about 30 miles long and 20 broad. The inhabitants are moſtly employed in fiſhing for pearls and coral. Lat. 15. 6. N.

CAMARET, a ſea-port in the dept. of Finiſterre, on a bay of the ſame name, about 8 miles S. of Breſt.

Camaron, a river in Radnorſhire, which runs into the Ython near Llanbadon.

Cambas, Pembrokeſ. 3 miles from Haverfordweſt. Camberlow Green, Herts, btween Baldock and Buntingford. Camberton, Heref. between Leominſter and Shropſhire. Camberwell, Surry, 3 miles SSE. of London, in the road to Croydon.

CAMBAY, a city of Guzerat, in Hindooſtan, ſituated on a gulf of the ſame name, which is full of rocks, covered at low water. The country abounds in corn, cattle, ſilk, &c. and cornelian and agate ſtones are found in the rivers. The inhabitants are noted for embroidery, ſome of their quilts having been valued at 40l. a-piece. They trade in ſpices, elephants' teeth, ſilk ſtuffs, cotton, and other merchandiſe, which are brought here from all parts, and ſent to Acheen, Goa, Arabia, Perſia, &c. It is ſubject to the Poonah Mahrattas, and is 57 miles nearly S. of Amedabad, of which it is the port. Lat. 22. 25. N. lon. 72. 10. E.

CAMBODIA, or CAMBOJA, a kingdom of Aſia, S. of Loos, SE. of Siam, and SW. of Cochin China. It's principal river and chief city bear the ſame name. Lat. 13. 10. N. lon. 104. 5. E. See MEGAN.

Camborn, Cornwall, near Redruth.

CAMBRAY, a large city, in the dept. of the North, before the revolution the capital of Cambreſis. It has a conſiderable manufactory of lace, linen, leather, ſoap, and cambrics, which took their name from this city. It contains 10 pariſhes, and about 3000 houſes, and is ſeated on the Scheldt, which divides it into two, 22 miles SE. of Arras, and 102 NE. of Paris.

CAMBRESIS, a ci-devant province of France, in the environs of Cambray. It is now included in the dept. of the North.

CAMBRIA, a Welch ſettlement, lately founded in Somerſet county, Pennſylvania.

*CAMBRIDGE, the county-town of Cambridgeſhire, and ſeat of a celebrated Univerſity, is ſituated on the river Cam, which divides it into two unequal parts. The Univerſity contains 12 colleges and 4 halls. It's buildings are elegant, and it's libraries and cabinets valuable and extenſive. The town-hall and county-hall are the only buildings of note that do not appertain to the univerſity. The ſtreets are narrow, but well paved, and the houſes, above 1200 in number, are old; the market-place is ſpacious, and in it is a handſome ſtone conduit, to which water is conveyed by an aqueduct. It's chief trade is water-carriage from hence to Downham, Lynn, Ely, &c. Cambridge is 80 miles ENE. of Oxford, 17 nearly S. of Ely, and 51 N. by E. of London. Markets every day in the week, Sunday and Monday excepted.

Cambridge, Glouceſ. near Berkeley, on the river Cam.

CAMBRIDGE, a village of Maſſachuſets Bay, in N. America. It has an univerſity, which, with reſpect to it's library, philoſophical apparatus, and profeſſorſhips, is the firſt literary inſtitution in America. It has generally from 120 to 150 ſtudents, and is 4 miles W. of Boſton.

Cambridge Heath, Midd. near Hackney.

CAMBRIDGESHIRE, a county of England, bounded on the W. and SW. by the counties of Bedford, Huntingdon, and Northampton; on the NW. by Lincolnſ. on the NE. by Norfolk, on the E. by Suffolk, and on the S. by Eſſex and Herts. It is 50 miles in length, from N. to S. and 25 broad from E. to W. and contains 17 hundreds, 9 market towns, and 163 pariſhes. The air and ſoil vary; ſome parts, eſpecially the ſouthern and eaſtern, are pleaſant and healthy; but the northern, or fenny country, is low and watery, the waters of the middle part of England, which do not run into the Thames or Trent, falling into theſe fens. See BEDFORD LEVEL.

Cambus, Northumb. near Blythe, Camden Houſe, Midd. W. of Kenſington Palace.

CAMDEN, a town of S. Carolina; and a county of N. Carolina.

CAMDEN, a town of Glouceſterſhire, with a manufacture of ſtockings, 18 miles NE. of Glouceſter, and 87 NW. by W. of London.

Came, near Dorcheſter. Camel, Queen's, Somerſ. between Ilcheſter and Wincanton.

*CAMELFORD, a town of Cornwall, with a market (on Friday) for yarn, of which a great quantity is ſpun in this place and neighbourhood. It is ſeated near the river Camel, or Alan, 20 miles W. of Launceſton, and 229 W. by S. of London.

Camelford, Yorkſ. near Ferrybridge. Camely, Somerſ. near E. Harptree. Cameringham, Line. S. of Saxby.

CAMERINA, a town of Ancona.

Camerton, Somerſ. near Timſborough. Camerton, Yorkſ. in Holderneſs. Camſworth, Dorſ. S. of Beminſter.

CAMINHA, a town of Portugal, ſituate at the mouth of the Minho, in the provinc of Entre Douro e Minho.

Camlet, a river in Shropſ. which run into the Severn below Caerbury. Cammas, Northumb. S. of Wanſpeck river.

CAMMIN, a ſea-port, of Pruſſian Pomerania, ſituated on a part of the Oder, calle the Lake of Boden, 35 miles of N. Stettin Camolin, in Wexford, Leinſter.

CAMPAGNA DI ROMA, a province Italy, the greateſt part of the ancient L tium, extending 44 miles in length, a 33 in breadth. It is ſubject to the pop and was formerly one of the moſt populo and beſt cultivated ſpots on the globe; f villages, however, little cultivation, a ſcarcely any inhabitants are now to be ſee but the ruins of temples, and tombs ſc tered over the waſte, preſent the idea o country depopulated by a peſtilence. T principal places are Rome, Velletri, Fr cati, Paleſtrina, Terracina, Nettuno, a Oſtia.

CAMPANA, a town of Abruzzo Ulte a town of Calabria Citra; and a town Seville.

CAMPANIA, (the ancient) was accou ed the moſt fruitful and pleaſant coun in Italy, now Terra di Lavora, in Nap

CAMPBELTON, a large and increaſ town of Argyleſhire, ſituated on a bay the ſame name, towards the ſouthern ext mity of the peninſula of Cantyre. It a conſiderable trade, being the general r dezvous of the fiſhing veſſels that annu ly viſit the W. coaſt. The bay is be tiful, capacious, and ſafe, being 2 m in length, half a mile in width, and hav from 5 to 9 fathom water, with a ſtiff c bottom: it is alſo land-locked on ev ſide, and ſcreened at the entrance b lofty ſmall iſland, which breaks the v lence of the winds and the force of waves. Lat. 55. 29. N. lon. 5. 42. W

CAMPEACHY, a town of Mexico, the peninſula of Yucatan, on the E. c of the Bay of Campeachy. It was merly the chief mart for logwood. L 19. 30. N. lon. 91. 24. W.

CAMPEN, a town of Overyſſel, ſitua on the E. ſide of the Zuyder Zee, 44 m NE. of Amſterdam.

CAMPOLI, a town of Abruzzo Ulte

CAMPO MAJOR, a town of Alente

CAMPREDON, a town of Catalonia

Campſhill, Yorkſ. 4 miles SE. of Pon fract. Camp's Caſtle, and Shady, 15 m from Cambridge, bordering on Eſſex.

Campſey Hills, Stirlingſhire.

Camp

Canſton, Bedf. near Wreſt. Cams, Hants, SE. of Fareham. Camſwick, Weſtmor. near Kendal. Cam, Upper, Glouc. S. of Cambridge. Can, a river in Eſſex. Can, Dorſ. SE. of Shaftſbury.

CANADA, a country of N. America, N. of the United States, extending about 700 miles in length, from NE. to SW. and about 120 in breadth. It is ſubject to Great Britain, and the religious eſtabliſhment is that of the church of Rome. By an act of parliament, in 1791, the country was divided into Upper Canada, of which Montreal is the capital; and Lower Canada, of which Quebec is the chief city; and a conſtitution, partly reſembling that of England, was given to each of theſe provinces. The winter here for 6 months is very ſevere: the cleared lands are very fertile, and the vegetables various, and corn ripens in two months time, vegetation being always wonderfully accelerated where the ſeaſon is ſhort. Furs and ſkins are obtained here in great quantities, (the Canadian merchants having, of late years, interfered greatly, even with the Hudſon's Bay Company, exploring numerous nations inland, and ſending many large canoes into the interior country). The rivers, lakes, and bays are numerous, large, and deep, and well ſupplied with fiſh. Here are ſeveral ancient and extenſive forests, and the tribes of Indians are numerous.

CANAL, THE DUKE OF BRIDGEWATER'S, a ſtupendous work, begun in 1758, at Worſley Mill, 7 miles from Mancheſter, where, at the foot of a mountain, compoſed in a great meaſure of coal, a baſin is cut, capable of containing all the boats and a great body of water, which ſerves as a reſervoir to the navigation. The canal runs through a hill, by a ſubterranean paſſage, nearly three quarters of a mile to the duke's coal works. In ſome places it is cut through the ſolid rock; in others arched over with brick. Air-funnels, ſome of which are 37 yards perpendicular, are cut at certain diſtances through the rock to the top of the hill. At Barton Bridge, 3 miles from the baſin, is an aqueduct, which, for upwards of 200 yards, conveys the canal acroſs a valley, and alſo more than 40 feet above the navigable river Irwell. There are 3 arches over this river; the centre one is 63 feet wide, and 38 high, admitting the largeſt barges to paſs underneath with their maſts and ſails ſtanding. At Longford Bridge, the canal turns to the right, and croſſing the river Merſey, paſſes near Altringham, Dunham, Grapenhall, and Kaulton, into the tide-way of the Merſey, at Runcorn Gap, whence the barges can paſs into Liverpool at low water. This navigation is 29 miles in length; it falls 395 feet, and was finiſhed in 5 years, under the direction of that excellent engineer, M. Brindley. Coals, which, before this canal was finiſhed, were retailed in Mancheſter, at 7d per hundred weight, are now ſold (ſeven ſcore to the hundred weight) at 3½d

CANAL, THE GRAND TRUNK, or STAFFORDSHIRE CANAL, was begun in 1766, under the direction of Mr. Brindley, in order to form a communication between the Merſey and the Trent, and of courſe between the Iriſh Channel and the German Ocean. It is 92 miles in length, from the Duke of Bridgewater's canal, at Preſton on the Hill, in Cheſh. to Weldon Ferry, in Derbyſhire, where it communicates with the Trent. It is carried over the river Dove in an aqueduct of 23 arches, and the ground is raiſed for more than a mile to a conſiderable height; it is alſo carried over the Trent by an aqueduct of 6 arches: at Harecaſtle Hill, it is conveyed under ground a mile and a half; at Barton, in Cheſhire, a ſubterraneous paſſage is effected of 560 yards in extent, and in the ſame neighbourhood another of 350: and, at Preſton on the Hill, where it joins the duke's canal, it paſſes under ground 1241 yards. From the neighbourhood of Stafford, a branch is made from this canal, to near Wolverhampton, and to join the Severn near Kidderminſter: from this again two other branches are carried, one to Birmingham, and the other to Worceſter. Since the eſtabliſhment of theſe canals, many other extenſive ones have been projected and executed, in moſt of the inland, and ſome of the maritime counties.

CANAL, THE GRAND, in Ireland, commences in Dublin, at the weſt end of the town, and is intended to be carried to the river Shannon. It already communicates with the Barrow, whereby a communication is opened between the metropolis and Athy, Carlow, Roſs, Waterford, Clonmel, &c. There are paſſage-boats daily from the city to Sallans, Monaſtereven, and Athy, and from theſe places to Dublin; and veſſels carrying goods are continually paſſing and repaſſing. The execution of this work was an arduous buſineſs; beſide having to cut through hard and rocky ſtrata, and conſtruct aqueducts over the valleys and rivers, they had to carry it through a long track of turf-bog, which, for a conſiderable time, baffled their efforts, as, from it's fluid-like conſiſtence, it was preſſed into, or filled up, the cut or channel, whenever they ceaſed digging. Theſe difficulties, however, were ſurmounted, and the canal itſelf has proved ſuch a drain to the bog, as to enable the people to reclaim a great extent of it, and bring it under cultivation. By a branch, which has been carried, at an immenſe expence, by a circuitous courſe round the S. ſide of the city, the Grand Canal now communicates with the harbour of Dublin. There are other canals and modes of inland navigation by the rivers and lakes, both in the N. and W. of Ireland. The Royal Canal, on the N. ſide of Dublin, is not yet completed.

CANAL, THE GREAT, in Scotland, forms the long-wiſhed for junction between the Forth and the Clyde. This bold deſign, conceived above a century ago, is now ſucceſsfully executed upon a ſcale far above the uſual dimenſions of the largeſt canals in England, and admits of veſſels conſtructed for foreign trade, provided the breadth of the beam be ſomewhat leſs than 20 feet, and their draught of water a little under 8. The extreme length of this canal, from the Forth to the Clyde, is 35½ Engliſh miles. In the ſpace of 30 miles it is carried over 36 rivers and rivulets, beſides two great roads, by means of 38 aqueduct bridges. In the courſe of this inland navigation, which may be performed in leſs than 18 hours, many ſtriking ſcenes preſent themſelves to view. But above all others, the ſtupendous aqueduct bridge, over the Kelvin, near Glaſgow, 400 feet in length, carrying a great artificial river over a natural one in a deep valley, where large veſſels ſail along at the height of 70 feet above the bed of the river below, is one of the features of this ſtupendous work, which gives it a pre-eminence over any of a ſimilar nature in Europe. Yet, however ſingular and ſtriking this may appear, with reſpect to picturesque beauty, the utility of this communication between the Eaſtern and Weſtern Sea to navigation and commerce, is a more important conſideration, as it ſhortens the nautical diſtance 800, and, in ſome caſes, 1000 miles, and affords a ſafe and ſpeedy navigation, particularly at the end of the ſeaſon, to veſſels bound to Ireland, or the weſtern ports of Great Britain, that are too long detained in the Baltic, and that cannot attempt the voyage round by the N. Sea, without danger of ſhipwreck, or the market being loſt from delay.

CANAL, ci-devant Royal, or of LANGUEDOC, was begun in 1666, in order to effect an inland communication between the Atlantic and Mediterranean, and finiſhed in 1682. It is carried over 37 aqueducts, and croſſed by 8 bridges. From the port of Cette, in the Mediterranean, it croſſes the Lake of Thau, and below Thouloufe is conveyed by 3 ſluices into the Garonne. The reſervoirs of water, collected from the hills for the ſupply of this navigation, are immenſe. From one of theſe the water is conveyed by 3 large braſs cocks, with mouths as large as a man's body, yet though theſe remain open ſix months ſucceſſively, there is no viſible diminution of water in the great reſervoir. Between Beziores and Gapeſtan, is the Mal Pas, where the canal is conveyed for the length of 720 feet, under a mountain cut into a lofty arcade, lined with freeſtone except where it is a rock. At Adge there is a curious, round ſluice, lock, or chamber, with three openings, three different depths of the water or levels meeting here; and the gates are ſo contrived, that veſſels may paſs into any one of them by opening the ſluice belonging to it. There are 15 locks upon it in the fall towards the ocean, and 45 on the ſide of the Mediterranean. Regular locks for carrying boats over eminences were firſt erected in France.

Canalegie, Cornwall, S. of Padſtow.

CANANORE, a large ſea port, on the coaſt of Malabar, ceded to the Engliſh by Tippoo Sultan, in 1792. Lat. 12. 0. N. lon. 75. 14. E.

CANARA, a country of Myſore, on the coaſt of Malabar, ſubject to Tippoo Sultan. The principal places are Mangalore, Barcelore, Onore, and Carwar.

CANARY ISLANDS, in the Atlantic Ocean, near the continent of Africa, are 7 in number, namely, Grand Canary, the chief, 42 miles long and 27 broad; it's capital, Canary, is a well-built town; Palma, Ferro, Gomera, Teneriff, Fuertaventura and Lancerota; to which, however, may be added, ſeveral ſmaller iſles, as Graciſa, Roccas, Allegranza, St. Clare, Infierno and Lobos. They are ſubject to the Spaniards, and produce wheat, ſugar-cane, wine, and excellent fruits, and it is here that the Canary birds originally came. Lat. from 27. 30. to 29. 30. N. lon. from 12. 0. to 17. 50. W.

CANCALLE, a bay and ſea-port, on the coaſt of France, 10 miles E. of St. Malo.

CANDAHAR, a kingdom of Aſia, between Perſia, and the river Indus. The dominions of the Sultan of this country extend weſtward to the neighbourhood of the city of Terſhiſh, including, beſides Candahar Proper, Cabûl, Ghozii, part of Segeſtan, and part of Koraſan; a tract ten-tending 650 miles in length, it's breadth unknown; on the E. ſide of the Indus he poſſeſſes the territory of Caſhmere, and ſome ſmall diſtricts above the city of Attock. Theſe countries are all called by the general name of the country of the Abdallis. It's capital is Candahar, a rich, trading town, ſituated on the river Hermand, in the road from Iſpahan to Delhi, 145 miles SW. of Cabul. Lat. 33. 0. N. lon. 65. 30. E.

Candal Biſhop's, Candal Marſh, Candal Purſe, Candal Sturton, and Candal Water, Dorſetſhire.

CANDEISH, a rich and populous province in Hindooſtan, ſubject to the Poonah Mahrattas. It is bounded on the N. by Malwa; on the W. by Guzerat; on the E. by Berar; and on the S. by Dowlatabad.

Candertun, Worc. near Strenſham.

CANDIA, an iſland, in the Mediterranean, formerly Crete, S. of the Archipelago, about 150 miles in length, and from 15 to 45 in breadth. It produces corn, wine, oil, wool, ſilk, and excellent honey, and is chiefly inhabited by Greeks. Mount Ida, in the middle of the iſland, is a huge, barren, ſharp-pointed eminence. It's capital, Candia, though formerly populous, is now in a manner deſerted, their being little but rubbiſh, except at the bazar, or market-place, and the harbour being only fit for boats. It is 500 miles from Conſtantinople. Lat. 35. 10. N. lon. 25. 23. E.

Candle Biſhop's; ſee Candal Biſhop's.

Candlejoy, Linc. NE. of Spilſby. Candleſby, Linc. near Candleſby.

CANDY, a kingdom of Ceylon, containing about a quarter of the iſland. It is mountainous, and abounds with rivulets, which the inhabitants are dexterous in turning to water their land, which is fruitful in rice, pulſe, and hemp. The king is abſolute, and his ſubjects are idolatrous. It's capital is of the ſame name, but is not the reſidence of the king. Lat. 7. 45. N. lon. 80. 52. E.

CANEA, a town on the NW. coaſt of Candia, with a good harbour, 60 miles W. of Candia.

CANE, GROTTO DEL. See GROTTO DEL CANE.

Caneſby, Linc. near W. Haulton.

CANETO, a town of Mantua, ſituated on the Oglio.

Canewdon, Eſſex, near Walfleet. Cane Wood, Midd. near Hampſtead. Canfield, Magna and Parva, Eſſex, near Dunmow. Canford Lawnds and Parva, Dorſetſ. near the Stour, eaſtward of Winborn Minſter.

CANGERECORA, a large river, of the peninſula of Hindooſtan, deſcending from the Gaut Mountains, and flowing SW. to the coaſt of Malabar.

Canham, Suffolk, near Edmunſbury.

CANINA, a diſtrict and it's capital, in the N. part of Turkiſh Albania.

CANIADERAGO, LAKE, in the ſtate of New York, W. of Lake Otſego: it is about 9 miles long, but narrow. Lat. 42. 43. N. lon. 75. W.

Cank, or Cannock, Staff. near Penkridge.

Canley, Warw. a hamlet of Stoneley.

CANNAY, one of the Weſtern Iſles of Scotland, SW. of the Iſle of Skye. In this iſland are vaſt ranges of baſaltic columns, riſing one above another, from the ſea, and forming a cauſeway of ſurpriſing extent, the ſurface of which is ſmooth and regular, like a paved ſtreet.

CANNÆ, in ancient geography, a town of Apulia, rendered famous by a terrible overthrow, which the Romans received from the Carthaginians, under Hannibal. The ſcene of action is, to this day, marked by the name of Pezzo di Sangue, the Field of Blood. The modern name of Cannæ, if this place exiſts at all, and is not entirely abandoned, is CANNE, ſituated in the country of Bari. Many writers have miſtaken it for Canuſium, now Canoſa.

Cannel, or Catnel, Suff. E. of Needwood Foreſt. Cannington, Somerſ. 2 miles from Bridgewater. Cannings, Biſhop's, Wilts, near Devizes. Cannonby, Cumb. part of Croſsby. Cannon Frome, near Hereford. Cannons, Midd. near Edgeware. Cannon's Leigh, Devonſ. between Tiverton and Wellington. Cannons, Little, Herts, in the pariſh of Shenley. Cannons, Eſſex, near Nettleſwell. Cannons, Surry, in the pariſh of Banſtead.

CANOBIO, a town of Milan, ſituated on the W. ſide of Lake Maggiore, 30 miles W. of Como.

CANOGE, a town in the country of Oude, ſituated on the W. bank of the Ganges, near it's confluence with the Calini. It is 50 miles W. of Lucknow.

CANOSA, anciently CANUSIUM, a town of Bari, Naples, 31 miles W. of Bari.

CANSO, a cape, iſland, and ſea-port town, near the NE. coaſt of Nova Scotia, on a ſtrait, which ſeparates it from Cape Breton. Lat. 45. 20. N. lon. 60. 55. W.

CANSTADT, a town of Wirtemburg, ſituated on the Neckar, 3 miles NE. of Stutgard.

CANTAL, a department of France, ſo called from a high mountain, in it's centre, 14 miles from St. Flour, and 16 from Aurillac. Before the revolution, it was part of Auvergne. The chief town is St. Flour

CANTAZARO, a town of Calabria Ultra.

*CANTERBURY, an ancient city of Kent, the see of an archbishop, primate of all England. The silk manufactures, first introduced by the French refugees, are still carried on here, though on the decline; the principal manufactures are worsted and Canterbury muslins, made of silk and cotton. It is also noted for it's fine brawn, and the adjacent country produces abundance of hops. It is situated on the river Stour, 26 miles SE. by E. of Rochester, and 56 from London. Markets on Wednesday and Saturday.

Canterwood, Kent, in Eltham parish. Canterton, Hants, in the New Forest.

CANTIN, CAPE, on the W. coast of Morocco, in lat. 32. 30. N.

Cantley, 8 miles E. of Norwich. Cantley, Yorks. S. of Doncaster.

CANTON or, QUANG-TCHEOU, a large, populous, and wealthy city of China, seated on one of the finest rivers in the empire. It is the capital of the province of Quantong, and the centre of the European trade in that country. It consists of three towns, divided by high walls. Temples, magnificent palaces, and courts are numerous. The streets are long and straight, paved with flag stones, and adorned with lofty arches. The houses are remarkably neat, but consist of only one story, and they have no windows to the street. The covered market-places are full of shops. They have manufactures of their own, especially of silk-stuffs. The number of inhabitants is computed at 1,000,000, many of whom reside in barks, which form a kind of floating city; they touch one another, and are so ranged as to form streets. Each bark lodges a family and their grand children, who have no other dwelling. At break of day, all the people who inhabit them, depart to fish, or to cultivate their rice. Lat. 23. 8. N. lon. 113. E.

Cantrebychan, E. of Carmarthen. Cantremew, N. of Carmarthen.

CANTYRE, a peninsula of Argyleshire, 50 miles long from N. to S. and from 5 to 8 broad. Across the isthmus which joins it on the N. to the mountainous district of Knapdale, and which is scarcely a mile broad, it has been usual to draw boats and small vessels, in order to avoid the dangerous navigation round the headland, amid shoals and currents. A canal might easily be cut across it. To the S. the peninsula terminates in a great promontory, surrounded by a group of dangerous rocks, called the Mull of Cantyre. The soil in general is fertile, particularly in the S. parts.

CANVEY, ISLE, Essex, about 5 mil in length, from Hole Haven to Leigh, often overflowed by the Thames, (whic is here 2 miles over) except the hilly par to which the sheep, that are fed here great numbers, at such times retire.

Canwell, Staff. 3 miles SW. of Tan worth. Canwick, near Lincoln. C nyeke, Cornw. at the NW. point of t Land's End.

CAORLA, a town and island, of Friul Venice.

CAPACCIO, a town in Principato Citr

CAPE BRETON. See BRETON, CAP and other Capes, in like manner, see und their respective names, CLEAR, CAP GOOD HOPE, CAPE OF, &c.

Capel, Kent, SE. of Tunbridge. C pel, Kent, between Folkeston and Dov Capel, Suff. near Orford. Capel, Yor N. of Howden. Capella, St. Spirituo Isle of Wight, in W. Medina. Capell Hill, Heref. near Brockhampton.

CAPELLE, a town in the dept. of Ais 8 miles NE. of Guise; a town in the de of the Lot; and a town in the dept. of t Straits of Calais.

Caple's Court, Kent, near Ivy Chur in Romney Marsh.

CAPESTAN, a town in the dept. of H rault, 9 miles N. of Narbonne.

Capesthorn, Chesh. 3 miles SW. Macclesfield. Capheaton, Northumbe 12 miles from Newcastle.

CAPITANATA, a province of Napl bounded on the S. by the countries of B and Basilicata, by Moliso, on the W. a the Adriatic on the N. and E. It i level country, without trees, a sandy s and hot air; but the land near the riv is fertile in pastures. The principal tow are Manfredonia, Troja, Mount St. A gelo, Foggia, and Vulturara.

CAPO FINO, a large, barren rock, wi a castle on it's eastern peak, and a harbo of Genoa. Lat. 44. 19. N.

CAPO D'ISTRIA, a considerable to on the gulf of Trieste, lately subject to V nice.

Cappa, in Waterford, Munster. Ca paghtaggel in Galway, Connaught. Ca pah, in Tipperary, Munster.

Cappel Canon, and Cappel St. Sil Cardiganshire.

Cappernane, in Mayo, Connaug Cappequin, or Caperqueen, in Waterfo Munster, 97 miles from Dublin.

CAPRAJA, a mountainous island, N of Corsica, about 5 leagues in circumf ence. It is surrounded with rocks, exce in one part, where there is a good ha bour, the town of Capraja.

CAPR

CAPRI, anciently CAPREA, a town and island, 5 miles in length and 2 in breadth, in the bay of Naples, where the Emperor Tiberius occaſionally reſided, indulging himſelf in debaucheries, and iſſuing his bloody orders of execution. It is mountainous but fertile, with great plenty of quails and other game.

CAPUA, a large city of Lavora, Naples, built in the 9th century, near the ruins of the ancient Capua. It is 15 miles N. of Naples.

Car, Lancaſ. near Preſcot. Car, a river in Dorſetſ.

CARACCAS, or ST. JUAN DE LEÓN, a town and diſtrict of Terra Firma, bounded by the provinces of Venezuela on the W. Cumana on the E. and the Caribbean Sea on the N. Lat. 10. 3. N. lon. 65. 10. W.

CARAMANIA, a province of Natolia, which comprehends the ancient Pamphylia, and a great part of Cilicia, Piſidia, and Cappadocia. It is now divided into 7 ſangiacats, of which Cogni is the principal.

CARAMANTA, a province of Terra Firma, lying on both ſides the river Cauca. It is a valley, ſurrounded by high mountains, in which are rivulets, whence the natives get good ſalt. It's capital is Caramanta. Lat. 5. 18. N. lon. 75. 15. W.

Caran, a river in Glouceſ. Carantock, Cornw. near Padſtow.

CARAVACCA, ST. CRUZ DE, a town of Murcia.

Carberton, Nott. in the pariſh of Edenham. Carbridge, Oxf. SW. of Witney. Carbrake, Norf. near Watton.

Carbury, in Cork, Munſter.

Carcalton, or Colſton, Nott. on the N. ſide of Bingham.

CARCASSONE, a town of France, in the dept. of Aude, divided into the Upper and Lower Towns, by the Aude, over which there is a handſome ſtone bridge. The Upper Town, or the city, is very ancient; the Lower is modern, in the form of a long ſquare, regularly built, and provided with an aqueduct which brings the water of the river to different fountains. Here are manufactures of fine and other cloths. It is 15 miles W. of Narbonne, and 400 S. of Paris.

Cardew, Cornw. 2 miles from Pentryn. Carden, Cheſh. NW. of Malpas. Carden Hall, Cumb. S. of Carliſle.

*CARDIFF, a compact and well-built town of Glamorganſhire, with very extenſive and conſiderable old walls, and a harbour 3 miles down the river; but veſſels of 200 tons burden can come up to the town. This town has a conſiderable trade with Briſtol and other places; and near it are works of caſt and wrought iron. A canal, 25 miles in length, has been lately completed, from Cardiff to the iron-works at Merthyr Tidvil. Cardiff is the county-town of Glamorganſhire, ſeated on the river Taff, or Tave, 3 miles from the Severn, 12 E. of Cowbridge, and 164 W. of London. Markets on Wedneſday and Saturday.

*CARDIGAN, the county-town of Cardiganſhire, is large, populous, and pleaſantly ſituated on the river Tivy, over which there is a handſome bridge. In it's neighbourhood are iron and tin works, eſtabliſhed about the year 1768. It is 33 miles NE. by E. of St. David's, and 225 WNW. of London. Market on Saturday.

CARDIGANSHIRE, a county of South Wales, is bounded on the W. by Cardigan Bay, in the Iriſh Channel; on the N. and NE. by Merionethſhire and Montgomeryſhire; on the E. and SE. by Radnorſhire and Brecknockſhire; and on the S. by Carmarthenſhire. It extends 42 miles in length, and 20 in breadth, and is divided into 5 hundreds, which contain 6 market towns, and 64 pariſhes. The air is milder here than in moſt parts of Wales. To the S. and W. are plains fruitful in corn; but the N. and E. parts are a continued ridge of bleak mountains, yet there are paſtures well ſtocked with ſheep and cattle. Here is alſo plenty of tame and wild fowl, and it is well ſupplied with fiſh from the ſea, and from it's own lakes and rivers, near which there is a great number of otters. The mountains abound with lead and ſilver ore, mines of which have ſeveral times been worked to advantage. The principal rivers are the Tivy, Rydal, and the Iſtwith. Cardigan Bay lies on the coaſt.

Cardingham, Cornw. NE. of Bodmin. Cardington, SE. of Bedford. Cardington, Shropſ. between Biſhop's Caſtle and Wenlock. Cardiſſon, Norf. near Repeham. Cardock Hill, Shropſ. near Cardington.

CARDONA, a town of Catalonia, ſeated on an eminence near the river Cardonero, 40 miles NNW. of Barcelona. A mountain in the neighbourhood yields immenſe quantities of a ſalt, of various colours.

Cardunack, Cumb. in the pariſh of Boulneſs. Careby, Linc. 8 miles N. of Stamford. Carehouſe, Northumb. between Hexham and Bellingham.

CARELIA, the SE. part of Finland, now moſtly included in the government of Wiburg, and ſubject to Ruſſia.

CARENTAN, a town in the dept. of the Channel, with a harbour for ſmall veſſels. It is 6 miles S. of Cherburg.

Careſwell, Staff. W. of Cheadle. Carreſley, Warw. N. of Coventry. Cary Lites, Somerſ. E. of Somerton.

Carey's Fort; 7 miles SW. of Wicklow.

Cargillen, Cornw. between Dulo and Morual. Cargeron, Cornw. 2 miles NE. of Saltaſh. Carhampton, Somerſ. near Dunſter.

CARIATI, NUOVA, and VECCHIA, 2 towns of Calabria Citra.

CARIBBEE ISLANDS. See INDIES, WEST.

Carigaline, in Leitrim, Connaught. Carigaline, in Cork, Munſter.

CARIGNAN, a town in the dept. of the Ardennes, ſituated on the Chiers, 9 miles ESE. of Sedan.

CARIGNANO, a town and principality of Savigliano, in Piedmont, ſeated on the Po, 8 miles S. of Turin.

Carigtowhill, in Cork, Munſter.

CARIMON JAVA, three or four iſlands, N. of Java, where European ſhips touch for refreſhments in their voyage to Borneo. Lat. 5. 56. S. lon. 109. 15. E.

Carincham, Cheſh. 3 miles NW. of Congleton. Carington, Cheſh. in the pariſh of Bowden.

CARINOLA, a town of Lavora, Naples, 13 miles NE. of Capua.

CARINTHIA, divided into UPPER and LOWER, a duchy in the circle of Auſtria, bounded on the N. and E. by Stiria and Saltzburg, and on the W. by the Tyroleſe; mountainous and woody, with a great number of lakes, yet abounding in corn.

Cariſbrook Caſtle, Iſle of Wight, a little S. of Newport. King Charles I. was impriſoned here 13 months.

CARISTO, or CASTEL ROSSO, a town in Negropont, ſituated at it's ſouthern extremity.

Carlanſtown, in Meath, Leinſter, nearly 33 miles from Dublin.

Carlbury, Durh. near Darlington. Carlby, Linc. N. of Stamford. Carleton, Eaſt Carleton, or Carleton Rode, Norf. NE. of Buckenham. Carleton, or Carleton in Linderick, Nott. 4 miles SW. of Blith.

*CARLINGFORD, a ſea-port town, in Louth, Leinſter, chiefly noted for it's fine oyſters. The harbour is between 3 and 4 miles long, and as many broad, and the largeſt veſſels may anchor here in 20 fathom water. It is 52 miles nearly N. of Dublin.

Carlingthwaite Hall, Derbyſ. NE. of Alfreton.

*CARLISLE, an ancient city, the capital of Cumberland, containing between 8 and 9000 inhabitants. It is pleaſantly ſituated on a riſing ground, in a fertile country, near the confluence of 3 fine rivers the Eden, the Peterell, and the Canda, Caude, all abounding with fiſh, and by which it is nearly ſurrounded. It has long been noted for making whips and fiſh hooks; and conſiderable quantities of printed linens, checks, cottons, fuſtians, hats, tanned leather, nails, coarſe knives, ſtockings, &c. are manufactured here. It is 60 miles S. of Edinburgh, and 30 NNW. of London. Markets on Wednesday and Saturday.

CARLISLE, the county-town of Cumberland, in Pennſylvania. It contains about 1600 inhabitants, and 300 ſtone houſes, beſides 3 churches, a college, and a court houſe. It is 93 miles W. by N. of Philadelphia.

Carlogus Point, Cornw. Land's End.

CARLOW, or CATHERLOUGH, a county of Ireland, in Leinſter, 28 miles in length, and 18 at it's greateſt breadth. It is bounded on the W. by Queen's County, on the N. and NE. by Kildare and Wicklow; on the E. by Wicklow and Wexford; and on the S. SE. and SW. by Wexford and Kilkenny. In contains 5 pariſhes, about 8763 houſes, and 44,000 inhabitants. It's chief town is CARLOW, a neat town, ſeated on the E. ſide of the river Barrow, by which it communicates with Waterford river and the Grand Canal, 16 miles NE. of Kilkenny.

CARLOWITZ, a town of Sclavonia, ſeated on the Danube, 37 miles NW. of Belgrade.

CARLSCRONA, or CARLSCROON, a town of Blekinge, in S. Gothland, with a harbour, large and commodious, but of difficult entrance, on account of the ſhoals and rocky ſands at it's mouth. The town moſtly ſtands upon a ſmall, rocky iſland which riſes gently in a bay of the Baltic; the ſuburbs extend over another ſmall rock and along the mole, cloſe to the baſon where the fleet is moored. The way into the town from the main land, is carried over a dyke to an iſland, and thence along 2 long wooden bridges, joined by a rock. The town is ſpacious, and contains about 18,000 inhabitants; ſome of the buildings are brick, but generally they are of wood. Here is a dock hollowed out of the ſolid rock, capable of receiving the largeſt veſſels, and a covered one, whoſe bottom and ſides are of hewn granite; rows of granite pillars ſupport the roof, and bear rather the appearance of a colonade to a temple than of a receptacle for ſhips. In 1680, the town was founded; in 1724 the forme dock

dock; and in 1779 the latter was completed. According to the original plan, 3 basins and 30 docks, communicating by ſluices, were intended, but a century will probably elapſe before they can be completed. Carlſcrona is 220 miles nearly S. of Stockholm. Lat. 56. 20. N. lon. 15. 25. E.

CARLSTADT, a fortreſs of Croatia; and a town of Wurtzburg, Franconia.

CARLSTADT, a town of Vermeland, in Sweden, on the iſland of Tingwalla, which is formed by two branches of the Clara Elbe. The houſes are built of wood; and painted. The town contains 1500 inhabitants, who have manufactures of linen and woollen, copper and iron, and trade with theſe, and with timber, acroſs the lake Wenner. It is 133 miles W. of Stockholm. Lat. 58. 16. N.

Carlton, Bedf. NE. of Oulney. Carlton, Yorkſ. W. Riding, near Drax and Snaith. Carlton, Camb. 6 miles N. of Hardwick. Carlton, Cumb. near Carliſle. Carlton, Cumb. NW. of Ravenglaſs. Carlton, Cornw. near Penzance. Carlton, Cumb. NE. of Penrith. Carlton, Durh. NW. of Stockton. Carlton, Lancaſ. in Amounderneſs. Carlton, Leiceſ. N. of Boſworth. Carlton, 3 miles SE. of Norwich. Carlton, Northamp. W. of Rockingham Foreſt. Carlton, Suff. 5 miles E. of Beccles, called Carlton Colvile. Carlton, Suff. near Brinkley. Carlton, Yorkſ. in Holderneſs. Carlton, Yorkſ. N. Riding, near Helmſley. Carlton, Yorkſ. N. Riding, E. of Biſhopſdale Carlton, Yorkſ. N. Riding, near Wharlton Caſtle. Carlton, Yorkſ. near Thirſk. Carlton, Yorkſ. W. Riding, near Rothwell. Carlton, Yorkſ. W. Riding, S. of Skipton. Carlton Caſtle, Linc. E. of Louth. Carlton, E. and W. Yorkſ. W. Riding, in Craven. Carlton in Moreland, Linc. bordering on Nottinghamſhire. Carlton, Magna and Parva, Linc. E. of Louth. Carltons, N. and S. Linc. NW. of the city of Lincoln. Carlton, N. and S. Northumb. 6 or 7 miles from Alnwick. Carlton, St. Mary's and St. Peter's, Norf. NE. of Windham. Carlton Scroop, Linc. 5 miles from Grantham. Carlton Curlew, Leiceſ. W. of Hallaton. Carlton Parva, or S. Carlton, Notting. a hamlet of Muſcomb. Carlton upon Trent, Notting. between Newark and Tuxford.

CARMAGNOLA, a ſtrong town, in Saluzzo, Piedmont, 11 miles SSE. of Turin.

CARMARTHENSHIRE, a county of S. Wales, 35 miles in length, and 26 at it's greateſt breadth, is bounded on the W. by Pembrokeſhire; on the N. and NE. by Cardiganſhire and Brecknockſhire; on the E. and SE. by Brecknockſhire and Glamorganſhire; and on the S. by Briſtol Channel. It contains 6 market towns and 87 pariſhes. It is fruitful in corn, graſs, wood, coal, and ſea-fiſh, eſpecially ſalmon. The air is mild, it not being extremely mountainous. It's chief town is *CARMARTHEN, a well-built, populous town, in former times the reſidence of the princes of S. Wales, and now uſually reckoned the politeſt place in the principality. It is pleaſantly ſituated, in a fertile country, on the river Towy (near it's conflux with the Gwilly) over which it has a narrow ſtone bridge (but lately widened) of 7 arches, with a very commodious quay, to which veſſels of 200 tons burden may come up; 24 miles SE. of Cardigan, and 215 W. by N. of London. Markets on Wedneſday and Saturday. Fairs on June 3, July 10, Auguſt 12, Sept. 9, Oct. 9, and Nov. 14.

CARMEL, a mountain in Paleſtine, ſtanding on the ſkirts of the ſea, and forming the moſt remarkable head land on all that coaſt. It extends from near St. Jean d'Acre on the S. a conſiderable way inland to the E.

Carmino, Cornw. S. of Helſton.

CARMONA, a town of Friuli, in Italy.

CARMONA, a town of Andaluſia, 33 miles NE. of Seville.

Carmony, in Antrim, Ulſter.

Carnaby, Yorkſ. near Bridlington Bay.

CARNARVONSHIRE, a county of North Wales, about 40 miles in length, and 20 in breadth, is bounded on the W. and N. by the ſea, and the Iſle of Angleſea, on the E. and SE. by Denbighſhire and Merionethſhire, and on the S. by Merionethſhire and the ſea. It contains 7 hundreds, 68 pariſhes, 5 market towns, and 1 city. The air is cold; this country being the moſt mountainous diſtrict of N. Wales. It's central part is entirely occupied by the lofty Snowden, and the ſeveral craggy ſummits, deep dells, moors, chaſms, and lakes, which conſtitute it's dreary region. Cattle, goats, and ſheep, are it's rural riches. Foxes are the chief wild animals. Several copper mines have been worked in various parts, and there are ſome of theſe at preſent about Llanberris. Other places afford lead; and ſlates, with quantities of ſtone, excellent for hones, are dug near Snowden.

*CARNARVON, is a well-built, populous town, of Carnarvonſhire, with a celebrated caſtle, in a ſmall, dark room of which, not 12 feet long nor 8 broad, Edward II. was born: it is ſurrounded on all ſides, except the E. by the ſea and 2 rivers, one one of which is the Menay. The harbour is tolerably good, with 9 feet at low water. Carnarvon has no manufactures, but carries on a conſiderable trade with Ireland, Liverpool, Briſtol, and London. It is 7 miles SW. of Bangor, and 251 NW. of London. Market on Saturday.

CARNATIC, THE, a rich, populous, and fertile country of Hindooſtan, extending from the Guntoor Circar, along the whole coaſt of Coromandel to Cape Comorin; including it's appendages, which are Tanjore, Maravar, Trinchinopoly, Madura, and Tinevelly. It is 570 miles in length from N. to S. and from 120 to 75 miles wide. The revenue of the ſovereign, or nabob of Arcot, is about 1,500,000l. per ann. out of which the E. India Company receive a ſubſidy of 160,000l. toward the expence of their military eſtabliſhment. The Britiſh poſſeſſions in the Carnatic are confined chiefly to the tract called the Jaghire, which extends 108 miles along the coaſt, and 47 inland in the wideſt part; it's revenue is 150,000l. There is, beſides, a land revenue of 725,000l. dependent on Madras.

Carndonagh, in Donegal, Ulſter. Carnew, in Wicklow, Leinſter, 44 miles from Dublin.

CARNIA. See ACARNANIA.

CARNIOLA, a province, in the circle of Auſtria, bounded on the N. by Stiria and Carinthia, and on the S. by Iſtria and the Adriatic. It is rocky and mountainous, and produces corn, wine, and oil. The principal towns are Laubach, Gurkfield, or Kerſks, and Gottſchee. It is ſubject to the houſe of Auſtria.

Carno, a river in Montgomeryſ. Carnon, Cornw. NW. of Columb. Carnonbigh, Cornw. between St. Ives Bay and the Land's End.

Carnteel, in Tyrone, Ulſter.

CAROLINA, is divided into N. and S. comprehending two of the United States of N. America. It is bounded on the W. by Louſiana; on the N. by Virginia; on the E. by the ocean; and on the S. by Georgia. It lies between 32½ and 36½ degrees N. lat. and produces rice, tobacco, Indian wheat, tar, pitch, wax, beeves, hogs, hides, tallow, cotton, indigo, &c. The birds, beaſts, and fiſh, are very numerous. Their native fruits are peaches, but the beſt figs, melons, and other fruits, tranſplanted from Europe, thrive well here. N. Carolina is 385 miles in length (from E. to W.) and from 90 to 150 in breadth. It is divided into 58 counties, but has no capital. S. Carolina extends 200 miles in length, from E. to W. and 120 in it's mean breadth. It is divided into 35 counties. Charleſton was formerl the capital, and is ſtill reckoned the chi town, but Columbia, is the ſeat of gover ment.

CAROLINE, a county of Maryland and a county of Virginia.

CAROLINE ISLANDS, in the Pacif Ocean, ſuppoſed to be 30 in number, b little known. Lat. 6. to 10. N. lon. 13 to 156. E.

CARPATHIAN, or KRAPACK MOU TAINS, divide Hungary and Tranſylvan from Poland.

CARPENTRAS, the chief town of V naiſſin, in France, containing about 12,0 inhabitants. It is ſeated on the riv Auſon, 14 miles NE. of Avignon.

Carperby, Yorkſhire, N. Riding, ne Aſkrig.

CARPI, a town and diſtrict of Moden

CARPI, a town in the Veroneſe, ſituat on the Adige. Prince Eugene gained victory over the French here, in 1701.

Carpmanſel, Lanc. on the Winſter, bo dering on Weſtmorland.

Carra, a river in Kerry, Munſter.

Carram, Northumbl. on the Twee

Carrants, Dorſetſ. near Winterborn S Martins. Carraw, Northumb. betwe Scavenſhale and Welton. Carre, a riv in Somerſetſhire.

Carrigart, in Donegal, Ulſter.

CARRICK, the S. diviſion of Ayrſhi ſtretching about 30 miles in length.

*CARRICK ON SHANNON, a town Leitrim, in Connaught, 77 miles NW. Dublin.

*CARRICK ON SUIR, a town of Tipp rary, in Munſter, noted for the manuta ture of broad cloth and ratteens. It is tuated on the Suir, which is navigable h ther for ſloops, 14 miles NW. of Wate ford, and 74 from Dublin.

Carrickaſticken, a river and mountain Louth, in Leinſter. Carrickbeg, in W terford, Munſter, on the river Suir, opp ſite to Carrick on Suir. Carrick Edmon in Louth, Leinſter.

*CARRICKFERGUS, the county-tow of Antrim, in Ulſter, ſeated on a ſafe an ſpacious bay, of the ſame name, called al BELFAST LOUGH, with an excellent ha bour, 88 miles N. of Dublin.

*CARRICKMACROSS, a flouriſhin town of Monaghan, in Ulſter, 19 mil SSE. of Monaghan, and 40 NNW. Dublin.

Carrickmines, in Dublin, Leinſter. Car rigans, in Donegal, Ulſter. Carrigneen logh, in Cork, Munſter, 147 miles fro Dublin. Carringoon, near Mallow, i Cork, Munſter.

Carrg, or Kenog, a river in Carnarvonſhire. Carrock, a mountain in Cumberland, 755 yards above the level of the ſea. Carrock Paſſage, Cornwall, near Fowey Haven.

CARRON, a river of Stirlingſhire, riſing on the S. ſide of the Campſey Hills, and flowing into the Frith of Forth, below Falkirk. Two miles from it's ſource, it forms a fine caſcade, called the Fall of Auchinſilly, and on it's banks, one mile from Falkirk, are the celebrated Carron works, buildings of vaſt extent, founded in 1761, on a ſpot where there was not a ſingle houſe: this is now the largeſt iron foundery in Europe, conſtantly employing about 1600 men. All ſorts of iron goods are made in it, from the moſt trifling article for domeſtic uſe, to cannon of the largeſt caliber. The machinery, conſtructed by Mr. Smeaton, is the firſt in Great Britain, in elegance and correctneſs.

Carſey, Suff. near Hadley. Carſhalton, Surry, SW. of Croydon, near Banſtead Downs, a beautiful village, ſituated among ſprings and water brooks. Carſington, Derbyſ. NW. of Wirkſworth. Carſon, 3 miles W. of Shrewſbury. Carſop, 6 miles NW. of Hereford. Carſwell, Northumb. on the ocean, 6 miles NE. of Morpeth.

Cart, Black and White, two rivers of Renfrewſhire, which uniting their ſtreams, fall into the Clyde near Renfrew.

CARTAMA, a town of Granada, 24 miles NW. of Malaga; and another town of Granada.

CARTERET ISLAND, in the Pacific Ocean, diſcovered by Capt. Carteret, in Aug. 1767: it is about 6 leagues long, from E. to W. Lat. S. 26. S. lon. 154. 14. E.

Carter Fells, Northumb. near Blackburn.

CARTHAGENA, a town of Murcia, ſeated on a bay of the ſame name, in which vaſt quantities of mackarel are caught. Here is a very large arſenal, with every requiſite for building and fitting out ſhips of the line. The harbour is ſpacious and deep, being a baſin hollowed by nature, and ſheltered from the winds by ſeveral hills, placed round it at equal diſtances. It is 27 miles nearly S. of Murcia. Lat. 37. 38. N. lon. 0. 36. W.

CARTHAGENA, a large and rich city, capital of the province of Carthagena, in the Terra Firma, which is bounded on the N. by the Caribbean Sea, on the E. by the river St. Martha, and on the W. by the ſea and the Gulf of Darien, with one of the beſt harbours in S. America; the entrance, however, is ſo narrow, that only one veſſel can enter at a time. The revenues of the king of Spain from New Granada and Terra Firma are brought to this place. Lat. 10. 27. N. lon. 75. 22. W.

CARTHAGE, once a celebrated city of Africa, and rival of Rome, but now in ruins. It is 10 miles E. of Tunis, near the promontory called Cape Carthage.

CARTHAGO, a city, capital of Coſta Rica, in Mexico, ſituated in lat. 10. 20. N. on a river of the ſame name, which runs into the Pacific Ocean, in lat. 9. 40. N.

Carthkenny, a river in Carmarthenſhire. Cartington, Northumb. near N. and S. Carlton. Cartlone Paſſage, Lanc. on the Ken Sands, near Cartmel. Cartlidge, Bucks, near Cheſham.

CARTMEL, a town of Lancaſhire, ſeated among the hills, called Cartmel Fells, near the river Ken and the Ken Sands, a ſandy ſhore, which requires guides to direct ſtrangers on their way. It has a harbour for boats, and a market well ſupplied with corn, ſheep, and fiſh. It is 12 miles N. by W. of Lancaſter, and 260 NNW. of London. Markets on Tueſday and Saturday.

Carton, in Kildare, Leinſter.

Cart Vonan, Northumb. near Great Cheſter, S. of the Picts' Wall

CARWAR, a bay and ſea-port, on the coaſt of Malabar, ſubject to the regent of Myſore. It is 80 miles NNW. of Beddanore.

CASA CALANDA, a town of Moliſe, Naples.

CASA MASSIMA, a town of Bari, Naples.

CASAC, or CAZAC, a country of Aſia, nominally ſubject to Perſia, but governed by princes of it's own: it is about 5 leagues long, from N. to S. and rather more from E. to W. The inhabitants, who are deſcended from the Coſſacks, are rude and barbarous. The capital is Cazac Loree.

CASAL, the chief city of Montferrat, in Italy, formerly well fortified, and defended by a citadel, but deprived of it's fortifications in 1695. It is 34 miles ENE. of Turin.

CASAL MAGGIORE, a town of Lucca.

CASBIN, or KASWIN, a large trading city of Irac Agemi, in Perſia, 240 miles NNW. of Iſpahan.

CASAN. See KASAN.

CASCAES, a ſea-port of Portugueſe Eſtremadura, N. of the mouth of the Tajo.

CASCHAW, or CASSOVIA, a free town of Hungary, 75 miles E. of Buda.

Caſcaragan, in Leitrim, Connaught.

CASCO, a town and bay, on the coaſt of Main, in New England; the latter is 25 miles miles wide, and interſperſed with ſmall iſlands.

CASERTA, a town, with a moſt magnificent palace, of Lavora, Naples, 5 miles E. of Capua.

Caſh, in Fermanagh, Ulſter, 90 miles from Dublin. Caſhin, a river in Kerry, Munſter.

*CASHEL, a town of Tipperary, in Munſter, 76 miles SW. of Dublin, and 13 NW. of Clonmell.

CASHEN. See CACHAN.

CASHGUR. See BUCHARIA.

CASHGUR, a city of Aſia, formerly the capital of Bucharia, to which it alſo gave name, but much declined ſince the Tartars have been in poſſeſſion of the country. It ſtill, however, carries on a conſiderable commerce with the neighbouring countries. It is ſeated at the foot of the mountains, in lat. 39. 35. N. lon. 80. E.

Caſhiobury, Herts, near Watford.

CASHMERE, a province of India, ſubject to the Sultan of Candahar. It lies N. of the Indian Caucaſus, and E. of the Indus. It is 80 miles long and 40 broad. Surrounded by lofty mountains, from which there fall numerous caſcades; this valley is celebrated for it's romantic beauties, the fertility of the ſoil, and the temperature of the atmoſphere; it is ſubject, however, to earthquakes, on which account the houſes are built of wood. Among other curious manufactures of Caſhmere, is that of ſhawls, which are diſtributed over many parts of Aſia, and into Africa and Europe. It's capital, CASHMERE, is a large city, built on both ſides of the Chelum, a large, navigable river; and is 285 miles E. by S. of Cabul. Lat. 33. 49. N. lon. 73. 11. E.

Caſhmore, Dorſetſ. near Chettle.

CASHNA, part of the extenſive country called Soudan by the Arabs, and Negroland by the Europeans; a large kingdom, in the interior of Africa, S. of Zaara, E. of Tombuctou, and W of Zamfara. It reſembles Bornou in climate and natural productions, and in the colour, genius, religious profeſſion and government of the people. It's monkeys and parrots are numerous, and of various ſpecies. A thouſand towns and villages are ſaid to be included in this empire, which, like Bornou, conſiſt of different tribes or nations, ſubject to the dominion of one ſovereign. It's capital, CASHNA, is about 800 miles nearly S. of Tripoli, in lat. 16. 20. N.

Caſhop, 3 miles from Durham.

CASIMIR. See CAZIMIR.

Caſimul, Dorſ. in the pariſh of Whitchurch. Caſley, Yorkſ. W. Riding, of Otley.

CASPIAN SEA, a great inland ſea Aſia, on the N. of Perſia, about 680 mi in length, and 260 in breadth. It has tide, but has ſtrong currents, and is ſu ject to violent ſtorms, which the Ruſſi veſſels weather with difficulty. It's w ters are brackiſh; the fiſheries extenſi The roe of the ſturgeons and beluga ſu ply large quantities of caviare; and fiſh, which are chiefly ſalted and dri form a conſiderable article of conſumpti in the Ruſſian empire.

CASSANO, a town of Bari; a town Calabria Citra; a town of Principato tra; and a town of Milan, ſituated on Adda.

CASSEL, the capital of the landgravi of Heſſe Caſſel, circle of Upper Rhine. is divided into the Old and New Tow the latter of which is well built and cious. The caſtle or palace command delightful proſpect, and has fine gard and a curious cabinet. It is ſeated on river Fulda, 40 miles S. of Paderbo Lat. 51. 19. N. lon. 9. 34. E.

CASSEL, a town in the dept. of North, ſeated on a mountain, whence be ſeen 32 towns, and the ſea, though miles diſtant, 10 miles NE. of St. Om

CASSEL, a town, in the circle of Lower Rhine, ſituated on the E. ſide of river Rhine, oppoſite Mentz, with wh it has a communication by a bridge boats.

Caſſel, a river in Carnarvonſhire, wh runs into the Conway, near Caerhun. Caſſenton, on the Iſis, 4 miles from Oxfo Caſſey, near Norwich, on the Hier. Caſſulberry, Herts, 3 miles NE. of Wa Caſt, Somerſ. S. of Frome Selwood.

CASTANOVITS, a town of Croatia.

CASTELAMARA, a ſea-port town, another town of Principato Citra.

CASTEL ARAGONESE, in Sardinia.

CASTEL BALDO, a town of the Ve neſe.

CASTEL BRANCO, a town of Beira.

CASTEL DE VIDE, a town of Alente

CASTEL FOLIT, a town of Catalon

CASTEL GONDOLFO, near Rome.

CASTEL JALOUX, a town in the de of Lot and Garonne, ſituated on the ri Avance, 24 miles WNW. of Agen.

CASTEL NUOVO, a town of Moden a town of Placentia; and a town of Friu

CASTEL RODRIGO, in Tra los Mo tes.

CASTELLANE, a town in the dept. the Lower Alps, ſeated on the river V dun, in a mountainous country, whic however, is fertile in corn and paſture, 44 miles NW. of Nice.

CASTELLANZA, a town of Milan.

CASTELLON, a town of Catalonia.

CASTELNAUDARY, a town in the dept. of Aude, ſeated on an eminence, at the foot of which is a large baſin of the Canal, called Royal, 15 miles NW. of Carcaſſone.

CASTIGLIONE, 2 towns of Lucca; a town of Tuſcany; a town of Genoa; a town of the Bologneſe; a town of Mantua; a town of Principato Citra; a town of Abruzzo Citra; and a town of Calabria Citra; all in Italy. Alſo, a town of Val Demona, in Sicily.

CASTILE, NEW, or TOLEDO, a province of Spain, 200 miles in length, and 184 in breadth; bounded on the W. by Eſtramadura and part of Leon; on the N. by Old Caſtile; on the E. and SE. by Arragon, Valencia, and Murcia; and on the S. by Murcia and Andaluſia. It is divided into 3 parts; Agraria to the N.; Mancha to the E.; and Sierra to the S. The air is pure and healthy; the land is mountainous, but produces in the N. fruits and wine, and in the S. good paſtures and fine wool. Madrid is the capital.

CASTILE, OLD, a province of Spain, about 192 miles in length, and 115 in breadth; bounded on the W. by Leon; on the N. by Biſcay, Auſtria, and Navarre; on the E. by Navarre and Arragon; and on the S. by New Caſtile. It produces excellent wine; it's plains are covered with herds of large and ſmall cattle, particularly sheep, which yield the fineſt wool in Spain. Burgos is the capital.

CASTILE DEL ORO, a country of Terra Firma, W. of Oronoko.

CASTELLARO, a town of Genoa; and a town of Mantua.

CASTILLON, a town in the dept. of Gironde, ſeated on the Dordogne, 25 miles E. of Bourdeaux.

Caſtle Acre, Norf. 4 miles NW. of Swaffham. Caſtle Aſhby, Northamp. W. of Wellingborough.

Caſtlebaldwin, in Sligo, Connaught.

*CASTLEBAR, a populous town of Mayo, in Connaught, with a manufacture of linen. It is the aſſize town for the county, 35 miles N. of Galway, and 114 from Dublin.

Caſtlebellingham*, in Louth, Leinſter, 34 miles from Dublin. Caſtleblakeney*, in Galway, Connaught, 80 miles from Dublin. Caſtleblaney, in Monaghan, Ulſter, 80 miles NW. of Dublin. Caſtleblack, in Queen's County, Leinſter. Caſtlebridge, in Wexford, Leinſter.

Caſtle Camp, Camb. E. of Linton.

Caſtlecarberry, in Kildare, Leinſter, nearly 26 miles from Dublin, near the Bog of Allen. Caſtlecurgan, or Caſcarrigan, in Leitrim, Connaught, 84 miles from Dublin.

Caſtle Carew, Pembrokeſ. near Tenby.

CASTLE CAREY, a town of Somerſetſhire, containing about 160 houſes, and 950 inhabitants, 3 miles from Wincanton, 12 SSE. of Wells, and 112 W. by S. of London. Market on Tueſday.

Caſtlecomb, Wilts, near Chippenham.

CASTLECOMER, a town of Kilkenny, in Leinſter, noted for it's coal-pits, which produce the excellent Kilkenny coal, remarkable for burning without emitting ſmoke. It is 10 miles N. of Kilkenny, and 45 SW. of Dublin.

Caſtlecuff, in King's County, Leinſter.

Caſtle Beare, Midd. N. of Great Ealing. Caſtle Bitham, Linc. 3 miles SW. of Bourn. Caſtle Danis, Cornw. a hill near St. Columb.

Caſtledawſon, in Derry, Ulſter. Caſtlederg, in Tyrone, Ulſter.

*CASTLEDERMOT, a town of Kildare, in Leinſter, ſituated in a pleaſant country, on the little river Lane, in the road between Cork and Dublin, from which latter it is diſtant 34 miles SW.

Caſtlefin, in Donegal, Ulſter, 107 miles from Dublin. Caſtlefreke, in Cork, Munſter, 3 miles SE. of Roſs.

Caſtle Dykes, Northamp. 1 mile S. of Weedon. Caſtle Eaton, Wilts, 3 miles NW. of Highworth. Caſtle Goodwin, Glouc. near Painſwick. Caſtle Hean, Herts, at the foot of Hatterel Hill. Caſtle Hedingham, Eſſex, 7 miles SW. of Sudbury. Caſtle Hill, Warw. NW. of Kyneton. Caſtle Hill, Devonſ. 6 miles from Tawton.

Caſtle Guard, in Louth, Leinſter. Caſtle Hacket, in Galway, Connaught, 97 miles from Dublin. Caſtle Haven, a ſmall, but ſafe harbour of Cork, Munſter. Lat. 51. 25. N. lon. 9. 10. W.

Caſtle Hornock, Cornw. on a mount, near Penzance. Caſtle Howe, Westm. an artificial hill, near Tebay. Caſtle Howard, the ſeat of the earl of Carliſle, near Malton.

CASTLE ISLAND, a town of Kerry, in Munſter, 8 miles E. of Tralee, 30 NW. of Cork, and 133 from Dublin.

Caſtle Knock, 3 miles from Dublin. Caſtle Laghan, in Mayo, Connaught.

CASTLE LEHAN, a town of Cork, in Munſter, 12 miles NE. of Cork.

CASTLEMAINE, a bay and ſea port, of Kerry, in Munſter, 152 miles from Dublin.

CASTLE MARTYR, a town of Cork, in Munſter, 12 miles SE. of Cork, and 123 from Dublin.

Caſtle Mill, near Bedford.

Caſtlemorris, in Kilkenny, Leinſter. Caſtleotway, in Tipperary, Munſter. Caſtleot-way, in Limerick, Munſter.

Caſtle Peverel, Derbyſh. in the High Peak.

Caſtleplunket, in Roſcommon, Connaught, 79 miles from Dublin. Caſtle Pollard, in W. Meath, Leinſter, 64 miles from Dublin. Caſtlepooky, in Cork, Munſter, near Doneraile. Caſtlerea, in Roſcommon, Connaught, 84 miles from Dublin. Caſtlereagh, in Down, Ulſter.

CASTLE RISING, a poor town of Norfolk, ſcarcely containing ten families, yet ſends two members to parliament: it's harbour is choked up with ſands, and it's market diſuſed. It is 7 miles NE. of Lynn.

Caſtle Rock, in Antrim, Ulſter, on a hill E. of Carrickfergus Bay.

Caſtle Ruff, Kent, near Milton.

Caſtle Sampſon, in Roſcommon, Connaught. Caſtle Shane, in Monaghan, Ulſter, 59 miles from Dublin.

Caſtle Steed, Cumb. NW. of Brampton. Caſtle Thorp, Bucks, near Hanſlop. Caſtleton, Derbyſ. by the Peak's Hole, a very curious cavern, whence a ſtream of water iſſues. Caſtleton, Oxf. bordering on Glouceſterſhire. Caſtleton, Yorkſ. NW. of Rippon. Castleton, Yorkſ. in Cleveland. Castleton, Dorſetſ. near Sherborn, to which it is a ſuburb.

CASTLETOWN, or CASTLE RUSHIN, the principal place of the Iſle of Man, with a ſtrong, beautiful caſtle, of free ſtone, ſtill entire, erected by Guttred, king of Man, about the year 960, who lies interred in it. At the entrance is a great ſtone chair, for the governor, and two ſmaller ones, for the deemſters; and beyond this court is a room where the keys ſit. On the other ſide are ſeen the governor's houſe, the chancery offices, and good barracks. It is ſituated on the SE. point of the iſland, with a ſhallow, rocky harbour, in lat. 54. 2. N. lon. 4. 35. W.

CASTLE TOWN, a pariſh, formerly called LIDDISDALE, and new town, begun to be erected in it, in 1793, and rapidly advancing, of Roxburghſhire, in Scotland.

Castletown, in Cork, Munſter, 110 miles from Dublin. Castletown, in Queen's County, Leinſter, 48 miles from Dublin. Castletown, in Louth, Leinſter. Castletown, in Kildare, 9 miles from Dublin. Castletown Delvin, in W. Meath, Leinſter, 35 miles from Dublin. Castletown Geoghan, in W. Meath, Leinſter. Cast townlands, in Mayo, Connaught. C tletown Macnery, in Limerick, Munſ Castletown Roche, in Cork, Munſter, miles from Dublin. Castle Vellin, Down, Ulſter, 65 miles from Dub Castle Ward, in Down, Ulſter, a mile of Strangford.

CASTON, or CAWSTON, a town Norfolk, ſeated on the Bure, over whi it has a bridge, 10 miles N. by W. Norwich. Market on Tueſday.

Carton, Hants, between Avington Kingſworthy.

CASTOR, called by the Saxons Thu Caſton, i. e. Thong Caſtle, a town of L colnſhire, (ſaid to be built by Hengiſt, a track of ground, which he encompaſ with an ox's hide, cut into thongs, p ſuant to a grant of Vortigern) 20 m NE. of Lincoln, between Binbrook Glandford Bridge. Market on Monda Caſtor, Northamp. 3 miles from Pet borough. Castor, Norfolk, 3 miles S. Norwich. Castor Light Houſe, Norf. of Yarmouth. Caſtor Trinity, Norfo NW. of Yarmouth.

CASTRES, a conſiderable city, capi of the dept. of Tarne, ſeated on the ri Agout, 34 miles E. of Thouloufe.

Castrigg, Cumb. pariſh of Croſthwai

CASTRO, a town of Arragon: a to of the Iſland of Chilo, in S. America; capital town of the Iſland of Metelin, the Archipelago; a duchy and town the States of the Church, W. of the P trimonio; a town of Otranto, Napl and ſeveral other towns of Spain, Portug and Sicily.

CASTRO DEL'REY, a town of Galic

CASTRO MARINO, a town of Algar

CASTRO VIREYNA, a diſtrict of Pe

Caſwald How, Cumb. E. of Whiteh ven. Caſwell, Oxfordſ. SW. of Witn Caſworth, Yorkſ. near Doncaſter.

CATALONIA, a province of Spa bounded on the W. by Arragon and a p of Valencia; on the N. by the Pyrenee and on the E. and S. by the Mediterrane and Valencia. It's greateſt extent from to W. is 112 miles, and from N. to 148. The air is wholeſome. It's mou tains, which are numerous, are cover with foreſt and fruit trees. It abounds wine, corn, and pulſe, and has quarries marble, and ſeveral ſorts of mines. B celona is the capital.

CATANIA, an ancient, rich, and ce brated city of Val di Noto, in Sicily, wi a univerſity. It's ſtreets are wide, ſtraig and well paved with lava. The inhabi ants are about 30,000. The city ſtan on the E. coaſt, on a gulf of the ſame name, near Mount Etna, and has often ſuffered by earthquakes, particularly in 1669 and 1693. In the laſt the town was entirely deſtroyed, and 18,000 people buried in the ruins. It has ſince been rebuilt and repeopled, the land about it being fertile in corn, wine, fruits, &c. It is 4 miles SSW. of Meſſina. Lat. 37. 36. N. lon. 15. 29. E.

CATANZARO, a town of Calabria Ultra, with manufactures of ſilk, velvets, and cottons.

Catbaſide, Northumb. 4 miles SE. of Elleſdon. Catchborn, Northumb. near Morpeth. Catcomb, Hants, near Portſmouth. Catcomb, Somerſetſ. near Murlinch. Cat Dean, Durham, W. of Wearmouth.

CATEAU, or CHATEAU CAMBRESIS, a town in the depart. of the North, 12 miles SE. of Cambray.

CATTEGAT, a gulf or paſſage, lying between Denmark, Sweden, and Norway, by which the Baltic communicates with the Northern Ocean. It comprehends ſeveral Iſlands.

Caterham, Surry, N. of Blechingley. Caters, Somerſ. NE. of Bath. Cateſby, Northamp. NW. of Daventry. Cateſmere, Linc. near Stamford. Catfield, Norf. near Hickling. Catford Hall, Lancaſhire, NW. of Preſton. Catfoſs, Yorkſ. in Holderneſs.

CATHARINENBURG, or EKATERINBURG, a town and province of Ruſſia, included in the government of Perm, 148 miles SE. of Perm.

CATHARINENSLAF, or EKATERINOSLAV, the new name of the extended government of Aſoph, which is now made to compriſe New Ruſſia and the Crimea. This government is divided into two provinces, namely, Catharinenſlaf, which includes New Ruſſia, and the late government of Aſoph; and the province of Taurida, which includes the Crimea.

CATHARINENSLAF, the capital of the province of the ſame name, (See ASOPH) 318 miles NE. of Cherſon. Lat. 47. 23. N. lon. 35. 15. E.

CATHERLOUGH. See CARLOW.

Catherſton, Dorſetſ. N. of Charmouth. Catborp, Nott. in the pariſh of Lowham. Catborp, Leiceſ. near Rugby. Catborp, Linc. W. of Sleaford. Catborp, Yorkſ. W. of Bridlington.

CATIF, EL, a town of Arabia, ſituated near the Perſian Gulf, about 20 miles from the Iſland of Bahrein, 132 miles S. of Baſſora. Lat. 26. 20. N.

Catley, Linc. W. of the ferry over the Witham. Catlidge, Camb. 2 miles from Newmarket.

CATMANDU, a town in the country of Mocaimpour, in Hindooſtan Proper, 154 miles N. of Patna. Lat. 28. 6. N. lon. 84. 51. E.

Catmer, Berks, near Farnborough. Catmouſe, Hill and Vale, Rutl. SE. of Okeham. Caton, Yorkſ. SW. of Scarborough.

CATOCHE, CAPE, the NE. promontory of Yucatan, in N. America. Lat. 21. 10. N. lon. 87. 30. W.

Catſgrove Hill, Berks, near Reading. Catſley, Dorſetſ. in Carſcomb pariſh. Catſlock, Dorſetſ. NW. of Frampton. Catſtreet, Suſſex, 10 miles S. of Tunbridge Wells.

CATTACK, or CUTTACK, a city and diſtrict of Oriſſa, a province of Hindooſtan, ſubject to the Berar rajah, a Mahratta prince. It is a poſt of conſequence, from it's being the only road between Bengal and the northern circars, and is ſeated on the river Mahanuddy, near it's entrance into the Bay of Bengal, 184 miles SW. of Calcutta. Lat. 20. 51. N. lon. 86. 1. E.

Cattal, Magna and Parva, Yorkſ. near Boroughbridge.

CATTERICK, Yorkſ. near Richmond, has a bridge over the river Swale, and a ſort of cataract near it. It is called Cataracton in Ptolemy, and appears to have been a great city in the time of the Romans.

Catterall, Lanc. in Amounderneſs. Catterly, Cumberl. near Penrith. Catterton, Yorkſh. W. Riding, near Bilburgh and Belton. Catterworth, Somerſ. near Bowditch, a Roman camp of a circular form, on the ſummit of a hill. Catteſfield, Suſſex, W. of Cowhurſt. Catteſhall, Surry, near Godalmin. Cattborp, Leic. NE. of Hallaton. Catton, Derbyſ. on the borders of Staff. Catton, Lanc. in Lonſdale. Catton, Yorkſhire, SW. of Thirſk. Catton, Yorkſ. NW. of Pocklington. Catwade Bridge, Suff. near Maningtree. Catwater, one of the three harbours at Plymouth. Catwick, Yorkſh. near Hornſey, in Holderneſs. Catworth, Great and Little, Huntingdonſ. near Spaldwick.

CAVA, a town of Principato Citra, trading in ſilk and linens.

CAVAILLON, a town of France, in Venaiſſin, ſeated in an iſland formed by the river Durance, 24 miles SE. of Avignon.

CAVAN, a county of Ireland, in Ulſter, bounded on the W. and SW. by Leitrim and Longford; on the NW. and N. by Fermanagh and Monaghan; on the NE. by Monaghan; and on the E. and S. by cleanſing the furrows and filling them with freſh chalk. It is 6¼ miles from Dorcheſter, and 2 from Great Mintern. Market on Wedneſday.

Cerne, Nether and Upper, on oppoſite ſides of Cerne Abbey. Cerney, N. and S. Glouc. the former near Cirenceſter, and the latter near Cricklade. Cerrioy Druidon, 8 miles from Denbigh.

CERVERA, a town of Catalonia; and a town of New Caſtile.

CERVIA, a ſea port of Romagna, where great quantities of ſalt are made of evaporated ſea-water, 15 miles SSE. of Ravenna.

CESENA, a town of Romagna, 25 miles NNW. of Urbino.

CETTE, a ſea-port in the dept. of Herault, ſeated on the place where the Canal, ci-devant, Royal begins, on the Mediterranean, 14 miles SW. of Montpellier.

CEVA, a town of Aſti, in Piedmont.

CEVENNES, mountains of France, in the ci devant Languedoc.

CEUTA, a ſea-port of Fez, in Africa, ſeated on the Straits of Gibraltar, oppoſite to that place. It is ſubject to Spain.

CEYLON, or, in Arabic, SERENDIB, a large and mountainous iſland of Aſia, in the Indian Ocean, E. of Cape Comorin, on the coaſt of Coromandel, about 200 miles in length, and 160 in breadth. It produces large quantities of cinnamon, and its pepper is of ſuperior quality. Here is a great variety of wood for all uſes; but the moſt remarkable tree in the iſland is the tallipot, one of whoſe leaves will cover 10 men, and protect them from rain. It abounds in corn, rice, elephants, buffaloes, goats, hogs, deer, hares, dogs, jackals, monkeys, tigers, and bears. In ſome places there are mines, whence are got rubies, ſapphires, topazes, and other ſtones of leſs value. The Dutch are, or lately were, in poſſeſſion of all the coaſt of this fertile iſland, and to the diſtance of 10 or 12 leagues up the country. The natives are the Bedas, a hardy race, on the north; and on the ſouth the Cinglaſſes, a people equally inoffenſive, but more ſuperſtitious; the implore they interpoſition of their ſaints and heroes, and have various idols of monſtrous forms. They are divided into tribes like the Hindoos, and their language, which is peculiar to themſelves, is ſaid to be copious, ſmooth, elegant, and polite. Lat. from 6. to upwards of 9. deg. N. lon. from 80. to nearly 83. deg. E.

CHABLAIS, a mountainous duchy, or diſtrict forming the N. part of the dept. of Mont Blanc, of which Thonon is the chief town. It is bounded by Faucigny on the S.

CHABLIS, a town in the depart. of Yonne, remarkable for it's excellent white wines. It is 10 miles E. of Auxerre.

Chadbury, Dorſetſh. near Holt Foreſt. Chad Chapel, Cheſ. near Malpas. Chaddeſden, 1 mile from Derby. Chaddeſley, Worceſ. near Bromſgrove. Chadfield, Wilts, near Bradford. Chadlewerth, Berks, SE. of Fawley. Chadlington, Oxfordſhire, near Chipping Norton. Chadſon, Northamptonſh. near Aſhby Caſtle. Chadſhunt, Warw. near Kington. Chadwell, Eſſex, near Rumford. Chadwick, Worceſ. near Bromſgrove. Chadwick, Warwickſ. pariſh of Hampton in Arden. Chaſcomb, Somerſ. near Chard. Chafford, and Chagford, Kent, near Tunbridge. Chagford, or Chegford, Devonſhire, near Dartmore.

CHAGRE, a fort and river of Darien, which runs into the ſea, 30 miles WSW. of Porto Bello.

CHAISE DIEU, LA, a town in the dept. of Upper Loire, 17 miles NNW. of Le Puy.

Chackendon, Oxf. near Woodcot. Chalbury, Dorſetſhire. Chalcomb, Northamptonſhire, on the borders of Oxfordſhire.

CHALDEA. See IRAC ARABIA.

Chaldecote, Dorſetſ. in Purbeck Iſle, E. of Smedmore. Chaldown, or Chalkdown, Surry, NE. of Ryegate. Chaldon, E. and W. Dorſetſ. between Wareham and Weymouth. Chaldwell, Eſſex, NE. of Tilbury. Chale, Iſle of Wight, below Sandown Caſtle. Chalſworth, Derbyſ. in the High Peak. Chalfont St. Giles, and Chalfont St. Peter's, Bucks, near Amerſham. Chalford, Glouc. in Biſley pariſh; has a woollen manufacture. Chalford, 1 mile from Oxford. Chalgrave, Bedf. S. of Tuddington. Chalgrave, Oxf. NE. of Dorcheſter. Chalk, Kent, near Northfleet. Chalk Head, Cumb. near Caldbeck. Chalk Hill, Bedf. near Dunſtable. Chalk Street, Kent, between Chalk and Graveſend. Chalk Well, Kent, near Sittingbourn, Challock, Kent, W. of the Wye. Challorn, Iſle of Wight, in W. Medina. Chalmington, Dorſetſ. one mile from Catſtock.

CHALONS SUR SAONE, a town in the dept of Saone and Loire, formerly capital of the Challonois, a ſmall territory in it's environs. It trades in wood, and is the ſtaple of iron for Lyons and St. Etienne and of the wines for exportation. It is ſeated on the Saone, 35 miles nearly S. of Dijon.

CHALONS SUR MARNE, a town in the dept. of Marne, containing 13 pariſhes about 2800 houſes, and 18,000 inhabitants, who carry on a conſiderable trad in ſhalloons, and coarſe woollen cloth. It is ſeated on the rivers Marne, Mau, and Nie, 40 miles SW. of Verdun, and 95 E. of Paris.

Chalcot, Weſt, Berks, near Wantage.

Chalton, Hants, 6 miles E. of Buſh Waltham.

CHAMB, a town, county, and river of Bavaria, which flows into the Regen, 64 miles E. of Nuremburg.

Chamber in the Foreſt, Cheſh. near Delamere Foreſt. Chamber in the Foreſt, Cheſh. on the borders of Derbyſhire, near Burton Wells.

CHAMBERRY, the chief town in the dept. of Mont Blanc, and late capital of Savoy, with a caſtle, but not being fortified, it has never withſtood a regular ſiege. It is populous, well-built, and watered by many ſtreams, which run through ſeveral of the ſtreets. There are piazzas under moſt of the houſes, where people may walk dry in wet weather. It has large and handſome ſuburbs, and is ſituated on an eminence, ſurrounded by mountains, 27 miles NE. of Grenoble, and 85 NW. of Turin. It was taken by the French in 1792. Lat. 45. 35. N. lon. 6. 4. E.

CHAMBOND, a town in the dept. of Rhone and Loire; and a town in the dept. of Creuſe.

CHAMBORT, a ci-devant royal palace, of France, in the dept. of Loir and Cher, built by Francis II. It is a very large building, of free-ſtone, in the Gothic ſtyle, and ſtands in a park 21 miles in circumference, but has no gardens. King Stanſlaus, of Poland, reſided in it 9 years; and Marſhal Saxe died here in 1750. It is 9 miles E. of Blois.

Chamois Court, Suſſex, N. of Lewes.

CHAMPAGNE, a ci-devant province of France, bordered on the E. by Lorrain and Franche Comté, on the S. by Burgundy and Nivernois, and on the W. by the Iſle of France and Picardy; fertile in grain, cattle, &c. and producing the celebrated wine called after it's name. Troyes was the capital. It now forms the departments of Ardennes, Aube, Marne, Upper Marne, and Seine and Marne.

CHAMPLAIN, LAKE, divides the ſtates of New York and Vermont. It is of an irregular form, contains ſeveral iſlands, and is 120 miles long from N. to S. and about 14 broad, where wideſt.

CHANCAY, a town of Peru, 30 miles N. of Lima.

CHANDA, a conſiderable city of Berar, in Indoſtan, ſeated on a branch of the Cavery, 67 miles S. of Nagpour. It is ſubject to the Eaſtern Mahrattas. Lat. 20. 10. N. lon. 79. 40. E.

CHANDERNAGORE, a city of Bengal, ſubject to the French, but lately conquered by the Engliſh. It contains about 40,000 inhabitants, and is ſeated on the W. ſide of the river Hoogly, 13 miles NNW. of Calcutta.

Chandoſe, Herts, SW. of Hempſtead.

Changton, Suſſex, NW. of Stening.

CHANMANNING, a city of Thibet, where the Grand Lama ſometimes reſides, 116 miles W. of Laſſa.

Channeray, a village of Roſsſhire, 30 miles W. of Elgin.

Chantmerles, Dorſetſ. SE. of Everſhot.

CHANTILLY, a town in the dept. of the Oiſe, where the Prince of Condé had a magnificent chateau, with a park, gardens, and ſtables, thought to be the moſt beautiful in France: a menagery, cabinet of natural curioſities, water-works, &c. It is 12 miles SSE. of Clairmont, and 5 W. of Senlis.

Chapel, Eſſex, NE. of Coggeſhal. Chapel, Kent, near Limme. Chapel, Monm. on the borders of Brecknockſ. Chapel, Surry, SW. of Newidgate. Chapel Allerton, Yorkſ. near Leeds.

CHAPEL IN THE FRITH, a town of Derbyſhire, ſituated on the confines of the Peak, near Cheſhire, 17 miles SE. of Mancheſter. Market on Saturday.

Chapel Garth, Northumb. near Newcaſtle. Chapel Hill, Surry, near Haſcomb, Chapel Hill, Monm. 3 miles N. of Chepſtow. Chapel of the Ings, Weſtm. 6 miles from Kendal, on the Ambleſide road. Chapel in the Street, Cheſh. W. of Knotſford. Chapel Long, Shropſ. 2 miles NW. of Saltfleet. Chapel, New, Shropſ. 2 miles SE. of Clun Caſtle. Chapel, New, Surry, in Burſtow pariſh, bordering on Suſſex. Chapel North, Suſſ. near Blackdown Beacon. Chapel of the Grune, Cumb. near Boulneſs. Chapel on the Heath, Oxfordſ. near Chipping Norton. Chapel of Plaiſter, Wilts, near Box.

Chapel Bay, in Bid Iſland, one of the Copeland Iſlands, on the NE. coaſt of Down, in Ulſter. Chapel Izod, on the Liffey, 3 miles from Dublin, which it ſupplies with ſtrawberries. Chapel Midway, 7 miles from Dublin.

Chapmanſlade, Wilts, NE. of Warminſter.

CHARABON, or TSIERIBON, a ſea-port town, on the N. coaſt of Java, about 130 miles E. of Batavia, in lat. 6. 5. S.

CHARASM, or KHARASM, a large country of Aſia, bordered on the N. by Turkeſtan, on the W. by the Caſpian Sea, and on the S. by Choraſan. Urgens is the capital. The khan, or chief of the Tartar princes, among whom the country is divided, is ſaid to be able to raiſe an army of 40 or 50,000 horſemen.

Charborough, Dorſ. SW. of Winbourn Minſter.

CHARCAS LOS, a province of Peru, near the coaſt of the Pacific Ocean, in which are the richeſt ſilver mines in the world. La Plata is the capital.

*CHARD, a town in Somerſetſhire, conſiſting chiefly of 4 ſtreets, which terminate near the market. It has ſeveral ſtreams running through it, and one in particular, which, by being turned to the N. or the S. will, it is affirmed, run into the Briſtol, or the Engliſh Channel. Here is a ſmall woollen manufacture. It is 6 miles W. of Crewkherne, and 141 W. by S. of London. Market on Monday.

Chardſtock, Dorſetſ. 2 miles S. of Wambroke. Charels, Devonſ. E. of Barnſtaple.

CHARENTE, a department of France, bounded on the N. by the dept. of the Vienne, and on the S. by the dept. of Dordogne: it is ſo called, from a river which rises in the Limoſin, and running by Angoulême, Cognac, and Saintes, falls into the Bay of Biſcay below Rochefort. Angoulême is the chief town.

CHARENTE, LOWER, a department of France, on the ſea-coaſt, N. of the river Gironde. The river Charente croſſes it nearly in it's centre. It's chief town is Saintes.

CHARITE, LA, a town in the dept. of Nievre, containing about 4000 inhabitants, with manufactures of woollen and hardware. From it's ſituation on the road between Paris and Lyons, and it's vicinity to the canal of Briare, it's trade is briſk. The woollen manufacture and extenſive iron works are carried on here. It is ſituated on or near the Loire, 13 miles NNW. of Nevers.

Charfield. Glouceſ. N. of Wickware. Charfoot. Somerſetſ. W. of Bridgewater. Charford, N. and S. Hants, near Fordingbridge. Charing, Kent, between Lenham and Weſtwell. Charingworth, Glouc. near Ebberton. Charlcomb, Somerſetſ. near Bath. Charlcot, Shropſ. E. of Brown Clee Hill. Charlcot, Warw. NE. of Stratford. Charlcot, Hants, near Whitchurch.

CHARLEMONT, a town of Armagh, Ulſter, containing barracks for 3 companies of foot. It is ſeated on the river Blackwater, 6 miles nearly S. of Dungannon, and 68 NW. of Dublin.

CHARLEMONT, a town of Namur, in the dept. of the North, ſeated on a mountain near the river Meuſe, 28 miles SW of Namur.

CHARLEROY, or CHARLES SUR SAMBRE, a town of Namur, in the dept. the north, ſituated on the N. ſide of t river Sambre, 18 miles W. of Namur.

CHARLES, CAPE, a promontory of Virginia, at the N. ſide of the outlet of Ch ſapeak Bay, in lat. 37. 12. N. lon. 7 50. W.

CHARLES, CAPE, a promontory on t NW. part of the ſtrait, entering Hudſo Bay. Lat. 62. 40. N. lon. 75. 15. W.

CHARLESTON, the capital of S. Car lina, is ſeated on a peninſula, formed the rivers Aſhley and Cooper, the forn of which is navigable for ſhips of burd 20 miles above the town. The banks theſe rivers are adorned with beauti plantations, and fine walks, interſper with rows of trees, which render the ſitu tion of the town very pleaſant. By t Santee Canal, lately completed, boats p ſafely from Santee to Cooper River, a the productions of Camden, Granby, a the back country are poured into Charl ton with much facility and regularity. has a commodious and ſecure harbour, is a place of conſiderable trade. In 17 there were 1600 houſes, 9600 whites, a 5400 negroes. Lat. 32. 50. N. lon. 30. W.

CHARLESTON, a town of New Ham ſhire, 83 miles NW. of Boſton; a town Waſhington county, Rhode Iſland; an town of Maſſachuſets, 3 miles N. of Boſ

CHARLEVILLE, a town of Cork, Munſter, 30 miles N. of the city of Co and 112 SW of Dublin.

CHARLEVILLE, a town in the dept. the Ardennes, ſeated on the river Me near Mezieres, with which it communica by a bridge and a cauſeway. It is miles NW. of Sedan, and 115 NE. Paris.

Charley, or Charnwood, Leic. SW. Loughborough. Charley, Staff. 3 m NE. of Walſall. Charley Wood, He NE. of Rickmanſworth.

CHARLOTTENBURG, a town of B gen county, New Jerſey; and a town Holzapfel, Weſtphalia.

Charlton, Worc. near Eveſham. Ch ton, Kent, between Greenwich and Wo wich. Charlton, Northamp. parish Newbottle. Charlton, N. and S. Northu in Tindale. Charlton, Somerſ. S. of Ke ſham. Charlton, Suff. 3 miles E. of Go wood. Charlton, Staff. near Swinnert Charlton, Berks, in Wantage pari Charlton, near Dorchester. Charl

Devo

Devonſ. S. of Dartmouth, Charlton, Glouc. near Henbury. Charlton, Glouc. near Cirencester. Charlton, Hants, near Andover. Charlton, Kent, near Dover. Charlton, Dorſetſ. 3 miles from Sherburn. Charlton, Midd. near Sunbury and Hampton Court. Charlton, Oxfordſ. between Woodſtock and Piddington. Charlton, Hants, between Clanfield and Compton, Charlton, Wilts, towards Shaftſbury. Charlton, Wilts. near Dowton. Charlton, Wilts, 2 miles E. of Malmſbury, Charlton, Wilts near Uphaven. Charlton Abbots, Glouc. 2 miles SE. of Winchcomb. Charlton Canvile, Somerſ. E. of Queen Camel. Charlton, E. and W. Somerſetſ. near Somerton. Charlton, King's, Glouc. 1 mile from Cheltenham. Charlton Marſhall, Dorſetſ. a mile NW. of Spetſbury. Charlton Muſgrave, Somerſ. near Bruton. Charlwood, Surry, S. of Ryegate.

CHARMES, a town in the dept. of Voſges, ſeated on the Moſelle, over which there is a handſome bridge, 10 miles NE. of Mirecourt.

Charminſter, or Chadminſter, near Dorcheſter. Charmouth, Dorſetſ. at the mouth of the river Char, on the NE. of Lyme, it ſtands at the foot of a ſteep hill. 1005 feet high, and oppoſite to it is another hill 710 feet high. Charnes, Staff. near Eccleſhall. Charnet, Northumb. in the manor of Eland. Charney, Berks, 2 miles from Deachworth. Charnham Street, Wilts, near Hungerford. Charnock, Lanc. near Burgh.

CHAROLLES, a town in the dept. of Saone and Loire, before the revolution capital of Charollais. It is ſeated on the river Raconce, 24 miles WNW. of Macon.

CHAROST, a town in the dept. of Cher, ſeated on the river Arnon, 12 miles SW. of Bourges.

Charringworth Glouceſ. near Camden, or Moreton. Charsfield, Suff. near Wickham. Chart, Surry, 5 miles from Godalming. Chart Sutton, Kent. Chart-juxta Leeds Volence, Kent, near Maidſtone. Charter Houſe, Somerſ. 3 miles NE. of Bruton. Charter Houſe N. of Mendip Hills, between Chedder Rocks and E. Harty. Chart, Great and Little. Kent, near Aſhford and Charing. Charterbay, Dorſetſ. 2 miles W. of Abbot's Stoke. Charthom, Kent, 3 miles from Canterbury. Chartly Caſtle, 3 miles NE. of Stafford.

CHARTRES, an ancient and conſiderable town in the dept. of Eure and Loir, containing about 10,000 inhabitants. It's cathedral is eſteemed one of the moſt beautiful in the kingdom. The principal trade conſiſts in corn. It is ſeated on the river Eure, over which is a bridge, the work of Vauban, 45 miles SW. of Paris.

CHARTREUSE, THE GRAND, ſeated on the top of a high mountain, lately one of the moſt celebrated monaſteries in France, was founded in 1084. From Echelles, a little village in the mountains of Savoy, to the top of the Chartreuſe, the diſtance is 6 miles. Along this courſe the road runs winding up, for the moſt part not 6 feet broad. On one hand is the rock, with woods of pine trees, hanging over head, and on the other, a prodigious precipice, almoſt perpendicular, at the bottom of which rolls a deep torrent. On the top of the mountain is the convent It is 8 miles N. of Grenoble, in the dept. of Iſere.

Charwelton, Northamp. between Banbury and Daventry, by the river Charwell.

CHARYBDIS, a celebrated whirlpool, 30 paces in diameter, in the Strait of Meſſina, between Calabria and Sicily. It's horrors were deſcribed by the ancients with all the extravagance of poetic fiction: it is ſaid however, to have been entirely removed by an earthquake, in 1783.

Chaſeley, Worceſterſ. near Ridmarley. Chaſely, Glouc. between Upton and Glouceſter. Chaſfrench, Cornw. SE. of Leſkard. Chatburn, Lanc. N. of Clitheroe. Chatcall, Staff. E. of Bloreheath.

CHATEAU BRIANT, a town in the dept. of Lower Loire, 24 miles NNE. of Nantes.

CHATEAU CHINON, a town in the dept. of Nievre, with manufactures of cloth, leather, wool, and a commerce in wood. It is ſeated on the Yonne, near it's ſource, 36 miles NNE. of Nevers.

CHATEAU DAUPHIN, a fortreſs of Saluzzo, Piedmont.

CHATEAU DU LOIR, a town in the dept. of Sarte, famous for it's claret wine. It is ſeated on the Loir, 22 miles SE. of Mans, and 97 W. af Paris.

CHATEAUDUN, a town in the dept of Eure and Loir, containing 2 churches, and about 3000 inhabitants. The ſtreets are ſtraight, the houſes uniform, and the great ſquare is ſpacious. It is ſeated on an eminence near the Loir, 30 miles N. of Blois.

CHATEAU GONTIER, a town in the dept. of Mayenne, having a mineral ſpring, and a manufacture of linen and woollen. It is ſeated on the river Mayenne, 22 miles NW. of Angers, and 147 SW. of Paris.

CHATEAU LANDON, a town in the dept. of the Seine and Marne, ſeated on a hill, 5 miles S. of Nemours.

CHATEAULIN, a town in the dept. of Finiſterre, which carries on a conſiderable trade in ſlates, for covering houſes. It is ſeated on the little river Auzon, where there is a ſalmon fiſhery, 18 miles N. of Quimper.

CHATEAU MEILLANT, a town in the dept. of Cher, 25 miles S. of Bourges.

CHATEAUNEUF, a town in the dept. of the Var, 3 miles NE. of Graſſe; a town in the dept. of Ille and Vilaine, 7 miles S. of St Maloes; alſo a town in the reſpective depts. of Saone and Loire, Upper Vienne, Nyevre, the Eure, the Rhone, Charente, Lozere, Mouths of the Rhone, Côte d'Or, Indre and Loire, Loiret, Finiſterre, Cher, and Upper Alps; and 4 in the dept. of the Drome.

CHATEAU REGNAULT, a town in the dept. of Indre and Loire, 10 miles nearly N. of Amboiſe, and 88 SW. of Paris.

CHATEAUROUX, a town in the dept. of Indre, with a large manufactory of woollen cloth. It is ſeated in a fertile country, on the river Indre, 15 miles SW. of Iſſoudun, and 148 S. of Paris.

CHATEAU THIERRY, a town in the dept. of Aiſne, ſeated on the river Marne, near a medicinal ſpring, 27 miles SW. of Rheims.

CHATEL, a town in the dept. of Voſges, ſeated on the Moſelle, 8 miles E. of Mirecourt. There are ſeveral other towns in France of this name.

CHATEL CHALON, a town in the dept. of Jura, 20 miles S. of Dole.

CHATELLERAULT, a town in the dept. of Vienne, ſeated in a fertile and pleaſant country, on the river Vienne, over which is a handſome ſtone bridge. It is noted for it's cutlery, watch-making, &c. It is 22 miles NE. of Poitiers, and 168 SW. of Paris.

Chatford, 4 miles S. of Shrewſbury.

*CHATHAM, a town of Kent, adjoining Rocheſter, and ſeated on the Medway. It conſiſts of about 500 houſes, moſtly low, and built with brick; and is chiefly celebrated for being the principal ſtation of the royal navy; as, likewiſe, for it's dock-yard, founded, or rather improved and enlarged, by Queen Elizabeth, and very conſiderably extended by Charles I.; ſo that now there is not a more complete arſenal in the world. The warehouſes here, for naval ſtores, ordnance, &c of which there are whole ſtreets, are the largeſt in dimenſions, and moſt in number to be ſeen any where; the rope-houſes and ſmiths' forges are proportionably extenſive; as alſo the wet-dock, the canals and ditches, for keeping maſts and yards under water, for preſerving them. The largeſt veſſels are built here, and whole fleets fitted out with aſtoniſhing expedition. A ſhip here is uſe as a church for the ſailors. It is 31 mile ESE. of London. Market on Saturday.

CHATHAM, an iſland, on the SE. coa of Maſſachuſetts; a town of Connecticut and a county of Georgia, of which Savan nah is the principal town; alſo a count of N. Carolina; and a town of Cheſter field county, S. Carolina.

Chatherſton, Dorſetſ. between Lyme ar Bridport.

CHATILLON-LES-DOMBES, a town i the dept. of Aſn, 12 miles nearly W. Bourg.

CHATILLON SUR INDRE, a town i the dept. of Indre, 10 miles SE. of Loche

CHATILLON SUR MARNE, a town i the dept. of Marne, 17 miles S. of Rheim

CHATILLON SUR SEINE, a town in t dept. of Côte d'Or. The river Seine ru through it; it is 36 miles NNW. of D jon, and has iron works in the neighbou hood. There are 13 other towns France, which have the name of Chati lon, with different additions.

Chatley, Eſſex, NW. of Witham. Cha more, near Buckingham. Chatmoſs, Lan W. of Irwell.

CHATOQUE LAKE, in the ſtate of Ne York: the NW. end is 9 miles from Lak Erie, and the lower end lies in lat. 4 10. N.

CHATRE, LA, a town in the dept. Indre, with a woollen manufacture, and conſiderable trade in cattle. It is ſeate on the river Indre, 37 miles nearly S. Bourges.

Chatſham, Suff. SW. of Ipſwich. Chat teris, Camb. near Garter's Bridge, in th Fens. Chatterton, Lanc. near Rochdal

CHATTESWORTH, a town of Virgini Chatteſworth, Derb. 6 miles from Che terfield, the ſeat of the Duke of Devon ſhire, not inferior to any houſe in Eng land, built of ſtone, dug on the ſpot, an reckoned one of the wonders of the Peak It is ſeated on the Derwent, 6 miles from Cheſterfield. Chatton, Northumb. E. o Wooler. Chatwell, Magna and Parva Staff. on the borders of Shropſ. Chatwell Shropſ. SW. of Acton Burnel.

CHAVEZ, a town of Tra los Montes ſituated on the Tamega, near the confine of Spain.

Chaulcy, Devonſ. 10 miles from Credi ton, and 18 from Exeter. Chaulton, Bedf SE. of Tuddington. Chaulton, Shropſ E. of Colbatch.

CHAUMONT, the chief town in the dept of Upper Marne, with a manufacture o coarſe woollen cloth, and a conſiderabl trade in deer and goat ſkins. It is ſeate on a mountain, near the river Marne, 14 miles miles S. of Joinville. Alſo a town in the reſpective depts. of Loire and Cher, of the Ardennes, of the Oiſe, and of Mont Blanc; and a town of Luxemburg.

Chaunſton, Heref. in the Golden Vale. Chawton, Suff. W. of Hayliham. Chawton Wick, Wilts, SW. of Saliſbury Plain.

CHAUNY, a town in the dept. of Aiſne, on the river Oiſe, 17 miles NE. of Noyon.

Chaxerton, Lanc. S. of Manchester. Chawley, Devonſ. SE. of Chimleigh. Chawley, Berks, S. of Wallingford. Chaworth, Nott. near W. Retford. Chaworth, Eſſex, at Broxted. Chawton, Hants, near Alton. Chayley, or Chealey, Suſſex, 7 miles from Lewes.

CHEADLE, a town in Staffordſhire, in the neighbourhood of which are very extenſive copper and braſs works. It is ſeated in a country abounding with coals, near the ſource of the Dove, 12 miles NE. of Stafford. Lat. 53. 0. N. lon. 1. 56. W. Market on Saturday.

Cheadle, Cheſhire, W. of Stockport. Cheam, Surry, near Ewel.

CHEBRECHIN, in Red Ruſſia, Poland.

Chebſey, Staff. near Eccleſhall.

CHEBUCTO HARBOUR, a bay, on the SE. coaſt of Acadia, in Nova Scotia, near Halifax. Lat. 44. 45. N. lon. 63. 31. W.

Checkley, Bucks, near Newport Pagnel. Checkerel, E. and W. Dorſ. W. of Weymouth. Checkley, Cheſh. SE. of Nantwich. Checkley, Staff. NW. of Uttoxeter. Checkly, Suff. SW. of Bury. Cheddar, Somerſ. SE. of Axbridge, noted for large cheeſes of a delicate taſte, like the Parmeſan. Cheddar Cliffs, lie NW. of Axbridge; are rocks, in which is a deep, frightful chaſm, in the hollow whereof the road goes towards Briſtol. Cheddington, Bucks, near Aylesbury. Cheddiſton, Suff. near Halesworth. Cheddon, Somerſ. near Taunton. Chedgrave, Norf. between Yarmouth and Seching. Chedington, Dorſetſ. N. of Beminſter. Chedleton, Staff. S. of Leek. Chedzoy, Somerſ. a little E. of Bridgewater. Chedworth, Glouc. 4 miles SW. of North Leach. Cheffield, Herts, N. of Stevenage. Chegford, Devonſ. 15 miles from Exeter.

CHEITORE, a town in the circar of Oudipour, one of the principal of the Rajpoot ſtates, in Agimere, Hindooſtan. The country conſiſts, in general, of plains environed by mountains, acceſſible only by narrow paſſes, or defiles, yet it has an extent of arable land ſufficient for the ſupport of a numerous population, and enjoys a mild climate. It has long preſerved it's independence, but is now tributary to the Mahrattas. Cheitore was the capital of the Rana, or chief prince of the Rajpoots, and a city of great ſtrength, ſituated on a mountain; but it has been in ruins the laſt 100 years. The capital is now Oudipour. Cheitore is 43 miles N. of Oudipour, and 76 S. of the city of Agimere. Lat. 25. 21. N. lon. 74. 56. E.

Chekeſgroove, Wilts, E. of Hindon.

CHEKIANG, or TCHEKIANG, a maritime province of China, SE. of Nankin, one of the moſt fertile and trading provinces of the empire. It is interſperſed with mountains, fruitful fields, rivers, and canals. The inhabitants manufacture gold and ſilver, brocaded ſilks, which are ſold cheap, as great quantities of ſilkworms are bred here. Chekiang contains 11 large cities, 77 towns, and many populous villages.

Chelborough, E. and W. Dorſetſ. near Eversholt. Cheldon, Devonſ. NE. of Chimleigh. Chelford, Cheſh. W. of Macclesfield. Chelfoot, Shropſ. NE. of Chirbury. Chell, Staff. near Burſtem. Chellaſton, 3 miles SE. of Derby. Chellington, Bedf. between Bedford and Okeham. Chellington, Somerſ. S. of Ilminſter. Chellington, Staff. near Dudley Caſtle.

CHELM, a decayed town and palatinate (the latter partly ſubject to Ruſſia, and partly to Auſtria) in Red Ruſſia, Poland, 108 miles SE. of Warſaw.

Chelmer, Shropſ. S. of Bridgenorth. Chelmer, a river of Eſſex, running into the ſea at Malden. Chelmerſcote, Warw. near Brayles. Chelmerton, Derb. in the High Peak. Chelmondeſton, or Chemſton, Suff. between Ipſwich and Harwich.

*CHELMSFORD, a pretty large, populous town, nearly in the centre of Eſſex. It is pleaſantly ſituated in a valley, at the confluence of the Chelmer and the Can, the gardens of the inhabitants, on each ſide of the town, extending to thoſe rivers. Here are ſome good inns, with a fountain, or conduit, of excellent water; and the aſſizes and quarter ſeſſions for the county are held here. It is a great thoroughfare, the great eaſtern road from London paſſing through it. It is 43 miles S. by W. of Bury. 21 SW. by W. of Colcheſter, and 29 NE. by E. of London. A conſiderable market for corn, cattle, and proviſions, on Friday.

Chelſea, a large and populous village of Middleſex, on the banks of the Thames, 1 mile W. of St. James's Park. Here is an extenſive and well-ſtocked botanical garden, belonging to the company of apothecaries in London, and a bridge over the river to Batterſea; here alſo is the magnificent hoſpital erected for the diſabled and ſuper-

ſuperannuated ſoldiers of the Engliſh army. Chelsford, Kent, SW. of St. Mary Cray. Chelſham, Surry, in Warlingham pariſh. Chelſworth, Suff. NW. of Hadleigh. Chelſworth, Wilts, near Cricklade.

*CHELTENHAM, a town of Glouceſterſhire, noted for it's mineral waters, and extenſive proſpects from it's adjoining hills. It is much improved of late years, with a new market-houſe, a foot-way, of flag ſtones, made on each ſide of the ſtreets. The poorer inhabitants ſpin wool for the clothiers of Stroud. It derives it's name from the rivulet Chilt, which paſſes thro' it into the Severn from Dowdeſwell, and is 9 miles NE. of Glouceſter, and 95 W. by N. of London. Market on Thurſday.

Chelton, Somerſetſ. NE of Bridgewater. Chelveſton, Northamp. NE. of Higham Ferrers.

CHELUM, or BEHAT, the ancient Hydaſpes, a river of Hindooſtan. It riſes above Caſhmere, waters that city, and flowing in a SE. direction through the province of Lahore, unites with the Indus below Moulton.

Cheney Middleton, Northamptonſ. E. of Banbury, in Oxfordſhire. Chenkbury, Suff. 2 miles from Ciſbury. Chenock, Eaſt, Somerſ. near Hinton St. George.

CHENSI, a province in the NW. part of China. It contains 8 cities of the firſt rank, and 106 of the ſecond and third, beſides many forts on the great wall. The air is temperate, the ſoil fertile, and it abounds in wheat and millet. They have alſo honey, wax, rhubarb, muſk, cinnabar, and coal mines; a great number of muſk-goats, deer, bears, wild bulls, and other animals. Singan-fou is the capital.

CHEPELO, an iſland in the bay of Panama, about 3 miles in circumference.

Chepperfield, Herts, near King's Langley. Chepſtead, Kent, in Chevening pariſh.

CHEPSTOW, a populous, flouriſhing town of Monmouthſhire, ſeated on the Wye, near it's confluence with the Severn. It is the port for all the towns that ſtand on the Wye and Lug. Ships of 6 or 700 tons burden are built here, or come up to the town. Five veſſels trade conſtantly between this port and London, generally going and returning in two months. A market-boat, of 70 tons burden, goes likewiſe regularly to Briſtol every Tueſday, and returns every Thurſday. The merchants import their own wine from Oporto, and flax, deal, pitch, &c. from Norway and Ruſſia. The tide is ſaid to riſe higher here than in any other part of Europe, ſwelling to 50 or 60 feet perpendicular. It is 18 miles N. of Briſtol, and 127 W. of London. Market on Saturday.

CHER, a department of France, bounded on the N. by the dept. of the Loiret, and on the S. by the dept. of the Allier. It receives its name from the river Cher, which riſes in Auvergne, (in the dept. of the Creuſe) and, paſſing by Veirſon, St. Aignan, Montrichard, &c. falls into the Loire, 5 miles above the mouth of the Indre. Bourges is the chief town.

CHERASCO, a city, capital of a principality of Piedmont, ſituated at the conflux of the rivers Stura and Tanaro.

CHERBURG, a maritime town, in the dept. of the Channel, containing about 6000 inhabitants. The harbour will admit veſſels of 900 tons at high water, and of 250 at low. Woollen ſtuffs are manufactured here, and the inhabitants build ſmall veſſels. Cherburg is 50 miles NW. of Caen. Lat. 49. 38. N. lon. 1. 33. W.

Chergworth, Surry, near Eſher.

CHERCHESEL, a town of Curdiſtan.

Cherrington, Warw. near Shipton. Cherrington, Wilts, SE. of the Devizes. Cherrington, Glouc. 3 miles SE. of Minchinhampton. Cherton, Kent, near Hythe. Cheriton, Somerſ. near Horſington. Cheriton, Shropſ. NW. of Newport. Cheriton, Hants, S. of Alresford. Cheriton, Biſhop's, Devonſ. 9 miles from Exeter. Cheriton, Fitz Payne, Devonſ. NE. of Crediton. Cherlbury, Oxfordſ. near Chadlington. Cherlton Caſtle, Shropſ. under Wrekin Hill. Cherrock, Wilts, E. of Calne.

CHEROKEE RIVER. See BROAD TENESSEE.

Cherſcomb, Somerſ. near Chard. Cherſley, Bucks, near Quarendon.

CHERSO, an iſland, about 150 miles in circumference, with a town of the ſame name in it's centre, in the Adriatic, on the coaſt of Morlachia, lately ſubject to the Venetians, but now to the houſe of Auſtria. The ſoil is ſtony and mountainous, but the air is good; it yields abundance of wood, wine, cattle, oil, and excellent honey. Lat. 45. 11. N. lon. 14. 40. E.

CHERSON, the capital of New Ruſſia, in the government of Ekaterinoſlav, lately erected on the banks of the river Dnieper, 10 miles above the mouth of the Ingulec. It was intended by the Empreſs Catharine to be the principal mart for foreign trade, in this part of her dominions. It is not yet very large, but the houſes are of ſtone, and neatly executed. It has a dock for the conſtruction of large veſſels, from which ſeveral have been already launched. The public works are executed, and the plantations formed by criminals, who amount to ſome

ſome hundreds. It is ſupplied with fuel by reeds only, of which there is an immenſe foreſt in the ſhallows of the Dnieper, near the town. Rails, and even temporary houſes are made of them. They are tall and ſtrong, and afford ſhelter to various kinds of aquatic birds, ſome of which are very beautiful. In this city, the humane Howard ended his days; he was to the laſt engaged in the merciful employment of viſiting thoſe who were ſick and in priſon. Cherſon is 50 miles NE. of Ockzakow. Lat. 46. 40. N. lon. 33. 10. E.

Cherſton, Devonſ. near Torbay. Cherton, Wilts, near the Devizes.

CHERTSEY, a town of Surry, in a low ſituation near the Thames, over which there is a handſome bridge of 7 arches. It was formerly the reſidence of ſome of the Saxon kings, has a trade in malt, which it conveys in barges to London, and is 7 miles W. of Kingſton, and 20 W. by S. of London. Market on Wedneſday.

CHESAPEAK, one of the largeſt bays in the world. It's entrance is between Cape Charles and Cape Henry, in Virginia, 12 miles wide, and it extends 270 miles to the northward, on both ſides of the ſtate of Maryland. It is from 7 to 18 miles broad, and generally 9 fathoms deep, affording a ſafe and eaſy navigation, and many commodious harbours. It receives the waters of the Suſquehannah, Patomac, Rappahanoc, York, and James, which are all large and navigable rivers.

Cheſelbourne, Dorſetſ. 2 miles SE. of Melcomb Horſey. Chiſelburgh, Somerſ. between Ilcheſter and Crookhorn. Cheſterry, Wilts, near Uphaven. Cheſelton, Dorſetſ. in the Iſle of Portland.

CHESHAM, a town of Bucks, trading in lace, ſhoes, and wooden ware. It is ſeated on the borders of Herts, 12 miles SE. of Aylesbury, and 29 W. by N. of London. Market on Wedneſday Cheſham Boyes, Bucks, near the river Cole, SE. of Cheſham.

CHESHIRE, a county palatine of England, ſeparated on the N. from Lancaſhire by the river Merſey, but juſt at the NE. part it borders on Yorkſhire, on the E. it is bounded by Derbyſhire and part of Staffordſhire, on the S. by Shropſhire, and a detached part of Flintſhire, and on the W. and SW. by Denbighſhire and Flintſhire, from which latter it is ſeparated by the river Dee: on the NW. it is waſhed by the Iriſh Sea, that part of it being a peninſula, about 13 miles in length, and 6 in breadth, formed by the mouths of the Merſey and the Dee. Without including the peninſula, the county extends 35 miles from N to S. and 42 from E. to W. It is divided into 7 hundreds, containing 1 city, 11 market towns, and 101 pariſhes. The air is temperate and very healthy. The ſoil is rich in paſture and corn land. Immenſe quantities of cheeſe are made in this county; but a conſiderable quantity, of what goes by the name of Cheſhire cheeſe, is made in Shropſhire, Staffordſhire, and Lancaſhire. London alone is ſaid to conſume 14,000 tons of it; vaſt quantities are alſo ſent to foreign parts, to Ireland, Scotland, and different parts of England. The manufactures of Cheſhire are extenſive; and it is noted for it's ſalt ſprings. The principal rivers are the Merſey, Dee, Weaver, and Dane; and here are ſeveral ſmall lakes.

Cheſhunt, with its Park and Waſh, Herts, near Hoddeſon. Here Richard Cromwell, the protector, under the aſſumed name of Clark, ſpent many years of a venerable, old age, in obſcurity and peace, much to be preferred, no doubt, to all the ſplendid infelicities of guilty ambition. He firſt reſided here, in 1680, in a houſe near the church, and here he died in 1712, in his 86th year. He enjoyed a good ſtate of health to the laſt; and was ſo hale and healthy, that, at fourſcore, he would gallop his horſe for many miles together. Cheſilborn, Dorſetſ. near Middleton. Cheſington, Surry, between Eſher and Ewel. Cheſil Bank, Dorſetſ. is compoſed of gravel and pebbles thrown up in the ſea, 9 miles in length; between it and the ſhore there is a narrow ſea, and it connects Portland with the main land. Cheſtal, Staff. in Longton pariſh.

*CHESTER, the capital of Cheſhire, is a large, ancient, and populous city, containing 9 well-built churches, beſides the cathedral, called St. Werburgh's, which looks as antique as the caſtle. They were both built by Hugh Lupus, nephew to William the Conqueror; unleſs, as ſome ſay, the church was founded by Edgar. It is ſeated on the Dee, over which there is a noble bridge (having a gate at each end) of 12 arches, by which veſſels come from the ſea to the quay; and by a canal, lately cut, it has communication with moſt of the new inland navigations. It has alſo a conſtant communication with Ireland, by it's packet-boats. It's 3 annual fairs, on Feb. 24, July 5, and Oct. 10, each laſting a week, are the moſt noted in England, eſpecially for Iriſh linens. The main ſtreets have a peculiarity of conſtruction; they are hollowed out in the rock to a conſiderable depth, and the houſes have, elevated in front, a ſort of covered portico, which are called rows, and afford a ſheltered tered way for foot paſſengers. The city has 4 gates and 3 poſterns, and is 2 miles in compaſs. It conſiſts chiefly of 4 large ſtreets, which are pretty even and ſpacious, and as they croſs one another in ſtraight lines, meeting in the centre, they make an exact croſs, with the town houſe and exchange, a neat ſtructure, in the middle. In the caſtle, where the earls of Cheſter formerly held their parliaments, is a ſtately hall, ſomewhat like that at Weſtminſter, where the palatine courts and aſſizes are held. Cheſter has a manufactory of gloves and tobacco-pipes, and a conſiderable traffic of ſhop goods into N. Wales. It is 182 miles NW. of London. Markets on Wedneſday and Saturday.

CHESTER, a county of S. Carolina; a town of New Hampſhire; a town and county of Pennſylvania, with a fine harbour on the Delaware, 12 miles SW. of Philadelphia; two towns of New York; a town of Acadia, in Nova Scotia, 22 miles WSW. of Halifax; a town and river of Maryland; and a town of Virginia.

Cheſter, Northamp. near Archeſter and Wellingborough. Cheſter, Black, Somerſ. NW. of Bruton. Cheſter in the Street, 5 miles N. of Durham. Cheſter in the Wall, Northumberl. near Buſy Gap. Cheſter, Little, near Derby. Cheſter Over, Warw. a hamlet of Monk's Kirby.

*CHESTERFIELD, a town of Derbyſhire, ſeated on a gentle riſe, between two ſmall rivers, is, next to Derby, the moſt conſiderable town in the county. It has one of the largeſt free-ſchools in the N. of England. Here is a manufactory of worſted and cotton ſtockings, and of carpets; alſo ſilk mills, and potteries for brown ware; and near the town are large iron-founderies, which are ſupplied with ore and coal dug in the vicinity. Large quantities of lead are ſent hence by the new canal to the Trent, which it joins below Gainſborough. The country round Cheſterfield produces great quantities of camomile. The ſpire of the church, which is of timber, covered with lead, is warped awry. It is 22 miles N. of Derby, and 149 NNW of London. Market on Sat.

Cheſterfield, Staff. on the Tame, S. of Lichfield. Cheſterford, Great and Little, Eſſex, 3 miles from Walden, on the Cam. Cheſterton, 2 miles from Cambridge. Cheſterton, Somerſ. near Somerton. Cheſterton, Staff. N. of Newcaſtle under Line. Cheſterton, Glouceſ. a hamlet of Cirenceſter. Cheſterton, Hunt. 3 miles SW. of Peterborough. Cheſterton, Oxf. near Biceſter. Cheſterwood, Northumbl. near Langley Caſtle. Cheſton, Devonſh. W. of King's Bridge. Cheſtwardine, Shropſh. 5 miles from Newport. Cheſtwick, Northumb. on the coaſt, between Berwick and Holy Iſland. Cheſeworth, Suſſ. E. of Horſham. Cheſevering, Cornw. near St. Neot's, a monument of ſtones, like the Hurlers. Cheſwyke, near Warwick. Chete Wall, Yorkſ. SE. of Wakefield. Chetelhampton, Devonſ. on the Taw, near S. Moulton. Chetham, Lanc. N. of Manchester. Chetlop, a river in Northumberland. Chetnol, Dorſetſ. 2 miles S. of Yateminſter. Chetſham, Camb. in the Iſle of Ely. Chettell, Dorſetſ. near Blandford. Chettered Lodge, Dorſetſ. in Tarent Monkton. Chetteſcomb, Devonſ. N. of Tiverton. Chetton, Shropſ. SW. of Bridgenorth. Chetwin Aſton, Shropſ. SE. of Newport. Chetwin End, Shropſ. S. of Newport. Cheveley, Camb. near Newmarket. Cheveley, Berks, S. of E. Aſtley. Cheveley, Somerſ. N. of Wrington. Chevercl, Magna and Parva, Wilts, near Lavington. Chevington, E. and W. or Chevelington, Northumb. near Akelynton. Chevelſton, Devonſ. near Stokenham. Chevening, Kent, 3 miles from Sevenoaks. Cheverel's Green, Herts, 3 miles from Dunſtable. Chevers, Eſſex, E. of Chipping Ongar. Cheverton, Iſle of Wight, in Weſt Medina. Chewington, Suffolk, SW. of Bury.

CHEVIOT, a mountainous diſtrict, ſeparating the NW. part of Northumberland from Scotland. The hilly country is called the Cheviot Hills, as the adjoining fenny grounds are called Cheviot Moors. The cattle and wool are excellent.

Chew, Magna, or Biſhop's Chew, Somerſ. between Keynſham and Wrington. Chewſtock, Somerſ. SW. of Stanton Drew. Chewton Bunny, Hants between Lymington and Chriſtchurch. Chewton Keynſham, Somerſ. near Keynſham. Chewton Mendip, Somerſ. among Mendip Hills. Cheyney, Bucks, 3 miles from Amerſham, the family burying-place of the dukes of Bedford. Cheyney Longville, Shropſ. NW. of Ludlow.

CHIAMPA, a country of Aſia, bounded on the W. by Cambodia, on the N. by Cochin China, and on the E. and S. by the Indian Ocean, and the river Cambodia. It is little known.

CHIAPA, a province of Guatalima, Mexico, bounded by Tabaſco on the N. and by Vera Paz on the E.

CHIAPA DOS ESPAGNOLS, or CIVIDAD REAL, and CHIAPADOS INDIOS, two towns of Chiapa; the former is 380 miles SE. of Mexico, in lat. 17. N. the latter is 30 miles W. of Chiapa dos Eſpagnols.

CHIARENZA,

CHIARENZA, or CLARENCE, a ſea-port on the W. coaſt of the Morea, 84 miles SW. of Livadia, and 80 W. of Corinth.

CHIARI, a town in the Breſciano, where Prince Eugene obtained a victory over the French, in 1701.

CHIARO MONTE, a town of Sicily, in the Vale di Noto, 25 miles W. of Syracuſe.

CHIAVENNA, a town of Switſerland, capital of a county of the ſame name, in alliance with the Griſons. It has ſome trade in cattle, wine, ſilk, and fruits, and is the principal entrepot for the tranſport of merchandiſe between the Milaneſe and Germany. It is ſeated near the Lake of Chiavenna, and about 8 miles N. of the Lake of Como. Lat. 46. 15. N. lon. 9. 27. E.

*CHICHESTER, the capital of Suſſex, is a neat and handſome city, ſeated in a plain, by the river Lavant, by which it is encompaſſed on every ſide, except the N. The market-place is in the centre of the town, from which the 4 principal ſtreets are directed to the cardinal points of the compaſs, and bear the names of E. W. N. and S. Street. It's market is well ſupplied with proviſions, it exports corn, malt, &c. has ſome foreign commerce, a declining manufactory of needles, and a manufactory of baize, blankets, and coarſe cloths, lately eſtabliſhed. The haven, formed by a canal, cut from the city down into the bay, affords excellent lobſters. It is 61 miles SW. of London. Markets on Wedneſday, Friday, and Saturday.

CHICHESTER, a town of Pennſylvania, 17 miles SW. of Philadelphia.

Chicheſt, Eſſex, in the marſhes, near Holland Parva. Chickerill, E. and W. Dorſ. NW. of Weymouth. Chicklade, Wilts, near Hindon. Chickney, Eſſex, near Thaxted. Chickſand, Bedf. near Shefford. Chidcomb, or Chudcomb; ſee Chitcomb. Chidden, Hants, near Hambledon. Chidingfold, Surry, near Hallemere. Chiddingford, Devon. near South Moulton. Chiddimſton, Kent, near Penſhurſt. Chidham, Suſſ. between Chicheſter and Havant. Chidioke, Dorſet. near Charmouth. Chialey Mount, Somerſetſh. on the Parret, oppoſite to Bridgewater. Chidſall, Yorkſ. NW. of Wakefield.

CHIELEFA, a town in the Morea, near the Gulf of Coron.

CHIEMSEE, a town ſituated on an iſland in the Lake Chiemſee, (which contains ſeveral iſlands) in Bavaria, SW. of Saltzburg.

CHIERI, in French, QUIERS, a town of Piedmont, with manufactures of cloth and ſilk, ſituated in an agreeable country, ſurrounded by hills, covered with vines and fruit trees, 6 miles E. of Turin.

CHIETI, a city of Naples, capital of Abruzzo Citra.

Chignal St. James, and Chignal Smiley, Eſſex, NW. of Chelmsford. Chigwell, Eſſex, between Waltham Abbey and Rumford. Chigwell Dews and Chigwell Row, 2 hamlets adjoining to Chigwell. Chilbolton, Hants, N. ſide of Stockbridge. Chilcomb, Dorſetſ. SE. of Bridport. Chilcomb, Hants, near Wincheſter. Chilcompton, Somerſ. near Mendip. Childcot, Staff. near Hog's Norton. Childcot, Derb. bordering on Staffordſ. Chilcot, or Chalk Hill, Middl. near Bellſize. Childerditch, Eſſex, S. of Burntwood. Child Frome, Dorſetſ. NW. of Frampton. Childerley, 6 miles from Cambridge. Childhay, Dorſetſ. pariſh of Broad Windſor. Child Ockford, Dorſ. near Shilling-Ockford. Childrey, Berks, near Wantage. Child's Hill, Middl. near Hampſtead. Childwall, Lanc. E. of Liverpool. Childwick, Herts, near St. Albans. Chilfrome, Dorſetſ. 2 miles SE. of Wraxhall. Chilham, Kent, N. of Godmerſham. Chilhampton, Wilts, NE. of Wilton.

CHILI, a large country of S. America, bounded on the W. by the South Pacific Ocean; on the N. by Peru; on the E. by immenſe deſerts, which divide it from Paraguay and other parts of S. America, and on the S. by Patagonia. It is upwards of 800 miles in length, but it's breadth is uncertain. The Spaniſh colonies are thinly diſperſed along the borders of the S. Sea, on a narrow tract extending from 30 to 50 miles in breadth. A profuſion of natural productions is ſeen throughout this country, wherever attempts have been made to cultivate it. The wine made here is palatable and of a good body; and brandy is diſtilled from it. The northern parts produce olives. The uſeful animals introduced here from Europe have multiplied ſurprizingly. Mines of gold and copper are numerous. It is claimed by the Spaniards, but the greater part of it is poſſeſſed by the ſtill unconquered and independent natives.

CHILKA, a lake of Hindooſtan, on the ſea-coaſt of the province of Cattack in the country of Oriſſa, and on the NW. ſide of the Bay of Bengal. It communicates with the ſea by a narrow but deep opening, and is ſhallow within. It is 36 miles in length, and in moſt places from 10 to 13 in breadth, having many inhabited iſlands in it, and only a narrow ſlip of flat, ſandy ſoil between it and the ſea.

Chillenden, Kent, near Wingham. Chillesford,

Boxford, Suff. near Orford. Chilling, Hants, between Titchfield and it's bay. Chillingham Caſtle, Northumberl. near Alnwick. Chillington, Kent, near Maidſtone. Chillington, Staff. SW. of Brewood. Chillington, Suſſex, N. of Lewes. Chilmark, Wilts, near Chicklade. Chilmore, Warw. near Coventry.

CHILOE, an iſland on the coaſt of Chili, (about 110 miles in length, and 17 in breadth) producing much ambergriſe, and all neceſſary proviſions, except wine. The Spaniards have but one little fort in this iſland, called Chocas, and the town of Caſtro. About this iſland are many more, all which together form a juriſdiction. Cedar trees grow here to an amazing ſize. Lat. 43. S.

Chilſton, Kent, near Bockton Malherb. Chilſwell, Berks, near Abingdon. Chiltern, a chain of chalky hills, ſeparating the counties of Bedford and Herts, and running through the middle of Bucks, from Tring, Herts, to Henley upon Thames, Oxfordſh. They are covered, in various parts, with woods, and ſome of the eminences are of conſiderable height, and afford rich proſpects. To theſe hills is annexed the nominal office of ſteward under the crown, the acceptance of which, of conſequence, enables a member of the Britiſh parliament to vacate his ſeat. Chiltern All Saints, Wilts, E. of Warminſter. Chiltern St. Mary, Wilts, near Hareſbury. Chiltern Green, Herts, between Welwyn and Lutton. Chiltington, Suſſ. near W. Grinſtead. Chilton, Berks, near Cuckhamſey Hill. Chilton, Bucks, near Tame. Chilton, Kent, near Sandwich. Chilton, Kent, near Sittingbourn, Chilton, Shropſ. SE. of Shrewſbury. Chilton, Somerſ. near Barwick and Queen's Camel. Chilton, Somerſ. near Bridgewater. Chilton, Somerſ. near Stoke and Eddington. Chilton Candover, Hants, near Alreſford. Chilton Dummer, Somerſ. near Yeovil. Chilton Foliot, Wilts, 2 miles E. of Ramſbury. Chilton Hall, Suſſ. near Sudbury. Chilton, Magna and Parva, Durh. near Biſhop Auckland. Chilverſcoton, Warw. S. of Nuneaton. Chilwell, near Nottingham. Chilworth, Surry, near Guildford. Chilworth, Hants, E. of Rumſey.

CHIMAY, a town in the depart. of the North, ſituated on the river Blanche, 20 miles SSW. of Charleroy.

CHIMERA, a town on the coaſt of Albania, ſituated on a rock, near the ſea-coaſt, oppoſite the iſland of Corfu, in lat. 40. N.

CHIMLEIGH, a town of Devonſhire, almoſt ſurrounded by the river Dart, 21 miles NNW. of Exeter. Market Thurſday.

Chimley, Oxfordſhire, 8E. of Brampt

CHINA, an extenſive empire of A bounded on the W. by mountains and deſerts, which divide it from part of Tarta Thibet, and the kingdom of Ava; on N. by E. Tartary, from which it is ſe rated by a wall above 2000 miles in leng on which there are about 45,000 towe on the E. by the Yellow Sea and the C neſe Ocean; and on the S. by the ſa ocean, Tonquin, Laos, Pegu, and A It lies between 20 and 41 deg. N. lat. between 96 and 125 deg. E. lon. As extenſive country lies under a variety climates, it's air is very different. In th they are expoſed to tropical heats and riodical rains, while the rivers in the N. generally frozen up for ſome months duri the winter. It is chiefly a flat, open co try, but there are ſome mountains, wh are generally well cultivated and cove with trees, and there are mines of ir tin, copper, quickſilver, gold, and ſilv There is abundance of corn, and pulſe all ſorts, eſpecially rice; and here are veral trees, fruits, and animals, and a gr number of ſimples, peculiar to the count particularly a plant, called ginſeng, a t that produces peas, differing little fr thoſe of Europe; another, bearing a ki of gum, which makes excellent varniſh third bearing white berries, of the ſize o hazel nut, whoſe pulp is tallow, of wh candles are made; and a fourth, called white wax-tree, producing that article perior to the common bees-wax. T bamboo-cane grows to the height of an dinary tree; and though it is hollow wit in, the wood is hard, and proper for ma uſes, ſuch as pipes to convey water, box baſkets, and the making of paper, after is reduced into a ſort of paſte. China the only country which produces the te plant, and ſupplies other nations with t article, when prepared. There is ſcarce a village of China, eſpecially in the S. b what enjoys the benefit of ſome navigab river, lake, canal, or arm of the ſea, a wherever there is a town on ſhore, there another of boats upon the water, and ma families are born, live, and die the hogs, poultry, dogs, and other domeſt animals, being kept on board the ſame on ſhore. Beſides theſe veſſels, there i prodigious number of floats of timber p petually paſſing up and down the rive and canals, which carry vaſt numbers people on them. Some of theſe floats a a mile in length, and the proprietors buil little huts upon them, where they live t

the

they have diſpoſed of their timber, which they ſometimes carry 1000 miles. There is no part of the world where the inhabitants obſerve the forms of politeneſs ſo much as in China; they are perpetually interchanging civilities and ſalutations: the children ſhew the greateſt reſpect for their parents, and theſe ſhew a great veneration for their anceſtors. They are, however, very deceitful and treacherous. The complexion of the Chineſe is rather tawney; thoſe are thought to be the moſt handſome who are the moſt corpulent. The women are modeſt, and remarkable for their little feet. Polygamy, and various forms of idolatry, deform this improved country; here are followers of the Lamas blended with the diſciples of Confucius. The articles exported from China are, tea, China-ware, lackered-ware, paper, and the water-colour, known by the name of Indian ink, raw ſilk, cotton, manufactured ſilks, gold and ſilver ſtuffs.

CHINCA, a valley and ſea port of Peru, about 16 miles N. of Piſco.

Chineham, Hants, 1 mile from Baſingſtoke. Chineley, Derb. in the High Peak.

CHINEY, or CINEY, a town of Liege.

Chingford, Eſſex, near Woodford. Chiner, Oxf. 2 miles N. of Stoken Church. Chinnock, E. W. and Middle, Somerſ. between Crewkerne and Yeovil.

CHINON, an ancient town in the dept. of Indre and Loire, ſituated on the river Vienne, 10 miles N. of Richlieu, and 150 SW. of Paris.

CHINSURA, a pretty large town of Bengal, with a mole projecting into the river. It is a ſettlement of the Dutch, and is ſeated on the river Hoogly, between Chandernagore and the town of Hoogly, 17 miles N. of Calcutta.

CHINY, a town, and conſiderable county of Luxemburg, ſituated on the Semoy.

CHIOURLIC, a town and river of Romania, 50 miles NW. of Conſtantinople.

CHIOZZA, a town and ſmall iſland, about 13 miles S. of Venice.

Chipchaſe, Northumb. on the N. Tyne. Chip Meadow, Suffolk, SW. of Beccles. Chipnal, Shropſ. near Knighton.

*CHIPPENHAM, a large, populous, well built town, of Wilts, with a conſiderable manufacture of ſuperfine woollen cloth. It was the ſeat of Alfred, and other Weſt-Saxon kings, and is ſeated on the Avon, over which is a ſtone bridge of 16 arches, 21 miles E. of Briſtol, and 94 W. of London. Market on Thurſday.

Chippenham, Cambridgeſ. 14 miles from Cambridge. Chipping, Herts, N. of Buntingford. Chipping, Lanc. 10 miles E. of Garſtang.

*CHIPPING NORTON. See NORTON.

CHIPPING ONGAR, a town of Eſſex, 20 miles from London. Market on Sat.

CHIPPING SUDBURY, a town of Glouceſter, 12 miles from Briſtol, and 23 from Cirenceſter. A great market for corn and cheeſe on Thurſday.

Chipping Warden, Northamp. near Banbury, in Oxf. Chipſtable, Somerſ. W. of Wivelſcomb. Chipſtead, Surry, near Gatton and Banſtead Downs. Chirbury, Shropſ. 1 mile NE. of Montgomery. Chirden, Northumb. in Tindale, near Whitcheſter. Chirk, Denbighſ. S. of Wrexham. Chirton, Northumb. near N. Shields. Chiſſelborough, Somerſ. 4 miles from Crookhern. Chiſſebury, Wilts, between Wilton and Shaftesbury. Chiſtlehampton, Oxf. near the Thame, oppoſite to Milton. Chiſtlehurſt, Kent, near Eltham. Chiſlet, Kent, between Reculver and Thanet Iſle. Chiſleton, E. and W. Wilts, near Marlborough.

CHISME, ancient CYSSUS, a ſea-port, on the W. coaſt of Natolia, oppoſite the Iſland of Scio.

Chiſſel, Great and Little, Eſſex, in the NW. angle of the country. Chiſton, Somerſ. NW. of Axbridge. Chiſwick, Middl. SW of Hammerſmith. Chiſworth, Derb. in the High Peak. Chitcomb, Dorſetſ. near Ibberton. Chithurſt, Suſſ. NW. of Midhurſt. Chitman, Suſſ. near Chittingley.

CHITRO, a town of Macedonia.

CHITTELDROOG, a town of Myſore, 86 miles NW. of Seringapatam.

Chiltenholt Wood, Devonſ. near S. Moulton. Chittingly, Suſſex, NW. of Haylſham. Chitwood, or Chetwood, near Buckingham.

CHIVAZZO, or CHIVAS, a town in Piedmont, ſituated near the junction of the rivers Orco and Po, 11 miles NE. of Turin.

Chivington, E. and W. Northumberl.

CHIUSI, a town of Sienna, Tuſcany.

CHIUTAYA, or CUTAJAH, a town, capital of a diſtrict, in Natolia, containing ſeveral moſques, and 3 Armenian churches. Lat. 49. 14. N. lon. 30. 30. E.

CHOCZIM, or COKZIM, a town of Moldavia, ſituated on the S. ſide of the Dnieſter, on the frontiers of Poland.

CHOISSEY, four towns of France; the firſt 6 miles S. of Paris; the ſecond in the dept. of the Seine and Marne; the third in the dept. of Loiret, and the fourth in the dept. of Oiſe.

Cholderton, Wilts, E. of Amesbury. Cholsbury, Bucks, S. of Tring.

CHOLLET, a town in the department of Maine

Maine and Loire, 27 miles SSW. of Angers.

Chollacomb, Devonſ. SE. of Comb Martin. Cholmondeley, Cheſh. 3 miles NE. of Malpas. Cholmſton, Cheſh. 5 miles NW. of Namptwich. Cholmundeſton, Cheſh. near Cholmſton. Cholſey, Berks, near Wallingford. Cholton, Somerſ. near Somerton. Cholworthy, or Elworthy Houſe, Somerſetſhire, near Stoke Gomer.

CHONAD, a town of Hungary, ſituated on the Maroſch, 25 miles N. of Temeſwar.

Chopwell, Durham, W. of Gibſide.

CHORASAN, anciently BACTRIANA, a province of Perſia, bounded on the N. by Charaſm and the country of the Uſbeck Tartars; on the E. by Bukharia and Candahar; on the S. by Segeſtan; and on the W. by Mezanderan and the Caſpian Sea; about 150 leagues in length and 140 in breadth.

CHORGES, a town in the dept. of the Upper Alps, 10 miles E. of Gap.

Chorleton, NW. of Cheſter. Chorleton, Cheſh. NW. of Malpas. Chorley, Cheſh. E. of Knottesford.

CHORLEY, a town of Lancaſhire, with large manufactures of cottons, fuſtains, calicoes, and muſlins. The environs abound in mines of coal, lead, and alum, and with quarries of flag, ſlate, aſhler and mill ſtone. It is ſeated on the rivulet Chor, near the river Yarrow, 7 miles SE. of Preſton, and 203 NW. of London. Markets on Tueſday and Saturday.

Chorſtree, Herefordſ. near Leominſter.

CHOROSZOWA, a little, mountainous village of Bielſk, in Poland. It is inhabited by a tribe of mountaineers, called Pocutians, who wear, (the youths and married men) a round, pendent cap, of black lamb-ſkin, on their heads, a leather thong, ſtrung with braſs croſſes, round their necks, and always have an axe about them, kept remarkably keen, which they ſleep with under their heads, and bear in their hands at church, and in all their diverſions.

Chaſeley, Berks, near Wallingford. Choter, a river in Rutland.

CHOULE, a ſea-port of Concan, in Hindooſtan, with a harbour for ſmall veſſels, about 30 miles S. of Bombay. It is ſubject to the Portugueſe.

Chowle, Cheſh. between Cheſter and Whitchurch.

CHREMNITZ, a town in the N. of Hungary, celebrated for it's ſilver mines. It is 56 miles N. of Gran.

*CHRISTCHURCH, a town of Hants, trading in knit ſilk ſtockings, gloves, and watch chains. Here is a good ſalmon-fiſhery. It is ſeated at the confluence of the rivers Avon and Stour, with a ſmall barred, tide haven, 98 miles SW. of London. Market on Monday.

Chriſtchurch, Monm. E. of Caerleon.

CHRISTIANIA, ANSLO, or OBSLO, city of Southern Norway, in the government of Aggerhuys, containing about 900 inhabitants. The ſtreets are projected in ſtraight lines, and at right angles to each other, and are uniformly 40 feet broad. It has an excellent harbour, and carries on conſiderable trade. It's principal exports are tar, ſoap, iron, copper, planks, deals and alum. The ſaw-mills here are numerous. It is pleaſantly ſeated along the ſhore of the Bay of Bioming, which forms the N. extremity of the Gulf of Chriſtiania, 2 miles from the open ſea, and 200 N. by W. of Copenhagen. Lat. 59. 55. N. lon. 10. 50. E.

CHRISTIANBURG, a Daniſh fort and ſettlement on the Gold Coaſt of Guinea.

Chriſtian Malford, Wilts, NE. of Chippenham.

CHRISTIANSTADT, a ſmall, well-built town of Sweden, in the territory of Bleckingen. The exports are alum, pitch, and tar; and here are manufactures of cloth and filken ſtuffs. It is 50 miles NE. of Copenhagen. Lat. 55. 58. N. lon. 14. 10. E.

Chriſtigneth, a river in Denbighſhire which runs into the Dee, oppoſite Kerio.

CHRISTINA, ST. See MARQUESAS.

CHRISTMAS ISLAND, nearly in the centre of the Pacific Ocean, is 45 miles in circumference, bounded by a reef of coral rocks, on the W. ſide of which is a bank of fine ſand, extending a mile into the ſea, and affording good anchorage. The ſoil is light and black, compoſed of decayed vegetables, the dung of birds, and ſand. Here are a few cocoa-nut and other trees, ſhrubs, and plants, ſome birds, and plenty of fiſh and turtles. Lat. 2. 59. N. lon. 157. 32. W.

CHRISTOPHER'S, ST. or ST. KITS, one of the Caribbee and Leeward Iſlands, in the W. Indies, about 18 leagues NW. of Antigua. It is 20 miles in length, and 7 in breadth, and has high mountains in the middle, whence rivulets flow, which are of great uſe to the inhabitants. Between the mountains are rocks, precipices and thick woods; and, in the SW. part, hot, ſulphureous ſprings at the bottom of them. The air is good, and the ſoil light, ſandy, and fruitful: they are, however, ſubject to hurricanes. It is divided into 9 pariſhes, and contains 4 towns or hamlets, Baſſeterre, the capital, Sandy Point, Old Road, and Deep Bay. The white inhabitants are computed at 4000, and the negroes at 26,000. The produce is chiefly ſugar, (the general average of this article, for a ſeries of years, is 16,000 hogſheads of 16 cwt.) cotton, ginger, indigo, and the tropical fruits. It is poſſeſſed by the Engliſh. Lar. 17. 15. N. lon. 63. 14. W.

habitan

CHUDLEIGH, a town of Devonſhire, with a woollen manufacture, ſeated near the river Teign, 9 miles SW. of Exeter, and 183 W. by S. of London. Market on Saturday.

Chudleigh Rock, in the neighbourhood of Chudleigh; viewed from the W. it is a bold and beautiful perpendicular rock, apparently one ſolid maſs of marble. From the SE. a hollow opens to the view, with a ſtream ruſhing impetuouſly at the bottom, here and there checked in it's progreſs by a great quantity of rude ſtones ſcattered around. Altogether, it is one of the moſt ſtriking, inland rocks in the iſland. Chudleigh, Devonſhire, between Crediton and Barnſtaple.

CHUNAR, an Engliſh fort and ſettlement of Benares, in Hindooſtan, ceded to the Engliſh, in 1772, by the nabob of Oude, in exchange for Allahabad. It is ſituated on a rock, on the S. ſide of the Ganges, 19 miles S. of Benares, Lat. 25. 10. N. long. 83. 50. E.

CHUNAUB, or JENAUB, a river of Hindooſtan, one of the five branches of the Indus, which falls into that river 20 miles below Moultan.

Church, Lancaſhire, NE. of Blackburn. Churcham, 5 miles NW. of Glouceſter. Churchdown, between Glouceſter and Cheltenham. Church-End, Glouc. in Tiddenham pariſh. Church End, Glouc. in Slimbridge pariſh. Church End, Glouceſ. in Siddley pariſh. Church End, Glouceſ. in Twining pariſh. Church Heath, SE. of Chester. Church Hill, Oxf. near Chipping Norton. Church Hill, Worc. N. of Kidderminſter. Church Hill, Worceſterſhire. SE. of Worceſter, near Hagley.

Church Hill, in Fermanagh, Ulſter.

Churchill, Somerſ. SW. of Wrington. Churchill, Worceſ. near Bredicot.

CHURCHILL, a town of Maryland.

CHURCHILL FORT and RIVER, on the NW. part of Hudſon's Bay. Lat. 58. 48. N. lon. 94. 3. W.

Churchingford, Devonſ. Church Hulm, Cheſh. on the banks of the Dan. Church Langton, Worc. 4 miles E. of Evesham. Church Land, in Kilkenny, Leinſter.

Church Langton, Leiceſ. near Market Harborough. Church Over, Warw. oppoſite to Cheſter Over. Church Stanway, Glouc. Church Stempton, Devonſh. near Chard.

CHURCH STRETTON, a town of Shropſhire, with a manufacture of coarſe cloth, for the packing of hops and wool, 14 miles S. of Shrewſbury. Market on Thurſday.

Church Town, in W. Meath, Leinſter. Church Town, in Cork, Munſter. Church Town, in Waterford, Munſter. Church Town, in Derry, Ulſter.

Church Wharton, Norf. near Lynn Regis. Churn, a river running into the Thames at Cricklade. Churnet, a river in Staffordſhire. Churton, Cheſhire, 2 villages N. and S. of Lea Hall.

CHUSAN, an iſland of China, in lat. 30. N.

CHUSISTAN, an extenſive province of Perſia, but thinly inhabited, bounded on the N. by Irac Agemi; on the E. by Farſiſtan; on the S. by the Gulf of Perſia; and on the W. by the Tigris, which ſeparates it from the Arabian Irac. This country was called by the Greeks Suſiana, from Suſa the capital.

Chute, a river in Wilts. Chute, Wilts, NE. of Luggerſhall. Chutenham, Somerſ. near Mendip Hills.

CHIAMPA, a kingdom of Aſia, bounded on the W. by Cambodia, on the N. by Cochin China, and on the E. and S. by the Indian Ocean and the river Cambodia.

CICACOLE, a town and circar of Hindooſtan, on the NW. coaſt of the Bay of Bengal. Lat. 8. 16. N. lon. 84. E.

CICLUT, a fortreſs or Dalmatia, 40 miles N. of Raguſa.

CILLEY, a town and diſtrict of Stiria, 130 miles SSW. of Vienna.

CIMBRISHAMN, a ſea-port of Schonen, in Sweden. Lat. 55. 40. N. lon. 14. 20. E.

Cimen Shore, Suſſex, near Witterling, in the Iſle of Selſey.

CINALOA, a town and province of Mexico, lying between New Biſcay and the Gulf of California.

CINTRA, a cape of Portugueſe Eſtramadura, otherwiſe called the Rock of Liſbon, on the N. ſide of the entrance to the Tajo. Near it is a town of the ſame name. Lat. 38. 46. N. lon. 9. 20. W.

CIOTAT, LA, a ſea-port in the dept. of the Mouths of the Rhone, famous for muſcadine wine. It is ſeated on the Bay of Laquee, between Marſeilles and Toulon. Lat. 43. 12. N. lon. 5. 46. E.

CIRCARS, NORTHERN, 5 provinces lying NE. of the Carnatic. Of theſe, Cicacole, Rajamundry, Ellore, and Condapilly, are in poſſeſſion of the Engliſh, and Guntoor is ſubject to the Nizam of the Deccan. The firſt four occupy the ſea coaſt from Chilka Lake, on the confines of Cattack, to the N. bank of the Kiſtna, forming a ſlip of country 350 miles in length, and from 20 to 75 in breadth, having mountains and extenſive foreſts on one ſide, and the ſea on the other, while the extremities only are open. The circars are 350 miles from Bengal, and 250 from Madras, and produce an annual revenue of 360,000l.; that of Guntoor is 70,000l.

CIRCASSIA, one of the ſeven countries which lie between the Black Sea and the Caſpian, bounded on the N. by the river Don, and on the W. by part of the Black Sea and the Sea of Azoph. They are a nation of mountaineers, who ſubſiſt by raiſing cattle, and fix themſelves on the banks of rivers for the ſake of paſturage and water. The Circaſſians are divided into three claſſes; the princes, the nobles, called uſdens, and the yaſſals, or people. They have never had any written laws, but are governed by a collection of ancient uſages. They have few manufactures; their agriculture hardly produces ſufficient for their own ſubſiſtence. Sheep and horſes form a principal part of their commerce, and ſlaves, which they take in their predatory excurſions. Their food conſiſts of a little meat paſte, made of millet, and beer made of the ſame grain fermented. They have both the Bible and the Koran; but, not having letters of their own, thoſe who write their language make uſe of Arabic characters. This nation has been, of late years, gradually reduced under the dominion of Ruſſia, to which it is now almoſt wholly ſubject, and is included in the government of Caucauſus.

*CIRENCESTER, or CICESTER, a large and populous town, in Glouceſterſhire, (ſuppoſed to have been built by Ciſſa, a Saxon prince) and formerly ſurrounded by walls, of which ſome veſtiges are yet viſible. King Canute, the Dane, held a general council here in 1020. It has manufactures of cutlery ware, carpeting, wool-combing, wool-ſtapling, and yarn-making, and a communication with Stroudwater, from which it derives great advantage. It is ſeated on the River Churn, in the road from Oxford to Bath, 28 miles SE. of Glouceſter, and 89 W. of London. Markets on Monday and Friday.

CIRENZA, a town of Calabria Ultra.

Ciſbury Hill, Wilts, near Wanſdyke.

Ciſbury Hill, Suſſex, near Selſey.

CITADELLA, a ſea-port town of the Iſland of Minorca, with a good harbour, on the NW. coaſt, in lat. 46. N.

CITTA DI CASTELLO, a town of Umbria, ſeated on the river Tiber.

CITTA NUOVA, a town of Iſtria.

CITTA NUOVA COTTONERA, a town of Malta, with the port of St. Margarita.

CITTA VITTORIOSA, or IL BORGO, a town in the Iſland of Malta, ſeated on a narrow neck of land, in an excellent harbour, to the left of Valetta.

CIVIDAD REAL, a town of Spain, capital of La Mancha. The inhabitants are noted for dreſſing glove-leather.

CIVIDAD RODRIGO, a conſiderable town of Leon, on the river Aguada, 40 miles SW. of Salamanca.

CIVITA DI FRIULI, in Friuli, Venice.

CIVITA DI PENNA, in Abruzzo Ultra.

CIVITA CASTELLANA, a town, on a high rock, in St. Peter's Patrimony.

CIVITA NUOVA, a town of Ancona, 9 miles from Loretto.

CIVITA VECCHIA, a ſea port in the Campagne di Roma, (one of the beſt in Italy) where the pope's galleys are ſtationed. It is 35 miles NW. of Rome.

CIVITA VECCHIA, or MELITA, a town, in Malta, ſituated on a hill, in the centre of the iſland, and ſtrongly fortified. It is the ſee of a biſhop. From the town may be ſeen the whole iſland, and ſometimes the coaſts of Africa and Sicily.

Claby, in Fermanagh, Ulſter.

Clack, Wilts, near Chriſtian Malford.

Clack, Devonſ. 7 miles from Frome.

CLACKMANNANSHIRE, a county of Scotland, ſurrounded by Perthſhire, unite on the W. where it is ſeparated from Stirlingſhire by the Forth. It is 8 miles in length, and 5 in breadth, and produces good corn and paſture, and plenty of coal and ſalt. The town of CLACKMANNAN, (in a tower of the caſtle of which are preſerved, to this day, the great ſword and helmet of King Robert Bruce, and a large two-handed ſword of Sir John Graham, the friend of the heroic Wallace) is ſeated on the N. ſhore of the Frith of Forth, 7 miles SE. of Stirling.

Clady, in Derry, Ulſter, 108 miles from Dublin. Clady, in Tyrone, Ulſter.

Clarborough, Nott. near Hayton.

CLAGENFURT, a town, capital of Carinthia, with a manufacture of cloth. It is 50 miles N. of Trieſt.

Claghans. See Briggs.

Claines, near Worceſter.

CLAIR, ST. a lake of N. America, 9 miles in circumference, which receives the waters of the Lakes Superior, Michigan and Huron, and diſcharges them through the ſtrait called Detroit into Lake Erie.

CLAIRAC

CLAIRAC. See CLERAC.

CLAIRMONT. See CLERMONT.

Clakton, Great and Little, Eſſex, E. of Merſey Iſland, near St. Oſyth.

CLAMECI, a town in the dept. of Nievre, ſeated at the confluence of the rivers Beuvron and Yonne, 21 miles S. of Auxerre.

Clandon, E. and W. Surry, near Guildford.

Clane, in Kildare, Leinſter. Claneconnel; ſee Warringſtown.

Clanfield, Oxfordſ. near Radcotbridge. Clanfield, Hants, near Fifield. Clanfield, Hants, NE. of Hambledon. Clanmay, a river in the Iſle of Man. Clannaborough, Devonſhire, near Bow and Crediton.

Clanroad, in Clare, Munſter.

Clapcot, Berks, near Wallingford. Clapgate, Weſtm. near Ambleſide. Clapham, near Bedford. Clapham, Berks, near Wickham. Clapham, and Clapham Common, Surry, environed with numerous houſes of the gentry, 5 miles SW. by S. of London. Clapham, Suſſex, SE. of Arundel. Clapham, Yorkſ. 6 miles NW. of Settle. Clapton, Glouc. on an eminence W. above Burton on the Water. Clapton, Middl. in Hackney. Clapton, Somerſetſhire, near Portbury.

Clare, in King's County, Leinſter, Clarebridge, in Galway, Connaught. Care, in Armagh, Ulſter. Clare, in Mayo, Connaught.

CLARE, a county of Munſter, in Ireland, 47 miles long, and 32 broad, bounded on the W. by the Atlantic; on the N. by Galway; and on the E. and S. by the Shannon, which ſeparates it from Tipperary, Limerick, and Kerry. It contains 2 market-towns, 79 pariſhes, and about 96,000 inhabitants; and breeds more horſes than any other county in Ireland, as alſo a great number of cattle and ſheep. The town of Clare, called alſo Ennis, though diſtinct from Ennis, which is 2 miles diſtant, is 17 miles NW. of Limerick and 112 SW. of Dublin.

CLARE, a town of Suffolk, with a manufacture of ſeys. It is a little, poor, dirty place, the ſtreets being unpaved, and is ſeated on the river Stour, into which the river Clare falls a little below, 15 miles S. of Bury and 56 NE. of London. Market on Friday.

Clare Iſland, in the Bay of Baltimore, Cork, Munſter. Claremore, or Clarmore, in Galway, Connaught.

Claremont, Surry, near Eſher. Clarendon Park, 3 miles E. of Saliſbury.

CLARENS, or CHATILLARD, a village in the Pays de Vaud, Swiſſerland, the principal ſcene of Rouſſeau's Eloiſe. It is delightfully ſituated in a fertile country, not far from Vevay, on an eminence, which ſlopes gently toward the Lake of Geneva, of which majeſtic body of water, it's fertile borders and the adjacent ſcenery, conſiſting of vineyards, fields of corn and paſture, rich groves of oak, aſh, cheſnut trees, &c. as well as of the bold rocks and Alps of Savoy, it commands an extenſive view.

Claret Hall, Eſſex, near the Stour.

Claretown, in Clare, Munſter. Clariſford, in Clare, Munſter, near Killaloe.

Clarken Green, Hants, 4 miles W. of Baſingſtoke. Clare, Northumberl. N. of Pict's Wall, near Halton Hall. Clarthy, or Clarvén, a river in Radnorſhire. Clashy, Lanc. near Hawkeſhead.

Claſhmore, in Waterford, Munſter.

Clatercot, Oxf. Clatford, Wilts, near Marlborough. Clatford, Upper, Hants, near Andover. Clayton, Staff. S. of Newcaſtle under Line. Clayton Hall, Lanc. E. of Mancheſter. Clayton in the Dale, and in the Moor, Lancaſh. between Blackburn and Burnley. Clotworthy, Somerſetſhire, between Bridgewater and Dulverton.

CLAUDE, ST. a town in the dept. of Jura, ſeated on the river Liſon, 35 miles NW. of Geneva. From Mount St. Claude, which forms part of Mount Jura, is a fine proſpect of Swiſſerland and Savoy, the Lake and town of Geneva, and the Pays de Vaud.

Clavel, Devonſ. near Horton. Claverdon, Warw. near Henley. Claverham, Suſſex, SW. of Haylſham. Claverham, Somerſ. in Yatton. Clavering, Eſſex, near Saffron Walden. Claverley, Shropſ. SE. of Whitchurch. Claverley, Shropſ. NE. of Bridgenorth. Claverton, Somerſ. near Bath. Clauford, Somerſ. near Frome Selwood. Claugh's Hill, Lanc. near Wierſdale Foreſt. Claughton, NE. of Lancaſter.

CLAUSENBURG, or COLOSVAR, a city in Tranſylvania, ſituated on the river Lamos, where the ſtates aſſemble. On one of the gates is an inſcription in honour of the Emperor Trajan.

Clauſworth, Somerſ. near Hardington. Clawdock, a river in Denbighſ. Clawghton Hall, Lanc. near Garſtang. Claworth, Nott. in the manor of Manſfield. Clawſton, Long, Leic. near Nether Broughton. Clawton, Devonſhire, near Houlſworthy. Claxby, Lincolnſ. S. of Alford. Claxby, Linc. near Market Raiſin. Claxby, Linc. W. of Bullingbroke. Claxton, Norfolk, on the Yare, near Thurſton. Claxton, Durham, near Gretham.

CLAY, a town of Norfolk, with a ſmall harbour, and large ſalt-works in the neighbourhood, bourhood, from whence ſalt is ſent all over the country, and ſometimes exported to Holland, the Baltic, &c. It is ſeated on an arm of the ſea, between two rivers, 8 miles from Walſingham, and 20 NW. of Norwich. Market on Saturday.

Clay Hill, or Brown Clee Hill, Shropſ. on the N. bank of the river Temd. Claybury, Eſſex, between Wanſtead and Rumford. Clay Cockle, Norf. S. of Swaffham. Clay Cotton, Northamp. E. of Daventry. Claydon, Eaſt, Middle, and Steple, Bucks, W. of Winſlow. Clay Hanger, Devonſ. N. of Aſhbridge. Clay Haydon, Devonſ. near Church Stempton. Clay Hill, Wilts, near Warminſter. Clay Hill, Middl. near Enfield Chace. Clay Pool, Linc. S. of Beckingham. Clay Thorp, Linc. E. of Burwell. Clayton Hall, Lanc. NW. of Chorley. Clayton cum Kimer, Suſſex, NW. of Lewes. Clayton, Yorkſ. SW. of Bradford. Clayton, Yorkſ. W. Riding, E. of Byerley Park. Cleader, Cornw. E. of Camelford. Cleagate, Surry, W. of Ewell.

CLEAR, CAPE, a promontory on a little iſland, on the S. coaſt of Ireland. Lat. 51. 18. N. lon. 9. 23. W. There is alſo another iſland, called Cape Clear Iſland, at a ſmall diſtance from Baltimore Haven; they are both inhabited.

Cleaſby, Yorkſh. on the Tees, SW. of Darlington. Cleator, Cumb. near Egremont. Cleatop, Yorkſh. W. Riding, 1 mile from Settle. Cleborne Hall, Weſtmorl. near Penrith.

CLEBURY, called alſo NORTH CLEBURY, and CLEBURY MORTIMER, a town in Shropſhire, ſituated on the N. ſide of the river Temd, 28 miles SE. of Shrewſbury. Market on Thurſday.

Clebury Park, Shropſh. on the river Rea, and borders of Worceſterſhire. Cledagh, a river in Monmouthſhire, which runs into the Uſk above Llanfoyſt; a river in Carmarthenſ. which runs into the Muthvey near Llangadock; a river in Glamorganſ. which runs into the Neath, near Neath; and a river in Pembrokeſ. which runs into the Clethy near Monac Lodge. Cledbewen, a river in Pembrokeſ. which runs into the Dongledy at Redbarton. Cledell, Hereſ. between Hatterel Hills and Monm. Clee, Linc. between Grimſby and the ſea. Clee St. Margaret's, Shropſ. SW. of Brown Clee Hill. Clere, St. Cornw. N. of Leſkard. Cleeton, Shropſ. S. of Brown Clee Hill. Cleeve, Devonſ. near Culliton. Cleeve, Glouc. in Weſtbury pariſh. Cleeve, Biſhop's, Glouc. 5 miles from Tewkeſbury. Cleeve Prior, Worc. 6 miles NE. of Eveſham. Clegge, Lancaſ. SE. of Rochdale. Clehonger, near Hereford. Clement, St. Cornw. between Falmouth Haven and Truro. Clement, St. Devonſ. N. of Dartmouth. Clench Wharton, Norfolk, NW. of Lynn. Clendon, Northamptonſ. near Rothwell. Clenhill, Northumb. in Herteſheved manor. Clenſton, Dorſetſ. NE. of Middleton. Clent, Staff. 2 miles from Stourbridge.

Clentibret Church, in Monaghan, Ulſter, 57 miles from Dublin.

Cleophill, Bedfordſhire, near Luton.

CLERAC, a town in the dept. of Lot and Garonne, trading in tobacco, corn, wine and brandy. It is ſeated on the river Lot 12 miles NW. of Agen.

Clere Place, Surry, near Farnham.

Clere's, St. Kent, near Sevenoaks.

CLERKE'S ISLANDS, two inhabited iſlands, of conſiderable extent, in the N Pacific Ocean, between Kamſchatka an N. America. Lat. 63. 15. N. lon. 16 30. W.

CLERMONT, a town of New Hampſhire; and a town of France, in the reſpective departments of the Meuſe, Lo and Garonne, Puy de Dome, the Sart the Herault, and of the Oiſe. This la is named Clermont en Beauvaiſis, and ſituated on an eminence, near the Breſch 37 miles N. of Paris, on the road fro Amiens.

CLERY, a town in the dept. of Loire 7 miles SW. of Orleans; and a town the dept. of the Somme, 3 miles NW. Peronne.

Cleve, Kent, near Ightam, or Ilkha Cleve, Kent, in the Iſle of Thanet. Cle Shropſ. S. of Wem. Cleve, Somerſ. ne Bridgewater. Clevedon, Somerſ. on t ſea-ſide, nearly oppoſite to the Flatholm Cleveland, Yorkſ. N. Riding, a tract the borders of Durham. Clevelod, Wor Cleve, Old, Somerſetſh. SW. of Watche Cleverton, Wilts, near Malmſbury.

CLEVES, the duchy of, one of the fine countries of Germany, in the circle Weſtphalia, bounded on the N. by Mo ſter and Overyſſel, and on the W. Guelderland and Brabant. It is divide in two by the Rhine, and ſubject to t king of Pruſſia. It is about 40 miles length, and from 10 to 12 in breadt The revenues of Cleves and Mark amou to a million of crowns.

CLEVES, it's capital, is a handſo town, conſiſting of about 800 houſes. is ſeated on a hill, 3 miles from the Rhi and 10 ESE. of Nimeguen.

Cleveſend, Great and Little, Kent, of the Iſle of Thanet. Cleworth, Berk W. of Windſor. Cleybrook, Iſle of Wigh in W. Medina. Cleybrook, Great an Litt

Little, Leic. NW. of Lutterworth. Cleydon, Oxf. near Clatercote. Cleydon, Durh. 2 miles from Sunderland. Cleydon, Suff. near Ipſwich. Cley End Green, Kent, NE. of Bromley. Cleygate, Surry, 3 miles from Kingſton. Cley Hall, Warw. near Kineton. Cleytham, Linc. N. of Kirton. Clianger, Dorſetſ. 2 miles SW. of Buckland Abbas. Cliddeſdon, Hants, SE. of Baſingſtoke. Cliefden, Bucks, 5 miles NW. of Windſor. Cliff, Kent, below Graveſend. Cliff, Dorſet. 4 miles from Dorcheſter. Cliff, Suſſex, near Lewes. Cliff, Suſſex, between Seaford and Beachy Head. Cliff, Warw. near Whatley. Cliff, Iſle of Wight, in Weſt Medina. Cliff, Yorkſ. E. Riding, near Pearce Bridge. Cliff, Yorkſ. SE. of Barnard Caſtle.

CLIFFE, KING'S, a town of Northamptonſhire, 27 miles NE. of Northampton, and 88 NNW. of London. Market on Tueſday.

Cliff, Long, Yorkſ. W. Riding. Cliff, N. and S. E. Riding, E. of Spalding Moor.

Cliffony, in Sligo, Connaught.

Clifford, Glouc. near Luddington. Clifford, Yorkſ. near Wetherby and Tadcaſter. Clifford Caſtle, Heref. near Kington. Clifford Chambers, Glouc. near Tewkeſbury. Clifford Hill, Northamp. on the river Nen. Clifton, Cheſ. near Rock Savage. Clifton, Cornw. SE. of Saltaſh. Clifton, Derb. in Aſhborne pariſh. Clifton, Dorſetſ. 2 miles from Sherburn. Clifton, Glouc near Briſtol, adjoining Durdam Downs. Clifton, Lancaſ. W. of Preſton. Clifton, Lancaſ. NW. of Mancheſter. Clifton, 4 miles from Nottingham Clifton, Oxfordſ. near Dedington. Clifton, Oxfordſ. between Dorcheſter and Abingdon. Clifton, Warw. E. of Dunſmore Heath. Clifton, Worc. between Tewkeſbury and Worceſter. Clifton, Worc. upon the Temd, bordering on Heref. Clifton, W. of York. Clifton, Yorkſ. N. Riding, N. of Maſham. Clifton, Yorkſ. SE. of Halifax. Clifton, Yorkſ. W. Riding, NW. of Tickhill. Clifton, Great and Little, Cumb. between Cockermouth and Workington. Clifton, Bedf. SE. of Shefford. Clifford, Weſtmor. 3 miles from Penrith. Clifton Canvil, Staff. near Burton upon Trent. Clifton Maubank, Dorſetſh. 2 miles NW. of Yateminſter. Clifton Raymes, Bucks, near the rivers Ouſe and Oulney. Cliftons, N. and S. Nott. on the river Trent, between Normanton and Thorney. Climping, Suſſex, near the mouth of the Arun. Clinger, Glouceſterſ. in Hinchcombe pariſh Clint, Yorkſh. W. Riding, near Hempſtwait. Clipby, Norf. W. of Yarmouth. Clipſham, Rutl. in Okeham hundred. Clipſton, Nott. in Plumbtree pariſh. Clipſton, Northamp. NE. of Naſeby. Clipſton, King's, Nott. between Allerton and Mansfield.

CLISS, a fortreſs, in Dalmatia, 10 miles N. of Spalatro.

CLISSON, a town in the dept. of Lower Loire, ſituated on the river Sevre, 12 miles SE. of Nantes.

Cliſt, Biſhop's or Sackvil, Cliſt Honi-ton, Cliſt St. George, and Cliſt St. Mary, Devonſ. are 4 villages on the E. and SE. ſides of Exeter, ſo named from the Cliſt, a river of this county, which runs into the Ex, below Exeter. In the pariſh of Cliſt St. George, is an eſtate, or little farm, called Sucpitch, belonging to a family of the ſame name, which was ſettled here before the conqueſt, and may yet, from it's numerous progeny, remain unextinct for centuries to come. In the family are two ſmall grants, or feoffments, which no lawyer can read throughout, but which, the beſt judges are agreed, muſt have been paſt before the conqueſt. Cliſt, Broad, Cliſt St. Lawrence, and Cliſt Heydon, NE. of Exeter. Cliſt Heath, 4 miles E. of Exeter.

CLITHERO, a town in Lancaſhire, having manufactures of cotton, a medicinal ſpring, and a communication with all the late inland navigations. It ſtands, with it's ruinous caſtle, built by the Lacys, on the river Ribble, at the bottom of Pendil Hill, 33 miles SE. of Lancaſter, and 213 NNW. of London. Market on Sat.

Clitha, Monm. SW. of Ragland Caſtle, Clive, Cheſh. SW. of Middlewich. Clixby, Linc. N. of Thongcaſter. Clocaynog, Denbighſhire.

Cloga, in Kilkenny, Leinſter. Clogh, in Antrim, Ulſter, 81 miles from Dublin, Clogh*, in Down, Ulſter, 69 miles from Dublin. Clogbamon, in Wexford, Leinſter, Cloghan, in King's County, Leinſter, 62 miles from Dublin. Clogban, in Donegal, Ulſter, 118 miles from Dublin. Cloghanbeg, in Donegal, Ulſter, 152 miles from Dublin. Clogharney Church, in Tyrone, Ulſter, nearly 92 miles from Dublin. Clogheen*, in Tipperary, Munſter, 91 miles from Dublin.

CLOGHER, a city, or rather a village, of Tyrone, in Ulſter, (the ſee of a biſhop) 70 miles NNW. of Dublin.

Cloghjordan, in Tipperary, Munſter. Clognakelty, or Clonekilty, in Cork, Munſter; here is a good market for linen yarn. Cloghroe, in Cork, Munſter. Clonagam, in Waterford, Munſter. Clonakenny, in Tipperary, Munſter. Clonard*, on the borders of Meath, Leinſter. Clonaſlee, in Queen's County, Leinſter. Clonbullock, in King's County, Leinſter. Cloncurry, in Kildare, Leinſter. Clondalkin, 5 miles W. of Dublin. Clondrohid, in Cork, Munſter. Clonea, in Waterford, Munſter. Clone, in Leitrim, Connaught. Clonee, 7 miles from Dublin. Cloneen, in Tipperary, Munſter. Clonegall, in Wexford, Leinſter. Clonegal, in Carlow, Leinſter. Clonegowan, in King's County, Leinſter. Clones, in Monaghan, Ulſter. Clonfert, in Galway, Connaught. Clonkeen, in Louth, Leinſter. Clonlea, in Waterford, Munſter. Clonloſt, in Weſt Meath, Leinſter.

CLONMEL, a neat and improving town, of Tipperary, Munſter, pleaſantly ſituated on the Suir, on the road between Dublin and Cork, 19 miles SE. of Tipperary, 39 NE. of Cork, and 85 SW. of Dublin.

Clonmellan, in W. Meath, Leinſter, 32 miles from Dublin. Clonmene, in Cork, Munſter.

CLONMINES, a town of Wexford, in Leinſter, 6 miles SW. of Wexford.

Clonmuſh Church, in Carlow, Leinſter, 43 miles from Dublin. Clononaſtee, in Queen's County, Leinſter, 48 miles from Dublin. Clonony, in King's County, Leinſter. Clonoulty, in Tipperary, Munſter. Clonroch, in Wexford, Leinſter, 65 miles from Dublin. Clontarf, 2 miles from Dublin, pleaſantly ſeated on the N. ſide of the bay. Cloonakenny, in Limerick, Munſter, 118 miles from Dublin. Cloncurry, in Kildare, Leinſter, about 5 miles from Kilcock.

Clopham, Bedf. W. of Shefford. Clophill, Bedf. near Shefford. Clopton, Warw. N. of Stratford upon Avon. Clopton, Camb. on the Cam, oppoſite Shengay. Clopton, Glouc. in Mickleton pariſh. Clopton, Northamp. E. of Thrapſton. Clopton, Somerſ. near Portbury. Clopton, Suff. between Woodbridge and Debenham. Clothall, Herts, SE. of Baldock. Clothallbury, Herts, near Clothall. Clotton, Hoſield, Cheſ. between Tarven and Toperley.

CLOUD, ST. a town, 15 miles W. of Paris, in which was lately a royal palace, gardens, a caſcade, &c.

Clover Hill, in Roſcommon, Connaught, 72 miles from Dublin. Clown Callock; ſee Cloghnakelty.

Cloudeſley Buſh, Warw. NW. of Lutterworth. Clowdly, Devonſ. a harbour on the E. ſide of Hartland Point. Cloughton, Yorkſ. between Scarborough and Robin Hood's Bay. Clowant, Cornwall, near Helſton. Clowbet, Yorkſ. between Richmond and Darlington. Clow Croſs, Camb. N. of Wiſbeach. Cloweaock, a river in Radnorſ. Clowerwall, Glouc. in Newland pariſh. Clowhouſe, Linc. between Crowland and Spalding. Clown, Derbyſ. NW. of Bolſover.

CLOYNE, a town of Cork, in Munſter, 1 mile from the ſea coaſt, 10 SW. of Youghal, and 125 SW. of Dublin.

Cluggin, in Limerick, Munſter.

Clumber, Nott. in the pariſh of Worksop. Clun, Shropſ. S. of Biſhop's Caſtle, on the Clun. Clunall, Derb. in the High Peak. Clunbury, Shropſ. near Purſlow. Clungonas, or Clungunford, Shropſ. near Hopton Caſtle. Clunther, Nott. between Tuxford and Worksop. Clunton, Shropſ. near Purſlow.

CLUNY, a town in the dept. of Saone and Loire, famous for it's very ſpacious and magnificent ci-devant Benedictine abbey. The church is one of the largeſt in France. It is ſeated on the Groſne, 16 miles NW. of Maçon.

Clurewall, Glouc. in Dean Foreſt.

CLUSE, a town in the dept. of Mont Blanc, ſeated on the Arve, 24 miles SE. of Geneva.

Clutton, Cheſhire, NW. of Malpas. Clutton, Somerſ. S. of Penſford.

CLWYD, a beautiful vale of Denbighſhire, incloſed by high mountains, extending from the ſea inland above 20 miles: a river of the ſame name runs through it. It's breadth is from 3 to 8 miles, and it is covered with towns, villages, and gentlemen's ſeats.

CLYDE, a river of Scotland, which riſes in Annandale, and running NW. through Clydeſdale, paſſes by Lanerk, Hamilton, and Glaſgow, and falls ſoon after into the Frith of Clyde. It affords many romantic views, running for ſeveral miles between lofty eminences covered with wood, and exhibiting in it's courſe many ſtupendous cataracts.

CLYDESDALE, a wild diſtrict in the S. part of Lanerkſhire, where are extenſive lead-mines. See LEAD HILLS.

Clynſcgfaur, in Carnarvonſ. N. Wales.

Coagh, in Antrim, Ulſter, 82 miles from Dublin. Coagh, in Tyrone, Ulſter, 81 miles from Dublin. Coal Iſland, in Tyrone, Ulſter, 74 miles from Dublin. Here are coal-works, and a canal from Lough Neagh, which paſſes by this place towards Dungannon.

Coal Pit, Glouc. in Weſterleigh pariſh.

COAST CASTLE, CAPE, or CAPE CORSO, a ſtrong fort and ſettlement of the Engliſh, on the Coaſt of Guinea. Lat. 5. 0. N. lon. 0. 0.

Coat, Glouc. in Eaſtleach Martin pariſh. Coates, Glouc. a hamlet of Winchcomb. Coates, Glouc. 3 miles SW. of Cirenceſter. Coates, Staff. near Eccleſhall. Coates, Suſſex, Suſſex, near Wellavington. Coates-Hall, Linc. near Grimſby. Coates, Great and Little, Linc. on Grimſby river. Cobden Hill, Herts, NE. of Watford. Cober, a river in Cornwall, which runs into the Engliſh Channel a little below Helſton.

COBHAM, a town of Virginia.

Cobham, a village in Surry, with ſeveral fine ſeats, waſhed by the river Mole, made here 4 or 5 times broader than it is naturally. It is 19 miles S. by W. of London.

Cobham Hall, Kent, W. of Rocheſter. Cobham Street, Surry, 5 miles from Epſom.

COBLENTZ, an ancient town of Treves, in the circle of the Lower Rhine, ſituated at the confluence of the Rhine and Moſelle, with a bridge of boats over the former, and a ſtone bridge over the latter. Lat. 50. 24. N.

Cobley, Warw. near Hewell Grange. Cobwold, Oxfordſhire, in Woodſtock.

COBURG, a territory and it's capital, of Upper Saxony, inſulated in Franconia, 23 miles N. of Bamberg.

COCA, a town of Old Caſtile, ſituated on the Ereſma, 24 miles SSE. of Valladolid.

COCHEIM, a town of Treves, ſituated on the Moſelle, 30 miles NE. of Treves.

COCHIN, a ſea-port and country of Hindooſtan, on the coaſt of Malabar, ſituated NW. of the Travancore country, and by ſome included in it. The chief trade (for pepper) was in the hands of the Dutch, but the Engliſh have lately made a conqueſt of the ſettlement. It is 86 miles SSE. of Calicut. Lat. 10, 0. N, lon. 75. 30. E.

COCHIN CHINA, a kingdom of Aſia, bounded on the W. by Siam and Cambodia; on the N. by Tonquin and Laos; on the E. by the Eaſtern Ocean; and on the S. and SW. by Ciampa and Cambodia. It abounds in gold, raw ſilk, drugs, ſaffron, pepper, indigo, tea, ivory, and various kinds of trees and animals. It is upwards of 300 miles in length, and about 90 in breadth, and contains 50 ſea-port towns. The inhabitants are of a light brown complexion, and in manners reſemble the Chineſe.

Cockatree, Devonſ. on the river Taw, near Bow. Cockbridge, Cumb. between Cockermouth and Wigton. Cockbridge, 9 miles S. of York. Cockbury, Glouc. a hamlet of Biſhop's Cleeve. Cockbury, Glouc. in Winchcomb pariſh. Cocken, N. of Durham, on the Wear.

COCKER, a river in Cumberland, which flowing from the Lakes of Buttermere, Crowmack Water, and Lowes Water, runs into the Derwent at Cockermouth.

Cockerel's Bridge, Kent, between Lydd and Denge Marſh. Cockerham, SW. of Lancaſter. Cockerington, N. and S. Lincolnſhire, NE. of Leith.

*COCKERMOUTH, a populous town of Cumberland, ſituated at the confluence of the rivers Cocker and Derwent. The market-place and upper part of the town are between two hills, on one of which ſtands the caſtle, an extenſive ruin, with five lofty towers, the walls between which are kept up; on the other ſtands the church, and the Kirkgate, an irregular but ſpacious part of the town. From the eminence on which the caſtle ſtands, called the Hay, an extenſive country, the ſea, and Scotland, may be ſeen in clear weather. Through the valley between the hills, the top of the towering Skiddaw may be deſcried over the intervening country. The lower part of the town is on a plain, conſiſting of a ſpacious ſtreet, with croſs lanes. The upper and lower parts of the town are ſeparated by the Cocker, but united by a bridge of one arch. It has manufactures of ſhalloons, ſerges, ſtockings, coarſe linens, hats, and leather, with conſiderable tanneries. Here are pleaſant walks on the banks of the rivers, and on the uplands. It is 10 miles NE. of Whitehaven, 23 SW. of Carliſle, and 300 NNW. of London. Markets on Monday and Saturday.

Cockerton, Durh. NW. of Darlington. Cocket, a river in Northumberland. Cockfield, Suff. NW. of Biddeſton. Cockfield, Durh. NW. of Raby Caſtle. Cockham Wood Fort, Kent, on the W. ſide of the Medway, has 34 guns mounted. Cockhill, near Worceſter. Cocking, Suſſex, S. of Midhurſt. Cockington, Devonſ. 2 miles from Torbay. Cock Law, Northumb. near Berwick. Cock Law Hill, Northumb. near the Cheviot Hills. Cockleford, Glouc. a hamlet to Elkſton. Cockley Chapel, Lancaſh. near Bury. Cockley Park, Northumb. near Haughton. Cockſey, Durham, SE. of Sunderland. Cockſhot, Shropſ. SW. of Wem. Cockthorp, Norfolk, near Wells.

COCONATO, a town of Piedmont, 4 miles S. of Greſcentino.

COD, CAPE, in N. America, on the S. ſide of Boſton Bay, in Maſſachuſets State, Lat. 42. 0. N, lon. 70. 18. W.

Codbeck, a river in Yorkſ. Coddenham, Suff. near Needham. Coddicot, Herts, near Stevenage and Welling. Coddington, Nott. near Newark. Coddington, Heref. NE. of Ledbury. Coddington, Oxf. N. of Bicester. Coddington, Chef. near Delamere Foreſt. Codford St. Mary and St. Peter, Wilts, between Upton and Badhampton. Codgrave, Nott. SW. of Bingham. Codlingſtock, Nott. between Gotham and Willoughby. Codmarton, Northumberl. near Woller. Codnor Caſtle, Derb. near Alfreton.

CODOGNO, a town in the Lodeſan, Milan, ſituated at the conflux of the Adda and the Po.

Codrington, Glouc. S. of Chipping Sudbury. Codrington, Glouceſ. a hamlet of Wapley. Codſal, Staff. on the borders of Shropſ. Codſall, Staff. 1 mile N. of Teten Hall.

COESFELDT, a town of Munſter, Weſtphalia, the ordinary reſidence of the biſhop.

COEVORDEN, in the Drent, Overyſſel.

Cofton Hacket, Worceſ. NE. of Bromſgrove. Cogenhoo, Northamp. E. of Clifford Hill. Cogges, Oxf. near Whitney.

COGGESHALL, a town in Eſſex, with a manufactory of baize and ſeys. It is ſeated on the river Blackwater, 43 miles ENE. of London. Market on Thurſday.

COGNAC, a town in the dept. of Charente, noted for it's wines and brandy. It is ſeated on the river Charente, 20 miles W. of Angouleme. Alſo a town of Upper Vienne.

COGNI, or KONICH, the capital of Caramania, a country abounding in corn fruits, pulſe, and cattle. Here are ſheep whoſe tails weigh 30lb. Cogni is a very large town, the ordinary reſidence of a bergleberg, and the ſee of a Greek archbiſhop. It is 260 miles SE. of Conſtantinople. Lat. 37. 56. N. lon. 35. 56. E.

Cohor, or Chore, a river in Cornwall, which runs into Mount's Bay, near the Mount.

COIMBETTORE, a town and province of Myſore, in Hindooſtan, ſubject to Tippoo Sultan. The former is ſituated on the river Novel, 90 miles nearly S. of Seringapatam. The latter is bounded on the E. by the Carnatic, and on the S. by the province of Dindigul. It is fertile and well watered.

COIMBRA, a town and univerſity of Beira, containing 18 colleges, 4000 ſtudents, and about 12,000 inhabitants. It is ſituated on a mountain, near the river Mondego, 96 miles NNE. of Liſbon.

COIRE, or CHUR, a town in the country of the Griſons, Swiſſerland, and capital of one of the juriſdictions, called THE GRISE LEAGUE. It is ſituated half a mile from the Rhine, in a rich plain, between 2 and 3 miles wide, and partly on the ſteep ſide of a rock, and contains about 3000 inhabitants. It is 24 miles near S. of Appenzel. The biſhopric of Coi conſiſts of ſome eſtates near Coire, and the Tyroleſe, amounting to about 200 per annum.

Coke Hill, Worceſ. 2 miles E. of In borough. Cokeney, Nott. S. of Welbe Abbey. Cocken Hatch, Herts, in Bar way manor. Coker, E. and W. Somerſ. miles from Yeovil. Cokeley, Worceſ. ne Bromſgrove. Cokesford, Norf. near Ru ham. Cokeſward, Linc. N. of Bimbrok Cokethorp, Oxf. near Stanlake.

COL, one of the weſtern iſlands of Sco land, 11 miles NW. of the Iſle of Mu It is 13 miles long and 3 broad, contai a few horſes, ſheep, and goats, and h many lochs, which abound in fiſh. T inhabitants are about 800.

Colan, Little, Cornw. SE. of Colun Minor.

COLBERG, a ſea-port of Pruſſian P merania, remarkable for it's ſalt work It is ſituated at the mouth of the Perſant in lat. 54. 22. N. lon. 15. 39. E.

Colbury, Hants, W. of Southampt harbour. Colby, Norf. 4 miles from Al ſham.

COLCHESTER, a town of Eſſex, co taining 12 churches, moſt of which are good repair, and about 40,000 inhabi ants, including the liberties. It is ſit ated on a fine eminence, near the Col which is navigable within 3 miles of t town for ſhips of large burden, and f hoys and ſmall barks, to a place call the Hythe, where is a quay cloſe to t houſes. Here is a manufactory of bai and ſeys; all the towns, and the who country around, being partly employed the ſpinning of wool for this trade by Co cheſter; and it is noted for oyſters a candied eringo-roots. It is 22 miles ENE of Chelmsford, and 51 of London. Mar kets on Wedneſday and Saturday.

Colderton, Hants, between Tidwort and Monkſton. Coldham, Camb. ne Walderſey Fens. Cold Harbour, Hert 2 miles NW. of Ware. Cold Henton, Sc merſ. NE. of Mendip Hills. Cold Hi Eſſex, in Newport pariſh. Coldingham, townſhip of Berwickſhire.

COLDING, a town of N. Jutland, r markable for it's bridge, over which the oxen and cattle pay toll that go fro Jutland into Holſtein. It was former the reſidences of many Daniſh king Colding is ſituated on a bay of the Litt belt, 50 miles S. by E. of Wyburg. La 55. 35. N. lon. 9. 17. E.

Cold Maton, Northumb. near Chatto Cold Norton, Oxf. near Chipping Norton

Colde

Coldon, Yorkſ. in Holderneſs. Coldre, Hants, between Alton and Farnham. Coldred, Kent, near Wolderſhare. Coldrinch, Cornw. near Leſkard.

COLDSTREAM, a town of Berwickſhire, ſituated on the N. ſide of the Tweed, with a fine bridge over that river, 11 miles SW. of Berwick.

Cold Waltham, Hants, near Baſingſtoke, Cold Waltham, Suſſex, 4 miles from Arundel. Cole, a river of Worceſ. and Warw. Cole, Wilts, near Wotton Baſſet.

COLEBROOK DALE, on the banks of the Severn, in Shropſhire, is a winding glen between two hills, which break into various forms, and are covered with woods. Here are very conſiderable iron works, and a large and elegant bridge of caſt iron, of one arch. There is alſo in the Dale a ſpring of foſſile tar, or petroleum, together with a ſpring of brine; and a work has been erected here for obtaining a kind of tar from the condenſed ſmoke of pit-coal.

*COLEBROOK, Monm. near Uſk.

COLEBROOK, a town of Maſſachuſets.

Colcester, Northumb. near Corbridge. Coleburn, Northumb. near Morpeth. Colegreen Houſe, 2 miles W. of Hertford. Coleball, Eſſex, near Ingateſtone. Colebarbour, Surry, SW. of Darking.

Colebill, in Longford, Leinſter, 51 miles from Dublin.

Coleman's Green, Herts, NE. of Noman's Land. Colemere, Shropſ. NW. of Wem. Cole Park, Wilts, SE. of Malmſbury. Colepit Hill, Durham, S. of Newbiggen.

*COLERAIN, a town of Derry, in Ulſter, which, before the building of Londonderry, gave name to the county. It has a valuable ſalmon fiſhery, and is ſituated 4 miles from the ſea, &c. on the Ban, (which, being rapid, it is difficult for veſſels to come up to the town) 23 miles NE. of Londonderry, and 114 from Dublin.

Colerain, in King's County, Leinſter, 48 miles from Dublin.

Coleſbourn, Little, Glouc. in Withrington pariſh. Coleſbourn, Glouceſ. 6 miles from Cheltenham. Coleſhall, Berks, near Farringdon.

*COLESHILL, a town in Warwickſhire, ſeated on the aſcent of a hill, near the Coln, 11 miles NW. of Coventry, and 102 from London. Market on Wedneſday.

Colehill, Herts, in a part of the county inſulated in Bucks, 4 miles W. of Rickmanſworth. Coley, or Coln, Yorkſ. near Halifax.

COLFORD, or COVERD, a town of Glouceſterſhire, near which are conſiderable iron works. It is 5 miles E. of Monmouth, and 124 NE. of London. Market on Tueſday.

Colford, Suff. near Bury. Collam, or Collan Green, Middl. near Hayes.

COLIMA, a large and rich ſea-port, of Mechoacan, on the W. coaſt of Mexico, capital of a diſtrict of the ſame name, abounding with cattle and orchards of cocoa-trees. It is nearly 200 miles W. of Mexico. Lat. 19. 50. N. lon. 106. 6. W.

Colkin, Kent, near Feverſham. Colkirk, Norf. S. of Fakenham. Collum, Yorkſ. E. Riding, S. of Culham, and NW. of Kilham. Collaton, Devonſ. near the mouth of the Arm. Collaton, Devonſ. near Sidmouth. Collaton, Devonſ. SW. of Chimleigh.

COLLE, two towns of Tuſcany; a town of Abruzzo Ultra; and a town of Abruzzo Citra.

Colledge, Lanc. S. of Mancheſter. Collercotes, Northumb. near Newcaſtle, Collerford, Northumb. near Walwick. Collern, Wilts, near Coſham. Collerton, or Colcoverton, Leiceſ. NE. of Aſhby de la Zouch. Colley, Surry, NW. of Ryegate. Collier, Eſſex, near Dagenham. Collier Row, Eſſex, near Abery Hatch. Collier's End, Herts, between Ware and Puckeridge. Colligreen, Cornw. SW. of Leſwithiel. Collingborn Duke, Wilts, 10 miles from Marlborough. Collingburn Kingſton, Wilts, SW. of Great Bedwin. Collingham, Yorkſ. near Wetherby. Collingham, N. and S. Nott. 2 or 3 miles from Newark. Collingthwaite, Nott. a hamlet of Cokeney. Collington, Heref. near Whitborn. Collington, Dorſetſ. near Bemipſter. Collingthrough, 3 miles from Northampton.

COLLIOURE, a ſmall ſea-port in the dept. of the Eaſtern Pyrenees, chiefly inhabited by fiſhermen, 10 miles SE. of Perpignan.

Colliweſton, Northamp. about 6 miles from Stamford.

COLLON, a neat, well-built town in Louth, Leinſter, 29 miles from Dublin. It has an excellent ſtocking manufactory, with an extenſive bleach-green.

Collon's Town, in W. Meath, Leinſter.

Colleſtock, Upper and Lower, Cornw. on the borders of Devonſhire.

Colloville, in Armagh, Ulſter.

*COLLUMPTON, a pretty handſome town of Devonſhire, which carries on a manufacture of woollen. It is ſeated on the river Columb, 10 miles N. of Exeter, and 150 W. by S. of London. Market on Saturday.

COLMAR, a town in the dept. of the Upper Rhine, containing about 15,000 inhabitants.

habitants. It is ſituated on two ſmall rivers, the Fecht and the Lauch, 35 miles S. by W. of Straſburg.

COLMARS, a town in the dept. of the Lower Alps, 17 miles NE. of Digne.

Colmere, Hants, near Burton Stacy. Colmington, Shropſ. near Stanton Lacey.

COLMOGOROD, or KOLMOGORI, a town of Ruſſia, ſeated on an iſland in the Dwina, 28 miles SE. of Archangel.

Colmworth, 5 miles from Bedford. Coln; ſee Coley. Coln, St. Alwin's, Glouc. on the banks of the Coln, 5 miles from Lechlade. Coln, St. Dennis, and Coln Rogers, Glouceſ. 7 miles from Cirenceſter. Coln, a river, which runs through Herts and Middleſex, and divides the latter county from Bucks, and falls into the Thames at Staines. It is thus mentioned by Pope, "Coln, whoſe dark ſtreams his flowery iſlands lave." Another in Eſſex, which empties itſelf into the German Ocean, near Colcheſter; and a third, which runs thro' Glouceſterſhire and Oxfordſhire, and falls into the Thames at Lechlade.

COLNBROOK, a town of Bucks, principally ſupported by the great inns on the Bath road. It is ſituated on four channels of the river Coln, over each of which it has a bridge, 18 miles W. of London. Part of the town, however, is in Middleſex. Market on Wedneſday.

COLNE, a town of Lancaſhire, near Pendil Hill, 36 miles SE. of Lancaſter, and 214 NNW. of London. Market on Wedneſday.

Colne Earls, and Colne Engame, Colne Wake, and Colne White, Eſſex, between Colcheſter and Halſtead, on the river Coln. Colney, Herts, 3 miles from St. Albans. Colney, Norf. near Norwich. Colnham, Berks, 2 miles from Abingdon. Colnhead Park, Weſtmor. NW. of Kendal.

COLOCZA, a decayed town of Hungary, ſeated on the Danube, in lat. 46. 33. N.

COLOGNA, a town in the Paduan.

COLOGNE, an electoral biſhopric, and one of the moſt fertile and conſiderable countries of Germany. It lies in the circle of the Lower Rhine, and is divided into ſeveral diſtricts by other ſtates: the greater part of it, however, is ſituated on the Rhine, between the duchies of Juliers and Berg. It contains 72 cities and towns, and produces, beſides corn and other neceſſaries, excellent wine. The revenues are computed to amount to 130,000l. a year.

COLOGNE, the capital of the electorate, is an ancient, large city, ſeated on the W. bank of the Rhine, by means of which river it trades upwards with the interior of Germany, and downwards by large veſſ with the Netherlands and Holland. It a free imperial city, and though the el tor has a palace here, he has not the libe ty of ſtaying in it many days togeth without the conſent of the citizens; nor he permitted to come at all with a nume ous attendance. It contains 10 collegiat and 49 pariſh churches, 4 abbeys, convents, 16 hoſpitals, and 50 chapel It is built in the form of a creſcent, wi 34 gates, and fortified in the ancient ma ner. The ſtreets, however, except t principal ones, are dirty and ill paved, a the houſes appear dark, and are thinly i habited. Oppoſite to the city, on the oth ſide of the Rhine is the village of Deu where there is a flying bridge of boa over the river, acroſs which a large co pany of men, horſes, &c. may paſs at time. It is 17 miles SE. of Juliers, a 45 E. of Maeſtricht, Lat. 50. 55. N. l 7. 10. E.

COLOKITIA, a town and gulf, on t ſouthern coaſt of the Morea, 25 miles SS of Miſitra.

COLONNA, a town in the Campagna Roma, and a town in Dalmatia.

COLONSA, an iſland on the W. coaſt Scotland, 6 miles long and 2 broad. It 8 miles W. of Jura.

Colony, in Sligo, Connaught.

COLOOR, a town and diamond mi near Condavir, in the circar of Gunto Hindooſtan.

COLORNO, a town in the Parmezan.

COLOSVAR. See CLAUSENBURG.

Colquite, Cornw. NW. of Fowey. C rudge, Devonſ. SE. of Eggiſford. C ſhall, Kent. E. of Upchurch. Colſterda Yorkſ. N. Riding, W. of Maſham. C thorp, Yorkſ. E. of Richmond, Colthor Glouc. in Standiſh pariſh. Colſhall, Su near Clare.

*COLTSWORTH, or COLSTERWORT Linc. 3 miles from Grantham.

Colverſore Green, Kent, between Wr tham and the Hallings.

*COLUMB MAGNA, or ST. COLUM a little town in Cornwall, but with a lar pariſh, ſeated on a hill, at the bottom which is a river which runs into the ſea a ſmall diſtance. It is 10 miles W. Bodmin, and 249 from London. Marke on Monday and Thurſday.

Columb Parva, lies near the former.

COLUMBIA, a new town of S. Caro na, ſeated on the Cangaree, 85 mil WNW. of Charleſton. It is intended f the capital of this province.

COLUMBO, a town on the W. ſide the Iſland of Ceylon, formerly ſubject t the Dutch, but lately taken by the Engliſh, Lat. 7. 10. N. lon. 79. 56. E.

Columb David, Devonſ. on the river Columb, and borders of Somerſetſhire, has a conſiderable woollen manufacture. Columb John, Devonſ. S. of Bradninch. Columbſtock, Devonſ. on the river Columb, between Taunton and Tiverton, has a woollen manufacture.

COLUMBTON. See COLLUMPTON.

COLARI, anciently SALAMIS, an iſland of Livadia, and it's chief town, ſituated on an excellent harbour, 9 miles W. of Athens.

Colwall, Heref. between Lidbury and the Malvern Hills. Colwall, Northumb. near Coal. Colway, Dorſetſ. NW. of Lyme Regis. Colwich, Staff. near Wolſley bridge. Colwick, Upper and Lower, 2 or 3 miles E. of Nottingham. Colworth, Suſſex, near Chicheſter.

COM, or KOOM, a town in Irac Agemi, Perſia, celebrated for it's manufactures of ſilk and velvet. It is 90 miles S. of Caſbin.

COMACHIO, a town, valley, or diſtrict, and lake of Italy, in the Ferrareſe. It's air is unhealthy.

COMANA, a ſea-port and diſtrict of Paria, in the moſt north-eaſterly part of Terra Firma.

Comb, Glouc. near Wotton under Edge. Comb, Cornw. W. of Fowey. Comb, Devonſ. in the pariſh of St. Mary's Ottery. Comb, Devonſ. E. of Exeter. Comb, Devonſ. E. of Torrington. Comb, Devonſ. NE. of Crediton. Comb, Dorſetſ. in Purbeck Iſle. Comb, Heref. between Leominſter and Preſtayne. Comb, Kent, near Greenwich and Woolwich. Comb, Glouc. in Campden pariſh. Comb, Somerſ. SE. of Bath. Comb, and Park, Somerſ. N. of Wivelſcomb. Comb, Somerſ. near Dulverton. Comb, Hants, 6 miles NW. of Whitchurch. Comb, Surry, near Croydon. Comb Abbas, Dorſetſ. near Chilcomb. Comb Abbey, Warw. 3 miles from Coventry. Comb Appledore, Hants, between Buſh Waltham and Petersfield, Comb Baſſet, Wilts, 2 miles from Saliſbury. Comb End, Glouc. in Elkſtone pariſh.

Comber, in Down, Ulſter, on a branch of Strangford Lake, 88 miles NE. of Dublin.

Comb Flory, Somerſ. NW. of Biſhop's Lidiard. Comb Green, Worceſ. NE. of Upton. Comb Hay, Somerſ. 3 miles S. of Bath. Comb in Tene, Devonſ. near Newton Buſhel. Comb Keins, Dorſetſ. near E. Lulworth. Comb Long, Oxfordſ. W. of Woodſtock.

COMB MARTIN, a town of Devonſhire, ſeated on an inlet of the Briſtol Channel, with a cove for the landing of boats. It is 14 miles NE. of Barnſtaple, and 181 from London. Market on Saturday.

Comb Nether, Dorſetſ. NE. of Bridport, Comb Nevil, Surry, near Kingſton upon Thames. Comb Park, Surry, NE. of Kingſton. Comb St. Nicholas, Somerſetſ. NW. of Chard. Combea, Suſſex, in Aſhdown Foreſt. Comberford, Staff. in Wiggington pariſh. Comberhire, Radn. near Knighton. Combermere, Cheſh. near Congleton. Combermere, a lake in Cheſ. on the borders of Shropſhire. Comberton, 5 miles from Cambridge. Comberton, Great and Little, Worceſ. near Perſhore. Comberworth, Linc. SE. of Alford. Combnely, a river in Carmarthenſ. Combridge, Staff. SE. of Uttoxeter. Combroke, Warwickſ. Combs, Suff. near Stowmarket. Combs, Suſſ. near Shoreham. Comb's Edge, Derb. in the High Peak. Comb's Hoit, Dorſetſ. W. of Everſhot. Comb Temple, Dorſetſ. near Chilcomb. Combwell, Kent, in Goodhurſt pariſh. Combwhitton, Cumberl. between Newbiggen and the river Eden. Comcarvon, Monm. E. of Ragland Caſtle. Comer, Dorſetſ. in Whitchurch pariſh. Comerford, Wilts, near Calne. Comford, Kent, near Berling.

COMINES, a town in the dept. of the North, ſeated on the river Lis, 5 miles SW. of Menin. Philip de Comines, author of the celebrated memoirs of his own time, was born of an illuſtrious family, in this place.

Comley, Iſle of Wight, in W. Medina. Commerch, a river in Brecknockſh. which runs into the Irvon, at Longmarſh.

COMMENDO, a kingdom of Africa, on the Gold Coaſt, about 20 miles ſquare.

COMMENDO, GRAND, or GUAFFO, a town of Africa, capital of the kingdom of Commendo, and reſidence of the king. Lat. 4. 54. N. lon. 0. 34. E.

COMMENDO, LITTLE, a town on the Gold Coaſt, once a place of great note, where the Engliſh and Dutch have forts. It is 4 miles S. of Great Commendo.

COMMERCY, a town in the dept. of the Meuſe, ſeated on the river Meuſe, 24 miles SSE. of Verdun.

COMMOTAU, or CHOMSTON, a town of Saatz, Bohemia, 42 miles NW. of Prague.

COMO, a town, lake, and diſtrict of Milan. The lake is about 5 miles in breadth, and 88 in circumference. The town is ſituated on the S. extremity of the lake. Here the younger Pliny was born, who, in his letters, ſpeaks with rapture of the delightful ſcenery in the environs of his his native town. His ſtatue is placed in a niche on the outſide of one of the churches, with a Latin inſcription, bearing the date of 1499. The inhabitants have eſtabliſhed ſeveral manufactories of cotton and ſilk, and trade with the Griſons. Como is 20 miles NW. of Milan. Lat. 45. 34. N. lon. 9. 7. E.

COMORA ISLANDS, a cluſter of Iſlands in the Indian Ocean, lying oppoſite to the coaſt of Zanguebar, in Africa, N. of the Channel of Moſambique, and NW. of Madagaſcar. They are four in number, Johanna or Anjoan, Mayotta, Mohilla, and Comora or Angazija. Comora, which gives name to the reſt, is about 6 leagues long and 3 wide. The mountains are lofty, and richly clothed with wood, chiefly fruit trees; fine ſtreams are numerous, and the graſs and trees are green throughout the year. They produce rice, peas, yams, purſlain, cocoa-nuts, plantains, oranges, lemons, citrons, limes) pine apples, cucumbers, tamarinds, ſugar-canes, and honey. Their animals are buffaloes, goats, tortoiſes, cameleons, large bats, hens, and a great variety of birds unknown in Europe. Though Johanna is not the largeſt iſland, the Arabs, who have ſettled here, exact tribute from all the others. They are about 3000 in number, profeſs the Mahometan religion, and are ſettled on the ſea-coaſt. The original natives, in number about 7000, occupy the hills, and are frequently at war with them, as are alſo the natives of the other iſlands. In the interior part of the iſland is a lake accounted ſacred by the natives; on this there is a number of ducks, which they hold in veneration. Being averſe to conduct ſtrangers there, they ſtipulate that all guns ſhall be left at a place 5 miles from the lake. The birds being thus kept in ſafety, become perfectly tame, and fearleſsly approach thoſe who go to ſee them. The Arabian part of the iſlanders deteſt this ſuperſtition, but dare not forbid the practice of it. The E. India ſhips often touch here for refreſhments. The people on the coaſt ſpeak Engliſh intelligibly. They preſerve the language and manners of Arabia, and are not of ſo dark a complexion as the original natives. The Comora Iſlands lie between 11 and 13 deg. S. lat. and between 44 and 47 E. lon.

COMORIN, a promontory of Aſia, the moſt ſouthern point of the peninſula of Hindooſtan. Lat. 7. 50. N. lon. 77. 33. E.

COMORA, a town and diſtrict of Hungary.

COMPIEGNE, a town in the dept. of Oiſe, trading in corn, wine, and wood. It is ſeated near a foreſt, containing 27,00 acres, at the confluence of the Aiſne a Oiſe, 45 miles NE. of Paris.

COMPOSTELLA, ST. JAGO DE, a cit the capital of Galicia, in Spain, ſeated a peninſula, formed by the rivers Sar a Sarela. It contains about 2000 houſ beſides 14 religious houſes, 12 churche and an univerſity, which, with the pub ſquares, are very magnificent. It is 2 miles NW. of Madrid.

COMPOSTELLA NUOVO, a town Mexico, capital of the province of Xali ſituated near the Pacific Ocean, 300 mi WNW. of Mexico. Lat. 21. 20. N.

Compton, Berks, near Hamſted Norri Compton, Devonſ. between Aſhburton a Torbay. Compton, Wilts, W. of Ev ley Hare Warren. Compton, Hants, of Wincheſter. Compton, Surry, SW. Guildford. Compton, Surry, near Fa ham. Compton, Iſle of Wight, in Medina. Compton, Wilts, between Sa bury and Hindon. Compton, Staff. n Wolverhampton. Compton, Suff. NW. Chicheſter. Compton, Glouc. in Within ton pariſh. Compton Abbas, Dorſ. 2 mi NW. of E. Compton. Compton Abb Dorſetſ. 1 mile from Melbury. Comp Abdal, Glouc. near Hampnet. Comp Baſſet, Wilts, N. of Calne. Compton Bec champ, Berks, W. of the Vale of Wh Horſe. Compton Biſhop, Somerſ. NW. Axbridge. Compton Caſſey, Glouc. n Compton Abdal. Compton David, merſ. NE. of Penſford. Compton Dun Somerſ. N. of Somerton. Compton, and W. Dorſetſ. SW. of Melbury. Com ton, E. and W. Dorſ.; E. Compton lie miles SW. of Frampton. Compton Gr field, Glouceſ. between Briſtol and Au Compton Hall, or Fenny, Warw. 4 mi from Banbury. Compton, Little, Glouc 5 miles from Stow. Compton Long, Compton in the Hole, Warw. on the bo ders of Oxf. Compton Mardock, War 2 miles from Kington. Compton Mart Somerſ. SE. of Wrinton. Compton, Net and Over, Dorſetſ. between Sherborn a Yeovil. Compton Pauncefort, Somerſe near Sherborn. Compyne, Devonſ. n Axmouth. Colſholm, Linc. on the coa near Stamfleet. Comwindge, Somerſ. the Parret, below Bridgewater. Comy Monm. near Trewin. Conam, Shropſ. of Ludlow.

CONCAN, a tract of country on the W coaſt of Hindooſtan, between Bombay a Goa, ſeparated from the reſt of the cont nent by a ridge of mountains, called t Gauts. It is ſubject to the Mahratta and lies between 16 and 19 deg. N. la CONCARNEAU, a ſea-port in the dept. of Finiſterre, 12 miles from Quimper.

CONCEPTION, a ſea-port, on the coaſt of Chili, containing about 7000 inhabitants, Spaniards and Meſtices. The harbour is large and commodious, and the environs are fertile. It was formerly the capital of Chili, and is now capital of a juriſdiction. Lat. 36. 45. S.

CONCEPTION, a town in Veragua, Mexico. 90 miles W. of Panama.

CONCORDIA, a town of Mirandola, and a town of Friuli; both in Italy.

Cond, Shropſ. SE. of Condover.

CONDAPILLY, a town and circar of Hindooſtan, bounded on the SW. by the river Kiſtnah, and on the NW. by the country of Golconda. Lat. 16. 37. N. lon. 80. 30. E.

CONDAVIR, a town, in the circar of Guntoor, Hindooſtan, ſituated on a mountain, 26 miles W. of Guntoor, 25 SW. of Condapilly, and 20 from the S. bank of the Kiſtna.

CONDE, a town in the dept. of the North, ſeated at the confluence of the rivers Scheldt and Haiſne, 7 miles NE. of Valenciennes.

CONDE, a town in the dept. of Calvados, ſeated on the river Noireau, 17 miles W. of Falaiſe. The inhabitants trade in cloth, leather, and cutlery.

CONDECEDO, or POINT DELGADO, a cape in Yucatan, the eaſtern point of the bay of Campeachy. Lon. 92. E.

Conder, a river in Lancaſ. Conderton, Glouc. NE. of Tewkeſbury, ſituated on a tongue of land, ſurrounded by Worceſterſ. Cudicot, Glouc. 3 miles from Stow.

CONDOM, a town in the dept. of Gers, (late capital of the Condomois) containing about 5000 inhabitants, but neither rich nor commercial. It is ſeated on the river Baize, 22 miles N. of Auch.

CONDORE, or PULO CONDORE, the principal of a cluſter of iſlands, in the Indian ocean, which lie about 60 miles S. by E. from the mouth of the river Cambodia. Mangoe trees grow here as large as maple trees, and when ripe have a pleaſant ſmell and taſte. The natives are idolaters; they are of a ſmall ſtature, have a dark olive complexion, ſlender features, and dark black hair. In the iſland is an excellent harbour. Lat. 8. 10. N. lon. 105. 45. E.

Condover, Shropſ. between Bruges and Shrewſbury. Coney Hatch, Midd. between Hornſey and Whetſtone.

Coney Iſland, in Cork, Munſter, in Bantry Bay. Coney Iſland, on the coaſt of Down, in Ulſter.

CONFLANS, a town in the dept. of Upper Saone; a town in the dept. of Seine and Oiſe; and a valley of Rouſſillon, watered by the river Tet.

CONFOLENT, a town in the dept. of Charente, ſeated on the river Vienne, 28 miles NE. of Angouleme.

Congerſbury, Somerſetſ. under Mendip Hills, 6 miles from Axbridge. Congerſton, Leic. NW. of Market Boſworth. Congbull, Cheſh. NW. of Delamere Foreſt.

*CONGLETON, a town of Cheſhire, ſeated on the river Dane. It has manufactories of leather-gloves, cotton, and ſilk; the ſilk-mill here employing 700 perſons. It is 7 miles S. of Macclesfield, and 164 NW. of London. Market on Saturday.

CONGO, or LOWER GUINEA, a large tract of country, on the W. coaſt of Africa, extending from the equinoctial to 17 deg. S. lat. and containing the countries of Loango, Congo Proper, Angola, and Benguela. It is bounded on the W. by the Atlantic, on the N. by Benin and Makoko, on the E. by Makoko and the interior of Africa, and on the S. by Mataman and unknown lands. Their ſeaſons are the reverſe of ours; during our ſummer they have rain almoſt every day, and this is called the winter ſeaſon; but, during their ſummer, the weather is conſtantly ſerene. In the deſarts within land there are elephants, tigers, leopards, monkeys, ſerpents of a monſtrous length, rattleſnakes, vipers, dangerous white ants, or piſmires, ſcorpions, and other venomous inſects, both flying and reptile; and, in the river Zaire, crocodiles and river horſes. Near the coaſt the ſoil is fertile, producing various kinds of fruits, beſides palm-trees, from which they get wine and oil. Many of the inhabitants worſhip the ſun, moon, and ſtars, and different kinds of animals; others have embraced the religious profeſſion of the Portugueſe. They are ſkilful in weaving cotton cloth, and carry on the traffic in ſlaves, as well as in ivory, caſſia, fruits, and other produce of the country. Congo is divided into ſeveral provinces. The principal rivers are the Zaire, the Dindo, the Coanza, the Vambra, and the Barbela.

CONGO PROPER, is about 150 miles in length along the coaſt, and 372 in breadth, and is included between Loango and Angola. Honey and wax are found here in prodigious plenty. The principal town is St. Salvador.

CONGO. See BANDER CONGO.

Congrave, S. of Stratford.

CONI, a very ſtrong town and fortreſs of Piedmont, ſituated on the Stura, 31 miles S. of Turin.

CONINGSECK,

CONINGSECK, a town of Schwartzburg Rudolſtadt, Upper Saxony; and a principality of Suabia, of which there are two branches, Coningſeck Rhothenfels and Coningſeck Aulendorf, both raiſed to the rank of counts, with only one vote in the diet, given alternately.

Coningſton Mere, a lake of Lancaſhire, 5 miles long and 1 broad, in the hundred of Furneſs. Fleming Coningſton lies on one ſide of it, and Monk's Coningſton on the other.

Conington, Huntingdonſ. near Stilton. Comington, 9 miles from Cambridge. Conſburgh, Yorkſ. SW. of Doncaſter. Conſcliff, Durham, near Perſebridge. Conſide, Lancaſ. near Swart Moor. Cenſthorp, Yorkſ. SW. of Malton. Coniſton, Yorkſ. W Riding, between Skipton and Settle. Coniweſton, Suff. W. of Buddeſdale.

Conna, in Waterford, Munſter.

CONNAUGHT, the moſt weſterly province in Ireland, containing the counties of Leitrim, Sligo, Mayo, Roſcommon, and Galway. It is bounded on the W. and NW. by the ocean, on the N. by Ulſter, and on the E. and S. by Leinſter and Munſter. It contains 296 pariſhes, and 95,821 houſes, and is 130 miles in length, and 84 in breadth. It has no conſiderable rivers, beſide the Shannon; but has ſeveral convenient bays and creeks. It is fertile in many places, but thinly inhabited; but, by the introduction of the linen manufacture, the numbers of the inhabitants are beginning to increaſe.

CONNECTICUT, one of the five ſtates of New England. It is 73 miles long, and about 44 broad, and is bounded on the W. by New York, on the N. by Maſſachuſets, on the E. by Rhode Iſland, and on the S. and SE. by the Sound, which divides it from Long Iſland. Though ſubject to the extremes of heat and cold, and to frequent and ſudden changes of weather, the country is healthful and the moſt populous, in proportion to it's extent, of any of the United States: in 1790, the number of the inhabitants was 237,946, of which 2764 were ſlaves. It reſembles a well-cultivated garden, producing, with moderate labour, the neceſſaries and conveniences of life in abundance. The inhabitants are of the religious denomination of Independents. It's principal rivers are the Connecticut, the Houſatonik, and the Thames. It contains the counties of Hartford, Newhaven, New London, Fanfield, Windham, Litchfield, Middleſex, and Tolland. The river Connecticut, riſes in the N. part of New Hampſhire, ſeparating that ſtate from Vermont, enters Maſſachuſets at Northfield, croſſes that ſtate, enters Connecticut about 7 miles N of Hartford, and after dividing the latter ſtate nearly in the centre, runs into the ſea at the NE. end of Long Iſland Sound. Between Walpole on the E. and Weſtminſter on the W. ſide of the river, are the great falls, over which a bridge, 16 feet in length, was built in 1784, the firſt ever erected over this noble river, which is navigable above 40 miles for large veſſels, and much farther for ſmall ones.

CONNOR, a town of Antrim, in Ulſter 6 miles N. of Antrim, and 90 of Dublin.

Connor Ville, in Cork, Munſter.

Conock, Wilts, 3 miles from Market Lavington. Conondley, Yorkſ. W. Riding. SW. of Skipton. Conqueſt, Somerſet in the Vale of Taunton.

CONQUEST, LE, a town in the dept. of Finiſterre, with a good harbour and road ſituated 10 miles W. of Breſt.

CONSTANCE, the name of two lakes that ſeparate Swiſſerland from Germany. The Upper Lake, or the Boden See, is 12 leagues long, and 6 where broadeſt. Through this lake the Rhine flows, and then enters the Lower Lake, or Zeller See, which is 16 miles long, and 10 in it's greateſt breadth.

CONSTANCE, a city of Suabia, pleaſantly ſeated on the Rhine, between two lakes of the ſame name. It has magnificent public buildings, and once flouriſhed in commerce; but is now much reduced. A dead ſtillneſs prevails throughout the town; graſs grows in the principal ſtreets, and the inhabitants ſcarcely amount to 3000.

CONSTANTINA, a town of Andaluſia.

CONSTANTINA, or COSTHINAH, anciently CIRTA, a city capital of a diſtrict of Algiers, ſituated on the river Rumne. It was formerly one of the ſtrongeſt towns of Numidia: abundance of ruins give evidence of it's ancient grandeur. Lat. 36. 50. N. lon. 6. 15, E.

Conſtantine, Cornw. on a hill between Helſton and Falmouth.

CONSTANTINOPLE, the ancient BYZANTIUM, one of the largeſt and moſt celebrated cities of Europe, ſtanding at the SE. extremity of Romania, and capital of the Ottoman Empire. It is pleaſantly ſeated between the Black Sea and the Sea of Marmora, on a neck of land ſeparated from Natolia by a ſtrait a mile in breadth. The grand ſignior's palace, called the Seraglio, is on the ſea-ſide, ſurrounded by walls flanked with towers, and is 7 miles in circumference, including the gardens. It contain contains, beſides the public offices and the apartments of the Sultan and the women, 161 odas, or apartments, for the Janizaries. Fronting the great gate of the ſeraglio, is the celebrated royal moſque of St. Sophia, built, for a chriſtian church, by the Emperor Juſtinian, to which the grand ſignior goes in perſon every Friday. In the caſtle of the ſeven towers, to which an eighth has been added, ſituated near the Sea of Marmora, ſtate priſoners are confined. The bazars, or markets, are ſquare buildings, covered with domes, and ſupported by arcades. The number of houſes in Conſtantinople muſt be prodigious, ſince 30,000 of them have been deſtroyed by fire in a day, without greatly changing the aſpect of the city. The houſes in general are crowded with inhabitants, yet they have a mean appearance on the outſide, where there are few or no windows, and the ſtreets are narrow: even the palaces of the grandees have nothing remarkable on their outſide, but within they are decorated with ſplendid and coſtly ornaments. Here are reckoned 3770 ſtreets and lanes, which are never clean, and the inhabitants are viſited by the plague almoſt every year. The inhabitants have been eſtimated at 800,000, of which about half are Turks, two-thirds of the other half Greeks, Armenians, and Franks, and the reſt Jews. The great ſquare, near the moſque of the Sultan Bajazet, is the place for public diverſions, where the jugglers and mountebanks diſplay their tricks. The ſtreet called Adrianople, is the longeſt and broadeſt in the city. The circumference of the city is by ſome ſaid to be 15 miles, and by Tournefort 23 miles; to which, if we add the ſuburbs, it may be 34 miles in compaſs. The ſuburb, called Pera, is delightfully ſituated, and is the place where the ambaſſadors of England, France, Holland, and Venice reſide. Conſtantinople is built in form of a triangle, and as the ground riſes gradually, there is a view of the whole town from the ſea, in which the palaces, moſques, bagnios, and caravanſeras, riſing above the other houſes, have a grand effect. The harbour is ſpacious and convenient. Conſtantinople is ſituated 112 miles ESE. of Adrianople, 670 SE. of Vienna, and 1500 ESE. of London. Lat. 41. N. lon. 28. 59. E.

CONSTANTINOPLE, THE STRAIT OF, anciently THE THRACIAN BOSPHORUS, forms the communication between the Euxine or Black Sea, and the Propontis or Sea of Marmora. It is the boundary between Europe and Aſia in this part, and is 20 miles long, and where narroweſt, a mile and a quarter broad. The adjacent country is remarkably beautiful. On one ſide of the ſtrait is ſituated Conſtantinople, and on the other Scutari, which is conſidered as a ſuburb to the city.

CONSTANTINOW, a town in Volhinia, Poland, ſituated on the river Slucza.

CONTESA, a ſea-port of Macedonia, ſituated at the bottom of a gulf, to which it gives name, at the mouth of the river Strimon.

CONTI, a town in the dept. of Somme, ſeated on the river Selle, 12 miles S. of Amiens, and 60 N. of Paris.

CONSUEGRA, a town of New Caſtile, containing 2 pariſh churches and 3 convents. It belongs (or lately did) to the Knights of Malta, and is 25 miles SSE. of Toledo.

CONVERSANO, a town of Bari.

CONWAY. See ABERCONWAY.

Conway, a river of Wales, which riſes from a lake where the 3 counties of Carnarvon, Denbigh, and Merioneth meet, 12 miles N. of Dolgelly, flows through the Vale of Conway, and ſeparating nearly the whole eaſtern border of Carnarvonſhire from Denbighſhire, falls into the Iriſh Channel at Aberconway. Conwydd, Merionethſhire.

CONZA, a town, conſidered as the capital of Principato Ultra, ſituated near the head of the river Ofanto, 48 miles E. of Naples. It's principal commerce is in marble.

Cookbury, Devonſ. near Houlſworthy. Cookham, Berks, N. of Maidenhead. Cookham, Great and Little, Surry, between Leatherhead and the Horſleys. Cookley, Suff. near Haleſworth. Cookbridge, Yorkſ. between Ilkley and Addle.

COOK'S RIVER, a large river of North America, which flows into the N. Pacific Ocean, in lat. 59. 10. N. lon. 150. 0. W. Capt. Cook ſailed up this river 70 leagues, without finding any appearance of it's ſource.

COOK'S STRAITS, a ſtrait in the S. Pacific Ocean, 4 or 5 leagues in breadth, which divides the two iſlands, of which New Zealand is compoſed.

Cook's Town, in Tyrone, Ulſter, 81 miles from Dublin, Coolaguragh, in Cork, Munſter. Coolany, a river of Sligo, in Connaught, which runs into the bay of Ardnagloſe, 5 miles SW. of the town of Sligo. Coolatin, and Coolboy, in Wicklow, Leinſter. Coolkenno, in Wicklow, Leinſter, 54 miles from Dublin. Cool, in Weſt Meath, Leinſter. Coolinanta, in Kilkenny, Leinſter.

Coom Bank, Kent, 6 miles from Sevenoaks.

oaks. Cooper's Hall, Eſſex, 1 mile from Epping. Cooper's Hill, Glouc. a hamlet in Brockworth. Cooper's Hill, the ſubject of a celebrated poem by Sir John Denham, 19 miles W. by S. of London. It's baſe extends along the edge of Runnymead, and on it's ſummit is the beautiful ſpot called Engleſield Green.

COOPER's RIVER, a large, navigable river of the United States, which joins the Aſhley below Charleſton, in S. Carolina. The united ſtream forms a ſpacious and convenient harbour, which communicates with the ocean a little below Sullivan's Iſland. The Cooper is a mile wide at the ferry, 9 miles above Charleſton.

Coos, or Cos, an iſland in the Archipelago. Lat. 37. N. lon. 27. 44. E.

Copdock, Suff. SW. of Ipſwich. Copeland, and it's Foreſt, Cumb. near Egremont. Copenhagen, Midd. SW. of Highgate.

COPENHAGEN, the capital of Denmark, is the moſt uniform, and beſt built city in the north. It contains 4 royal palaces, 1 univerſity, conſiſting of 4 colleges, 9 churches, and about 4000 houſes, moſtly built of brick. The ſtreets are almoſt all broad, and in a ſtraight line, well paved, with a foot way on each ſide, but too narrow for general uſe. It was formerly the ſee of an archbiſhop; but the Danes have curtailed their prelates of their lands, revenues, and power. The haven is generally crowded with ſhips; and the ſtreets are interſected by broad canals, which bring the merchandiſe cloſe to the warehouſes on the quays. The city is about 5 miles in circumference, and is ſeated on the E. ſhore of the iſle of Zealand, 300 miles SW. of Stockholm, and 500 NE. of London. Lat. 55. 41. N. lon. 12. 40. E.

Copenhall, Cheſhire, between Sandbach and Namptwich. Copenhall Monks, Cheſhire, S. of Copenhall. Copford, Eſſex, near Colcheſter. Copgrave, Yorkſh. between Knareſborough and Boroughbridge. Copham, Middleſex, near Lalam. Copice Leys, Berks, near Wantage. Copinford, Huntingdonſ. E. of the Giddings. Copinhall, Staff. N. of Penkridge. Copleſton, Devonſhire, near Crediton. Copley Hall, Yorkſhire, SE. of Halifax. Coppenthorp, 5 miles S. of York. Copſton, Magna and Parva, Warwickſh. SE. of Nun-Eaton. Copthall, Eſſex, between Epping and the Foreſt. Copthall, Cambridgeſhire, in the Iſle of Ely. Coquet Iſland, Northumberland, between Seaton and Aylmouth; it has only one houſe, and takes it's name from the river Coquet.

COQUIMBO, or SERENA, a juriſdiction, ſea port, and river of Chili, which h been often plundered by the Engliſh. L 29. 54. S. lon. 71. 11. W.

CORAH, or CORAHJEHENABAD, a to in the country of Oude, Hindooſtan, miles SSW. of Lucknow.

Coram, Yorkſhire, N. Riding, n Midlam.

CORBACH, a town, the capital of W deck, in the circle of Upper Rhine.

CORBECH, a town in the ci-dev Auſtrian Brabant, near Louvain.

CORBEIL, a town in the department Seine and Oiſe, the principal trade of wh is the tanning of leather. It is ſeated both ſides of the Seine, 15 miles S. Paris.

CORBIE, a town in the dept. of Som ſeated on the Somme, 10 miles E. Amiens.

Corbin's Hall, Staff. in Swinford par

CORBITS, a town of Meiſſen, Up Saxony.

Corbridge, Northumb. near Hexham.

CORBY, a town of Lincolnſhire, tween Market Deeping and Grantha Market on Wedneſday.

Corby, Northamptonſ. between Kett ing and King's Cliff. Corby Caſtle, Cu berland, a beautiful and romantic ſeat the Eden near Carliſle.

CORDILLERAS. See Andes.

Cordock Hill, Shropſhire.

CORDOVA, anciently CORDUBA, large city of Andaluſia, ſeated on the G dalquiver, over which is a ſtone bridge 16 arches, built by the Moors. Here 16 pariſh churches, beſides the cathedr 36 convents, 16 hoſpitals, 2 colleges, a an ancient palace of the Mooriſh kin lately converted into ſtables for 100 A dalufian horſes. The cathedral, whi was formerly a moſque, ſtill retains t name of Mezquita. In the ſquare, cal the Plaza Major, are ſplendid building under which are piazzas. There are ma orchards and gardens within the walls the city, and in the neighbouring mou tains, there are groves of citron, orang fig, and olive trees. The trade conſi of wine, fruits, ſilk, and Cordovan le ther, and the beſt horſes of Spain are h from it. It is 75 miles NE. of Sevil and 135 S. by W. of Madrid.

CORDOVA, a diſtrict or province Spain, once an independent kingdom, no a part of Andaluſia. Alſo, a town a province of S. America, in the gover ment of Buenos Ayres, little known. La 32. 10. S. lon. 25. 30. E.

Corpland Iſlands, on the coaſt of Dow in Ulſter, at the S. entrance of Carrick ferg fergus Bay, known by the names of Big, Creſs, and Mew. On the Croſs Iſland is a light-houſe. Lat. 54. 40. N. lon. 5. 55. W.

Correagh, in Louth, Leinſter. Corbrin, in Cork, Munſter. Cordroby, in Cork, Munſter.

COREA, a peninſula, lying to the NE. of China, bounded on the SW. by the Yellow Sea, which parts it from China; on the N. by Chineſe Tartary; and on the S. by a narrow ſea, which parts it from the Japaneſe Iſlands. The people are civil and courteous, are fond of learning, muſic, and dancing, and greatly reſemble the Chineſe in cuſtoms and religion. The country is divided into 8 provinces, and there are many towns in it exceedingly populous. It extends, from N. to S. about 500 miles, and about 200 from E. to W. They trade in ginſeng, gold, ſilver, iron, yellow varniſh, ſable-ſkins, caſtor, mineral ſalt, fowls with tails 3 feet long, and horſes only 3 feet high. Corea, though mountainous, abounds in corn and rice. The king, who is tributary to the emperor of China, reſides at Hanching.

Corly, Shropſhire, SW. of Clebury. Corſe, Somerſetſhire, S. of Taunton.

CORFE CASTLE, a town of Dorſetſhire, with ſome trade in ſtone, and knit ſtockings. It is ſeated on a peninſula, called Purbeck Iſle, between two hills, on one of which ſtands the caſtle, ſaid to have been built by king Edgar, now in ruins. It is 21 miles E. of Dorcheſter, and 120 W. by S. of London. Market on Thurſd.

Corſe Hill, Dorſetſhire, near Melcomb Regis. Corſe Hubert, Corſe Moulin, and Corſe St. Nicholas, Dorſetſhire, near Sturminſter.

CORFU, anciently known by the names of SCHERIA, PHÆACIA, CORCYRA, and DERPANO, an iſland of the Mediterranean, near the coaſt of Albania, long held by the Venetians, but lately ſubject to the French. The iſlanders make great quantities of ſalt; and the country abounds with vineyards, oranges, lemons, citrons, olive trees, grapes, honey, wax, and oil. The capital is Corfu, on the E. coaſt of the iſland. Lat. 39. 40. N. lon. 20. 0. E.

Corlie, Warwickſhire, N. of Coventry.

CORIA, a town of Seville, and a town of Eſtremadura; both in Spain.

Coringham, Eſſex, W. of Canvey Iſle.

Coringley, Herts, NW. of Buntingford.

CORINTH, or CORANTO, an ancient and celebrated city, ſituated on the iſthmus which joins the Morea to Greece. It is now decayed, the houſes being intermixed with fields, orange groves, and gardens, like a village, the inhabitants not exceeding 1300 or 1400; there ſtill remain, however, ruins of temples, and other marks of its former magnificence. The adjacent country abounds with corn, wine, and oil; and, from the caſtle, ſeated on the top of an almoſt inacceſſible rock, there is one of the fineſt proſpects of land and water in the world. It is 40 miles NW. of Athens. Lat. 38. 14. N. lon. 23. 18. E.

Coripale, Somerſ. W. of Bridgewater.

CORITA, a town of Leon.

CORK, a county of Munſter, in Ireland, 84 miles in length, and 62 in breadth, being the largeſt in the kingdom. It is bounded on the W. and SW. by Kerry and the ſea; on the N. by Limerick; on the E. by Waterford and a part of Tipperary; and on the S. by the ocean. It contains 269 pariſhes, 76,739 houſes, and about 416,000 inhabitants. It abounds with excellent harbours, and has many fine rivers, as the Blackwater, Lee, Banon, Ilen, &c. The ſoil varies; in many parts it is fertile, and the country is pretty populous.

CORK, city of, the capital of the county, and the ſecond in Ireland for extent, trade, and population, containing about 8600 houſes, and upwards of 70,000 inhabitants. It is a well-built place, and has improved ſurpriſingly of late years, ſeveral broad ſtreets having been lately added, by filling up the canals that ran through them. It is ſeated on the river Lee, by which it is nearly ſurrounded, and by means of the different channels, veſſels come up into the different parts of the town. It's principal export is ſalt proviſions. During the ſlaughtering ſeaſon, which holds from Auguſt to the latter end of January, they kill and cure about 100,000 head of black cattle. Their other exports conſiſt of pork, tallow, hides raw and tanned, butter, candles, calves, lambs, and rabbits' ſkins, wool, linen and woollen yarn, and worſted and linen cloth. The country, adjacent to Cork, is hilly and beautiful, affording extenſive and diverſified proſpects. It is 15 miles from the ſea, about 50 nearly S. of Limerick, and 124 SW. of Dublin. Lat. 51. 54. N. lon. 8. 23. W.

CORK HARBOUR, or the COVE OF CORK, one of the beſt in the world, is about 7 miles below the town, and ſo ſpacious and deep, as to be capable of containing the largeſt veſſels, and the moſt extenſive fleets. The entrance is eaſy, and it is ſecure from currents and ſtorms.

One ſide of Cork Harbour is formed by Great Iſland, which is 4 miles long and 2 broad, and very fertile.

Corkaguiney, in Kerry, Munſter, is a fertile peninſula, between the bays of Dingle and Tralee, 24 miles long and 8 broad. Corkberg, near the mouth of Cork Harbour, to the SW.

Corkley, Northumb. NE. of Hexham. Corletborpe, Linc. W. of Sleaford.

CORLINO, a town of Pruſſian Pomerania, with conſiderable woollen manufactures, ſituated on the Perſante, 14 miles SE. of Colberg.

CORMANTIN, GREAT and LITTLE, two towns, or forts, in the territory of Fantin, on the Gold Coaſt. In the latter the Dutch have a fort.

CORMEILLES, a town in the dept. of Oiſe; and a town in the dept. of the Eure.

CORMERY, a town in the dept. of Indre and Loire, ſeated on the Indre, 7 miles SE. of Tours.

Cornbury, Oxfordſhire, 5 miles from Woodſtock. Corndean, Glouceſterſhire, in Winchcombe pariſh. Corneley, Cornwall, near Tregony. Cornerd, Magna and Parva, Suffolk, near Neyland. Corner Hall, Herts, between Hemel Hempſtead and Berkhampſtead.

CORNETO, a town in the Patrimonio, 38 miles NW. of Rome.

Cornhampton, Hants, NE. of Buſh Waltham. Cornhill, Durham. Cornix, Middl. between Riſsip and Moore Hall.

CORNWALL, a county of England, which forms the SW. extremity of Great Britain. It is bounded on the E. by Devonſhire; it's other parts are waſhed by the ſea. It's length, from E. to W. is 74 miles; it's breadth next to Devonſhire, is about 46, but it ſoon contracts, and is gradually narrowed into iſthmuſes: on the SW. it terminates in two promontories, the Lizard Point, and the Land's End. It contains 9 hundreds, and 161 pariſhes, between 1200 and 1300 villages, and 27 market-towns. From it's vicinity to the ſea, it is expoſed to frequent ſtorms, but exempted from hard froſts and great heats. There is abundance of rainy and foggy weather; but the inhabitants are ſeldom troubled with agues or fevers. The ſpring ſhews itſelf in the buds and bloſſoms ſooner than in the other parts of England; but the harveſt is later, and the fruits have leſs flavour than in the midland counties. Here are ſome uncommon plants, and plenty of ſea-herbs, as camphire, eringo, ros ſolis, &c. It is well ſituated for the herring and pilchard fiſheries, and the inhabitants fully avail themſelves of their local advantages. It derives, howeve it's chief importance from it's mineral theſe conſiſt of tin and copper. The co per-mines are numerous and rich in o ſmall quantities of gold and ſilver ha ſometimes been found; but it's tin min are its greateſt ſource of wealth; for th it has been long famous, and it's coa have been viſited by the Phœnicians a Greeks in very remote antiquity; th were known ſeveral centuries before Chriſtian æra, and have been worked co tinually ever ſince. With the metall ores are found large quantities of mun and arſenic; many ſorts of ſtones are found here, particularly moorſtone, wh is uſed both in buildings and for millſto and which, when poliſhed, appears ſpl did and beautiful; and in the cavern parts of the rocks are found tranſpar cryſtals, called Corniſh diamonds, wh are very brilliant when well poliſhed. T number of men, women, and children ployed in raiſing the tin ore, waſhi ſtamping, and carrying, is ſtated by ſo to amount to 16,000. The principal vers are the Tamar, Camel, and F As this country was one of the places which the ancient Britons retreated, Gaelic or Celtic language was long reta ed here, and has become extinct but lately.

Cornwall, Northumberl. near Berwi Cornwood, Devonſhire, between Brent Plymouth. Cornwarthy, Devonſhire, tween Dartmouth and Torbay.

CORO, a town and gulf of Venezu Terra Firma.

COROMANDEL, THE COAST OF, is eaſtern coaſt of the peninſula of Hind ſtan, extending from Cape Calymere, lat. 10. 20. to the mouth of the Kiſt in lat. near 60. 0. N. On this coaſt Madras, Pondicherry, Tranquebar, other European factories, from wh chintz, calicoes, and muſlins, with ſ diamonds, are imported into Eur There is not a port for large veſſels on whole coaſt, which is an even, low, ſandy country; and, about Madras, land riſes ſo little, that it is difficult f the ſea to mark the diſtinction betw land and water, unleſs by the different jects that are on the ſhore.

CORON, anciently MESSINA, a ſea-p with a large harbour, town, and gulf, the Morea, SW. of Miſitra, in lat. 37.

Coronery, in Cavan, Ulſter.

Corpuſtry, Norfolk, between Aleſ and Wallingham.

CORREGIO, a town of Modena.

Correther, Cornwall, S. of Leſkard.

CORREZE, a river and town of France, in a department of the ſame name. Tulle is the capital. The river paſſes by Tulle, Correze, &c. and joins the Vezere, a little below Brive. The dept. of Correze has the dept. of Vienne on the NW. and the Lot on the S.

Corringdon, Dorſetſ. in Purbeck Iſle.
Corringdon, Dorſetſ. in Corſcomb pariſh.
Corringham, Linc. NE. of Gainſborough.
Corrofin, in Clare, Munſter.
Corſetſhire, Dorſetſhire, 3 miles from Beminſter. Corſe, 5 miles from Glouceſter.
Corſe End, Glouc. a hamlet in Hartpury.
Corſehill, Northumb. NW. of Beltingham.

CORSHAM, or COSHAM, a town in Wilts, noted for it's manufacture of woollens. King Ethelred had formerly a palace here, and it was once the chief reſidence of the earls of Cornwall. It is 4 miles SW. of Chippenham, and 11 NE. of Bath. Market on Wedneſday.

Corſham, Wilts, near Devizes. Corſham Caſtle, Shropſ. on the river Corve.

CORSICA, an iſland in the Mediterranean, forming a depart. of France. It is 88 miles in length, and from 20 to 45 in breadth. The air is ſalubrious, unleſs in a few places. The land is hilly, and poorly cultivated; the valleys, however, produce wheat, and the hills yield oranges, olives, figs, vines, almonds, and cheſnuts. Here are mines of iron, lead, copper, and alum. They have ſpirited horſes, and abundance of fiſh and coral on the coaſt. Goats and ſheep are in great plenty. Cows and oxen are tolerably large, but lean. Wild boars are common, as alſo foxes; but here is the mouffoli, an animal like a dog in ſize and colour, but with the horns of a ram, extremely ſhy and nimble. Among the birds are eagles, vultures, turkies, wood pigeons, thruſhes, partridges, pheaſants, &c. The number of inhabitants is about 160,000.

Corſley, Wilts, between Warminſter and Beckington.

CORSOER, a ſea-port, on the W. coaſt of Zealand, in Denmark, with an excellent harbour for ſmall veſſels. It is 52 miles SW of Copenhagen.

Corſton, Wilts, S. of Malmſbury.

CORTE, an inland town of Corſica, containing about 3000 inhabitants. It is 27 miles SW. of Baſtia.

CORTEMIGLIA, a town of Montferrat, ſeated on the river Bormida.

Cortington, Wilts, E. of the Deverels.
Cortington, Suffolk, 5 miles S. of Yarmouth. Cortington, Suffolk, NW. of Sendleſham. Cortington Caſtle, Northumberl. SW. of Alnwick.

Corton, Dorſetſ. between Weymouth and Dorcheſter. Corton, Somerſ. near Sherborn.

CORTONA, a town of Tuſcany.

Corve, a river in Shropſhire, which runs into the Teme by Ludlow.

CORUNNA, a ſea-port of Galicia, in Spain, at the mouth of the river Groyne. Lat. 43. 18. N. lon. 8. 16. W.

CORVEY, a town, with a celebrated abbey, and a ſmall principality, in Weſtphalia.

CORVO, the ſmalleſt and moſt weſterly of the Azores, about 24 miles in circumference, with a ſmall port. It contains about 500 inhabitants, who cultivate wheat and feed hogs.

Corwen, Merionethſhire, N. Wales.

CORYVREKAN, a dangerous vortex, or whirlpool, on the W. coaſt of Scotland, between the Iſle of Scarba and the N. point of Jura. It's dreadful, unfathomable vortex extends above a mile in circuit, and, at full tides, it's numerous eddies form watery pyramids, which riſe to a great height in the air, and, burſting with the noiſe of thunder, overwhelm all veſſels that come within the ſphere of it's attraction. It is ſo called from a young Daniſh prince, who periſhed in this place.

CORZOLA. See CURZOLA.

Coſby, Leiceſterſ. near Sutton Coſby, Yorkſ. N. Riding, NW. of Cleveland. Coſcombe, Glouc. in Didbrook pariſh.

COSEIR, or ALCOSSIR, a ſea-port town of Egypt, on the Red Sea, 100 miles SSE. of Suez.

COSENZA, the principal town of Calabria Citra, containing 3 pariſh churches, and 12 convents. It is 145 miles SE. of Naples.

Coſford, Warw. N. of Rugby. Coſford Grave, Shropſ. near Tonge Caſtle. Coſgrave, Northamp. near Stony Stratford. Coſham, Hants, near Portſmouth.

COSLIN, a town of Pruſſian Pomerania, the ſeat of a court of juſtice, 28 miles NNW. of New Stettin.

Coſmore, Dorſetſhire, near Buckland Abbas. Coſmus Bleau, Kent, between Beverley Park and Shepherd's Buſh.

COSNE, a town in the dept. of Nievre: anchors for ſhips are forged here, and it's cutlery and gloves are in great repute. It is ſeated at the confluence of the Loire and Noain, 88 miles SE. of Paris. Alſo a town in the dept. of Allier, ſeated on the river Allier.

COSSACKS, a people inhabiting originally the confines of Poland, Ruſſia, Tartary, and Turkey, between the Jaik and the Dneiſter. They are divided into ſeveral branches, the Koſakki ſa Porovi, or Coſſacks on the Boriſthenes; the Koſakki Donſki, or Coſſacks on the Don; and the Koſakki Jaiki, which are the wildeſt of them all, dwelling in large villages along the banks of the river Ural, or Jaik, and the N. coaſt of the Caſpian Sea. They are now entirely ſubject to Ruſſia, and the Ukraine, or country of the Coſſacks of Boriſthenes, is become a government under the name of Ekaterinoſlav. The Coſſacks are large and robuſt, have blue eyes, brown hair, and aquiline noſes; the women are complaiſant to ſtrangers. Their towns are built of wood, like thoſe of the Ruſſians. The Ukraine is one continued fertile plain, producing corn, pulſe, tobacco, and honey. It's paſtures are immenſely rich, and the cattle are the largeſt in Europe.

Coſſe, Glouceſterſ. between Newent and Tewkeſbury; near it is Coſſe Court. Coſſenton, Kent. NW. of Maidſtone.

Coſſey Hall, NW. of Norwich.

COSSIMBAZAR, a ſmall city of Bengal, where different European factors have conſtantly reſided, it being the centre of their trade. It is ſeated on an iſland in the river Hoogly, 110 miles N. of Calcutta, and 5 S. of Moorſhedabad.

Coſſington, Leiceſ. SE. of Mount Sorrel.

COSTAGNAZZAR, anciently HEMUS, a ridge of mountains, in Romania.

COSTA RICA, a province in the narrow part of Mexico, on the SE. between Veragua and the Moſquito country, extending from ſea to ſea, 50 leagues in length, and nearly as much in breadth. The ſoil is ill cultivated, but there is plenty of cattle, hides, honey, and wax. The natives live moſtly independent of the Spaniards. Carthage is the capital.

Coſtlet's Bridge, in Down, Ulſter.

Coſton, Leic. near Buckminſter. Coſton, Norf. NW. of Windham. Coſton, Worc. near King's Norton. Coſton, Shropſ. near Dillenbury. Coſton, Somerſ. between Bath and Briſtol. Coſtow, or Coſtway, a river of Yorkſ. which falls into the Derwent. Coſtcyn, Cornwall, N. of Clowant.

Cote, Oxfordſhire, SE. of Bampton.

COTE D'OR, a department of France, containing part of the late province of Burgundy, and bounded on the N. by the dept. of Aube, and on the W. by the depts. of Nievre and Yonne. Dijon is the capital.

Cote Hill, Cumb. in Wetherall pariſh. Cote Houſe, Yorkſ. N. of New Malton. Cotes, Linc. near Stretton. Cotes, Yorkſ. 22 miles from Doncaſter. Cotes, Leiceſ. near Loughborough. Cotes, Nottinghamſhire, in S. Leverton pariſh.

COTES DU NORD, a dept. of Fran ſo named from it's northerly maritime ſition. It is formed of part of the ci vant Bretagne, and is bounded by Engliſh Channel on the N. and tha Ille and Vilaine on the E. St. Bri is the capital.

Coteſwold Hills, a long tract of h ground, in the E. part of Glouceſterſ. noted for large flocks of ſheep, with fine of fine, white wool; a great part of it, h ever, is now devoted to the growth of co

Cotewall Tower, Northumberl. 6 m NW. of Rothbury. Cotham, Durh. r Yarum. Cotham, Lane. in Amount neſs. Cotham, Nott. S of Newark. tham, Nott. near Cotes. Cotham, Yor E. Riding, near Kilham. Cotham, E. W. Yorkſ. near the mouth of the T Cotham Abbey, Linc. W. of Grimſby. theleſton, or Cothurſton, Somerſ. betw Taunton and Stokegomer. Cotheridge, r Worceſter. Cothy, a river in Carmarth

COTHUS, or COTUITZ, a town Lower Luſatia, ſeated on the river Sp ſubject to the king of Pruſſia. A g number of French and Bohemian Prot ants, driven from their country by pe cution, ſettled here, and have introdu their manufactures; it is alſo noted pitch, flax, and excellent beer. It is miles S. by E. of Berlin.

COTIGNAC, a town in the departm of Var, ſeated on the river Argens. I noted for it's ſweetmeats.

Cotleigh, Devonſ. N. of Honiton. C Derbyſ. in Lullington pariſh. Coton, S near Mendleſham. Coton, 2 miles f Cambridge. Coton, Warw. near Ru Cottel End, Staff. in Sedgeley pariſh. tel Hall, Linc. SW. of Burton. Co ham, 6 miles from Cambridge.

Cotterborough, in Cork, Munſter.

Cotterel, Herts, ſtands on a hill, W Buntingford. Cotterſtock, Northamp of Oundle. Cotteſbich, Leiceſ. near terworth. Cotteſbrook, Northamp. Naſeby. Cottesflat, Weſtm. N. of thwait. Cottesford, Oxf. E. of Ded ton. Cotteſmore, Rutl. near Stam Cottingham, Yorkſ. NW. of Hull. Co ham, Northamp. W. of Rockingha reſt. Cottingley, Yorkſ. N. of Brad Cottingworth, E. and W. on each ſi the Derwent, 7 miles from York. Staff. N. of Rugeley. Cotton, Che of Middlewich. Cotton, Leiceſ. Market Boſworth. Cotton, Norf. be Norwich and Dereham. Cotton, Sh near Hodnet. Cotton, Shropſ. be Shrewſbury and Oſweſtry. Cotton, folk, near Finningham. Cotton End of Northampton. Cotwalton, Staffordſh. near Stone.

COVARD, a town of Glouceſterſhire, 10 miles from Glouceſter, on the road to St. David's, and 124 from London. Market on Tueſday.

Couch Hill, Oxfordſ. near Banbury.

COUCO, a mountainous, but fertile, country of Algiers, governed by an independent chief. It is ſituated between Algiers and Botjeiah.

COUCY, a town in the dept. of Aiſne, ſituated on the river Oiſe, 9 miles nearly N. of Soiſſons.

Cove, a village on Great Iſland, in Cork, Munſter. See CORK HARBOUR.

Cove, Hants, between Alderſhot and Blackwater. Cove, North, Suff. SE. of Beccles. Cove, South, Suff. W. of Covehith. Covebith, Suff. N. of Southwold. Cove, Staff. SE. of Brewood. Coveney, Cambridgeſhire, in the Iſle of Ely. Covenham, Lincolnſhire, W. of Saltfleet.

COVENTRY, a large and populous city, in Warwickſhire, noted chiefly for it's manufactures of ſilk ribbands, as alſo of cloths, ſtuffs, thread, gauzes, camlets, and lilings. The accounts, at preſent, of it's inhabitants vary from 20 to 30,000 perſons; by Bradford's Survey of Coventry, made in 1748 and 1749, the houſes, appear to have then been 2065, and the inhabitants only 12,117. It has communication, by canals, with Oxford, Lichfield, many other inland navigations, and with the Thames. The ſtory of Leofric, earl of Mercia, and lord of this place, heavily taxing the citizens, and only remitting them at the entreaty of Godina, his wife, on condition of her riding naked through the city, which he thought ſhe would never ſubmit to; but which, it is ſaid, ſhe performed, with her long hair ſo diſpoſed as almoſt wholly to cover her body, is commemorated till this day, by the figure of a man peeping down into the ſtreet from one of the houſes. On that extraordinary occaſion, all the doors and windows were ſhut, and Camden ſays, that nobody looked after her. The tradition, however, is, that one would needs be peeping, and that he was thereupon ſtruck blind. The inhabitants celebrate this event by the exhibition of a mock proceſſion annually. Coventry is 91 miles NW. of London. Lat. 52. 28. N. lon. 1. 28. W. Market on Friday. Fairs 2 May 2, Friday in Trinity Week, and November 1.

Cover, a river in Yorkſhire, which falls into the Youre below Midlam.

Coverham, or Corham, Yorkſhire, N. Riding, near Midlam. Covewold, Suſſex, S. of Leonard's Foreſt. Cougham, St. Andrew's and St. Mary's, Norf. SE. of Caſtle Riſing. Coughton, Warwickſh. N. of Aulceſter. Coughton, Herefordſh. S. of Roſs. Covington, Huntingdonſhire, W. of Kimbolton.

COULAM, a town of Hindooſtan, in the country of Tinevelly, 15 miles NE. of Cape Comorin.

COULAN, or QUILON, a country of Travancore, on the coaſt of Malabar, the inhabitants of which are generally Gentoos, with ſome Chriſtians of St. Thomas. The capital, of the ſame name, where the Dutch have a ſettlement, is 52 miles NW. of Travancore.

Coulby, or Coolby, Linc. near Boothby. Coulby, or Coolby, Linc. near Wintefingham. Coulby, or Coolby, Weſtmor. W. of Appleby. Could Aſton, Glouceſ. near Stow in the Would. Coulney, or Foulney, Yorkſ. a river which falls into the Ouſe. Coulſby, Yorkſ. N. Riding, near Newbiggin. Coulſdon, Surry, near Croydon. Coulſton, Norf. SW. of Watton. Coulſton, Wilts, between Weſtbury and Lavington. Coulſton Baſſet, Nott. 6. of Bingham. Coulton, Lanc. near the river Foſſe. Coulton, Staff. N. of Rugeley. Coulton, Yorkſ. N. Riding, near Hovingham. Coulton, Yorkſ. NW. of Appleton.

Coulyclare, in Clare, Munſter.

Coundale, or Coverdale, Yorkſhire, N. Riding, a foreſt near Midlam. Coundon, Warwickſ. N. of Coventry. Counsbury, Devonſ. W. of Portlock. Countiſthorp, between Leiceſter and Lutterworth.

COVORDEN, a ſtrong city, the capital of Drent, in Overyſſel. Lat. 52. 43. N. lon. 6. 11. E.

COURLAND, DUCHY OF, is bounded on the N. by the Gulf of Riga and part of Livonia; on the W. by the Baltic; and on the E. and S. by Ruſſia and Poland. It is divided into Courland Proper and Semigallia, and is 250 miles long and 40 broad. The country ſwells into gentle hills, and is fertile in corn, hemp, and flax. It is moſtly open; but in ſome parts covered with foreſts of pine and fir, and groves of oak, with much underwood. The woods abound with bears, wolves, and elks. The villages are neat, and the inns have good accommodations. The religion is chiefly Lutheran. Mittau is the capital. This country is now a province of Ruſſia.

Coursborn, Kent, in Cranbrook pariſh.

Court, Cornwall, E. of Grampound.

Court and Coraghcen, in Limerick, Munſter. Court Ferry, 6 miles from Limerick and 100 from Dublin.

Courtenhall, S. of Northampton. Courtfield, Wilts, near Weſtbury. Court Lodge, Kent, SW. of Rocheſter.

Court Mac Sherry, in Cork, Munſter, near a bay that affords great plenty and variety of fiſh.

COURTRAY, or CORTRYCK, a ſtrong town, in the dept. of the North, ſeated on the river Lys, 12 miles nearly E. of Ypres. It is noted for it's manufactures of woollen cloths, diaper and damaſk table linen.

COUTANCES, an ancient town, in the dept. of the Channel, with manufactures of woollen and linen. The inhabitants are about 5000. It is ſituated about 6 miles from the ſea-coaſt, 20 miles nearly N. of Avranches.

Couthorpe, Linc. 2 miles S. of Louth.

COUTRAS, a large town in the dept. of Gironde, ſituated at the confluence of the rivers Ille and Dronne, 20 miles NE. of Bourdeaux.

Cowarn, Great and Little, Herefordſh. SW. of Bromyard. Cowbach, or Colbach, Shropſhire, near Biſhop's Caſtle. Cowberley, Glouceſterſhire, SE. of Cheltenham. Cowbet, Lincolnſ. near Spalding. Cowborn, Yorkſ. SE. of Richmond.

COWBRIDGE, a town of Glamorganſhire, with broad, paved ſtreets, where the Eaſter quarter-ſeſſions for the county are held. It ſtands low, in a fertile ſoil, near the ſea, 12 miles W. of Cardiff, and 176 of London. A well ſupplied market on Tueſday.

Cowcomb, Glouceſ. in Hampton pariſh. Cowdale, Derbyſ. in the High Peak. Cowden, Kent, SW. of Penſhurſt. Cowden, Dorſetſ. N. of Charminſter. Cowdham, Kent, between Wetterham and Paul's Cray. Cowding, Suſſex, on the coaſt, near Pevenſey. Cowdridge, Hants, SW. of Biſhop's Waltham. Cowdry, Suſſex, near Midhurſt. Cowen, a river in Carmarthenſ.

COWES, EAST and WEST, a ſea-port on the N. coaſt of the Iſle of Wight, divided by the river Meden, or Medina. It is a place of good trade, reſorted to by merchant ſhips waiting for convoy, paſſage-boats to and from Portſmouth, Southampton, &c. and the ſtation of the packet, with the mail from the iſland to London. It is 8 miles SW. of Portſmouth.

Cowey Stakes, Surry, near Lalam, the place where Julius Cæſar paſſed the Thames, though the Britons had planted ſtakes to hinder it, both on the bank and ford.

Cowford, Suſſex, between Horſham a Woodmancoat. Cowgarth, Weſtmo near Winandermere, an old ſeat, with a cient trees about it, the boughs of one which ſpread out to ſuch an extent, th ſeveral hundreds of perſons might fi ſhelter under it. Cowgrove, Dorſetſhi near Kingſton Hall. Cowhill, or Cow Glouceſ. in Thornbury pariſh. Cowbo Yorkſ. W. Riding. near Ramſgill. C Honiborn, Glouceſ. 4 miles from Eveſha Cowick, Yorkſ. W. Riding, near Snai Cowick, Devonſhire, 1 mile from Exet Cowley, Derbyſ. in Scarſdale. Cowl Glouceſterſ. NE. of Berkeley. Cowl Glouceſterſ. near Birdlip Hills. Cowl Middl. SE. of Uxbridge. Cowley, Her on the borders of Worceſterſ. Cowl Staffordſ. NW. of Penkridge. Cowl Worceſ. N. of Malvern Chaſe. Cowl Yorkſhire, W. Riding, near Thorncl Cowley, Devonſ. near Exeter. Cow Deans, and Rogers, Glouceſ. both n Northleach. Cowley Temple, Oxford Cowling, Kent, SE. of Cliff, bel Gravesend. Cowling, Suffolk, 6 mi SE. of Newmarket. Cowlinghead, Yor W. Riding, near Bedal. Cowlin Glouceſ. near Chedworth. Cowlne, Edwin's, Glouceſterſhire, N. of Fairfo Cowlow, Derbyſh. in the High Pe Cowplandbeck brig, Weſtmorl. betw Standford Moor and Ormſide Hall. Co plin, Northumb. near Langton. Coup Northumb. between Newcaſtle and Ne biggin. Corupon, Durham, near Ho Cowsfield, Wilts, between Downeton Stockbridge. Cowshill, Norfolk, near I conthorp. Cowthorp, Oxf. near Banbu Cowthorpe, Yorkſ. NW. of Barnel Cowton Long, N. and S. Yorkſ. NW. Northallerton. Coxall, Hereſ. near L terdine. Coxden, Dorſetſ N. of Axm ſter. Coxheath, Kent, S. of Maidſto Coxwell, Great and Little, Berks, SW. Farringdon. Coxwold, Yorkſ. SE. Thirſk.

Coyd Kernew, Monmouthſ. SW. Newport Haven. Coyty, Glamorganſhi near Aberaven.

COZUMEL, an iſland of Mexico, n the E. coaſt of Yucatan, inhabited by original natives. It is 40 miles long, a from 3 to 12 wide, and abounds w fruits, pulſe, cattle, and fowls. Lat. 40. N.

Crabbet, Suſſ. 3 miles W. of E. Gr ſtead. Crab Hall, NW. of Cheſter.

CRACATOA, the ſouthernmoſt of groupe of iſlands in the entrance of Straits of Sunda, about 9 miles in c cumference. In the inland parts ground is elevated, riſing, on all ſides, gradually from the ſea. It is entirely covered with trees, except a few ſpots, which the natives have cleared for rice-fields. It's coral reefs afford ſmall turtle in abundance, but other refreſhments are ſcarce. It is thinly inhabited. It's water is excellent, but not plentiful, and on the S. end is a remarkably high, peaked hill, Lat. 8. 6. S. lon. 105. 36. E.

grou

Crakford, Lancaſh. between Cartmel and Ulverſton. Crackington, Cornwall, N. of Otterham.

CRACOW, formerly the capital of Poland, and now capital of a palatinate of the ſame name, is ſituated on the Viſtula, which is here broad and ſhallow. The city and ſuburbs occupy a vaſt tract of ground, yet contain ſcarcely 16,000 inhabitants. The great ſquare is ſpacious and well built; the houſes were once richly furniſhed and well inhabited, but are now either untenanted, or in a ſtate of decay. Many of the ſtreets are ſpacious and handſome; but almoſt every building bears ſtriking marks of ruined grandeur. The regalia were preſerved here, and in the cathedral moſt of the ſovereigns of Poland have been interred. They were alſo crowned here for nearly five centuries. It has a univerſity, now much decayed, and is 130 miles SSW. of Warſaw. Lat. 50. 8. N. lon. 20. 16. E.

Cradendine, Camb. 1 mile from Ely. Cradley, Hereford. between Acton Beauchamp and Cowley. Cradley, Shropſh. and partly in Worceſ. near Hales Owen.

Craghwell Bridge, in Galway, Connaught. Craigbally, in Antrim, Ulſter. Craigtown, in Tyrone, Ulſter.

CRAIL, a town and pariſh in Fifeſhire, 8 miles SE. of St. Andrews.

CRAINBURG, a town and mountain of Carniola, ſituated on the Save.

Craiſter, Northumb. S. of Dunſtanburgh Caſtle. Crake, Yorkſ. near Northallerton. Crake Hall, Yorkſ. near Bedal. Crakemarſh, Staff. Crakenthorp, Weſtm. near Appleby. Crakow, Yorkſ. W. Riding, near Settle. Craline, Northumb. Cramlington, between York and New Malton. Cranbourn, Hants, near Sutton. Cramlington, Northumberland.

CRAMMOND WATER, or the ALMOND, a river of Edinburghſhire. It's fertile banks are adorned with villages and country ſeats.

Cramond is a pariſh in the counties of Edinburgh and Linlithgow, with a very extenſive iron manufacture.

Cranage, Cheſhire, near Brereton.

*CRANBOURN, a town of Dorſetſhire, well watered with ſtreams. In the chaſe, which is ſo by preſcription, having never been a foreſt, there are 6 lodges, and formerly were 81 it extends almoſt to Saliſbury. It is 38 miles NE. of Dorcheſter, and 94 SW. of London. Market on Thurſday.

Cranbourn Lodge, a large, well-built houſe, with an extenſive, beautiful proſpect, 1 mile from Windſor.

*CRANBROOK, a large town in Kent, 13 miles SE. of Maidſtone, and 50 SE. of London. Market on Saturdays.

Crandon Long, Bucks, on the Tame.

CRANENBURG, a town of Cleves.

Cranesford, Suff. near Framlingham. Cranesley, Northamp. SW. of Kettering. Craneſtreet, Hunting. near Hitchinbrook. Cranfield, Bedf. 6 miles NW. of Amphill. Cranford, Dorſetſ. between Winborn Minſter and Blandford. Cranford, Northam. between Kettering and Thrapſton. Cranforth, near Lancaſter.

CRANCANORE, a town of Cochin, on the coaſt of Malabar, with an irregular fortreſs built by the Portugueſe. It was lately ſubject to the Dutch, and is 24 miles N. by W. of Cochin. Lat. 10. 23. N. lon. 75. 58. E.

Cranham, near Glouceſter. Cranham Hall, Eſſex, near Hornchurch. Cranhill, Berks, near Chidley. Cranley, Surry, 8 miles from Dorking. Cranmer, Somerſ. near Whatley. Cranmow, Leic, 2 miles NE. of Harborough. Cranwick, Norf. between Brandon Ferry and Swaffham. Cranworth, Norf. 2 miles W. of Hingham. Craſthole, or Craſthyle, Cornwall, between Milbrooke and Lowe. Craſwell, Herefordſhire, near Hay.

Cratelow, in Clare, Munſter.

Cratfield, Suffolk, near Haleſworth. Cratborn, Yorkſhire, near Yarum.

CRATO, a town in Portugueſe Eſtremadura, 10 miles W. of Portalegre.

Craven, Yorkſ. a ſtony tract, about the ſource of the river Are. Craven, ſome hills in the N. of Staffordſhire. Craven Hill, Middl. W. of Paddington. Crawcrack, Durh. between Bywell Caſtle and Newcaſtle. Crawdundale Waith, Weſtm. near Whelp Caſtle. Crawhurſt, Suſſex, NW. of Haſtings. Crawle, Suſſ. W. of Penſhurſt. Crawley, Bedf. N. of Woburn. Crawley, Hants, near Stockbridge. Crawley, Suſſex, 6 miles E. by N. of Horſham. Crawley, or Craglow, a river in Derbyſ. Crawſton, Leic, W. of Hallaton. Crawſton, Northumb. NE. of Alnwick. Cray, a river in Brecknockſ. Cray, a river in Kent, which falls into the Darent below Dartford. Crayford, has a market on Tuesday; Cray, Foots; Cray, St. Mary's, has a market on Wednesday; Cray, North, and Cray, Paul's, Kent; places all on or near the river Cray, or Crouch. Creack, Yorks. N. Riding, in the Forest of Galtres. Creack, N. and S. Norf. Cream Hall, Middl. near Islington. Crecomb, Devons. between Bampton and Chimleigh.

CRECY, or CRECY EN PONTHIEU, a village in the dept. of Somme, famous for a great victory obtained over the French, by Edward III. August 26th, 1346, wherein the latter were defeated with great slaughter, 30,000 foot being left dead in the field, besides the horse; among whom were the King of Bohemia, the Count of Flanders, 8 other sovereign princes, 80 bannerets, 1200 knights, 1500 gentlemen, 4000 men at arms, with the Duke of Alençon, and other great men, the flower of the French nobility. The English army was drawn up in 3 lines; the first consisted of 800 men at arms, 4000 English archers, and 600 Welsh foot, commanded by Edward prince of Wales, assisted by the earls of Warwick, Oxford, &c. The second line, composed of 800 men at arms, 4000 halberdiers, and 2400 archers, was led by the earls of Arundel and Northampton. The third line, or body of reserve, in which were 700 men at arms, 5300 bilmen, and 6000 archers, was ranged along the summit of a hill, and conducted by the king in person, attended by the lords Mowbray, Mortimer, and others. The army of the French consisted of more than 120,000 men. Crecy is about 10 miles N. of Abbeville.

CRECY, a town in the dept. of the Seine and Marne, 8 miles S. of Meaux.

CRECY SUR SERRE, a town in the dept. of the Aisne, 8 miles N. of Laon.

Credal, Dorsetsh. near Aldershot.

CREDAN HEAD and BAY, at the mouth of Waterford Harbour, Munster.

Credenhill, Heref. 1 mile from Kenchester. Creddy, a river in Devonshire, falling into the Ex near Exeter.

CREDITON, or KIRTON, a town in Devonshire, with a considerable manufacture of serges; formerly the see of a bishop, removed to Exeter, in 1050. The cathedral, a magnificent structure, 200 feet in length, is still standing. It is seated between two hills, on the river Creddy, 9 miles NW. of Exeter, and 181 W. by N. of London. Market on Sat.

Creech, E. and W. Grange, and Barrow, Dorsetshire, in Purbeck Isle. Creech, St. Michael's, Somersets. NE. of Taunton, Creed, Cornwall, SW. of Grampound, Creedy, Devonshire, N. of Crediton.

Creely, in Tyrone, Ulster.

Creetown, a sea-port of Kirkudbrighshire, on the E. side of Wigtown Bay.

Creggs, in Galway, Connaught. Cr gan, in King's County, Leinster.

CREIFF, a town of Perthshire, seat on the river Earn, 20 miles W. of Pert It's annual fair for cattle is one of t greatest in Scotland.

CREIL, a town in the dept. of Oi seated on the river Oise, 6 miles NW. Senlis; and a town in the dept. of Vendee.

Creilege, Nott. near Rufford. Crek way, Dorsets. N. of Weymouth.

CREMA, the capital of Cremasco, small, but fertile, territory of Venice, i sulated in the Milanese. It is well-bui populous, and commercial. Lat. 45. 2 N. lon. 9. 50. E.

CREMIEU, a town in the dept. of Ise 18 miles E. of Lyons, and 1 from t Rhone.

CREMNITZ, a town in Upper Hunga famous for it's silver mines. It is 56 mi N. of Gran.

CREMONA, the capital of the Crem nese, a territory of Milan, having Mant on the E. and the Bressan on the N. T principal streets are broad and straig and there are some small squares. T country about it is fertile, produci wine, fruits, honey, flax, &c. Here i university, of no great celebrity. It seated on the Oglio, near the Po, 30 mi NW. of Parma.

CREMPE, a town of Holstein, 4 mil N. of Gluckstadt.

CRESCENTINO, a town of the Verc leis, Piedmont, situated on the Po. It 20 miles NE. of Turin.

Cresden, Yorks. 11 miles from Doncast

CRESPY, a town in the dept. of Oi 12 miles S. of Compeigne.

Cressall, Essex, 3 miles W. of Waldre Cressedge, Shrops. SW. of Wrekin H Cressing, Essex, near Braintree. Cressin ham, Lanc. in Loynsdale. Cressingha Great and Little, Norf. 3 miles from Wa ton. Cressingham Temple, Essex, near t White and Black Notleys. Cressio Bucks, in the Vale of Aylesbury. Cres well, Staffords. in Sandon manor.

CRESSY. See CRECY.

CREST, a town in the dept. of Drom situated on the river Drome, 15 miles S of Valence; also a town in the dept. Puy de Dome.

Creswell, Derbys. near Holbeck. Cr tingham, Suffolk, SE. of Debenham. Cr tings, Suffolk, SE. of Stow. Cretingsour Hunt, near Great and Little Stoughto

Creto

Creta, Lincolnſ. near Bitham. Creton, 5 miles from Northampton.

CREVECOEUR, a town in the dept. of the North, ſeated on the Schreldt, 5 miles S. of Cambray; alſo a town in the dept. of Calvados; and a town and fortreſs of Holland, ſituated at the conflux of the Dommel and the Meuſe.

CREUSE, a department of France, ſo named, from a river which riſes about 8 miles S. of Felletin, croſſes the depts. of Creuſe and Indre, ſeparates the depts. of Indre and Loire, and of Vienne, and falls into the river Vienne, about 5 miles E. of La Have. Gueret is the capital.

CREUTZBERG, a town of Heſſe Homberg, Upper Rhine; a town of Brieg, Sileſia; a town of Narangen, Pruſſia; and a town of Eilenach, Upper Saxony.

CREUTZNACH, a town of Sponheim, in the palatinate, circle of Upper Rhine, ſituated on the Nahe. The ancient kings of the Franks had a palace here. It is 6 miles S. of Bingen, and 30 WNW. of Worms.

Crew, Cheſhire, on the river Walwan, Crew, Cheſh. on the Dee, NW. of Malpas. Crewenbale, Warw. near Henley.

*CREWKERNE, a town of Somerſetſhire, containing about 3000 inhabitants. Here are ſome manufactures of dowlas, lil cloth, gut web, and ſtockings. It is ſeated on a branch of the Parret, on the confines of Dorſetſhire, 132 miles W. by S. of London. Market on Saturday.

Crich, Derbyſh. between Alfreton and Wirkſworth. Crichbill, Somerſ. SW. of Horſe Selwood. Crichill More, and Crichill Great, Dorſetſh. near Wichampton. Crichill, Long, Dorſetſ. near Morechurch. Crichill, Little, Dorſetſ. near St. Giles's Wimborn. Crick, Monm. SW. of Chepſtow. Crick, Northamp. SE. of Daventry. Cricket, Shropſ. SW. of Ellesmere. Cricket Malherb, Somerſ. near Ilminſter. Cricket Thomas, Somerſ. E. of Chard.

CRICKHOWEL, a town of Brecknockſhire, much reſorted to by invalids, for the purpoſe of drinking goats milk and whey. Here are the ruins of a caſtle, which appears to have been formerly a place of conſiderable ſtrength. It is ſeated on the river Uſk, 13 miles E. by S. of Brecknock. Market on Thurſday.

CRICKLADE, a town of Wilts, containing about 250 houſes. It is ſeated on the Thames, (and the Thames and Severn Canal now comes up to the town,) 25 miles SW. of Oxford, and 83 W. of London. Market on Saturday.

Crickley, near Gloucester.

CRICKLIETH, a decayed town of Carnarvonſhire, 21 miles S. of Carnarvon. Near it are the remains of a very ſtrong caſtle. Market on Wedneſday.

Crickſey, Eſſex, near Walfleet. Crigmere, Cornw. NW. of Padſtow. Crimble Paſſage, is the ferry, for man and horſe, over the lower part of the Hamoaze, from Devonſhire into Cornwall.

CRIMEA, or CRIM TARTARY, a peninſula of Aſia, bounded on the N. by part of the diſtrict of Taurida, (a diviſion of the Ruſſian government of Ekaterinoſlav,) and on the other parts by the Black Sea and the Sea of Aſoph. It is divided into two parts by mountains which run E. and W. The N. diviſion is fit for paſturage only; in the S. part the valleys are remarkably fertile, and the climate extremely mild. The lower hills, extending from Theodoſia to the E. extremity of the country, are principally uſed in gardening, and produce excellent fruit. The Tartar inhabitants are eſtimated at 70,000. Achmeſted was made the capital in 1785. Beſides the ports of Kerth and Jenikale, the road of Caffa, and the harbour of Baluclava, there is, near Sebaſtapol, one of the moſt capacious and ſecure harbours in the world. This country is in ſome maps called Taurica, from it's having been the ancient Taurica Cherſoneſus.

Crimplesham, Norf. E. of Downham. Cringleford, near Norwich. Cripton, Dorſetſ. near Came, E. of Monkton. Criſleton, and Criſleton Row, near Cheſter. Criſſingham Magna, Norf. 5 miles S. of Swaffham. Crixhall, Kent, near Wingham.

Croagh Burgeſs, in Limerick, Munſter. Croagh Patrick, a high mountain in Mayo, Connaught.

CROATIA, a country of Europe, bounded on the N. by Hungary; on the E. and SE. by Hungary and Sclavonia; on the S. by Sclavonia and Boſnia, and on the W. by Morlachia. The Auſtrian Croatia is about 130 miles in length, and from 40 to 60 in breadth. Turkiſh Croatia is about 40 miles long and 20 wide. In the middle ages they had kings of their own; but in the 11th century, Croatia and Dalmatia devolved to the king of Hungary.

Crocadon, Cornw. N of Trematon Caſtle. Crock, a river near Cheſter. Crockern Tor, Devonſ. a hill in Dartmore Foreſt, where is held a court of ſtanneries. Crocker's Moor, Dorſet. in Corſcomb pariſh. Crockerton, Wilts, near Warminſter. Crockham Bear, Somerſ. near Curry Mallet. Crockham Hill, Somerſetſ. on the Avon, below Briſtol. Crockham Studley, Somerſetſ. near Stokegomer. Crockleford, Eſſex, Eſſex, near Colcheſter. Crocklow, Northumberl. E. of Woller. Crockſdon Abbey, Staff. NW. of Uttoxeter. Crockſted, Suſſ. near Waldern. Crock-way, Dorſetſ. in the pariſh of Maiden Newton. Croft Caſtle, Heref. NW. of Leominſter. Croft, Leic. E. of Hinckley. Croſton, Cumb. S. of Orton. Croſton, Lancaſ. below Biſpham. Croſton, Shropſ. S. of Didleſbury. Croſton, Hants, SW. of Fareham. Croſton, Yorkſ. near Wakefield. Croſton Hacket, Worc. near King's Norton. Croſton, St. Suff. SE. of Flixton.

Croghan, in Roſcommon, Connaught.

Croglin, Cumb. E. of Armanthwait.

CROJA, a town of Albania, anciently the capital and reſidence of the Albanian kings. It was uſed by the famous Scanderburg as a fortreſs and place of arms, from whence he continually haraſſed the Turks; but when the latter became maſters of Albania, they deſtroyed the fortifications.

Croke, Weſtmorland, W. of Kendal. Croke, Yorkſ. near Richmond. Croke Dale, Cumb. near Wigton. Croke Hall, near Durham, on the Wear. Crokenwell, Devonſ. N. of Teignton. Crokham, Hants, NE. of Odiham.

CROMACK WATER, a romantic lake of Cumb. on the Cocker, between Buttermere and Lowes Water. It is 4 miles in length, nearly half a mile in breadth, in ſome places very deep, and contains 3 little iſlands, one of which is a rock.

Cromal Abbots, Glouc. near Acton. Cromal Ligons, Glouceſ. between Glouceſter and Briſtol.

CROMARTY, a tolerably fertile, and, of late years, well-cultivated county of Scotland, comprehending part of a peninſula, on the ſouth coaſt of the Frith, to which it gives name. On the S. and W. it is bounded by Roſsſhire; and on the E. by the Frith of Murray. It is 12 miles long from E. to W. and about 3 miles in it's greateſt breadth. It's capital, CROMARTY, has a manufacture of hempen cloth, which employs about 200 perſons, and a conſiderable coaſting trade in corn, thread, yarn, fiſh, and ſkins. It is ſituated at or near the entrance of the Frith of Cromarty, the moſt ſafe, extenſive, and commodious bay, or harbour, of Scotland, and one of the fineſt in Europe, or the world. This truly excellent, but much neglected harbour, the Portus Salutis of the Romans, is about 22 miles in length, and, in ſome parts, 4 in breadth; the entrance is narrow and bold; being formed by two huge, lofty rocks, which project into the ſea till they approach within a mile of each other, and, therefore, defend this fine bay completely from winds and ſtorms. Theſe rocky promontories, or iſlands, thus approaching each other and having, alſo, a ſimilar appearance, are called by the natives, The Sooters of Cromarty, which, in the Scottiſh language means wooers, or lovers. Such, in fact, is the vaſt extent of ſea-room in this bay and ſuch it's length, depth, and breadth that almoſt the whole Britiſh navy might ride with ſafety within it; and the ſtate of the ſhore, or anchorage ground, on both ſides, for ſeveral miles up, is ſo favourable and ſmooth, that were a veſſel driven from her cables and caſt aſhore, there would be little or no damage incurred. In violent eaſterly winds, when no veſſel can venture to look into any port of the E. coaſt of Scotland, from the Frith of Forth northwards, all veſſels, thus ſituated, flock into this bay. It will appear of ſtill greater importance when it is known, that from Wick, in Caithneſs, to this frith, a diſtance of 60 miles, the ſhore is bold, rocky, and utterly unadmiſſible to ſea-veſſels of any ſize the waters of Dornoch excepted; which however, are of no great utility to navigation, by reaſon of ſhallows and quick ſands.

Crome Abbitots, Crome Earls, and Crome Hill, between Worceſter and Upton. Cromer, Herts, 3 miles W. of Buntingford.

CROMER, a town of Norfolk, on the ſea-coaſt, chiefly inhabited by fiſhermen. It was once much larger, but a conſiderable part of it has been gradually ſwallowed up by the ſea. Market on Saturday.

Cromford, 14 miles NNW. of Derby on the Derwent; here is an extenſive cotton manufactory, eſtabliſhed by the late Sir R. Arkwright. Cromhall, Glouc. 5 miles from Berkeley. Cromiſh Giffard, Oxf. near Wallingford. Cromiſh Buttery, Oxf. NE. of Cromiſh Giffard.

Cromlin, 3 miles SW. of Dublin.

CRONACH, a town of Bamberg, Franconia.

CRONBORG, a fortreſs of Zealand, ſituated on a point of land, on the W. coaſt of the Sound, a little E. of Elſinore, and oppoſite to Helſingborg, in Sweden. The late unfortunate Queen Matilda was imprisoned here, before ſhe was removed to Zell. Adjoining to a palace, about half a mile from Cronborg, is a garden, called Hamlet's Gardens, ſuppoſed to be the ſpot where the murder of that king was committed.

Cronebane, a rich copper mine, near Arklow, in Wicklow, Leinſter.

CRONENBURG, a town of Blankenheim, Treves.

Crongſton

Crogflon, Derbyſ. SW. of Bakewell. Croak Hill, Shropſ. NE. of Church Stretton. Croakley, Northumb. near Ebcheſter.

Crocrew, in Wicklow, Leinſter.

CRONSTADT, a town and fortreſs of Ruſſia, ſituated on the Iſland of Retuſari, on the E. of the Gulf of Finland, 12 miles W. of Peterſburg. It's harbour is the ſtation of the Ruſſian fleet, having great magazines of naval ſtores, and numerous docks and yards for building and careening ſhips of the line. It was founded by Peter I. improved by his daughter Elizabeth, and completed by the late empreſs. The number of inhabitants is about 6000. Lat. 59. 58. N. lon. 29. 56. E.

CRONSTAT, or BRASSAU, a town of Tranſylvania, near the borders of Wallachia.

Crookham Hill, Yorkſ. near Doncaſter.

CROOKHAVEN, a ſea-port of Cork, Munſter, 2 leagues NW. of Cape Clear.

Crookſtan, Higher and Lower, Dorſetſ. 1 mile S. of Maiden Norton.

Crook's Town, in Cork, Munſter.

Crome, Yorkſ. between Kilham and New Malton. Cropbill, or Cropwell Biſhop, and Cropwell Butler, Nott. between Bingham and Stanton. Cropredy, Oxf. 3 miles N. of Banbury on the Cherwell. Cropſton, Leic. SW. of Mountſorrel. Cropthorn, Worc. between Perſhore and Eveſham. Cropton, Yorkſ. N. Riding, NE. of Kirkby Moreſide. Croſby, Great and Little, Lanc. near Liverpool. Croſby, Cumb. between Workington and Solway Frith. Croſby, Cumb. SW. of Brampton. Croſby, Linc. SW. of Burton Stather. Croſby Garret, Weſtmorl. W. of Kirkby Steven. Croſby Ravenſworth, Weſtm. SE. of Shap.

CROSCOMB, a town of Somerſetſhire, near Wells; ſome cloth is made here, but the chief manufacture is that of ſtockings. Market on Tueſday.

Croſrake, Weſtmorl. E. of Can river, below Kendal. Croſenſide, Northumb. S. of Otterburn. Croſhall, Lanc. near Ormſkirk. Croſland, Yorkſ. W. Riding, near Aldmondſbury. Croſmere, Shropſ. NW. of Wem.

Croſs, in Armagh, Ulſter. Croſs, in Cavan, Ulſter.

Croſs, St. Hants, near Wincheſter, a rich hoſpital for decayed gentlemen.

Croſs a Keel, in Meath, Leinſter, 54 miles from Dublin.

Croſs Brook, Herts, near Waltham Croſs.

Croſsdoney, in Cavan, Ulſter.

Croſsley, Herts, near Caſhiobury.

CROSSEN, a town and duchy of the New Marche, Brandenburg, ſituated on the Oder.

Croſs Fells, a ridge of mountains in the E. of Cumberland.

Croſs Ferry, in Derry, Ulſter, 19 miles from Dublin. Croſs Haven, a creek on the W. ſide of Cork Harbour. Croſs Iſland, one of the Copland Iſles. Croſs Keys, in Kildare, Leinſter, 10 miles from Dublin. Croſs Keys, in Meath, Leinſter, 37 miles from Dublin. Croſsmolyna, in Mayo, Connaught. Croſs Roads, in Carlow, Leinſter. Croſs Roads, in Cavan, Ulſter, 50 miles from Dublin. Croſs Roads, in Cavan, Ulſter, near Florence-Court. Croſs Roads, in Monaghan, Ulſter. Croſs Roads, in Down, Ulſter.

Croſtermond, Weſtmorl. S. of Penrith, near Ulles Water. Croſthwate, Weſtmorl. NW. of Kendal. Croſtwick, Norf. E. of N. Walſham. Croſtwaite, Cumb. the pariſh wherein Keſwick ſtands.

CROTONA, a town in Calabria Ultra.

CROTOY, LE, a decayed ſea-port in the dept. of the Somme, ſeated on the river Somme, 10 miles NW. of Abbeville.

CROUCH BAY, Eſſex, near Walfleet, famous for it's oyſters. It contains four little iſlands.

Croughton, Cheſh. on the canal between the Dee and Merſey. Croughton, Northamp. NW. of Brackley. Crowan, Cornw. 3 miles N. of Helſton. Crowchfield, Herts. N. of Hemel Hempſted. Crowd Hill, Hants, W. of Biſhop's Waltham. Crowdon, Camb. E. of the Hatleys. Crowell, Oxf. 2 miles NW. of Stokenchurch. Crowfield, Suff. NW. of Ipſwich. Crowborough, Suſſex. Crowcomb, Somerſ. 8 miles N. of Taunton. Crowberſt, Suſſex, near Battel.

CROWLAND, a town of Lincolnſhire, in the Fens, approachable only by narrow cauſeways. It has 3 ſtreets, ſeparated from each other by water courſes, whoſe banks are ſupported by piles, and ſet with willow trees. The chief trade is in fiſh and wild fowl, which are in great plenty in the adjacent pools and marſhes. It was formerly celebrated for it's abbey of black monks, a noble ſtructure, founded by Ethelbald, king of Mercia, of which nothing now remains except the N. aiſle, which is uſed as the pariſh church. It is ſeated in an iſland of the ſame name, (called Crowland, from it's ſoil, cruda terra, which ſignifies raw, or muddy, land) 11 miles N. of Peterborough, and 93 N. by W. of London. Market on Saturday.

Crowle, Linc. in the Iſle of Axholm. Crowle, 4 miles E. of Worceſter. Crowley, Bucks, NE. of Newport. Crown Key, Kent, near Sittingbourn. Crows Hall, Suffolk, 1 mile SE. of Debenham.

Crows

Crows Neſt, near Worceſter. Crowthorpe, Norf. near Wymondham. Croxton, Cheſh. W. of Northwich. Croxby, Lincolnſ. near Thongcaſter. Croxdale, Durh. on the Wear, oppoſite Branſpeth, Croxhall, Derbyſ. 7 miles from Lichfield. Croxſton, Hants, W. of Whitchurch. Croxtath, Lanc. N. of Liverpool. Croxton, Norf. near Thetford. Croxton, Norf. SE. of Walſingham. Croxton, Camb. 2 miles E. of St. Neot's. Croxton, Cheſh. N. of Middlewich. Croxton, Line. NE. of Glandford Bridge. Croxton Abbey, Staff. near Checkley. Croxton Kyriel, Leiceſ. NE. of Saltby. Croxton South, Linc. SW. of Aſhby Folville.

*CROYDON, a town in Surry, the manor of which has belonged, ever ſince the conqueſt, to the archbiſhops of Canterbury, who had a venerable palace here, ſince the year 1278, alienated and ſold by authority of parliament, in 1780; and now, or lately, employed for a cotton manufacture. A new one, alſo, is to be built, in a more healthy ſituation, at Park Hill Farm, about half a mile from Croydon. It is ſituated near the ſource of the Wandel, 9 miles S. of London. Market on Saturday, chiefly for corn, oats, and oatmeal. It's ſecond fair, Sept. 21, is much frequented by young perſons of both ſexes from London, for walnuts.

CROYLAND. See CROWLAND.

Cruck End, Midd. between Highgate and Hornſey. Cruckbarrow Hill, a mile from Worceſter. Cruck Mele and Cruckton, Shropſ. SW. of Shrewſbury. Cruddwell, Wilts, W. of Cricklade.

Crumlin, in Antrim, Ulſter.

Crumſall, Lanc. near Cheſham. Crumwell, Nott. N. of Newark. Crumwell, Yorkſ. E. of Halifax. Crumwell, Devonſ. near Plymouth. Crundal, Kent, near Wye. Crundel, Hants, E. of Odiham.

Cruſheen, in Clare, Munſter

Crutum, Northumb. in Wooler lordſhip.

Crwys's Merchard, Devonſ. W. of Tiverton.

CRUXHAVEN. See CUXHAVEN.

Cryde, Devonſ. between St. Ann's Chapel and Ilfracomb. Cryſald, Warw. in Stonely parish.

CUBA, or ALCUBA, a town in Alentejo.

CUBA, a Weſt India iſland, near the entrance of the Gulf of Mexico, about 720 miles in length, and 70 in it's mean breadth, ſubject to the Spaniards. Round the coaſt are many convenient harbours; and ſeveral forts or mines among the mountains. Here are large forests abounding with game, and extenſive paſtures, which feed large flocks and herds of horned cattle, ſheep, and hogs, originally brought from Europe, and which now run wild. The hills run through the iſland from E. to W. and from theſe fall many rivulets which run to the N. and S. The land is generally level near the coaſt. The produce is that of ſugar-canes, ginger, long pepper, caſſia, wild cinnamon, excellent tobacco, called by the Spaniards, cigarro, aloes, maſtic, caſſia fiſtula, manioc, maiz, cocoa, and ſome coffee. Here are cedar trees ſo large, that canoes made of the trunk will hold 50 men; alſo oaks, firs, palm, cotton trees, ebony, and mahogany. Havannah is the capital, where the galleons rendezvous that return annually to Spain.

CUBACUA, a ſmall iſland near the coaſt of Cumana, Terra Firma, between the Iſland of Margaritta and the continent.

CUBAN, a river of Ruſſian Tartary, which riſes in Mount Caucaſus, and running NW. empties itſelf, by two mouths, into the Sea of Aſoph and the Black Sea.

CUBAN, or CUBAN TARTARY, a country of Aſia, S. of the river Don, and E. of the Sea of Aſoph, ſubject to the Ruſſians. It is now part of the diſtrict of Taurida.

Cubberley, Glouc. 4 miles from Cheltenham. Cubbington, near Warwick. Cubley, Derbyſ. 6 miles S. of Aſhburn. Cubley, Cornw. near Tregony. Cubley, Derbyſ. between Boylſton and Rawſton. Cublington, Bucks, near Whitchurch. Cuckamſley Hill, Berks, SE. of Wantage. Cuckerton, Glouc. near Tetbury.

CUCKFIELD, a town of Suſſex, 13 miles NW. of Lewes, and 40 S. of London. Market on Friday.

Cucklington, Somerſ. SE. of Wincanton. Cuckmere, a river and haven of Suſſex. Cuckſton, Kent, SW. of Rocheſter.

CUDDALORE, a town in the Carnatic on the coaſt of Coromandel, 15 miles SSW of Pondicherry. It is ſubject to the Engliſh.

CUDDAPA, a town and province of Hindooſtan, ſurrounded by Golconda, the Carnatic, and Mytore, and ceded to the Nizam of the Deccan by Tippoo Sultan. Lat. 14. 8. N. lon. 78. 48. E.

Cuddenton, Bucks, S. of the Winchingtons. Cudderſton, Yorkſ. near Barnard Caſtle. Cuddeſdem, 5 miles E. of Oxford. Cuddly, 1 mile E. of Worceſter. Cuddweerk, Somerſ. near Crewkherne. Cudley, Glouc. 5 miles from Deap. Cubelgate, Herts, N. of Enfield Chace.

CUENZA, or CONÇA, a town of New Caſtile, ſituated between two ſmall ſtreams, which form the Xucar; and a town and juriſdiction, jurisdiction, containing 14 parishes, of Quito, in Terra Firma.

CUJAVIA, a province of Poland, on the Vistula. Waldislaw was the capital. It is now subject to Prussia.

Culbone, Somers. SW. of Porlock Bay.

Culduth, a river in Pembrokeshire.

CUL DE SAC, a bay on the W. coast of the island of St. Lucia; and a bay on the SE. coast of the island of Martinico.—It is also a general term for a bay in the West India islands.

CULEMBURG, a town of Dutch Guelderland, situated on the Leck, 16 miles N. of Bois le Duc.

Culford, Suff. N. of Bury. Culgath, Cumb. near Newbiggen.

CULIACAN, a town, river, and province of Mexico, SE. of the Gulf of California. The province of Culiacan is 200 miles long and 90 broad. Lat. 24. 22. N. lon. 10. 3. W.

Culherton, Glouc. in Rodmarton parish. Cullacomb, Devons. near Tavistock. Cullum, Oxf. near Abingdon. Cullan, St. Pawe, Cornw. W. of Columb Magna.

CULLEN, a parish, rivulet, and royal burgh of Banffshire.

Cullenagh, in Queen's County; Cullencrin, in King's County; Cullihill, in Queen's County; and Cullivore, in Longford, all in Leinster.

Cullford, Devons. near Axmouth. Cullford, Dorset. near Upway. Cullinworth, York. NW. of Bradford. Culliton Rawleigh, Devons. W. of Sidmouth.

CULLITON, a town of Devonshire, 17 miles nearly E. of Exeter, and 159 SW. of London. Market on Saturday.

Culloden Muir, a wide heath, 3 miles E. of Inverness, where the Duke of Cumberland gained a decisive victory over the Highland rebels, April 16, 1746.

Cullville, in Armagh, Ulster.

CULLUMPTON. See COLLUMPTON.

CULM, a town and palatinate of Polish Prussia, 18 miles NNW. of Thorn.

CULMBACH, the second town in the principality of Bayreuth, situated on the Main, 15 miles NNW. of Bayreuth.

Culme David, Devons. near Church Stempton.

CULMENSEE, or CHELMSA, a town of Culm.

Culmerton, Shrops. near Ludlow.

Culmore, on the coast of Loughfoyle, 4 miles N. of Londonderry.

Culmstock, Devonshire, S. of Wellington.

Culmullin, in Meath; Leinster.

CULPEPPER, a county of Virginia.

Culpho, Suff. W. of Woodbridge.

CULROSS, a town of Perthshire, situated on the Forth.

Culsworth, Northamp. 5 miles from Brackley.

CUMA, a small island in the bay of Naples.

CUMANA, formerly called NEW CORDOVA, a town, with a deep, commodious road; and province of Terra Firma, situated between the provinces of Caraccas and Paria. Lat. 10. 12. N.

CUMBACH, a town of Bolislaw, Bohemia.

CUMBERLAND, a maritime county of England, bounded on the W. by the Irish Sea and Solway Frith; on the N. by Scotland; on the E. by Northumberland, Durham, and Westmorland; and on the SW. and S. by the sea and Lancashire. It is 58 miles in length from SW. to NE. and it's greatest breadth, from E. to W. is about 45 miles. It contains 1 city, 15 market towns, and 58 parishes. The air is cool; the mountains are large and lofty, feeding numerous flocks of sheep; and the valleys and plains are well cultivated. From the coal-pits on the coast, Ireland is principally supplied with fuel; this trade constantly requiring a great number of ships and mariners. The property here, both in lands and shipping, is more equally divided than in most other countries. Besides the coal mines, there are others of lead, copper, blue slates for covering the roofs of houses, lapis calaminaris, and of black lead, a mineral almost peculiar to this county, and produced here in quantities sufficient to supply all Europe. This county, and the adjoining one of Westmorland, are celebrated for their lakes, and the beautiful romantic scenery, which their banks, and the adjacent country, exhibit. They have often afforded subjects for the pen and pencil, and a visit to the lakes has of late become a fashionable tour. See BORRODALE, BUTTERMERE, &c.

CUMBERLAND, a county of New Jersey; a town of Virginia; and a town of Rhode Island.

CUMBERLAND ISLAND, about 20 miles in circumference, near the coast of Georgia. Lat. 31. N.

CUMBRAY, GREATER and LESS, islands in the mouth of the Clyde, E. of the Isle of Bute On the latter is a lighthouse.

CUMMINGTON, a township of New Hampshire.

Cundall, York. N. Riding, NW. of Ealingwould. Cundicott, Glouces. N. of Stow in the Would. Cundon, Durham, E. of Bishop Auckland. Cune, a river in Warwickshire.

Warwickſhire. Cuneſby, Linc. SE. of Tatterſhall. Cunningarth, Northumberl. N. of Bothnal Caſtle.

Cunningham, the N. diviſion of Ayrſh.

Cunſall, Staff. E. of Bagna. Cunſcough, Lanc. SE. of Ormſkirk. Cunſley, Durh. W. of Darlington. Cunvil, a river in Merionethſhire.

*CUPAR, the county town of Fifeſhire, beautifully ſituated on the Eden. Here the Thanes of Fife held their courts from the earlieſt times. Alſo a town of Angus.

CURAÇOA, a W. India Iſland, ſubject to the Dutch, 25 miles in length and 12 in breadth. The principal town is of the ſame name, and has a good harbour. The principal articles of commerce are ſugar, ſkins, and ſalt, and the inhabitants have long carried on a ſmuggling trade with the Spaniards. The iſland is barren, and dependent on the rains for water; yet the Dutch have built, on the ſouthern coaſt, one of the largeſt, and by far the moſt elegant and cleanly town, called St. Barbara, in the W. Indies. The harbour is naturally one of the worſt in America; yet the Dutch have entirely remedied that defect. Lat. 12. 6. N. lon. 68. 20. W.

Curbeal, Cornw. near Plymouth Dock. Curbear, Derb. in the High Peak. Curborow, Staff. NE. of Lichfield.

CURDISTAN, a country of Aſia, partly lying in Armenia, and partly in Perſia. The inhabitants are a mixture of Chriſtians, Mahometans, and Idolaters; they offer cocks, &c. in ſacrifice to the devil, and like the Arabs, partly live in towns and villages, and partly rove about with tents, ſubſiſting chiefly by plunder. They are called Curds, and are not ſubject to either the Turks or Perſians.

Curdley, Lancaſ. W. of Warrington. Curdworth, Warw. near Water Orton.

CURIA MARIA, an iſland on the SE. coaſt of Arabia, 40 miles long and 16 broad. Lat. 17. 20. N. lon. 55. 25. E.

Curidge Berks, near Chevely.

CURISCH HAFF, or THE GULF OF COURLAND, a lake, or gulf of Pruſſia, wide to the S. and narrow towards the N. It is ſeparated from the Baltic by the CURISH NERUNG, a tongue of land, extending 50 or 60 miles, from Memel to Labiaw.

Curlew, mountains in the county of Sligo, in Connaught, 17 miles S. of Sligo. Curragh, an extenſive common, of fine land, in Kildare, Leinſter, about 30 miles from Dublin, celebrated for horſe-races. Curragha, in Meath, Leinſter. Curraghbeg-land, in Cork, Munſter. Curraghmore, in Waterford, Munſter, 4 miles SE. of Carrick. Curraghroe, mountains of Tyrone, in Ulſter, 15 miles SW. of Strabane Curran, in Derry, Ulſter. Currans, in Kerry, Munſter. Curras and Maun, in Cork, Munſter.

Curriton, Devonſ. SE. of Lifton. Curry, Cornw. between Helſton and the Lizard Point. Curry, Eaſt, Somerſ. 1 mile from Langport. Curry Weſt, Somerſetſ W. of Curry Revel.

Curryglaſs, in Cork, Munſter.

Curry Mallet, Somerſ. N. of Abbot's Leigh, Curry Revel, Som. near Langport

CURZOLA, CORZOLA, or CORSIOLA a town and woody iſland, lately of Venice, on the coaſt of Dalmatia; the latter is 30 miles long and 8 broad. Lat. 43 17. N.

CURZOLARI, five ſmall, rocky iſlands about 12 miles E. of Cephalonia.

CUSCO, a large city of Peru, formerly the reſidence of the Incas. It is built in a ſquare form, and in it's centre is the beſt market in all Spaniſh America. Four large ſtreets, perfectly ſtraight, meet in the ſquare, and ſtreams of water run thro' the town. The number of the inhabitants is about 50,000, of which three-fourths are of the original Americans. It is 290 miles SE. of Lima. Lat. 13. 9. S. lon. 71. 0. W.

Cuſher, a river of Down, Ulſter.

Cuſop, a river of Heref. Cuſſe Hall, Eſſex, NW. of Heningham Sible.

CUSSOC, a town in the dept. of Upper Vienne.

CUSSET, a town in the dept. of Allier, 25 miles nearly S. of Moulins.

Cuſſington, Somerſ. NE. of Bridgewater. Cuſtock, Somerſetſ. on the coaſt, near Weſton upon Moor.

CUSTRIN, a town in the New Marche, Brandenburg, ſituated on the Oder, 48 miles E. of Berlin.

Cuſtworth, Cornw. near Columb Magna.

CUTATIS, a town, the principal place of Imiretta.

CUTCH, a territory of Hindooſtan, ſituated along the E. branch of the Indus, and the N. coaſt of the Gulf of Cutch, and bounded on the N. by Agimere. It is overrun with hills, woods, and ſandy wilds, and is governed by a rajah of it's own. The chief town is Boodge Boodge.

Cutcomb, Somerſetſ. between Dulverton and Minehead. Cuthbert, Cornw. SW. of Little Columb. Cuttayle, Cornw. W. of Taviſtock. Cutteſdean, or Cutſdean, Worceſ. ſurrounded by Glouceſ. Cutteſden, Glouceſ. between Morton in Marſh and Winchcomb. Cuxham, Oxf. E. of Dorcheſter.

CUXHAVEN,

CUXHAVEN, a ſea-port of Bremen, ſituated on the German Ocean, between the mouths of the Elbe and the Weſer.

CUYOS, CUPLO, or CHIQUITO, a territory of Buenos Ayres, bounded by Tucuman on the N. and on the S. and W. by Chili.

CYPRUS, an iſland in the Mediterranean, between the coaſt of Syria, and that of Caramania, ſubject to the Turks. The ſoil is fertile, but ſubject to long droughts, and there are numerous ſprings, but no rivers. The Cypriots are, in general, tall and well made; many of them live to a very advanced age: their women have fine eyes, but, in other reſpects, are far from being beautiful; they do not, however, degenerate from their anceſtors, as votaries of that goddeſs, whoſe favourite habitation this iſle was ſuppoſed to be. It abounds with game, and great numbers of ortolans, boiled and pickled in vinegar, are annually exported. The chief produce is cotton, ſilk, and wines: the annual amount of the former, is from 3 to 5000 bales, that of the ſilk is about 25,000; and the wines amount to near 40,000 gallons. The other exports are wool, nutmegs, turpentine, madder, kermes, opium, coloquintida, ſalt, umber, green earth, and a ſmall quantity of cochineal. Nicoſia is the metropolis of the iſland.

CZASLAU, a town and circle of Bohemia. In the church of the former is the tomb of Ziſca, the celebrated general of the Huſſites. It is 42 miles ESE. of Prague.

CZENSTOCHOW, in Cracovia, Poland.

CZERNICK, or CZIRNITZ, a town of Carniola, in the circle of Auſtria. Here is a remarkable tract of land, 15 miles in length and 5 in breadth, which, in ſummer, produces excellent graſs and corn, but in winter is overflowed, yields fiſh, and is called the Czirnitzer Sea. It is 28 miles SE. of Laubach.

CZERSKO, a town of Maſſovia, Poland.

CZONGRODT, a town and territory of Hungary.

DABUL, a town and harbour of Hindoſtan, trading in pepper and ſalt, ſituated on the coaſt of Concan, 75 miles nearly S. of Bombay. Lat. 18. 0. N. lon. 72. 42. E.

DACCA, a city of Bengal, once the capital, ſituated in the E. quarter, on a branch of the Ganges, which has a ready communication with all the other channels of that river, and the Burrampooter. It is the third city of Bengal in extent and population, and the capital of a diſtrict. It has large manufactories of the fineſt muſlins and ſilks, and cotton is produced within the province. The country round Dacca, lying low, is covered with perpetual verdure during the dry months, and is not ſubject to ſuch violent heats as Moorſhedabad, Patna, and other places. It is 130 miles NE. of Calcutta. Lat. 23. 43. N. lon. 90. 30. E.

DACHAU, a town in the duchy of Bavaria, 10 miles NW. of Munich.

DACHSTEIN, a town in the dept. of the Lower Rhine, 8 miles W. of Straſburg.

Dacre Caſtle, Cumb. at the confluence of the Dacor and the Eden, S. of Penrith, Dacombe, Devonſ. near the Keſwells.

Dadſington, Leic. NW. of Hinckley.

DAFAR, or DALFAR, a ſea-port of Hadramaut, exporting chiefly olibanum; and a town of Yemen, 130 miles S. of Mecca.

Dagenham, Eſſex, on the Thames, 9 miles from London.

DAGHESTAN, a mountainous tract of Aſia, W. of the Caſpian Sea, N. of Schirvau, and NE. of Georgia. It is inhabited by Tartars, ſubject to Ruſſia, and included in the government of Caucaſus.

DAGHO, an iſland of Ruſſia, in the Baltic, on the NW. coaſt of Livonia, about 20 miles in circumference.

Daglingworth, Glouc. 3 miles NW. of Cirenceſter.

DAGNO, a town of Albania, ſituated on the Drino.

Dagworth, Suff. NW. of Stow.

DAHL, a fine river of Sweden, which runs through the provinces of Dalecarlia and Geſtricia, and empties itſelf into the Gulf of Bothnia, about 4 leagues ESE. of Geffle.

DAHOMY, a country of Guinea, E. of the Slave Coaſt, and about 70 miles from the ſea, called alſo FOUIN, and ſuppoſed to reach from the ſea-coaſt 150, or 200, miles inland. The government is perfect deſpotiſm; yet, in the country, ſtrangers, are the leaſt expoſed to inſults, and reſide there in ſecurity and tranquillity. The king of Dahomy maintains a conſiderable ſtanding

ſtanding army, among whom are ſeveral hundreds of women, immured within his palace, that are trained to the uſe of arms, under a female general. The capital is Abomey, in lat. 9. 50. N. and lon. 3. 30 E.

Dailesford, Worceſ. N. of Adelſthorp, in Glouceſ. Daile Town, Yorkſ. SE. of Thirſk.

DALACA, or DAHHLAK, an Abyſſinian iſland, in the Red Sea, in about the 16th deg. of N. lat.

Dale Caſtle, Northumb. near Whitcheſter. Dalsby Caſtle, Shropſ. NE. of Wrekin Hill. Dalbury, W. of Derby, Dalby, Linc. N. of Spilsby. Dalby, Yorkſ. SW. of New Malton. Dalby, Stacomb, Leic. SW. of Melton Mowbray. Dalby Parva, Leic. near Stoppleford. Dalby on the Woulds, Leic. Dalden, Durh. near Eaſington. Dale, E. of Derby.

DALEBORG, a town, the capital of Dalia, ſituated on the W. ſide of Lake Wenner.

DALECARLIA, a river and province of Sweden, near Norway. The latter is about 80 leagues in length, and from 15 to 40 in breadth; and is ſurrounded by Helſingland, Geſtricia, Weſtmanland, Wermeland, and Norway. It is mountainous, yet has fertile paſtures, and abounds in mines of copper, iron, and ſilver, ſome of which are of a prodigious depth. The inhabitants are a plain, hardy, warlike race. The principal productions are corn, wood, and hemp.

Dale Main, Cumb. near Dacor Caſtle. Dale Garth, Cumb. near Eſkdale.

DALEM, a town of Limburg, Weſtphalia, 15 miles NNW. of Juliers.

DALENBURG, a town of Lunenburg Zell, Lower Saxony.

Dalham, Suff. near Newmarket.

DALIA, a province of W. Gothland, between the Wenner Lake and the government of Bahus. It is about 28 leagues in length, and 13 in breadth.

Dalinglo, Suff. near Wickham. Dalin Grig, Suſſex, W. of Aſhdown Foreſt. Dalington, Suſſex, between it's Foreſt and Battel. Dalington, W. of Northampton.

DALKEITH, a pariſh and town in Mid Lothian, ſeated on the Eſk, 6 miles SE. of Edinburgh.

Dalkeith Houſe, is the principal ſeat of the Duke of Buccleugh. The preſent magnificent palace was built about the beginning of the 18th century, on the ſpot formerly occupied by Dalkeith Caſtle, built on a perpendicular rock of great height, and inacceſſible on all ſides except the E. where it was defended by a foſſe.

Dalkey, a village on the S. ſide of Dublin Bay, about 7 miles from the city. Near it is Dalkey Iſland, a fertile ſpot, 18 acres; in the channel, between which and the main land, ſhips of the greatest burthen may ſafely ride at anchor, in 5 fathoms water, at the loweſt tides.

Dallington, Nott. near Normanton.

DALMATIA, written in old coins and inſcriptions, DELMATIA, a province of Europe, bounded on the N. and NW. by Boſnia and Croatia; on the E. by Servia, and on the S. and W. by the Adriatic. Spalatro is the capital of the part late held by the Venetians; Herzegovina, or that part by the Turks; and Raguſa, the capital of the republic of the ſame name. It abounds in corn, wine, oil, and cattle: it's mountains contain valuable minerals, and it's rivers, which have a long courſe, are generally navigable. The language and cuſtoms are Sclavonian. The part held by the Venetians has been late annexed to the dominions of the houſe of Auſtria.

Dalſton, Cumb. S. of Carliſle.

DALTON, a town in Lancaſhire, ſeated on the ſpring head of a river, in a champaign country, near the Dudden Sand. It is 16 miles NW. of Lancaſter, and 27 NNW. of London. Market on Saturday.

Dalton, Yorkſ. near Barnard Caſtle. Dalton, Yorkſ. near Huthersfield. Dalton, Yorkſ. near Doncaſter. Dalton, Yorkſ. N. Riding, near Topcliff. Dalton, Dorſetſ. 8 miles from Pool. Dalton N. and S. Yorkſ. near Pocklington. Dalwood, near Dorcheſter. Dalwood, Dorſetſ. 3 miles from Stockland. Dalwood, Devonſ. W. of Axminſter.

Daly's Bridge, in Cavan, Ulſter.

DAM, a town of Groningen, ſituated in the Ommelands, on the river Damſter, 12 miles NE. of Groningen, and having communication with that city by a canal. It is the capital of a country called Fivelinga, which comprehends 45 villages.

DAM, a town of Pruſſian Pomerania with manufactures of ſteel, 5 miles E. of Stettin; alſo a town of Munſter, Weſtphalia.

DAMAR, a town of Oman, and a town of Yemen; both in Arabia.

DAMASCUS, now called SHAM, a very ancient city of Syria, and the capital of a pachalic, is built in the form of an oblong ſquare. Streams of clear water run across the plain of Damaſcus, which fertilize the gardens, ſupply the public fountains, and run into every houſe. The caravanſeras have long galleries, ſupported by marble pillars, ſurrounding a large court. The private private houſes, which are built of wood, have their fronts inwards, incloſing a court, and preſenting a dead wall to the ſtreets, although often richly adorned within. The caſtle is like a little town, having it's own ſtreets and houſes. The moſques are ſuperb and numerous. The ſtraight ſtreet, which runs acroſs the city and ſuburbs, in a direct line, has ſhops on each ſide, where all ſorts of merchandiſe are ſold. The gardens and orchards extend ſeveral miles round, and are embelliſhed with ſummer-houſes, turrets, fountains, caſcades, and ſtreams of water. A manufactory of cutlery is carried on here. Damaſcus ſtands on the river Barida, in a very fertile plain, extolled by the Arabs, who ſpeak of it with enthuſiaſm, as the beſt watered, and the moſt delicious of all Syria, and contains about 80,000 inhabitants, of whom 15,000 are Chriſtians. It is 112 miles NNE. of Jeruſalem. Lat. 33. 45. N. lon. 37. 0. E.

DAMAUN, a ſea-port of the Paiſhwah, Hindooſtan, ſubject to the Portugueſe. It is ſituated at the E. entrance of the Gulf of Cambay, 50 miles S. of Surat.

DAMBEA, an extenſive lake of Abyſſinia, containing many fertile iſlands, and abundance of fiſh and river horſes. It is 100 miles from the ſource of the Nile; the country of Dambea, on the N. of the lake, being flat, is ſubject to inundations.

Damerham, Wilts; on the borders of Dorſetſhire.

DAMIETTA, a ſea-port town of Egypt, ſituated on the eaſtern branch of the Nile, about 7½ miles from its mouth, in the moſt fruitful part of Egypt. The number of inhabitants is about 80,000; they manufacture fine linen of all colours; napkins fringed with ſilk, &c. &c. Multitudes of boats and ſmall veſſels fill the port or road, which, however, is very defective and diſadvantageous to trade, being every where totally expoſed. It is a place of great trade, and is 84 miles NNE. of Cairo.

DAMIANO, ST. a town of Montſerrat.

DAMME, a town of Flanders, ſituated on the canal between Bruges and Sluys.

DAMME. See DAM.

DAMMARTIN, a town in the dept. of Seine and Marne; and a town in the dept. of Seine and Oiſe.

DAMVILLIERS, a town in the dept. of the Meuſe, 12 miles N. of Verdun.

DANBURY, a town of Connecticut.

DANCASH. See DONCALI.

Danbury, Eſſex, on a hill, 5 miles E. of Chelmsford; it's ſpire ſerves as a ſea-mark. Danby, Yorkſ. N. Riding, between Cleveland and Blackmore Foreſt. Danby, Yorkſ. N. Riding, NE. of Midlam. Danby upon Whiſk, Yorkſhire, near Northallerton. Dancer's Hill, Middleſex, W. of Enfield Chaſe. Dane, a river in Cheſhire. Dane-Court, Kent, in Chilham pariſh. Dane End, or Dane Street End, Herts, S. of the Walden's. Dane Furlong, Herts, near Hexton. Dane Iech, Cheſh. SE. of Congleton. Dane John, Kent, near Canterbury. Danes Bank, Yorkſ. W. Riding, near Temple Brewer. Danes Moor, Northamp. 3 miles NE. of Banbury.

DANGER, ISLES OF, three iſlands in the S. Pacific Ocean, diſcovered by Commodore Byron, in June, 1765. They are very populous, but ſurrounded with dangerous rocks. Lat. 10. 15. S. lon. 169. 28. W.

Dangon, in Cork, Munſter.

Daniels, Herts, near Sandon. Daniſh Camp, a circular intrenched mount, about 4 miles NE. of Northampton.

DANNEBERG, a town and county of Lunenburg, in Lower Saxony, on the river Jetze, near the Elbe.

Danny, Suſſ. SW. of Dichling. Danſon, Kent, SE. of Welland. Dantborp, Yorkſ. in Holderneſs. Dantiſh, Dorſetſ. E. of the Vale of White Hart. Dantrey, Hunt. E. of Whittleſey Meer. Dantſey, Wilts, near Malmſbury.

DANTZICK, a large, rich, and commercial town, in Pruſſian Pomerania, with a fine harbour, and a univerſity. The houſes are 6 or 7 ſtories high, and the granaries, containing vaſt quantities of corn and naval ſtores, to which the ſhips lie cloſe, are ſtill higher. It is reckoned to contain 200,000 inhabitants, though there died of the plague, in 1709, above 30,000 perſons. It is now ſubject to the king of Pruſſia, having been annexed to his dominions in 1793. It is ſeated on the weſtern bank of the Viſtula, about 4 miles from the Baltic, 68 miles WSW. of Konigſburg, and 160 NW. by N. of Warſaw. Lat. 54. 22. N. lon. 18. 38. E.

DANUBE, towards the mouth called ISTER, by the ancients, a river of Europe, riſing in, and running through, the circle of Suabia, paſſing by Ulm, then through Bavaria and Auſtria, paſſing by Ratiſbon, Paſſau, and Vienna: it then enters Hungary, paſſing on to Preſburg, Buda, and Belgrade, after which it divides Bulgaria from Morlachia and Moldavia, falling into the Black Sea, by ſeveral channels, in the province of Beſſarabia. It begins to be navigable for boats at Ulm; receives ſeveral large rivers as it paſſes along; is ſo deep between Buda and Belgrade, that the Turks and their enemies have had men of war on it; yet there are cataracts on it, both above and below Buda, which prevent it's being navigable either way in that part.

Darynn, in Roſcommon, Connaught.

DARABGERD, a town of Farſiſtan, Perſia, with a conſiderable manufacture of glaſs. Near it is found ſalt of various colours, red, white, black, and green. It is 116 miles ESE. of Schiras.

DARAH, or DRAS, a country of Africa, bounded on the E. and S. by Zahara, on the W. by Sus, and on the N. by Morocco, Gerula, and Tafilet. It takes it's name from the river Darah, which paſſes through it, riſing in the Greater Atlas, and running into the Atlantic near Cape Non.

Darby Weſt, Lanc. NE. of Liverpool.

DARDA, a town of Lower Hungary.

DARDANELLES, two caſtles, (built by Mahomet IV. in 1658) one on each ſide of the Strait of Gallipoli, anciently the Helleſpont, between the Archipelago and the Sea of Marmora. The ſtrait is 33 miles long, in the broadeſt part it is a mile and a half acroſs, and in the narroweſt half a mile. At the entrance, where guarded by the caſtles, it is about 2 miles over.

Dardiſtown Bridge, in Meath, Leinſter. 19 miles from Dublin.

Darely, Cheſh. near Olton.

DAREL HAMARA, a town of Fez.

Darent, Kent, on the river Darent, or Darwent, between the Crays and Graveſend. Dares Hall, Northumberl. SW. of Eland Hall, Darfield, Yorkſ. between Barneſley and Doncaſter.

Dargle, a romantic vale, or glen, in the county of Wicklow, about 10 miles from Dublin. The lofty mountains on each ſide are clothed with trees down to the edge of the river, which noiſily rumbles from rock to rock in the bottom, forming many caſcades; and the views from the eminences are grand and beautiful.

DARIEN, an iſthmus, or narrow country which joins N. and S. America, having the Atlantic on the NE. and the Pacific on the SW. It extends about 360 miles in length, and from 48 to 135 in breadth. It is generally conſidered as a province of Terra Firma, though it ſeems to be a part of N. America, and is of great importance to the Spaniards, as the wealth of Peru is brought annually to Panama and Porto Bello, and thence exported to Europe. Here are many high mountains, and the low grounds are frequently overflowed with the heavy rains. The natives build their houſes with hurdles, plaiſtere over with earth, and have plantations alor the banks of the rivers. The girls pic and ſpin cotton, and the women weave i and the men fabricate very neat baſke with canes, reeds, or palmetto-leaves dy of ſeveral colours. Polygamy is allow among them.

DARIEN, a large river of the provin of Darien, which empties itſelf into t Gulf of Darien, in the Spaniſh Main, lat. 8. 40. N.

DARIEN, a town of Georgia, in America.

Darien's Bridge, in Cavan, Ulſter.

*DARKING, a town of Surry, noted f corn and fowls. The cuſtom of borou Engliſh prevails in this manor. It ſeated in a healthy air, on a ſoft, ſan rock, near the river Mole, 23 miles SV of London. Market on Saturday; and large fair on May 23, for lambs.

Darlaſton, Shropſ. near Prees. Darlaſto Staff. near Stone. It communicates wi all the late inland navigations. Darlto Nott. NE. of Tuxford. Darley, ne Derby. Darley, Yorkſ. W. Riding, NV of Ripley. Darley Abbey, N. of Derb Darley Hall, Derbyſ. SE. of Bakewe Darliſton, or Dalſton, Middl. in Hackne

*DARLINGTON, a neat, thriving tow in the county of Durham, noted for i manufactures of huckabacks, 10 quarte wide, diapers, ſtuffs, &c. Some fine nens are alſo made here, the Skerne wate being famous for bleaching. It has a ſp cious market-place, and handſome churc A curious water machine for grinding o tical glaſſes, and another for ſpinning nen yarn, have been invented and erect here. Darlington is ſeated on the riv Skerne, which falls into the Tees, 3 or miles below the town, 18 miles S. of Du ham, and 236 N. by W. of Londo Market on Monday.

DARLINGTON, a county of S. Carolin

DARMSTADT, the capital of the lan graviate of Heſſe Darmſtadt, in the cir of the Upper Rhine. It has a conſiſtor a criminal court, a college, a court of a peals, &c. It is ſeated on a river of t ſame name, 18 miles ESE. of Mentz.

Darnall, Cheſhire, SW. of Middlewic Darnbroke, Yorkſ. W. Riding, near Pe nygent Hill. Darnall, a river in Radnor which runs into the Wye above Rayad Gowy. Darnford, Wilts, N. of Old S rum.

DAROCA, a town of Arragon, ſituat on the Xiloca, 38 miles SSW. of Sar goſſa.

Darrington

Darrington, Yorkſ. W. Riding, near Weſtbridge. Darſham, Suffolk, W. of Dunwich. Dartington, Devonſ. N. of Totneſs.

*DARTFORD, a town in Kent, ſeated on the river Darent, near it's influx into the Thames, which is a harbour for barges, 2 miles W. of Graveſend, and 16 E. by S. of London. It is full of inns and public houſes, from it's being a great thoroughfare on the road from London to Canterbury. Market, chiefly for corn, on Saturday.

*DARTMOUTH, a town of Devonſhire, with a ſafe haven, capable of ſheltering 500 ſail of ſhips. It is ſeated at the mouth of the Dart, which river riſes at the foot of Dartmoor hills, (an extenſive mooriſh tract, feeding great numbers of black cattle,) and after paſſing Totneſs, where it is navigable for ſmall veſſels, is joined by the Harebourn, 7 miles above it's fall into Dartmouth Haven. The town, which is about a mile long, ſtands on the ſide of a craggy hill, with ſtreets very irregular, ſometimes two or three, one above another: yet the houſes are generally very high. The harbour is defended by three caſtles, beſides forts and block-houſes; and here is a large quay, with a ſpacious ſtreet before it, inhabited by ſome conſiderable merchants. Dartmouth has a conſiderable trade to Italy, Spain, Portugal, &c. and to Newfoundland, as well as a ſhare in the coaſting traffic. It's pilchard and foreign fiſheries employ near 3000 men. It is 30 miles nearly S. of Exeter, and 204 W. by S. of London. Market on Friday for corn and proviſions; and one almoſt every day for fiſh.

Darrow, or Yarrow, a river in Lancaſ. which runs into the Dowlas, near Crafton. Darton, Yorkſ. near Barneſley. Darvel, Suſſex, near Battel. Darun Wood, Suſſex, NW. of Battel. Darwen Cote, Durham, a Chopwell manor. Darwerdes, Eſſex, NW. of Braintree. Darwen Chapel, Derbyſ. in the High Peak. Darwen Chapel, Lanc. SE. of Blackburn.

DASSEN EYLAND, or BEER ISLAND, one of the three ſmall iſlands lying between the Cape of Good Hope and Saldanha Bay, ſo called from the great number of deer, which were firſt brought here in 1601. There are alſo ſheep, whoſe tails weigh 19 pounds apiece. Lat. 33. 25. S. lon. 17. 56 E.

Daſſet Area, or Parva; and Daſſet Magna, or Magna, Warw. E. of Edge Hill. Daſſet, or Daſſhill, Warw. between Hill and the river Tame. Datchet, Bucks, near Windſor. Datchworth, Herts, between Ware and Stevenage. Datford, Bucks, in Stow pariſh. Dauderby, Linc. S. of Horncaſtle. Davenham, Cheſh. 2 miles S. of Northwich. Davenport, Cheſh. W. of Congleton.

*DAVENTRY, or DAINTRY, a town of Northamptonſhire, with many good inns, being a great thoroughfare, on the road from London to Cheſter. It's principal trade is making whips. It is 10 miles W. of Northampton, and 72 NW. of London. Market on Wedneſday.

Dau Gledhen, or Two Swords, a river in Pembrokeſhire, which riſes S. of Fiſgard, paſſes by Haverfordweſt, &c. and falls into Milford Haven.

*DAVID'S, ST. anciently called MENEW, or MENEVIA, a town of Pembrokeſhire, formerly the ſee of an archbiſhop, and metropolis of the Britiſh church. It contains about 1200 inhabitants, and is ſeated on a barren ſoil, on the river Ilen, 22 miles NW. of Pembroke, and 225 W. by N. of London. Market on Wedneſday.

DAVID'S, ST. or TEGAPATNAM, an Engliſh ſettlement, on the Coaſt of Coromandel, 15 miles S. of Pondicherry. Lat. 12. 5. N. lon. 80. 35. W.

Davidſtow, Cornw. NE. of Camelford.

DAVIS' STRAITS, an arm of the ſea, ſeparating Greenland from Labradore, and other parts of N. America. It was diſcovered by Captain Davis in 1585. Lat. 60. to 80. N.

Daulting, Somerſ. between Cranmer and Shipton Mallet. Daulton, Durh. SW. of Hartlepool.

DAUN, a town of Stiria.

DAUPHIN, a ſmall iſland, in the Gulf of Mexico, at the mouth of the river Mobile. Lon. 88. 10. W.

DAUPHINY, a ci-devant province of France, now forming the departments of Drome, Iſere, and Upper Alps.

Davington, Kent, 1 mile from Feverſham. Dawley, Midd. near Drayton and Hounſlow. Dawley, Great and Little, Shropſ. SE. of Wrekin Hill. Dawling Field, Norf. S. of Cockthorp. Dawling Wood, Norf. NW. of Caſton. Dawliſh, Somerſ. SE. of Ilminſter. Dawliſh, Devonſ. between Torbay and Star Croſs. Dawlton, Northumb. between Hexham and Morpeth. Dawney Court, Berks, near Eton Wick. Dawſ Green, Surry, near Darking. Dawton, Yorkſ. N. Riding, near Eriholme.

DAX. See ACQS.

Daye, St. Cornw. W. of Truro.

Dead, a river in Pembrokeſhire, which runs into the Aniſer, or Nevern, near Neuport. Deadman's Head, a cape in Cornwall, between St. Maw's and Fowey.

DEAD SEA, or LAKE ASPHALTITES, in Paleſtine, abounding in bitumen; it contains no verdure on it's banks, nor fiſh in it's waters. The cauſe which deprives it of vegetable and animal life, is the extreme ſaltneſs of the water, which is infinitely ſtronger than that of the ſea. It is not true, however, that it's exhalations deſtroy birds flying over it, as it is very common to ſee ſwallows ſkimming along it's ſurface. Fragments of ſulphur and bitumen, and mines of foſſil ſalt, are found in the mountains, which extend along the ſhore. The Jordan runs into it, without any viſible diſcharge for it's waters.

*DEAL, a ſea-port in Kent. Here are about 1000 houſes, and 4500 inhabitants, who are chiefly ſupported by the reſort of mariners hither from the Downs. It is 7 miles S. by E. of Sandwich, and 72 E. by S. of London. Market on Thurſday.

DEAN, GREAT DEAN, or MICHEL DEAN, a town of Glouceſterſhire, in the Foreſt of Dean, 11 miles W. of Glouceſter, and 112 WSW. of London. The Foreſt comprehends that part of the county which lies between the Severn and the ſhires of Monmouth and Hereford. It contains 4 market towns and 23 pariſhes, is fertile in paſture and tillage, produces fine oaks, abounds in orchards, and has rich mines of iron and coal. A few ſolitary deer ſtill run wild in it's receſſes. Market on Monday.

Dean, Little, Glouceſ. 3 miles SE. of Great Dean. Dean, a river of Leic. and Nott. running into the Trent at Newark. Dean, Cumberl. 3 miles SW. of Cockermouth. Dean, Hants, E. of Overton. Dean, Hants, at the entrance of Portſmouth Harbour. Dean, Kent, near Chalk. Dean, Kent, near Wingham. Dean, Lanc. W. of Bolton. Dean, Middl. in Ryſlip. Dean, Northamp. 3 miles from Rockingham. Dean, Eaſt, Hants, NW. of Rumſey. Dean, Eaſt, Suſſex, near Horſham. Dean, Eaſt, Suſſex, between Seaford and Pevenſey Haven. Dean Farm, Oxf. near Euſton. Dean Hall, Nott. in Caunton pariſh. Dean Nether, and Dean Over, Huntingdonſ. Dean Park, Shropſ. bordering on Worceſterſhire. Dean Prior, Devonſh. between Aſhburton and Brent. Dean's Court, Dorſetſ. near Winbourn. Dean's Court, Kent, near Appledore. Dean's Court, Kent, in Weſtwell pariſh. Dean Thorp, Northamptonſ. near King's Cliff. Dean, Weſt, Wilts, E. of Saliſbury. Dean, Weſt, Suſſex, near Midhurſt. Dean, Weſt, Suſſex, NW. of Eaſt Dean. Debach, Suffolk, between Debenham and Woodbridge. Debden, Eſſex, near Audley End. Debdon, Hants, in New Foreſt near Southampton Bay. Deben, a river in Suffolk, flowing into a long narrow arm of the ſea at Woodbridge.

DEBENHAM, a town of Suffolk, ſituated near the head of the river Deben, 24 miles E. of Bury, and 84 NE. of London. Market on Friday.

DEBRECZIN, a town of Hungary, 60 miles WNW. of Coloſvar.

DECCAN, THE, an extenſive tract of country, in Hither India, which contains the provinces of Candeiſh, Dowlatabad, Viſapour, Golconda, and the W. part of Berar. Candeiſh, Viſiapour, and a part of Dowlatabad, are ſubject to the Mahrattas, the dominions of the Nizam Ally, Soubah of the Deccan, (without including the ceſſions of Tippoo Sultan in 1792, viz. Kopaul, Cuddapah, and Gangecotta, all ſuppoſed to be 430 miles long, from NW. to SE. and 300 broad. By the death of his brother, in 1780, he became poſſeſſed of the diſtricts of Adoni and Rachore, and of the Guntoor Circar. His capital is Hydrabad.

DECIZE, an ancient town in the dep. of Nievre, ſeated on an iſland formed by the Loire, 16 miles SE. of Nevers.

DECKENDORF, a town of Bavaria, ſituated near the Danube, 28 miles NW. of Paſſau.

Decombs, St. Somerſetſ. near Watchet.

DEDDINGTON, a town of Oxfordſhire, ſeated on a riſing ground, 16 miles N. of Oxford, and 70 WNW. of London. Market on Saturday.

Dedingham, Northumb. near Woller.

DEDHAM, a town of Maſſachuſetts.

DEDHAM, a town of Eſſex, conſiſting of about 400 lofty houſes. It is ſituate on the river Stour, which ſeparates it from Suffolk, 6 miles NNE. of Colcheſter, and 58 NE. of London. Market on Tueſday.

DEE, a river of N. Wales and Cheſhire, which riſes near Pimble Meer, in Merionethſhire, croſſes the county of Denbigh, ſeparating it from Cheſhire, and runs into the Iriſh Channel about 15 miles NW. of Cheſter, and to which city it is navigable from near Elleſmere in Shropſhire. At Cheſter the continuity of the navigation is broken by a ledge of rocks, which run acroſs the bed of the river, and cauſes a kind of caſcade; from hence it flows to the ſea, a broad, ſandy eſtuary, dividing Cheſhire from Flintſhire. By embankments, however, made here of late years, much land has been gained from the tide, and a narrower, but deeper channel, fits for irrigation, has been formed from Chester, half way to the ſea.

Dee, a river of Aberdeenſhire, which runs into the German Ocean at Aberdeen.

Dee, a river of Kirkcudbrightſhire, which runs into Solway Frith, 5 miles below Kirkcudbright.

Deepdale, Rutland, W. of Uppingham.

Deepden, Surry, between Dorking and Bookworth, a ſeat of the Duke of Norfolk, noted for a wild ſort of cherries, which grow hereabouts in great plenty.

DEEPING, MARKET, an old, ill-built, dirty town, of Lincolnſhire, ſeated on the river Welland, in a deep, marſhy country, 6 miles E. of Stamford, and 90 N. of London. Market on Thurſday.

Deeping, E. and W. Line. near Deeping.

DEERFIELD, a town and river of Maſſachuſets, which laſt runs into the Connecticut.

DEERHAM. See DEREHAM.

Deerhurſt, Glouceſterſh. 3 miles S. of Tewkſbury, ſubject to frequent inundations from the Severn. Defford, Worceſ. on the Severn. Deinton, Glouceſ. 8 miles from Briſtol and 7 from Bath.

DEINSE, a town in the ci-devant county of Flanders, ſituated on the river Lys, 9 miles SW. of Ghent.

Delacres, or Delvecroſs Abbey, Staffordſ. NE. of Leek. Delaly, Northumb. in Tindale. Delaney Caſtle, Shropſ. near Wrekin Hill. Delamere Foreſt, NE. of Cheſter.

DELAWARE, one of the United States of N. America, bounded on the N. by Pennſylvania; on the E. by Delaware River and Bay; and on the S. and W. by Maryland. It is about 90 miles long, and 20 broad; and, in 1790, the inhabitants were computed at 59,094. In many parts it is unhealthy, being ſeated in a peninſula, where the land is low and flat, which occaſions the waters to ſtagnate, and ſubjects the inhabitants to intermittent fevers. It is divided into the counties of Newcaſtle, Kent, and Suſſex.

DELAWARE, a river of N. America, which riſes near the Katſkill Mountains, in the State of New York, and in it's courſe ſeparates the ſtate of Pennſylvania from thoſe of New York and New Jerſey, and a few miles below Philadelphia, ſeparates the ſtate of Delaware from Jerſey, till it loſes itſelf in Delaware Bay. From the mouth of the Bay to Philadelphia, a courſe of 118 miles, it is navigable all the way for large veſſels.

DELAWARE, a bay of N. America, which is 60 miles long, from Cape Henlopen to the entrance of the river Delaware at Bombay Hook. It is ſo wide in ſome parts, that a ſhip in the middle of it can ſcarcely be ſeen from the ſhore, and the Capes Henlopen and May are 18 miles apart.

Delas, or Dulas, a river in Brecknockſhire, which runs into the Irwen, or Yron, below Longmarſh. Delbridge, Devonſ. SE. of Chimleigh.

DELFT, a well-built town of Holland, with canals in the ſtreets, planted on each ſide with trees. It is about 2 miles in circumference, and is defended againſt inundations by 3 dykes. Vaſt quantities of fine glazed earthen ware are made here, known by the name of Delft wares. It is ſeated on a canal called the Schie, 8 miles NW. of Rotterdam, and 30 SSW. of Amſterdam.

DELFZUYL, a ſea-port of Groningen, ſituated in the Ompelands, at the mouth of the river Damſter, 15 miles NE. of Groningen.

DELICHI, a river of Albania, anciently Acheron, feigned by the poets to be a river of hell.

DELHI, a province of Hindooſtan, bounded on the W. by Moultan: on the NW. by Lahore; on the E. by the countries of Thibet and Oude; and on the S. by Agra and Agimere. The natural fertility of the ſoil of this province, and the mildneſs of it's climate, are ſuch as to favour the moſt numerous population; yet, having been the ſeat of continual wars for more than 70 years paſt, it is almoſt depopulated; the lands lie waſte, and the inhabitants provide only the bare means of ſubſiſtence leſt they ſhould attract the notice of thoſe whoſe trade is pillage. It is about 165 miles in length and 140 in breadth.

DELHI, the capital of the province of Delhi, was once a large, rich, and populous city, and the capital of the Mogul empire. But, in 1739, when Nadir Shah, or Kouli Khan, invaded Hindooſtan, he entered Delhi, and dreadful were the maſſacres and calamities that followed: 200,000 of the inhabitants periſhed by the ſword: and plunder, to the amount of 60,000,000l. ſterling, was collected and carried away. They endured ſimilar diſaſters on the ſubſequent invaſions of Abdalla, king of Candahar; ſo that, ſince the decline and downfal of the Mogul empire, the population is extremely low. The late reſidence of the Mogul is a magnificent palace, built of red ſtone, about 1000 ells in length and 602 in breadth, and which coſt 10,500,000 rupees. Lat. 28. 37. N. lon. 77. 40. E.

DELMENHORST, a town in Weſtphalia, containing 1 church, about 237 houſes, and 1400 inhabitants, capital of a ſmall county, ſubject to the kings of Denmark. It is ſituated on the river Delme, 7 miles SW. of Bremen.

DELMONT, or TALSPERG, a town in the biſhoprick of Baſil, circle of Upper Rhine.

DELOS, or DILI, an iſland in the Archipelago, formerly celebrated for the temple of Apollo, and the oracle contained in it, but now covered with ruins and uninhabited. Lat. 37. 22. N. lon. 25. 28. E.

DELPHOS, a town, or rather village, of Livadia, occupying part of the ſite of the ancient Delphi.

DELTA, the name of a fertile tract of Lower Egypt, on the Mediterranean, between the branches of the Nile, from it's ſuppoſed reſemblance to the Greek letter ſo called. It is alſo applied to the mouths of the Ganges, Ava, and other rivers.

Delves, Staffordſhire, near Uttoxeter. Dembleby, Linc. NW. of Folkingham.

DEMER, a river which riſes in the biſhoprick of Liege, and runs into the Scheldt, between Antwerp and Dendermond.

DEMERARY, a river and ſettlement in Surinam, lately ſubject to the Dutch. The former is navigable for merchant veſſels 30 miles up the country. The ſettlement is formed on the banks of the river, where the inhabitants cultivate ſugar, cotton, and coffee. Demerary forms one government with Iſſequibo. The two diſtricts contain about 3000 whites, and 40,000 ſlaves. This ſettlement was taken by the Britiſh troops, under General Abercrombie, May 2, 1796. Lat. 6. 40. N. lon. 37. 45. W.

Demiſton Caſtle, Berks, NW. of Newbury.

DEMMIN, a town of Swediſh Pomerania, ſituated on the Pene, 26 miles S. of Stralſund.

DENAIN, a town in the dept. of the North, 5 miles SW. of Valenciennes.

Denberry, Devonſh. SW. of Newton Buſhel. Denbighs, Surry, one mile from Dorking.

*DENBIGH, the county-town of Denbighſhire, well built and populous, ſituated on the ſummit of a rock, ſloping on every ſide but one, on a branch of the river Clwyd. It has a conſiderable manufacture of gloves and ſhoes, which are ſent to London for exportation. It is 27 miles W. of Cheſter, and 208 NW. of London. Market on Wedneſday.

DENBIGHSHIRE, a county of N. Wales, bounded on the W. by Carnarvenſhire from which it is for the moſt part ſeparated by the river Conway; on the N. and NE. by the Iriſh Sea and Flintſhire; on the E. by Flintſhire, Cheſhire, and Shropſhire and on the S. by Merionethſhire and Montgomeryſhire. It extends from NW. to SE. 39 miles, and from N. to S. in it's broadeſt part, it is 17 miles; but in general it is much leſs. It is divided into 7 hundreds, which contain 4 market towns and 57 pariſhes. The ſoil is various, the Vale of Clwyd being remarkably pleaſant and fertile, which is not the caſe with the E. part of the county, and the W. is, in general manner, barren. The principal rivers are the Clwyd, Elwy, Dee, and Conway. The products of this county are chiefly corn, cheeſe, cattle, lead, and coal. Among the hills are found ſmall-pillars, with inſcriptions which no one hitherto has been able to read; as alſo ſtones, called Druid ſtones.

Denby, Derbyſ. SW. of Codnor Caſtle. Denby, Yorkſ. SW. of Doncaſter. Denby Grange, Yorkſ. W. Riding, in Kirkheaton pariſh. Denchworth, N. and S. Berks between the Vale of White Horſe and Abingdon.

DENDERMOND, or TERMOND, a ſtrong town of the ci-devant Auſtrian Flanders ſurrounded by marſhes and fine meadows which the inhabitants can lay under water. It is ſeated at the confluence of the Dender and Scheldt, 14 miles E. of Ghent and 16 W. of Mechlin.

Denevey Caſtle, Carmarthenſhire, near Llandilovawr, Denford, Northamptonſh. near Thrapſton.

DENGY, the chief town of Dengy hundred, Eſſex, between Oſith Iſland and the ſea.

Dengy Marſh, Kent, between Lyd and Dengyneſs. Dengyneſs, or Dungyneſs, Kent, a promontory between the harbour of Romney and Rye. Denham, Buck. near Uxbridge, Denham, Suff. between Newmarket and Bury. Denham Hill, Suff. near Eye. Denhill, Kent, between Barham Downs and Wingham. Denholm, Lanc. SW. of Manchester. Denholm Park, Yorkſ. N. of Halifax. Denington, Suffolk 3 miles and a half from Framlingham.

DENIA, a maritime town of Valencia trading in raiſins and almonds. The entrance into the harbour is difficult and dangerous. Lat. 38. 50. N.

DENMARK, a kingdom of Europe bounded on the W. by the Ocean, on the N. and E. by the Baltic Sea, and on the S. by Germany and the Baltic. The country is generally flat, and the air is rende ed foggy by the ſeas and lakes; but, the weather being changeable, it is purified by frequent breezes. Denmark, properly ſo called, conſiſts of Jutland and the Iſlands of Zealand and Funen, with the little iſles about them; but the king of Denmark's dominions contain the kingdom of Norway, and the duchies of Holſtein, Oldenburg, and Delmenhorſt, in Germany, beſides Iceland, and the other Daniſh ſettlements abroad. The revenues are computed at 1,400,000l. a year, which ariſe from the crown lands and duties, and the tolls paid by veſſels paſſing between the Baltic and German Ocean. There is no large river in Denmark, but numerous lakes and channels of the ſea, by which it is interſected. In the ſummer the heat is great, and the days are long; but the winter continues 7 or 8 months. The commodities are corn, pulſe, horſes, and large beeves, together with the produce of their manufactures. The exports exceed the imports to the amount of 55,000 crowns a year. Copenhagen is the capital.

Denmead, Hants, SE. of Buſh Waltham. Denmer Bridge, Cornw. NW. of Bodmin. Dennis, St. Cornwall, 5 miles NW. of Leſtwithiel.

DENNY, a town and pariſh of Stirlingſhire.

Denny Abbey, Camb. NE. of Cottenham. Denny Lodge, Hants, in the New Foreſt. Denny Iſland, Monm. in the Severn, oppoſite to Gold Cliff. Denſhanger, Northamp. near Paſſenham. Denſton, Staff. near Crockſdon. Denſton, Suffolk, between Barnardiſton and Debden. Dent, a river of Weſtmorland, which runs into the Lune. Dent, Yorkſ. N. Riding, in Craven. In 1664, two inhabitants of this place, father and ſon, were witneſſes on a trial at York aſſizes, the ſon being 100 years of age, and the father nearly 140. Dentdelion, Kent, in the Iſle of Thanet. Dent Hill, Cumb. W. of Copeland Foreſt. Denton, Cumb. NE. of Brampton. Denton, Durham, NW. of Darlington. Denton, Huntingdonſ. S. of Seilton. Denton, Kent, NE. of Elham. Denton, Kent, SE. of Graveſend. Denton, Lanc. 3 miles from Stockport. Denton, Linc. S. of Grantham. Denton, Norf. between Harleſton and Bungay. Denton, Northamp. between Oulney and Northampton. Denton, Northumb. near Newcaſtle. Denton, Oxf. in Cuddeſdon pariſh. Denton, Suſſ. near Newhaven, Denton Hall, Yorkſ. W. Riding, NW. of Otley. Denver, Norfolk, near Downham. Denwick, Northumb. near Alnwick.

DENY'S, ST, a town in the dept. of Paris, famous for it's ci-devant Benedictine abbey, and for it's magnificent church, built by King Dagobert, in which were the tombs of many of the French kings, of the Conſtable Gueſclin, and of Marſhal Turenne. It is ſeated on the river Crould, near the Seine, 5 miles N. of Paris. Alſo a town in the reſpective departments of the Aude, of Loiret, of the Channel, and two in the dept. of the Mayenne.

Depden, Suffolk, SW. of Bury. Depedale, Weſtmorland. Depedale, Yorkſ. in W. Riding, N. of the river Wharf. Depeham, Norfolk, SW. of Windham.

DEPTFORD, a town of Kent, anciently called WEST GREENWICH, divided into Upper and Lower Deptford. It is chiefly remarkable for it's noble dockyard, which includes a wet dock of two acres, and another of an acre and a half, with extenſive ſtorehouſes, and immenſe quantities of timber, &c. for the uſe of the navy. It is ſeated on the Thames, about 3¼ miles from London.

Deptford, Wilts, near Warminſter.

DERBENT, a city of Schirivan, in Perſia, with a harbour, ſituated on the W. coaſt of the Caſpian Sea, in lat. 42. 8. N. It is the reſidence of a khan.

Derberk, a river in Nottinghamſhire.

DERBY, the county-town of Derbyſhire, is large and well built, with a ſpacious market-place and handſome townhouſe. In 1734, a machine was erected here by Sir Thomas Lombe, for the manufacturing of ſilk, the model of which he brought from Italy. It was the firſt of it's kind erected in England; and it's operations are to wind, double, and twiſt the ſilk, ſo as to render it fit for weaving. Here are alſo manufactories of ſilk, cotton, and worſted ſtockings, and of elegant porcelain, which laſt is in high eſtimation. Derbyſhire and foreign marbles are wrought here in vaſes, urns, columns, and other ornamental articles, and the lapidary and jewellery branches are executed with great neatneſs. The malting buſineſs, and a pottery of queen's earthenware are alſo carried on here. The number of inhabitants in it's five pariſhes is eſtimated at 8593. It is ſeated on the river Derwent, which is navigable to the Trent, 36 miles N. of Coventry, and 120 NW. by N. of London. Markets on Wedneſday and Friday.

DERBYSHIRE, a county of England, bounded on the W. and NW. by Cheſhire and Staffordſhire; on the N. by Yorkſhire; on the E. by Nottinghamſhire; and on the S. and SE. by Leiceſterſhire and a point of Warwickſhire. It extends nearly 56 miles in length from N. to S. and 34 from

E. to W. where broadest; but in the S. part it is not above 6. It is divided into 6 hundreds, in which are 10 market-towns, and 106 parishes. The N. and W. parts are mountainous and stony, and subject to frequent rains; and the air is sharp and cold. The S. and E. parts are fertile, producing most kinds of grain, particularly barley. The bleak mountains in the Peak abound in the best lead, with marble, alabaster, millstones, iron, coal, and a coarse sort of crystal, and the intermediate valleys are fruitful in grass. The principal rivers are the Derwent, Dove, Erwash, and Trent.

Derford Forest, Heref. near Wigmore.

Deregreth, in Waterford, Munster.

*DEREHAM, EAST, or MARKET DEREHAM, a town in Norfolk, 11 miles NW. of Norwich, and 100 NNE. of London. It's market, which is noted for woollen yarn, is on Friday.

Dereham, West, Norfolk, E. of Downham. Dereham, Cumberl. on the river Elne, near it's mouth.

Derg, a river of Donegal, Ulster.

Derg Bridge. See Castle Derg.

Derham, Glouces. E. of Pucklechurch.

Derikelagh, a small lake in Down, Ulster. Derilin, in Fermanagh, Ulster.

Dermisden, Suffolk, SE. of Needham. Dernthorp, Nott. a hamlet of Collingham.

DEROTE, a town of Egypt, situated in an island formed by the canal between Cairo and Rosetta. Lat. 30. 40. N.

DERPT, DORPAT, or DORPT, a town of Livonia, 116 miles NNE. of Riga.

Derrilin, in Fermanagh, Ulster.

Derrington, W. of Stafford. Derrington, Norfolk, near Castle Acre.

DERRY, a county of Ulster, in Ireland, 32 miles in length and 30 in breadth, bounded on the W. by Donegal; on the N. by Lough Foyle and the Ocean; on the E. and SE. by Antrim and Lough Neagh; and on the S. and SW. by Tyrone. It contains 31 parishes, in which are about 25,000 houses and 125,000 inhabitants, and is a fruitful champaign country. The linen manufacture flourishes in every part of the country, it's yearly trade being averaged at 116,720l.

*DERRY, or LONDONDERRY, the capital of the county of Derry, is a modern city, built principally by a company of London adventurers, in the reign of James I. It consists chiefly of two streets, which cross one another; an exchange is built in the centre; here is a fine market-place, and the harbour is bordered with a quay. It is surrounded with a strong wall, and has four castles by the side of the river. It is seated on the river Mourn, near it's mouth, over which there is a wooden bridge, upwards of 1000 feet in length, 5 miles S. of the Lake or Bay of Lough Foyle, and 104 NW. of Dublin.

Derrybryan, in Galway, Connaught, nearly 89 miles from Dublin. Derrygonelly, in Waterford, Munster. Derwock, in Antrim, Ulster, 120 miles from Dublin.

DERWENT, a river of Derbyshire, which rises in the High Peak, and passing through the county, falls into the Trent 8 miles ESE. from Derby.

DERWENT, a river of Yorkshire, which rises in the N. Riding, and running S. falls into the Ouse 5 miles SE. of Selby.

DERWENT, a river of Durham, flowing through a romantic tract of country and falling into the Tyne, a little above Newcastle; near which, on it's banks, are some capital iron works.

DERWENT, a river of Cumberland which rises in Borrowdale, and flowing through Derwent Water and Bassing thwaite Water, passes by Cockermouth, and falls into the Irish Sea at Workington.

Dery, or Defry, a river in Merionethshire, which runs into the Avon near Kenmire Abbey.

Desart, in Kilkenny, Leinster. Desart Church, in Derry, Ulster, Desart Martin, in Derry, Ulster.

Desborough, Northamp. between Kettering and Harborough.

DESEADA, or CAPE DESIRE, on the SW. coast of Patagonia, at the entrance of the Straits of Magellan, from the Pacific Ocean. Lat. 52. 52. S. lon. 7[illegible] 45. W.

DESEADA, or DESIDERATA, one of the Caribbee Islands, about 10 miles long and 4 broad, 4 leagues E of Guadaloupe. It is subject to the French. Lat. 16. 3[illegible] N. lon. 61. 15. W.

Desert, in Waterford, Munster.

Desford, NW. of Leicester Forest.

DUSEAU, a town of Upper Saxony, capital of the principality of Anhalt Dessau. It is situated on the Muldau, near its union with the Elbe, 28 miles SE. of Magdeburg.

Desunny, a river in Merionethshire which runs into the Irish Channel near Sarraburgh Point. Detchin, Northum. SW. of Holy Island. Detchick, or Dedick Hall, Derbys. NE. of Wirksworth.

DETHMOLD, a town of Lippe, Westphalia.

Detling, Kent, near Maidstone.

DETROIT, a town of N. America, on the W. side of the strait or river, betwe[illegible]

Lal

Lake St. Clare and Lake Erie. Lat. 42. 22. N. lon. 83. 22. W.

DETTINGEN, a village of Hanau, on the E. ſide of the Maine, circle of Lower Rhine, where the Earl of Stair gained a victory over the French, in 1743. George II. who was preſent in the action, diſplayed great perſonal courage, expoſing himſelf to a ſevere fire of cannon as well as muſquetry, and encouraging the troops by his preſence and example. It is 9 miles S. of Hanau.

Deter, a river of Cardiganſhire, which runs into the Tivy at Llandiſſil.

DEVA, a ſea-port of Guipuſcoa, on the Bay of Biſcay, 15 miles W. of St. Sebaſtian.

DEVELTO. See ZAGORIA.

DEVENTER, a large and populous ſea-port, the capital of Overyſſel, ſituated in the diſtrict called Zallant, on the river Iſſel, 46 miles E. of Amſterdam.

Deverel Brixton, Deverel Hill, Deverel Kingſton, Deverel Longbridge, and Deverel Monkſton, Wilts, all S. and SE. of Longleat, on a rill called Dever, that runs under ground, like the Mole, in Surry.

Deverux, 7 miles S. of Hereford. Devington, Little, or Devington Court, Kent, near Feverſham.

DEVIZES, a large, ancient, and populous town of Wilts, with very conſiderable manufactures, particularly of ſerges, kerſeymeres, druggets, and broad cloth; the malting and brewing buſineſs is carried on pretty extenſively, and the market is abundantly ſupplied with corn, wool, oxen, and all ſorts of cattle. It is ſeated on a rivulet, which riſes near the caſtle, (once one of the ſtrongeſt in England) and runs into the Avon near Bromham, 24 miles NW. of Saliſbury, and 83 W. of London. Markets on Monday and Thurſday. Fairs on Feb. 13, Holy Thurſday, June 13, July 5, and Oct. 20, which laſt holds ſix days.

Devizes Wick, Wilts, near Devizes.

Devniſh Iſland, in Lough Erne, 3 miles from Enniſkillin, in Fermanagh, Ulſter.

Devon, a turbulent river in the counties of Perth and Clackmannan, which riſes in the Ochill Hills, paſſes through the Vale of Glendovan to the Rumbling Bridge, &c. where it forms a ſcenery, wild, tremendous, and romantic, beyond deſcription, and falls into the Forth, 4 miles W. of Clackmannan.

DEVONSHIRE, a county of England, bounded on the W. by Cornwall; on the N. by the Briſtol Channel; on the E. by Somerſetſhire and Dorſetſhire; and on the S. by the Engliſh Channel. In extent it is the ſecond county in England, being 69 miles long from N. to S. and 60 broad from E. to W. It is divided into 33 hundreds, containing 40 market towns, 394 pariſhes, and about 340,000 inhabitants. The air is mild and healthful, and the ſoil remarkably fertile, except on the mountains and moors. On the coaſt is found a peculiarly rich ſand, of ſingular ſervice to the huſbandman, as it renders the moſt barren parts fertile, and, as it were, impregnates the glebe. Fruit trees abound here, particularly apples, of which great quantities of cyder are made, and taken to ſea, being found very ſerviceable in hot climates. In the SW. parts are great quantities of marble, and in many places, marble rocks are found to be the baſis of the high roads. The ſea-coaſts abound in herrings, pilchards, and other ſalt-water fiſh. The principal rivers are the Tamar, Ex, Teigne, Touridge, and Dart.

DEUX PONTS, or ZWEYBRUCKEN, a diſtrict and it's capital, circle of Lower Rhine, ſurrounded by Alſace, Lorrain, Treves, and the Lower Palatinate. The town of Deux Ponts is ſituated on the Ealbach, 46 miles W. of Manheim.

Dewchurch, Great and Little, Heref. SW. of Aconbury. Dewes, Eſſex, near Chigwell. Dewlas, Heref. between Golden Vale and Monm. Dewliſh, or Deveſliſh, Dorſetſ. on a river of the ſame name, near Sturminſter. Dewloe, Cornw. near E. and W. Loe. Dewsbury, Yorkſ. at the foot of a hill, W. of Wakefield. Dewſton, Monm. between Llanvair and Caldicot. Dewſwell, S. of Hereford. Dexboro, Devonſ. N. of Houlſworthy.

DIARBECK, DIARBEKIR, or KARA AMID, part of the ancient Meſopotamia, a province of Turkey in Aſia, between the rivers Tigris and Euphrates. In its capital, Diarbekir, a large town on the W. bank of the Tigris, the Chriſtians are above 20,000 in number. Here is a conſiderable manufacture of red Turkey leather, and of linen and red cotton cloths. It is 150 miles NE. of Aleppo. Lat. 37. 18. N. lon. 39. 40. E.

Dibdin; ſee Deepden. Dichborn, Northumb. W. of the Carletons. Dichbridge Wilts, between Chippenham and Bath. Dich End, Northumb. in Woller lordſhip. Diche Marſh, Yorkſ. W. Riding, between the rivers Don and Aire. Dich Hampton, Wilts, between Wilton and Burcomb. Dichiat, Somerſ. W. of Bruton. Dichley, Oxf. 4 miles NW. of Woodſtock. Dichling, Suſſex, 6 miles NW. of Lewes.

DICK,

DICK, a town of S. Carolina.

Dickleborough, Norf. near Diſs. Dickleſton, Glouc. in Alderton pariſh.

DICKSON, a town of N. Carolina.

Didbrook, Glouc. 3 miles from Winchcombe. Diddeſbury, Lancaſ. near Manchester. Diddington, Hunt. near Bugden. Diddington, Warwickſ. a hamlet of Hampton in Arden. Didlethorp, Linc. N. of Butterwick. Didleſbury, Shropſ. S. of Munſlow. Diddleſton Chap, Shropſ. between Elleſmere and Denbighſhire. Didley, Herefordſ. near Dewchurch. Didling, Suſſex, S. of Midhurſt. Diddlington, Dorſetſ. a tything to Chalbury. Didlington, Norf. S. of Swaffham. Didlington, Norf. near Walcot. Didmerton, Glouc. 6 miles from Tetbury.

DIE, a town in the depart. of Drome, ſeated on the river Drome, 24 miles SE. of Valence.

DIEPHOLT, a town and county of Weſtphalia, bounded by the county of Hoya on the N. by Munſter on the W. and by Oſnaburg on the S, about 8 leagues in length and 4 in breadth. The country is full of briers, ſmall underwood, and moraſſes, and the inhabitants ſubſiſt chiefly by breeding cattle. The town of Diepholt is 30 miles SSW. of Bremen.

DIEPPE, a town in the dept. of Lower Seine, with a tolerable harbour, formed by the river Bethune, an old caſtle, and two piers. Packet boats paſs between this place and Brighthelmſtone, in time of peace. The principal trade conſiſts in fiſh, ivory, toys, and laces. In the year 1694, this town was bombarded by an Engliſh ſquadron, under Commodore Benbow, and the greater part of it burnt down. It is 30 miles N. of Rouen, and 132 NW. of Paris. Lat. 49. 55. N. lon. 1. 9. E.

DIESSENHOFFEN, a town of Zurich.

DIEST, a town in the late Auſtrian Brabant, with manufactures of cloth and ſtockings. It is ſituated on the river Demer, 12 miles NE. of Louvain.

DIETZ, NASSAU, a town and country in the circle of Upper Rhine, ſituated on the Lahn, 25 miles N. of Mentz.

DIEUSE, a town in the dept. of Meurthe, remarkable for it's ſalt-water-wells. It is ſeated on the river Seille, 20 miles NE. of Nanci.

DIEZ, ST. a town in the department of Voſges, ſeated on the Meurthe, 31 miles SE. of Luneville.

Digby, Lincolnſ. W. of Witham Ferry. Diggeſworth, Northumb. in Bothnal lordſhip. Dighton, Yorkſ. E. Riding, N. of Skipwith. Dighton, Yorkſ. N. of Northallerton. Dighton, N. and S. Yorkſ. of Wetherby.

DIGHTON, a town of Maſſachuſets.

DIGNANT, a town of Venetian Iſtria.

DIGNE, a town in the depart. of the Lower Alps, noted for it's hot baths. It is ſeated on the river Bleone, 30 miles by W. of Embrun.

Digſwell, Herts, near Welling. Digſwell, Herts, in Aſhwell pariſh.

DIJON, a large city in the dept. of C d'Or, capital of the ci devant Burgun containing 25,000 inhabitants. T ſtreets are broad, well paved, and ſtraig and the ſquares and public ſtructures gant. It was formerly the capital of Dijonois, and is ſeated in a delight plain, which produces excellent wine, miles SE. of Paris.

Dike, Linc. near Bourn. Dike, Glouceſ. NW. of Winchcombe. Dike Norfolk, near Wurſted. Dilborn, St W. of Cheadle.

DILLA, MOUNT, a promontory on coaſt of Malabar, 24 miles NNW. Tellichery.

DILLENBURG, NASSAU, a town country of Weſtphalia, ſituated on Dille.

DILLINGEN, a town of Augſbu Suabia, ſituated near the Danube, 24 m NE. of Ulm.

Dillington, Somerſ. near Ilminſter. lington, Norf. 1 mile from Market D ham. Dilſton, Northumb. 2 miles f Hexham. Dilſton, Cumb. the bottom the Croſs Fells. Dilton Marſh, Wilts miles N. of Warminſter. Dilwin, G and Little, Heref. near Penridge. worth, Lanc. in Rocheſter pariſh. milton, Yorkſ. in Holderneſs. Dimm Glouceſ. 11 miles from Mitchel Dean.

DEMOTUC, or DEMOTICA, a town Romania, ſituated near the Maritſch, miles S. of Adrianople.

Dimſdale, Staffordſ. near Newcaſtle.

DINANT, a town in the dept. of North Coaſt. The inhabitants are ab 4000, who have manufactures of linen thread. It is 17 miles SW. of St. Mal DINANT, a town of Liege, ſitua near the Maeſe, 12 miles S. of Namur.

DINASMOUTHY, a town of Merione ſhire, 18 miles S. of Bala, and 196 N of London. Market on Friday.

Dinchurch, Kent, in Romney Ma Dinder, 1 mile from Hereford. Din Somerſetſ. near Wells. Dingeſlow, S of Monmouth.

DINGELFINGEN, a town of Bava ſituated on the Iſſer, 40 miles W. of Paſ

DINGLE, a ſea-port of Kerry, in Munſter. Several of the houſes are built in the Spaniſh faſhion, with ranges of ſtone balcony windows, this place having been formerly frequented by merchants of that nation, who came to fiſh on the coaſt, and traded with the inhabitants. It is ſituated on a bay of the ſame name, 79 miles SW. of Limerick, and 166 of Dublin.

Dingley, Northamptonſh. 2 miles from Market Harborough.

DINGWALL, a town of Roſsſhire, much enlarged and improved of late years. It is ſeated on the Frith of Cromarty, 14 miles W. of the town of Cromarty. Some linen is manufactured here, and there is a lint-mill in the neighbourhood.

Dinham, Monm. SW. of Chepſtow.

Diniſh Iſland, in Kerry, Munſter, in the river Kenmare.

DINKELSBUHL, a free and imperial town of Suabia, ſituated near the river Wernitz, 37 miles SW of Nuremburg. Here is a manufactory of cloth and reaping hooks.

Dinſdale, Upper and Lower, SW. of Yarum, on each ſide of the Tees. Dinthill, Shropſ. SW. of Shrewſbury. Dinting, Derb. in the High Peak. Dinton, Wilts, W. of Wilton. Dionet, St. Hants, between Redbridge and Biſhop Waltham. Dipford, Devonſ. S. of Brent. Dipford, Devonſhire, NE. of Bampton. Dipnall, Hants, near Farnham. Dirtley, Yorkſ. near Whitby. Dirtpeth, Durham, at the bottom of Langden Foreſt.

Diſert, in Queen's County, Leinſter.

Diſforth, Yorkſ. NE. of Rippon. Diſhley Thorp, Leiceſ. near Loughborough. Diſy, Cheſ 5 miles from Stockport.

*DISS, a town of Norfolk, containing about 600 good houſes. It is a neat, flouriſhing town, the ſtreets are well paved, wide, and clean; and at the W. end of it is a large muddy mere, or lake, where eels are caught. Here are manufactories of yarn, ſail-cloth, ſtockings, ſtays, and linen cloth. It is ſeated on the river Waveney, 13 miles SSW. of Norwich, and 92 NNE. of London. Market on Friday.

Diſſington, Cumb. 4 miles E. of Whitehaven. Diſſington, N. and S. Northumb. near Pontelaud. Ditchford, Worceſ. near Campden. Ditteſham, Devonſhire, N. of Dartmouth. Ditton, Lanc. between Liverpool and Warrington. Ditton, Kent. E. of Malling. Ditton and it's Park, Bucks, 2 miles from Windſor. Ditton, Wilts, W. of Wilton. Ditton, Thames, Surry, nearly oppoſite to Hampton Court. Ditton, Long, Surry, SE. of Thames Ditton, 2 miles from Kingſton. Ditton, Fen, on the Cam, 3 miles N. of Cambridge. Ditton Wood, Camb. SE. of Newmarket Heath.

DIU, an iſland at the W. of the Gulf of Cambay, on the S. coaſt of Guzerat, ſubject to the Portugueſe. On it is a large town of the ſame name, built chiefly of freeſtone and marble. It's trade, once conſiderable, is now almoſt entirely removed to Surat. The iſland is 3 miles long and 1 broad, with a good harbour at Diu. It is 180 miles W. by S. of Surat, and 200 NW. by N. of Bombay. The moſt weſtern part of Diu, or Dius head, is in lat. 20. 43. N. lon. 69. 52. E.

Diver, a river in Wiltſhire, which runs into the Nadir at Biſhopſtraw.

DIXAN, a town of Abyſſinia, built on the top of a conical hill, round which the road winds ſpirally, till it ends among the houſes. The inhabitants are Moors and Chriſtians, whoſe chief trade is ſelling children for ſlaves. Lat. 14. 57. N. lon. 40. 7. E.

DIXMUDE, a town in the ci-devant Auſtrian Flanders, celebrated for its excellent butter. It is ſituated on the river Yperlee, 14 miles N. of Ypres.

Dixton, NE. of Monmouth, on the Wye. Dixton, Glouceſ. near Tewkeſbury.

DIZIER, ST. a town in the dept. of Upper Marne, 15 miles SE. of Vitri le François. The road between theſe two towns, levelled and planted with trees, forms one of the pleaſanteſt walks in France.

DNIEPER, anciently BORISTHENES, a large river of Europe, riſing in the government of Tyer, or Tweer, and falling into the Black Sea, about 10 miles below Ockzakow. It flows entirely through the Ruſſian dominions, through it's whole courſe of above 800 miles; during which it's navigation is only once interrupted by a ſeries of cataracts, which begin below the mouth of the Samara, and continue for 40 miles. They are paſſed however, in ſpring, without much hazard, even by loaded barks.

DNIESTER, a fine river of Europe, which riſes in Red Ruſſia, or Galicia, and paſſing by Choczim, Bender, &c. falls into the Black Sea at Akerman, between the mouths of the Danube and Dnieper.

Doagh, in Antrim, Ulſter.

Dobham, Yorkſh. N. Riding, at the mouth of the Tees.

DOBLEN, a town of Courland, 6 miles NE. of Mittau.

DOBRZIN, a town and diſtrict of Great Poland, ſituated on the Viſtula.

Docker, Lanc. in Loynſdale. Docking, Norf. NE. of Sharnburn. Docklow, Heref. between Bromyard and Leominſter.

DOCKUM,

DOCKUM, a town of W. Friesland, situated in the county of Oftergoo, on the river Ee, with a good harbour, 10 miles NE. of Leewarden.

DODBROOK, a town of Devonshire, 15 miles SW. of Dartmouth, and 219 WSW. of London. Market on Wednesday.

Dodcot, Chesh. near Namptwich. Doddershall, Bucks, in Quainton parish. Dodderscomb Leigh, Devonf. SW. of Exeter. Doddinghurst, Essex, between Burntwood and Billericay. Doddington, Cumb. in the Isle of Ely. Doddington, Chesh. 3 miles from Namptwich. Doddington, Glouces. near Pucklechurch. Doddington, Kent, between Lenham and Feversham. Doddington, SW. of Lincoln. Doddington, Shropf in N. Bradford hundred. Doddington, Shropshire, near Longnor, S. of Shrewsbury. Doddington, Somerf. between Bridgewater and Quantock. Dodenhale, Warw. near Polesworth. Doderhill, Worc. N. of Droitwich. Dodford, Northamp. SE. of Daventry. Dodford, Worc. 2 miles from Bromsgrove. Dodingham, Worc. near Knightwick. Dedington, Northamp. near Wellingborough. Dodington, Northumberl. in Glendale Ward. Dodleston, SW. of Chester. Dodsley, Staff. W. of Uttoxeter. Dodwel, Warw. in Drayton parish. Dodworth, Yorkf. SW. of Barnesley.

DOEL, a town of Dutch Flanders, situated on the Scheldt, opposite Fort Lillo.

DOESBURG, a rich, populous town, of Zutphen, situated between the river Yssel and a morass, 10 miles SSW. of Zutphen.

DOGADO, a territory of the ci-devant Venice, on the sea coast of Italy; including the lagunes, or islands, in which the city of Venice lies, with the canals of Venice and Marano.

Dogdyke Ferry, Linc. over the Witham. near Tattershall. Dogs, Isle of, Midd. opposite Greenwich. Dogsbead, Herts, W. of the Pelhams. Dogmeals, St. Pembrokef. 6 miles NE. of Newport. Dogmersfield, Hants, near Odiham.

Dog's Nose Point, in Cork Harbour.

Doier, a river in Herefordshire, which runs into the Munnow below Elston bridge. Dointon; see Deinton. Dokynton, Chesh. NW. of Malpas.

DOL, a town in the dept. of Ille and Vilaine, containing about 1200 houses, 18 miles SE. of St. Maloes.

Dolbarden, Carnarv. near Snowden.

DOLCE AQUA, a town of Nice.

DOLCIGNO, a sea-port of Albania, situated at the mouth of the Drin.

DOLE, a large and populous town in the depart. of Jura, seated on the river Doubs, 25 miles WSW. of Besançon.

DOLEGELLY, a town of Merionethshire, seated in a vale, on the river Avon at the foot of the great mountain Cadir Idris. It has a manufacture of cotton and coarse, undyed woollen cloths, for exportation. It is 31 miles NW. of Montgomery, and 205 NW. of London. Markets on Tuesday and Saturday.

DOLLART BAY, a gulf or bay in the German Ocean, which separates E. Friesland from Groningen.

Dolton, Devonf. 6 miles SE. of Torrington. Dolwyddelen, Carnarvonf. near Bangor.

DOMALIZE, a town of Pilsen, Bohemia, seated on the rivulet Cadburz.

Dome, Mos, Isle of Wight.

DOMFRONT, a town in the dept. of Orne, seated on a craggy rock, divided by a large cleft from the summit to the base, through which flows the little river Varenne, 31 miles WNW. of Alençon.

DOMINGO, ST. or HISPANIOLA, the richest of the Caribbee Islands in the West Indies. It is 350 miles in length and 150 in breadth; and the climate, though hot, is healthy, except to new comers. The country is uncommonly fruitful, and beautifully diversified with hills and valleys, woods, and rivers; it is also well stocked with fruit trees, and produces coffee, sugar, indigo, tobacco, salt, cotton, ginger, gums, wax, honey, and drugs. It's coasts and rivers are well supplied with fish and turtles; and the animals brought here from Europe have multiplied prodigiously, supplying provisions, hides, and tallow. There are also mines of gold, talc, and crystal. The Spaniards have held the eastern part of this island, including about two thirds of the cultivable soil, upwards of three centuries; yet, from the indolence of the people, they had only 14,000 blacks, or mulattoes, of which 7 or 800 are slaves, and no plantation of consequence, the colony even costing their government 250,000 dollars annually, while the exports from the French or western part, prior to the present war, exceeded in value those of all the British Islands in the West Indies, taken together. In 1788 the population, &c. of the French part of this invaluable island stood thus: 30,831 white inhabitants, besides troops, 24,848 mulattoes and free negroes, 434,429 slaves, 793 sugar estates, 3150 indigo ditto, 789 cotton plantations, 3117 coffee estates, 54 cocoa ditto, 520 water-mills, 1639 cattle mills, 46,823 mules, 36,782 horses, 243,682 head of cattle, &c. and all this within the space of 70 years, as it could only be said to be a colony since 1718 when when the throne of Spain was ſecured to the Duke of Anjou. The whole of the iſland, by the treaty of 1795, has been ceded to the French. It lies between Jamaica and Porto Rico.

DOMINGO, ST. a large city, capital of the late Spaniſh part of the Iſland of St. Domingo. The ſtreets are ſpacious, and ſtraight as a line. Ten of theſe run from N. to S. and ten others from E. to W. The greateſt part of the houſes firſt built, are of a ſort of marble found in the neighbourhood, and in the ſtyle of the ancient towns of Spain and Italy. It is ſeated on a navigable river, and has an excellent port, or harbour, magnificent in every reſpect, being a real, natural baſon, with a great number of careenings for the veſſels that can get at them. There is a rock, however, at the entrance, which will only admit veſſels drawing 18 or 20 feet water. This rock, it is ſaid, might be eaſily removed. Lat. 18. 20. N. lon. 70. 10. W.

Dominic, St. Cornw. N. of Saltaſh.

DOMINICA, an Engliſh Weſt-India iſland, about 29 miles in length and 16 in breadth. It yields coffee, indigo, ginger, and other articles of Weſt-Indian produce, but the ſoil, being thin, is more adapted to the rearing of cotton than ſugar. In the woods are innumerable ſwarms of bees, which produce great quantities of wax and honey, and the iſland is well ſupplied with rivulets of water. It is divided into ten pariſhes. The only towns of note are Charlotte Town, or Rouſſeau, on the SW. ſide of the iſland, and Portſmouth, at the head of Prince Rupert's Bay. From January 5, 1787, to January 5, 1788, the exports amounted to the value of 302,987l. 15s. There is no conſiderable bay or harbour, but the anchorage round the coaſt is commodious and ſafe, and ſhips find ſhelter under it's capes. It lies about half way between Guadaloupe and Martinico. Lat. 15. 32. N. lon. 61. 23. W.

DOMINICA, one of the Mendoza, or Marqueſas Iſlands.

DOMITZ a town and fortreſs of Mecklenburg Schwerin, Lower Saxony.

DOMMEL, a river of Brabant, which receives the Aa at Bois le Duc, and afterwards forms, with the rivers Meuſe and Wahal, the iſland of Bommel.

DOMO D'OSCELLO, or DOSSOLA, a town of Piedmont, in the Valley of Oſſola.

DOMREMY LA PUCELLE, a village in the dept. of Meuſe, 9 miles E. of Bar le Duc. It was the birth-place of Joan d'Arc, the celebrated Maid of Orleans.

Don, a river of Yorkſhire, which riſes near Barneſley, and paſſing by Sheffield, Rotheram, Doncaſter, and Thorne, falls into the Aire near Snaith.

Don, a river of Aberdeenſhire, which riſes about 4 miles N. of Caſtle Braemar, and falls into the German Ocean at New Aberdeen.

DON, one of the principal rivers in Europe, which ſeparates it partially from Aſia. It riſes near Epiphan, in the government of Tula, and falls by 3 ſtreams into the Sea of Aſoph. It has ſo many windings and ſhoals, that it is ſcarcely navigable.

*DONAGHADEE, a ſea-port of Down, in Ulſter, about 7 leagues W. of Port Patrick, in Scotland, between which two places four elegant packet-boats now regularly carry the mails and paſſengers. It is 15 miles E. of Belfaſt, and 94 NE. of Dublin.

Donaghcloney, in Down, Ulſter. Donaghcloney, in Armagh, Ulſter. Donaghady Church, in Tyrone, Ulſter. Donaghmore, in Cork, Munſter. Donaghmore, in Queen's County, Leinſter. Donaghmore, in Down, Ulſter. Donaghmore, in Waterford, Munſter. Donaghmore, in Tyrone, Ulſter, near Dungannon. Donaghmore, in Armagh, Ulſter. Donaghmore, in Meath, Leinſter, with a river of the ſame name. Donaghy, in Fermanagh, Ulſter. Donaſſe, in Clare, Munſter. Donara, in Wicklow, Leinſter.

DONAT, ST. a fort in Dutch Flanders, near Sluys.

DONAWERT, a town of Upper Bavaria, ſituated on the Wernitz, near it's junction with the Danube, 18 miles N. of Augſburg.

*DONCASTER, a ſpacious, populous town, in the W. Riding of Yorkſhire, ſeated on the river Don, in the great road between London and York. It is a conſiderable wool-market, and here are manufactures of ſtockings, petticoats, knit waiſtcoats, gloves, and leather caps. It is 37 miles S. of York, and 160 N. by W. of London. Market on Saturday.

DONCHERY, a town in the dept. of Ardennes, ſeated on the river Meuſe, 3 miles W. of Sedan.

DONEGAL, a county of Ulſter, in Ireland, 68 miles in length, and about 36 in breadth, bounded on the W. and N. by the ocean; on the E. by the counties of Londonderry and Tyrone; and on the S. by Fermanagh and the Bay of Donegal. It contains 42 pariſhes, 23,531 houſes, and 140,000 inhabitants. The country is hilly and boggy, with rich valleys between the mountains, and has ſeveral excellent harbours, harbours. The linen trade carried on here is pretty extenſive. It's capital, DONEGAL, is ſituated on a bay of the ſame name, at the mouth of the river Eſk, 9 miles NNE. of Ballyſhannon, and 111 NW. of Dublin.

DONEGAL, 3 towns of Pennſylvania.

*DONERAILE, a town of Cork, ſeated on the river Awbeg. Near it are quarries of beautiful, variegated marble. It is 19 miles NW. of Cork, and 113 SW. of Dublin.

DONESCHINGEN, a town of Suabia, where the Prince of Furſtenburg has a palace, in the court-yard of which is a ſpring, ſaid to be the ſource of the river Danube. It is 13 miles NNW. of Schaffhauſen.

Donet, Upper and Lower, Wilts, S. of Wardour Caſtle.

DONGALI, a country of Abyſſinia, on the coaſt of the Red Sea. It's chief productions are ſalt and honey. It is governed by a prince, nominally tributary to the Negus, or Emperor of Abyſſinia. Baglar is the principal town.

Don Hill, in Waterford, Munſter.

Doniert of Abdick, Somerſetſ. W. of Ilminſter.

DONKALI. See DONGALI.

Donkeſwick, Yorkſ. near Doncaſter,

Donmore, in Galway, Connaught.

Donnington, Somerſetſ. near Crewkern. Donnington, Glouceſ. in Stow pariſh, Donnington, Northumb. in Eland manor.

Donnybrook, SE. and Donnycarney, NE. both within 2 miles of Dublin. Donore, in Weſt Meath, Leinſter. Donough, in Fermanagh, Ulſter.

Donyford, Somerſ. near Quantock. Donyland, Eſſex, near Colcheſter. Donzate, or Donyat, Somerſetſ. near S. Petherton.

DONZY, a town in the dept. of Nievre, 22 miles N. of Nevers; and a town in the dept. of Rhone and Loire.

DOOAB, or DOABAH, a fertile tract of land, in Hindooſtan, between the rivers Ganges and Jumna, moſtly ſubject to the Nabob of Oude.

Doobally, in Cavan, Ulſter.

Doon, a river which iſſues from Loch Doon, a lake in Ayrſhire, and falls into the Frith of Clyde, near the town of Ayr.

DORAT, a town in the dept. of Upper Vienne, 25 miles N. of Limoges.

*DORCHESTER, the county-town of Dorſetſhire, is an ancient, neat, and remarkably well-built, well-paved town, with ſome manufactures of broad cloth and ſerges; but chiefly noted for it's excellent ſtrong beer, which forms a very conſiderable branch of trade, both here and at Cerne; as alſo for the numerous ſheep in it's vicinity. It is nearly ſurrounded by fine terrace-walks, planted with rows of limes and ſycamores, and is pleaſantly ſeated on the river Frome, 8 miles N. of Weymouth, and 120 W. by S. of London. Market on Wedneſday, Friday, and Saturday.

Dorcheſter, Oxf. 10 miles SE. of Oxford, and 49 WNW. of London.

DORDOGNE, a department in France, part of the province of Perigord, bounded on the NE. by the dept. of Upper Vienne, and on the S. by the dept. of Lot and Garonne. It receives it's name from a river which riſes in the dept. of Puy de Dome, and falls into the Garonne between Blaye and Bourdeaux.

Dordon, Warw. near Poleſworth. Dore Derbyſ. in Dronsfield pariſh. Dorman's Well, Middl. W. of Hanwell. Dormeſton, Worceſ. SW. of Inkbarrow. Dormington, Herefordſ. near Lugwardine. Dorne Worceſterſ. in Blockley pariſh. Dorney Bucks, on the Thames, W. of Eaton Dornford, Huntingdonſ. near Cheſterton, was once a city.

DORNOCK, the county-town of Sutherland, ſituated at the entrance of a fine frith, of the ſame name. It is a ſmall place, moſtly in ruins. About 9 miles above Dornock Ferry, at Inverſhin, is a waterfall and ſalmon-leap, where the fiſh that fail in the leap are caught in baſkets on their fall. Dornock is about 24 miles nearly N. of Inverneſs.

DORPT. See DERPT.

DORSETSHIRE, a county of England bounded on the W. by Devonſhire and Somerſetſ.; on the N. and NW. by Wilts and Somerſetſ.; on the E. by Hants and part of the Engliſh Channel; and on the S. by the Engliſh Channel. It extends 54 miles in length from E. to W. and 36 in breadth from N. to S. where broadeſt. It is divided into 34 hundreds, which contain 22 towns and 248 pariſhes, and the inhabitants are eſtimated at 89,000. The air is ſharp on the hills, but mild and pleaſant in the valleys and near the coaſt. The ſoil is rich and fertile, but from the Hampſhire border to Blandford, there is an extenſive, heathy common. The northern part of the county, anciently overſpread with foreſts, affords excellent paſture for black cattle; while the ſouthern downs, divided from it by a ridge of chalk hills, feed vaſt numbers of ſheep, highly eſteemed for their wool and fleſh; and game alſo abound here. It it's noted for its woollen, thread, and netting manufactures, and its fine ale and beer. It's other commodities, beſides corn, cattle, wool, wool, fish, and the beſt hemp in the Britiſh dominions, are Portland ſtone, pipe clay, and a ſort of marble, or Purbeck ſtone. It's principal rivers are the Stour, Frome, and Piddle.

Dorſington, Glouc. 4 miles from Stratford. Dorſington, Little, Glouc. in Welford pariſh; and Dorſington, in Warw. though belonging to the ſame pariſh. Dorſton Caſtle, Heref.

DORT, or DORDRECHT, a town of Holland, ſituated on an iſland formed by the rivers Meuſe, Merwe, Rhine, and Linge. In 1421, an inundation of the ſea ſwallowed up 70 villages and 100,000 people. They ſpin fine linen thread here; it is noted for it's ſalmon fiſhery, and for Rhenish wine, and the floats of timber brought here from Germany down the Rhine. It is 10 miles SE. of Rotterdam, and 37 SW. of Amſterdam.

DORTMUND, a ſmall imperial town of Mark, in Weſtphalia, ſituated on the river Embs, 25 miles SSW. of Munſter.

Doſmerry Pool, Cornwall, 5 miles N. of Leſkard. It is on the top of a hill, about a mile in circuit, is fed by no viſible means, is no where above a fathom and a half deep, and breeds no fiſh but eels. Dotbill, Shropſ. in S. Bradford hundred. Dotton, Bucks, near Aſhenden.

DOUAY, a conſiderable city in the dept. of the North, long celebrated for it's Engliſh college, to which the Roman Catholics of that nation were generally ſent for education. It's principal trade conſiſts in making and vending of worſted camlets. In the centre of the city is a ſpacious ſquare. It was taken by the allies, under the Duke of Marlborough and Prince Eugene, in 1710, after a ſiege which laſted from the 5th of May to the 26th of June. It is ſeated on the river Scarpe, whence there is a canal to the Deule, 15 miles NW. of Cambray.

DOUBS, a department of France, bounded on the E. by Switzerland, and on the SW. by the dept. of the Jura; it is ſo named from a river which paſſes through it, riſing at the foot of Mount Jura, and waſhing St. Hypolite, Beſançon, Dole, &c. loſes itſelf in the Saone, near Verdun.

Dove Dale, a romantic ſpot, in Derbyſ. in the neighbourhood of Aſhborn. Here the river Dove, which riſes in the Peak, and falls into the Trent near Burton, runs into a chaſm between precipitous rocks.

DOUE', a ſmall town in the dept. of Maine and Loire, with a manufacture of druggets and tammies. Near it are the remains of an amphitheatre, cut out of the ſolid rock; by ſome ſuppoſed to be Roman, and by others, the remains of a palace of the ancient kings of Aquitaine.

Doveburn, Linc. W. of Spalding.

*DOVER, a ſea-port of Kent, ſituated in a valley, between high cliffs, near the Straits of Dover, which is 20 miles acroſs. It is the ſtation of the packet boats that, in time of peace, paſs to and from Calais. Hence, in clear weather, is a proſpect of Calais and the coaſt of France. The harbour is apt to be choked up with ſands, but it is cleared by letting off the river upon it, through ſluices, at low water. Dover is 15 miles SE. of Canterbury, and 72 of London. Lat. 51. 8. N. lon. 1. 23. E. Markets on Wedneſday and Saturday.

DOVER, a town of the county of Kent, and ſtate of Delaware, in N. America, the ſeat of government, trading chiefly in corn, with Philadelphia. It is ſituated on John's Creek, a few miles from the Delaware, 56 miles S. of Philadelphia. Alſo a town of Stafford county, New Hampſhire; and a town in York county, Pennſylvania.

Dovercourt, Eſſex, the mother church of Harwich. Doverdale, Worceſ. NW. of Droitwich. Doveridge, Derbyſ. on the Dove, 2 miles from Uttoxeter. Dovers, Surry, SE. of Ryegate.

*DOUGLAS, a town and pariſh of Lanerkſhire, ſeated on a river of the ſame name, that falls into the Clyde. Near it is Douglas Caſtle, for many ages the reſidence of the dukes of Hamilton. The ancient caſtle was burnt about 40 years ago, but an elegant, new ſeat is built on it's ſite. It is 8 miles S of Lanerk.

DOUGLAS, a ſea-port of the Iſle of Man, nearly at the ſame diſtance from the Engliſh, Scotch, and Iriſh ſhores. It is the beſt harbour in the iſland; and there is a large export of herrings. It's trade and number of inhabitants have greatly increaſed within the laſt 50 years. Lat. 54. 12. N. lon. 4. 20. W.

DOUGLAS, a town of Connecticut.

Douglas, in Cork, Munſter. Here is a manufacture of ſail-cloth; it is 126 miles from Dublin. Douglas Bridge, in Tyrone, Ulſter. Doulough's, St. 4 miles from Dublin.

Doulton, Devonſ. between the Towridge and King's Aſhe. Dounley, Suſſex, N. of Chicheſter. Dovole, a river in Northumb. running into the Tyne by Dilſton.

DOURAK, a town of Chuſiſtan, Perſia, ſeated near the confluence of the Euphrates and Tigris, and remarkable for growing reeds, of which pens are made.

DOURDAN, a town in the dept. of Seine and Oiſe, with a manufactory of ſilk and worſted ſtockings. It is ſeated on the river Orge, 25 miles SW. of Paris.

DOURLACH,

DOURLACH, a town of Suabia, capital of the margraviate of Baden Dourlach. It is ſeated on the Greſſen, 12 miles S. of Philipſburg.

DOURLENS, or DOULENS, a town in the dept. of Somme, ſeated on the river Authie, 15 miles N. of Amiens.

DOURO, or DUERO, a river which riſes near Agreda, in Old Caſtile, and paſſing through Leon and Portugal, falls into the ocean at Oporto.

Douthwaite, Cumb. between Keſwick and the Ulleſwater. Dovy, or Tavy, a river in Merionethſ. Montgomeryſ. and Cardiganſ. dividing N. from S. Wales, and running into the Iriſh Channel at Aberdawy. Dow, a river in Yorkſ. which runs into the Hodgebrook, near Edſton. Doward Hill, Hereſ. in Whitchurch pariſh. Dowbridge, Northamp. where the Avon enters Warwickſhire. Dowdſwell, Glouc. at the ſource of the Chilt, 9 miles NE. of Glouceſter. Dowdſwell, Upper, Glouc. on the edge of the Cotteſwold Hills, 12 miles from Glouceſter. Dowerfield, Dorſetſ. between E. Baglake and Longbridge. Dowes Anney, Glouc. 2 miles from Cricklade. Dowſby, Linc. NE. of Fokingham. Doweſdale, Linc. between Croyland and Wiſbeach. Douglas, Lanc. NW. of Wigan, on a river of the ſame name, which runs into the Ribble.

Dowlas Head, a promontory on the coaſt of Kerry, Munſter. Near it are ſeveral large caves, one of which has it's entrance ſo low as hardly to admit of a boat with a man ſtanding up in it; but, further in, the roof is as high as that of a Gothic cathedral; and, when a perſon ſpeaks in it, the voice is ſo reverberated from the ſides and top as to make a very loud noiſe.

DOWLATABAD, a town and fortreſs in the Deccan of Hindooſtan, 15 miles from Aurungabad, which is the capital of the province of Dowlatabad, or Amednagur. Near it are the pagodas of Ellora, moſt of which are cut out of the natural rock. For 2 leagues together little is to be ſeen but pagodas; in which are thouſand of figures, which appear, from their ſculpture, to be of early Hindoo origin. Lat. 19. 55. N. lon. 76. 0. E.

Dowles, Shropſ. NW. of Bewdley.

DOWN, a large, rich, and populous county of Ulſter, in Ireland, about 40 miles in length, and 27 in breadth, containing 72 pariſhes. It is bounded on the W. by Armagh; on the NW. by Antrim; on the S. by Carlingford Bay and Louth; it's other borders are bounded by the Bay of Carrickfergus and the Iriſh Channel. The number of houſes computed at 36,636, and of inhabitants at 204,5c It is a fertile country, though partly cumbered by bogs. It abounds in blea greens, and is full of neat habitatio with an orchard to almoſt every cottag In the rougher parts of the country, th breed a great number of horſes. Th is a canal from Newry to the South Ban and ſo into Lough Neagh. From this l to Belfaſt, another canal has been lat cut, at the expence of the marquis of B faſt; and the river Lagan, which ſepara Down from Antrim, is alſo made navig ble. It's trade, in the linen manufactu is averaged at 151,960l. annually. I chief town is Downpatrick; a ſmall tow with a linen manufacture, near which a the remains of an old cathedral, remar able for the tomb of St. Patrick, t founder. It is ſeated at the SE. corn of Lough Coin, on the river Newry, miles W. of Strangford Bay, and 74 N of Dublin.

Down, a village in Perthſhire.

Downderry, in Cork, Munſter. Dow neen, in Cork, Munſter; here and at Tr long, about a mile W. of Roſſcarberr are two remarkable apertures in t ground, 80 yards deep, and each abo 300 yards from the cliffs, in both whi the ſea flows by ſubterraneous paſſage Theſe cavities are called E. and W. Po laduff.

Downe, Kent, between Weſterham a Bromley. Downe, Eſſex, between Ha low and Hatfield Broad Oak. Dow End, Somerſetſhire, NE. of Bridgewate Down End, Glouceſ. in Forthampton p riſh. Down End, Glouceſ. in Mangot field pariſh. Down, Small, Kent, N. Sandown Caſtle. Downe, St. Mary, D vonſ. near Exeter.

Downgate Rock, in Tyrone, Ulſter, 1 miles from Dublin. Downhills, in A magh, Ulſter, 117 miles from Dublin.

*DOWNHAM MARKET, a town Norfolk, noted for the great quantities butter that are brought hither, and ſent Cambridge up the Ouſe, whence it is co veyed in the Cambridge waggons to Lo don, and generally known there by t name of Cambridge butter. It is ſeate on the river Ouſe, 11 miles nearly S. Lynn, and 86 N. by E. of London. Ma ket on Saturday.

Downham, Camb. near Ely. Down ham, Eſſex, NE. of Billericay, Down ham, Lancaſ. S. of Giſborn. Downha Suff. NE. of Brandon. Downham, York N. Riding, SE. of Richmond. Down ham, Northumb. S. of Warkcaſtle. Down ſey

ſa, Shropſ. between Purſlow and Biſhop's Caſtle. Down Hatherley, 4 miles from Gloucester. Down Huſband, Hants, 2 miles from Andover. Downland, Devonſ. between Hatherly and King's Aſhe.

DOWNPATRICK. See DOWN.

Downs, in Wicklow, Leinſter.

DOWNS, THE, a road on the coaſt of Kent, about 6 miles long, between the N. and S. Foreland, where fleets frequently rendezvous. See GOODWIN SANDS.

Downs Hay, Dorſetſh. in Purbeck Iſle, near Worth and Affington.

DOWNTON, a town of Wilts, with a trade in malting, paper-making, tanning, and lace-making. It is ſeated on the river Avon, 6 miles SE. of Saliſbury, and 84 WSW. of London. Market on Friday.

Downton, Herefordſh. W. of Ringwood Chace. Downton, Shropſ. E. of Shrewſbury. Downton, Suſſ. between Wollavington and Barlavington. Downe, Heref. on the river Droyer. Downeriſh, Devonſh. N. of Crediton. Doxford, Northumb. near Dunſtaburgh Caſtle. Doynton, Glouc. W. of Marſhfield. Dracot, Staff. between Cheadle and Uttoxeter. Dracot, Oxfordſ. between Tame and Oxford. Dragon Hill, Berks, near Aſhbury Park.

DRAGONERA, a town of Capitanata, Naples: and a ſmall, uncultivated iſland, near the W. coaſt of Majorca.

DRAGUIGNAN, a town in the dept. of Var, containing about 9000 inhabitants. It is 12 miles nearly N. of Frejus.

Drakelow, Derb. on the Trent, near Repton. Drakenedge, Warw. in Nether Whitacre.

DRAS. See DARAH.

Draton, Shropſ. E. of Priors Leigh. Dratton, Shropſ. N. of Acton Burnel.

DRAVE, a conſiderable river which riſes in the Tyrol, on the confines of Saltzburg, and croſſing Carinthia, and ſeparating Hungary from Croatia, and the NW. part of Sclavonia, falls into the Danube, about 15 miles below Eſſeck.

Draughton, Northamp. W. of Ketteringe. Draughton, Yorkſ. W. Riding, near Skipton upon Craven. Drawdykes, Cumb. between Stanwyke and Rawcliff. Drax, Yorkſ. W. Riding, SE. of Barnſley. Drax, Yorkſ. W. Riding, near Snaith. Draycot, Wilts, between Pewſey and Martenſall Hill. Draycot, Wilts, N. of Chippenham. Draycot, Worceſ. near Campden.

DRAYTON, a town of Shropſhire, ſeated on the river Tern, a part of which ſerves as a boundary between this county and Staffordſhire, 17 miles NE. of Shrewſbury, and 154 NW. of London. Market on Wedneſday.

Drayton, Leic. SE. of Hallaton. Drayton, Berks, near Abingdon. Drayton, Warwickſ. W. of Stratford upon Avon. Drayton, Norf. NW. of Norwich. Drayton, Northamptonſ. NW. of Thrapſton. Drayton, Oxf. NW. of Banbury. Drayton, Oxf. N. of Dorcheſter. Drayton, Midd. between Caſtlebear and Hanwell. Drayton, Hants, near Portſmouth. Drayton, Staff. near Penkridge. Drayton Baſſet, Staffordſ. near Tamworth. Drayton Beauchamp, Bucks, near Tring. Drayton, Dry, 5 miles from Cambridge. Drayton, Eaſt, Midd. near Hanwell. Drayton, Eaſt, Nott. between Tuxford and Riſwell. Drayton Fenny, Camb. SE. of St. Ives. Drayton Parſlow, Bucks, between Winſlow and Woburn. Drayton, Weſt, Midd. near Cowley. Drayton, Weſt, Nott. NW. of Tuxford. Drenford, Hants, near Biſhop's Waltham.

DRESDEN, capital of the electorate of Saxony, and one of the handſomeſt cities in Germany. It is ſituated at the conflux of the rivers Elbe and Weſeritz, and divided into the Old and New Town, which are joined together by a bridge, 685 paces long, and Frederickſtadt. Old Dreſden, or Neuſtadt, owes it's origin to a chateau built by Charlemagne, in 808. The houſes are built of freeſtone, and generally of the ſame height; the ſtreets are broad and well paved, the ſquares ſpacious, and the palaces and public buildings elegant and numerous. Here are extenſive barracks, the menagerie, china manufacture, &c. The library, cabinets, gardens, &c. of the elector are extenſive and curious. Here is alſo a college, or univerſity. Lat. 51. 10. N lon. 13. 50. E.

DREUX, a town in the depart. of Eure and Loir, which has a conſiderable manufacture in cloth for the army. It is ſeated on the river Blaiſe, 48 miles WSW. of Paris.

Dribeck, Weſtmorland, S. of Appleby, Driby, Linc. near Wainfleet. Driffew, Cornw. SW. of Penzance.

DRIESSEN, or DRESNO, a town of Brandenburg, in the New Marche, ſeated on the Warta, 20 miles NNE. of Schwerin.

Driffield, Great and Little, Yorkſ. E. Riding, 6 miles from Kilham, in the road from Beverley. Driffields, Glouc. 4 miles SE. of Cirenceſter. Drigg, Cumb. NW. of Ravenglaſs. Drighlington, Yorkſ. 4 miles from Leeds.

Drimber, in Antrim, Ulſter. Drimaleague, in Cork, Munſter.

DRIN, a river which riſes in the SW. part of Servia, and running from S. to N. diſcharges itſelf into the Save, 32 miles W. of Sabatz.

Dringhouſe, in the ſuburbs of York. Dringo, Yorkſ. near Ouram, in Holdernels. Dringſton, Suffolk, near Wulpet. Drington, Dorſetſ. in Broad Windſor.

DRINO, BIANCA, or WHITE, and DRINO, NERO, or BLACK, two rivers of European Turkey, which riſe on the borders of Dalmatia, and uniting their ſtreams fall into the Adriatic at the Gulf of Drino, about 8 miles SW. of Aleſſio.

*DROGHEDA, a large, populous, well-built, and increaſing town of Louth, in Leinſter. It has an excellent harbour, and trades in Engliſh coals, corn, and other heavy goods. It is ſeated on the Boyne, 5 miles W. of the Iriſh Channel, and 23 N. of Dublin.

DROITWICH, a town of Worceſterſhire, ſeated on the river Salwarp, is of great note for it's ſalt-pits, from which they obtain about 700,000 buſhels of ſalt annually. A canal from hence to the Severn, about 3 miles from Worceſter, was finiſhed in 1771. It is 6 miles ENE. of Worceſter, and 118 WNW. of London. Market on Friday.

Dromagh, and Dromalegue, in Cork, Munſter. Dromaragh, in Down, Ulſter. Dromcaſhel, in Louth, Leinſter.

DROME, a dept. of France, ſituated on the E. ſide of the Rhone: it is ſo called from a river of the ſame name, which croſſes it, and falls into the Rhone 11 miles S. of Valence, the capital.

Dromilly, in Armagh, Ulſter. Dromkeen, in Kerry, Munſter. Dromon, in Limerick, Munſter.

Dromonby, Yorkſ. N. Riding, S. of Stokeſley.

*DROMORE, a town of Down, in Ulſter, ſtanding on both ſides of the river Lagan, over which there is a bridge. It is 66 miles from Dublin.

Dromore, in Clare, Munſter. Dromore, in Sligo, Connaught. Dromore, in Tyrone, Ulſter. Dromy, in Cork, Munſter.

DRONERO, a town of Saluzzo, Piedmont, ſeated on the Maira, over which it has a bridge of prodigious height.

DRONFIELD, a town of Derbyſhire, ſituated among the mountains, at the edge of the Peak, in a fine healthy air, 6 miles S. of Sheffield, and 155 NNW. of London. Market on Thurſday.

DRONTHEIM, a conſiderable town of Norway, formerly it's capital, and the uſual reſidence of it's kings. It is now capital of a government of the ſame name, has a good harbour, well frequented, but not capable of receiving large veſſels, on account of rocks at the entrance, and carries on a great trade. It is almoſt ſurrounded by the ſea and lofty mountains, and is ſituated on a bay, to which it gives name, at the mouth of the Nidder, 270 miles NW. of Stockholm. Lat. 63. 26. N. lon. 10. 38. E.

DRONTHEIM, a province of Norway, N. of Bergen, extending nearly 500 miles in length, along the coaſt of the North Sea, and parted by mountains from Sweden.

Droumalagree, in Cork, Munſter.

DROWNED LANDS, a tract of country in the ſtate of New York, W. of Hudſon's River, in Orange County, on the borders of Jerſey. They contain 40 or 50,000 acres. The waters, which deſcend from the ſurrounding hills, being ſlowly diſcharged by the river into which they run, cover theſe meadows every winter, and render them extremely fertile; but they expoſe the inhabitants to intermittents. The river Wallkill, which paſſes through this tract, and falls into Hudſon River, is, in the ſpring, plentifully ſtored with large eels.

Droxford, Hants, near Biſhop's Waltham. Droylſden, Lanc. near Mancheſter.

Drum, in Monaghan, Ulſter, between 2 ſmall loughs. Drumadoon, in Antrim, Ulſter. Drumahare, in Leitrim, Connaught. Drumana, in Waterford, Munſter. Drumanagillibeg, in Cork, Munſter. Drumaſnave, in Leitrim, Connaught, 72 miles from Dublin. Drumbane, in Down, Ulſter. Drumboe, a hill in Down, Ulſter.

DRUMBOTE, a town of Monaghan, in Ulſter, about 10 miles W. of Dundalk.

Drumbridge, in Meath, Leinſter. Drumcallagher, in Cork, Munſter. Drumcannon, in Waterford, Munſter. Drumcondra, in Cavan, Ulſter. Drumcondra, within 2 miles NE. of Dublin. Drumcong, in Galway, Connaught. Drumcullacher, in Limerick, Munſter. Drumdeer, in Cork, Munſter, near Doneraile; here is a red and grey marble quarry. Drumglaſs, in Tyrone, Ulſter, near Dungannon, Drumgoolan, in Down, Ulſter. Drumirork, in Kerry, Munſter. Drumlaghded Hill, in Donegal, Ulſter.

DRUMLANRIG, a town of Dumfrieſſhire, in the diſtrict of Nithſdale, remarkable for a wood of Oak 6 miles in length. In the Duke of Queenſberry's park there yet remains a few of the wild cattle which anciently inhabited the woods of Scotland. They are milk white, except their noſes, ears, and the orbits of their eyes, which are black. Their form is elegant, they have have a ſpirited wildneſs in their looks, and when they run, inſtead of going in the clumſy cow-gallop, they bound like deer. Drumlanrig is ſeated on the river Nith, 11 miles N. of Dumfries.

Drumliſh, in Longford, Leinſter. Drumloch, near Dromore, in Down, Ulſter.

Drummond, a village of Roſsſhire.

Drummore Church, in Tyrone, Ulſter. Drumpate and Drumod, in Leitrim, Connaught. Drumquin, in Tyrone, Ulſter. Drumſhanbo and Drumſna, in Leitrim, Connaught. Drungand Hills; ſee Cabir-conroony.

Drurwick, Suſſ. 5 miles SW. of Horſham. Druriche, Northumb. E. of Witherington Caſtle. Druryd, a river in Merionethſhire.

DRUSENHEIM, a town in the dept. of the Lower Rhine, ſeated on the river Moter, near it's influx into the Rhine, 5 miles SE. of Haguenau.

DRUSES, a people of Syria, on the mountains Libanus and Antilibianus, governed by particular princes, called Emirs. They are very friendly to Europeans, worſhip the images of ſaints like Roman Catholics, yet obſerve the faſt of Rammedan, and offer their devotions both in Mahometan moſques and Chriſtian churches. Some of them admit circumciſion, but others reject it. They are a ſtrong and robuſt people, of an active, enterpriſing character, and accuſtomed, from their infancy, to fatigues and hardſhips. Their language is pure Arabic.

Druſtwyn, Carmarthenſ. Druxton, Heref. between Morehampton and Aconbury.

DUBLIN, the capital of Ireland, in the county of the ſame name, is a large, handſome, and populous city, ſeated on the river Liffey or Anna Liffey. The appearance of this metropolis, the Bay of Dublin, and the ſurrounding country, on approaching them from the ſea, is grand and beautiful; after paſſing the Iſle of Lambay, and that of Ireland's Eye, which is ſmall, being a lofty and groteſque-looking rock, and the craggy mountain of Howth, in coming from the north; or, after paſſing the rocky cliffs of Bray, in approaching from the ſouth, the extenſive Bay of Dublin opens on the view; on the left are ſeen the hills and mountains of Wicklow; on the right, the gently riſing ſhores of Clontarf; the city, on a riſing ground, at the extremity of the bay, and at ſeveral miles diſtance, with domes and ſpires, terminates the view. The Caſſoon, a beautiful pharos, or light-houſe, 4 or 5 miles from the city, ſeems, like another Eddyſtone light-houſe, to riſe out of the ſea; from this, however, there is a broad and firm wall, or pier, nearly completed, reaching to Ringſend, to which the city is now nearly extended. On the N. ſide of the wall is the harbour where veſſels lie ſafe at anchor with an open ſea to the N. On the S. ſide of the wall, near the town, are wharfs principally uſed for bathing; and between theſe and the oppoſite ſhore is an extenſive and ſmooth ſtrand, which is dry at low water; there is a wharf alſo on the N. ſide of the river, for the purpoſe of bathing, and elegant baths on both ſides of the water. From Ringſend upwards, through the whole city, the river is embanked with quays on both ſides; as theſe are open nearly through their whole extent, they form beautiful walks of very extenſive range. The docks laid out on each ſide of the river, are ſufficiently capacious to hold ſeveral thouſands of veſſels. The ſtreets of Dublin are pretty regular, and well paved, the ſquares ſpacious and elegant, and the public buildings ſuperb. The town is ſupplied with water by means of pipes. A circular road, about 10 or 12 miles in length, encompaſſes the city, and the country around it is pleaſant. There is not yet in Ireland, as in England, a parochial proviſion for the poor; but there are, throughout the country, inſtitutions for their relief, ſupported by voluntary contributions. Of this ſort is the Houſe of Induſtry in Dublin. The trade of Dublin is extenſive, and ſince the emancipation of the country from the dominion of Great Britain, it has increaſed ſurpriſingly, and is ſtill improving; but the bar at the entrance of the harbour renders the approach of large veſſels difficult and dangerous. Some improvements, however, are projecting to remedy this great defect. Lat. 53. 23. N. lon. 6. 17. W.

DUBLIN, a county of Ireland, in Leinſter, 25 miles in length and 16 in breadth, bounded on the N. by Meath, on the E. by the Iriſh Channel, on the S. by Wicklow, and on the W. by Meath and Kildare. The ſoil is rich and fertile in corn and paſture. It contains 107 pariſhes, 20 of which are in the city of Dublin, 4 market towns, and about 26,000 houſes.

DUBLIN, a town of N. Carolina.

Dubmill, Cumb. between Newton in Ardale and the ſea.

DUCK CREEK, a town in the ſtate of Delaware, which carries on a conſiderable trade with Philadelphia. It is 12 miles NW. of Dover.

Duckenfield, Cheſh. near Aſhton under Line. Ducklington, Oxf. SE. of Witney. Duckmanton, Derbyſ. E. of Cheſterfield.

Duckpool, Cornw. in the NW. Ducoats, Midd. W. of Tottenham High Croſs. Dudbridge, Glouc. in Stanley King's pariſh. Dudcot, Berks, NW. of Wallingford. Dudden, Cheſh. SE. of Tarven. Dudden, a river of Lanc. running into the ſea below Dqulton, at Dudden Sands, NW. of the county. Duddleſwell, Suſſex, between Cuckfield and Aſhdown Foreſt.

DUDLEY, a town of Worceſterſhire, inſulated in Staffordſhire, containing about 2000 families, moſt of whom are employed in the manufacture of nails and other iron wares. It is 10 miles W. of Birmingham, 16 E. of Bridgenorth, and 120 NW. of London. Market on Saturday.

Dudman Point, Cornw. between Porthilly and Portluny. Dudmaſton, Shropſ. S. of Bridgenorth. Dudſton, Warw. near Birmingham. Dudſwell, Herts, E. of Tring.

DUERSTEDEWYCK, a town of Utrecht.

Duffield, or Dunfield, on the Derwent, N. of Derby. Duffrin, Glamorganſhire. Duffrile, Shropſ. near Maſhbrook the Lower. Dufton, Weſtm. N. of Appleby. Dufton, or Doughton, Glouceſ. near Tetbury. Dugdale, Warw. near Nuneaton. Duggleby, Yorkſ. SE. of New Malton.

DUISBURG, a town of Cleves, Weſtphalia, with manufactures of iron and cloth. It is ſituated near the E. bank of the Rhine, 14 miles N. of Duſſeldorp.

DUKE OF YORK'S ISLAND, in the S. Pacific Ocean, WNW. of the Iſles of Danger, E. of New Guinea, and N of the Friendly Iſles, was diſcovered by Commodore Byron, in 1765. It is uninhabited; except by land-crabs and by ſea-fowl, which laſt were ſo unacquainted with man, as not to fear any miſchief from him, permitting the ſeamen to come ſo near them as to knock them down. Lat. 8. 0. S. lon. 172. 30. W.

DUKE OF YORK'S ISLARD, in the S. Pacific Ocean, between Lord Howe's Group, and the SE. point of New Ireland, is about 10 miles long, of moderate height, and flat, and ſo fertile as to repreſent a perfect garden. The huts of the natives are made of bamboo, with fences before them, within which the ground is well cleared and trodden. In the incloſures, the plantain, banana, yam, ſugar-cane, &c. are cultivated: beſide theſe, the iſland produces beetle-nuts, mangoes, bread-fruit, guavas, and ſome nutmeg-trees. The animals are dogs, hogs, and poultry. The natives are ſtout, of a light copper colour, and go without clothes: noné are ſeen with their hair of it's natural colour; they dreſs it with greaſe and powder. They chew the beetle, and uſe it with the chenam and a leaf, as practiſed in the E. Indies by which their mouths appear red, and their teeth, in time, become black. The only muſical inſtrument among them is compoſed of ſeveral hollow reeds, of different lengths, faſtened together, like the ſyrinx of the ancients. Their canoes are neatly made, and have an outrigger. Lat. 4. 7. S. lon. 152. 42. E.

Dukepull, Northumb. SW. of Hexham Dukes, Eſſex NE. of Great Braxted. Dulas, on the NE. ſide of the Iſle of Angleſey, on a bay and river of the ſame name is much frequented on account of the corn and butter trade. Near it is a red, ochery earth, fit for painting, and veins of lead ochre, and upon all the coaſt they make fern aſhes. Dulas, the name of ſeveral rivers in Wales; two of Carmarthenſhire one of Brecknockſ. one of Radnorſ. two of Montgomeryſ. and one of the Iſle of Angleſey.

DULDERSTADT, a town of Brunſwick ſeated on the Wipper, 15 miles E. of Gottingen. It is ſubject to the elector of Mentz.

DULEEK, a town of Meath, in Leinſter about 4 miles S. of Drogheda, and 2 from Dublin.

Dullingham, 13 miles from Cambridge SE. of Newmarket Heath.

DULMEN, a town in Munſter, Weſtphalia.

Dulo, Cornw. N. of Eaſt Looe. Dulvarne, Staff. NW. of Cheadle.

DULVERTON, a town of Somerſetſhire with a manufacture of coarſe woollen cloth and blankets It is ſeated on the Dun brook, near it's fall into the Exe, 24 miles SE. of Barnſtaple, and 164 W. by S. of London. Market on Saturday.

Dulwich, Surry, in the pariſh of Camberwell, 5 miles S. of London. Here is a college endowed for a maſter and warden 4 fellows, 6 poor men, 6 poor women, and 12 poor boys. It was founded by Edward Alleyn, a comedian in Elizabeth's reign in fulfilment, as it is ſaid, of a vow he had made on receiving a fright in perſonating one of Shakeſpeare's devils.

DUMBARNY, a pariſh of Perthſhire.

DUMBARTONSHIRE, anciently LENNOX, a county of Scotland, bounded on the W. by Argyleſhire and Loch Long on the N. by Argyleſhire and Perthſhire on the E. by Perthſhire and Stirlingſhire and on the S. by the counties of Lanerk and Renfrew. It's greateſt length is 40 miles, it's breadth from 6 to 15. The W part of this county abounds with mountaſſes; in other parts it is fertile in corn and paſtures; but the principal riches ariſe from the fiſheries in the lochs in and about it's coaſts. The principal of theſe is Loch Lomond. It's capital,

*DUMBARTON, is a large, ancient town, containing about 2000 inhabitants. It's principal manufacture is crown and bottle glaſs, but many of the young women are employed in the neighbouring print fields, on the banks of the Leven. Close to the river, is a caſtle built on a vaſt rock, formerly deemed impregnable. This town was erected into a royal burgh by king Alexander II. in 1221. About 1000 tons of ſhipping belong to this place, which has a harbour for large brigs, ſecure in all weathers. It is ſituated at the confluence of the rivers Leven and Clyde, 15 miles NW. of Glaſgow.

DUMBARTON, a town of New Hampſhire.

DUMBLAIN, a town and pariſh of Perthſhire, 4 miles N. of Stirling.

Dumbleton, Glouc. near Bekeford.

DUMFRIESSHIRE, a county of Scotland, bounded on the W. by the counties of Kirkcudbright and Ayr; on the N. by the ſhires of Lanerk, Peebles, and Selkirk; on the NE. and E. by thoſe of Selkirk and Roxburgh: and on the S. by Solway Frith and a part of Cumberland. It is about 50 miles in length, and from 10 to 30 broad. It comprehends the diſtricts of Annandale, Nithſdale, and Eſkdale. The capital of the county is

*DUMFRIES, a well-built town, ſurrounded on all ſides, at the diſtance of a few miles, by a continued chain of hills, forming, altogether, one of the grandeſt, natural amphitheatres in Britain. The number of inhabitants, at an enumeration lately taken, was 5600. They have 8 or 10 coaſting veſſels, and 2 or 3 employed in the Baltic and wine trades. It is ſeated on the river Nith, 8 miles N. of Solway Frith, and 53 SSW. of Edinburgh.

DUMFRIES, a town of Prince William County, Virginia.

Dun, a lake of Ayrſhire, and a pariſh in Angusſhire.

Dunacombe, Cornw. NE. of Duckpool.

Dunald Mill Hole, a curious, ſubterranean paſſage, 5 miles from Lancaſter, through which a large brook paſſes for about 2 miles, and appears again at Carnford.

Dunaghy, in Tyrone, Ulſter, 78 miles from Dublin: here is a celebrated ſpa.

Dunamese, a large and lofty rock, on the plain of Maryborough, affording paſture to ſheep.

Dunamona, in Mayo, Connaught.

*DUNBAR, a well-built town of Haddingtonſhire, with a good harbour, and about 18 veſſels employed in the coaſting and foreign trade, beſides 12 fiſhing boats. This town trades largely in malt and grain. Under the rock, on which are the ruins of a caſtle, are two natural arches, through which the tide flows; and here are vaſt baſaltic columns of red grit ſtone. It is 23 miles E. of Edinburgh.

Dunbeath, a river in Caithneſs.

Dunboyne, in Meath, Leinſter.

DUNCANNON, a town and fort of Wexford, in Leinſter, on the E. coaſt of Waterford Harbour, 6 miles ESE. of Waterford.

Dunchidiock, Devonſ. near Duddleſcomb Leigh. Dunchurch, Warw. 3 miles from Hillmorton. Dunclent, Worc. near Kidderminſter.

Duncormack, in Wexford, Leinſter.

*DUNDALK, a ſea-port and aſſize-town of Louth, in Leinſter. It conſiſts of a wide ſtreet, nearly a mile long, and ſome croſs lanes; has a good market-houſe, and carries on a manufacture of muſlins, linens, and cambrics. It is moſt advantageouſly ſituated for an extenſive inland trade, and the port is very ſafe for ſhipping. The bay, alſo, has good moorings, and abounds with fiſh. Dundalk is 18 miles N. of Drogheda, and 40 of Dublin.

*DUNDEE, a large and flouriſhing town in the ſhire of Angus, with manufactures of glaſs, coarſe linen, ſail-cloth, cordage, coloured and white thread, buckram, tanned leather, ſhoes, and hats; and here is alſo a ſugar-houſe. The houſes are built of ſtone, generally three or four ſtories high; and the principal ſtreets, with a number of leſſer ones, are all paved in the beſt manner. Trading veſſels of the largeſt burden can get into the harbour, which is ſafe, commodious, and of eaſy acceſs, with broad, extenſive piers, well adapted for the purpoſes of loading and diſcharging veſſels; and there is good room on the quay for ſhip-building, which is carried on here to a large extent. In the year 1792, there were 116 veſſels belonging to the port, navigated by 698 men: of theſe, 34 were employed in the foreign, and 78 in the coaſting trade, with 4 in the whale fiſhery. The inhabitants are computed at 20,000. Dundee is ſituated on the N. ſide of the Frith of Tay, 14 miles NW. of St. Andrews, and 30 N. of Edinburgh.

Dundel, Herts, near Tring. Dundene, Somerſ. near Sedgemoor.

Dunderow, in Cork, Munſter.

DUNDONALD, a pariſh in Ayrſhire.

Dundrum, and it's Bay, in Down, Ulſter. Dundrum, in Tipperary, Munſter. Dundrum, 3 miles SE. of Dublin.

Dundry, Somerſ. SW. of Briſtol.

DUNEBURG, a town of Livonia, ſeated on the Dwina, 90 miles SE. of Riga.

Dunegal, a fruitful iſland in the Bay of Baltimore, in Cork, Munſter. Dunclong, in Tyrone, Ulſter. Dunfanaby, in Donegal, Ulſter.

Dunee, Northumb. near Berwick.

* DUNFERMLINE, a town and pariſh of Fifeſhire, with a manufacture of linen, particularly diapers. Here are the remains of a magnificent abbey and palace, in which Charles I. king of England, and the Princeſs Elizabeth his ſiſter, mother of the Princeſs Sophia, were born. The church was the burial-place of ſeveral Scottiſh monarchs. It is ſeated on a hill, commanding a moſt beautiful and extenſive proſpect of a part of 14 different counties, 15 miles NW. of Edinburgh.

Dunfield, N. of Derby, on the Derwent, Dunford, Upper and Lower, Yorkſ. SE. of Boroughbridge. Dunford, 8 miles from Cambridge.

* DUNGANNON, an ancient town of Tyrone, in Ulſter, near which are coal mines. It is ſeated on a hill, 11 miles N. of Armagh, and 72 NW. of Dublin.

* DUNGARVON, a tolerably well-built town in Waterford, Munſter. It has a good market and ſeſſion houſe, and an aqueduct has been conſtructed here, by parlimentary encouragement, for ſupplying the town with freſh water, which is brought from the river Phyniſk, at the diſtance of ſome miles. It ſupplies Dublin with fiſh and great quantities of potatoes. It is ſeated on Dungarvon Bay, with a commodious harbour, 21 miles WSW. of Waterford.

DUNGENESS, a promontory of Kent, 8 miles S. by W. of Romney. Lat. 50. 54. N. lon. 1. 4. E.

Dungivin, in Derry, Ulſter.

Dungleedy, or Dowgleedy, a river in Pembrokeſhire.

Dunglo, in Donegal, Ulſter.

Dungum, a river in Montgomeryſhire. Dunham, Nott. on the Trent, near Normanton. Dunham, Great and Little, Norf. NE. of Swaffham. Dunham on the Hill, Cheſh. W. of Delamere Foreſt. Dunham Maſſey, Cheſh. on the Merſey, 3 miles from Warrington. Dunhead, Wilts, near Shafton. Dunholm, Nott. 6 miles from Tuxford. Dunholm, between Lincoln and Market Raiſin. Duniet, Somerſ. SW. of Nony Caſtle. Dunington, Berks, N. of Sp[illegible]ham Land, on the rivulet Lambourn. Dun[illegible]ton, Nothumb. E. of Eland Hall.

Dunipace, a picturesque ſpot on the river Carron, in Scotland.

Dunkanally, in Donegal, Ulſter.

* DUNKELD, a town of Perthſhire, ſitu[illegible] ated amid romantic rocks and woods, u[illegible] der which rolls the majeſtic Tay, 10 mil[illegible] nearly N. of Perth. It is much reſorte[illegible] to in the ſummer months, for the benef[illegible] of goats' whey. It is the market town [illegible] the Highlands on that ſide, and carries o[illegible] a manufacture of linen. The duke [illegible] Athol has a beautiful modern ſeat here.

Dunkerrin, in King's County, Leinſte[illegible]

Dunkerron, in Kerry, Munſter.

Dunkerton, Somerſ. near Bath. Dunk[illegible] well, Devonſ. S. of Columſtock. Dun[illegible] field, Northumb. S. of Hexham. Dunki[illegible] baigh, Lanc. NE. of Blackburn. Du[illegible] kirk, Herts, W. of St. Alban's.

DUNKIRK, a conſiderable and importa[illegible] maritime town of France, in the diſtri[illegible] of Bergues, and dept. of the North, co[illegible] taining about 80,000 inhabitants. [illegible] means of a ſluice, 42 feet wide, the ba[illegible] within the town will hold 40 ſhips of t[illegible] line always floating. It is 22 miles SW[illegible] of Oſtend. Lat. 51. 2. N. lon. 2. 28. E.

Dunklyn, Worc. E. of Kidderminſter.

DUNLAVIN, a town of Wicklow, Leinſter, which has an elegant mark[illegible] houſe and ſtores. It is 20 miles W. Wicklow, and 22 from Dublin.

* DUNLEARY, a ſea-port on the S. ſi[illegible] of the Bay of Dublin, 5 miles from t[illegible] city.

Dunleckney, in Carlow, Leinſter.

* DUNLEER, a town of Louth, in Lei[illegible] ſter, 6 miles N. of Drogheda, and 30 fr[illegible] Dublin.

DUN LE ROI, a ſmall town in the de[illegible] of Cher, ſeated on the Auron, 17 mi[illegible] SSE. of Bourges.

Dunleſbire, Northumb. near Selkirk.

Dunlop, a village and pariſh of Ayrſhi[illegible] celebrated for rich and delicate cheeſe.

Dunlow, in Galway, Connaught. Du[illegible] luce, in Antrim, Ulſter. Dunmaereen, Mayo, Connaught. Dunmanway, a v[illegible] lage, in Cork, Munſter, 12 miles W. Bandon, where the linen manufactur[illegible] carried on.

DUNMANUS, a large, deep bay, on [illegible] SW. coaſt of Ireland, ſeparated from t[illegible] of Bantry by a narrow point of land. [illegible] is very eaſy to enter, and very ſafe wh[illegible] entered, yet there are no inhabitants n[illegible] it to give it importance. It's mouth, entrance, lies in lat. 51. 20. N. lon. 42. W.

Dunmore, in Galway, Connaught. Du[illegible] more Head, in Kerry, Munſter, the m[illegible] weſtern point of Europe. Dunm[illegible] Cave, in Kilkenny, Leinſter, contains number of figures of a cryſtalline ſubſtan[illegible] ſcarce ſcarcely leſs curious than thoſe of Antiparos.

*DUNMOW, GREAT, a town of Eſſex, with a manufacture of baize. In the reign of Henry III. the Lord Fitzwalter inſtituted a cuſtom here, which is ſtill the tenure of the manor, that whatever married man did not repent of his marriage, or quarrel with his wife, in a year and a day afterwards, ſhould go to the priory, and receive from the lord a gammon, or flitch of bacon, provided he ſwore to the truth of it. Some old records here, mention ſeveral that have claimed and received this reward: and it has been received ſo lately as ſince the 1750, by a weaver and his wife, of Coggeſhall. It has been demanded more recently, but the demand is now evaded, from the ceremony being attended with conſiderable expence to the lord of the manor. It is ſituated on the Chelmer, 13 miles N. of Chelmsford, and 40 NE. of London. Market on Saturday.

Dunmow, Little, E. of Great Dunmow.

Dunnemanagh, in Tyrone, Ulſter.

DUSNET, a town of Caithneſs.

Dunningley, Yorkſ. NW. of Wakefield.

DUNNINGTON, a dirty, ill-built town of Lincolnſhire, noted for a large trade in hemp and hempſeed: it is alſo a port for barges, by which goods are conveyed to Bolton and the Waſhes. It is 11 miles WSW. of Boſton, and 111 N. of London. Market on Saturday.

Dunnington, Caſtle and Park, Leic. by the Trent, in the moſt northern borders of the county, and 7 miles from Derby. Dunnington, Heref. S. of Ledbury. Dunnington, Shropſ. W. of Wrekin Hill. Dunnington, Shropſ. E. of Broſeley. Dunnington, Yorkſ. in Holderneſs. Dunnington, Suſſ. 4 miles from Chicheſter. Dunnington upon Bane, Linc. between Wragby and Louth. Dunningworth, Suff. SW. of Saxmundham. Dunny, Glouc. in Miniſterworth pariſh.

DUNNOSE, a cape on the SE. part of the Iſle of Wight. Lat. 50. 33. N. lon. 1. 11. W.

Dunnoter, or Dunotyr, a village of Kincardineſhire, near which are the remains of a caſtle, ſituated on a perpendicular rock, near the ſea, level on the top, and ſeveral acres in extent, and almoſt ſeparated from the land by a very deep chaſm. By this romantic ſituation, it forms one of the moſt majeſtic ruins in the kingdom.

Dunraven Houſe, Glamorganſ. ſtands on a high rocky headland, projecting a conſiderable diſtance into the ſea, many parts of which have the appearance of religious antiquity rather than of a caſtle. It is 9 miles SE. of Cowbridge.

Dunrobin Caſtle, in Sutherland, the ſeat of the counteſs of Sutherland, on an eminence near the ſea, 15 miles nearly N. of Cromarty.

Dunsborn Abbots, Glouceſ. N of Cirenceſter. Dunsborn Rouſe, Glouc. S. of Cirenceſter. Dunsbrook, a river in Devonſ. Dunsby, Linc. SE. of Folkingham. Dunſby Hall, Linc. 3 miles NW. of Sleaford; here are chalybeate ſprings. Dunſden, Oxf. a hamlet of Binfield.

*DUNSE, a town in Berwickſhire, with a good market, and 4 conſiderable fairs for horſes, ſheep, and black cattle, in March, June, Auguſt, and November. It is ſituated between the forks of the rivers Blackadder and Whiteadder, 12 miles W. of Berwick upon Tweed.

Dunſfold, Surry, E. of Haſlemere. Dunsford, Devonſ. between Biſhop's Cheriton and Doddeſcomb Leigh. Dunsford, Upper and Lower, Yorkſ. W. Riding, SE. of Boroughbridge.

*DUNSHAGLIN, a town in Meath, Leinſter, 14 miles from Dublin.

Dunſink, 2½ miles W. of Dublin. On a riſing ground here, is an aſtronomical obſervatory pertaining to the college of Dublin.

Dunſmore, a river of Staff. running into the Churnet at Leek. Dunſland, Devonſ. W. of Black Torrington. Dunſley, Yorkſ. near Whitby. Dunſley, Herts, near Berkhamſted. Dunſley Nether, Durh. SE. of Darlington, and W. of the Tees, oppoſite to Dunſley Over, Yorkſ. which is E. of the Tees. Dunſmore Heath, Warw between Coventry and Daventry.

*DUNSTABLE, a populous town of Bedfordſhire, with ſeveral good inns, as it is a great thoroughfare, ſtanding on the great road between London and the N. and NW. counties. It is noted for elegant baſkets, hats, &c. made of ſtraw, which are conſiderable, and even articles of exportation. The larks taken hereabouts, are ſaid to be the largeſt and beſt in the kingdom. It is ſeated on a dry, chalky eminence, near the Chiltern Hills, 17 miles nearly S. of Bedford, and 34 NNW. of London. Market on Wedneſday.

Dunſtable, Staff. W. of Burton upon Trent.

DUNSTER, a town of Somerſetſhire, conſiſting of about 400 houſes, with a manufacture of kerſeys. It ſtands on a low ground, 20 miles NW. of Taunton, and 158 NW. of London. Market on Friday.

Dunſton, Staff. N. of Penkridge. Dunſton, Derbyſ. NW. of Cheſterfield. Dunſton, ſton, SE. of Lincoln. Dunſton, S. of Norwich. Dunſton, Northumb. on the Tyne, in Embleton pariſh. Dunſton, Northumb. near Dunſtaburgh Caſtle. Dunſton, Staff. between Checkley and Ellaſton. Dunſton, Weſtmorl. N. of Appleby. Dunterley, Northumb. S. of the Tyne, near Lee Hall. Dunterton, Devonſ. between Milton Abbey and Launceſton. Duntesbourn Abbots, Duntesbourn Rous, and Duntesbourn Lyre, 3 adjacent pariſhes, about 12 miles from Glouceſter. Duntiſhe, Dorſetſ. 1 mile N. of Buckland Abbas. Dunton, Bedf. SE. of Biggleſwade. Dunton, Bucks, SE. of Winſlow. Dunton, Eſſex, NW. of Hornden. Dunton, Warwickſ. N. of Coleſhill. Dunton, Norf. NW. of Fakenham. Dunton Baſſet, Leic. near Lutterworth. Dunum, Northumb. in Wark barony. Dunville, Glouc. in Kempford pariſh.

DUNWICH, an antient town of Suffolk, ſeated on the top of a looſe cliff. It was once large and populous, and an epiſcopal ſee, but here are now only the remains of a town, all but two pariſhes being ſwallowed up by the ſea. The principal buſineſs here is fiſhing for herrings, mackarel, &c. It is 24 miles S. of Yarmouth, and 99 NE. of London. Market on Saturday.

DURANCE, a river of France, which riſes on the borders of Piedmont, paſſes by or near Embrun, Pertuis, Cavaillon, &c and falls into the Rhone a little below Avignon.

Durance, Middl. between Enfield and Waltham Chaſe.

DORANGO, a town of Biſcay, about 12 miles E. of Bilboa; and a town of New Biſcay, in Mexico.

DURAZZO, anciently DYRRACHIUM, a ſea-port town, the capital of Albania, ſtrong and populous, with a good harbour. Lat. 41. 42. N.

DURBUY, a town and county of Luxemburg, on the river Ourte.

DURCKEIM, a town in Linange, circle of the Upper Rhine, 14 miles W. of Manheim.

Durdans, Surry, 1 mile from Epſom. Durdham Downs, Glouc. adjoining Clifton and Briſtol Hot-wells; remarkable for the ſalubrity of their air, and for beautiful proſpects.

DUREE, a town of Juliers, Weſtphalia, with a manufacture of cloth.

Durford, Suſſex, W. of Midhurſt.

DURHAM, a county palatine of England, bounded on the W. by Cumberland and Weſtmorland; on the N. by Northumberland; on the E. by the German Ocean; and on the S. by Yorkſhire. It is divided into 4 wards, which contain 1 city, 8 market towns, 113 pariſhes, and about 100,000 inhabitants. It is 21 miles in length, from E. to W. and 32 in breadth from N. to S. The biſhop is a temporal prince, being earl of Sadberg in this county, and ſheriff paramount, as alſo perpetual juſtice of peace within his territories. He ſits as chief in the courts of judicature, thoſe of aſſize not excepted; and even when judgment of blood is given. The weſtern ſide of the county is mountainous, while the eaſtern and ſouthern are fruitful in corn and paſture, and enjoy a milder air. Here are manufactories of tammies, carpets, ſail-cloths, ſteel, glaſs, paper, iron founderies, and immenſe mines of coal, lead, grind-ſtones, and iron. The principal rivers are the Wear, Tees, Tyne, and Derwent.

*DURHAM the capital of the county of Durham, is an ancient city, founded on 7 hills, and ſurrounded by others more lofty, in a beautiful winding of the river Wear. Here are pleaſant walks along the banks of the river, which are covered with woods, and edged with lofty crags. Around it are grown large quantities of the beſt muſtard. Durham is 14 miles S. of Newcaſtle, and 257 N. by W. of London. Market on Saturday.

DURHAM, a town of Connecticut; and 2 towns of New Hampſhire.

Durham or Dyrham, Glouceſ. 5 miles from Chipping Sudbury. Durhams, Middl. 2 miles N. of Chipping Barnet. Durſey, Somerſetſ. SW. of Bridgewater. Durley, Hants, SW. of Biſhop's Waltham. Durſland Bay, Dorſetſ. on the SE. coaſt of Purbeck Iſle. Durnford, Dorſetſ. in Purbeck Iſle. Durnford, Wilts, S. of Amesbury. Durnhall, Cheſh. near Middlewich. Durpit Chapel, Durh. between Newbiggin and Teeſdale Foreſt. Durrington, Wilts 2 miles from Ameſbury. Durrington, Linc. near Bloxham.

Durrow, in Kilkenny, Leinſter. Durſey Iſland, off the coaſt of Cork, Munſter.

DURSLEY, a town of Glouceſterſhire with a manufacture of broad cloth. The manufacture of cards for clothiers has been long ſettled here. It is ſeated on a branch of the Severn, 13 miles SW. of Glouceſter, and 107 W. of London. Market on Thurſday.

Durſton, Somerſetſ. NE. of Taunton. Durtreburn, Northumb. N. of Otterburn. Durweſton, Dorſetſ. 3 miles N. of Blandford.

DUSSELDORP, a city of Berg, Weſtphalia, containing about 10,000 inhabitants. It is ſituated on the river Duſſe a

at it's confluence with the Rhine, 20 miles NNW. of Cologn.

Daſton, W. of Northampton. Duſton, Weſtm. NE. of Appleby.

DUTLINGEN, a town of Suabia.

Dutton, Cheſh. on the Weever, NW. of Northwich. Dutton Duxbury, Lanc. near Chorley. Dutton Hall, Eſſex, near Dunmow.

DUYVELAND, an iſland of Zealand, in the United Provinces.

DWINA, a river of the Ruſſian empire, which riſes in the government of Vologda, and falls into the White Sea at Archangel, which town is the capital of the province of Dwina.

DWINA, or DUNA, a river which riſes in the province of Pſkov, Ruſſia, and falls into the Baltic below Riga. In 1773, it was the boundary between Ruſſia and Poland.

Dyke, Suſſex, W. of Hayliſham. Dymock, Glouceſ. NW. of Newent. Dynchill, N. of Hereford. Dynebop Chapel, Shropſ. SE. of Acton Scot. Dyne's Hall, Eſſex, near the Walthams. Dynton, Bucks, 3 miles from Thame and Ayleſbury.

Dyon, in Tyrone Ulſter.

*DYSART, a town of Fifeſhire, with a very ancient church, ſaid to have been built by the Picts. This town employs 23 ſquare-rigged veſſels and 2 ſloops, in carrying coals, and importing wood, to and from Dantzick, Denmark, Rotterdam, &c. It is ſituated on the N. coaſt of the Forth, 11 miles N. of Edinburgh.

Dyſenworth, Leic. SE. of Dunnington. Dyton, Priors, Shropſ. N. of Brown Clee Hill. Dyzard, Cornw. NE. of Bottreaux Caſtle.

EAGLE, SW. of Lincoln. Eaglesfield, Cumb. 2 miles S. of Cockermouth.

Eagle's Neſt, a romantic ſpot between the upper and middle Lakes of Killarney, in Kerry, Munſter.

Eaglewood, Cumberl. between Penrith and Carliſle. Eaglewood, Surry, a pond of 25 acres, in the pariſh of Newdigate. Ealand, Lincolnſ. in the Iſle of Axholm. Eardington, Shropſhire, S. of Bridgenorth. Eardiſland, Herefordſ. 3 miles from Leominſter. Eardiſley, Heref. near Hunlington Caſtle. Eareby, Lincolnſ. between Thongcaſter and Grimſby, Eareſby Place, Lincolnſ. near Spilſby. Earith, Huntingd. Earl's Colne, Eſſex, 2 miles SE. of Halſtead. Earl's Court, Midd. between Kenſington and Chelſea. Earl's Dyke, Yorkſ. the N. boundary of Holderneſs. Earlſhaw, Nott. in Caunton pariſh. Earl's Hide, Staff. 2 miles from Stone. Earl's Soham, Suff. near Framlingham. Earlſton, Hants, NW. of King's Clere.

EARLSTON, or ERSILTON, a town of Berwickſhire. Near it is the Houſe of Cowdenknows, and on the adjacent knells may be ſeen the remains of it's broom, ſo celebrated in Scottiſh ditty.

Earlſtonham, Suffolk, N. of Needham. Earn, a lake and river of Perthſhire. Earſham, Norfolk, near Bungay Earſe-well, Suff. NE. of Milden Hall. Earth, Cornw. W. of Trematon Caſtle. Earthan, Cornw. NE. of Market Jew. Earton, Lancaſ. near Liverpool. Eaſbach, Heref. near Biſhops and Caſtle Frome. Eaſby, Yorkſ. near Richmond. Eaſby, Yorkſ. N. Riding, E. of Stokeſley. Eaſington, Bucks, 2 miles from Tame. Eaſington, Yorkſ. in Holderneſs. Eaſington, Yorkſ. NW. of Whitby. Eaſington, Glouceſterſ. on the Severn, 6 miles from Stroud.

EASINGWOLD, a town of Yorkſhire, trading in bacon and butter. It is 12 miles N. of York, and 210 N. of London.

Eaſt Almer, Dorſetſ. near Sturminſter.

EASTBOURN, a town of Suſſex, noted for the plenty of birds hereabout, called wheat ears; and lately become a well-frequented place for ſea-bathing. It is near Beachy Head, 15 miles ESE. of Lewes, and 65 SSE. of London.

Eaſt Brent, Somerſetſ. 4 miles N. of Huntſpil. Eaſtbridge, Suff. on the coaſt, near Siſewel. Eaſtbridge, Kent, N. of Romney Marſh. Eaſtbury, Dorſetſ. 4 miles from Blandford. Eaſtbury, Eſſex, near Barking. Eaſtchurch, Kent, in the Iſle of Sheppy. Eaſtcot, Cornw. near the ſource of the Tamar. Eaſt Creech, Dorſetſ. in Purbeck Iſle, a mile NW. of Knolle. Eaſt Dean, Suſſex, 5 miles N. of Chicheſter. Eaſt Down, Devonſ. S. of Comb Martin. Eaſt End, Midd. between Finchley and Whetſton. Eaſterford, Eſſex, S. of Coggeſhal. Eaſtergate, Suſſex, SW. of Arundel. Eaſter, Good and High, Eſſex, both between Hatfield Broad Oak and Chelmsford.

EASTER ISLAND, in the S. Pacific Ocean, is about 12 leagues in circumference

The

The hills are high, and the country naturally barren. It neither yields good anchorage, wood, nor water. Rats are the only quadrupeds, and here are but few birds. The natives have an odd taſte for long ears, which are ſtretched beyond the uſual proportion. Lat. 27. 5. S. lon. 109. 46. W.

Eaſterleake, Nott. N. Stanford. Eaſtermear, Hants, SW. of Petersfield. Eaſt Field, Northamp. near the Cam Water, NE. of Peterborough. Eaſt, Great, Camb. near Wimpley.

EASTHAM, a town of Maſſachuſets.

Eaſtham, Cheſh. near the middle ſand of the Merſey. Eaſtham, Somerſ. near Hinton St. George. Eaſtham, Eſſex, 7 miles from London. Eaſtham, Worceſ. near Tenbury. Eaſt Holme, Dorſetſ. 3 miles W. of Wareham. Eaſthop, Linc. between Spalding and Boſton. Eaſthop, Shropſ. between Layton and Wenlock. Eaſthop, Eſſex, near Colcheſter. Eaſthorp, Yorkſ. E. Riding, between Burnholm and Hunſley. Eaſthorp, Nott. in Southwell pariſh. Eaſthorp, Wilts, near Highworth. Eaſſington, Glouceſ. in Northleach pariſh. The canal from Stroud falls here into the Severn.

EAST ISLEY, a town of Bucks, 17 miles from Oxford, and 60 from London. Market on Wedneſday.

Eaſt Land, Yorkſ. between Hutherſfield and Halifax. Eaſt Leach Martin, and Eaſt Leach Turville, Glouc. on oppoſite ſides of the river Loch, about 3 miles from Leachlade. Eaſtleton, Glouc. SE. of Northleach. Eaſtling, Kent, W. of Badleſmere. Eaſtlington, Dorſetſ. in Purbeck Iſle, 1 mile E. of Worth. Eaſtmanſtreet, Wilts, near Calne. Eaſt Morden, Dorſetſ. near Charborough. Eaſt Neſs, Suffolk, NE. of Southwold Bay. Eaſt Neſs, Yorkſ. N. Riding, near Rydal. Eaſt Newton, Yorkſ. in Holderneſs

EASTON, a town of Pennſylvania, ſituated at the conflux of the Leigh and the Delaware.

Eaſton, Suff. 6 miles from Woodbridge. Eaſton, Glouceſ. near Briſtol. Eaſton, Hunt. S. of Spaldwick. Eaſton, Leiceſ. in the SE. of the county. Eaſton, Linc. between Stamford and Grantham. Eaſton, Norf. SW. of Hingham. Eaſton, NW. of Norwich. Euſton, Devonſ. in Morchard pariſh. Eaſton, Somerſetſ. near Wells. Eaſton, Somerſ. between Bath and Keynſham. Eaſton, Hants, near Wincheſter. Eaſton, Hants, NW. of Whitchurch. Eaſton, Suff NW. of Wickham. Eaſton, Suſſex, near Selſey Iſland. Eaſton, Iſle of Wight, in E. Medina. Eaſton, Wilts, 2 miles from Chippenham. Eaſton, Yorkſ. E. Riding, N. of Fordlingham. Eaſton Bravant, Suff. N. of Southwold. Eaſton Ferme, Hants, near Portſmouth. Eaſton Goſbeck, Suff. NE. of Needham. Eaſton Gray, Wilts, near Tetbury and Sopworth. Eaſton, Great and Little, Eſſex, on the oppoſite ſides of the Chelmer, 6 miles from Dunmow. Eaſton Mawduit, Northamp. 4 miles from Wellingborough. Eaſtonneſs, a cape on the coaſt of Suffolk, near Southwold. Eaſton Piers, Wilts, near Bragton St. Michael. Eaſt Orchard, Dorſ. 2 miles from Margaret Marſh. Eaſtour, Dorſ. 2 miles S. of Gillingham. Eaſtrow, Yorkſ. near Whitby. Eaſtrington, Yorkſ. near Howden. Eaſtry, Kent, SW. of Sandwich. Eaſtwall, Shropſhire, E. of Church Stretton. Eaſtway, Cornw. W. of Stratton. Eaſtwell, Leiceſ. SW. of Belvoir Caſtle. Eaſtwell, Kent, near Aſſford. Eaſtwick, Heref. 1 mile from Boldeſton. Eaſtwinch, Norfolk, 4 miles from Lynn Regis. Eaſt Woodgate, Dorſetſ. 2 miles from Pentridge. Eaſt Wolban, or Worlham, Hants, SE. of Alton. Eaſtwood, Eſſex, near Prittlewell. Eaſt Yate, Durham, in Weardale. Eatington, Upper, and Lower, Warw. between Banbury and Stratford upon Avon.

EATON, a town of N. Carolina.

Eaton, 3 miles from Cheſter. Eaton, Heref. near Leominſter. Eaton, Shropſ. NE. of Biſhop's Caſtle. Eaton, Leic. N. of Waltham on the Would. Eaton, Northamp. between Wellingborough and Northampton. Eaton, Shropſ. NW. of Bolas. Eaton, Somerſ. between Kingſwood and the Briſtol Channel. Eaton, Bucks, in Bleachley Park. Eaton, Nott. on the river Idle, on the S. ſide of E. Retford. Eaton, Shropſ. near Pitchford. Eaton Boat, on the Dee, 5 miles from Cheſter. Eaton Bray, Bedf. W. of Dunſtable. Eaton Biſhops, or Eaton Wall, 2 miles SW. of Hereford. Eaton Church, Staff. SW. of Penkridge. Eaton Church, Yorkſ. E. Riding, W. of Penkridge. Eaton Cold, Derb. NW. of Wirkſworth. Eaton Conſtantine, Shropſ. SW. of Wrekin Hall. Eaton Dovedale, Derb. N. of Uttoxeter. Eaton Ford, or Secon, Bedf. SW. of St. Neot's. Eaton Gildables, Bucks, near Eton College. Eaton, Long, Derb. in Swaley pariſh. Eaton Maſcot, Shropſ. near Condover. Eaton Water, Staff. between Brewood and Penkridge. Eaton Wood, Staff. W. of Eaton Church.

EAUSE, an ancient town in the dept. of Gers, 17 miles WSW. of Condom.

Eawden, Northumb. between Alnham and Branton. Eawood, Suſſ. N. of Haylſham.

ham. Ebberton, or Ebrington, Glouc. 2 miles from Campden. Ebbord, Devonſ. in Woodbury pariſh. Ebchefter, Durh. near Darwentcote. Ebdown, Wilts, in W. Kington pariſh.

EBENEZER, a town of Georgia, 24 miles N. of Savannah.

Ebeny, Kent, in the Iſle of Oxney.

EBERBACH, a town of Mentz, on the Neckar; and EBERBERG, a town in the palatinate of the Rhine, 5 miles SW. of Creutznach.

EBERNDORF, a town of Carinthia.

EBERSDORF, a town of Stiria; a town of Erzsgeburg, Upper Saxony; and a town of Auſtria, 6 miles ESE. of Vienna.

EBERSTEIN, a ſmall principality of Suabia, between the territories of Baden and Wurtemburg.

EBERSTHAL, a town of Mentz.

Eberſton, Yorkſ. between Pickering and Scarborough. Eberton; ſee Ibberton.

EBERVIL, or EBREUIL, a town in the dept. of Allier, ſeated on the river Scioule.

EBHER, a town of Irac, Perſia, 40 miles W. of Caſbin.

EBRO, a river of Spain, which riſes on the confines of Old Caſtile, in the mountains of Aſturia, and paſſing through Arragon and Catalonia, falls into the Mediterranean below Tortoſa.

Ebſborn Wake, Wilts, SE. of Wardour Caſtle. Ebral, Shropſ. 2 miles from Oſweſtry. Ebsfleet, Kent, in the Iſle of Thanet. Ebwith, a river in Monm. running into the Uſk, at Newport Haven. Ebworth, Glouceſ. in Painſwick pariſh.

ECATERRINENSLAF. See CATHARINENSLAF.

Eccheles, Cheſ. on the Merſey, W. of Cheadle. Ecclesburn, a river in Derbyſ. running into the Derwent, at Duntfield. Eccleſfield, Yorkſ. near Sheffield.

ECCLESHALL, a town of Staffordſhire, noted for trading in pedlar's wares. It is ſeated on a branch of the river Sow, 6 miles NW. of Stafford, and 143 NW. of London. Market on Friday.

Eccleſton, on the river Dee, S. of Cheſter.

ECCLESTON, a town, 24 miles S. of Lancaſter, communicating with all the late inland navigations.

Eccleſton, Staff. NE. of Leek. Eccleſton, Great and Little, Lanc. in Amoundernefs. Eccleſwall, Heref. 1 mile from Roſs.

ECHELLES, LES, a town in the dept. of Mont Blanc, 10 miles SW. of Chamberry.

ECIJA, or EXIJA, a city of Seville, ſituated on the Xenil.

ECKEREN, a village of Brabant, 5 miles N. of Antwerp.

Eckles, Lanc. W. of Mancheſter. Eckles, Norfolk, on the coaſt, NE. of Hickling. Eckles, Norfolk, N. of Harling. Eckington, Worc. a pariſh between Tewkeſbury and Perſhore.

ECKTERNAC, a town of Luxemburg, ſituated on the Sour.

Ecktou, between Northampton and Wellingborough.

ECYA. See ECIJA.

Edal, Derbyſ. in the High Peak.

EDAM, a town of N. Holland, noted for it's cheeſes, ſeated on the Zuyder Zee, 14 miles NE. of Amſterdam.

Edburton, Bucks, in the Chiltern Hills. Edburton, Suſſex, between Steyning and Lewes. Eddertakers, Durham, near Little Eden and Caſtle Eden. Edderſton, Northumb. on the Warne, NE. of Hebborn. Eddeſley, Shropſ. near Whitchurch. Eddington, Wilts, near Weſtbury. Eddington, Berks, near Hungerford. Eddlethorp, Yorkſ. S. of New Malton.

EDDYSTONE ROCKS, in the Engliſh Channel, ſo called from the great variety of contrary ſets of the tide or current which prevail near them. They are ſituated nearly SSW. from the middle of Plymouth Sound, diſtant from the port about 14 miles, and from Ram Head 12 and a half. As they lie nearly in the direction of veſſels coaſting up and down the Channel, they were very dangerous, and ſhips were ſometimes wrecked on them, before the light-houſe was eſtabliſhed here. They are ſo expoſed to the ſwells of the ocean, from all the ſouth-weſtern points of the compaſs, that the heavy ſeas break on them with inconceivable fury. Sometimes, after a ſtorm, when the ſea is to all appearance perfectly ſmooth, the under current meeting the ſlope of the rocks, the ſea beats upon them in a terrific and magnificent manner, and even riſes above the light-houſe, overtopping it, for the inſtant, with a canopy of frothy wave. The preſent light-houſe is nearly 80 feet high, and has withſtood the moſt violent ſtorms, without ſuſtaining the ſmalleſt injury. It was begun by the late Mr. John Smeaton, Auguſt 2, 1757, and finiſhed Auguſt 24, 1759.

Ede, Devonſ. 2 miles SW. of Exeter. Edeford, Devonſ. NW. of Teignmouth. Eden, a river which riſes in Weſtmorland, on the confines of Yorkſhire, and running N. by Appleby and Carliſle, falls into Solway Frith, 7 miles W. of that city. Eden, and Edenbridge, Kent, W. of Penſhurſt, hurſt, on the borders of Surry. Eden Caſtle, Durham, near the coaſt, NW. of Hartlepool.

*EDENDERRY, a town of King's County, in Leinſter, 29 miles from Dublin.

Edenhall, or Ednall, Cumb. on the Eden, NE. of Penrith. Edenham, Linc. near Grimſthorp. Eden, Little, Durham, N. of Eden Caſtle, and nearer the ſea. Edenſor, Derbyſ. in the High Peak. Edenſtow, Nottinghamſ. in Sherwood Foreſt.

EDENTON, a ſmall town of N. Carolina, well ſituated for trade, on the N. ſide of Albemarle Sound. It is the county-town of Chowan County, and is 72 miles nearly S. of Williamſburg.

Ederney Bridge, in Fermanagh, Ulſter.

EDESSA, or MOGLENA, a town of Macedonia.

Edgcomb, Mount, Devonſ. though on the Corniſh ſide of the Tamar, near Saltaſh, has a ſeat, with a charming view of Plymouth, the winding harbour and ſea below it, as well as of great part of the adjacent country. Edgcot, Bucks, SW. of E. and Middle Claydon. Edge, Cheſh. N. of Malpas. Edge, Glouceſ. in Painſwick pariſh. Edge, Shropſ. between Aſhton Piggot and Shrewſbury. Edge, Shropſh. between Aſhbaſton and Wem. Edgebaſton, Warw. on the Rhea, near Birmingham. Edgecot, Northamp. near Banbury. Edge End, Lanc. near Colne. Edgefield, Norfolk, on the S. ſide of the Holt. Edgehill, Warw. near Kineton, between which places, on the deſcent of the hill, a battle was fought, October 22, 1642, between the armies of King Charles I. and the Parliament. Edgeton, Rutl. SE. of Okeham.

*EDGEWARE, a town of Middleſex, 8 miles NW. of London. Market on Thurſday.

Edgeworth, Glouc. 3 miles from Biſley, and 6 from Cirenceſter.

*EDGEWORTH'S TOWN, in Longford, Leinſter, 51 miles from Dublin.

Edgmond, Shropſ. 2 miles from Newport. Edgton, Shropſ. SE. of Biſhop's Caſtle. Edial, Staff. W. of Lichfield. Edicliff, Shropſ. SE. of Shadwell.

*EDINBURGH, a city, the capital of Scotland, ſituated, in the county to which it gives name, on three hills. It may properly be divided into the Old and New Towns. The ſituation of the Old Town is ſingular and ſtriking: it ſtands on the middle ridge, or hill, which is narrow and ſteep, and terminated abruptly on the W. by the caſtle, a very ancient building, acceſſible only by a draw-bridge, and erected on a lofty, precipitous rock. The High Street, a mile in length, and generally 90 feet broad, extends from the caſtle to Holyrood Houſe. On each ſide of this ſteep hill the houſes form narrow lanes, which are called cloſes, and extend N. and S. Many of them are lofty, being ſo piled, as it were, upon each other, that they are neither commodious nor elegant. The New Town is ſituated on the N. ſide of the Old, on an elevated plain from which the ground deſcends to the S. and N. with a gentle declivity. It forms an aſſemblage of uniform ſtreets and ſquares including ſeveral public buildings, the whole built entirely of ſtone, with conſiderable taſte and elegance. The buildings on the S. ſide of the Old Town, though inferior to thoſe on the N. are extenſive and ſtately. The moſt ſtriking object here, is the New College, building by public ſubſcription, on the ſite of the old one on a large and magnificent plan. The number of ſtudents in the univerſity, is eſtimated at 1000, of whom 400 ſtudy medicine. The city is governed by a lord provoſt, a guild council, and 25 common council. Here are 14 incorporated trades each having it's deacon or warden. The principal public buildings are the palace of Holyrood Houſe, the Royal Exchange, built in 1753, the Regiſter Office, the Phyſicians' Hall, Heriot's Hoſpital, founded in 1628, for the education of 140 poor boys, Watſon's Hoſpital, for the ſons of decayed merchants, an hoſpital for orphans, and a Royal Infirmary, incorporated by charter in 1736. Edinburgh, with it's dependencies, is ſuppoſed to contain 100,000 inhabitants, and is ſupplied with water, conveyed in caſt-iron pipes from Commiſton, 4 miles to the W. It is 2 miles S. of Leith, which is it's port, 54 WNW. of Berwick upon Tweed, and 389 N. by W. of London. Lat. 55. 58. N. lon. 3. 7. W.

EDINBURGHSHIRE, or MID LOTHIAN, a populous, well-cultivated, fertile, and pleaſant county of Scotland, 27 miles in length, and 16 in breadth, but in ſome places not above 6. It is bounded on the N. by the Frith of Forth, which ſeparates it from Fifeſhire; on the E. by the ſhires of Haddington and Berwick; on the S. by thoſe of Selkirk, Peebles, and Lanerk; and on the W. by the ſhire of Linlithgow.

Edingley, Nott. near Southwell. Edingthorp, Norf. between N. Walſham and the ſea. Edington, Somerſetſ. in Morlinch pariſh. Edington, Northumb. SW. of Morpeth. Edifbury Hall, Cheſh. in Delamere Foreſt. Edith Chapel, Cornw. E. of Padſtow ſton Haven. Edweſton, Notting. 6 miles from Mansfield. Edlaſton, Derbyſ. near the Dove, S. of Aſhburn. Edlingball, or Eadingball, Staff. NE. of Lichfield. Edlingham Caſtle, Northumb. near Alnwick. Edington, Lincolnſ. NW. of Horncaſtle. Edington, Yorkſ. W. Riding, near Tickhill. Edifborough, Bucks, near Ivingo. Edmarſh Chapel, Lanc. near Lowland Foreſt. Edmiſton, Devonſ. near Modbury. Edmondbiers, Durh. bordering on Northumberland.

EDMONDSBURY, ST. See BURY.

Edmond's, St. Chapel and Cape, Norf. in the NW. angle of the county. Edmonſham, Dorſetſ. near Cranborne. Edmonſton, Wilts, 5 miles from Sarum. Edmondthorp, Leic. near Poſtwitham. Edmonton, Middleſex, in the Ware road, 7 miles from London. Edmonton Street, Middl. between Tottenham Highcroſs and Ponder's End.

Edram, in Roxburghſhire, near Kelſo.

Edrop, Shropſ. W. of Biſhop's Caſtle. Edſton, or Edſton, Warw. SE. of Henley. Edſton, Yorkſ. NE. of Helmſley. Edwin Lock, Worc. N. of Bromyard. Edſworth, Hants, towards Chicheſter. Edwalton, Nott. near Plomtree. Edward's Hall, Eſſex, near Great Baddow. Edwardſton, Suffolk, N. of Nayland. Edway, a river in Radnorſhire, which runs into the Wye, 4 miles SE. of Builth. Edwith, a river of Monmouthſ. which joins the Uſk at it's mouth. Edworth, Bedf. SE. of Biggleſwade. Edyſar, Derb. in the High Peak.

EFFERDING, a town of Auſtria, 10 miles W. of Lintz.

Effingham, Surry, in the road from Leatherhead to Guildford. Efford, Cornw. near Bude, or Bead's Haven. Efford, or Ebbingford, Devonſ. NE. of Plymouth. Egarton, Kent, in Charing pariſh. Egborough, Yorkſ. W. of Snaith. Egbuckland, Devonſ. W. of Plympton. Egbury, Devonſh. near Hartland Point. Egbury, Hants, NW. of Whitchurch. Egdean, Suſſex.

EGER, or AGRIA, a fortified town of Upper Hungary, ſituated on the Eger, 47 miles NE. of Buda.

Egerley, or Edgley, Shropſ. SE. of Maſbrook. Egerton, Cheſ. near Malpas. Egerton, Kent, in Godmerſham pariſh. Egg, Devonſ. in Branſcomb pariſh.

EGG, an iſland, about 10 miles in circumference, S. of the Iſle of Skye.

Eggcliff, or Eggleſcliff, Durham, on the Tees, oppoſite to Yarum. Eggerdon, N. and S. Dorſetſ. near Aſkerſwell; Eggerdon Hill affords an extenſive proſpect. Eggington, Bedf. near Leighton Buzzard. Eggington, Derbyſ. near the conflux of the Dove and Trent. Eggleſford Park, Devonſ. near Torrington. Eggleſton, N. and S. Dorſetſ. in W. Tineham pariſh. Eggleton, Durham, on the Tees, oppoſite to Rumbaldkirk. Eggeats, Worceſ. in Inkborough pariſh. Egham, Surry, on the Thames, oppoſite to Staines; 3 miles from Windſor. Egham Foſters, Surry, 1 mile S. of Egham. Egisford, Devonſhire, near Chumleigh. Eggleſthorn, Yorkſ. in Holderneſs. Egleſton, Dorſetſ. near the coaſt, between Weymouth and Pool. Egleſton, Lanc NE. of Weſt Darby. Egleſton, or Eggleton, Yorkſ. on the Tees, near Barnard Caſtle. Egletborp, Linc. near Grimſthorp. Egleton, Rutl. in Okeham pariſh. Eglingham, Northumb. between Alnwick and Woller.

Egliſh, in King's County, Leinſter, 60 miles from Dublin. Egliſh, in Tyrone, Ulſter, nearly 76 miles from Dublin.

EGLISAU, a town and bailiwick of Zurich, on the Thur.

Eglorouſe, Cornw. near Port Wrincle. Egloſhale, Cornw. 2 miles from Padſtow. Egloſkerry, or Egleſk, Cornw. near Launceſton. Eglwiſgach, Denbighſ. Eglwiſwrew, Pembrokeſ. Egmanton, Nottingh. S. of Tuxford. Egmer, Norf. NW. of Walſingham.

EGMONT ISLAND, in the S. Pacific Ocean, about 6 miles long, and 4 broad. The land is low and full of trees. Lat. 19. 20. N. lon. 138. 30. W.

EGMONT, a town of Holland, ſituated on the ſea-coaſt, 3 miles SW. of Alkmaer.

Egmont, in Cork, Munſter, 6 miles from the city of Cork.

EGRA, or CHEBBE, a town of Saatz, in Bohemia, noted for it's mineral waters. It is ſeated on the river Eger, 76 miles W. of Prague. Lat. 50. 9. N. lon. 12. 10. E.

EGRA, or EGER, a river of Germany, which riſes in the territory of Culmbach, and runs into the Elbe near Leitmeritz, in Bohemia.

EGREMONT, a town in Cumberland, ſeated on a little river that falls into the ſea near the promontory of St. Bees, 6 miles S. of Whitehaven, and 297 NW. of London. Market on Saturday.

Egton, Lancaſ. in Loynſdale. Egton, Yorkſ. N. Riding, near Giſborough.

EGYPT, a country of Africa, about 500 miles in length, and 160 in breadth. It is bounded on the S. by Nubia; on the W. by the Deſerts of Barca, Fezzan, &c. on the N. by the Mediterranean; and on the E. by the Red Sea and the Iſthmus of Suez. This country, ſo famous in hiſtory, ſeems not to have an extent proportionable to the pompous deſcription which the ancients cients have given of its having contained 20,000 towns, or cities, and ſeveral millions of inhabitants, and of it's ancient kings keeping armies of 300,000 men, and executing thoſe prodigious works, the pyramids, the labyrinth, the immenſe grottos of Thebais; the obeliſks, temples, and pompous palaces; the Lake Mœris, and the vaſt canals, &c. but when we conſider the amazing fertility of the ſoil, enriched, as it has always been, by the overflowing of the Nile, and it's high ſtate of cultivation, theſe accounts ſeem more probable. Egypt has been ever noted for it's plenty of corn; and when the dearth was in all lands in the days of Jacob, in the land of Egypt there was bread; and all countries ſent thither to buy corn. Except in our winter months, the heat is oppreſſive to all who are not accuſtomed to it, and they are generally viſited by the plague about once in ſeven years. The winds are ſometimes of ſuch extreme heat and aridity, that their influence proves mortal. During the time they laſt, the ſtreets are deſerted, and the inhabitants are almoſt blinded by drifts of ſand, which are ſo ſubtile, that they inſinuate themſelves into the cloſets and cabinets. No country in the world is better furniſhed with corn, rice, fleſh, fiſh, ſugar, fruits, and vegetables than Egypt. It is divided into the Upper, Middle, and Lower, which laſt comprehends the Delta, which produces oranges, lemons, figs, dates, almonds, caſſia, and plantains, in great plenty. The animals found in Egypt are tygers, hyenas, antelopes, apes with the head like a dog's: camels, black cattle, fine horſes, and large aſſes, crocodiles, the hippopotamus, or river horſe, the cameleon, the ichneumon; oſtriches, eagles, hawks, pelicans, water-fowl of various kinds, with the ibis, which reſembles a duck, and was deified by the ancient Egyptians, on account of it's deſtroying ſerpents and noxious inſects. They have a ſerpent here, called the ceraſtes, or horned viper, the bite of which is mortal to thoſe who have not the ſecret of guarding againſt it. The practice of charming, alluded to in Pſal. lviii. 4, 5, Eccleſ. x. 11, and Jerem. viii. 7, appears to prevail here till this day; for ſome of the natives can play with the ceraſtes, which to them is perfectly harmleſs, but when applied to a hen, or any other animal, it bites and inſtantly kills it. Since Egypt has been under the dominion of the Turks, it has been governed by a baſhaw, who reſides at Cairo. Under him are inferior governors in the ſeveral parts of the country. Thoſe in Upper Egypt are generally Arabs, who pay tribute to the Grand Signior, and make preſents to the baſhaw, governing deſpotically, and making war with each other: beſides theſe there are ſhieks, who preſide over particular places, and are maſters of a few villages. The preſent population of Egypt is computed at 2,300,000. The inhabitants are compoſed of four different races of people; the Turks; the Arabs; the Cophts, who are deſcended from the firſt Egyptians, which became Chriſtians; and the Mamlouks, who were originally Circaſſian and Mingrelian ſlaves, and being the only military force, are the real maſters of the country. The governors of the country are Mahometans, but the Cophts, and Greeks, and Latins, are Chriſtians of different ſects; and in the great towns there are numbers of Jews. A conſiderable trade was carried on here in E. India commodities, till the Portugueſe found the way to Aſia round the Cape of Good Hope. However, the merchants of Europe viſit the harbours in the Mediterranean, and import and export ſeveral ſorts of merchandiſe; and, from other parts, the natives get elephants' teeth, gold-duſt, muſk, civet, ambergris, and coffee. The gold-duſt is brought from Negroland to Fez and Morocco, and thence to Cairo in caravans, over immenſe deſerts. The commodities which the merchants purchaſe here, are coffee, ſenna, caſſia, rhubarb, ſal ammoniac, myrrh, ſaffron, ſalt-petre, aloes opium, indigo, ſugar, ſandalwood, dates cotton, cloth, &c. The largeſt of the pyramids takes up ten acres of ground, and is, as well as the others, built upon a rock The external part is chiefly of large ſquare ſtones, of unequal ſizes, and the height of it about 700 feet: within theſe, and in their vicinity, are catacombs, wherein are mummies, or embalmed dead bodies, which are three or four thouſand years old. The complexion of the Egyptians is tawny, and the farther S. the darker, inſomuch that thoſe on the confines of Nubia are almoſt black. They are moſtly an indolent people, eſpecially the richer ſort, who ſpend much of the day in drinking coffee, ſmoking tobacco, and ſleeping; and theſe are ſaid to be ignorant, proud, and ridiculouſly vain. The principal city is Cairo

EGYPTEN, a town of Courland.

Ebam, Derbyſ. on the N. Peak.

EHINGEN, a town of Auſtrian Suabia 12 miles SW. of Ulm; and EHINGEN, or EBINGEN, a town of Wurtemburg, 36 miles S. of Stutgard.

Eic, a river in Leiceſterſ. which runs into the Wrekin near Bremin Bridge.

EIDER, a river of Denmark, which, in a great part of it's courſe, divides the duchy of Sleſwick from Holſtein, and falls into the German Ocean about 12 miles WSW. of Lunden.

EIFELD, or ELFELD, a town of Mentz.

Eight Mile Bridge, in Down, Ulſter, 55 miles from Dublin.

Eiken, Suffolk, W. of Aldborough.

Eiſtel-by, Leiceſ. near Melton Mowbray.

EIMBECK, a town of Grubenhagen, in Lower Saxony, ſituated on the Ilmen. It is the chief place for manufactures in the whole principality.

EIMEO, one of the Society Iſlands, in the S. Pacific Ocean, about 4 leagues W. from the NW. part of Otaheite. It is almoſt wholly ſurrounded with rocks, and it's ſteep, rugged hills are covered with trees almoſt to their tops.

EISFELD, a country in the electorate of Mentz, divided, by mountains, into Upper and Lower; the Upper part is cold and mountainous; the latter flat, warm, and fertile. The principal towns are Heiligenſtadt, Duderſtadt, and Stadtworbis.

EISLEBEN, a town, formerly capital of a county of the ſame name, in Mansfeld, Upper Saxony. Martin Luther, the celebrated reformer, was born and died in this town.

EISENACH, a town and mountainous diſtrict of Thuringia, in Upper Saxony, with a celebrated college, a ſeminary for divinity, and an orphan-houſe. It is ſituated on the Neſſe, 26 miles WSW. of Erfurt.

EITDEVET, an ancient town of Morocco, noted for it's ſchools.

Eithan, or Ythan, a river of Aberdeenſhire, which falls into the German Ocean, about 22 miles NE. of Aberdeen.

EKATERINGBURG, a town, capital of a province of Ruſſia, 148 miles SE. of Perm.

EKATERINGBURG, a province of Ruſſia, in the government of Perm, about 360 miles long, and from 100 to 160 broad.

EKERFORD, or ECKELNFOHREDE, a town of Sleſwick.

Ekington, Derb. NE. of Dronfield, near Crawloc. Ekington, Worc. near Perſhore. Eland, a river in Radnorſ. which runs into the Clarwen, on the borders of Cardiganſhire. Eland Hall, Yorkſh. 2 miles from Halifax, has a bridge over the Calder. Eland Hall, Northumb. near Pont Eland. Elaſton, or Glaſton, Staff. on the Dove, near Cheadle. Elay, a river of Glamorganſ. which runs into the Briſtol Channel near Penrith Point.

ELBA, an iſland on the coaſt of Tuſcany, about 8 miles in length, and 2 in breadth. It contains mines of iron and loadſtone, and quarries of marble, and is ſubject to the Grand Duke.

ELBASSANO, a town of Turkiſh Albania, 45 miles SE. of Durazzo.

ELBE, a large river of Germany, which riſes in the SE. part of Jauer, in Sileſia, takes a ſoutherly courſe through part of Bohemia, and turning NW. it enters Saxony and Brandenburg, paſſing by Pirna, Dreſden, Magdeburg, &c. and divides Lunenburg from Mecklenburg, and Bremen from Holſtein. It then paſſes on to Hamburg and Gluckſtadt, and falls into the German Ocean, in about lat. 54. 3. N.

ELBERTON, a town of Georgia, in N. America.

Elberton, Glouc. 11 miles from Briſtol.

ELBEUF, a town in the dept. of Lower Seine. It has a manufacture of cloth, and is ſeated on the Seine, 10 miles S. of Rouen.

ELBING, or ELBLANG, a populous ſea-port town of W. Pruſſia, in the palatinate of Marienburg. It is a place of conſiderable trade, and is ſituated on a river of the ſame name, near the Friſche Haffe, 30 miles SE. of Dantzick. Lat. 54. 9. N. lon. 19. 35. E.

ELBOGEN, a circle of Bohemia, with it's capital on the river Eger.

ELBURG, a town of Dutch Guelderland, ſituated on the E. coaſt of the Zuyder Zee, 34 miles NNE. of Utrecht.

Elburg, Glouc. in Brookworth pariſh.

ELCATIF, a ſea-port of Arabia, ſituated on the W. coaſt of the Gulf of Perſia, 300 miles S. of Buſſarah.

ELCHE, a town of Valencia, ſuppoſed, from it's magnificent ruins, to be the ancient ILICI; and a town of New Caſtile.

Elden, Norfolk, near Thetford. Elden Hole, Derbyſ. one of the wonders of the Peak; endeavours have been long made to find the bottom, but in vain. Eldernal, Camb. near Thorney Iſle. Eldes, Northumb. between Kirk Haugh and Fetherſton Haugh. Elden, Durh. SE. of Biſhop Aukland. Elderfield, Worceſ. a pariſh about 10 miles in circuit, between Ridmerley and Tewkeſbury. Elemere, Yorkſh. N. Riding, near the Swale, and nearly oppoſite to Cundall.

Elenborough, in Down, Ulſter, at the mouth of the river Elen.

Elenhall, Staffordſ. near Eccleſhall.

ELEPHANTA, or GALI POURI, a ſmall iſland on the W. coaſt of Hindooſtan, about 5 miles from Bombay, and inhabited by about 100 poor Indian families. It contains one of the moſt ſtupendous antiquities tiquities in the world. The figure of an elephant, of the natural ſize, cut coarſely in black ſtone, appears in an open plain, near the landing place, from which an eaſy ſlope leads to a ſtupendous ſubterranean temple, hewn out of the ſolid rock, 80 or 90 feet long, and 40 broad. The roof, which is cut flat, is ſupported by regular rows of pillars, about 10 feet high, with capitals reſembling round cuſhions, and at the farther end of it are three gigantic figures, mutilated by the abſurd zeal of the Portugueſe, when this iſland was in their poſſeſſion. Mr. Groſe judges this immenſe excavation to be a bolder work than that of the pyramids of Egypt; and Major Rennel thinks this, and a ſubterranean temple in the adjacent iſle of Salſette, to be monuments of a ſuperſtition anterior to that of the Hindoos. This iſland has been ceded to the Engliſh by the Mahrattas.

Elford, Oxf. NE. of Brampton. Elford, Northumb. S. of Bamburgh Caſtle. Elford, Hants, near Lymington. Elford, Staffordſ. on the Tame, 3 miles from Lichfield.

*ELGIN, the county-town of Elgin or Murrayſhire, in Scotland. Here are many large, old buildings, erected over piazzas, and the ruins of its old cathedral ſhew it to have been once a magnificent ſtructure. It is ſituated near the river Loſſie, 5 miles from the mouth of Murray Frith, and 30 NNE. of Inverneſs.

ELGINSHIRE. See MURRAYSHIRE.

ELHAM, a ſmall town in Kent, ſituated on the Leſſer Stour, nearly between Wye and Hythe, 10 miles S. of Canterbury, and 67 ESE. of London. Market on Monday.

Elling, Lancaſh. between Garſtang and Lancaſter. Eling, Hants, at the bottom of Southampton Bay, Eling, Great and Little, Middl. near Brentford; in Great Eling are many handſome villas. Elingdon, or Wroughton, Wilts, SE. of Wooton Baſſet. Elinworth Chapel, Yorkſ. NW. of Halifax. Elis, Northumb. NW. of Dala Caſtle.

ELIZABETH, a town of Pennſylvania, one of the oldeſt towns in the State of New Jerſey; and a county of Virginia.

ELIZABETH'S ISLANDS, ſmall iſlands on the S. coaſt of Maſſachuſet's Bay, between Martha's Vineyard and the continent.

Eliſhaw, Northumb. near Skirnwood. Elkeſley, or Elſley, Nottinghamſ. SE. of Worksop.

ELKHOLM, a ſea-port town of Blekingen, in Sweden, ſeated on the Baltic, miles W. of Carleſcroon.

Elkington, N. and S. Linc. near Louth. Elkſtone, 10 miles E. from Glouceſter.

ELKTON, a town of Maryland, well ſituated for trade, on a ſmall river of the ſame name, near the head of Cheſapeak Bay, 37 miles SW. of Philadelphia.

ELLEN, a town of Juliers.

Ellen, a river in Cumberland. Ellenborough, Cumberl. near Maryport: it was formerly a Roman ſtation. Ellenha Staffordſh. near Eccleſhall. Ellenfoot; near Maryport, Ellen Money, in Down, Ulſter, a ſpring or bog, on the ſummit level of the canal between Newry and Lough Neagh.

Ellerbeck, Yorkſh. near Northallerton. Ellerborn, Yorkſh. N. Riding, NE. of Pickering. Ellerbye, Yorkſ. N. Riding, near Moulgrave Caſtle.

ELLERENA, a town of Spaniſh Eſtremadura, belonging to the knights of St. Jago, by whom it was founded; and a town of Mexico.

Ellerker, Yorkſ. between North Cave and the Humber. Ellerton, Shropſ. between Egbaſton and Eaton. Ellerton, York E. Riding, 4 miles from Pocklington. Ellerton, Yorkſ. N. Riding, N. of the Swale, near Catterick Bridge. Ellesborough, Bucks, near Monk's and Prince's Riſborough.

ELLESDON, a ſmall town of Northumberland, 28 miles NW. of Newcaſtle Market neglected.

*ELLESMERE, a town of Shropſhire ſeated on a large mere, famous for fiſh, in a ſmall but fertile diſtrict of the ſame name 16 miles NNW. of Shrewſbury, and 17 NW. of London. Market on Tueſday.

ELLICHPOUR, a city and circar in the W. part of Berar, ſubject to the Nizam of the Deccan. It is 140 miles NE. of Aurungabad. Lat. 21. 12. N. lon. 78. 8. E.

Ellingburgh, Lancaſ. between Leigh and Bury. Ellingham, Hants, N. of Ringwood. Ellingham, Northumb. SW. of Sunderland. Ellingham, Norf. W. of Beccles, in Suffolk. Ellingham, Norfolk, SW. of Attleborough. Ellingham, Norf. SW. of Hingham. Ellingſtring Moor, Yorkſ. N. Riding, in the manor of Maſham. Ellington, Yorkſ. N. Riding. NW. of Maſham. Ellington, Hunting. near Silthorp. Ellington, Norf. SW. of Buckenham. Elliſley, or Elſley, Camb. near St. Neot's. Ellough-ton, Yorkſ. near Ferriby. Ellow, Suff. S. of Beccles. Elmbridge, Worceſt. SW. of Bromſgrove. Elme, Camb. SE. of Wiſbeach. Elme, Somerſetſ. NW. of Frome.

ELMI,

ELMO, ST. a formidable caſtle of the Iſle of Malta, ſeated on a rock near the city of Valetta, at the mouth of and between two excellent harbours.

Elmeden, Durh. near Butterwick. Elmeden, Eſſex, W. of Wakden. Elmedon, Warw. between Solihull and Coleſhill. Elmley, Kent, in the Iſle of Sheppey. Elmley, Yorkſ. W. Riding, E. of Hutheſfield. Elmore Vaxter, Monm. near Uſk. Elmerſham, Bedfordſ. near the Ouſe, oppoſite to Sharnbrook. Elmerton, Norf. SW. of Cromer. Elmeſhall, N. and S. Yorkſh. W. Riding, NE. of Barneſley. Elmeſet, Suff. N. of Hadley. Elmeſtead, Kent, near Canterbury. Elmeſtead, Kent, W. of Elham. Elmeſthorp, Leiceſterſh. NE. of Hinckley. Elmeſton, Glouc. between Cheltenham and Tewkeſbury. Elmeſtan, Kent, SW. of Thanet Iſle. Elmeſwell, Suff. NE. of Wulpet. Elmeſworth, in W. Medina, Iſle of Wight. Elmeton, Derb. NE. of Belſover. Elmham, North, Norf. SW. of Repeham. Elmham, South, Suffolk, SW. of Bungay. Elmhurſt, Staff. near Lichfield. Elmington, Glouc. in Henbury pariſh. Elmley Caſtle, and Elmley Lovel, Worceſ. the one on Breedon Hills, the other between them and Evſham. Elmore, on the Severn, 4 miles SW. of Gloucester. Elmſted, Eſſex, E. of Colcheſter. Elmſton, Glouc. 4 miles NW. of Cheltenham. Elmſtree, Glouceſ. near Tetbury.

ELORA. See DOWLATABAD.

ELPHIN, a town of Roſcommon, in Connaught, only noted for the biſhop's palace, which is near the town. It is 75 miles NW. of Dublin.

Elſborough, Bucks, near Wendover, Elſham, Eſſex, neas Broxted. Elſfield, NE. of Oxford. Elſhaw, Linc. NE. of Gainſford Bridge.

ELSINGBURG, a ſea-port town of Schonen, in Sweden, with ſome manufactures of ribbons, hats, and boots. Here is a ferry, acroſs the Sound, to Denmark. It is ſituated on the coaſt of the Sound, 7 miles E. of, and oppoſite Elſinore. Lat. 56. 6. N. lon. 12. 40. E.

Elſing, Norf. NE. of Dereham.

ELSINORE, a ſea-port town of Denmark, ſeated on the Sound, in the Iſland of Zealand. Many foreign merchants, and the conſuls of the principal nations which trade to the Baltic, reſide here. Veſſels, paſſing through the Sound, pay a toll to the king of Denmark, which, with thoſe of the two belts, ſupply an annual revenue of above 100,000l.; and, in return, he takes the charge of conſtructing light-houſes, and erecting ſignals, to mark the ſhoals and rocks, from the Categate to the entrance into the Baltic. Lat. 56. 2. N. lon. 12. 37. E.

Elſtake, Yorkſh. W. Riding, SW. of Skipton, Elſted, Surrey, W. of Godalmin. Elſted, Suſſex, SW. of Midhurſt. Elſtob, Durham, SW. of Sedgfield. Elſton, Nott. between Bingham and Newark. Elſton, Glouc. between Granham and Chedworth. Elſton, Wilts, NW. of Stonehenge. Elſton, near Leiceſter. Elſton, Lancaſ. in Amounderneſs. Elſton, Shropſ. W. of Elleſmere. Elſton's Bridge, Heref. near the conflux of the Doyer and Munno. Elſtow, near Bedford. Elſtree, Hert, 1 mile from Stanmore. Elſwick, Northumb. oppoſite to Farne Iſland. Elſwick, Northumb. W. of Newcaſtle. Elſwick, Lanc. N. of Kirkham. Elſworth, Camb. near Papworth. Eltham, Kent, 8 miles ESE. of London, between Brouchy and the Thames. Here was formerly a royal palace, built by King Edward I. where Edward II. chiefly reſided, and where John of Eltham, his ſon, was born. It's ſtately hall, the ſcene of many a feſtival, celebrated here with great pomp, is ſtill in tolerable preſervation, but has long been converted into a barn.

ELTMAN, a town of Wurtſburg, in Franconia.

Elton, Huntingd. with it's Hall, Mill, and Park. NE. of the Nen, near Fotheringhay Caſtle. Elton, Glouceſ. in Weſtbury pariſh. Elton, Nott. E. of Bingham. Elton, Cheſhire, between Delamere Foreſt and the Merſey. Elton, Derb. N. of Aldwark. Elton, Durh. SW. of Stockton. Elton, Herts, between Wigmore and Richard's Caſtles. Elton, Hunt. near Stilton.

ELTOR, or TOR, a town of Arabia, ſituated on the Red Sea, 50 miles S. of Mount Sinai.

Eltringham, Northumb. near Pruddo.

ELTZ, a town of Hildeſheim, in Lower Saxony.

ELVAS, a city of Alentejo, containing, beſides the cathedral, 3 pariſh churches, 4 hoſpitals, and 7 convents, with an academy, founded in 1733. Here is a ciſtern ſo large, that it will hold water enough to ſupply the town for ſix months. It is brought by an aqueduct three miles in length. Elvas is ſeated near the river Guadiana, 47 miles NE. of Evora, and 104 E. of Liſbon.

Elvaſton, Derbyſ. near the fall of the Derwent into the Trent. Elvedon, Suff. W. of Thetford. Elvetham, Hants, near Hartford Bridge. Elvington, SE. of York.

ELWANGEN, a town and diſtrict of Suabia, bordering on the duchy of Wurtemburg. The former is ſeated on the river Jaxt, 32 miles N. of Ulm.

Elwell, Dorſetſ. N. of Upway. Elwick, Durham, SW. of Hartlepool. Elworth, E. and W. near Abbotſbury. Elworthy, Somerſetſ. SW. of Stokegomer. Elwy, Northumb. in Woller lordſhip. Elwy, ſee Elay. Elwy, or Elny, a river of Denb. which runs into the Clwyd at St. Aſaph.

*ELY, an ancient city of Cambridgeſhire, neither populous (the inhabitants being about 2500) nor beautiful, and chiefly noted for it's minſter, or cathedral, which has a ſtately lanthorn, ſeen at a vaſt diſtance, but which ſeems to totter with every blaſt of wind. It has but one good ſtreet, well paved, the reſt being unpaved, and miſerably dirty. The biſhops have all the rights of Counts Palatine, which alſo they had through the whole Iſle of Ely, till the reign of Henry VIII. Ely is completely ſubordinate to the biſhop in it's civil government, and is the only city in England unrepreſented in parliament. It is ſeated on a riſing ground, near the river Ouſe, and other ſtreams, the former of which is navigable to Lynn, and by which it carries on a pretty good trade, in a ſoil particularly famous for producing large quantities of ſtrawberries, greens, and other garden ſtuff; 17 miles N. of Cambridge, and 68 N. of London. Market on Saturday.

ELY, ISLE OF. See CAMBRIDGESHIRE.

Ely, Glamorganſhire.

EMBDEN, a large, ſtrong, commercial town, of Pruſſian Weſtphalia, with a good harbour, capital of the county of E. Frieſland. It is divided into three parts, the Old and New Town, and the two ſuburbs. Embden is ſeated near the mouth of the river Embs, 23 miles NE. of Groningen. Lat. 53. 26. N. lon. 7. 20. E.

Ember Court, Surry, by Thames Ditton. Embhams, Surry, near Whitley Park and Shottover Hill. Embleton, or Ernbhams, Cumberl. SE. of Cockermouth.

Embo, a village near Brora, on the E. coaſt of Sutherlandſhire.

EMBOLY, a decayed town of Romania.

EMBRUN, a city in the dept. of the Upper Alps, containing 5 pariſhes, and about 12,000 inhabitants. It is ſeated on a craggy hill, near the river Durance, 17 miles E. of Gap.

EMBS, a river of Weſtphalia, which riſes in the county of Paderborn, paſſes through Munſter and E. Frieſland, and falls into the German Ocean a little below Embden.

EMESA, a town in the pachalic of D maſcus.

Emildon, Northumb. near Bamborou Caſtle. Emington, Oxf. SE. of Thar Emley, Suſſex, near the Iſle of Selſey.

Emly, in Tipperary, Munſter, 14 mi W. of Caſhel.

Emmergreen, Dorſetſhire.

EMMERICK, a town in the duchy Cleves, ſeated near the Rhine, 8 miles of Cleves.

Emmerton, Bucks, between Newp and Oulney. Emmet, Lanc. near Tow ley. Emmothills, Northumb. SE. of N haun Caſtle. Emmothough, Northumb. n the crags, in Tinedale. Emmotland, Yor on the river Hull. Emneth, Norfolk, I tween Downham and Wiſbeach.

Emo*, in Queen's County, Leinſ between Monaſtereven and Mountmellic 34 miles from Dublin.

Emphingham, Rutland, between Bu leigh on the Hill and Thickencote.

EMPOLI, a town of Tuſcany.

Empor, in Weſt Meath, Leinſter.

Empſhot, Hants, near the road fr Alton to Petersfield. Emſaugh, Cum on the S. Tyne, near Gargill. Emſc NE. of Warwick. Emſey, or Emſha Yorkſ. W. Riding, near Skipton. Em tree, Shropſ. SE. of Shrewſbury. Emſuc Yorkſhire, E. Riding, SW. of Kilha Emſworth, Suſſex, near Eaſtbourn.

Emy Vale, in Monaghan, Ulſter. Enag in Clare, Munſter.

Enborough, Somerſetſ. near Mendip a Benager. Embourn, E. and W. Berk near Newbury, are famous to all ages t the whimſical cuſtom of the Manor. C the death of a copyhold tenant, the widc is to enjoy her free bench, in all his cop hold lands, dum ſola & caſta fuerit; b if ſhe commit incontinency, ſhe forfeits h widow's eſtate; yet, after this, if ſhe w come into the next court held for the m nor, riding backwards on a black ran and repeat the following formula, t ſteward is bound, by the cuſtom, to adm her to her free bench.

'Here I am,
'Riding upon a black ram,
'Like a Whore as I am;
'And for my crincum crancum.
'Have loſt my bincum bancum;
'And for my tail's gume,
'Have done this worldly ſhame;
'Wherefore, I pray you, Mr. Steward let me have my lands again.'

Enbycb-worth, Yorkſ. W. Riding, SW of Barneſley.

ENCHUYSEN, a ſea-port of Holland with a good trade, particularly in ſalt fiſh

References to the Counties
1 Cornwall
2 Devonshire
3 Dorsetshire
4 Somersetshire
5 Wiltshire
6 Hampshire
7 Sussex
8 Kent
9 Surry
10 Berkshire
11 Gloucestershire
12 Oxfordshire
13 Buckinghamshire
14 Middlesex
15 Bedfordshire
16 Hartfordshire
17 Essex
18 Suffolk
19 Norfolk
20 Cambridgeshire
21 Huntingdonshire
22 Northamptonshire
23 Warwickshire
24 Worcestershire
25 Herefordshire
26 Monmouthshire
27 Glamorganshire
28 Brecknockshire
29 Caermarthenshire
30 Pembrokeshire
31 Radnorshire
32 Cardiganshire
33 Montgomeryshire
34 Merionethshire
35 Flintshire
36 Denbighshire
37 Caernarvonshire
38 Angleſea
39 Shropshire
40 Staffordshire
41 Leicestershire
42 Rutlandshire
43 Lincolnshire
44 Nottinghamshire
45 Derbyshire
46 Cheshire
47 Lancashire
48 Yorkshire
49 Westmoreland
50 Durham
51 Cumberland
52 Northumberland
British Statute Miles
NORTH SEA
GERMAN OCEAN
IRELAND ENGLAND WALES
SCOTLAND
NETHERLANDS
FRANCE
Lincoln
Norwich
Yarmouth
Leostoff
Huntingdon
Cambridge
Ipswich
Colchester
Chelmsford
LONDON
Thames R.
Rochester
Canterbury
Dover
Deal Sandwich
Foreland
Margate
Middelburg
Ostend
Newport
Dunkirk
Calais
Boulogne
Dieppe
Eu
Strait of Dover
Hull
Humber R.
Spurn Hd.
Flamborough Hd.
Bridlington
Hornsey
Beverley
Driffield
Malton
Pickering
Whitby
Scarborough
Grimsby
Gainsborough
Sheffield
Doncaster
Wakefield
Leeds
Bradford
Halifax
Rochdale
Manchester
Bolton
Warrington
Liverpool
Chester
Wrexham
Shrewsbury
Ludlow
Worcester
Hereford
Gloucester
Tewkesbury
Cheltenham
Evesham
Stratford
Coventry
Warwick
Birmingham
Wolverhampton
Lichfield
Stafford
Newcastle
Derby
Nottingham
Mansfield
Retford
Boston
Spalding
Grantham
Stamford
Peterborough
Wisbech
Ely
Thetford
Bury Newmarket
Sudbury
Colchester
Harwich
Maldon
Braintree
Dunmow
Saffron Walden
Bishop's Stortford
Hertford
Ware
Hoddesdon
Barnet
Uxbridge
Windsor
Staines
Kingston
Guildford
Godalming
Dorking
Reigate
Tunbridge
Maidstone
Ashford
Romney
Hythe
Sandgate
Folkestone
Canterbury
Faversham
Sittingbourne
Rochester
Gravesend
Dartford
Croydon
Epsom
Kingston
Richmond
Brentford
Hounslow
Chertsey
Egham
Farnham
Alton
Petersfield
Midhurst
Arundel
Chichester
Bognor
Portsmouth
Gosport
Southampton
Lymington
Ringwood
Christchurch
Poole
Wareham
Dorchester
Weymouth
Bridport
Lyme
Axminster
Honiton
Exeter
Crediton
Tiverton
Barnstaple
Bideford
Ilfracombe
Taunton
Bridgwater
Wells
Glastonbury
Shepton Mallet
Frome
Warminster
Salisbury
Andover
Basingstoke
Reading
Henley
Wallingford
Abingdon
Oxford
Woodstock
Banbury
Daventry
Northampton
Towcester
Brackley
Buckingham
Aylesbury
Amersham
Chesham
Watford
St. Albans
Hatfield
Hitchin
Baldock
Royston
Biggleswade
Bedford
Olney
Newport Pagnell
Wellingborough
Kettering
Thrapston
Oundle
Stamford
Uppingham
Oakham
Melton Mowbray
Loughborough
Leicester
Hinckley
Atherstone
Tamworth
Lutterworth
Rugby
Nuneaton
Bromsgrove
Kidderminster
Stourbridge
Dudley
Walsall
Cannock
Uttoxeter
Ashbourne
Matlock
Chesterfield
Worksop
Tickhill
Doncaster
Pontefract
Wakefield
Huddersfield
Dewsbury
Otley
Skipton
Settle
Clitheroe
Preston
Wigan
Ormskirk
Southport
Blackburn
Bolton
Bury
Rochdale
Oldham
Ashton
Stockport
Macclesfield
Congleton
Nantwich
Whitchurch
Ellesmere
Oswestry
Shrewsbury
Bridgnorth
Kidderminster
Worcester
Pershore
Evesham
Tewkesbury
Gloucester
Cirencester
Fairford
Lechlade
Abingdon
Wantage
Faringdon
Swindon
Marlborough
Devizes
Trowbridge
Bradford
Frome
Shepton Mallet
Wells
Glastonbury
Bridgwater
Taunton
Wellington
Tiverton
Crediton
Exeter
Honiton
Axminster
Lyme
Bridport
Dorchester
Weymouth
Poole
Christchurch
Ringwood
Lymington
Southampton
Gosport
Portsmouth
Chichester
Bognor
Arundel
Midhurst
Petersfield
Alton
Farnham
Basingstoke
Andover
Salisbury
Warminster
Reading
Henley
Wallingford
Abingdon
Oxford
Woodstock
Banbury
Daventry
Northampton
Towcester
Brackley
Buckingham
Aylesbury
Amersham
Chesham
Watford
St. Albans
Hatfield
Hitchin
Baldock
Royston
Biggleswade
Bedford
Olney
Newport Pagnell
Wellingborough
Kettering
Thrapston
Oundle
Stamford
Uppingham
Oakham
Melton Mowbray
Loughborough
Leicester
Hinckley
Atherstone
Tamworth
Lutterworth
Rugby
Nuneaton
Bromsgrove
Kidderminster
Stourbridge
Dudley
Walsall
Cannock
Uttoxeter
Ashbourne
Matlock
Chesterfield
Worksop
Tickhill
Doncaster
Pontefract
Wakefield
Huddersfield
Dewsbury
Otley
Skipton
Settle
Clitheroe
Preston
Wigan
Ormskirk
Southport
Blackburn
Bolton
Bury
Rochdale
Oldham
Ashton
Stockport
Macclesfield
Congleton
Nantwich
Whitchurch
Ellesmere
Oswestry
Shrewsbury
Bridgnorth
East Longitude 5 from London.

It is ſeated on a peninſula formed by the Zuyder Zee, 25 miles NE. of Amſterdam. The harbour was formerly conſiderable, but now it is too much obſtructed with ſand, to permit very large veſſels to enter it.

Encomb, Dorſetſ. near Corfe Caſtle.

ENDEAVOUR RIVER, a river on the NE. coaſt of New Holland, with a bar at it's mouth, and not depth of water enough for veſſels to ſail more than a mile above the bar. Lat. 15. 26 S. lon. 145. 12. E.

ENDEAVOUR STRAIT. See GUINEA, NEW.

Endellion, Cornw. E. of Padſtow Harbour.

Ender, a river of Perthſhire, (formed by the union of ſeveral ſmall ſtreams) which runs into the Garry, 7 miles W. Athol.

Enderby, 4 miles W. of Leiceſter. Enderby, Bagge, Linc. NW. of Spilby. Enderby Malviſh, Linc. SW. of Spilby. Enderſbury, Dorſetſ. near Longham and Canford.

ENDRIOPING, a town of Upland, in Sweden, chiefly conſiſting of wooden houſes, painted, for the moſt part, red. It is ſituated on an inlet of the Lake Meler, on it's northern coaſt, 20 miles SW. of Upſal.

ENDINGEN, a town of Auſtrian Suabia.

Endon, Cornwall, NE. of St. Michael.

Enewood, or Evenwood, Durham, at the head of the river Gauntleſs. Enewood, Weſt, Durh. SW. of Biſhop Aukland.

ENFIELD, (called, in old records, ENFEK, or INFEN, from ſome part of it's parish being fenny, till drained) a town of Middleſex, formerly noted for the tanning of hides, 10 miles N. of London. It's once royal chaſe was diſforeſted by an act of parliament in 1779. Market on Sat.

ENFIELD, a town of Maſſachuſets.

Enfield, Hants, between Rumſey and Wincheſter. Enfield, Surry, SW. of Egham. Enford, Wilts, W. of Everley hare-warren.

ENGADINA, a country of the Griſons, which extends along the banks of the river Inn, from it's ſource to the Tyroleſe. It is divided into Upper and Lower. The Upper, on account of it's elevation, produces paſture, but not ſufficient corn. The Lower is much more fertile.

Engarby, Leiceſterſhire, NW. of Bliſdon. Engaynes, Eſſex, between Great and Little Claxton.

ENGEN, a town of Ravenſburgh, in Weſtphalia.

ENGER SEE, a lake of Carinthia.

Engham, Berks, near Swinford, has a valuable ferry over the Iſis.

ENGHIEN, a town of Hainault, 8 miles ENE. of Aeth.

ENGIA, anciently EGINA, OENONE, and MYRMIDONIA, a town, iſland, and gulf of Turkey, between Livadia and the Morea. The iſland is about 30 miles in circumference.

ENGLAND, the ſouthern, and moſt conſiderable part of the Iſland of Great Britain is bounded on the N. by Scotland; on the E. and NE. by the German Ocean; on the S. by the Engliſh Channel; and on the W. by the principality of Wales, and the Iriſh Channel. It lies between 2 degrees E. and 6 W. longitude, and between 49 and 56 N. latitude. It is of a triangular form. From the Land's End in Cornwall, to Berwick upon Tweed, it is about 425 miles; from Berwick to the S. Foreland in Kent, it's length is about 345 miles, and thence to the Land's End, it's greateſt breadth is 340. The country exhibits a variety of proſpects, varying from the extenſive plain, and gently-riſing uplands, with the intervening vales, and gently-flowing rivers, to the lofty mountains, craggy hills, deep dells, and tumbling torrents. Though in ſome parts there are large barren moors, and wide, uncultivated heaths; on the whole, few countries have a larger proportion of land capable of culture, and there is none where agriculture is better attended to, or, indeed, where it is more neceſſary for the ſubſiſtence of the inhabitants. All the valuable productions, both animal and vegetable, of this country, have been imported at different periods, from the continent, and have been kept up and improved by conſtant attention. Overrun with woods, like the wilds of America, nuts, acorns, crabs, and a few wild berries, form the only vegetable food, which this country formerly afforded. The bear, the wolf, and the wild boar, now totally extirpated, roamed at large in the foreſts, large herds of ſtags ranged through the woods, roebucks bounded over the hills, and wild bulls ranged in the marſhy paſtures. By degrees, the woods were deſtroyed, in order to make way for cultivation, the marſhes were drained, and the wild animals, invaded in their retreats, gradually diſappeared, and their places were ſupplied by the domeſtic kinds. England now poſſeſſes no other wild quadrupeds than ſome of the ſmaller kinds, ſuch as the fox, the wild cat, the badger, the martin, and others of the weaſel kind, the otter, the hedge hog, the hare and rabbit; the ſquirrel, dormouſe, mole, and ſeveral ſpecies of the rat and mouſe. On the other hand, the various kinds of domeſtic animals imported from abroad, have been reared to the greateſt perfection; and the improvements in the vegetable products of this iſland have been no leſs conſiderable. The rigours of winter, as well as the parching heats of ſummer, are felt here in a much leſs degree than in parallel climates on the continent, as the breezes from the ſea temper the ſeverities of the oppoſite ſeaſons; but the changes of weather are generally more frequent and ſudden, while few countries are clothed with ſo beautiful and laſting a verdure. It's ſituation, however, ſo far north, is leſs favourable to the ripening than to the growth of vegetable productions. The harveſts, eſpecially in the northern parts, often ſuffer from the rains, and the fruits fall ſhort of perfect maturity. The richeſt parts of the land are, in general, the middle and ſouthern: extenſive tracts in the northern parts are rather ſteril, and on the eaſtern coaſts, in many parts, the ground is ſandy or marſhy. In the north the country is mountainous, and Cornwall and the adjacent counties contain many rough, hilly tracts; but, in theſe parts, a variety of rich and valuable minerals and metals are found. Conſidered as a corn country, the E. coaſt, from it's ſuperior dryneſs, is favourable to the growth of grain; and the W. coaſt, from the wetneſs of the climate, is better calculated for paſturage. The moſt conſiderable rivers are the Thames, Severn, Medway, Trent, Ouſe, Tyne, Tees, Wear, Merſey, Dee, Avon, Eden, Derwent, &c. The lakes are chiefly in the NW. counties; and thoſe of Weſtmorland and Cumberland, in particular, exhibit varieties of romantic, pictureſque, and grand ſcenery. The river-fiſh, from the populouſneſs of the country, and the number of fiſhers, are, in many parts, much diminiſhed; but the ſea is an inexhauſtible ſource of wealth, and the coaſts are enlivened by numerous inhabitants, who gain their chief ſubſiſtence from the deep. The manufactures and commerce of this country are prodigious, and abſorb almoſt the whole attention of many claſſes of people. The government is a mixture of monarchy, ariſtocracy, and democracy; the legiſlative power reſiding in the king, the houſe of lords, and the houſe of commons, but the executive power is veſted ſolely in the king, who appoints the great officers of ſtate, the judges, and many of even the inferior gradations of magiſtracy. The national church, eſtabliſhment is epiſcopal; the 39 articles are interpreted by the clergy, in general, according to the liberal principles of Arminius, although the 17th article ſtrongly favours of the Calviniſtic creed. The diſſenters are numerous, and of different deſcriptions, but moſt of the rigorous penal laws, which were long in force againſt them, have been repealed.

ENGLAND, NEW, a country of North America, bounded on the W. by New York; on the N. by Canada; on the E. by Nova Scotia and the Atlantic Ocean; and on the S. by the ſame ocean and Long Iſland Sound. It is in many parts hilly; but the country is, notwithſtanding fertile, well cultivated, and populous. It was firſt ſettled by the Puritans, who were driven from England, at different times, by perſecution. The principal productions are wheat, Indian corn, rye, oats, flax, hemp, and garden vegetables. The exports are fiſh, timber, horſes, mules, potaſh, pearl aſh, ſalted beef, &c. The colleges here are in a flouriſhing ſtate. It contains five ſtates, namely, New Hampſhire, Maſſachuſets, Rhode Iſland, Connecticut, and Vermont. The Connecticut, Merrimack, Penobſcot, and Piſcataway, are the principal rivers.

Engleburn, Devonſ. near Totneſs. Englefield, Berkſ. 1 mile NW. of Theal; ſo named from the Danes being routed here by king Ethelwolf. Engleton, Staff. at the influx of Breewood Water into the Penk. Englewood Foreſt, Cumb. formerly about 16 miles in length, and infeſted with wild boars, but now diſforeſted; between Carliſle and Penrith.

ENGLISH TOWN, a town of New Jerſey.

Enham, Hants, NW. of Andover

Enian, a river in Cornwall, running into the Tamer near Brownwally. Eni Cornw near Penryn.

Eniſcrene, in Sligo, Connaught, 13 miles from Dublin.

ENISEI, a river of Siberia, which riſes on the borders of Chineſe Tartary, and taking a northern courſe, runs into the Frozen Ocean, in lat. 72. 20. N. and lon. 82. 0. E.

Eniſkeon, in Cork, Munſter. Eniſki Head, a promontory in Donegal, Ulſter. Lat. 55. 10. N. lon. 8. 34. W. Enimacondy, in Kilkenny, Leinſter.

Enmore, Somerſetſ. near Bridgewater

Ennerdale, Cumb. near Lamplugh. He is one of the lakes, or Broadwaters.

*ENNIS, a large, populous town, Ireland, capital of the county of Clare, Thomond. A village, called Clare, diſtant about 2 miles from Ennis, which is alſo ſometimes called Clare. It is ſit ated on the Fergus, which is navigable for large boats to the Shannon, and adds greatly to the trade of the town, 17 miles NW. of Limerick, and 112 SW. of Dublin.

at

*ENNISCORTHY, a market town of Wexford, in Leinſter, with a manufacture of coarſe woollen cloth, and ſome conſiderable iron works. It is 10 miles N. of Wexford, and 59 S. of Dublin.

Enniſfallen Iſland, in Kerry, Munſter, a beautiful iſle, in Killarney Lake, where the tourifts generally dine, in a hall fitted out of one of the aiſles belonging to an ancient abbey, now in ruins. Eniſkeed Church, in Donegal, Ulſter. Eniſkerry, a village in Wicklow, Leinſter, about 10 miles from Dublin, on the road to the Dargle. Eniſterry, the name of two iſlands on the coaſt of Clare, Munſter. They are ſituated near the Bay of Kilmurry, in lat. 52. 40. N. and lon. 9. 37. W.

*ENNISKILLEN, a market town of Fermanagh, in Ulſter, with a flouriſhing manufacture of linen. It is pleaſantly ſeated on an iſland, in a narrow ſtrait between the two parts of Lough Erne, 24 miles SE. of Ballyſhannon, and 79 NW. of Dublin.

ENO, or ENOS, a town and gulf of Romania, NW. of Gallipoli.

ENS, a river of Germany, which riſes in the archbiſhopric of Saltzburg, about 10 miles W. of Raſtadt, and runs into the Danube at Ens.

ENS, a town in the archduchy of Auſtria, ſituated at the confluence of the Danube and the Ens, 42 miles ESE. of Paſſau. It is well built and ſtrongly fortified.

ENSISHEIM, a town in the dept. of the Upper Rhine, ſeated on the river Ill, 10 miles S. of Briſac.

Enſon, Shropſ. near Monford Bridge.

Enſton*, or Neat Enſton, Oxf. SE. of Chipping Norton.

Enſton, NE. of Stafford. Enton, Surry, SE. of Godalmin.

ENTRAIGUES, a town in the dept of the Aveiron, 18 miles N. of Rhodez; and a town in the dept. of the Iſere, 20 miles SE. of Grenoble.

ENTREÇASTEAUX, a town in the dept. of the Var, 10 miles E. of Barjols.

ENTRE DUERO E MINHO, a province of Portugal, W. of Tra los Montes, and S. of Galicia, a province of Spain. It is about 60 miles in length, and 37 in breadth. It is divided into 6 juriſdictions, which contain 1460 churches, 963 pariſhes, 1130 convents, and about 504,000 inhabitants. The air is pure and healthy, and the ſoil is fertile, producing corn, wine, oil, and flax in abundance; alſo feeding great numbers of ſheep, and there is plenty of fiſh and game. Braga is the capital.

Ent-wiſle, Lanc. near Bury. Enwilde, Staff. 3 miles from Stourbridge. Enworth, Glouc. in Haſleton pariſh.

EOOA, one of the Friendly Iſlands, rich, fertile, and affording beautiful proſpects from the ſea. The uplands exhibit groves of fine trees, interſperſed at irregular diſtances, in beautiful diſorder. The country near the ſhores is covered with fruit and other trees, among which are the habitation of the natives. This iſland was named Middleburg by Taſman, who diſcovered it in 1643. It is ſituated in about lat. 21. 24. S. lon. 174. 30. W.

Epald Bay, Kent, W. of Margate Bay. Epallets, Pallets, or Hippolets, Herts, 1 mile S. of Hitchin.

EBERIES, or ESPERIES, a town of N. Hungary, remarkable for it's mines of ſalt. It is 20 miles N. of Caſchau.

EPERNAY, a town in the dept. of Marne, celebrated for it's excellent wines and manufactures of cloth. It is 16 miles S. of Rheims.

EPERNON, a town in the dept. of Eure and Loire, 12 miles NE. of Chartres.

Epperſton, Nott. 1 mile from Sherwood Foreſt, and 2 from the Trent.

EPHESUS, anciently a celebrated city of Ionia, in Aſia Minor, and the capital of the Roman dominions in Aſia. Here was the famous temple of Diana, which the ancient Chriſtians afterwards converted into a place of public worſhip; but it is now ſo entirely ruined, that it is difficult to find the ground plot; however, there are ſome ruins of the walls, and five or ſix marble columns, all of a piece, 40 feet in length, and 7 in diameter. It is now called Ajaſalouc, and has ſtill ſome magnificent and curious remains of it's former ſplendour. The fortreſs ſeems to be the work of the Greek emperors. The only inhabitants are a few Greek families, who have reared huts among the ruins, to ſhelter themſelves from the weather, and who are ſo illiterate, as to be unable to read, in it's original language, the Epiſtle of Paul to their anceſtors, the Epheſians. It is ſeated at the mouth of the Caſtrus, and has ſtill a good harbour, 40 miles nearly S. of Smyrna. Lat. 37. 52. N. lon. 27. 42. E.

EPINAL, a town in the dept. of Voſges, noted for it's paper-mills. It is ſeated on the river Moſelle, 35 miles SE. of Nanci.

EPIRE, or EPIRUS, an ancient kingdom of Greece, now united with Albania, of which it forms the ſouthern part, extending from Valona to Arta.

Epiton, Suſſex, near Haſtings. Epney, Glouc. in Moreton Valence pariſh.

* EPPING, a town of Eſſex, 17 miles N. by E. of London. Great quantities of excellent butter are made in it's neighbourhood. It's foreſt, which is a royal chaſe, and reaches from the town almoſt to London, was anciently called the Foreſt of Eſſex, and afterwards of Waltham. Markets on Thurſday for cattle, and on Friday for proviſions.

EPPING FOREST, in the SW. of Eſſex, formerly very extenſive. In various parts of it, handſome villas are erected; and, in particular, a noble one at Wanſtead.

EPPING, a town of New Hampſhire.

EPPINGEN, a town in the palatinate of the Rhine, ſituated on the Elſatz.

Eppleby, Yorkſ. W. of Darlington. Eppleton, 5 miles from Durham.

*EPSOM, a town of Surry, once celebrated for it's mineral waters, of a purgative quality, and the ſalts produced from them. The orchards, gardens, &c. in and about it, give it a charmingly rural appearance. It is 15 miles SW. by S. of London. Market on Friday.

Epwell, Oxf. W. of Banbury.

EPWORTH, a long, ſtraggling town of Lincolnſhire, in the Iſle of Axholm, with a manufacture of ſacking, 8 miles N. of Gainſborough, and 166 from London. Market on Saturday.

ERBACH, a mountainous principality of Franconia, about 21 miles long and 18 wide. The inhabitants, who are about 24,000, are chiefly Lutherans. Alſo a town in Franconia, capital of the abovementioned county; and a town in the electorate of Mentz, ſituated on the Rhine.

Ercol Caſtle, 5 miles from Shrewſbury. Ercol Child's, Shropſ. NW. of Newport. Erdburrow, Leiceſ. near Burrow. Erdington, Warw. near the Tame, between Birmingham and Sutton Colefield. Erdſhaw, Cheſhire, two miles from Middlewich.

ERFORT, a large, but thinly peopled town of Thuringia, in Upper Saxony, with an univerſity, ſubject to the elector of Mentz. It's territory comprehends 2 towns and 73 villages, the inhabitants of which are at ſo ſmall a diſtance from each other, that they can go, it is ſaid, to each and return the ſame day. It is 110 miles W. of Dreſden, and 160 E. of Cologne. Lat. 50. 54. N. lon. 11. 23. E.

ERIBOL, LOCH, an arm of the ſea, on the N. coaſt of Sutherlandſhire, affording a ſafe retreat to the largeſt veſſels

ERICHT, LOCH, a large lake in the NW. of the diſtrict of Athol, in Perthſhire, extending into Inverneſsſhire. Near this place wandered the unfortunate Prince Charles Stewart, after his diſcomfiture at Culloden, in 1746, lurking in caves and among rocks, expoſed to the rigours of the climate, ſometimes alone, at others with a few faithful adherents, till he, at length, eſcaped the ſanguinary parties that were in ſearch of him, lured by the offered reward. The waters of this lake deſcend into another, called Loch Rannoch.

Eridge, Suſſex, 8 miles from Grinſtead. Eridge, Suſſex, N. of Rotherbridge.

ERIE, a lake of N. America, ſituated between 40. 50. to 43 deg. N. lat. and between 78. 50. to 84. W. lon. It is about 260 miles long from E. to W. and 40 to 60 broad. It communicates at it's NE. end with Lake Ontario by the Strait of Niagara. The iſlands and banks towards it's W. end are much infeſted with rattle ſnakes; and, on the leaves of the large water lily, which grows here, covering the ſurface of the water, to an extent of many acres, and other aquatic plants, myriads of water ſnakes lie baſking in the ſun in ſummer. Of the venomous ſerpents which infeſt the lake, the hiſſing ſnake, about 18 inches long, ſmall and ſpeckled, is accounted the moſt deadly. The wind, which it blows from it's mouth, if inhaled by the unwary traveller, brings on a decline, which proves mortal in a few months, no remedy being yet found to counteract it's baneful influence.

Erighill Church, in Monaghan, Ulſter, 66 miles from Dublin.

Eriholm, Yorkſ. SE. of Darlington. Eringham, Suſſex, between Steyning and New Shoreham. Erington, Northumb. rl. SW. of Kirkheaton. Eriſden, Northumb. near Tinmouth. Erith, Camb. between Holtwell Fen and Somerſham, on the Ouſe. It has a cauſeway leading from St. Ives into the Iſle of Ely. Erith, Kent, on the Thames, below Woolwich.

ERIVAN, a city and province of Perſian Armenia. The former is dirty and ill-built; the ramparts are of earth, and there are about 800 houſes. The churches of the Chriſtians are ſmall, and half under ground, reſembling catacombs. Lat. 40. 20. N. lon. 44. 10. E. The province is ſurrounded by Georgia, Schirvan, Mougán, Aderbeitzan, and Turkiſh Armenia.

ERKELENS, a town of Juliers.

ERLACH, a town and bailiwick of Berne, near the Lake of Bienne.

ERLANG, a town in Culembach, Franconia.

Erleham, Norf. SW. of Norwich. Erles Wood, Monm. near Strogle Caſtle. Erlingtons, ter, Suſſex, SW. of Haylſham. Erme, Cornw. NE. of Truro.

ERMELAND, a country ſurrounded by Pruſſia, formerly ſubject only to it's own biſhop and chapter, but now a province of Pruſſia. The principal towns are Frauenburg, Braunſberg, and Heilſburg.

Erming Street, Hunt. the Roman highway near Stilton. Ermington, Devonſ.

ERNE, LOUGH, a great lake in Fermanagh, Ulſter, extending about 30 miles in length; or rather 2 lakes, joined by the narrow ſtrait on which the town of Enniſkillen ſtands.

Erne, St. Cornw. NW. of Saltaſh. Erneley, Suff. near the Iſle of Selley. Ernesberough, Devonſ. in Swinbridge pariſh.

ERPACH, a town and county of Suabia; and a town of Franconia.

Erpingham, Norf. 4 miles from Aleſham. Eruan, St. Cornw. SW. of Padſtow. Erwaſh, a river in Nott. which riſes in the county, and ſeparating it from Derb. in almoſt it's whole courſe, falls into the Trent below Attenton, 4 miles SW. of Nottingham.

ERZERUM, a city of Turkey, in Aſia, built on a peninſula, formed by the ſources of the river Euphrates. It lies in a fruitful plain, 5 days journey from the Black Sea, 10 from the frontiers of Perſia, and about 250 miles NNE. of Aleppo. The Turks are about 18,000, of whom two thirds are janizaries; they are moſt of them tradeſmen, and receive no pay; there are alſo 6000 Armenians and 400 Greeks, the latter of whom, being moſtly braziers, are obliged to live in the ſuburbs, on account of the noiſe of their hammers. The town is a conſiderable thoroughfare for the caravans which paſs to the Indies. Their merchandiſe is Perſian ſilks, cottons, calicoes, furs, gall-nuts, rhubarb, and madder. Lat. 40. 4. N. lon. 43. 2. E.

ERZGEBURG, a county of Upper Saxony, including 64 towns and 700 villages. The mines which it contains, with it's manufactures, conſtitute it's only riches.

Esby, Yorkſ. in Cleveland.

ESCALANO, a town of New Caſtile.

ESCHELLES, a town in the dept. of Mont Blanc, 10 miles SW. of Chamberry.

ESCHWEGEN, a town of Heſſe Rhemfels, in the circle of Upper Rhine, 16 miles NNE. of Duſſeldorf; alſo a town of Munſter; and a town of Oſnaburg.

Eſcourt, Wilts, near Luggerſhall. Eſcrick, Hall, SE. of York.

ESCURIAL, a village of New Caſtile, celebrated for it's palace and convent, built by Philip II. of Spain, 1563. It conſiſts of a royal manſion, a church built after the plan of St. Peter's at Rome, cloiſters, a college, a library, containing upwards of 20,000 volumes, ſhops of different artiſts, apartments for a great number of families, an extenſive park and fine gardens, adorned with a great number of fountains. It ſtands in a dry, barren country, ſurrounded by rugged mountains, and is built of grey ſtones, found in the neighbourhood. This ſtructure, built in the form of a gridiron, becauſe St. Lawrence, to whom it is dedicated, was broiled on ſuch an inſtrument, was 22 years in building, and coſt 6,000,000 crowns. They reckon in it 800 pillars, 11,000 ſquare windows, and 14,000 doors. In the vaulted chapel, there is a magnificent mauſoleum, called the Pantheon, ſimilar to that at Rome. It is ſeated on the river Guadara, 15 miles NW. of Madrid.

Eſenhull, Warw. W. of Cheſter Over.

ESENS, a town of E. Frieſland.

ESFARAIN, a town of Choraſan, in Perſia.

Eſgill, Cumb. near Gargill. Eſhbury, Surry, near Compton. Eſheldwerth, Northumb. near Morpeth.

Eſher*, Surry, on the Mole, which winds through it's beautiful plantations, about 16 miles SW. of London, and 5 SW. of Kingſton, on the road to Portſmouth. It commands a fine proſpect of the Thames and Hampton Court, as well as of other parts of Middleſex.

Eſher Waterville, Surry, a manor in Eſher pariſh. Eſhing, Surry, SW. of Godalmin. Eſhington, Northumb. E. of Morpeth. Eſhton, Yorkſ. W. Riding, between Skipton and Settle. Eſinden, Herts. 2 miles from Hatfield. Eſington, NE. of Durham. Eſington, Oxf. near Chalgrave. Eſington, Staff. NE. of Wolverhampton. Eſington, Yorkſ. W. Riding, E. of Bolland Foreſt.

ESINGWOULD, a town of Yorkſhire, in the N Riding, trading principally in bacon and butter. It is about 13 miles NNW. of York, and 210 N. of London. Market on Friday, if not diſuſed.

ESK, or EASK, LOUGH, in Donegal, Ulſter. This lake abounds with char, which are taken, in deep water, by nets.

ESK, two rivers in Cumberland; the, largeſt forms part of the boundary between England and Scotland, and runs into Solway Frith; the leſſer near the ſouthern extremity of the county, runs into the Iriſh Channel at Ravenglaſs.

ESK, a river of Edinburgſhire, formed by the junction of two ſtreams, called the N. and S. Eſk. They nearly encircle the town of Dalkeith, paſſing on each ſide of the the eminence on which it ſtands; and uniting a little below the town, this river falls into the Frith of Forth at Muſſelburgh.

Esk, N. and S. two rivers of Anguſſhire, deſcending from the Braes of Angus. The former divides the county from Kincardineſhire for ſeveral miles, and reaches the German Ocean, a little to the N. of Montroſe. The latter, after traverſing nearly the whole breadth of the county, falls into the ſea a little below the ſame town.

Eſk, Yorkſ. in Holderneſs. Eſkdale, Yorkſ. in Whitby Strand liberty.

Eskdale, the country about the Eſk, both on the Cumberland and Dumfrieſſhire ſides of the river.

Eskimaux, an aboriginal people of N. America, inhabiting a tract of country called Labrador. They are low in ſtature; their chief employment is hunting and fiſhing, and they obſerve ſome ſort of ſacrifices. They live upon the raw fleſh of whales, bears, &c. and go muffled up in ſkins, the hairy ſides next their bodies. Their nights are from 1 to 6 months long, during which time the earth is bound up in impenetrable froſt, and they live in a ſort of ſubterraneous habitation. On the return of the ſun, they have, during the ſummer, continual day, and lead a roving life.

Eſkle, a river in Heref. which runs into the Monnow, at Landtown.

Eſky, in Sligo, Connaught.

Eſtaby, Durham, W. of Yarum.

Eslingen, a free town of Suabia, inſulated in Wurtemburg.

Esne, Essenay, or Asna, a town of Egypt, ſituated on the Nile, in lat. about 24. 59. N. and lon. 32. 48. E. It contains ſome magnificent ancient temples, with hieroglyphic inſcriptions, &c.

Espiers, a town of Flanders, 8 miles N. of Tournay.

Eſpley, Northumb. NW. of Morpeth.

Esquimaux, See Eskimaux.

Eſſaje, Devonſ. SE. of South Moulton.

Eſſchealeſ, Northumb. near Hexham. Eſſe, or Aſhden, Eſſex, near the Stour, NE. of Bumſted Steple.

Esseck, a trading town of Sclavonia, with a wooden bridge over the marſhes, 8865 geometrical paces in length, and 15 in breadth. It is a conſiderable paſs between Hungary and Turkey, and is ſeated on the river Drave, 80 miles NW. of Belgrade.

Essen, a town of Weſtphalia.

Eſſenden, Rutland, N. of Stamford.

Essequibo. See Issequibo.

Eſſet, Northumb. in Eland Manor.

Essex, a county of England, bounded on the W. by Middleſex and Herts; on the N. by part of Cambridgeſhire and the river Stour, which ſeparates it from Suffolk; on the E. by the German Ocean; and on the S. by the Thames, which divides it from Kent. It is about 54 miles long from E. to W. and 48 broad from N. to S. and is divided into 18 hundreds, which contain 26 market towns, 403 pariſhes, about 63,000 houſes, and 325,000 inhabitants. It does not contain any conſiderable hills; but exhibits a variety of ſoil and face of country, generally fertile. It's SW. part is occupied principally by the foreſts of Epping and Hainault; and is noted for it's butter. The NW. part from Saffron Walden to Cambridge, is famous for the growth of Saffron. The middle part is a fine corn country, varied with gentle inequalities of ſurface, and ſprinkled with woods. What are called the Hundreds of Eſſex, (though induced in the hundreds of Barnſtaple, Rochford, and Dengy) bordering on the Thames and the ſea, conſiſt chiefly of marſhy grounds, which afford excellent paſturage, yet are deemed unwholeſome; but more inland, they are dry, elevated, and healthy; and even the worſt parts of them are rendered much healthier than formerly, by clearing the woods and draining the ſtagnant waters. Great numbers of calves are ſent from hence to the London market, with other cattle; alſo fowls, wild and tame, and the oyſters, known by the name of Colcheſter oyſters. The principal rivers, beſides the Thames, are the Stour, which falls into the German Ocean at Harwich; the Lea, Chelmer, Blackwater, Coln, Crouch, and Roding. Chelmsford is the capital.

Estampes, a town in the dept. of Seine and Oiſe, ſeated on the river Loet, or Etampes, (which abounds with crawfiſh) 15 miles E. of Chartres.

Estaples, a ſea-port town in the dept. of the Pas de Calais, ſeated on the mouth of the river Canches, 12 miles S. of Boulogne.

Estapo, or Istapa, a town of Tabaſco, in Mexico, 10 miles SW. of Villa Hermoſa. Lat. 17. 30. N. lon. 103. 5. W.

Eſteſton, Shrop. N. of Wem.

Estavayer, a town and bailiwick of Friburg, in Swiſſerland, ſituated on the E. border of the Lake of Neufchatel. Lat. 46. 55. N. lon. 6. 48. E.

Eſtbergbolt, Suff. SE. of Hadley. Eſthy, Yorkſ. W. Riding, NW. of Skipton. Eſtcot, Wilts, near Swindon. Eſtcot, Wilts, near Lavington. Eſtcot, Devonſ. W. of Silverton.

Este, a town in the Paduan.

Estella, a town of Navarre, in Spain.

Eſtenden, Herts, between Hertford and Hatfield.

Estepa, a town of Andaluſia.

Estepona, a fiſhing town of Granada, in Spain.

Eſterwick, Yorkſ. in Holderneſs, Eſtfield, Yorkſ. E. of Halifax.

Esthonia, or Revel, a conſiderable government of Ruſſia, on the Baltic; bounded on the N. by the Gulf of Finland, on the E. by Ingria, and on the S. by the government of Riga. It was long a bone of contention between the Ruſſians, Poles, and Swedes, but was finally ceded to Ruſſia, in 1721. Revel is the capital.

Eſtington, Glouc. between Stanley and the Severn. Eſtington, Norfolk, NE. of Buckenham. Eſtington, Norf. in the Marſh Land. Eſtlech, Glouc. NE. of Fairwood. Eſtly, Devonſ. near Biddiford. Eſtnor, Heref. NE. of Ledbury. Eſtoft, Linc. in Crowle pariſh. Eſton, Yorkſ. N. Riding, NW. of Giſborough. Eſton, Yorkſ. near Bridlington. Eſton or Aſton, Northamp. SW. of Stamford. Eſton Neſton, Northamptonſ. near Towceſter.

Estramadura, a province of Spain, about 175 miles in length, and 100 in breadth; bounded on the W. by Portugal, on the N. by Leon and Old Caſtile; on the E. by New Caſtile; and on the S. by Andaluſia. It abounds with corn, wine, and fruits; but the air is often hot and ſultry. A part of this province has been moſtly annexed to New Caſtile, and a part to Old Caſtile, but there is yet a captain-general, who commands the troops and ſuperintends the police.

Estramadura, a province of Portugal, bounded on the W. by the Atlantic, on the N. by Beira, and on the E. and S. by Alentejo. It abounds with wine, excellent oil, honey, oranges, and ſalt. Here the oranges were firſt planted that were brought from China, known ſtill by the name of China oranges. It's capital is Liſbon.

Estremoz, a ſtrong town of Alentejo, containing about 7500 inhabitants, and noted for a manufacture of beautiful earthen ware. It is divided into the high town and the low. The houſes are white, and many of them adorned with marble pillars; here is alſo a tower of marble, of a fine poliſh, that glitters greatly when the ſun ſhines upon it. It is ſituated on the river Tera, which afterwards falls into the Tajo, 15 miles W. of Badajox, and 75 E. of Liſbon.

Esthwaite Water, a lake in Lancaſhire, between Hawkſhead and Windermere Water, about 2 miles and a half in length, and half a mile in breadth. Around it are villages and ſcattered houſes, ſweetly ſituated under woods and hanging grounds, clothed with the richeſt verdure, heightened by the deep ſhade of the woods, and the back ground of rocky mountains.

Eſtrop, Hants, near Baſingſtoke. Eſtwood, Nott. on the Erwaſh, near Greyſley Caſtle. Eſtycpe, Devonſ. near Bridport. Etall Caſtle, Northumb. on the river Till, in Glendale, near Ford Caſtle.

Etayah, a town of Agra, in Hindooſtan, ſituated on the river Jumna, 52 miles SE. of Agra. Many parts of the banks of this river are 60 feet high, and the town is all built on the heights. Lat. 26. 43. N. lon. 79. 25. E.

Etain, a ſmall town in the dept. of Meuſe, 13 miles ENE. of Verdun.

Etchinford, Suſſ. W. of Leonard's Foreſt. Ethelbury Hill, Yorkſ. N. Riding, between Swaledale and Wenſdale. Etherdwick, Yorkſ. in Holderneſs, near Burton Conſtable.

Ethiopia, or Æthiopia, a part of Africa, divided into Upper and Lower. Upper Ethiopia includes Nubia and Abyſſinia. In Lower Ethiopia is comprehended a great part of the interior of Africa, N. and S. of the equator, as Mujak, Gingiro, Anziko, Mono-emugi, Alaba, Matamba, &c.

Ethorp, Warw. W. of Southam. Ethrop, or Eydrop, Bucks, in Waddeſdon pariſh. Etby, Cornw. NE. of Fowey.

Etienne, St. a town in the dept. of the Rhone and Loire, in which are conſiderable manufactories in iron and ſteel, and alſo in ribbons. Coal mines are found in it's neighbourhood, and a ſoft ſtone fit for grind-ſtones. It contains about 18,000 inhabitants, and is ſeated on the brook Eureus, the water of which is excellent for tempering metals, 28 miles SE. of Lyons, and 260 S. by E. of Paris. Alſo a town in the reſpective depts. of Iſere, Ardeche, and Lower Alps; 2 towns in the dept. of Lozere; and 2 in the dept. of Higher Alps.

Etlingen, a town in Baden Dourlach, in Suabia.

Etloe, or Eteſſau, Glouc. in Awre.

Etna, Mount, or Gibello, a celebrated volcano in Sicily, on a mountain, which is about 63 miles in circumference at the foot, and 10,954 feet in height. Not only the mountain, but all the neighbouring regions, appear to have been formed of the accumulating matter that has been ejected, from age to age, from this never-never-ceaſing furnace. The firſt eruption, of Etna, recorded in hiſtory, is that mentioned by Diodorus Siculus, but without fixing the period when it happened: the ſecond, however, recorded by Thucydides, happened in the year 734 before the Chriſtian æra. From this period, to the year 1447, there were 18 more eruptions. After this it ceaſed to emit fire near 90 years. The next eruption was in 1536; others followed in 1537, 1567, 1603, (which continued till 1636) 1664 (which continued 14 years) 1682, 1686, 1693, 1755, 1763, 1764, 1766, 1780, and 1787. Of all theſe eruptions, that of 1693 was, by far, the moſt deſtructive. It was attended with an earthquake that, in an inſtant, overturned the town of Catania, though 10 miles diſtant from the mountain), and buried no leſs than 18,000 perſons in it's ruins. Mount Etna is well cultivated all round the foot, and covered with vines on the S. ſide; but on the N. there is nothing but large foreſts. The top is always covered with ſnow, though it never ceaſes to ſmoke, and often emits flames. The cinders, which are thrown out in ſmall quantities, ſerve for manure to the adjacent lands, but a large torrent does miſchief; and the new apertures which are ſuddenly made, from time to time, are alarming and dangerous to the inhabitants.

Eton, Suſſex, a little above Steyning, on the river Adur, which is navigable here for barges, carrying timber, &c. to Shoreham, for building ſhips.

ETON COLLEGE, Bucks, ſeparated from Windſor by an old bridge over the Thames. It was founded by Henry VI. in 1440, for the maintenance of a provoſt and 7 fellows, and the inſtruction of 70 ſcholars. There are ſeldom leſs than 300 ſcholars here, beſides thoſe on the foundation. The revenue is about 5000l. a year.

Eton, near Norwich. Ettleſhall, Warw. NE. of Coventry. Etton, Northamptonſ. near Maxey Caſtle. Etton, Northamptonſ. near Oyerſton.

ETTRICK, a ſtream which falls from the mountainous part of Selkirkſhire, runs through a romantic country, and joins with the Yarrow, 2 miles SW. of Selkirk, after which their united waters mingle with the Tweed, where it enters the ſhire of Roxburgh. All theſe ſtreams, with Ettrick Banks, the Braes of Yarrow, and Tweed Side, have long been ſweetly ſung in Scottiſh paſtoral.

Etwell Hall, SW. of Derby.

EU, a ſea-port town in the dept. of Lower Seine, trading principally in ſerges and lace. It is ſeated on the river Brele, near a mineral ſpring and baths, 15 miles NE. of Dieppe.

Evall, St. Cornw. SW. of Padſtow, Evart, Northumb. SE. of Flodden Hill.

EVAUX, a town in the dept. of Creuſe, 18 miles NNE. of Aubuſſon.

Evedon, Linc. NE. of Sleaford. Evely, W. of Derby. Evelot, Yorkſ. N. Riding, near Stonedale and Swaldale. Evelyn, Shropſ. near Sheffnall. Evenclads, a river of Oxf. which runs into the Iſis, 5 miles W. of Oxford. Evenall, Staff. SE. of Eccleſhall. Evendy Farm, Midd. N. of Staines. Evenlode, Worceſ. NE. of Stow in the Would. Eventon, Yorkſ. N. Riding, near Pickering. Ever Church, or Everach, Somerſ. W. of Bruton.

EVERDINGEN, a town in Dutch Guelderland.

Everdon, Bedf. Everdon, Northamp. Everend, Glouceſterſ. in Wollaſton pariſh. Evering, Kent, between Elham and Dover. Everingham, Yorkſ. between Pocklington and Market Weighton. Everley, E. and W. Wilts, between Ambreſbury, and Savernake Foreſt.

Everog Bridge, in Down, Ulſter, 78 miles from Dublin.

Everſden, Great and Little, near Cambridge. Everſham, Yorkſ. E. Riding, SW. of Catterick. Everſholme; ſee Everſham. Everſholt, Bedf. E. of Woburn.

EVERSHOT, a town of Dorſetſhire, ſituated on the borders of Somerſetſhire, near the riſe of the river Frome, which runs into Purbeck Bay, 12 miles NW. of Dorcheſter, and 129 W. by S. of London.

Everſley, Kent, in Charing pariſh. Everſley, Hants, in the road from London to Baſingſtoke. Everton, Nott. E. of Baintree. Everton, Northamp. SE. of Newnham.

*EVESHAM, an ancient town of Worceſterſhire, with a manufacture of woollen ſtockings. It is ſeated on a hill, riſing with a gradual aſcent from the Avon, which almoſt ſurrounds it, forming here a harbour for barges, and over which it has a ſtone bridge, 14 miles SE. of Worceſter, and 95 NW. by W. of London. Market on Monday.

EVESHAM, THE VALE OF, in Worceſterſhire, on the banks of the Avon, which flows along the SE. part of the county to the Severn. It is celebrated for it's fertility and beauty; and communicating with the more extenſive one that borders both ſides of the Severn, gives to it the ſame general name of the Vale of Eveſham. See SEVERN, VALE OF.

EUGUBIO, a town of Urbino, in the pope's territories.

EVIAN,

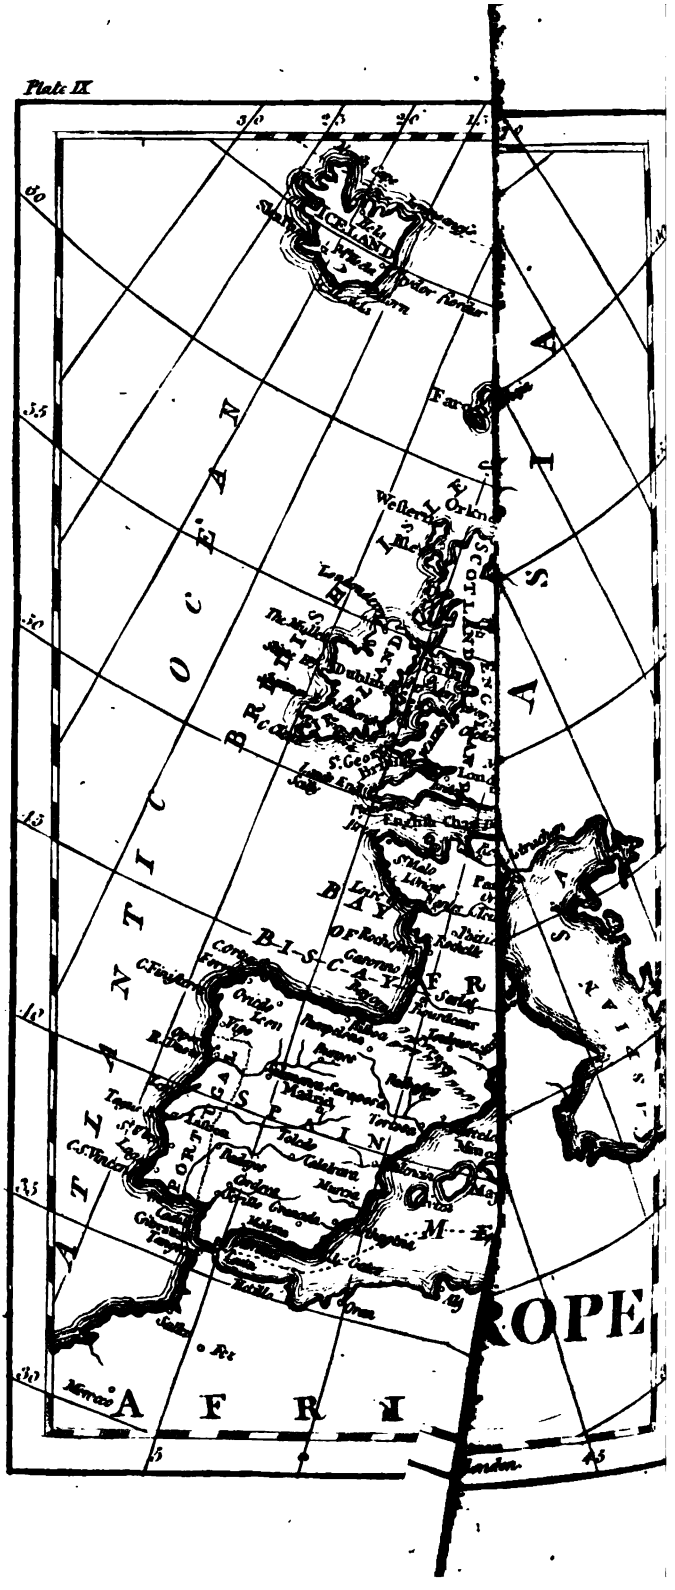

Plate IX
ICELAND
Faro
Wesserö
Orkney
Lewis
Hebrides
SCOTLAND
Dublin
Ireland
Bristol
Bay
Biscay
Gascoigne
Bordeaux
Rochelle
Nantes
Orleans
Lyon
Geneva
Avignon
Marseilles
Toulon
Genoa
Corsica
Sardinia
Majorca
Minorca
Ivica
Malaga
Gibraltar
Cadiz
Seville
Granada
Toledo
Madrid
Salamanca
Murcia
Valencia
Barcelona
Tarragona
Tortosa
Saragossa
Pampelona
Burgos
Bilboa
Rochelle
Nantes
Rennes
Caen
Roan
Paris

EVIAN, anciently a city of the Nantuates.

EVIAN, a town in the dept. of Mont Blanc, ſeated on the Lake of Geneva, near ſome mineral waters, and oppoſite to Lauſanne, 22 miles NE. of Geneva.

Evildon, Wilts, NW. of Saliſbury. Evilton, Somerſ. NE. of Ilcheſter. Evington, Heref. SW. of Leominſter. Evington, Kent, in Elmſtead pariſh. Evington, SE. of Leiceſter.

EVOLI, a town in Principato Citro.

EVORA, or ELVORA, the capital of Alentejo, containing 5 churches, 22 convents, or colleges, and about 12,000 inhabitants. It is ſeated in a pleaſant country, planted with large trees of divers ſorts, 65 miles E. by S. of Liſbon.

EVORAMONTE, a town of Alentejo, 15 miles NE. of Evora.

EUPHEMIA, ST. a ſea-port of Calabria Ultra, ſituated on a bay of the Mediterranean, to which it gives name; and a town of Otranto.

EUPHRATES, one of the moſt celebrated rivers in the world, and the principal of Aſiatic Turkey. It has one ſource about 2 days journey, and another two days journey, from Erzerum. The plain of Erzerum is incloſed between theſe two fine ſtreams, which, when united, form what is called the Euphrates, or the Frat. After their junction, about three days journey from Erzerum, the united ſtream begins to be navigable for boats; but the channel is ſo rocky, that the navigation is not ſafe. In it's courſe it ſeparates Aladulia and Syria from Diabekir, and Diabekir from Arabia, after which it runs through the Irac-Arabi, till it receives the Tigris, and falls into the Perſian Gulf about 50 miles below Buſſorah.

EUPHRATES, a river in the country of Whidah, in Africa, on the Slave Coaſt.

EURE, a department of France, ſo named from a river which riſes near Pontgoin, in the dept. of Eure and Loir, and paſſing by Chartres, falls into the Seine a little below Pont de l'Arche. It is bounded on the N. by the dept. of the Lower Seine, and on the E. by the dept. of the Oiſe. Evreux is the capital.

EURE and LOIR, a department of France, ſo called from the rivers Eure and Loir. It is bounded on the NW. by the dept. of the Eure, and on the S. by the depts. of the Cher and Loiret. It's capital is Chartres.

EVREUX, a town, or city, capital of the dept. of Eure. Here is a manufactory of cotton velvets, and another of ticken, which is not inferior to that of Bruſſels. Theſe, with linen and woollen cloth, lace, grain, wine, and cyder, form the principal articles of it's trade. It is ſeated on the river Iton, 25 miles S. of Rouen, and 55 NW. of Paris.

EUROPE, the leaſt of the four general parts, or quarters of the world, is bounded on the W. by the Atlantic, on the N. by the Frozen Ocean, on the E. by Aſia, and on the S. by the Black Sea and the Mediterranean. It is about 3300 miles in length, and about 2700 in breadth, and is ſituated between 10 deg. W. and 60 E. lon. and between 36 and 72 deg. N. lat. As it nearly all lies within the temperate zone, here is neither the exceſſive heat, nor the inſupportable cold of the other parts of the continent. Though it does not afford the richeſt productions of the earth, nor abound in coſtly mines, it is generally much more populous and better cultivated, in proportion to it's extent, than the other quarters of the globe. The wild animals are but few, except in the woods, rocks, and mountains of the north, and of the Alps, but the domeſticated are very numerous. The chief mountains are the Alps, Apennines, and Pyrenees. The principal rivers are the Danube, Dnieſter, Dnieper, Viſtula, Volga, Dwina, Bog, Oby, Don, Scheldt, Rhine, Rhone, Seine, Loire, Garonne, Groyne, Tajo, Thames, and Severn. The principal lakes are thoſe of Conſtance, Geneva, Lauſanne, Wenner, Ladoga, and Onega. Europe contains the countries of Norway, Sweden, Denmark, Great Britain, Ireland, Ruſſia, France, Germany, Poland, Spain, Italy, Portugal, Hungary, Swiſſerland, and part of Turkey, beſide ſome iſlands in the Mediterranean and elſewhere. There are three empires, namely, thoſe of Ruſſia, Turkey, and Germany. The kings are thoſe of Great Britain and Ireland, Spain, Portugal, Pruſſia, Denmark, Sweden, Sardinia, Bohemia, Hungary, and Naples, or the Two Sicilies. There is alſo an archduke of Auſtria, and a great duke of Tuſcany. The republics are thoſe of France, Holland, Swiſſerland, Genoa, Geneva, Lucca, San Marino, and Raguſa. The languages are, the Italian, French, Spaniſh, and Portugueſe, which are partly a corruption of the Latin; the German, Flemiſh, Dutch, Swediſh, Daniſh, and Engliſh, which proceed from the Teutonic; the Sclavonian, which predominates in the language of Poland, Ruſſia, Bohemia, and a great part of Turkey in Europe; the Celtic, of which there are dialects in Wales, Scotland, Ireland, the NW. of France, and Lapland; the modern Greek, and ſeveral others.

others. The prevailing religious profeſſion is the Chriſtian, divided into the Greek, Romiſh, and Proteſtant churches. Mahometaniſm is the eſtabliſhed faith of the Turks, and there are numberleſs Jews diſperſed in the different countries.

EUSKIRCHEN, a town of Juliers.

EUSTATIA, ST. one of the leaſt of the Leeward Iſlands, in the W. Indies, about 3 leagues NW. of St. Chriſtophers. It is properly a mountain in the form of a ſugar-loaf: or, it may be termed, a huge pyramidical rock, whoſe top is hollow, or concave, and ſerves as a large den for wild animals. It is ſtrong by ſituation, having but one landing-place, which is difficult of acceſs, and fortified with all the art imaginable, by it's maſters, the Dutch. Tobacco is it's chief production. Not leſs than 5,000 white inhabitants, and about 15,000 negroes ſubſiſt upon this iſland, and rear hogs, kids, rabbits, and poultry in ſuch abundance, that they can afford to ſupply their neighbours, after having ſerved themſelves. In general, it ſerves as a ſtorehouſe for all kinds of European commodities. In 1781 it was ſurpriſed by Admiral Rodney, but was ſoon after taken by the French, and reſtored to the Dutch by the peace of 1783. Lat. 17. 29. N. lon. 63. 5. W.

Euſton Hall, Suffolk, near Thetford.

EUTIN, a town in Lubeck, Lower Saxony, the uſual reſidence of the biſhop.

Euxton, Lanc. E. of Bank Hall.

EWEL, a town of Surry, having many fine ſtreams of water, which, uniting, form a river ſufficient to drive a mill in the town, and which afterwards falls into the Thames at Kingſton. It is 1¼ mile N. of Epſom, 10 NE. by N. of Darking, and 13 SE. by S. of London. Market on Thurſday.

Ewel, Kent, near Feverſham. Ewelme, vulgo Newelme, Oxfordſ. S. of Britwell. Ewenny, a river of Glamorganſ. which runs into the Ogmore about 2 miles from the Severn Sea; and a village near Cowbridge. Ewerby, Linc. NE. of Sleaford. Ewern Minſter, the largeſt pariſh in Dorſ. the river Ewern riſes in it, and paſſing by Shrolon and Sheepleton, falls into the Stour at Stourain. Ewburſt, Surry, near Okeley. Ewhurſt, Suſſex, near Burwaſh. Ewood Hall, Yorkſ. W. of Halifax. Ewſhot, Hants, SW. of Farnborough. Ewtons, Surry, near Darking.

EX, a river which riſes in the Foreſt of Exmoor, in the weſtern part of Somerſetſhire, and, leaving that county below Dulverton, flows by Tiverton to Exeter, widening from Topſham into an eſtuary, which terminates in the Engliſh Channel at Exmouth.

Ex, Upper and Nether, Devonſ. between Exeter and Bradninch. Exall, Warw. SW. of Aulceſter. Exall, Warw. a member of Coventry. Exborn, Devonſ. on the river Ock, oppoſite to Stow. Exbridge, Devonſ. near Bampton. Exbury, Hants, in the New Foreſt. Execate, Suſſex, near Cuckmere Haven.

*EXETER, the ISCA of Ptolemy and Antoninus, an ancient city of Devonſhire, one of the principal in the kingdom, for building, wealth, and number of inhabitants. The environs of the city are hilly, and afford a variety of delightful proſpects. The town, with it's ſuburbs, is about 3 miles in circumference: it's port is properly at Topſham, 5 miles below, but veſſels of 150 tons come up to the quay here. Exeter has 12 or 13 incorporate companies; and, with it's ſuburbs, contains 15 pariſh churches and 4 chapels of eaſe, beſide the cathedral. It is the ſeat of an extenſive foreign and domeſtic commerce, and particularly it has a ſhare in the fiſheries of Newfoundland and Greenland. Here are flouriſhing manufactories of ſerges and other woollen goods. It is ſeated on the river Exe, over which it has a long, ſtone bridge, with houſes on both ſides, 78 miles SW. of Briſtol, 44 NE. of Plymouth, and 173 W. by S. of London. Markets on Wedneſday and Friday.

EXETER, a town of New Hampſhire, in N. America, ſituated on the S. ſide of Exeter River, 15 miles SW. of Portſmouth. It has a good harbour, and ſome riſing manufactories, particularly 6 ſaw mills, a fulling mill, a ſlitting mill, a paper and a ſnuff mill, a chocolate and 10 griſt mills, iron works, and a printing-office. Alſo a town of Rhode Iſland; and a town of N. Carolina.

Exford, Somerſ. SW. of Dunſter.

EXILLES, a town and fortreſs of Piedmont, ſeated on the river Doria, 6 miles WSW. of Suza.

Exley, Yorkſ. S. of Halifax. Exminſter, Devonſ. 3 miles below Exeter. Exmore, where the Ex riſes, a moiſt, barren ground, near the Severn Sea, part in Devonſhire, but more in Somerſetſhire.

Exmouth, Devonſ. incloſed and ſheltered, from the bleak north-eaſt, between cliffs, on the E. ſide of the bay, which forms the mouth of the river Ex, 10 miles S. by E. of Exeter. It is the oldeſt and beſt frequented watering-place in Devonſhire. The walks around it are delightfully pleaſant.

Exte, or Oſte, Suſſ. near Hoxne. Exton, tm, Hants. NE. of Biſhop's Waltham. Exton, Somerſetſ. near Brumpton Regis. Exton, or Oxton, Nott. near Sherwood Foreſt. Exwych Cleve, Devonſ. near Exeter. Eya, Northamp. N. of Peterborough. Eyam, Derbyſ. in the High Peak. Eybridge, Kent, near Chart and Sutton Valence. Eydon, Northamp. E. of Chipping Warden.

*EYE, a very ancient and meanly-built town of Suffolk, with narrow ſtreets. It has ſome manufactures of ſpinning and bonelace, and is ſituated in a ſort of iſland, (becauſe ſurrounded with a brook) on the road from Ipſwich to Norwich, 20 miles N. of Ipſwich, and 91 NE. of London. Market on Saturday.

Eye, Heref. NW. of Leominſter. Eyeford, Glouceſ. 5 miles from Stow. Eyeſort, Oxf. near Woodſtock. Eye Hall, Cumb. in Horningſey pariſh.

EYEMOUTH, a ſmall ſea-port town of Berwickſhire, ſituated at the mouth of the river Eye, where there is a tolerable herring fiſhery) 9 miles N. by W. of Berwick.

EYESDALE, or ESDALE, a ſmall iſland on the coaſt of Argyleſhire, about 7 miles SE. of Mull. It is noted for it's ſlate quarries.

Eyke, Suff. S. of Rendleſham. Eykering, Notting. NW. of Newark. Eyleſworth, Northamp. near Caſtor. Eyminge, Kent. Eymolt, a river in Weſtmorl. and Cumberl. which runs into the Eden at Hornby.

EYNDHOVEN, a town in Dutch Brabant.

Eyne, Bedfordſ. in Gravenhurſt pariſh. Eyneſbury, Huntingd. a hamlet of St. Neot's. Eynesford, Kent, NW. of Aſh.

EYRAC. See IRAC.

EYRE, a town of N. Carolina.

*EYRE COURT, a town in Galway, Connaught, a little S. of Clonfert, and about 72 miles from Dublin.

Eythonne, Kent, near Walderſhare. Eythorp, Bucks, near Quarendon. Eyton, Shropſ. W. of Kingſwood. Eyton, Shropſ. near Shrawerden Caſtle. Eywood, Surry, SE. of Darking. Eywood, Heref. SE. of Titley. Eyworth, Bedfordſhire, near Portan.

ERAGUEN, a town of Fez.

FAABORG, a town of Funen, in Denmark, ſituated on the S. coaſt, in a flat but fruitful country. It trades in corn and other proviſions, though the harbour is indifferent. Near it is a ferry to the Iſle of Alſen.

FABREGAS, a town of Catalonia. 13 miles W. of Gerona.

FABRIANO, a town in the dept. of the Aude, 5 miles NE. of La Graſſe.

FABRIANO, a town of Ancona, in the Pope's territories, which contains ſeveral rich monaſteries, and a manufacture of excellent paper. It is 33 miles SW. of Ancona.

Faceby, Yorkſh. N. Riding, SW. of Stokeſley.

FACELLI, a town of Lavora, 18 miles NE. of Capua.

Fackham, Hants, NW. of Whitchurch.

FADEN HOTUN, a town in the kingdom of Corea, in Aſia, ſituated on the river Oula, 460 miles ENE. of Pekin.

Faddely, Cheſ. W. of Namptwich.

FAENZA, or FAYENZA, a town in the Romagna, Italy, noted for a manufacture of fine earthen-ware, to which it gives name, from being firſt made here. It is about 20 miles SW. of Ravenna.

FAGIANO, a town of Otranto, Naples.

FAHLUN, ſometimes called COPPERSBERG, a town, the capital of Dalecarlia, in Sweden. It contains 2 churches roofed with copper, about 1200 houſes, which are generally of wood, two ſtories high, and 7000 inhabitants, including the miners. It is ſituated in the midſt of rocks and hills, between two large lakes, near ſome celebrated copper-mines, 20 miles NW. of Hedemora. Lat. 60. 52, N. lon. 15. 32. E.

Failſworth, Lanc. near Bolton. Fairbach, Carmarthenſ.

FAIRFAX, a town and county of Virginia, ſituated near the ſea, 6 miles NE. of Danburg, and 100 SW. of Boſton.

Fairfield, Kent, near Appledore. Fairfield, Somerſ. near Bridgewater. Fairfield, Derbyſ. in the High Peak.

FAIRFIELD, a town of Connecticut; alſo a county of S. Carolina; a town of New Jerſey; a town of Pennſylvania; and a county of Connecticut.

*FAIRFORD, a town of Glouceſterſhire, celebrated for the glaſs windows, curiouſly painted with ſcripture hiſtory, in it's ſpacious and beautiful church, done from the deſigns of Albert Durer. The colours are ſo lively, eſpecially in the drapery, and the figures are, in general, ſo well drawn, that Vandyke affirmed, the pencil could not exceed them. It is ſituated on the Colne, a little above it's influx into the Thames, 22 miles ESE. of Glouceſter, and 80 W. by N. of London. Market on Thurſday.

FAIRHAVEN, a ſea-port town of Maſſachuſets, ſituated in Buzzard's Bay, 42 miles S. of Boſton.

FAIRHEAD, the NE. cape of Ireland, forming the E. ſide of the Bay of Ballycaſtle, in Antrim, Ulſter. Lat. 55. 17. N. lon. 6. 34. W.

FAIR-ISLE, an iſland of the Northern Ocean, nearly midway between Shetland and Orkney, from both which it's towering rocks are plainly diſcovered. On the E. ſide, the Duke of Medina Sidonia, admiral of the Spaniſh Armada, was wrecked in 1588.

Fairlee, Iſle of Wight, in E. Medina. Fairleigh, Suſſex, between Haſtings and Winchelſea. Fairſtead, Eſſex, 4 miles from Witham. Fairwood, Dorſetſ. in the pariſh of S. Parrot. Fairwell, Staffordſ. near Lichfield.

FAISANS, or PHEASANTS, a ſmall iſland in the river Bidaſſao, between France and Spain, about 2 miles from Fontarabia. The peace of the Pyrenees was concluded here in 1669, when the kings of France and Spain had an interview, on the marriage of Lewis XIV.

Faithleag, in Waterford, Munſter.

Faith's, St. Norf. near Taverham.

*FAKENHAM, a town of Norfolk, ſituated on a hill, 20 miles NW. of Norwich, and 110 NNE. of London. Markets on Tueſday and Thurſday.

Fakenham, Great and Little, Suff. S. of Euſton. Fakenhurſt, Kent, united to Bonington.

FALAISE, a town in the dept. of Calvados, famous for being the birth-place of William the Conqueror. The trade in ſerges, linen, and lace is conſiderable; and it has a great annual fair, which begins on the 16th of Auguſt, and laſts 8 days. It is 18 miles SSE. of Caen.

Falde, Bedfordſ. between Hitchin and Ampthill. Fale, a river of Cornwall, falling into Falmouth Harbour. Falefield, Glouceſ. in Thornbury pariſh. Falkam, Kent, W. of Cobham. Falkborn, Eſſex, near Witham.

FALKENBERG, a ſea port of Halland, in Sweden; alſo a town of Stiria; a town of Lippe, in Weſtphalia: and a town of the New Marche, in Brandenburg.

Falkenham, Suffolk, on the river Deben, near Baudſey Haven.

*FALKIRK, a town of Stirlingſhire. In it's neighbourhood, the great markets for Highland cattle, called Tryſts, are held thrice a year: 15,000 head of cattle are ſometimes ſold at one Tryſt, which are, for the moſt part, ſent to England. It is 8 miles SE. of Stirling.

*FALKLAND, a town of Fifeſhire, ſituated at the foot of one of the beautiful green hills called the Lomonds. The inhabitants are moſtly employed in agriculture. It is 18 miles nearly N. of Edinburgh.

FALKLAND ISLANDS, NE. of the Straits of Magellan. They conſiſt of two large, with a number of ſmaller iſlands ſurrounding them. The ſoil is ſaid to be nothing but bogs and barren mountains, beaten by ſtorms almoſt perpetual. They have been alſo called PEPY'S ISLANDS, and SEBALD DE WERT'S ISLANDS. Lat. from 51. 6. to 52. 30. S. lon. from 56. 30. to 62. 15. W.

FALKOPING, a town of W. Gothland.

Fall, a river of Scotland, which riſes in the SW. part of Perthſhire, and runs into Loch Lomond, in the N. part of Dumbartonſhire.

Falladon, Northumb. in Embledon pariſh. Fallibroome, Cheſh. N. of Macclesfield. Fallowfield, Northumb. between Hexham and the Picts' Wall.

FALLOWFIELD, a town of Pennſylvania.

Falmer, Suſſex, SW. of Lewes.

*FALMOUTH, a rich, trading, well-built, ſea-port town, of Cornwall, and the ſtation of the packets to Spain, Portugal, and America. The merchants here trade with Portugal in ſhips of their own; and they have alſo a great ſhare in the pilchard fiſhery. The harbour here is ſo very commodious, that ſhips of the greateſt burden can come up to it's quay; and it has, beſides, ſo many deep and well-ſheltered creeks belonging to it, that the whole Britiſh navy may ride ſafe here in any wind, and, next to Milford Haven, it is juſtly conſidered as the nobleſt and moſt extenſive road for ſhipping in Great Britain. It is defended by the caſtles of St. Mawes and Pendennis, each on high rocks at the entrance. It is 10 miles S. of Truro, and 268 WSW. of London. Lat. 50. 8. N. lon. 5. 27. W. Markets on Tueſday, Thurſday, and Saturday.

FALSE-BAY, to the E. of the Cape of Good Hope, frequented by veſſels during the prevalence of the NW. winds, from May to September, which render it dangerous to remain in Table-Bay.

FALSTER, an iſland of Denmark, S. of Zealand,

Zealand, about 60 miles in circumference. It is exceedingly fertile, and abounds in game. Lat. 54. N. lon. 12. 0. E.

FAMAGOSTA, a ſea-port town of Cyprus, ſituated on the E. coaſt, in lat. 35. 10. N. and lon. 35. 55. E.

FAMARS, a town in the dept. of the North, 3 miles S. of Valenciennes.

Fambridge, N. and S. Eſſex, on each ſide of Crouch River, near Crickſey.

FAMINE, PORT, in the Straits of Magellan, on the coaſt of Patagonia, in lat. 53. 42. S. and lon. 171. 28. W. Here the Spaniſh garriſon periſhed for want, ſince which it has been neglected.

Fanay, Eſſex, near Canvey Iſle. Fanham Hall, Herts, NE. of Ware.

FANO, a town of Urbino, in the pope's territories. Here are the remains of a triumphal arch, erected in honour of Auguſtus. It is ſeated on the Adriatic, 17 miles nearly E. of Urbino.

Fanthorp, Lincolnſ. near Louth.

FANTIN, a populous kingdom on the Gold Coaſt of Guinea, extending about 30 miles along the ſea-ſhore. The ſoil is fertile, producing fruits, maize, and palm wine. The ſmall towns are very numerous, and they reckon about 4000 fiſhermen on the coaſt. The capital, which is of the ſame name, is ſituated about four leagues up the country. The Engliſh and Dutch have forts here, and other European nations trade here for gold and ſlaves.

Fant le Roy Marſh, Dorſetſ. near Candle Biſhop and Candle Marſh.

*FAREHAM, a town of Hants, which carries on a conſiderable trade in coals, corn, &c. and has a manufacture of ſacks and cordage. Bricks and tiles, alſo, of a ſuperior excellence, are made here. It is pleaſantly ſituated at the NW. nook of Portſmouth Harbour, (with a quay, at which veſſels of 200 tons can unload) 12 miles SE. of Southampton, and 74 W. by S. of London. Market on Tueſday.

Fareſby, Lincolnſ. near Spilſby. Faret, Suſſex, near Grombridge.

FAREWELL, CAPE, the moſt ſoutherly promontory of New Greenland, or Sekamunga, at the entrance of Davis's Straits. Lat. 59. 38. N. lon. 42. 45. W.

Farforth, Linc. SW. of Burwell.

FARGEAU, ST. a town in the dept. of Yonne, 82 miles SSE. of Paris.

*FARRINGDON, a ſmall town of Berks, ſituated on the ſide of a hill, near the Thames, 18 miles SW. of Oxford, and 63 W. by N. of London. Market on Tueſday.

Faringdon, Devonſ. between Exeter and Topſham. Faringdon, Dorſetſ. 2 miles NW. of Shrowton. Farringdon, Hants, S. of Alton. Farringdon, Nott. W. of Newark. Farleigh, Dorſetſ. near Beminſter. Farleſthorp, Lincolnſ. near Alford. Farley, or Farley Wallop, Hants, near Baſingſtoke. Farley, Hants, W. of Wincheſter. Farley, Northumb. near Shotley Bridge, over the Derwent. Farley, Staff. E. of Cheadle. Farly, Surry, near Chelſham. Farley, E. and W. Kent, 4 miles from Maidſtone. Farley Hill, Wilts, near Bradford. Farley Park, Somerſetſh near Philip's Norton, and 4 miles S. of Farley Monkton. Fartington, Yorkſhire, N. Riding, near Sheriff Hutton. Farlington, Hants, SE. of Fareham. Farlton, Lancaſ. in Loynſdale. Farlton, Weſtmor. near Kirby Lonſdale. Farmcot, Glouceſ. near Winchcomb. Farmcot, Glouceſ. a hamlet of Guiting Power. Farme, Iſle of Wight, in W. Medina. Farningham, Kent, between Eltham and Troſeby. Farmington, Glouc. nearly oppoſite to N. Lech, on the other ſide of the river Lech.

Farnaſs, in Kerry, Munſter.

Farnborough, Hampſhire, 5 miles from Bagſhot. Farnborough, Warwickſ. near Edgehill. Farnborough, Berks, near E. and W. Ilſley. Farnborough, Kent, between Bromley and Sevenoaks. Farnborough, Somerſ. SE. of Penſford. Farncomb, Surry, in Godalmin pariſh. Farndale, Yorkſ. N. Riding, N. of Kirby Moreſide. Farndiſh, Bedf. NW. of Odehill. Farndon, Cheſh. NW. of Malpas. Farndon, Northamp. 1 mile S. of Market Harborough. Farnisfield, Nott. in Southwell pariſh.

*FARNHAM, a large, populous town, in Surry, noted for a caſtle, the ſummer reſidence of the biſhops of Wincheſter. It is a great market for wheat and oats, and the very fineſt hops are raiſed in plantations round it. It has many handſome houſes and well paved ſtreets, and is ſeated on the river Wey, 12 miles nearly W. of Guildford, and 39 WSW. of London. Market on Thurſday.

Farnham Royal, Bucks, 1 mile below Cliſden. Farnhurſt, Suſſ. between Godalmin and Midhurſt. Farning Wood, Northamp. S. of Rockingham Foreſt.

Farnicarney, in Sligo, Connaught.

Farn Iſlands, on the coaſt of Northumb. 17 in number; the principal, Farn Iſland, is about a mile in circumference, has a light-houſe on it, and contains 6 or 7 acres of rich paſture. Farnlaw, Northumb. N. of Kirk Whelpington. Farnley, Yorkſh. SW. of Leeds. Farnley Tyes, Yorkſh. SE. of Huthersfield. Farnton, Nott. N. of Balderton. Farnton Hall, Durh.

Durh. between Lumley and Wearmouth. Farnworth, Lanc. near Preſcot. Farnworth, Lanc. SE. of Bolton.

FARO, a town, capital of a populous and fertile iſland of Sweden, ſeparated from the NE. part of the iſland of Gothland by a narrow channel. Lat. 57. 50. N. lon 19. 7. E.

FARO OF MESSINA, the ſtrait between Italy and Sicily, about 7 miles over, it is ſo named from the Faro, or light-houſe, on Cape Faro, and it's vicinity to Meſſina.

FARO ISLANDS. See FERRO.

FARO, a ſea-port town of Algarve, in Portugal, ſituated in the Gulf of Cadiz, 20 miles SW. of Tavira. Lat. 36. 54. N. lon. 7. 48. W.

Farra, in Weſt Meath, Leinſter.

FARRA, a town of S. Carolina.

Farrantemple, in Kilkenny, Leinſter.

Farrenton, Somerſetſ. between Mendip and Dunkerton. Farrington, Dorſetſh. near Dorcheſter. Farſet, Huntingd. SE. of Peterborough.

FARSISTAN, or FARS, a fertile province of Perſia, bounded on the N. by Irac Agemi; on the E. by Kerman; on the S. by the Perſian Gulf; and on the W. by Chuſiſtan; about 420 miles long, and 360 broad. The ſouthern parts are hot and ſandy; the northern are full of mountains, or which are found the moſt beautiful falcons in Perſia, with a great number of wild ſwine, and wild cats; and the centre is the moſt fertile. The principal productions are rice and fruit. The foreſts furniſh maſtic, and emeralds are common here.

FARTACH, a ſea-port of Hadramaut, in Arabia Felix.

Farthin River, in Kerry, Munſter, is navigable a conſiderable way up, from Valentia Harbour.

Farthon, Shropſ. S. of Bridgenorth. Farway, Devonſ. W. of Culliton. Farwell, Staff. NW. of Lichfield. Farworth, Nott. in Norworth pariſh. Faſeley, Warw. S. of Tamworth. Faſtan Ferme, Hants, near Portſmouth. Faſtbury, Wilts, N. of Chute Foreſt. Faſton, Hants, SW. of Aſhmanſworth. Faſton, Linc. NW. of Grantham. Faſton, Linc. between Witham and Baſingthorp. Fuſton, Wilts, S. of Savernake Foreſt. Fattersfield, Derbyſ. in the High Peak.

FAVAGNANA, a ſmall iſle W. of Sicily.

FAUCIGNY, a province of Savoy, bounded on the N. by the territory of Chablais; on the E. by the Valais and the duchy of Aoſta; and on the S. and W. Genevois. It is divided into Upper and Lower. Woods and paſtures form the principal riches of the country. The name is derived from an ancient caſtle, ſituated near the Arve, about 3 miles N. of Bonneville.

Faughard, a mount in Louth, Leinſter.

Faulkfoſſe, or Fangfoſſe, Yorkſ. E. Riding, NW. of Pocklington. Fauld, Staff. near Tutbury. Faulick, Northumb. between Oglecaſtle and Catchburn. Fauller, Oxf. NW. of Woodſtock Park. Faunt le Roy's Marſh, Dorſetſ. near Folke.

FAUQUEMONT, or VALKENBURG, a town and diſtrict of Limburg, on the Genſe.

Fauſbot, Hants, near Alderſhot and Bramſhot. Fauſeley, Northamp. near Daventry. Fauſton, Northumb. near Yarrow. Fauterley, Northum. between the Tyne and Shotley Bridge. Fawbridge, Eſſex, on a river that runs to Gunfleet. Fawbridge, Lanc. NW. of Colne. Fawburn, Eſſex, 1 mile from Witham. Fawcet Houſe, Northamp. E. of Farthinghoe. Fawhurſt, Suſſex, near Worth Foreſt. Fawhurſt, Suſſex, near W. Grinſtead. Fawley, Bucks, W. of Great Marlow. Fawley, Hants, in the New Foreſt. Fawley, Northumb. near Simonſburn. Fawley, Chapel, Heref. on the Wye, NW. of Roſs. Fawley, Great and Little, Berks, near Lambourn. Fawſet Wood, Weſtmorl. near Whinfield. Faxfleet, Yorkſ. on the Humber, 10 miles W. of Hull. Faxton, Northamp. W. of Kettering.

FAYAL. See FYAL.

FAYENCE, a town in the dept. of Var noted for a manufacture of earthen ware. It is ſituated near the river Biaſon, 16 miles NE. of Draguignan.

Fayerbourn, Yorkſ. between Pontefract and Sherborne, noted for quarries of alabaſter. Fayerlaw Chapel, Shropſ. between N. and S. Chebury.

FAYETTE, a county of Pennſylvania and a county of Virginia.

FAYETTEVILLE, a town of N. Carolina.

Fayfield Head, Staff. NW. of Sheene. Fayland, Somerſ. between Bedminſter and Portbury.

FAYORO, a town of Arragon, ſituated at the conflux of the rivers Matarana and Ebro, 15 miles S. of Fraga.

FAYOUM, or FEIUM, anciently ARSINOE, a province of Egypt, ſituated on the W. bank of the Nile. It is fertile in olives, excellent grapes, wheat, barley, doura, the ſugar-cane, vegetables, &c. It's capital, of the ſame name, is 45 miles SSW. of Cairo.

Fazely,

Fazely, Staff. near Tamworth. Feage, or Feock, Cornw. at the head of Falmouth Haven.

Feal, a river of Ireland, which riſes near Cloonakenny, in the county of Limerick, and uniting with the river Gale, in the county of Kerry, it takes the name of Caſha, after which it falls into the Shannon mouth, about 11 miles above Kerry Head. Fearbane, or Firbane, in King's County, Leinſter, 57 miles from Dublin.

FECAMP, an ancient ſea-port town, in the dept. of the Lower Seine, containing about 1000 houſes. It has a pretty conſiderable commerce in linens, ſerges, lace, leather, and hats, with a herring and other fiſheries. It is 27 miles SW. of Dieppe.

Feckenham, Worc. 7 miles from Bromſgrove, on the W. ſide of it's foreſt. Fedderton, Cumb. W. of Brampton.

Fedemore, in Limerick, Munſter.

Feene's Houſe, Bucks, in White Waltham pariſh. Felbrig, Norfolk, NW. of Greſham. Felding, Norf. in Hempſted pariſh.

FELDKIRK, a well-built town, and ſmall county, in the Tyroleſe, ſeated on the river Ill, near the Rhine, 17 miles nearly E. of Appenzel.

Feldon, Warw. a fertile, champaign country, S. of the Avon. Felhampton, Shropſ. between Biſhop's Caſtle and Corfham Caſtle. Felix Hall, Eſſex, near Coggeſhal. Felixkirk, Yorkſ. near Thirſk. Felixton, Suffolk, on the coaſt. Felkinton, Northumb. SE. of Norham Caſtle. Felkirk, Yorkſ. SE. of Barneſley.

FELLETINS, a town in the dept. of the Creuſe, near a medicinal ſpring. It's chief trade is in cattle.

Felley, Nott. near Codnor Caſtle in Derbyſhire. Fellin, Durh. near Newcaſtle.

FELLIN, a town in Terra di Lavora.

FELLING, 3 towns in the archduchy of Auſtria.

Felmingham, Norf. NW. of Wurſted. Felpham, Suſſ. W. of Arundel. Felſham, Suffolk, S. of Walpet. Felſted, Eſſex, on the Chelmer, near Dunmow. Feltham, Middl. near Hanworth and Hounſlow. Feltham Hill, Middl. near Sunbury and Belſont. Feltborp, Norf. 9 miles from Norwich. Felton, Heref. between Bromyard and Hereford. Felton, Northumb. near Rothbury. Felton, Somerſ. NW. of Penſford. Felton Butter, Shropſh. near Mitton. Felton Welch, or Weſt, Shropſ. between Ryton and Oſweſtry.

FELTRI, a town, capital of the Feltrin, lately a diſtrict of Venice. The principal trade is in iron.

Feltwell, Norfolk, towards Brandon.

FEMERN, a ſmall iſland, 3 miles from the coaſt of Holſtein, about 9 leagues in circumference. It contains the town of Burg, and a few villages. Lat. 54. 30. N. lon. 11. 5. E.

Femingho, Northamp. NW. of Brackley.

FEMOE, a ſmall iſland of Denmark, between Zealand and Laland. Lat. 55. 1. N. lon. 11. 32. E.

Fencotes, Yorkſ. N. Riding, near Hornby Caſtle. Fencotes, Oxf. E. of Charlton.

FENESTRELLE, a town and fortreſs of Piedmont, ſituated in the Vaſley of the Vaudois, on the river Cluſon, 18 miles nearly W. of Turin.

Fenham, Northumb. near Holy Iſland.

Fenet Iſland, on the N. ſide of Kerry, in Munſter.

Fenlake, Bedf. in Cardington pariſh. Fen, E. and W. Linc. SW. of Wainfleet, and SE. of Tatterſhall. Fennam, Northumb. in Newcaſtle pariſh. Fennick Chapel, Yorkſ. W. Riding, 3E. of Pontefract.

Fennoagh, in Waterford, Munſter.

Fenny Lodge, Staff. W. of Burton upon Trent. Fen Ottery, Devonſ. NW. of Sidmouth.

Fenough, in Carlow, Leinſter.

Fenton, Devonſ. near Plymtree. Fenton, Nott. on the E. ſide of Redgrave. Fenton, Hunt. in the pariſh of Somerſham. Fenton, Northumb. in Woller lordſhip. Fenton, Linc. S. of Beckingham. Fenton, Yorkſ. W. Riding, between Aberford and Cawood. Fenton, Staff. in the pariſh of Stoke upon Trent. Fenton Gallen, Cornw. near a branch of Falmouth Haven. Fenwick Hall, Northumb. between Kirkheadon and Newcaſtle.

Fenwick's Paſs, in Down, Ulſter.

FERABAD, a town of Mezanderan, in Perſia, containing about 16,000 inhabitants, principally Georgians and Armenians. The environs produce ſugar, cotton, and ſilk. It is ſituated near the S. coaſt of the Caſpian Sea, about 90 leagues N. of Iſpahan.

FERABAD, a town of Perſia, 1 mile and a half diſtant from Iſpahan. It extends almoſt 3 miles along the banks of the Zenderoad.

FERE, La, a town in the depart. of Aiſne, ſituated in a marſhy ſoil, near the river Serre, which runs into the Oiſe. Near it is the caſtle, St. Gobin, famous for it's manufactory of fine plate glaſs.

Fereby, N. and S. Linc. near Barton on the Humber.

FERENTINO, or FIORENTINO, a town in the Campagna di Roma; and a town of Capitanata, in Naples.

Fering, Eſſex, SE. of Coggeſhall.

FERMANAGH, a county of Ulſter, in Ireland, 35 miles in length, and about 25 in breadth, containing 19 pariſhes. It is bounded on the W. by Leitrim and Donegal; on the N. by Donegal and Tyrone; on the E. by Tyrone and Monaghan; and on the S. by Cavan and Leitrim. It is navigable throughout it's whole length, by means of the Lakes of Lough Erne; but travelling in it is difficult, in many places, by reaſon of the hilly, rugged, and uneven ſurface of the country, and the boggy grounds. The number of houſes is calculated at nearly 12,000, and of the inhabitants at 72,000. The linen manufacture, and raiſing cattle, form the chief trade of this county. There is only one linen-market in it, but the country abounds with ſpinners and good flax. The ſales are averaged at 41001. annually. Enniſkillen is the capital.

FERMO, a town of Ancona, ſituated near the Adriatic.

FERMOY, a town in Cork, Munſter, ſeated on the Blackwater, over which there is a large ſtone bridge of 13 arches.

FERNAMBUC. See OLINDA.

FERNANDO DA NORONHA, an iſland, about 3 miles long, near the coaſt of Braſil. It is full of mountains, which have the appearance of volcanoes, but yet is covered with verdure. The ſoldiers and few inhabitants here are ſupported with turtle 5 months of the year, and the reſt with proviſions from the continent. Lat. 3. 56. S. lon. 32. 38. W.

Fernden, Suſſex, near Blackdown. Fern Down, Dorſetſhire, near Winford Eagle. Fernham St. Genevieve, and Fernham St. Martin, Suffolk, N. of Bury. Fernhill, Shropſhire, between Oſweſtry and Chirk. Fernhouſes, Derbyſhire, in the High Peak. Ferniſham, Berks, near Farringdon.

*FERNS, a town of Wexford, in Leinſter, 15 miles N. of Wexford, and 54 S. of Dublin.

Ferny Lee, Derbyſ. in the High Peak. Ferney Hall, Shropſ. NW. of Ludlow.

FERRARA, a city and diſtrict of Italy, in the Pope's territories. The Ferrareſe is now almoſt uncultivated, though formerly one of the fineſt countries in Italy. The air is unwholeſome, on account of the marſhes, and the inhabitants are too few to drain them. The town of Ferrara has a number of fine buildings, which evince it's former opulence; but the inhabitants, who are very few, in proportion to the extent of the place, bear every mark of poverty. Arioſto lies buried here in a Benedictine convent, and Taſſo was confined as an idiot in the hoſpital of St Anne. It is ſeated on a branch of the Po 25 miles NE. of Bologna.

Ferriby, Yorkſ. near Hull. Ferring Suſſex, on the coaſt, SE. of Augnering. Ferring Ferry, Kent, oppoſite to the Iſ of Sheppey.

FERRITER'S ISLANDS. See BLASQUES.

FERRO, or HIERO, the moſt weſterl of the Canary Iſlands, remarkable for a fording little water, except what is ſup plied by the fountain tree, which grow here (it's top being always covered wit a thick cloud) and which diſtils wate from it's leaves, in ſuch plenty as to ſa tisfy the wants of the inhabitants. Man voyagers, at leaſt ſpeak ſo; but th French geographers totally deny it's ex iſtence; and, indeed, this tree has bee but too long the ſubject of a popula error. It is more probable, that the inha bitants make uſe of what water they ca collect in ciſterns and reſervoirs during th rainy ſeaſon. Though not very fertil the inhabitants raiſe corn, ſugar, fruit and legumes, and feed a great number cattle. The weſtern extremity of Fer was, heretofore, by common conſent, a counted the place of the firſt meridian but the national partialities, having in duced the moderns to adopt the capital their own particular countries, as th place from which to reckon the longitude the following is it's ſituation accordin to the Engliſh. Lat. 27. 47. N. lon. 1 46. W.

FERRO, FARO, FAROL, or FAROE ISLANDS, 25 ſmall iſlands in the Nortl ern Ocean, ſubject to Denmark, of whic 17 only are habitable. Each of theſe is lofty mountain, riſing out of the wave divided from the others by deep and rap currents. Some are deeply indented wit ſecure harbours; all are ſteep, and mo of them exhibit tremendous precipice The ſoil is ſhallow, but remarkably fe tile; barley, the only corn grown her yields above 20 for 1; and the graſs a fords abundant paſturage for ſheep: bu no trees, above the ſize of a juniper ſtunted willow are to be ſeen here. Va quantities of ſea-fowl frequent the rock the taking of which furniſhes a perilou employ for the inhabitants. Their expor are ſalted mutton, tallow, gooſe-quill feathers, eider-down, knit woollen waiſ coat

coats, caps, and ſtockings. Lat. between 51. 15. and 62. 10. N. lon. between 5. and 7. 26. W.

FERROL, a ſtrongly fortified town of Galicia, with one of the beſt harbours in Spain, and even in all Europe; veſſels lying ſecure here from all winds. It is now a marine arſenal, and the principal ſtation for the Spaniſh navy, although, in 1751, it was only a ſmall and dirty fiſhing-town. It is ſeated on a bay of the Atlantic Ocean, 20 miles NE. of Corunna. Lat. 43. 30. N. lon. 8. 4. W.

Ferry, Yorkſh. W. Riding, over the Don, near Bramby. Ferry, Cheſ. W. of Liverpool Haven.

Ferry Bank, in Derry, Ulſter. Ferry Bank, in Kilkenny, Leinſter.

*FERRY BRIDGE, a town of Yorkſhire, in the W. Riding, ſituated on the river Are, 1 mile from Pontefract.

FERRY TOWN OF CREE, a town in the county of Kirkcudbright.

Ferry Eaſt, Linc. on the Trent, W. of Kirton. Ferry Hill, Durham, NE. of Biſhop Auckland. Ferſfield, Norf. between Diſs and Buckenham.

FERTE' ALAIS, LA, a town in the dept. of Seine and Oiſe, 18 miles S. of Paris.

FERTE' BERNARD, LA, a town in the dept. of the Sarte, ſeated on the river Huiſne, 20 miles NE. of Mans.

FERTE' CHAUDRON, a town in the dept. of the Nievre, 20 miles NW. of Moulins. Ferté is alſo the name of a town in the reſpective depts. of the Loir and Cher, Yonne, Orne, Aiſne, and Loiret; two in the dept. of Eure and Loire; and two in the dept. of Seine and Marne.

FERTE' SUR AUBE, a town in the dept. of the Upper Marne, ſituated on the Aube, 15 miles W. of Chaumont.

Fertragh, in Kilkenny, Leinſter.

Feſſike, Lincolnſ. SE. of Dunnington.

Fetcham, Surry, near Leatherhead.

FETHARD, a town of Tipperary, in Munſter, 78 miles SW. of Dublin.

FETHARD, a town of Wexford, Leinſter, ſituated on the coaſt, 81 miles S. of Dublin.

Fetherſton, Staffordſ. in Brewood pariſh. Fetherſton, Yorkſhire, W. Riding, W. of Pontefract. Fetherſton Haugh, Northumb. SW. of Beltingham and Haltweſel, by S. Tyne.

FETU, or AFFETU, a country on the Gold Coaſt of Guinea, E. of Commenda. It was formerly about 160 miles in length, but is now ſaid to be reduced to 10 miles in length and the ſame in breadth, being almoſt ruined by wars. It is a pleaſant and fertile country, abounding in corn, cattle, palm wine, and oil, and is full of narrow paths, bordered with ſhady trees. The Dutch have a fort here.

*FEVERSHAM, a very ancient town of Kent, containing about 600 houſes and 5000 inhabitants. It has a large manufacture of gunpowder, and a conſiderable oyſter fiſhery, employs a number of veſſels in the coaſting trade, and even ſends ſome to Pruſſia, Norway, and Sweden, for fir timber and iron. Four hoys trade alternately from this place to London, every week, with corn, hops, &c. It is ſeated on a creek, which is navigable for veſſels of 130 tons, and which communicates with the E. Swale, 9 miles NW. of Canterbury, and 48 E. by S. of London. Markets on Wedneſday and Saturday.

FEURS, a town in the dept. of Rhone and Loire, ſeated on the river Loire, 23 miles SW. of Lyons.

Fews, a pariſh of Waterford, in Munſter Fews, a ridge of mountains, which runs acroſs Armagh, in Ulſter.

Fewston, Yorkſ. W. of Knareſborough.

FEZ, a large country of Barbary, in Africa, bounded on the W. by the Atlantic Ocean; on the N. by the Mediterranean Sea; on the E. by Algiers, and a part of Biledulgerid; and on the S. by Biledulgerid, Tafilet, and Morocco. It is near 400 miles in length, and from 70 to 280 in breadth. The air is temperate and wholeſome, and the country is mountainous, particularly to the W. and S. near Mount Atlas. The foreſts abound with wild beaſts, and the lions are the moſt daring and ſavage in Africa. The ſoil is fertile and populous, producing citrons, oranges, dates, almonds, olives, figs, raiſins, ſugar, honey, and corn in abundance. Here are fine breeds of camels, beeves, ſheep, and other cattle; and the horſes are the fineſt in Barbary. It is watered by ſeveral rivers and ſtreams, and the chief town is Fez; but Sallee is the principal port for their cruiſers, or rovers, which are ſmall, but full of men.

FEZ, the capital of Fez, is one of the largeſt cities in Africa. It is compoſed of three towns, Beleyde, Old Fez, and New Fez. Old Fez is the moſt conſiderable, and contains about 80,000 inhabitants. The palaces are magnificent, and there are a great number of moſques, adorned with marble pillars and other ornaments. Here are two colleges for ſtudents, built of marble and adorned with paintings; one of theſe has 100 rooms. Here are alſo above 100 public baths. The houſes are moſtly built of brick or ſtone, and adorned with moſaic work; thoſe of brick are ornamented with glazing and colours, like Dutch tiles; and the wood work and ceilings are carved, painted, and gilt. There is a court to every houſe, in which are ſquare marble baſins. The roofs are flat, and the inhabitants ſleep on them in the ſummer. The gardens are numerous, and full of fragrant flowers and ſhrubs. The inhabitants are clothed like the Turks. All the traders live in a ſeparate part of the city; and the exchange is as large as a ſmall town. From hence the caravans go to Mecca, carrying with them ready-made garments, Morocco leather, indigo, cochineal, and oſtrich feathers, for which they receive in return ſilks, muſlins, and drugs. Other caravans go to Tombuctou, and the river Niger; one of which generally conſiſts of about 20,000 perſons. They travel over ſuch dry, barren deſerts, that every other camel carries water. Their commodities are felt, cowries, wrought ſilk, Britiſh cloth, and the woollen manufactures of Barbary. Here are great numbers of Jews, but the bulk of the inhabitants are Moors, of a tawney complexion; there are alſo great numbers of negroes and their deſcendants. Fez is 160 miles nearly S. of Gibraltar, and 210 NNE. of Morocco. Lat 34. 4. N. lon. 5. 35. W.

FEZZAN, a country of Africa, forming, according to the report of Mr. Lucas, (a miſſionary employed by the Aſſociation, for exploring the interior of that continent) a circular domain in a vaſt wilderneſs, like an iſland in the ocean, is bounded on the N. by Tripoli; on the E. by the deſerts which divide it from Egypt; on the S. by Bornou, or Bernoa, and Caſhna; and on the W. by the Deſerts of Zaara, lying between 25 and 30 degrees N. latitude. It is an extenſive plain, encompaſſed by mountains, except to the W. Among their tame animals are the ſheep, cow, goat, camel, and a ſpecies of the domeſtic fowl of Europe. The wild animals are the oſtrich, and antelopes of various kinds. Adders, ſnakes, ſcorpions, and toads are numerous, and ſometimes crawl into their houſes. The heats of ſummer are intenſe, when the wind is generally from the E. and S.; but if it change, as it ſometimes does, for a few days, to the W. or N. an agreeable and reviving freſhneſs takes place. The diſeaſes to which the inhabitants are moſt ſubject, are thoſe of the inflammatory and putrid kind. The ſmall pox is common; violent head-aches attack them in the ſummer, and they are troubled with rheumatic pains. The natives are of a deep ſwarthy complexion; inclining in their perſons more to the negro than the Arab caſt. They are tall, but indolent and inactive. Their dreſs is ſimilar to that of the Moors in Barbary. Agriculture and paſturage are the chief occupations. The houſes are built of clay, with a flat roof compoſed of boughs of trees, on which a quantity of earth is laid. There are ſome venerable remains of ancient magnificence, and numerous ſmoking lakes, producing a ſpecies of foſſil alkali, called trona. In their common intercourſe, the ſhereef (or governor) and the pooreſt of the people converſe familiarly, and eat and drink together. In religion they are ſtrict, but not intolerant Mahometans, and ſeem tolerably comfortable under their government, which is monarchical. Gold duſt conſtitutes their chief medium of payment; and value in that medium is always expreſſed by weight. The ſovereign, who is believed to be deſcended from their prophet, is tributary to the baſhaw of Tripoli. Mourzouk is the capital of this country, which is ſaid to contain 28 towns and 100 villages.

FIANO, a town in St. Peter's Patrimony, ſituated on the Tiber, 15 miles N. of Rome.

FIANONA, a ſea-port town of the late Venetian Iſtria.

FIANCONE, MONTE, a town of Italy, in the Patrimonio, ſeated on a mountain, 11 miles NNW. of Viterbo. It is noted for fine Muſcadine wine.

FICARI, a town and river of Corſica.

FICHERUOLO, a town in the Ferrarieſe.

Fidan, a river in Monmouthſ. which runs into the Uſk near Penvawell Hill

Fiddington, Somerſ. SE. of Stokegurſey

Fiddington, Glouceſ. near Tewkeſbury.

Fiddoun, in Kilkenny, Leinſter.

Fidlers, Eſſex, W. of Chelmsford

Field, Staff. near Gratwich. Fieldaw'ing Norfolk, near Holt. Fieldham, Yorkſh NW. of Richmond. Field Place, Surry in Compton Pariſh.

Fields Town, in Dublin, Leinſter.

FIESOLA, a town of Tuſcany.

Fifehead, Dorſetſ. near Stalbridge. Fifehead, Dorſetſ. SW. of Stourminſter. Fifehead, Somerſetſ. W. of Lidiard Biſhops Fifehead, Somerſetſ. SW. of Langpor Fifehide Nevil, Dorſetſ. NW. of Dur weſton. Fifehide Magdalen, Dorſetſ. mile from Marnhull.

FIFESHIRE, a county of Scotland bounded on the N. by the river Tay, pa of Perthſhire, and the county of Kinroſs the E. by the German Ocean and the th of Forth; on the S. by the Frith of th; and on the W. by the counties of th, Kinroſs, and Clackmannan. It is ut 38 miles in length, and from 7 to 16 readth This country is fertile in point il, abundant in cattle, ſupplies coals, lime, and freeſtone; is uncommonly lous, and has a number of flouriſhing factures. The whole ſhore, indeed, Crail to Culroſs, is one continued of towns and villages, and property markably well divided here.

ield, Berks, in the pariſh of Bray.
, Oxf. near Benſon. Fifield, Wilts, en Enford and Nether Haven. Fi- Glouc. in Eaſt Leach Martin pariſh.

EAC, a town in the dept. of Lot, on the river Selle, 24 miles NE. of s, and 270 S. of Paris.

elden, Wilts, N. of Buckminſter.

ree, in Derry, Ulſter.

UERA, a town of Catalonia.

UEIRO DOS VINHO, a town of gueſe Eſtramadura, celebrated for ne; ſeated near the river Zizere, 20 N. of Thomar.

, Norfolk, between Hickling and outh. Filey, Bay and Bridge, Yorkſ. of Flamborough Head. Filgrace, between Newport and Oulney, Oxfordſ. near Lechlade.

LEK, a town of Novigrad, in Hun-

, Devonſ. 3 miles from S. Moul- lingham, Linc. near Glentworth. ley, Old and New, Warw. SE. of ill. Fil-wood Foreſt, Somerſ. W. nſham. Filton, Glouceſ. 4 miles riſtol.

a river of Donegal, in Ulſter, which rom a lake of the ſame name, and to Lough Foyle, near Strabane.

river of Ireland, which riſes in the t of Monaghan, and runs into Lough 3 miles N. of Belturbet. Finae, in eath, Leinſter. Fin Avon, a river k, in Munſter.

ALE, a town on the coaſt of Genoa.

ALE, a town of Modena.

arrow, Suffolk, near Stow. Finbo- Cheſh. in Delamere Foreſt. Fin- Norf. SW. of Swaffham. Finch-, Berks, between Swallowfield and urſt. Finchcolis, Kent, in Goud- pariſh. Finchend, Herts, NE. of age. Finchingfield, Eſſex, E. of ted. Finchley, Middl. between Hen- d Coney Hatch. Findern, Derbyſ. en Derby and Burton upon Trent.

DHORN, a conſiderable fiſhing town ginſhire, ſituated at the mouth of the river Findhorn, which forms a tolerable harbour, and a large and convenient bay, 9 miles W. of Elgin.

Findon, Northamp. 2 miles from Wellingborough. Findon, Suſſex, near Stening and Cæſar's Hill. Fingall, Yorkſh. N. Riding, near Conſtable Burton. Fingerſt, Bucks, W. of High Wycombe. Fingland, Cumb. in the pariſh of Acton.

Finglaſs, in Dublin, Leinſter, within 3 miles of the metropolis.

Fingleſham, Kent, NW. of Deal. Finginhoe, Eſſex, near Colcheſter. Finningham, Suffolk, NW. of Mendleſham.

FINISTERRA, CAPE, the moſt weſtern part, not only of Spain, but of the continent of Europe. It was formerly thought to be, as it's name imports, the End of the Earth. Lat. 42. 52. N. lon. 9. 17. W.

FINISTERRE, a department of France, being the moſt weſterly part of that country, and part of the ci-devant Bretagne. It is bounded on the E. by the depts. of the N. Coaſt and Morbihan, and on the N. W. and S. by the Sea. Quimper is the chief town.

Finkley, Durh. S. of Lumley Caſtle.

FINLAND, one of the five general diviſions of Sweden, bounded on the N. by Lapland, on the E. by Ruſſia, on the S. by the Gulf of Finland, and on the W. by that of Bothnia. It contains the provinces of Finland Proper, the Iſle of Oeland, Oſtrobothnia, Tavaſteland, Nyland, Savolax, and Kymmenegards Lehn. It is a pretty fruitful country, but principally abounds in paſture, cattle, and game. It's rivers and lakes are well ſtocked with fiſh, which, with cheeſe and butter, forms a principal part of their trade. Finland is about 160 miles in length, and 100 in breadth. Abo is the capital.

FINLAND, GULF OF, the moſt eaſterly branch of the Baltic.

FINLAND, RUSSIAN. See WIBURG.

FINLAND, PROPER, a province of Sweden, ſituated in the ſouthern part of Finland, having the Gulf of Finland on the S. and the Gulf of Bothnia on the W; about 160 miles in length, and 100 in breadth. Abo is the capital.

FIN MA COUL, or FINGALL'S CAVE. See STAFFA.

FINMARK, divided into EAST and WEST, a diſtrict of Norway, in the government of Wardhuys. It is bounded on the N. by the Northern Ocean and Ruſſia, on the S. by Swediſh Lapland, and on the W. by the Northern Ocean. There are neither towns nor villages, although the coaſt is pretty well inhabited. The inhabitants ſubſiſt chiefly by fiſhing.

West Finmark includes 12 churches and chapels, served by 5 preachers; and East Finmark 9 churches and chapels, served by 3 preachers.

Finmere, Oxfords. NE. of Caversfield. Finningley, Nottingh. SE. of Doncaster.

Finnis, in Down, Ulster.

Finsham, or Fynham, Warw. a member of Stonely. Finsheved, Northamp. 1 mile from Bletherwic. Finstock, or Finscott, Oxfords. near Banbury.

Fintona, in Tyrone, Ulster, 93 miles from Dublin. Fintown, in Donegal, Ulster, 125 miles from Dublin. Lough Fin, 2 miles long, but not very broad, is within a quarter of a mile of it.

FIONDA, a town of Natolia, on the Gulf of Satalia.

FIORENZA, ST. a sea-port town of Corsica, situated on a bay, which forms the harbour, 6 miles W. of Bastia.

FIORENZUOLA, a town of Parma, and a town of Tuscany.

Fippeny Aukford, Dorsets. S. of Stourminster. Firbank, Westmorl. NE. of Kendal. Firby, Yorks. SW. of New Malton. Firby, Yorks. N. Riding, SE. of Bedal. Firmingham, Sussex. Firsby, Linc. SE. of Spilsby. Fishborn, Durh. between Stockton and Durham. Fishborn, Sussex, near Beachy Head. Fisherton Anger, Wilts, near Salisbury. Fisher on Delamere, Wilts, near the Willey, NW. of the Langfords.

FISHER ROW, a town of Scotland, near Edinburgh, situated on the river Esk, opposite Musselburgh.

Fisher's Hall, Kent, in Hadlow parish. Fisherton, Nott. near Southwell. Fisherwick, Staff. E. of Lichfield. Fishlake, Yorks. W. Riding, W. of Thorne. Fishley, Norfolk, NW. of Yarmouth. Fishouse, Isle of Wight, in E. Medina.

FISHKARD, a town of Pembrokeshire, which carries on a considerable trade in herrings, this town, with Newport, curing above 1000 barrels annually. It is situated on a steep cliff, at the influx of the river Gwaine, which here forms a spacious bay, where vessels may lie safely in 5 or 6 fathoms water, 242 miles W. by N. of London. Market on Friday.

FISHKILL, a town of New York.

FISH RIVER, GREAT, in Africa, divides Caffraria from the country of the Hottentots, and falls into the Indian Ocean, in lat. 30. 30. S. The deepest parts of this river are inhabited by the hippopotamus, and the adjacent forests by elephants, rhinoceroses, and buffaloes.

Fishtoft, Linc. near Boston. Fishwick, Lanc. in Amounderness. Fifkerton, E. of Lincoln, on the Witham.

FISMES, a town in the dept. of the Marne, situated on the Vesle, 15 miles NW. of Rheims.

FISTELLA, or the FEFZA, a town in Morocco, the inhabitants of which trade in fine garments. It is 150 miles NE. of Morocco.

Fittleworth, Sussex, E. of Petworth. Fitling, Yorks. in Holderness. Fits, NW of Shrewsbury. Fittleford, Dorsets. N of Stourminster. Fittleton, Wilts, near Ambresbury. Fitzford, Devons. near Tavistock. Fitzhead, Somers. E. of Wivelcomb.

FIVE CHURCHES, a town of Lower Hungary, 85 miles S. of Buda.

Five Mile Cross, Rutland, between Stamford and Grantham.

Five Mile Bridge, in Cork, Munster.

Five Mile Town, in Tyrone, Ulster, 11 miles from Dublin.

FIUM. See FAYOUM.

FITUME, or ST. VEIT, a populous sea-port town of Carniola, on the Adriatic, noted for good grapes, figs, and other fruits.

Fixby, Yorks. near Huthersfield. Flakleton, SE. of Northampton. Fladbury, Worc. 2 miles NW. of Evesham. Flamore, Yorks. N. Riding, N. of Kirkmoorside. Flaghouses, Derb. in the High Peak. Flamberds, Essex, S. of Malden. Flamberds, Middl. in the parish of Harrow on the Hill.

FLAMBOROUGH HEAD, a remarkable promontory of Yorkshire, the white cliffs of which are seen at a considerable distance at sea, and serve for a direction to mariners. Unnumbered multitudes of sea fowls nest here among the rocks, and fill the air with their cries. It is 5 miles nearly E. of Bridlington. Lat. 54. 9. N. lon. 0. 4. E.

Flamborough, Yorks. a village situated on the promontory which forms Burlington Bay. Flamborough, Nottingh. in the parishes of Orston and Staunton. Flamsted, Herts, on the river Verlam, 2 miles from Market Street. Flamston, Wilts between Wardour Castle and Sarum. Flanchford, Surry, in Ryegate parish.

FLANDERS, a province of the Netherlands, or Belgium, heretofore divided into Dutch, Austrian, and French Flanders, but now annexed to France. It's greatest length is about 60 miles, and it's breadth 50. It is bounded on the W. by the German Ocean and Artois; on the N. by the mouth of the Scheldt and the sea; on the E. by Brabant and Hainault; and on the S. by Hainault and Artois. It is a champaign country, uncommonly fertile in grain and pastures, and the air is wholesom

The Flemings were formerly the principal manufacturers and merchants of Europe, and from them the Engliſh learned the art of weaving. Their table linens, lace, and tapeſtry, are yet thought to be ſuperior to all others.

Flander's Hall, Warw. near Athelſton. Flaſham, Suſſex, near Felpham. Flaſby, Yorkſ. W. Riding, NW. of Skipton. Flaſby, Yorkſ. between Wetherby and Boroughbridge. Flaſk, W. of Durham.

FLATTERY, CAPE, on the W. coaſt of N. America. Lat. 48. 15. N. lon. 124. 57. W. Alſo a cape on the NE. coaſt of New Holland. Lat. 14. 56. S. lon. 145. 17 E.

Flavell Flivord, Worceſ. between Alceſter and Worceſter.

FLAVIGNI, a town in the dept. of Côte d'Or, ſituated on the Ozerain, 27 miles WNW. of Dijon.

Flaunden, Herts, between Rickmanſworth and Berkhamſted. Flawford, Nott. near Ruddington. Flaxfleet, Yorkſ. E. Riding, near S. Cave. Flaxley, Glouc. 2 miles from Mitchel Dean, and 3 from Newnham. Flaxton, 5 miles NE. of York. Flayards, Cheſ. NE. of Beeſton Caſtle.

FLECHE, LA, a little town in the dept. of Sarte, ſeated on the river Loire, 22 miles NE. of Angers.

Fleckney, Leic. 5 miles W. of Hallaton. Fledborough, Nott. E. of Tuxford. Fleet, a river in Nottinghamſhire, running into the Trent, at Girtow. Fleet, Devonſ. near Modbury. Fleet, Linc. in the Fens, near Gedney. Fleet, Dorſetſ. near Melcomb Regis.

Fleet, a little river of Kirkcudbrightſhire, which winds through a beautiful valley, ſcreened by woody hills, and enters Wigtown Bay by the village of Gatehouſe.

Flegg, Norfolk, a peninſula near Acle, containing 13 villages, whoſe names terminate in by. Flekenhoe, Warw. in Wolphamcote pariſh. Flemdyke, Camb. runs 5 miles from Hinkeſton towards Horſeheath. Fleming Place, Eſſex, NE. of Billericay.

FLEMINGS, a town of New Jerſey.

Flempton, Suffolk, SE. of Lackford.

FLENSBURG, a ſea-port town, the capital of Sleſwick, in Denmark. It is a place of conſiderable commerce, with a harbour on the Baltic, deep enough for large ſhips. It is 18 miles N. of Sleſwick. Lat. 54. 50. N. lon. 9. 29. E.

Fleſhland, Iſle of Wight, in E. Medina.

Fleſk, two rivers in Kerry, Munſter.

Fletcham, Yorkſ. NE of Hornby Caſtle. Fletchamſted, Warw. 2 miles from Coventry. Fletching, Suſſex, between Lewes and E. Grinſted. Fletton, Hunt. near Peterborough.

FLEURUS, a village of Namur, in the Netherlands, where Prince Waldeck was defeated by the Duke of Luxemburg, in 1690. The allies loſt about 5000 men killed, and 4000 priſoners, with 49 pieces of cannon, 8 pair of kettle-drums, and 92 ſtandards and colours.

FLEURY, a town in the dept. of Loiret; and a town in the dept. of the Pas de Calais.

FLIE, or VLIELANDT, an iſland on the coaſt of Holland, ſituated at the mouth of the Zuyder Zee, 5 miles N. from the Texel. It is ſituated on the river Vlie, which runs into the German Ocean between this iſland and the iſland of Schelling.

Fliford, NE. of Worceſter, near Grafton. Flimby, or Flingby, Cumb. near Maryport. Flimwell, Kent, SW. of Cranbrook.

FLINT, a ſmall town, the capital of Flintſhire, without much trade, or a market. It is ſeated on the river Dee, 12 miles WNW. of Cheſter, and 193 NW. of London.

Flintham, Nottingh. 4 miles from Bingham. Flinthouſe, Eſſex, N. of Billericay. Flinton, Yorkſ. in Holderneſs.

FLINTSHIRE, a county of North Wales, bounded on the NW. by the Iriſh Sea; on the N. and NE. by a large bay at the mouth of the river Dee, which divides it from Cheſhire; on the E. by the river Dee and part of Cheſhire; and on the S. and SW. by Denbighſhire. It is about 27 miles in length, and from 7 to 10 in breadth. Part of Flintſhire ſtretches E. of the Dee, a tract about 9 miles in length, and from 5 to 8 acroſs, inſulated by Cheſhire, Shropſhire, and Denbighſhire. It is divided into 5 hundreds, which contain 2 market towns, and 28 pariſhes. The northern part produces wheat: there is alſo much wood. The cows, though ſmall, yield a great quantity of milk, and are excellent beef. They have honey alſo, of which they make mead, a liquor much uſed in thoſe parts. The principal rivers are the Dee, Clywd, Wheeler, Sevion, Elwy, and Allen. The valleys contain coal and freeſtone, and the hills lead and calamine, with vaſt quantities of limeſtone, but no flint. The principal trade is mining and ſmelting. The detached part is moſtly a level country.

Flintſtone, Dorſetſh. in the pariſh of S. Perrot. Flitcham, Norfolk, E. of Caſtle Riſing. Flittes Felt, Northumb. near the head of the Tyne. Flitton, Bedf. SE. of Ampthill. Flitwick, Bedfordſ. between Ampthill and Tuddington.

FLIX, a town of Catalonia, 20 miles NW. of Tortoſa.

Flixborough, Linc. has a ferry over the Trent to Axholm Iſle. Flixthorp, Nott. between Wirkſop and Blith. Flixton, Yorkſ. NW. of Hunanby. Flixton, Lanc. SW. of Mancheſter. Flixton, Suff. near Leoſtoff. Flixton, Suffolk, near Bungay. Flodden, Northumb. on the Till, betwixt the Glen and Tweed, famous for a victory gained, Sept. 9, 1513, by the Engliſh over the Scots, who had invaded the kingdom in the abſence of Henry VIII. at Tournay. The Scots loſt about 10,000 men, including King James IV. and the flower of their nobility and gentry; the loſs of the Engliſh amounted to about 5000. Flokeſborrow, Lanc. SW. of Cartmel. Flordon, Norf. SE. of Wyndham.

FLORENCE, a celebrated and beautiful city of Italy, the capital of Tuſcany, ſituated in the middle of the Vale of Arno. The proſpect here is bounded on every ſide by an amphitheatre of fertile hills, adorned with villages, country-houſes, and gardens. It was founded by the ſoldiers of Sylla, deſtroyed by Totila, and rebuilt by Charlemagne. For curioſities, this city is the principal in Italy, after Rome. The architecture of the houſes, in general, is executed in a good taſte, the ſtreets are clean, and paved with large broad ſtones, chiſſeled ſo as to prevent the horſes from ſliding. The ſquares are ſpacious, and the palaces, churches, and other public ſtructures, are in a ſplendid ſtyle of architecture, with pillars, ſtatues, pyramids, and fountains, in almoſt every ſtreet. The city is divided into two unequal parts by the river Arno, over which there are 4 bridges, within ſight of each other. That called Ponte de la Trinita is built of white marble, and adorned with 4 ſtatues, repreſenting the ſeaſons, and other ornaments. The Florentine merchants were formerly men of vaſt wealth, and one of them, about the middle of the 15th century, built that grand fabric, which, from the name of it's founder, is ſtill called the Palazzo Pitti. He failed under the prodigious expence of this building, which was immediately purchaſed by the Medici family, and has continued ever ſince to be the reſidence of the grand dukes. Beſides the gardens, furniture, antique ſtatues, paintings, &c. which are juſtly and univerſally admired; here are various other curioſities, as the cabinets of arts, of aſtronomy, of natural hiſtory, of medals, of porcelain, of antiquities, &c. In the year 1530, Alexander de Medicis was created Grand Duke of Tuſcany, by the Emperor Charles V. and in 1737, the family of Medicis became extinct, when Florence and the duchy of Tuſcany fell to the duke of Lorraine, afterwards emperor. Florence contains a univerſity, and is 125 miles NNW. of Rome. Lat. 43. 46. N. lon. 11. 20. E.

FLORENT, ST. a town in the dept. of Maine and Loire, ſeated on the river Loire, 19 miles SW. of Angers.

FLORENTIN, ST. a town in the dept. of Yonne, ſituated at the confluence of the rivers Armance and Armançon, 15 miles NE. of Auxerre, and 80 SE. of Paris.

FLORENTINO, one of the 3 provinces of Tuſcany, in Italy. The Arno riſes in this province, and runs through the middle of it. Florence is the capital.

FLORES, an iſland of the Azores, about 30 miles long and 9 broad. Santa Cruz is the capital, but Lagens is the moſt populous town, beſides which it has ſome hamlets. The number of inhabitants is about 1300 or 1400. It is fertile, and takes it's name from the numberleſs flowers which grow wild in every part of the iſland.

FLORIDA, a country of N. America, bounded on the W. by Louiſiana, on the N. by Louiſiana and Georgia, on the E. by the Atlantic, and on the S. by the Gulf of Mexico. It is divided into E. and W. Eaſt Florida extends about 350 miles from N. to S. and 160 from E. to W. Weſt Florida is about 200 miles from E. to W. and 50 from N. to S. St. Auguſtine is the capital of the former, and Penſacola of the latter. The country about St. Auguſtine is the leaſt fertile; yet even here two crops of Indian corn are annually produced. The banks of the rivers are of a ſuperior quality, and well adapted to the culture of rice and corn. The interior country, which is high and pleaſant, abounds with wood of almoſt every kind, particularly white and red oak, pine, hickory, cypreſs, red and white cedar. The intervals between the hilly parts are extremely rich, and produce ſpontaneouſly all the fruits common to Georgia and the Carolinas. In many places, vines are ſucceſsfully cultivated, and the ranges of cattle are immenſe. The king of Spain holds poſſeſſion of Florida; but the Indians, or native Americans, are pretty numerous.

FLOTZ, a town of Anhalt Zerbſt, in Upper Saxony; and a town of Walachia.

FLOUR, ST. a town in the dept. of Cantal, before the revolution, capital of Upper Auvergne. Here is a manufactu of knives, cloths, and carpets, and it's fairs are noted for the ſale of mules, corn, and rye. It is 45 miles nearly S. of Clermont, and 250 S. of Paris.

Flower, Surry, near Godſtone. Flower, Northamp. 3 miles from Daventry. Flowfare, Nott. in the pariſh of Barneby in the Willows. Flowton, Suff. SE. of Bliſto.

Flurry Bridge*, in Louth, Leinſter, 46 miles from Dublin.

FLUSHING, a town of the United Provinces, in the Iſle of Walcheren, in Zealand, with a good harbour, and an extenſive foreign trade. It is 4 miles SW. of Middleburg. Lat. 51. 29. N. lon. 3. 35. E.

Flyſbing, Cornw. in Falmouth Harbour. Foal, Upper and Lower, Staff. near Checkley. Fobbing, Eſſex, near Canvey Iſland.

FOCHABERS, a town of Banffſhire, near the river Spey. In it's neighbourhood is Gordon Caſtle, the princely manſion of the Duke of Gordon.

FOCHIA NOVA, a ſea-port of Natolia, ſituated at the mouth of the Hermus, (near which the Turkiſh fleet was defeated by the Venetians, in 1650) 28 miles NW. of Smyrna.

FODWAR, a town of Hungary, ſeated on the Danube, oppoſite Colocza.

FOGARAS, a town of Tranſylvania, ſeated on the Alauta, the ſee of a Greek biſhop.

FOGGIA, a town of Capitanata, in Naples, the ſtaple for wool for all the adjacent country.

Foggart, in Louth, Leinſter.

FOGLIA, a river of Urbino, in the pope's territories, which falls into the Adriatic at Peſano.

FOGO. See FUEGO.

Fogtborp, Yorkſ. E. Riding, W. of Spalding Moor.

FOIANA, in Capitanata, Naples.

FOIX, a town in the dept. of Arriege, containing about 3500 inhabitants. Here is a manufacture of coarſe woollen cloths, and ſome copper works. Foix and it's diſtrict, (on the banks of the Amige, divided into Upper and Lower) were formerly an independent country, but were united to France by Henry IV. It if ſeated on the river Arriege, at the foot of the Pyrenees, 9 miles N. of Taraſcon.

Fokerbie, Yorkſ. W. Riding, near the Trent, NW. of Burton. Fokeſbill, Warw. 2 miles from Coventry.

FOKIEN, a province of China, forming the coaſt oppoſite to the Iſland of Formoſa. The climate is hot, but the air pure and healthy. It is cultivated in every part, not excepting the mountains, which produce a great deal of rice, being well-watered, from a method which the inhabitants have of conveying the water upon terraces, placed one above another. They trade in precious ſtones, quickſilver, ſteel, and various utenſils, ſilk, linen, calicoes, muſk, &c. This diſtrict has produced a great number of learned men; but every town has it's peculiar dialect, a circumſtance which proves inconvenient to travellers. Foutcheou is the capital.

FOKINGHAM, a town in Lincolnſhire, ſtanding on a riſing ground, in a wholeſome air, with abundance of ſprings about it, 8 miles W. by S. of Boſton, and 107 from London. Market on Thurſday.

Fokington, Suſſ. W. of Pevenſey. Fold, Midd. between Barnet and Kick's End. Folding-worth, Linc. SW. of Market Raiſin. Foletborp, Linc. SE. of Alford.

FOLIGNO, a town of Umbria, in the pope's territories, remarkable for it's paper-mills, ſilk manufactures, and ſweetmeats. It contains 8 churches, and 23 convents, and is 69 miles N. of Rome.

*FOLKSTONE, an ancient town on the S. coaſt of Kent. It ſtands on hilly ground, and the ſtreets are narrow and incommodious. A multitude of fiſhing ſmacks belong to the harbour, and ſome veſſels are built here. Two hoys ſail alternately, every other week, to London. It is 8 miles SW. of Dover, and 72 E. by S. of London. Market on Thurſday.

Folkeſworth, Huntingdonſ. near Stilton. Folke, Dorſ. 1 mile W. of Candal Marſh. Follifoot, Yorkſ. W. Riding, in Spoforth pariſh. Follonſby, Durham, between Newcaſtle and Hilton Caſtle. Follow, Derbyſ. in the High Peak.

FONDI, a town of Lavora, in Naples, ſituated in a bad air, near a lake of the ſame name, 42 miles NW. of Capua.

FONSECA, GULF OF. See AMAPALLA.

Font, a river in Northumb. which runs into the German Ocean, a little below Newbiggen.

FONTAINBLEAU, a town in the dept. of Seine and Marne, remarkable for it's magnificent palace, late a hunting ſeat of the kings of France. It ſtands in the midſt of a foreſt, 35 miles SE. of Paris.

FONTAIN L'EVEQUE, a town in the dept. of the North, ſituated near the river Sambre, 3 miles W. of Charleroy.

Fontain's Abbey, Yorkſ. W. Riding, in Rippon pariſh.

FONTARABIA, a ſmall, ſea-port town of Guipuſcoa, ſituated on the river Bidaſſoa, 18 miles SW. of Bayonne. It has a good harbour, though dry at low water, and built in the form of an amphitheatre, on the the declivity of a hill. Lat. 43. 25. N. lon. 1. 49. W.

FONTENAI LE COMTE, a town in the dept. of La Vendee, noted for a woollen manufacture, and it's 3 great annual fairs for cattle and mules. It is ſeated on the river Vendee, 25 miles NE. of Rochelle.

FONTENOY, a village in Hainault, near which, in May, 1745, the Engliſh and their allies, under the Duke of Cumberland, were defeated by the French, under Marſhal Saxe. The Engliſh were at firſt ſucceſsful and confident of victory, but through the miſbehaviour of the Dutch, were obliged to quit the field of battle with conſiderable loſs. That of the French however, was not much leſs. It is 4 miles SE. of Tournay.

FONTENOY, a town in the dept. of the Meurthe; and a town in the dept. of the Aiſne.

FONTEVRAUT, a town in the dept. of Maine and Loire, 6 miles E. of Saumur, and 160 SW. of Paris.

Fontbill, Gifford, and Biſhop's, Wilts, E. of Hindon. Fontmell, Great and Little, Dorſetſ. Foot's Cray, Kent, 12 miles from London.

FORADADA, a ſmall iſland near Majorca.

Forbridge or Forſbrook, Staffordſ. near Cheadle.

FORCALQUIER, a town in the dept. of the Lower Alps, ſituated on the little river Laye, 26 miles NE. of Aix.

FORCHEIM, a town of Bamberg, in Franconia.

Ford, Durham, near Lancheſter. Ford, Kent, in Wrotham pariſh. Ford, Kent, in Godmerſham pariſh. Ford, Midd. near Aſhford. Ford, W. of Shrewſbury. Ford, Suſſex, on the river between Arundel and it's haven. Ford, Staff. near Grindon. Ford, Glouc. in the pariſh of Guiting Temple. Fordcaſtle, Northumb. in Woller lordſhip. Ford Green, Staff. between Newcaſtle under Line and Leek. Ford Hall, Warw. in the precinct of Aſpley Fordham, Camb. NW. of Newmarket. Fordham, Eſſex, NW. of Colcheſter. Fordham, Norf. S. of Downham. Fordbook, Midd. between Acton and Ealing.

FORDINGBRIDGE, a town of Hants, with a manufacture of tickings, in which a great number of looms are employed. It was formerly much larger than it is now, having often ſuffered by fire. It is ſituated on the Avon, 20 miles W. of Winchester, and 87 W. by S. of London. Market on Saturday

Fordington, near Dorcheſter, and once a ſuburb to that town. Fordley, Staff. SW. of Dunwich. Fordmore, Devonſhire, in Plympton pariſh. Fordon, Yorkſ. NW. of Burlington. Ford's Water, Eſſex, near Hadleigh. Fordwich, a member of Sandwich, in Kent, ſeated on the river Stour, in which excellent trouts are taken. It is 3 miles NE. of Canterbury, and 8 W. of Sandwich.

Fore, in Weſt Meath, Leinſter.

FORELAND, NORTH, is the NE. point of the Iſle of Thanet, in Kent. It is alſo the moſt ſouthern part of the port of London: the Naſe, in Eſſex, on the oppoſite ſide of what is accounted the mouth of the Thames, is about 40 miles over. Here is a round brick tower, near 80 feet high, erected as a ſea-mark.

FORELAND, SOUTH, a headland on the E. coaſt of Kent, between Dover and Deal. Between the two Forelands is the noted road, called the Downs, to which thoſe promontories afford a great ſecurity.

Foreſt, in Dublin, Leinſter.

FOREST TOWNS, 4 towns of Auſtrian Suabia, lying along the Rhine, and the confines of Swiſſerland, from Baſil to Zurich. Their names are Waldſhut, Lauffenburg, Seckingen, and Rheinfield.

FOREZ, a ci-devant country of France, chiefly a large and fertile valley, interſected by ſeveral ſtreams which fall into the Loire. Roanne and Montbriſſon are the principal towns. It now forms part of the dept. of Rhone and Loire.

FORFAR, a county of Scotland. See ANGUSSHIRE.

*FORFAR, the county-town of the ſhire of Angus, contains many neat modern houſes, and has a conſiderable manufacture of linen. It is 14 miles SW. of Montroſe, and 23 NE. of Perth.

FORGES, a town in the dept. of Lower Seine, remarkable for it's mineral waters.

Forgland, Iſle of Wight, in W. Medina.

Forkbill, in Armagh, Ulſter.

Forland, Cumb. E. of Brampton. Forland, Eaſt, Iſle of Wight, in E. Medina.

FORLI, a town, capital of a territory of Romagna, in Italy. It is ſeated in a fertile and healthy country, 12 miles SSW. of Ravenna.

Formark Hall, Derbyſ. near Swarnſton on Trent. Formby, Lanc. on the ſea, near Altmouth, among marſhy grounds, where an excellent turf is dug, that ſerves both for fire and candle.

FORMELLO, a town in the Patrimonio, 10 miles NW. of Rome.

FORMOSA, or TAIOUAN, an iſland in the Chineſe Sea, ſeparated from the province of Fokien by a ſtrait, about 60 miles over, where narroweſt. It is about 240 miles in length, and 60 where broadeſt, and is ſubject to the emperor of China, although the eaſtern part is moſtly held by the natives. The plains are fertiliſed by numberleſs rivulets. A chain of mountains runs nearly through it's whole extent from N. to S. It's air is pure and wholeſome, and the land produces oranges, bananas, and other Indian and European fruits. Tobacco, ſugar, pepper, camphire, and cinnamon, are alſo common here. This iſland received it's name of Formoſa from the Europeans, on account of it's ſingular beauty. In the ſpring of 1782, a great part of it was overwhelmed, and almoſt totally deſtroyed by a hurricane and inundation of the ſea.

FORMOSA, an iſland of the Atlantic, near the coaſt of Africa, about 6 miles long and 3 wide. The ſoil is fertile, and well covered with trees, but it wants ſprings of good water. Lat. 11. 29. N. lon. 14. 20. E.

Fornecet, Norf. SE. of Windham.

FORNELLO, a town of Moliſo, in Naples.

Fornham All Saints, Fornham Geneſis, and Fornham, St. Martin's, Suffolk, near Bury. Fornſide, Cumb. near Keſwick.

FORRES, a town of Murrayſhire, containing ſome manufactures of linen and ſewing thread. Near it is an ancient, remarkable column, 25 feet in height, and 3 in breadth, carved with ſoldiers, on horſeback and on foot, &c. ſuppoſed to have been erected in memory of the defeat of the Danes, near the ſpot, in the year 1008, by Malcolm II. before their final retreat from Scotland, called King Sweno's Stone, or, The Daniſh Pillar. Forres is ſituated on an eminence, near a ſmall river, 2 miles E. of the river Findhorn, and 10 miles nearly W. of Elgin.

Forreſt Hill, NE. of Oxford. Forreſt Row, Suſſ. Forſet, Yorkſ. SE. of Barnard's Caſtle. Forſten, Dorſetſ. NW. of Charminſter. Forſten, Northumb. near Cheſter in the Wall.

Fort Cheſter, in Wicklow, Leinſter.

Forten, Shropſ. near Cauſe Caſtle.

FORT DAUPHIN, a fortreſs of the Iſland of Madagaſcar, on the ſouthern coaſt, built by the French in 1643, but long ſince abandoned.

FORTEVENTURA, or FUERTEVENTURA, one of the Canary Iſlands, about 50 miles in length, and from 8 to 24 in breadth, conſiſting of two peninſulas, joined together by an iſthmus, about 12 miles long. The ſoil is fertile in wheat, barley, roots, and fruits, and beautifully diverſified with hills and valleys, well watered and ſupplied with a variety of timber. There is alſo a prodigious abundance of dates, maſtic, olives, orchel for dying, and a ſpecies of fig-tree, that yields a medicinal balm, as white as milk. An incredible quantity of goats milk cheeſe is made here, the iſland breeding upwards of 50,000 kids every year, whoſe fleſh is fatter, better coloured, and ſweeter than in any other country; each of them weighing between 40 and 50 pounds. It affords alſo plenty of beeves. There are 3 towns on the eaſtern coaſt, Langla, Tarafato, and Pozzo Negro; and there is a good road for ſhipping, between this iſland and the Iſland of Lobos. Lat. 28. 4. N. lon. 14. 32. W.

FORTH, one of the fineſt rivers in Scotland, which riſes near the bottom of Lomond Hills. Between Stirling and Alloa, it meanders ſo much through a beautiful country, that it is 24 miles by water between theſe two places, although only 4 by land. After a courſe of near 40 miles it expands below Stirling into a noble eſtuary, called the Frith of Forth. See CANAL, GREAT.

Forthampton, Glouceſ. 5 miles W. of Tewkeſbury. Forton, a river in Devonſ. which runs into the Credy near Crediton. Forton, Staff. near Newport in Shropſ. Fortoy, Glouc. in Nibley pariſh.

FORTROSE, a decayed town in Roſſſhire, ſituated on the Murray Frith.

Forty Feet Way, Northamp. in the Roman Way from Caſtor to Stamford. Forty Hill, Midd. in the pariſh of Enfield. Forwood, Warw. near Whitley. Foryberry, Cornw. near Botreaux Caſtle. Foſcot, N. of Buckingham. Foſbaw, Warw. near Solihull.

FOSSANO, a town of Piedmont, ſeated on the river Stura, 10 miles N. of Coni.

FOSSE, the Roman Military Way, begins at Totneſs, and paſſing through Exeter, Bath, Cirenceſter, Leiceſter, Newark, and Lincoln, to Barton upon Humber, is yet viſible in many parts, though of 1400 years ſtanding. There were foſſes, or ditches, made by the ſide of it.

Foſſe, a river in Yorkſ. which runs into the Ouſe, near York. Foſſe Dike, Linc. parts Lindſey and Keſteven, and is 7 miles in length. Foſſe, or Leven, a river in Lanc. which runs into the Iriſh Sea at Leven Sands.

FOSSOMBRONE, a town of Urbino.

Foſton, Leic. near Kilby. Foſton, Yorkſ. near Knareſborough. Fotherby, Lincolnſ. SW. of Saltfleet.

FOTHERINGAY, a town of Northamptonſhire, ſituated near the river Nen, 2 miles N. of Oundle, and 9 S. of Stamford.

Here

Here are the ruins of a very ancient caſtle, in which King Richard III. was born, and in which the unfortunate Mary, queen of Scotland, was confined and beheaded. It was deſtroyed by order of James I.

Fothog, Heref. on the borders of Brecknockſ. Fovant, Wilts, between Hindon and Downton.

FOUE, or FAOUA, a town of Egypt, ſeated on the W. branch of the Nile, 16 miles SE. of Roſetta.

FOUGERES, a town in the dept. of Ille and Vilaine, containing about 4000 inhabitants, whoſe principal trade is in leather. In the year 1202, this town was taken by John, king of England. It is ſeated on the river Coeſhon, 25 miles NE. of Rennes.

Foulbridge, Yorkſ. N. Riding, S. of Pickering Foreſt. Foulby, Yorkſ. SE. of Wakefield. Foulderby, Staffordſ. NE. of Walſall. Fouldrey Fit, Lanc. a rock near Foulney Iſle. Foulſton, Yorkſ. E. Riding, near Flixton. Foulmere, 9 miles from Cambridge, SE. of Royſton. Foulney Isle, Lanc. in Loynſdale, SW. of the Sands.

FOULSHAM, a ſmall town of Norfolk, 16 miles NW. of Norwich, and 111 NE. of London. Market on Tueſday.

Foulthorp, Durh. near Stockton. Foundington, Suff. near Chicheſter. Fountain Abbey, Yorkſ. W. Riding, near Boroughbridge. Four Feet Iſland, Kent, Margate Road.

Four Mile Water, a village in Waterford, Munſter, 4 miles from Clonmell.

FOURNEAUX, a ſmall, low, circular iſland of the S. Pacific Ocean, diſcovered by Bougainville, and afterwards by Capt. Cook. Some inhabitants and cocoa trees were ſeen. Lat. 17. 11. S. lon. 143. 7. W.

Fourneſs, Lanc. in Loynſdale, a tract between the Kent, Leven, and Dudden Sands: here are ſtately ruins of an old abbey. The continuation of Fourneſs Fells to the S. forms a promontory running out into the ſea, or rather the ſands, which are croſſed at low water by the aſſiſtance of guides. Four Shire Stones, Oxfordſ. near Caſtleton. Fowberry, Northumb. near Ogle. Fowchurch, Heref. SE. of Golden Vale.

FOWEY, or FOY, a populous and flouriſhing town and harbour of Cornwall, ſeated at the mouth of the river Fowey, which riſing in the NE. part of the country, and running in a SW. direction, paſſes Leſtwithiel, and here falls into the Engliſh Channel, being very broad and deep, and forming a commodious and ſafe harbour, capable of receiving large veſſels. It was formerly, for it's maritime exertions, made a member of the Cinque Ports, and now had a conſiderable ſhare in the pilchard fiſhery. It has a reſpectable foreign trade, and is 32 miles SW. of Launceſton, and 240 W. by S. of London. Market on Saturday.

Fowlneſs, Norf. NE. of Oxborough. Fowlneſs, an iſland E. of Walfleet. Fowl Sutton, SE. of Yorkſ. Fowmind, Heref. W. of the Golden Vale. Fownhope, SE. of Hereford, on the Wye. Foxall, Suffolk, SE. of Ipſwich. Foxbrocke, Staff. NW. of Draycot. Foxcoat, Northamp. near Towceſter. Foxcoat, Warw. a member of Ilmington. Foxdenton, Lanc. NE. of Mancheſter.

FOXFORD, a town of Mayo, in Connaught, ſituated on the river May, (which, about a mile and a half below, falls into Lough Conn) 8 miles nearly N. of Caſtlebar.

Foxham, Wilts, NW. of Calne. Foxheard, Suff. between Clare and Sudbury. Foxholes, Derbyſ. in the High Peak. Foxholes, Yorkſ. W. of Burlington.

FOX ISLANDS, a group of iſlands in the Northern Archipelago, 16 in number. They are ſeated between the E. coaſt of Kamtſchatka, and the W. coaſt of N. America, between 52 and 55 deg. of N. latitude, and are ſo named, on account of the great number of black, grey, and red foxes, with which they abound. The inhabitants dreſs in furs, and ornament their heads with ſhowy caps. They live together in ſocieties of families united, which form what they call a race, who mutually aid each other. The inhabitants of the ſame iſland account themſelves of the ſame race; and each looks upon the iſland as a poſſeſſion which is common to all individuals of the ſame ſociety. They have neither chiefs nor ſuperiors, neither laws nor puniſhments. They feed upon the fleſh of all ſorts of ſea animals, and generally eat it raw. When they dreſs their food, they make uſe of a hollow ſtone, in which they place the fiſh or fleſh; they then cover it with another, and cloſe the interſtices with lime or clay; they then lay it horizontally on two ſtones, and light a fire under it; and by this mode of cookery the meat retains more of it's ſucculency. The meat intended for keeping, is dried without ſalt, in the open air. They feed their children, when very young, with the coarſeſt fleſh, and for the moſt part raw. The Ruſſians trade with them, and call their iſlands the Lyſſie Oſtrova.

Foxley, Norf. SW. of Repeham. Foxley, Wilts, near Malmſbury. Foxton, Camb. near Harliſton. Foxton, Durham, W. of Foulthorp. Foxton, Leic. 2 miles from Market Harborough. Foye, Heref. N. of Roſſe. Foye Will, Cornw. SE. of Camelford.

Hartland Pt
Lands End
Lizard Pt
Edystone
Start Pt
Ter Bay
Portland
Alderney I.
Guernsey
Sark
Jersey I.
The 7 Isles
Brehat I.
Ile Bas
Ushant I.
St Mahee
Brest
Brest B.
Pontrieux
Guingamp
St Brieuc
Dinan
Rostrenen
Loudac
Quimper
Pontivy
Rochefort
Vannes
Quiberon
Bell Isle
Noirmoutier I.
Ile Yeu
les Sables
Ile Re
Sion
Aroste
Suze
Turin
Saluzzo
Bayonne
Eaillat
Rhine R.
Zurich
Zug
Rotweil
Wetzlar
Frankfort
Mayence
Darmstat
Mannheim
Philipsburg
Berne
Sion
Turin
BRITISH
BAY
OF BISCAY
FRANCE.
ITALY
N. SEA
British Statute Miles.
French Leagues 25 to a Degree.
Longitude West from London.

Camelford. Foynton, Suſſex, W. of Pevenſey. Foyſton, Yorkſ. W. of Knareſborough.

FRAGA, a ſtrong town of Arragon, ſituated on a ſharp rock, near the Cinca, 46 miles ESE. of Saragoſſa. The gardens produce plenty of herbs and ſaffron, but the parts about it are barren.

Frameſden, Suffolk, near Debenham. Framfield, Suſſ. between Aſhdown Foreſt and Haylham. Framilodge, Glouceſterſ. the paſſage over the Severn to Newnham. Framingham, Norf. SE. of Norwich.

FRAMLINGHAM, a large, old, and but indifferently built town of Suffolk, with a caſtle, ſuppoſed to have been built by ſome of the kings of the E. Angles; the walls yet ſtanding, are 44 feet high, and 8 thick, with 13 towers above them. Here the Princeſs Mary retired, before her elevation to the crown, on the death of her brother, Edward VI. It is noted for a large, ſtately church, built all of black flint, and is pleaſantly ſituated in a fruitful ſoil and healthy air, near the ſource of the river Ore, (by ſome called Wincknill) 30 miles E. of Bury, and 88 miles NE. of London. Market on Saturday.

Framlington, Northumb. a member of the manor of Felton.

FRAMPTON, a town of Dorſetſhire, ſeated on the river Frome, which abounds with excellent trout, 12 miles NW. of Weymouth, and 120 W. by S. of London. It's Market on Thurſday is almoſt diſuſed.

Frampton, Glouc. between Stroud and the head of the Iſis. Frampton, Linc. S. of Boſton. Frampton, Berks, in E. Hendred pariſh. Frampton Cotterel, Glouc. 5 miles SW. of Sodbury. Frampton upon Severn, a pariſh of Glouc. between Berkley and Newnham.

FRANCE, including Belgium, or the ci-devant Auſtrian Netherlands, is a country of Europe, bounded on the W. by the Atlantic Ocean; on the N. by the Engliſh Channel, the German Ocean, and Holland; on the E. by Germany, Swiſſerland, and Piedmont; and on the S. by the Mediterranean Sea and the Pyrenean Mountains; extending from 4. 48. W. to 8. 22. E. lon. and from 42. 24. to 51. 24. N. lat. From Spain, on the S. to Holland, it's extent nearly is 700 miles; and about 650 from the moſt eaſterly part of the department of the Lower Rhine, to the weſterly part of that of Finiſterre. The air, particularly in the interior parts of the country, is, in general, mild and wholeſome, and their weather more clear and ſettled than in England: in the northern provinces, however, the winters are intenſely cold. The ſoil is agreeably diverſified, and yields corn, wine and oil; figs, prunes, and various highly flavoured fruits; tobacco, hemp, flax, manna, ſaffron, and many drugs. Silk is alſo produced in great plenty. The foreſts are extenſive, and the mineral productions various. It's ſituation is favourable to commerce, and the inhabitants have long availed themſelves of many of their natural advantages. The principal rivals of France are the Loire, the Rhone, the Garonne, the Seine, the Scheldt, the Rhine, the Somme, the Var, the Adour, &c. the advantages of which, in commerce and conveniency, are conſiderably improved by the artificial rivers and canals which have been executed. The moſt conſiderable mountains, beſides the Alps and Pyrenees, are Mount Jura, the Cevennes, and Mount Dor. Wolves excepted, France contains few animals, wild or tame, that are not to be found in England. The preſent government of France is a republic, eſtabliſhed profeſſedly on the principles of equality; and they have not any national eſtabliſhment of religion. The French, in their manners appear more affable and eaſy than their neighbours on the eaſt; leſs trifling and ceremonious than thoſe on the ſouth; and not ſo abſorbed in the purſuit of gain as the Engliſh and Dutch. Their polite, elegant, and eaſy language, is more generally ſpoken, than any other in the world.

FRANCE, ISLE OF, a ci-devant province of France, ſo called, becauſe it was bounded by the rivers Seine, Marne, Oiſe, Aiſne, and Ourque. Paris was the capital, and ſituated in the centre.

FRANCE, ISLE OF, or MAURITIUS, an iſland in the Indian Ocean, about 45 leagues in circumference. Indigo is the general object of cultivation, and attempts have been made to rear cochineal, as the iſland abounds with the plant on which the inſects lie, but a ſmall bird is ſure to deſtroy them. It's ebony is the moſt ſolid, cloſe, and ſhining of any in the world. Here are numerous groves of oranges and citrons, and the pine apple grows ſpontaneouſly in great perfection. Here is alſo abundance of black cattle, veniſon, and wild fowl, with potatoes, and other leguminous roots. There are two fine harbours, one on the E. ſide, and the other on the W. This iſland was firſt diſcovered by the Dutch, in 1598, who gave it the name of Mauritius, in honour of the Prince of Orange. About 40 years after, they began to form ſettlements here, but in the beginning of the preſent century the coleny was withdrawn, and the iſland iſland was taken poſſeſſion of by the French, in whoſe hands it has remained ever ſince. The inhabitants, black and white, amount to about 20,000. Lat. 20. 10. S. lon. 57: 29. E.

FRANCFORT ON THE MAINE, a free imperial city of Franconia, noted for it's two great annual fairs. The Calviniſts and Jews here are numerous, induſtrious, and rich, but lie under divers ſumptuary reſtrictions. The magiſtrates are Lutherans. It is ſeated on the river Maine, which divides it in two parts, 15 miles NE. of Mentz, and 350 W. by N. of Vienna. Lat. 50. 1. N. lon. 8. 22. E.

FRANCFORT ON THE ODER, a town of the Middle Marche, in Brandenburg, formerly imperial, but now ſubject to the king of Pruſſia. It is remarkable for it's three great fairs, and it's univerſity. It is ſituated on the river Oder, 48 miles SE. of Berlin. Lat. 52. 23. N. lon. 14. 39. N.

FRANCHE COMTE, a ci-devant province of France, now included in the three depts. of Doubs, Mount Jura, and Upper Saone. Almoſt one half of the country is level, abounding in grain, wine, paſture, hemp, &c. and the reſt is mountainous; but breeds excellent cattle, with ſome corn and wine. Beſançon was the capital.

FRANCHIMONT, a town of Liege.

Francbis, Suſſex, NW. of Burwaſh.

Francks, Kent, E. of the Grays.

FRANCOIS, CAPE, a flouriſhing town, with a fine harbour, in the N. part of St. Domingo. It is the capital of the French part, properly ſo called, of that iſland. Lat. 19. 46. N. lon. 72. 18. W.

FRANCONIA, a circle of Germany, nearly in the centre of the empire, extending about 95 miles from E. to W. and 88 from N. to S. The middle parts are fertile in corn, wine, and fruits, but the frontiers are mountainous, woody, and little cultivated.

Franſton, Warwickſ. on the Foſs, near Dunſmore Heath. Franſton, Engliſh and Welſh, Shropſ. near Elleſmere.

FRANEKER, or FRANKER, a neat town of W. or Dutch Frieſland, with an univerſity. The public buildings are magnificent. It is ſituated on 2 canals, 7 miles SW. of Lewarden.

FRANK, a town of S. Carolina.

Frankfield, Suſſex. Frankby, Cheſh. between the Dee and Merſey.

FRANKENDAL, a town of the Lower Palatine, circle of the Lower Rhine, ſituated on a navigable canal, which communicates with the Rhine, 8 miles NNW. of Manheim.

FRANKENSTEIN, a town of Muſterburg, in Sileſia; alſo a town of Darmſtadt; and a town of Deux Ponts.

Frankford, in King's county, Leinſter.

FRANKFORT, a town of Kentucky, ſituated on the river Kentucky, in lat. 38. 3. N. and lon. 85. 12. W.

Frankham, Dorſetſ. in the pariſh of Ryme Intrinſeca. Frankley, Worceſ. between Bromſgrove and Birmingham.

FRANKLYN, a county of Pennſylvania; and a county of Georgia.

FRANKLYNVILLE, a town of Kentucky.

FRANKS, a town of Pennſylvania.

Franſden, Suff. Franſham, Great and Little, Norf. NE. of Swaffham. Frantone, Glouc. in Winchcombe pariſh. Fraſtenby, Yorkſ. near Scarborough. Fratborp, Yorkſ. S. of Burlington. Frating, Eſſex, E. of Wivenhoe.

FRAUENFIELD, a town of Swifferland, capital of Thorgau. Here, ſince 1712, the deputies of the Swiſs cantons aſſemble in general diet. It is 14 miles SW. of Conſtance.

FRAUSTADT, a town of Poſen, in Poland; and a town of Poland on the frontiers of Sileſia.

Fraw, a river of Angleſea, which runs into the Iriſh Channel at Aberfraw.

*FRAZERSBURG, a ſmall town of Aberdeenſhire, ſituated near the promontory, called Kinnaird's Head, on which there is a light-houſe. It has a tolerable harbour, and is 40 miles nearly N. of Aberdeen.

Freaby, Leiceſ. near Waltham on the Would. Freaſley, Warwickſ. between Wheatley and Poleſworth. Freckleton, Lanc. on the Ribble, S. of Kirkham.

FREDBURG, a town of Upper Bavaria; a town of Stiria; and a town of Wetteravia, circle of Upper Rhine.

FREDENBURG, a town of Weſtphalia.

FREDERICA, a town of Georgia, in N. America, ſituated on the river Alatamaha. The iſland it ſtands on, called St. Simon's, is about 13 miles in length and 4 in breadth, Lat. 31. 6. N. lon. 80. 20. W.

FREDERICK, a town of New Brunſwick, in Acadia, ſituated on the N. ſide of the river St. John, in lat. 46. 3. N. and lon. 66. 45. W.

FREDERICK TOWN, 2 towns of Maryland.

FREDERICSBURG, a factory on the Gold Coaſt of Guinea.

FREDERICSBURG, a town of Virginia, ſituated on the S. ſide of the Rappahannoc River. It contains about 200 houſes, and is 20 miles S. by W. of Falmouth. Lat 38. 2. N. lon. 77. 20. W.

FREDERICSHALL, a ſea port town of Aggerhuys,

Aggerhuys, in Norway, on the frontiers of Sweden, ſituated at the mouth of the river Tiſte, 48 miles S. of Chriſtianſa. The harbour is commodious; but the large quantity of ſaw-duſt brought down the river from the different ſaw mills occaſions an annual expence to clear it away. At the ſiege of this place Charles XII. of Sweden loſt his life. Lat. 59. 2. N. lon. 10. 55. E.

FREDERICS ODE, a town of Jutland, ſeated near the ſea, 50 miles N. of Sleſwick.

FREDERICSTADT, a town of Sleſwick, ſituated on the river Eyder.

FREDERICSTADT, a town of Aggerhuys, in Norway, 26 miles W. of Frederichſhall.

FREDERICSTOWN, a town of Maryland, ſituated on the Potomac river, 60 miles W. by N. of Annapolis. Lat. 39. 20. N. lon. 77. 30. W.

FREDERICK'S TOWN, a town of N. America, capital of New Brunſwick.

Frederickſtown, in Tyrone, Ulſter.

Freeburg, Yorkſ. N. Riding, in Cleveland. Freetborp, Norf. SW. of Yarmouth. Fregtberp, Rutl. N. of Colliweſton.

FREISENGEN, a town and biſhopric in the circle of Bavaria.

FREJUS, a town in the dept. of Var. It was the Forum Julii of the Romans; and had then a ſea-port on the ſea-coaſt, which is now a mile and a half diſtant. There ſtill remains an aqueduct, an amphitheatre, ſtatues, inſcriptions, &c. Lat. 43. 26. N. lon. 6. 50. E.

Frekenham, Suff. near Mildenhall. Fretenham, Norf. on the Bure, oppoſite Cowa Hill. Frekingham, Leic. NE. of Fokingham. Freemanton, Hants, SE. of King's Clere. Fremington, Yorkſ. near Richmond. Freemington, Devonſ. W. of Barnſtaple. Frenchay, Glouc. a hamlet in the parish of Winterbourn.

Frenchfurze, in Kildare, Leinſter. Frenchpark, in Roſcommon, Connaught.

Frendſbury, Kent, near Chatham. Frendville, Kent, S. of Betſhanger. Frenſall, Eſſex, between N. and S. Benfleet. Frenſe, Norfolk, N. of Diſs. Frenſham, Surry, 3 miles S. of Farnham. It is noted for a pool, near 3 miles in compaſs, which abounds in excellent carp. Frenſted, Kent, near Sittingbourn. Frent, Suſſex, near Tunbridge Wells.

FRESCATI, a beautiful village in the pope's territories. This place, with Tivoli and Albano, is the favourite abode of landſcape painters, who travel into Italy for improvement; where the admirable aſſemblage of hills, meadows, lakes, caſcades, gardens, ruins, groves, and terraces charm the eye as it wanders among theſe delightful villages. Freſcati is 12 miles from Rome. Lat. 41. 48. N. lon. 12. 42. E.

Freſden, Herts, N. of Berkhampſtead. Freſhford. Somerſ. SE. of Bath.

*FRESHFORD, a town of Kilkenny, in Leinſter, 64 miles from Dublin.

Freſhwater Bay and Cliffs, Iſle of Wight, SE. of the Needles. Freſhwater Bay and Iſle, Iſle of Wight, W. of the Needles. Freſingfield, Suffolk, between Framlingham and Harleſton. Freſley, Warw. a member of Poleſworth. Freſton, Linc. near Boſton. Freſton, Suffolk, S. of Ipſwich. Freſwick, NE. of York. Fretborn, Glouc. NE. of Frampton upon Severn. Fair Roſamond, miſtreſs to Henry II. was born in a houſe in this pariſh, which ſtood on the banks of the Severn. Freton, Norf. SW. of Saxlingham. Fretenham, Norf. between Repeham and Hickling. Frewen, Cornw. Friarn Barnet, Midd. near Coney Hatch.

FRICENTI, a town in Principato Citra.

Fridatherp, Yorkſ. E. Riding, E. of Kirkby under Dale.

FRIDBERG, a town of Mansfield, in Upper Saxony.

FRIDBERG, a town of Brandenburg.

FRIDBERG, 3 towns in Sileſia.

FRIDBURG. See FREDBERG.

FRIDBURG, a town in E. Frieſland.

FRIDING, a town of Auſtrian Suabia.

FRIDLAND, or FRIEDLAND, a town of Natangen, in Pruſſia; a town of Olmutz, in Moravia; a town of Luſatia; a town of Boleſlau, in Bohemia; and a town of Mecklenburg, in Upper Saxony.

FREDLINGEN, a town of Suabia.

FRIENDLY ISLANDS, a cluſter of iſlands in the S. Pacific Ocean, ſo named by Captain Cook, in 1773, on account of the friendſhip that ſeemed to ſubſiſt among the inhabitants, and their courteous behaviour to ſtrangers. Taſman, the Dutch navigator, firſt touched here in 1643, and gave the names of New Amſterdam, Rotterdam, and Middleburg, to three of the principal iſlands. Cook explored the whole cluſter, conſiſting of more than 60. New Amſterdam is the largeſt, extending 21 miles from E. to W. and 13 from N. to S. It is interſected by ſtraight and pleaſant roads, with fruit trees on each ſide, which provide ſhade from the ſcorching heat of the ſun. Middleburg is called Eooa by the natives, who have given the names of Annamooka, Tongataboo, Hapaee, and Leefooga, to the other principal iſlands. The general appearances of theſe iſlands conveys an idea of exuberant fertility; lity; the ſurface, at a diſtance, ſeems entirely clothed with trees of various ſizes, ſome of which are uncommonly large, particularly the tall cocoa-palm, and a ſpecies of fig, with narrow-pointed leaves. It is almoſt wholly laid out in plantations, in which are ſome of the richeſt vegetable productions: ſuch as bread-fruit, cocoa-nuts, plantains, yams, ſugar-cane, and a fruit like a nectarine. Here are moſt of the articles which the Society Iſlands produce, and ſome which they have not. Their breed of hogs is as ſcanty as thoſe of the Society Iſlands; but they received from the Engliſh ſome valuable additions to their ſtock, both of vegetables and animals. Their domeſtic fowls are as large as thoſe of Europe. Among the birds are parrots and parroquets, of various ſorts, which furniſh the red feathers, ſo much eſteemed in the Society Iſles. The numerous reefs and ſhoals afford ſhelter to an immenſe variety of ſhell-fiſh. Agriculture, architecture, boat-building, and fiſhing, are the employments of the men; to the women is confined the manufacture of cloth. Theſe iſlands lie between 19. 40. and 21. 30. deg. S. lat. and between 170. and 180. of W. lon. Under the general name of Friendly Iſlands, are ſometimes comprehended Boſcawen's, Keppel's, and Prince William's Iſlands, and the group of the Hapaee Iſlands, amounting altogether to about 150.

Frierning, Eſſex, near Ingateſtone and Writtle. Friers, Herts, near King's Langley. Friers, Herts, E. of Standon. Friers, Kent, NE. of Alyſford. Friery, Somerſetſ. E. of Bruton.

FRIESACH, a town of the middle Marche, Brandenburg.

FRIESLAND, EAST, a principality of Germany, bounded on the N. by the German Ocean; on the E. by the county of Oldenburg; on the S. by the biſhoprick of Munſter; and on the W. and SW. by the ſea and Groningen. It conſiſts chiefly of meadow land, and is ſubject to Pruſſia. The counts of Frieſland becoming extinct in 1744, Frederick II. king of Pruſſia, ſeized the country in conſequence of the expectancy granted to the houſe of Brandenburg, in 1694, by the Emperor Leopold. George II. however, king of England, as duke of Brunſwick Lunenburg, laid claim to the principality, on account of an hereditary union entered into, in 1691, with Prince Chriſtian Eberhard, making his pretenſions known to the regency of E. Frieſland, and the aulic chamber of the empire; but the king of Pruſſia, denying the authority of the emperor of regency, and threatening to ſupport his actions by force of arms, he was ſuffered to remain in poſſeſſion.

FRIESLAND, WEST, one of the United Provinces, bounded on the S. and W. by the Zuyder Zee and Overyſſel, on the N. by the German Ocean; and on the E. by Groningen and Overyſſel. In Ooſtergow there is good paſturage, and ſome arable land; Weſtergow is more fenny, but abounds with fiſh and fowl. There is a dialect uſed here more nearly reſembling the old Engliſh than any other in Europe. A part of North Holland is alſo called Weſt Frieſland.

Frikelton, Northumberl. a member of Woller. Frikley, Yorkſ. W. Riding, NE. of Barneſley. Friſford, Berks, near Wantage. Friſham, Berks, N. of Winchcomb. Frimley, Surry, SW. of Bagſhot. Frinden, Yorkſh. SW. of Halifax. Fringe, Norf. NE. of Spelſham. Fringford, Oxf. NW. of Biceſter. Frinton, Eſſex, near Gunfleet.

FRINWALT, a town of Pruſſian Pomerania.

FRIO, CAPE, a promontory of Braſil, E. of Rio Janeiro.

Friopphill, Yorkſ. N. Riding, SE. of Cleveland. Fripſbury, Wilts, a noted entrenchment N. of Farley. Frisbie, Leiceſ. NW. of Melton Mowbray. Frisbie and Wreak, Leic. SE. of Billeſdon.

FRISCHAFF, a bay of the Baltic Sea between Elbing and Koningſburg, about 18 leagues in length, and hardly 2 in breadth.

FRISCH HAFF, a bay on the coaſt of Pruſſian Pomerania, about 25 miles long and 8 broad. The Odee paſſes through it and it's eaſtern extremity.

Friſey, Cornw. between the Naze and Lizard Points. Friſbnay, Lincolnſ. S. of Wainfleet. Friſtborp, Linc. between Lincoln and Market Raiſin. Friſton, Suffolk between Snapebridge and Haſilwood. Friſton, Suſſex, near Eaſtbourn. Frith, Kent, in Betherſden pariſh. Frith, or Newhall, Middl. near Hendon. Frith Dike, Cambridgeſ. SE. of the Iſle of Ely. Frith Hall, Lanc. W. of Cartmel. Frithham, Hants, in the New Foreſt. Frithſtoke, Devonſ. near Torrington. Frithley, Derbyſ. between Wirkſworth and Alfreton. Frithwood, Rutl. N. of Caſtertor. Friton, Yorkſ. N. Riding, near Hovingham. Frittenden, Kent, SE. of Staplehurſt. Fritton, Suffolk, SW. of Yarmouth. Fritwell, Oxf. near Somerton.

FRITZLAR, a town of Heſſe Caſſel.

FRIULI, a province of Italy, on the Adriatic. It is fertile in wine and fruit and and was lately ſubject to the Venetians, who have poſſeſſed it ſince the year 1420. Udina is the capital.

FROBISHER'S STRAITS, between Davis's Straits and Hudſon's Bay.

Froceſter, Glouc. 4 miles NE. of Durſley. Frodeſley, Shropſ. near Acton Burnel Caſtle. Frodingham, Linc. between Axholm Iſle and Manby. Frodley, Staff. NE. of Lichfield.

FRODLINGHAM, a town in the E. Riding of Yorkſhire, ſituated on the river Hull, 12 miles N. of Beverley, 36 E. of York, and 194 N. of London. Market on Thurſday.

*FRODSHAM, a town of Cheſhire, ſituated on the river Weaver, (over which it has a ſtone bridge) near it's conflux with the Merſey, with a harbour for veſſels of good burden, and communicating with all the late inland navigations. About 7000 tons of ſalt are annually refined here, and a cotton manufactory has been lately eſtabliſhed. It is 10 miles NE. of Cheſter, and 182 NNW. of London. Market on Thurſday.

Frodſwall, Staffordſ. SE. of Stone.

FROG, a town of Georgia, in N. America.

Frogatheath, Surry. Frogfurle, Suſſex, NW. of W. Dean. Frog Hall, Staff. NE. of Cheadle. Frogmore, Berks, near Windſor. Frogmore End, Herts, NE. of Datchworth. Frognal, Kent, in Chiſlehurſt pariſh. Frolfworth, Leic. near Sharnford.

FROME, or FROOM, a river of Dorſetſhire, which riſes in the W. part of the county, near Everſhot, and paſſes to Dorcheſter; whence, proceeding to Wareham, it empties itſelf into the bay that forms the harbour of Pool.

Frome Belet, Dorſetſ. half a mile N. of Stafford. Frome Biſhops, and Frome Caſtle, Herefordſ. SE. of Bromyard. Frome Quinton, Dorſetſ. 2 miles SE. of Everſhot. Frome Vauchurch, Dorſetſ. 2 miles NW. of Frampton. Frome Whitfield, and Whitwell, near Dorcheſter.

*FROME, or FROME SELWOOD, a town of Somerſetſhire, noted for it's fine beer, and chiefly inhabited by clothiers. About 160,000 yards of woollen cloth are made here annually, of which four-fifths are broad-cloths, the reſt narrow-cloths and kerſeymeres. It is ſituated on the river Frome, which abounds with trout, eels, &c. and over which it has a ſtone bridge, 12 miles S. of Bath, and 104 W. by S. of London. Market on Wedneſday.

Froom, a river in Herefordſhire, which runs into the Lug near Hereford. Froom, a river in Glouceſterſhire, which runs into the Severn below Berkeley. Froom, a river in Glouceſterſhire, which runs into the Avon at Briſtol. Froombridge, Glouc. in the pariſh of Frampton upon Severn. Here is one of the largeſt and completeſt works in the kingdom for making of iron and ſteel wire, for the clothing buſineſs, and fiſh hooks for the Newfoundland fiſhery; as alſo ſome braſs works. Froſtenby, Yorkſh. near Scarborough. Froſterden, Suff. SW. of Benaker. Froſterley, Durh. on the Wear, between Wolſingham and Stanhope. Froxfield, Wilts, 2 miles from Hungerford, in the Bath road. Froxfield, Hants, N. of Petersfield. Froyle, Hants, between Alton and Farnham.

FRONSAC, a town in the dept. of Gironde, ſeated on the river Ille, 22 miles NE. of Bourdeaux.

FRONTIGNAC, a town in the dept. of Herault, remarkable for the excellent wines known by it's name. It is ſeated on the Lake Maguleone, 14 miles SSW. of Montpelier.

Fryarne Manor, Middl. near Fryarne Barnet. Fryar's Place, Middl. between Acton and the Wells. Fryſalk, Hants, near Whitchurch. Fryth, Middl. between Mill Hill and Barnet.

FUEGO, FOGO, or ST. PHILIP, one of the Cape de Verd Iſlands, in the Atlantic Ocean, higher than any of the reſt, and appearing, at ſea, to be one ſingle mountain, though on the ſides, there are deep valleys. There is a volcano at the top of it, which burns continually, vomiting out fire and ſmoke, throwing up huge pieces of rock to a vaſt height, and ſometimes pouring vaſt torrents of brimſtone down the ſides of the hill. The Portugueſe, who firſt inhabited it, brought negroes with them, and a ſtock of cows, horſes, and hogs; but their deſcendants are not now diſtinguiſhable in their complexions from the negroes. The iſland is without rivers, and almoſt without freſh water, yet it is fertile in maize, gourds, water-melons, wild figs, oranges, and apples. A great number of goats run wild upon the mountains, and the profit on their ſkins is a revenue of the crown. They export, alſo, the ſkins of cattle, horſes, aſſes, and hogs. The iſland is nearly 5 leagues in length, and is about 330 miles W. of Cape de Verd, and 90 W. of St. Jago. Lat. 15. 10. N. lon. 24. 20. W.

FUENTE DUENNA, a town of New Caſtile, ſituated on the Tajo, 24 miles SE. of Madrid.

Fuerty, in Roſcommon, Connaught.

FUESSEN, or FOSSEN, a town of Augſburg, in Suabia.

FULA, a ſmall iſland, about 20 miles W. of Mainland, the principal of the Shetland Iſlands.

Fulbeck, Lincolnſ. between Sleaford and Buckingham. Fulbrook, Bucks, SE. of Middle Claydon. Fulbrook, Linc. near Normanton. Fulbrook, Oxf. N of Burford. Fulbrook on Avon, near Warwick. Fulburn, Great and Little, 5 miles NE. of Cambridge.

FULDA, a city, biſhoprick, and river, (which paſſes by the town of Fulda, and joining the Werra at Minden, together form the Weſer) in the circle of the Upper Rhine.

Fulford, Staff. NE. of Stone. Fulford, Devonſ. in the pariſhes of Shebrook and Crediton. Fulford, Devonſ. NE. of Chagford. Fulford Gate and Water, near the Ouſe, SE. of York. Fulham, Middleſex, four miles W. of London, on the river Thames, over which it has a wooden bridge, where foot paſſengers pay toll, as well as horſes and carriages. It has been the demeſne of the biſhops of London ever ſince the Norman conqueſt.

FULLAN, a country in the interior parts of Africa, W. of the Cuſhna: it's boundaries and produce are unknown. The dreſs of the natives (according to the information obtained by the African Aſſociation) reſembles the cloth of which the plaids of the Scotch Highlanders are made.

Full Brook, a river of Cheſhire, which runs into the Wheelock at Maulbon. Fullerby, Linc. NE. of Horncaſtle. Fullingrove, Devonſ. near Barnſtaple. Fullington, Hants, near Bullington. Fullſutton, Yorkſ. E. Riding, W. of Wilton. Fulmere, Camb. adjoining Triplow and Meldrith. Fulmerſton, Norf. NE. of Fakenham. Fullridge, Warwick, in Nether Eatendon pariſh. Fulſton, Lincolnſ. near Granthorp. Fulwell, Oxf. on the borders of Northamp. and Bucks. Fulzwell, Durham, N. of Sunderland, near the ſea. Fulwood, Nott. in Eaſtwood pariſh. Fullwood, Lanc. has a foreſt near Preſton.

FUMAY, a town in the dept. of the Ardennes, noted for quarries of excellent ſlates in the neighbourhood.

FUNCHAL, or FUNCHIAL, a town, capital of the Iſland of Madeira, ſituated on the S. coaſt, on the gentle aſcent of a hill, in the form of an amphitheatre. The [illegible] in general, entirely white, [illegible]d the town are covered [illegible] incloſures, plantations, [illegible]terſperſed with country-[illegible]er buildings. The city [illegible]ſh churches and ſeveral chapels, 6 convents, and ſeveral hoſpitals. The ſtreets are narrow, ill-paved, and dirty, yet all drawn by a line; the houſes are alſo neat, being built of freeſtone, or of brick: but only a few of the beſt, which belong to the wealthier inhabitants, are provided with glaſs windows; the others have a kind of lattice-work in their ſtead, which hang on hinges, and may be lifted up occaſionally. The Engliſh and French Roman Catholics, who live in the Portugueſe manner, exceed the Portugeſe here in numbers and opulence. There is alſo a great number of mulatto and negro freemen. The principal trade of the inhabitants conſiſts in wine and ſweetmeats. On the ſea-ſide are ſeveral batteries. An old caſtle, which commands the road, ſtands on the top of a ſteep, black rock, ſurrounded by the ſea at high-water, called Loo Rock. On a neighbouring eminence, above the town, is another, called St. John's Caſtle. Lat. 32. 38. N. lon. 16. 49. W.

Fudenhall, Norfolk, SE. of Windham.

FUNDY, a bay of Acadia, in N. America, which ſeparates New England and the government of New Brunſwick from that of Nova Scotia. It is remarkable for it's tides, which riſe to the height of 50 or 60 feet, and with a proportionable velocity.

FUNEN, an iſland in Denmark; near the entrance of the Baltic Sea, about 35 miles in length, and 30 in breadth. It is ſeparated from Jutland by a ſtrait called the Leſs Belt, and from the Iſland of Zealand by another, called the Great Belt. It is remarkably fertile in paſture and grain, and exports annually great quantities of barley, oats, rye, peaſe, and honey. Moſt of the Daniſh nobility have ſeats here. Odenſee is the capital.

Funtley, Great and Little, Hants, NW. of Fareham. Furumel, E. and W. Dorſetſ. NE. of E. and W. Orchard. Funtlier, Northumb. part of Bothall lordſhip. Furbeck, Yorkſ. W. Riding, near Blith in Nottinghamſhire. Furbie, Linc. SW. of Market Raiſin. Furlerland Hall, Derbyſ. near Cheſterfield. Furle, Suſſex, near Lewes. Furley, Suſſex, between Petworth and Farnhurſt.

FURNES, or VUERNES, a town of the ci-devant Auſtrian Flanders, ſeated on a canal which runs from Bruges to Dunkirk, 12 miles NE. of Dunkirk, and 3 miles from the ſea.

FURNESS. See FOURNESS.

FURRUCKABAD, a town and diſtrict of Hindooſtan, in the circar of Rohilcund, about 30 miles in length, and lying along the the Ganges. It is 70 miles NW. of Lucknow, and is ſubject to a chief of the Patan Rohilla tribe. Lat. 27. 28. N. lon. 79. 30. W.

Furſey Iſle, Dorſetſ. S. of Brownſey Iſle, in Pool Harbour, conſiſts of about 30 acres.

FURSTENBURG, a town and principality of Suabia; a town of Waldeck, in the circle of the Upper Rhine: a town of Luſatia, ſubject to the king of Pruſſia; a town of Paderborn, in Weſtphalia; and a town of Mecklenburg, in Upper Saxony.

FURSTENFIELD, a town of Stiria, 30 miles E. of Gratz.

FURSTENWALD, a town in the New Marche of Brandenburg, ſituated on the river Spree, 20 miles W. of Franckfort on the Oder. Alſo a town of Meiſſen, in Upper Saxony.

FURTH, a large and well-peopled town of Anſpach, in Franconia, ſeated on the Rednitz, 4 miles W. of Nuremburg.

Fuſcot, Glouceſ. in Withington pariſh.

Fufuworth, Linc. near the Iſle of Axholm.

Fugarth, Yorkſ. in Holderneſs.

Fyans Town Bridge, in Meath, Leinſter, 30 miles from Dublin.

FUTTYPOUR, or FATTIPOUR SICRI, a town of Hindooſtan, in the province of Agra, ſeated near an immenſe plain, in which ſcarcely a ſhrub is to be ſeen. The ſoil is light, and almoſt as fine as hair-powder; a circumſtance productive of diſagreeable effects, when this fine duſt is taken up by the hot winds from the weſtward. The country, however, near the town, is in tolerable cultivation. It is 42 miles W. of Agra. Lat. 27. 10. N. lon. 78. 8. E.

FYAL, or FAYAL, the moſt weſterly iſland of the Azores, or Weſtern Iſlands, about 27 miles in length and 9 in breadth. The climate is remarkably good, and the air always pure and mild. The cold of winter is never felt here, and the heat of ſummer is conſtantly tempered by refreſhing winds from the ſea. This iſland produces plenty of paſture for cattle, and plenty of fiſh are caught on the coaſt. It is alſo well cultivated, and yields wheat of the bearded ſort, barley, Indian corn, cucumbers, gourds, melons, water-melons, flax, lemons, oranges, plums, apricots, figs, pears, apples, cabbages, carrots, potatoes, large, ſweet onions, garlic, and ſtrawberries. There are a few vineyards on the iſland, but the quantity of wine is inconſiderable, and the quality indifferent. Here is alſo abundance of cheſnuts, beeches, myrtles, and aſpen trees. Their oxen are ſmall, as are alſo their ſheep, but the meat is very good; and they have plenty of long-legged goats, hogs, and poultry. Their horſes are ſmall and ill-looking; but aſſes and mules are more numerous and more ſerviceable in ſuch a hilly country. Birds here are numerous, and in great variety; particularly quails, American woodcocks, Canary-birds, black birds, and other birds of ſong, with a ſmall ſpecies of hawks. The cottages of the common people are built of clay, and thatched with ſtraw; they are ſmall, but cleanly and cool. The moſt conſiderable, if not only town, is Villa de Horta. Lat. 38. 32. N lon. 28. 45. W.

Fyers, a river of Inverneſsſhire, which runs into Loch Neſs, 10 miles NE. of Fort Auguſtus. Over this river is built a ſtupendous bridge, on two oppoſite rocks; the top of the arch being above 100 feet from the level of the water.

Fyfield, Berks, NW. of Abingdon. Fyfield, Eſſex, near Ongar. Fyfield, Wilts, W. of Marlborough. Fyling, Yorkſ. 4 miles from Whitby. Fylingdale, Yorkſ. W. of Robin Hood's Bay.

FYNE, LOCH, an inlet of the ſea, in Argyleſhire, about 34 miles in length, and from 1 to 6 in breadth. It receives and returns a tide on each ſide of the Iſle of Arran, which is directly oppoſite to it's mouth. It is beautifully indented with bays, and ſurrounded by woodland mountains.

Fynonvaer, Shropſ. between Clun and Radnorſhire.

FYZABAD, a city of Hindooſtan, in the territory of Oude, of which it was once the capital, and near the ancient city of Oude. It is ſtill populous, although the wealthier inhabitants have retired ſince the removal of the nabob to Lucknow. It is ſeated on the river Gogra, 65 miles E. of Lucknow, and 80 nearly N. of Allahabad. Lat. 26. 45. N. lon. 82. 24. E.

G.

GABARET, a town in the dept. of Landes, ſeated on the river Geliſſe, 17 miles W. of Condom.

GABIAN, a village in the dept. of Herault, noted for mineral waters. Near it is a rock from which there iſſues petroleum.

GABIN, a town of Rawa, in Poland.

Gaddeſby, Leiceſterſ. SW. of Melton Mowbray. Gaddeſden, Great and Little, Herts, near Hemel Hempſtead. Gadeby, Leic. SE. of Boſworth. Gad's Hill, Kent, between Chaulk Street and Rocheſter.

GAIETA, a town of Lavora, in Naples, with a harbour, near a gulf of the ſame name, 27 miles NW. of Capua.

GAILLAC, a town in the dept. of Tarn, of conſiderable trade. It's wines are much eſteemed. It is ſeated on the river Tarn, which is here navigable, 10 miles nearly W. of Alby.

GAILLON, a town in the dept. of Eure, ſituated 1½ mile from the river Seine.

Gaines, Eſſex, S. of Upminſter. Gaines Park, Eſſex, E. of Copthall.

*GAINSBOROUGH, a town of Lincolnſhire, ſituated on the Trent, over which a handſome ſtone bridge has been lately erected, where foot paſſengers, as well as others, pay toll. Though near 40 miles from the Humber by water, it is acceſſible to veſſels of conſiderable burden, (trading to London, Hull, Newcaſtle, and other places) with the tide, and ſerves as a place of export and import to the W. and NW. parts of the county. It is 17 miles NW. of Lincoln, and 151 N. by W. of London. Market on Tueſday.

Gainſted, Yorkſhire, E. Riding, N. of Headon.

GAIRLOCH, a bay and tract of land on the W. coaſt of Roſsſhire. Here is a conſiderable fiſhery of cod and other white fiſh.

Gaiton in the Marſh, Lincolnſ. SE. of Louth. Gaiton in the Would, Linc. SW. of Louth.

GALACZ, a town of Bulgaria, ſituated near the mouths of the Danube, 54 miles W. of Iſmael.

Galaſhiels, a village in Selkirkſhire, near the confluence of the Gala and the Tweed. A flouriſhing manufacture of woollen cloth is carried on here, called Galaſhiel's grey, being of a dark colour and coarſe texture; and lately flannels and finer cloths have been tried here with tolerable ſucceſs.

GALASO, a river of Otranto, in Naples, which falls into the ſea near Tarento.

GALATA, the principal ſuburb of Conſtantinople, ſeated oppoſite the ſeraglio, on the other ſide of the harbour. It is inhabited by Chriſtians and Jews, who here exerciſe their religious profeſſion publicly. The houſes are better built here than in Conſtantinople, and wine is ſold in taverns, which is not allowed in the city itſelf.

Galbally, in Limerick, Munſter.

Galbey, Leiceſ. S. of Billeſden. Gale, Yorkſh. N. Riding, W. of Ravenſworth Caſtle.

Galey River, riſes in Limerick, runs into Kerry, and falls at laſt into the river Feal.

GALICIA, a name given to a country in the S. and SW. of Poland, conſiſting of that part of Little Poland, which is S. of the river Viſtula, almoſt the whole of Red Ruſſia, and a ſlip of Podolia. It is now incorporated into the Auſtrian dominions under the appellation of the kingdoms of Galicia and Lodomeria. The mountainous parts produce fine paſture; the plains are moſtly ſandy, but abound in foreſts, and are fertile in corn. The principal articles of traffic are cattle, hides, wax, and honey, copper, lead, iron, and ſalt. It extends from E. to W. about 280 miles in length, and from 60 to 100 in breadth. Lemburg or Leopold is the capital.

GALICIA, a mountainous province of Spain, bounded on the N. and W. by the ſea; on the E. by Aſturia and Leon; and on the S. by Portugal. It has more harbours than any other province of Spain, and the foreſts yield wood for ſhip-building. The principal produce is wine, flax, and citrons; and here are alſo good paſtures. The population is not numerous. The mineral productions are copper and lead; Corunna and Ferrol are the principal ports, and St. Jago di Compoſtella is the capital.

GALICIA, NEW, or GUADALAJARA, an audience of Mexico, which contains a province of the ſame name, and 5 others. The air is temperate, and there is abundance of corn and pulſe; here are alſo mines of ſilver and copper. The principal towns are Zamora, Leon, Lagos, and Guanamota.

GALILEE, a province of Paleſtine, anciently a part of Judea. It's bounds are not exactly known.

GALISTIO, a town of Spaniſh Eſtramadura, 10 miles E. of Coria.

GALL, ST. or ST. GALLEN, a conſiderable town of the Thurgau, in Switzerland.

land. The inhabitants are uncommonly induſtrious, and carry on an extenſive commerce, ariſing from their manufactures of linen, muſlin, and embroidery. Here is a rich and celebrated abbey, whoſe abbot is choſen by the 72 Benedictines, who compoſe the chapter. The government of the town, which is entirely Proteſtant, is ariſto-democratical; the ſubjects of the abbot, whoſe territory is diſtinct, are Catholics. To the library belonging to this abbey, we are indebted for the preſervation of the famous writings of Petronius Arbiter, Silius Italicus, Valerius Flaccus, and Quintilian, copies of which were found here in 1413. The town is ſeated in a narrow, barren valley, between two mountains, 57 miles NE of Zurich. Lat. 47. 26. N. lon. 9. 20. E.

GALLA, or PUNTA DE GALLO, a Dutch ſettlement in Ceylon, ſituated in a healthy air, on the SW. coaſt, about 98 miles S. of Candy. The bay is ſaid to be neither large nor convenient, and the entrance is dangerous on account of rocks.

Gallare, Hants, near Andover.

Galleon Point, the E. point of Caſtlehaven Harbour, in Cork, Munſter. Gally Head, a promontory on the coaſt of Cork, in Munſter; on the extremity of which is Dundede Caſtle.

GALLINARA. See ALBENGA.

GALLIPAGO ISLANDS, in the S. Sea, lying on both ſides of the equator, in lon. between 85 and 90 deg. W. were diſcovered by the Spaniards, who call here for freſh water and proviſions on their paſſage between Aſia and America. They are uninhabited: but here are great numbers of birds and excellent tortoiſes. There are 14 or 15 of theſe iſlands at leaſt, and there are others of the ſame name more to the W.

GALLIPOLI, a ſea-port of Naples, ſeated on a rock, ſurrounded by the ſea, and joined to the main land by a bridge, 21 miles W. of Otranto, in the Gulf of Tarento. Lat. 40. 20. N. lon. 18. 9. E.

GALLIPOLI, a town of Romania, at or near the ancient ABYDOS, on the Dardanelles, with a good harbour, at the entrance of the Sea of Marmora. It contains about 10,000 Turks, and 3500 Greeks, beſides a great number of Jews. It is 100 miles WSW. of Conſtantinople. Lat. 40. 53. N. lon. 27. 15. E.

GALLO, an iſland on the coaſt of Peru, which is uninhabited, but furniſhes veſſels with wood and water. Lat. 2. 28. N. lon. 78. 30. W.

GALLOWAY, NEW, a town of Kirkcudbrightſhire, near the river Ken, 14 miles N. of Kirkcudbright.

GALLOWAY, UPPER, or WEST. See WIGTONSHIRE.

Galmeton, Devonſ. near Dartmouth.

Galties, or Gaulties, a range of mountains between the counties of Tipperary, Limerick, and Cork.

Galton, Devonſh. 1 mile from Ower Moyne. Galtres Foreſt, Yorkſ. N. Riding, S. of Gilling Caſtle, formerly extended to York city.

GALWAY, a county of Ireland, in the province of Connaught, about 75 miles long, and 46 broad. It is bounded on the N. by the counties of Mayo and Roſcommon; on the E. by Roſcommon, King's County, and Tipperary; on the S. by Clare and Galway Bay; and on the W. by the Atlantic Ocean. It contains 28 churches, 116 pariſhes, about 28,212 houſes, and 142,000 inhabitants. A great part of it is fertile, being a warm, limeſtone ſoil, which rewards the induſtry of the huſbandman and ſhepherd, but is very coarſe towards the N. and W. and, in thoſe parts, rather thinly inhabited. The weſtern coaſt contains many well-ſheltered harbours, and is moſtly bordered with green iſlands and rugged rocks.

*GALWAY, a town of Ireland, in a county of the ſame name, of which it is the capital. It is advantageouſly ſituated for foreign trade on Galway Bay, in the Atlantic. The ſalmon and herring fiſheries are carried on here with great ſpirit, and employ ſeveral hundred boats; the quantity of kelp manufactured and exported is conſiderable, and the increaſe of the linen manufacture, though of late introduction, is become very important. It is 49 miles WSW. of Athlone, and 108 W. by S. of Dublin.

GALWAY BAY, a large bay on the coaſt of Galway, Connaught. The N. ſide of it is foul and dangerous for veſſels; but it is more ſafe on the S. ſide. Small ſhips only can ſail up to the town of Galway.

GAMBIA, a large river of Africa, which falls into the Atlantic Ocean. The ſource is not known, but it is navigable for ſloops about 600 miles up the country. At the mouth of the river the land is low, but, higher up, the country is rocky and mountainous, and covered with woods. Along it's banks are great numbers of towns inhabited by various nations. The Arabic language and Mahometan religion generally prevail in the country N. of this river: on the S. the inhabitants are Pagans. The Gambia annually overflows it's banks, like the Nile. The mouth is in lat. 13. 28. N. and lon. 16. 20. W.

GAMBRON,

GAMBRON. See GOMBROON.

Gamleby, Cumb. NE. of Kirk Oſwald. Gamlesby, Cumb. in Aketon pariſh. Gamlingay, Cumb. near Caxton. Gamſton, Nott. near Adbolton. Gamſton, Nott. on the Idle, NW. of Tuxford.

GANDERSHEIM, a town of Brunſwick Wolfenbuttel, in Lower Saxony, famous for a Proteſtant nunnery.

GANDIA, a ſea-port of Valencia, with a ſmall univerſity, 28 miles nearly S. of Valencia.

GANDICOTTA, a town of Hindooſtan, in the circar of Cuddapa, ſituated on or near the river Penner, 33 miles NW. of the town of Cuddapa. Near it is a diamond mine.

Ganford, Durh. near Barnard Caſtle.

GANGES, a large and celebrated river of India, has it's ſource in two ſprings, near Mount Kentaiſſe, in Thibet; the ſtreams of which, after running 500 miles in a weſtern direction, inclining to the N. turn to the S. unite their waters, and form what is properly called the Ganges, from the Hindoo word Ganga, which ſignifies the river. This great body of water now forces a paſſage through Mount Himmaleh, (a chain or ridge of mountains extending from Cabul along the N. of Hindooſtan, and through Thibet) and ſapping it's very foundations, ruſhes through a cavern, and precipitates itſelf into a vaſt baſin, which it has worn in the rock, at the hither foot of the mountains. From this ſecond ſource (as it may be termed) of the Ganges, it takes a SE. direction through the country of Sirinagur, until, at Hurdwar, it finally eſcapes the mountainous tract in which it has wandered about 800 miles. From Hurdwar, where it enters the plain country, it flows with a ſmooth, navigable ſtream, during the remainder of it's courſe to the Bay of Bengal, which it enters by ſeveral mouths. In it's courſe through theſe delightful plains, it paſſes by Furrackabad, Allahabad, Benares, Patna, &c. and receives 11 rivers, ſome of which are equal to the Rhine, and none ſmaller than the Thames, beſides others of inferior note. In the annual inundation of this immenſe river, the country is overflowed to the extent of more than 100 miles in width; nothing appearing above water but villages and trees, excepting, very rarely, the top of an elevated ſpot, the artificial mound of ſome deſerted village, which appears like an iſland. The riſe of the water is on an average about 31 feet. The Ganges is a moſt beneficial river, diffuſing plenty by means of it's living productions, enriching the lands, and affording an eaſy conveyance for the produce of it's borders. The Hindoos hold it's waters in high veneration. It is viſited annually by pilgrims from all parts of Hindooſtan, and happy are thoſe accounted whoſe lot it may be to periſh in it's ſtreams.

GANJAM, a town of Hindooſtan, in Cicacola, one of the northern circars, ſubject to the Engliſh. It lies on the Bay of Bengal, near the SW. end of the Chilka Lake. Lat. 19. 22. N. lon. 85. 20. E.

GANNA, a ſmall town in the dept. of Allier, 30 miles nearly S. of Moulins.

Gannow, Worceſ. N. of Bromſgrove. Gannon, Yorkſ. near Scarborough.

GAP, a town in the dept. of the Upper Alps, before the Revolution, capital of a country called the Gapençois, about 27 miles long and 18 wide. It is ſeated at the foot of a mountain, in which are found mineral waters that are deemed antiſebritic. The town was taken by the Duke of Savoy, in 1692, and a great part of it burnt down. Lat. 44. 34. N. lon. 6. 10. E.

GARECK. See BAMBREN.

Garbieſthorp, Norf. NE. of Downham. Garboldiſham, Norf. near Keninghall, and NW. of Diſs.

GARD, a department of France, bounded on the N. by the departments of Lozere and Ardeche; on the E. by the Rhone, near it's mouth; on the S. by the Mediterranean and part of the dept. of Herault; and on the W. by the departments of Lozere, Aveiron, and Herault. Niſmes is the principal town.

GARD, PONT DE, an ancient Roman aqueduct in France, nine miles NE. of Niſmes, erected, it is ſuppoſed, by Agrippa, in order to convey to Niſmes the water of the ſpring of Eure, which riſes near Uzes. It is 160 feet in height, and conſiſts of three bridges, reared one upon another, ſo as to unite two craggy mountains. The upperm ſt of theſe bridges has ſix arches of great blocks of ſtone, without cement; the centre bridge, on which this ſtands, has eleven, and the loweſt (under which runs the Gard, an inconſiderable but rapid river) has thirty-ſix arches. Louis XIV. when he repaired, in 1699, the damages which this ſtupendous work had ſuſtained by time, cauſed a real bridge, over which travellers now paſs, to be conſtructed by the ſide of the lower range of arches.

GARDA, a town of Italy, in the Veroneſe; and a lake between the Veroneſe and the Breſſan, about 30 miles long, and from 2 to 7 wide.

GARDELEBEN,

GARDELEBEN, a town in the Old Marche of Brandenburg, which trades in cloth of it's own manufacture, hops, and excellent beer. It is ſeated on the river Baiſe, 32 miles N. by W. of Magdeburg. Lat. 52. 41. N. lon. 11. 35. E.

Garendon, Leic. near Loughborough. Gargill, Cumb. S. of Alſton Moor. Gargrave, Yorkſ. W. Riding, near Winterburn, on the river Aire, between Settle and Skipton in Craven. Garliue, Cornw. E. of Market Jew. Garmanſway, 5 miles from Durham. Garmſey, Hunt. SW. of Upwood.

Garmayle Pool, in Down, Ulſter, is uſed as the harbour for ſhips, trading to Belfaſt, on account of the ſhallowneſs of the water at Belfaſt Bridge.

Garnard, Iſle of Wight, in W. Medina. Garnborough, Bucks, SW. of Winſlow. Garnedes, Eſſex, S. of Dunmow. Garner, a river in Herefordſhire, which runs into the Wye above Whitchurch. Garran, a river of Herefordſhire, which runs into the Wye at Llangarran. Garret, Lanc. near Mancheſter. Garret Lee, Northumb. SE. of Rothbury. Garret's Green, Surry, in Wandſworth pariſh.

GARONNE, a fine river of France, which riſes in the Pyrenees, and taking a NW. direction, waters Thouloufe, Agen, and Bourdeaux, below which it is joined by the Dordogne, and thence, to it's entrance into the Bay of Biſcay, is called the Gironde. It communicates with the Mediterranean, by it's junction with the Royal Canal. See CANAL, ROYAL.

GARONNE, UPPER, a department of France, ſurrounded by the departments of Lot, Tarne, Aude, Arriege, the Pyrenean Mountains, Upper Pyrenees, and Gers. Toulouſe is the capital.

Garratſtown, in Meath, Leinſter. Garlethagh, a river in Waterford, Munſter. Garridiuny, in Queen's County, Leinſter.

GARRISON, a town of Fermanagh, in Ulſter, 10 miles SE. of Ballyſhannon, and 102 from Dublin.

Garriſtown, in Dublin, Leinſter.

Garſall, Staffordſ. in Milwich manor. Garſdon, Wilts, near Malmſbury. Garſington, Oxf. between Oxford and Wheatley. Gurſtall, Yorkſ. between Dent and the river Rother.

*GARSTANG, a large, populous town of Lancaſhire, built in a very irregular manner, with dirty ſtreets, and very indifferent houſes. It is ſeated on the river Wyre, (by which it communicates with all the late inland navigations), on the road between Preſton and Lancaſter, from which latter place it is 10 miles S. and 224 NNW. of London. Market on Thurſday.

Garſton, Herts, in Watford pariſh. Garſton, Lanc. in Childwall pariſh. Garſton, Staffordſ. NE. of Cheadle. Garſton, Eaſt, Berks, near Hungerford. Garthams, Yorkſ. E. Riding, NE. of Hendon. Garthorp, Leiceſterſhire, E. of Melton Mowbray. Garthorp, Linc. in Luddington pariſh. Garton, Yorkſ. in Holderneſs.

GARTZ, a town of Rugen Iſland, in Swediſh Pomerania, and a town of Stettin, in Pruſſian Pomerania.

Garvaugh, in Derry, Ulſter. Garvagly, in Down, Ulſter.

Garveſton, Norfolk, between Hingham and Dereham. Garway, Heref. NW. of Monmouth. Garwington, Kent, in Beakſbourn pariſh.

GASCONY, a ci-devant province of France, ſituated between the Garonne, the Bay of Biſcay, Languedoc, Foix, and the Pyrenees.

GASSENHOVEN, a town of the ci-devant Auſtrian Brabant.

Gaſſon, Surry, in Blechingley pariſh. Gaſtborp, Norfolk, SW. of Eaſt Harling. Gaſwood, Lanc. 4 miles from Wigan. Gatcomb, Glouceſ. near Awre. Gatcomb, Iſle of Wight, near Cariſbrook. Gate, Suſſex, W. of Rye. Gateburton, Linc. between Lincoln and Gainſborough. Gatecomb, Devonſ. near Totneſs. Gatehampton, Oxfordſh. on the Thames, between Whitchurch and Goring. Gatehelmſley, Yorkſhire, N. Riding, below Stamford Bridge.

Gatehouſe, a village of Kirkcudbrightſhire, ſituated at the mouth of the river Fleet, 9 miles NW. of Kirkcudbright. It conſiſts of three regular ſtreets, all built within thirty years. Here is a cotton-mill; and ſmall ſloops come up the river, within a ſhort diſtance of the town.

Gateley, Norfolk, between Dereham and Fakenham. Gatemerſton, Dorſetſh. near E. Lulworth. Gatenby, Yorkſ. N. Riding, SE. of Bedal. Gateſend, Norfolk, SE. of Bagthorp.

*GATESHEAD, a town, or village, in the county of Durham, is, as it were, a ſuburb of Newcaſtle, being united to it by a ſtone bridge over the Tyne. It is ſituated on ground as uneven and ſteep as is that of Newcaſtle

Gateſhill, Surry, near Godalmin. Gatewick, Yorkſ. in Holderneſs. Gaton, NW. of Cambridge. Gatre, Yorkſ. W. Riding, SW. of Wheatley. Gattacre, Shropſ. SE. of Bridgenorth. Gatten, Shropſ. NW. of Ratlinghope. Gatton, Surry, 19 miles from London, under the ſide of a hill, on the road to Ryegate. Gatwick, Suſſex, near Steyning.

the

GAVARDO, a town in the Breſciano.

GAUDENS, ST. a town in the dept. of Upper Garonne, ſeated on the river Garonne, 30 miles E. of Tarbe.

GAVEREN. See WAVEREN.

Gaughey, Yorkſ. W. Riding, NW. of Rippon.

GAVI, a town of Genoa.

GAUL, the ancient name of France.

Gaunt's Urcot, Glouceſ. in the hundred of Thornbury. Gautborp, Yorkſ. W. of New Malton. Gautborp, Yorkſ. W. Riding, near Blingley. Gautborp Hall, Yorkſ. W. Riding, in Harwood pariſh.

GAUTS, THE, BALLA GAUT MOUNTAINS, or INDIAN APPENNINES, mountains of Hindooſtan, extending from Cape Comorin to the Tapty, or Surat River, at unequal diſtances from the coaſt; ſeldom 60 miles, commonly about 40, and in one ſpace approaching within 6 miles. They riſe abruptly from the low country, called the Concan, or Cockum, ſupporting, in the nature of a terrace, a vaſt extent of fertile and populous plains, which are ſo elevated as to render the air cool and pleaſant. This celebrated ridge, in it's courſe along the Tapty, forms ſeveral Gauts, that is, paſſes or deſcents, (according to the original import of the word, which means a landing place) toward that river.

Gawcot, in Buckingham pariſh, Gawſeworth Hall, Cheſhire, near Macclesfield. Gawthorp, Lanc. near Colney. Gaynford, Durh. on the Tees, 3 miles E. of Barnard Caſtle. Gaynton, Devonſ. SW. of Torbay. Gayſley, Suffolk, E. of Newmarket. Gayleford, Nott. a hamlet of Worksop. Gayleforth, Yorkſ. W. Riding, between Snaith and Sherborn. Gayton, Cheſh. on the Dee, W. of Raby. Gayton, Norfolk, NW. of Caſtleacre. Gayton, near Northampton. Gayton, Staff. near Milwich. Gaytonthorp, Norf. N. of Gayton. Gaywood, Norf. near Lynn.

GAZA, an ancient town of Paleſtine, ſituated about a mile from the ſea, with a harbour called New Gaza. It now hardly contains 2000 inhabitants, but it's ruins ſhew it to have been once of conſiderable extent. It is the reſidence of a baſhaw, and is 50 miles SW. of Jeruſalem. Lat. 31. 28. N. lon. 34. 45. E.

Gearby's, Great, Eſſex, near Ilford and Wanſted.

GEARON, or JAROON, a town of Farſiſtan, in Perſia, famous for it's excellent dates. Lat. 28. 15. N. lon. 51. 17. E.

Geaſhill, in King's County, Leinſter.

Gedding, Suff. SW. of Wulpet. Geddington, Northamp. 1 mile from Boughton. Gedling, near Nottingham. Gedſton, Rutl. NW. of Collyweſton. Gedney, Linc. near Fleet and Tid. Gedney, Somerſ. near Glaſtonbury.

GEFLE, GEVALIA, or GIAWLE, a town, the capital of Geſtricia, in Sweden, with a good harbour, on the Gulf of Bothnia. It is the moſt commercial town in this northern part of Sweden; it's exports are principally iron, pitch, tar, and planks. Two thirds of the inhabitants are fiſhermen. It is ſituated on Alderholm, an iſland formed by the three arms of the river Geffle, or Gentle, 55 miles N. by W. of Upſal. Lat. 60. 45. N. lon. 17. 0. E.

GEILDORP, a town of Limburgh, in Suabia.

GEISLINGEN, an imperial town of Suabia.

Geist, Norf. SW. of Twiford. Geistwick, Norfolk, W. of Caſton. Geldeſton, Norf. SE. of Seching. Geldſton, Herts, near Hunſlon. Geldston, Linc. N. of Grantham.

Gellecrug, Northumb. between Tinedale and Cumberland.

GELNHAUSEN, a town of Hanau Munzenburg, circle of Upper Rhine.

Gelt, a river in Cumberland, which runs into the Irthing below Haton.

GEMAPPE, a village of Hainault, 2½ miles SW. of Mons. The battle fought here, between the French and Auſtrians, Nov. 5, 1792, was moſt obſtinately diſputed, but the Auſtrians were at length compelled to quit the field, and retire to Mons.

Gembling, Yorkſ. E. Riding, NW. of Hornſey.

GEMBLOURS, a town of the ci-devant Auſtrian Brabant, ſeated on the river Orne, 10 miles NW. of Namur.

GEMINGEN, a town in the palatinate of the Rhine.

GEMINIANS, ST. a town of Tuſcany.

GEMUND, or GMUND, a town of Juliers, in Weſtphalia; an imperial town of Suabia; a town of Carinthia: and a town in the archduchy of Auſtria.

GEMUND, or GEMUNDEN, a town of Wurtzburg, in Franconia; and a town in the archduchy of Auſtria.

GEMUNDEN, a town of Leiningen; and a town of Heſſe Caſſel, both in the circle of Upper Rhine.

GEMUYD, a town of Upper Auſtria, conſiderable for it's ſalt-works.

GENEP, a town in the ci-devant Auſtrian Brabant.

GENEVA,

GENEVA, an ancient, large, and populous city and republic, on the confines of France, Savoy, and Switſerland. It is ſeated at the SW. extremity of the lake of the ſame name, and is divided by the Rhone, which paſſes through the lake, into two unequal parts. Geneva, which lies partly in the plain on the borders of the lake, and partly on a gentle aſcent, is irregularly built. The houſes are lofty; and many that ſtand in the trading parts of the city, have arcades of wood, which are raiſed even to the upper ſtories. Theſe arcades, ſupported by pillars, give a gloomy appearance to the ſtreet, but are uſeful to the inhabitants in protecting them from the ſun and rain. It contains about 24,000 people; but the territory or diſtrict is ſmall. They are in alliance with the Swiſs Cantons, and after various revolutions, with which they have been agitated from time to time, for near two centuries, the democrats, in 1789, prevailed over the ariſtocracy of which the ſenate and ſyndics, or chief magiſtrates, were compoſed. A conſtitution was lately eſtabliſhed here, favourable to the rights of the people, and perhaps judiciouſly modelled between the two extremes; but it now forms an integral part of the French empire. The citizens of both ſexes are remarkably well inſtructed, "and it is not uncommon," ſays Dr. Moore, "to find mechanics, in the intervals of labour, amuſing themſelves with the works of Locke, Monteſquieu, Newton, and other ſimilar productions. It is 40 miles NE. of Chamberry, and 126 NW. of Turin. Lat. 46. 12. N lon. 6. 10. E.

GENEVA, LAKE OF, an expanſe of water between Switſerland and Savoy, extending from Geneva to Villeneuve, 54 miles in length, and 12 in breadth, in it's wideſt part. From Geneva to the environs of Lauſanne, the country ſlopes for a conſiderable way, to the margin of the lake, and is enriched with a variety and profuſion of natural beauties. Near Lauſanne, the banks riſe conſiderably, and form a terrace; a few miles beyond the town is a rapid deſcent. The colour of the water is extremely beautiful, clear, and at a diſtance ſeems of a fine blue. The depth is various; the greateſt yet found, by ſounding, is 160 fathoms. It abounds in fiſh, remarkable as well for their excellence as ſize. Like all inland lakes, incloſed within high mountains, it is ſubject to ſudden ſtorms. Among the birds which frequent this lake, are the tippet grebes, which appear only in the winter. They are obliged to build in other places, this lake being almoſt deſtitute of reeds and ruſhes, in which they form their floating neſts.

GENGENBACH, an Imperial town of the Ortenau, in Suabia.

GENGAUX DE ROYAL, ST. a town in the dept. of the Saone and Loire, remarkable for its excellent wines. It is 17 miles SW. of Chalons.

GENIEZ, ST. a town in the depart. of Aveiron, 18 miles ENE. of Rhodez.

GENIS, a town in the dept. of Mont Blanc, ſeated on the river Guier, 12 miles W. of Chamberry.

Gennis, Cornw. NE. of Boſcaſtle.

GENOA, a city of Italy, capital of a republic of the ſame name. It is about 10 miles in circumference, and built like an amphitheatre. The houſes are five or ſix ſtories high, and well built, and the palaces and public buildings are numerous. The harbour is large and good, and, to preſerve it, they have built a mole 560 paces in length, 13 in breath, and 15 feet above the level of the water. It is populous, and one of the moſt commercial places in Italy. They have manufactures in velvet, pluſh, damaſk, and ſilk; and the banking buſineſs is carried on extenſively. The ordinary revenue of this republic is about 200,000l. a year. The government is purely ariſtocratic. There is a great council, conſiſting of 80 perſons, choſen out of the old and new nobility, in whom the legiſlative authority reſides, but the adminiſtration of affairs is veſted in a ſenate, conſiſting of a doge, and 2 ſenators. The nobility are often employed in trade, and generally keep two or three years' proviſion of corn, wine, and oil in their magazines, which they ſell to the people in ſcarce times. The Genoeſe fleet, anciently celebrated for it's victories over the Saracens, Piſaneſa, Venetians, Spaniards, and Turks, and a long time maſters of Sardinia, Malta, Majorca, Minorca, Candia, Cyprus, the Crimea, and other places in the Archipelago, is now reduced to ſix galleys. Genoa was bombarded by the French, in 1684, and taken by the Auſtrians, in 1746; the oppreſſion of theſe laſt, however, was ſuch, that the inhabitants ſuddenly roſe and expelled their conquerors, who again beſieged the city the next year, but without effect. It is 62 miles SE. of Turin, and 224 NW. of Rome.

GENOA, the republic, extends along the Gulf of Genoa for about 120 miles; but it's breath is unequal, varying from 8 to nearly 20 miles. On the land ſide it is bounded by Piedmont, Montferrat, Milan, Placentia, Parma, and Modena. It is populous, populous, well cultivated, and fertile near the ſea; but the inner parts are mountainous and barren.

Gentleſhall, Staff. W. of Lichfield.

GEORGE, FORT, in Inverneſsſhire, a ſtrong and regular fortreſs, with ſeveral ſtreets of barracks, and completely commanding the harbour of Inverneſs.

GEORGE, LAKE, in the ſtate of New York, lies SW. of Lake Champlain, and is 24 miles long and 3 wide. The N. end is 2 miles S. of Ticonderago.

GEORGE TOWN, a town and diſtrict of S. Carolina, 12 miles from the Atlantic, and 55 miles N. by E. of Charleſton; alſo a town of Maryland.

GEORGE, FORT, ST. See MADRAS.

GEORGE'S KEY, ST. a ſmall iſland of N. America, off the coaſt of Honduras, called alſo Caſina, or Cayo Caſina. By a convention in 1786, the Engliſh logwood cutters in the Bay of Honduras were permitted, under certain reſtrictions, to occupy this iſland.

GEORGE, ST. or DEL MINA, the principal ſettlement of the Dutch on the Gold Coaſt of Guinea, about 8 miles W. of Cape Coaſt Caſtle. Lat. 5. 0. N. lon. 0. 22. W.

GEORGE'S, ST. a little iſland S. of Venice, noted for it's fine Benedictine church and abbey.

GEORGE'S, ST. one of the Bermuda, or Summer Iſlands. It is about 15 miles long and 3 broad, and is divided into 9 pariſhes or diſtricts.

GEORGE, ST. one of the Azores, about 30 miles in length, and 6 in breadth. The ſoil is, in general, level, except towards the N. where it is rocky and barren; in other parts, it is fertile in corn and other productions. It is inhabited by about 5000 perſons. The chief town is of the ſame name. Lat. 38. 39. lon. 28. W.

GEORGE, ST. an iſland of N. America, in the ſtrait between the Lakes Superior and Huron.

George, St. Somerſetſhire, near Briſtol. Georgeham, Devonſ. on the coaſt, SW. of Ilfracomb. George's, St. Glouceſ. near Briſtol.

GEORGE'S CHANNEL, ST. between England and Ireland.

George's Hill, St. Surry, NW. of Eſher. George's Iſland, St. Cornw. oppoſite to E. and W. Looe.

GEORGIA, a fertile country of Aſia, called by the Perſians Gurgiſtan, and by the Turks Gurtſhi, is ſituated between the Black and Caſpian Seas, and comprehends the ancient Iberia, and part of Colchis. It is ſurrounded by the Ruſſian government of Caucaſus, Circaſſia, Dagheſtan, Schirvan, and Armenia. It is divided into 9 provinces. Of theſe, 5 form the kingdom of Georgia; the other 4 form the principality of Imeritia. The hills are covered with foreſts of beech, oak, aſh, cheſnuts, walnuts, and elms, encircled with vines, growing ſpontaneouſly, and producing vaſt quantities of grapes. Cotton alſo grows ſpontaneouſly, as well as the fineſt fruit trees. Rice, wheat, millet, hemp, and flax, are raiſed on the plains, almoſt without culture. The valleys afford fine paſturage, the rivers are full of fiſh, the mountains abound with minerals, and the climate is delicious. The rivers, however, being fed by mountain torrents, are always too rapid or too ſhallow for the purpoſes of navigation. Georgia was formerly one kingdom, the inhabitants of which were Chriſtians; but, ſince 1639, when it was conquered by the Perſians, the country is divided between two native princes, by themſelves called kings, but by the ſophi ſtyled governors. Each of theſe has a guard of Mahometan horſe in their pay. The Georgians are ſkilled in the uſe of the bow, and are thought to be the beſt ſoldiers in Aſia. Their dreſs reſembles that of the Coſſacks; but thoſe that are wealthy affect the habit of the Perſians. They uſually dye their hair, beards, and nails red. The women, who are celebrated for their beauty, ſtain the palms of their hands of the ſame colour, and paint their eyebrows black, in ſuch a manner as to form one entire line, while the reſt of the face is coated with white and red. Being generally educated in convents, they can read and write, qualifications uncommon with the men, even of the higheſt rank. The inhabitants are Chriſtians, partly of the Greek, partly of the Armenian church. Here are alſo Tartars, Oſſi, Armenians, and a conſiderable number of Jews. Of theſe laſt, ſome have villages of their own; others are mixed with the Georgian, Armenian, and Tartarian inhabitants, but never with the Oſſi. They pay a ſmall tribute above that of the natives. There are only four conſiderable towns, Teflis, Gori, Suram, and Ali.

GEORGIA, the moſt ſouthern of the United States of N. America, is bounded on the E. by the Atlantic Ocean; on the S. by E. and W. Florida; on the W. by that part of Louiſiana which lies to the E. of the river Miſſiſſippi; and on the N. by S. Carolina and the Tenaſſee government. It extends about 420 miles from E. to W. and from 140 to 240 from N. to S. It contains GERMANY.

Paris
Dover
Calais
Boulogne
Dieppe
Amsterdam
Rotterdam
Utrecht
Arnheim
Nimeguen
Emmerich
Wesel
Dusseldorf
Cologne
Bonn
Coblentz
Mentz
Frankfort
Strasburg
Basle
Berne
Zurich
Constance
Munich
Ratisbon
Augsburg
Ulm
Stuttgard
Carlsruhe
Manheim
Wurtzburg
Nuremberg
Bamberg
Leipsic
Dresden
Berlin
Potsdam
Magdeburg Brunswick
Hanover Minden
Munster
Embden
Groningen
Leeuwarden
Harlingen
Texel
Helder
Ams

contains nearly 90,000 ſouls, and is divided into 11 counties, namely, Chatham, Effingham, Burke, Richmond, Wilkes, Liberty, Glynn, Camden, Waſhington, Greene, and Franklin. The whole coaſt is bordered with iſlands, which, as well as the continent, being well wooded, the channel between them is extremely pleaſant. The principal towns are Auguſta, Savannah, Brunſwick, Sunbury, Frederica, Waſhington, and Louiſville. The principal rivers are the Savannah, Ogeechee, Alatamaha, St. Mary, &c. The winters in Georgia are mild and pleaſant, ice and ſnow being ſeldom ſeen. The ſoil varies according to ſituation, and different degrees of improvement. By culture are produced rice, indigo, cotton, ſilk, Indian corn, potatoes, oranges, figs, pomegranates, &c. Rice, at preſent, is the ſtaple commodity; but great attention begins to be paid to the raiſing of tobacco. Auguſta is the capital.

GEORGIA, SOUTH, the principal of a cluſter of iſlands in the S. Atlantic Ocean, diſcovered by Captain Cook, in 1775, and ſo named by him. It is 31 leagues long, and it's greateſt breadth is about 10. It abounds in bays and harbours, which the vaſt quantities of ice render inacceſſible the greateſt part of the year. Two rocky iſlands are ſituated at the N. end, one of which was a craggy cliff, nearly perpendicular, containing the neſts of many thouſand ſhags; the other was called Bird Iſland, from the innumerable flocks of birds ſeen near it, from the largeſt albatroſſes down to the leaſt peterels. Several porpoiſes and ſeals were alſo obſerved. Here are perpendicular ice cliffs of conſiderable height, like thoſe of Spitſbergen. From theſe, pieces were continually breaking off, and floating out to ſea: the valleys were covered with ſnow, and the only vegetation obſerved, was a bladed graſs growing in tufts, wild burnet, and a plant like moſs. Not a ſtream of freſh water was to be ſeen on the whole coaſt. A great number of ſea-calves and ſea-bears were found, and flocks of penguins, ſome of which weighed 32 pounds, and meaſured 3 feet 3 inches in length. The only bird ſeen appeared to be a ſpecies of the lark: no quadruped was found. Theſe iſlands lie between 53. 57. and 54. 57. S. lat. and between 38. 13. and 35. 34. W. lon.

GEPPING, a town of Wirtemburg.

GERA, a town of Reus, in Upper Saxony.

GERAW, a town and ſmall country, in the principality of Heſſe Darmſtadt.

GERBEROY, a town in the dept. of Oiſe, 12 miles NW. of Beauvais, and 50 N. of Paris.

GERBES, JERBA, or ZERBI, an iſland near the coaſt of Tripoli, dependent on the dey. It bears barley, figs, olives, and grapes. Lat. 33. 56. N. lon. 11. 30. E.

GERBEVILLERS, a town in the dept. of Meurthe, 5 miles from Luneville.

GERGENTI, a town on the W. coaſt of Sicily.

GERMAIN EN LAYE, St. a town in the dept. of Seine and Oiſe, noted for it's palace, built originally by Robert, king of France, and afterwards rebuilt by Francis I. Here James II. of England, found an aſylum. It is 10 miles NW. of Paris.

GERMAIN LAVAL, ST. a town in the dept. of Rhone and Loire, 16 miles S. of Roanne, and 225 SE. of Paris.

GERMAIN, ST. a town in the reſpective depts. of the Creuſe, Aube, Orne, Sarte, Lot, Upper Vienne, Allier, Seine and Oiſe, Saone and Loire, Nievre, Charente; and two in the dept. of Lozere.

GERMAINS, ST. a ſmall, decayed town of Cornwall, with houſes meanly built and irregular, as is the rock which is their baſis; once, however, the largeſt in the county. It had formerly a good fiſhery, and is ſituated on a raiſing ground, in the form of an amphitheatre, near the little river Laver, (which abounds in oyſters) 8 miles W. of Plymouth, and 224 WSW. of London. Market on Friday.

GERMANO, ST. a town of Urbino; a town of Vercelli, in Piedmont; a town on the W. coaſt of the iſland of Porto Rico, in lat. 18. 20. N. and lon. 67. 40. W.; and a town of Lavora, in Naples, 17 miles SE of Sora.

German's St. Norf. has a bridge over the Ouſe, SW. of Lynn German's Town, in Meath, Leinſter.

Germanſwick, Devonſ. NW. of Okehampton.

GERMANY, a country of Europe, bounded on the W. by Switſerland, France, the Belgic Provinces, and the German Ocean, on the N. by Sleſwick and the Baltic Sea; on the E. by Pruſſia, Poland, and Hungary; and on the S. by Hungary, the Adriatic, Italy, and Switſerland; being about 640 miles in length, and 550 in breadth. The air is temperate and wholeſome, and the productions are various. Germany contains many princes, ſecular and eccleſiaſtic, who are independent of each other; and there are great numbers of free, imperial cities, which are ſo many little republics, governed by their own laws, and united by a head, who has the title title of emperor. The prerogatives of the imperial dignity were formerly much more extenſive than they are at preſent. At the cloſe of the Saxon race, in 1024, the emperors exerciſed the right of conferring all eccleſiaſtical benefices in Germany, of receiving their revenues during a vacancy; of ſucceeding to the effects of inteſtate eccleſiaſtics; of confirming or annulling the election of the popes; of aſſembling councils, and of appointing them to decide on the affairs of the church; of conferring the title of king on their vaſſals; of granting vacant fiefs; of receiving the revenues of the empire; of governing Italy as it's proper ſovereigns; of erecting free cities, and eſtabliſhing fairs; of aſſembling the diets of the empire, and fixing the time of their duration; of coining money, and conferring the ſame privilege on the ſtates of the empire; and of adminiſtering juſtice within the territories of the different ſtates. About the year 1437, however, the emperors were reduced to the power of conferring all dignities and titles, except the privilege of being a ſtate of the empire; of appointing once, during their reign, a dignitary in each chapter, or religious houſe; of granting diſpenſations with reſpect to the age of majority; of erecting cities, and conferring the privilege of coining money, and of calling the meetings of the diet, and preſiding in them. The electors of the empire are 3 eccleſiaſtical, namely, the archbiſhops of Treves, Cologne, and Mentz; and 5 ſecular, namely, the king of Pruſſia, as elector of Brandenburg; the king of Great Britain, as elector of Hanover: the preſent emperor, as king of Bohemia; the elector of Saxony; and the elector palatine of the Rhine. Each elector bears the title of one of the principal officers of the empire; the elector of Hanover, for inſtance, being "arch-treaſurer and elector of the holy Roman empire." To prevent the calamities of a conteſted election, a king of the Romans has often been choſen in the life-time of the emperor, on whoſe death he ſucceeds to the imperial dignity as a circumſtance of courſe. Although chief of the empire, the ſupreme authority reſides in the diets, which are compoſed of 3 colleges; that of the electors, that of the princes, and that of the imperial towns. When that of the electors and that of the princes diſagree, that of the towns cannot decide the difference; but they are obliged to give their conſent, when they are of the ſame opinion. The diets have the power of making peace or war, of ſettling general impoſitions, and of regulating all the important affairs of the empire. But their deciſions have not the force of law till the emperor gives his conſent. All the ſovereigns of Germany have an abſolute authority in their own dominions, and can lay taxes, levy troops, make alliances, &c. provided they do not prejudice the empire. They determine all cauſes, definitively, unleſs in ſome particular caſes, in which an appeal may be made. Theſe appeals are to two courts called the Imperial Chamber and the Aulic Council. Germany is divided into 10 circles, each of which comprehends ſeveral other ſtates; the princes, prelates, and counts of which, with the deputies of the imperial towns, meet together about their common affairs. Each circle has one or two directors and a colonel; the directors have a power of convoking the aſſembly of the ſtates of their circle, and the colonel commands the army. The 9 circles are thoſe of Auſtria, Bavaria, Suabia, Franconia, Upper and Lower Rhine, Weſtphalia, and Upper and Lower Saxony. The principal rivers are the Danube, Rhine, Elbe, Weſer, Maine, and Oder. The language of Germany is a dialect of the Teutonic, which ſucceeded that called the Celtic. The 3 principal religious profeſſions are the Romiſh, Lutheran, and Calviniſtic. The firſt prevails in the dominions of the emperor, in the eccleſiaſtic electorates, and in Bavaria; the ſecond in the circles of Upper and Lower Saxony, great part of Weſtphalia, Franconia, Suabia, the Upper Rhine, and in moſt of the imperial towns: the third in the dominions of the landgrave of Heſſe Caſſel, and ſome other princes.

GERMERSHEIM, a town in the palatinate of the Rhine, ſituated at the confluence of the rivers Queich and Rhine, 5 miles S. of Spire.

GERMIGNE, a town in the dept. of the Yonne, 3 miles SE. of St. Florentin.

Germor, Cornw. between Helſton and Marazion.

GERMS, a town in the archduchy of Auſtria, 62 miles WNW. of Vienna.

GERN, a town in Lower Bavaria.

GERNSHEIM, a town of Mentz, ſituated on the Rhine, 18 miles SSE. of Mentz.

Geraſkull, Dorſetſhire, in Whitchurch pariſh.

GEROLSTEIN, a town of Catzenelnbogen, Upper Rhine; and a town of Blankenheim, in Weſtphalia, ſituated on the Kill, 24 miles N. of Treves.

Gerrans, Cornw. near Gwyndraÿt Bay. Gerrard's Croſs, Bucks, near Chalfont. Gerringham, Linc. 8. of Kirton in Lindſey.

GERS, a department of France, bounded on the E. by the dept. of Upper Garonne

ronne, and on the W. by the dept. of Landes. It has it's name from a river which riſes in the dept. of the Upper Pyrenees, croſſes the department of it's own name, and watering Seiſſan, Auch, Lectoure, &c. falls into the Garonne about 3 miles SE. of Agen. Auch is the principal town.

GERSAU, a town and ſmall territory of Schweitz, in Swifferland, ſituated on the N. ſide of the Lake of the Four Cantons, 6 miles SW. of Schweitz.

GERTRUYDENBURG, a town of Dutch Brabant, with a good harbour, formed by the Merwe, which here expands into a conſiderable lake, called Biesbock, of about two hours paſſage acroſs to Dort, from which place it is about 10 miles SE. and 7 NE. of Breda.

GERTRUYDENBURG, a town of Oſnaburg, in Weſtphalia, 1 mile E. of Oſnaburg.

Gervace Abbey, Yorkſ. near Middleham.

GERUMENHA, a town of Alentejo, ſeated on a hill, near the river Guadiana, 18 miles below Bajadox.

GESEKE, a town in the duchy of Weſtphalia.

Geſling, Suſſex, SW. of Winchelſea.

Geſlingthorp, Eſſex, near Sudbury.

GESTRICIA, or GESTRIKE, a province of Sweden, bounded on the N. by Helſingland; on the E. by the Gulf of Bothnia; on the S. by Upland, Weſtmanland, and Dalecarlia; and on the W. by Dalecarlia. It is richly diverſified by an alternate ſucceſſion of foreſts, rocks, hills, and dales, paſture and arable land, lakes and rivers. The beauty of the landſcape is greatly heightened by the Dahl, the fineſt river in Sweden, which meanders through the whole extent of this province. The inhabitants do not much concern themſelves with agriculture, deriving their principal ſupport from the mines, forges, foreſts, lakes, and rivers. Geſle is the capital.

GEVAUDAN, a ci-devant, mountainous, barren terrritory of Languedoc, S. of Auvergne, and E. of Rouerge. Mende was the capital.

GEVER. See GOWER.

Gewendale, Yorkſ. near Rippon.

GEX, a town in the dept. of Ain, ſeated at the foot of Mount St. Claude, between the Rhine, the Lake of Geneva, and Swiſſerland, noted for excellent cheeſe, 10 miles NW. of Geneva.

Geydon, Warwickſh. NE. of Kington.

GEYER, a town of Erzgeburg, in Upper Saxony, with manufactures of vitriol, ſulphur, alum, and arſenic, and ſituated in the midſt of mines.

GEZIRA, a town of Diarbekir, in Aſiatic Turkey, 60 miles SE. of Diarbekir.

GHANAH, or GHANARAH, a town of Africa, in the kingdom of Wangara, ſituated on the Niger, in lat. 15. 30. N. and lon. 15. 56. E.

Gharburton, Northumb. a member of the manor of Herteſhewed.

GHENT, a conſiderable city of the ci-devant Auſtrian Flanders, containing 6 pariſh churches, beſides the cathedral, a great many religious houſes, and about 70,000 inhabitants, but not populous in proportion to its extent, which is ſo great, that Charles V. is reported to have ſaid to the French king, Francis I. "I have a glove," (the French name for Ghent being gand, a glove,) "in which I can put your whole city of Paris." The city is divided by canals into 26 iſlands, and over the canals there are 300 bridges. The ſtreets are large, and the market-place is ſpacious. They have flouriſhing manufactures of ſilk, woollen, linen, and a great trade in corn. There is a large canal which paſſes from Ghent to Bruges, and thence to Oſtend; and another, which paſſes to Sas de Ghent. Ghent is ſeated on the confluence of the rivers Scheldt, Lis, Moeze, and Lieve, 26 miles NW. of Bruſſels. Lat. 51. 3. N. lon. 3. 49. E.

GHERGONG, a city of India, capital of the kingdom of Aſſam, ſeated on a river which runs a little below into the Burrampooter, about 400 miles NE. of Calcutta. Lat. 26. 25. N. lon. 93. 40. E.

GHERIAH, a town of Hindooſtan, ſituated on the W. ſide, or Pirate Coaſt, in the country of Concan. It was the principal port of Angria, a famous piratical prince, whoſe fort here was taken, and his whole fleet deſtroyed, by Admiral Watſon and Colonel Clive, in conjunction with the Mahrattas, in 1756. It is about 80 miles NNW. of Goa. Lat. 16. 45. N. lon. 73. 7. E.

GHILAN, a beautiful province of Perſia proper, extending along the SW. coaſt of the Caſpian Sea, and ſuppoſed to be the Hyrcania of the ancients. It has Schirvan to the N. Aderbeitzan and part of Irac-Agemi to the W. and Mezanderan to the SE. and is about 200 miles long, and 150 broad. The ſea forms its boundary on one ſide, and on the other are high mountains, covered with various ſorts of fruit-trees. In the higheſt parts of them are deers, bears, wolves, leopards, and tigers, which laſt, the Perſians have, it is ſaid, a method of taming, and hunt with them as with dogs. It is extremely fertile, producing ſilk, oil, wine, rice, tobacco, mulberry-

berry, box, walnut trees, and excellent fruits in abundance. This province was ceded to Ruſſia in 1723, but not formally annexed to the Ruſſian dominions till 1780. Reſhd is the capital.

GHILAN, ST. or GUISLAIN, a town in the dept. of the North, ſeated on the river Haine, 5 miles W. of Mons.

GIANT'S CAUSEWAY, a large curious promontory of baſaltes, in Antrim, Ulſter, eſteemed one of the greateſt natural curioſities in the world. It is on the N. coaſt, W. of Bengore Head, and about 122 miles N. of Dublin. Lat. 55. 20. N. lon. 6. 50. W.

Giant's Grave, near Sligo, Connaught Here are ſome maſſive monuments of ſtone, not unlike Stonehenge. Giant's Land, in Louth, Leinſter, a ſtone, weighing, it is computed, between 30 and 40 tons, ſupported by 3 other irregular ſtones ſet upright. Giant's Stairs, a large, rocky appearance of ſteps, near Cove, in Cork, Munſter.

GIAVENNA, a town of Suſa, in Piedmont, agreeably ſituated near the Sangon, in a ſalubrious air, 10 miles SE. of Suſa.

Gibbarow, a river in Donegal, Ulſter.

Gibbon Marſh, Bucks, near Ayleſbury.

Gibbon's Grove, in Cork, Munſter, 3 miles S. of Charleville.

GIBRALTAR, a town of Andaluſia, in Spain, near a mountain of the ſame name, formerly called Calpe, which, with Mount Abyla, on the oppoſite ſhore of Africa, were called the Pillars of Hercules. It has been in the poſſeſſion of the Engliſh ſince the year 1704, who keep a garriſon here; which is cooped up in very narrow limits, and receives ſupplies of proviſions from England and Barbary. The town is ſo ſtrong by art and nature, as probably to bid defiance to the utmoſt efforts of an enemy. Here are upwards of 300 pieces of cannon mounted on the works. Gibraltar contains ſeveral ſtreets, one of which is pretty ſpacious and well paved; the others are narrow and dirty. It has alſo 3 gates. It is built at the foot of a barren rock, or craggy hill, which riſes about 1400 feet above the level of the ſea, in a peninſula, which can be approached only by a narrow paſſage, between the mountain and the ſea. Acroſs this iſthmus the Spaniards have drawn a fortified line, to prevent the garriſon from having any communication with the country. The Engliſh here, excluſive of the garriſon, amount to about 2000, and the Spaniards, Portugueſe, Genoeſe, and Jews to as many more. Here is one Engliſh and one Spaniſh church, and a Jews ſynagogue. The road here is not ſafe againſt ſtorms, a convenient for refitting veſſels, though th may be laid on their ſides for careening the harbour is formed by a moles, one which is 300 feet in length. On the ſu mit of the rock is a plain, where there a fine proſpect of the ſea, on each ſide t Strait, of Barbary, Fez, and Morocco, a of Seville and Granada, in Spain. T Strait of Gibraltar is about 24 miles length, and 15 in breadth, and a ſtro current always runs through it from t ocean to the Mediterranean. Gibraltar 25 miles N. of Ceuta, and 49 SE. of C diz. Lat. 36. 6. N. lon. 5. 22. W.

GIBRALTAR, a town of Venezuela, Terra Firma, ſituated on the E. coaſt the Lake of Maracaybo, 50 miles SSE. Maracaybo.

Gibſide, Durham, SW. of Ravenſwo Caſtle. Gibſmere, Nott. a hamlet Southwell. Gidding, Magna and Par Hunt. N. of Winwick. Gidding Step Hunt. N. of Winwick. Gidley, Devo near Dartmoor Foreſt.

GIEN, a town in the dept. of Loi containing about 4200 inhabitants. It ſeated on the river Loire, 33 miles SE. Orleans, and 76 SE. of Paris.

GIENZOR, a town of Africa, 10 mi S. of Tripoli.

GIESSEN, a ſtrong town of Up Heſſe, ſituated in a fertile country, on river Lahn, 6 Miles E. of Wetzlar.

Giffard, Heref. near Sawbridgewor Giffen, or Guffen, a river of Caernarvo which runs into the Conway near Ab conway. Gifford's Hall, Staff. in St pariſh, by Neyland.

GIFHORN. See GYFHORN.

GIGA, a ſmall iſland of Argyleſhire, tween the Iſle of Skye and the peninſ of Cantyre.

Gigging, Hertf. S. of Barkway. G gleſwick, Yorkſ. on the Ribble, near S tle, where at the foot of a mountain i ſpring, noted for ebbing and flowing fo times thrice an hour.

GIGLIO, a ſmall iſland of Sienna, Tuſcany, near the coaſt, and about leagues SSE. from the Iſland of Elba.

GIJON, a ſea-port town of Aſtur with an ancient caſtle, formerly the r dence of King Pelagius, and his imme ate ſucceſſors. It is 18 miles N. of Ovie Giſſone, Northumb. between Framli ton and Anbell. Gilberdike, Yorkſ. tween Sandholm and the Humber.

GILBERT'S TOWN, a town of Virgi

GILBERT'S ISLAND, a ſmall iſland n the SW. coaſt of Terra del Fuego. L 55. 13. S. lon. 71. 7. W.

Gilcrux, Cumb. 5 miles N. of Cockermouth. Gildable, Surry, in Limpsfield parish. Gildable, Kent, in the Isle of Thanet. Giles, St. in the Heath, Devonf. NE. of Launceston. Giles Hill, Hants, near Winton.

*GILFORD, a town of Down, in Ulster, seated on the river Ban, 3 miles SW. of Warringtown, and 62 from Dublin. The meanders of the river, over which there is a good stone bridge of 22 arches, the rising grounds surrounding it, adorned with wood, and the bleach yards in the bottom, afford altogether a prospect truly delightful. Here is a chalybeate spa of good quality.

Gilkirk, Yorkf. between the Martens, and Pinnowhill. Gill, Yorkf. near Bowland. Gillet, Cornw. SE. of Bottreaux Caftle. Gilling, Yorkf. near Richmond. Gilling Foreft, Yorkf. between Ravenfworth and Barnard Caftle. Gillingham, Dorfetf. on the Stour. Gillingham, Kent, 3 miles below Chatham. Part of Chatham Dock is in this parifh. Here is a caftle, well furnifhed with guns, there being no: lefs than 170 embrazures, for cannon to ftop the progrefs of an enemy, if they fhould happen to pafs Sheerneſs, before they fhould reach Chatham. Here are alfo fome copperas works. It is noted in hiftory, for being the place where 600 Norman gentlemen; who came over in the retinue of the Princes Alfred and Edward, were barbaroufly murdered by Earl Godwin. Gillingham, All Saints and St. Mary's, Norf. lie near the bridge over the Wareney to Beccles. Gillifland, Cumb. on the Pict's Wall, E. of Carliſle, noted for the medicinal properties of it's well. Gilmanby, Yorkf. SW. of Barnard Caftle. Gilmore, Yorkf. NE. of Kirby Moorfide. Gilmorton, Leic. near Lutterworth.

GILOLO, an ifland of Afia, with a town of the fame name, in the Archipelago of the Moluccas, about 210 miles in length, and 750 in circumference. It produces neither cloves nor nutmegs, though it is included in the Spice Iflands, but is very fertile in rice and fago. The air is faid to be very hot and unwholefome. The inhabitants are repreſented as fierce and cruel, living without laws or fixed habitations. It is ſeated under the line, in lon. 128. 7. E.

Gilsbanglin, Weſtm. 4 or 5 miles NW. of Appleby. Gimeſgraves, Norf. a hill near Brandon Ferry. Gimmingham, Norf. near the ſea-coaſt.

GIMONT, a town in the dept. of the Gers, 12 miles E. of Auch.

Ginge, E. and W. Berks, 3 miles from Wantage.

GINGEE, a town on the coaſt of Coromandel, once the capital of a kingdom of the ſame name. It ſtands on a mountain, whoſe top is divided into three points, on each of which is a caſtle. The Great Mogul beſieged it 3 years, towards the cloſe of the laſt century, to no purpoſe. It is 34 miles NW. of Pondicherry. Lat. 12. 16. N. lon. 79. 36. E.

GINGEN, an imperial town of Suabia, 16 miles N. of Ulm.

GINGER, a ſmall iſland in the W. Indies, about 10 miles SSW. of Virgin Gorda.

Gingrave, Eſſex, SW. of Billericay. Ginns, Hants, in New Foreſt.

GIODDAH, or GEDDAH, a town of conſiderable trade, the ſea port of Mecca, ſituated on the Red Sea. Lat. 21. 30. N. lon. 39. 27. E.

GIOVENAZZO, a town of Bari.

Gipping, Suffolk, SW. of Mendleſham. Gipping, a river of Suff. which runs into the Orwell below Stow. Gipton, Yorkf. near Hawkſworth.

GIRACE, a town of Calabria Ultra, containing 13 churches and 4 monaſteries. It is ſituated near ſome ſulphureous baths, 34 miles N. of Reggio.

Girch, a river in Carnarvonſ. which runs into the Iriſh Channel, oppoſite to Caredinhill Rock, near Pulhely. Girling, Northumb. part of the manor of Warkworth.

GIRGE, a town of Egypt, capital of the province, ſituated near the left bank of the Nile, 215 miles S. of Cairo.

GIRGENTI, anciently AGGRIGENTUM, a town of the Val di Mazara, in Sicily, ſituated on the river St. Blaiſe, about 5 miles from the ſea (near the ſouthern coaſt) and 47 miles S. of Palermo.

GIRONDE, a department of France, bounded on the NE. by the dept. of Lower Charente, and on the W. by the ſea. It lies on both ſides of the Garonne, and has it's name from the river Gironde, which is formed by the union of the Garonne and Dordogne, about 4 leagues N. from Bourdeaux, and which runs into the Atlantic, after a courſe of about 9 leagues NNW. The principal town is Bourdeaux.

GIRONELLA, a town of Catalonia, 7 miles ENE. of Solſona.

GIRONNA, a conſiderable town, or city, of Catalonia, ſituated on a rivulet, which falls into the Ter, 47 miles NE. of Barcelona.

GIRONS, ST. a town in the dept. of Arriege,

Arriege, noted for ſeveral annual fairs for cattle and mules. It is ſeated on the river Sarat, 21 miles W. of Taraſcon.

GIROST, a town of Kerman, in Perſia.

Girſby, Yorkſ. SW. of Yarum. Girſington, York. NE. of Settle. Girtford, Bedf. near Biggleſwade. Girton, 2 miles NW. of Cambridge. Girton, Nott. near Newark.

Girvan, in Ayrſ. ſituated at the mouth of a river of the ſame name, which riſes in the NE. part of the county, almoſt oppoſite to the rock of Ailſa, and 16 miles S. by W. of Ayr. Here are ſome manufactures, particularly in the tanning of leather, and the making of boots and ſhoes.

GISBORN, a town in the W. Riding of Yorkſhire, ſeated on the river Ribble, on the borders of Lancaſhire, 60 miles W. of York, and 219 NNW of London. Market on Monday.

GISBOROUGH, a town in the N. Riding of Yorkſhire, ſituated near ſome conſiderable mines and works of alum, 4 miles S. of the mouth of the Tees, 22 NW. by W. of Whitby, and 155 N. by W. of London.

GISLAIN, ST. See GHILAN.

Giſlam, Suff. SW. of Leoſtoff. Giſley, Yorkſ. S. of Otley. Giſlingham, Suff. S. of Buddeſdale.

GISORS, a town in the dept. of the Eure, ſituated on the river Ept, 28 miles SE. of Rouen.

Giſſin, Norf. Gitting Nether, SE. and Gitting Temple, NE. of Winchcomb. in Glouc. Gittiſham, Devonſhire, near Honiton.

GIVET, a town, late of Namur, near Charlemont, in the dept. of the Ardennes, the fortifications of which are the work of Vauban. It was bombarded by General Coehorn, in the ſpring of 1696, when immenſe magazines of ſtores, forage, &c. provided by the French for the ſervice of the enſuing campaign were deſtroyed. It is ſeated on the river Maeſe, by which it is divided into two parts, 21 miles SW. of Namur.

GIVIRA, a town of Milan.

GIULA, a town of Hungary, ſituated on the river Keres, 52 miles NNW. of Temeſwar.

GIULIA, NUOVA, a town in Abruzzo Ultra.

GIUSTENDIL, 2 towns of Bulgaria.

GLACIERS, a name given to ſome extenſive fields of ice in Swiſſerland. The Glaciers may be divided into two ſorts; the Lower, occupying the deep valleys ſituated in the boſom of the Alps, and termed, by the natives, Valley of Ice; and the Upper, which clothe the ſummits and ſides of the mountains. The Lower Glaciers are the moſt conſiderable in extent and depth, ſome ſtretching ſeveral leagues in length. At the higher extremity, they are bordered by inacceſſible rocks, and on the other extend into cultivated valleys. The thickneſs of the ice varies from 80 to 100 feet, and in ſome parts extends to upwards of 600 feet. Theſe immenſe fields of ice uſually reſt on an inclined plain: being puſhed forward by the preſſure of their own weight, and but weakly ſupported by the rugged rocks beneath, they are interſected by large tranſverſe chaſms and preſent the appearance of walls, pyramids, and other fantaſtic ſhapes, obſerved at all heights and at all ſituations, wherever the declivity exceeds 30 or 40 degrees. But in thoſe parts, where the plain on which they reſt is horizontal, or only gently inclined, the ſurface of the ice is nearly uniform; the chaſms are few and narrow, and the traveller croſſes on foot without much difficulty. The ſurface of the ice is not ſo ſlippery as that of the frozen ponds or rivers; it is rough and granulated, and is only dangerous in deep declivities. The following is a ſimple and natural theory relative to the formation of the Glaciers. An immenſe quantity of ſnow is continually accumulating in the elevated valleys, incloſed within the Alps as well from that which falls from the clouds, during nine months in the year, as from the maſſes which are inceſſantly rolling from the ſteep ſides of the circumjacent mountains. Part of this ſnow, which is not diſſolved during ſummer, impregnated with rain and ſnow-water, is frozen during winter, and forms that opaque and porous ice of which the Lower Glaciers are compoſed. The Upper Glaciers may be ſubdivided into thoſe which cover the ſummits, and thoſe which extend along the ſides of the Alps. Thoſe which cover the ſummits owe their origin to the ſnow that falls at all ſeaſons of the year, and which remains nearly in it's original ſtate, being congealed into a hard ſubſtance, and not converted into ice; for, in ſo cold a region, there cannot be melted a quantity of ſnow ſufficient to impregnate with water the whole maſs which remains undiſſolved. The ſubſtance which clothes the ſides of the Alps is neither pure ſnow, like that of the ſummits, nor ice which forms the Lower Glaciers, but is an aſſemblage of both. It contains leſs ſnow than the ſummits, becauſe the ſummer heat has more power to diſſolve it, and becauſe the liquefied ſnow deſcending from above, the mass is penetrated with a larger quantity of water. It contains more ſnow than the Lower

Glacier

Glaciers, becauſe the diſſolution of the ſnow is comparatively leſs, Hence the ice is even more porous, opaque, and leſs compact than the ice of the Lower Glaciers; and is of ſo doubtful a texture, as renders it, in many parts, difficult to decide whether it may be called ice or frozen ſnow. Thus there is a regular gradation from the ſnow on the ſummits, to the ice of the Lower Glaciers, formed by the intermediate mixture of ſnow and ice, which becomes more compact and leſs porous in proportion as it approaches the Lower Glaciers, until it unites and aſſimilates with them.

Gladmore, Herts, near Hadley. Glaiſtes, Rutland, near Biſbrook. Glamford, Norf. SW. of Clay.

GLAMORGANSHIRE, a county of South Wales, bounded on the N. by Carmarthenſhire and Brecknockſhire, on the E. by Monmouthſhire, and on the S. and W. by the Briſtol Channel. It extends from E. to W. 48 miles, and 26 from N. to S. it is divided into 10 hundreds, which contain 1 city, 8 market towns, 118 pariſhes, about 30,000 houſes, and 58,000 inhabitants. On the N. ſide of this county, where it is mountainous, the long continuance of the ſnow renders the air ſharp; but the country being more level on the S. ſide, it is there milder, more pleaſant, more populous, and bears large crops of corn, with remarkably ſweet graſs; whence it has been called the Garden of Wales. Cattle abound in all parts, there being fruitful valleys among the mountains, that yield very good paſture. Here are alſo lead, coal, iron, and limeſtone. It's principal rivers are the Rumney, which ſeparates it from Monmouthſhire, the Teaſe, Elwy, Neath, Ogmore, Avon, Cledaugh, and Tawy. Cardiff is the principal town, and Swanſea the moſt commercial one; but the aſſizes for the county are held at Cowbridge.

Glanbeby, in Kerry, Munſter. Glandore, in Cork, Munſter. Glandore Harbour, 2 leagues W. of the Galley Head, or Roſs Bay, in Cork, Munſter. This harbour is a remarkably good one, though ſmall. Glaneeragh, in Kerry, Munſter. Glanevy, or Glenavy, in Antrim, Ulſter, 77 miles from Dublin. Glanfleſk, in Kerry, Munſter.

Glanmis, in the SW. of Angusſhire.

*GLANDFORD BRIDGE, a town of Lincolnſhire, with a large manufacture of ſkins, and a conſiderable trade in corn, coals, and timber. It is ſeated on a river, or navigable canal, called Ancholme, or Ancam, 23 miles N. of Lincoln, and 156 N. by W. of London. Market on Thurſday.

Glangariff Bay, in Cork, Munſter. Glangowra, in Cork, Munſter. Glanmire, in Cork, Munſter, on the river Glanmire, in a fertile tract of uneven country, about 3 miles from the city of Cork. It's environs exhibit a variety of extenſive proſpects richly diverſified. Glanmore, in Kilkenny, Munſter, 76 miles from Dublin. Glanorga, in Limerick, Munſter.

Glanthis, SW. and Glanton, SE. of Alnwick, in Northumberland.

Glanton, in Cork, Munſter, 135 miles from Dublin. Glanworth, in Cork, Munſter. Glanyfrehane, in Cork, Munſter.

Glaphow, Yorkſ. in Cleveland. Glapthorn, Northamptonſ. near King's Cliff. Glapton, Nott. a hamlet of Clifton. Glapwell, Derbyſ. near Bolſover. Glareſdale Chapel, Yorkſ. SW. of Whitby GLARIS, or GLARUS, one of the thirteen cantons in Swiſſerland, entirely ſurrounded by the Alps, except toward the N. It has the canton of Schweitz on the W. and the Griſons on the E. It is a cold, mountainous country, yet affording cattle, cheeſe, butter, and a prodigious variety of uncommon plants, minerals, metals, cryſtals, medicinal ſprings, petrifactions, and large ſlates. The government is, or lately was, perfectly democratic; every perſon, at the age of ſixteen, has a vote in the landſgemeind, or general aſſembly, which is held annually in the month of May, in an open plain, according to the cuſtom of the ancient Gauls and Germans. This aſſembly ratifies new laws, lays contributions, enters into alliances, declares war, and makes peace. The executive power, however, is veſted in a landrath, or council, compoſed of 48 Proteſtant members, and 15 Roman Catholics. The landamman, or chief of the republic, is choſen alternately from among the Proteſtants and Romaniſts, who live together here in great harmony, amicably fill together the chief offices of ſtate, and ſucceſſively make uſe of the ſame houſe for their aſſemblies for public worſhip. The population amounts to about 16 or 17,000 ſouls.

GLARIS, a large and populous town of Swiſſerland, capital of the canton of the ſame name, ſeated on the river Linth, 18 miles E. of Schweitz. Lat. 46. 56. N. lon. 9. 1. E.

Glaſcote, Warw. on the S. ſide of the river Anker, oppoſite to Tamworth. Glaſchouſe, Suſſex, between Rudgwick and Plaiſtow Chapel. Glaſen, Dorſetſ. near Yetminſter.

GLASENDORF, a town of Nieſſe, in Sileſia; and a town of Koniginſtratz, in Bohemia.

*GLASGOW, a city of Scotland, in the county of Lanerk, which, from it's extent, and from the beauty and regularity of it's buildings, may juſtly be eſteemed the ſecond city in the kingdom. The ſtreets are clean and well paved, and ſeveral of them, interſecting each other at right angles, produce a very agreeable effect. The four principal ſtreets thus divide the city nearly into four equal parts; and the different views of them, from the croſs, or centre of interſection, have an air of magnificence. Here are a few magnificent public buildings, and ſeveral charitable eſtabliſhments, particularly the Merchant's Hoſpital, and that of the town. Here is a celebrated univerſity; the ſingle college belonging to which is an elegant and commodious building. The number of inhabited houſes in it, is upwards of 10,000, and it contains near 62,000 inhabitants. A conſiderable trade was formerly carried on here in tobacco and rum, but it has been lately on the decline. Their cotton manufactures rival thoſe of Mancheſter in cheapneſs and elegance; and, before the late univerſal check to that branch of buſineſs in both kingdoms, it is ſaid, that cotton goods were manufactured in Glaſgow and it's vicinity, to the annual amount of 2,000,000l. ſterling. A pottery is likewiſe carried on here, that emulates, in beauty and elegance, the Staffordſhire ware. Printing-types are well executed here, and the glaſs manufactory has been very ſucceſsful. Here are alſo manufactures of coarſe earthen ware, hats, ſtockings, gloves, ropes, cordage, &c. Glaſgow has the advantage of two canals, beſides the Great Canal, that joins the Clyde to the Forth. It's proper river, the Clyde, has, at a great expence, been made navigable, within the laſt 30 years, for veſſels drawing 7 feet 6 inches water. It is ſeated on the N. bank of the above river, over which it has two ſtone bridges, (one of them an elegant, new one of 7 arches, 500 feet long and 32 wide; it was completed in 1772) 10 miles SW. of Dumbarton, and 35 W. of Edinburgh. Lat. 55. 52. N. lon. 4. 2. W.

GLASGOW PORT, a town on the S. ſide of the Clyde, erected in 1710, in order to ſerve as the ſea-port of the city of Glaſgow. It has an excellent harbour, with a grand pier; but ſtill moſt of the ſhips that trade to the W. Indies, ſail from Greenock, and return to that port. The herring-fiſheries in the Frith of Clyde, form a conſiderable part of it's trade. This port is ſituated 21 miles W. by N. of Glaſgow.

Glaſon, Cumb. in the pariſh of Boulneſs. Glaſon, or Glaſton Caſtle, Lanc. SE. of Dalton. Glaſſenbury, Kent, in Cranbrook pariſh. Glaſſenbye, Cumb. near Kirk Oſwald.

Glaſlough, in Monaghan, Ulſter. Glaſnevin, in Dublin. It is an agreeable village, ſituated on a riſing ground, 2 miles from the city of Dublin.

GLASTONBURY, a pretty large and well-built town of Somerſetſhire, principally conſiſting of two ſtreets, in both of which are many houſes, either entirely built, or patched up, with ſtones from it's abbey; formerly the moſt magnificent in the world, the domains and revenue of which were immenſe. It was anciently called Avalonia, or the Iſle of Avalon, into which no perſon whatever, not even a biſhop, or prince, was allowed to enter, without leave from the abbot, to whom this power was granted by Canute the Dane. There were 61 abbots, who ſat among the barons in parliament, and governed it ſucceſſively for near 600 years. Richard Withing, the laſt, for refuſing to ſurrender his abbey to Henry VIII. and acknowledge his ſupremacy, was condemned at Wells, and carried, with two of his monks, on a hurdle, to the Tor, or St. Michael's Tower, a high hill, in the neighbourhood, where he was hanged in his robes. His head was ſtuck up over the gate of his abbey, and his body, quartered, was expoſed, in like manner at Bath, Wells, Bridgewater, and Ilcheſter. Extenſive ruins of this immenſe range of buildings are ſtill remaining; but they have been much diminiſhed for the ſake of the ſtones, as every cottage hereabouts has part of a pillar, door, or window of this fabric: however, the curious ſtructure, called the Abbot's Kitchen, is yet entire, and is of a very unuſual contrivance, being built of ſtone, without any combuſtible material; as are alſo ſome fragments of the church and St. Joſeph's chapel. The walls that remain are overgrown with ivy, and the aſpect of the whole is, at once, melancholy and venerable. The principal manufacture here is ſtockings. Nearly adjoining, on a high, ſteep hill, is placed the tower of a church, the Tor above-mentioned, which lifts it's head into the clouds, and is an object of admiration to travellers, and even ſerves as a landmark to ſeamen in the Briſtol Channel. It is ſituated in a low, marſhy country, nearly encompaſſed encompaſſed with rivers, 6 miles SW. of Wells, and 129 W. by S. of London. Market on Tueſday.

Glatendon, Northumb. in the barony of Wark. Glatting, Suſſex, NW. of Midhurſt. Glatton, Huntingd. NW. of the Saltreys, GLATZ, a town of Sileſia, formerly of Bohemia, containing about 400 houſes within the walls, and as many in the four ſuburbs. It is capital of a mountainous, but fertile principality, of the ſame name, about 45 miles in length, and 25 in breadth, which was ceded to the king of Pruſſia, in 1742, by the queen of Hungary. It has mines of coal, ſilver, and iron, good quarries, and plenty of cattle, with ſeveral mineral ſprings. The town of Glatz is a place of conſiderable trade, and is ſituated on the ſide of a mountain, on the ſummit of which is a large and ſtrong caſtle, near the river Neiſſe, 45 miles SW. of Breſlaw, and 82 E. by N. of Prague. Lat. 50. 21. N. lon. 16. 40. E.

Gleasley, Shropſ. near Chelmarſh. Gleaſton, Lanc. near Dalton. Gledles, Derbyſ. in Scarſdale. Gledles, Yorkſ. SE. of Sheffield. Gledthorp Grange, Nottingh. NW. of Edwinſtow. Glemsford, Suffolk, between Clare and Lentham. Glen, a river of Northumberland, which runs through Glendale into the Till.

Glenarm, in Antrim, Ulſter, on the Bay of Glenarm, 105 miles from Dublin.

GLENCOE, THE VALE OF, in Argyleſhire, noted for the military execution of it's unſuſpecting inhabitants, by a party of Engliſh ſoldiers, in 1691, in conſequence of an order ſigned by King William, in council, for that purpoſe, and contrary to the faith of a royal proclamation. The male part of the inhabitants had many of them been in arms for the abdicated King James II.

Glencowen, a river of Cumberland, which runs into the Ulles Water on the S.

GLENCROY, THE VALE OF, a wild and romantic valley in Argyleſhire.

Glendale, Northumb. on the Glen.

Glendalagh, otherwiſe called the Seven Churches, a beautiful valley in Wicklow, Leinſter, nearly ſurrounded by inacceſſible mountains, and containing two lakes, and extenſive ruins of the city of Glendalagh, which was formerly a biſhoprick, with an epiſcopal juriſdiction, extending to the walls of Dublin. It is 5 miles NW. of Rathdrum.

Glendon, Northamptonſ. near Rothwell. Glenfield, NW. of Leiceſter. Glenham, Great and Little, Suffolk, near Framlingham. Glen, Magna and Parva, SE. of Leiceſter.

Glen Inn, in Donegal, Ulſter. Glenny Bridge, in Down, Ulſter.

GLENSHEE, SPITAL OF, a noted paſs into the Grampian Mountains in Scotland, S. of the point where the counties of Perth, Angus, and Aberdeen meet.

Gleatham, Linc. W. of Market Raiſin.

Glentis, in Down, Ulſter. Here is one of the moſt conſiderable fairs for black cattle in the N. of Ireland.

Glentworth, Linc. SW. of Glentham. Glewſton, Heref. SW. of Roſs. Glimpton, Oxfordſ. N. of Woodſtock.

Glinſk, in Galway, Connaught.

Glinton, Northamp. near Peterborough. Gliſſet, All Saints, St. Michael, and Middle, Dorſetſ. near Cranbourn Chace.

Glinville, in Cork, Munſter.

Gloceſter, Northumb. on the coaſt near Anbell. Gloſſop, Derb. in the High Peak.

*GLOUCESTER, a large, clean, populous, and conſiderable city, of Glouceſterſhire, containing 5 pariſh churches, beſides it's ancient and magnificent cathedral. It is well built, and has been lately much improved: it's four principal ſtreets are greatly admired for the regularity of their junction in the centre of the town; beſides which there are ſeveral ſmaller ones, all well paved. Here is a good ſtone bridge over the Severn, the loweſt down that river, with a quay, wharf, and cuſtom-houſe. Glouceſter has a flouriſhing manufacture of pins, and is ſeated on the E. ſide of the Severn, where, by it's two ſtreams, it forms the Iſle of Alney, 25 miles NE. by N. of Briſtol, and 106 W. by N. of London. Market on Wedneſday. Fairs on April 5, July 5, Sept. 28, and Nov. 28, the latter chiefly for fat hogs.

GLOUCESTERSHIRE, a county of England, bounded on the W. by Monmouthſhire and Herefordſhire; on the N. by Worceſterſhire; on the E. by Warwickſhire and Oxfordſhire; and on the S. by Wiltſhire and Somerſetſhire. It extends from NE. to SW. more than 60 miles, but is not more than 26 in breadth. It is divided into 13 hundreds, which contain one city, 27 market towns, 280 pariſhes, 1229 villages, about 26,760 houſes, and 162,560 inhabitants. The ſoil and appearance of this country vary in different parts, but the air is healthy throughout; ſharp in the E. or hilly part, which contains the Coteſwold Hills, but mild in the rich Vale of Severn, which occupies the centre. The W. part, which is the ſmalleſt diſtrict, is varied by hill and dale, and chiefly occupied by the Foreſt of Dean, which was once full of oak-trees; but the iron-works have conſumed a great part of them. The ſtaple commodities are cheeſe, cyder, perry, bacon, grain, and fiſh, beſides it's manufactures of woollen cloths, hats, leather, paper, bar iron, edge tools, nails, braſs, &c. It's rivers are the Severn, the Warwickſhire Avon, the Lower Avon, the Wye, Thames, Coln, Lech, Windruſh, Evenlode, Churn, Leden, Swiliate, Caron, and Stour.

GLOUCESTER, a county in the ſtate of Rhode iſland; a town of New Jerſey, ſituated on the Delaware; and a town of Virginia, ſituated on the N. ſide of York River.

GLOUCESTER ISLAND, an inhabited iſland in the S. Pacific Ocean, about 8 miles long and 1 wide. The men appeared armed with long pikes or poles. Lat. 19. 14. S. lon. 140. 4. W.

GLOUCESTER ISLANDS, two iſlands in the S. Pacific Ocean, about 6 leagues diſtant from each other. One of them is in lat. 20. 38. S. lon. 146. 0. W. and the other in lat. 20. 34. S. and in lon. 146. 15. W.

GLOGAW, a fertile principality of Sileſia, on both ſides of the Oder, on the borders of Poland. It is divided into ſix circles. Great Glogaw (which contains 2 catholic churches, one of which is collegiate, 3 convents, a Lutheran church and ſchool, and a chapel for Calviniſts) ſituated on the S. ſide of the Oder, in the capital.

GLOGAW OBER, a town of Oppeln, in Sileſia.

GLOMME, a river of Aggerhuys, in S. Norway, which paſſes by Elvedal, Koningſuinger, &c. and flows into the North Sea near Frederickſtadt. From the outlet of Lake Mioſs to Frederickſtadt, it's ſtreams are intercepted by ſuch frequent cataracts and ſhoals, as, in ſome places, to render it neceſſary to drag the trees, which are floated down, over the ground. About 30,000 trees are annually floated down this river to Frederickſtadt.

Glowſton, Leic. S. of Hallaton. Gluſburne, Yorkſ. S. of Skipton. Gluvius, Cornw. near Penryn. Glyford, Cornw. SE. of Bodmin. Glyman, Corw. near Columb Magna. Glyne, Suſſex, S. of Lewes. Glyneburn, Suſſex, near Lewes.

Glynn, or Glin, in Limerick, Munſter. Glyn of Agerlow, and Glyn Caum, in Cork, Munſter. Glyn of the Downs, a romantic dale in the county of Wicklow, Leinſter, ſo narrow as to admit of little more than the road which paſſes through it, and the ſmall, gurgling river which runs near the ſide of it. It is 13 miles from Dublin. Glyn Wood, in the pariſh of Donoghmore, in Down, Ulſter.

Gnarmack, Cornw. NW. of Truro.

GNESEN, or GNESNO, a town, late of Kaliſch, in Poland, but now of Weſt Pruſſia.

Gnoſtall, Staffordſ. upon Rowley Water, between Knightley and Wilbrighton.

GOA, a large and well built city, on the W. coaſt of Hindooſtan, capital of the Portugueſe ſettlements in India, and the ſeat of a viceroy. It contains about 20,000 inhabitants, of whom the native Portugueſe amount to a very ſmall number, and ſtands on an iſland, of the ſame name, about 24 miles in circumference, ſeparated from the continent, by a fine river, called MANDOVA, capable of receiving ſhips of the greateſt burden, which lie within a mile of the town. This noble port, which is, by nature, one of the beſt in the Indies, (and the Portugueſe have ſpared no pains to heighten and improve it's natural advantages) as well as the whole iſland, is defended by many caſtles and towers, furniſhed with abundance of cannon. Beyond theſe caſtles, the channel becomes narrower, ſometimes to 1, ſometimes to 2 miles; and it's banks are planted with the beſt fruits and fineſt trees India affords. Eight miles up is the city of Goa. Half way up, on the right ſide, is a palace, formerly the ſeat of the viceroys, but it now ſerves as barracks for the garriſon. The buildings are of ſtone, and ſplendid, with numerous convents, nunneries, and eccleſiaſtical houſes. The viceroy's palace is a grand building, erected over one of the gates of the city, which leads to a ſpacious ſtreet, terminated by a beautiful church. Here is alſo a ſtately hoſpital; and in the ſhops about the market-place may be had the produce of Europe, China, Bengal, and other countries. In the houſes they generally make uſe of clear oyſter-ſhells, inſtead of glaſs, for windows. The air within the town is unwholeſome, but the banks of the river are pleaſant, and adorned with many handſome ſtructures. From Old Goa to the new city, there is a commodious road, elegantly adorned with trees for fruit and ſhade. The ſoil of the iſland is fertile, eſpecially in the valleys; the trees are always covered with leaves, flowers, and fruit, and a great number of ſprings iſſue from the mountains. The tract between the town and the ſea is thickly planted with villages and fine ſeats, and abounds with tropical trees and fruits. Though the houſes here make a ſhowy appearance, they are but poorly furniſhed. The inhabitants live chiefly on greens, fruit, roots, bread, rice, and fiſh, though they have hogs and fowl in plenty. Goa has few manufactures, or productions for commerce; their principal trade is in arrack, which they diſtil from the lap of the cocoa-nut tree It has been in the hands of the Portugueſe ſince the year 1510, when it was taken by General Albuquerque. Lat. 15. 28. N. lon. 73. 45 E.

and

GOA, a town of the Iſland of Celebes, near the S. coaſt, in lat. 5. 12. S. and lon. 120. 30. E.

Goadby, Leiceſterſ. NW. of Hallaton. Goadby, Leic. N. of Walton on the Would.

Gobbleeote, Herts, near Tring.

GOBIN, ST. See FERE.

Goding, Magna, Eſſex, in the liberty of Havering.

GOCH, a town of Cleves.

GOCIANO, a town and diſtrict of Sardinia.

*GODALMIN, a town of Surry, noted for licorice, excellent carrots, and peat, that burns as well as pit-coal. Here is a manufactory of ſtockings; as alſo of mixed kerſeys, and blue ones, that are not to be matched for colour. The country about it is agreeably diverſified with hills and gentle uplands. It is ſeated on ſeveral ſtreams of the river Wey, (which abounds with good fiſh, eſpecially pike, and which drives one griſt-mill, two paper-mills, and three corn mills) 4 miles SW. of Guildford, and 34 SW. of London, on the road to Portſmouth. Market on Wed.

GODAVERY, GUNGA, or GODOURY, a river of Hindooſtan, which riſes about 70 miles NE. of Bombay, and after croſſing Dowlatabad, and part of Golconda, falls into the Bay of Bengal by ſeveral mouths, in lat. about 16. 40. N. and lon. 82. 20. E.

Goddington, Kent, in Frendſbury pariſh. Goddington, Oxf. NE. of Biceſter. Godley, Cheſh. SE. of Druckenfield. Godlingſtone, Dorſetſ. in Purbeck Iſle, and Swanwich pariſh.

GODMANCHESTER, a town, or large village, of Huntingdonſhire, parted from the town of Huntingdon by the river Ouſe, but united to it by a bridge and ſhort cauſeway, which form a part of the poſt-road between London and Edinburgh. It is inhabited by a great number of yeomen and farmers, who are ſaid to have extraordinary teams of horſes, no town in England keeping more ploughs at work than this hath done. They formerly received the kings, who paſſed that way, with a diſplay of their inſtruments of agriculture, exhibiting, at one time, to James I. when he paſſed through it, nine ſcore ploughs, adorned with trappings, &c.

Godmanham, Yorkſ. between Beverley and Pocklington. Godmanſton, Dorſetſ. NW. of Frampton, 1 mile from Nether Cerne. Godmerſham, Kent, on the river that runs from Wye to Canterbury. Godneſton, Kent, a manor of Sittingbourn. Godolphin, Cornw. ſituated on a hill, E. of Mount's Bay, 4 miles from Market Jew, famous for it's tin mines.

Godſhill, Iſle of Wight, in E. Medina.

Godſtone, Surry. E. of Blechingley.

Godſtow, NW. of Oxford, in a ſort of iſland formed by the divided ſtreams of the Iſis, after being joined by the Evenlode. This place is noted for the catching and dreſſing of fiſh. Here are an arched gateway, and the venerable ruins of the nunnery, with it's conventual church, which Fair Roſamond quitted for the embraces of Henry II. Godwick, Nott. W. of Elmham. Gofford Green, Warwickſ. E. of Coventry. Gofforth, Cumb. near Ponſonby.

GOES, or TER GOES, a town in the United Provinces, in Zealand, capital of the Iſland of S. Bevelandt. It communicates with an arm of the Scheldt, by a canal, and carries on a conſiderable trade in ſalt, grain, &c. It is 10 miles NE. of Fluſhing.

Gogmagog Hills, 3 miles from Cambridge, near Newmarket and Balſham.

GOGRA, DEWAH, or SOOR JEW, a large river which riſes in Thibet, and forcing it's way through Mount Himmaleh, croſſes the country of Oude, and unites with the Ganges, about 15 miles W. of Patna.

GOHUD, a circar, or territory of Hindooſtan, in the province of Agra, ſubject to a rajah, who is tributary to the Poonah Mahrattas. It's capital, which is of the ſame name, is about 55 miles SSE. of Agra.

Goit, a river of Cheſhire, which runs into the Merſey, 3 miles E. of Stopford. Goit Hall, Cheſ. NE. of Stockport.

GOITO, a town of Mantua.

GOJAM, a flat country of Abyſſinia, about 25 leagues long, and 14 wide. It is almoſt ſurrounded by the Nile, and abounds in paſtures.

Gokewell, Linc. NW. of Glandford Bridge. Goland, Cornwall, near Fowey. Golborn, Cheſ. SW. of Tattenhall. Golborn, Lanc. near W. Derby.

GOLCONDA, a country of Hindoóſtan, bounded on the N. by Berar, on the E. by the 5 Circars, on the S. by Myſore and the Carnatic, and on the W. by Dowlatabad and Viſiapour, ſubject to the Nizam of the Deccan. The great rains which fall in June, part of July, Auguſt, September, and October, ſwell the rivers here to a dangerous degree of depth and rapidity, but render the land exceedingly fertile; eſpecially in fruits. The inhabitants make white wine of their grapes, and have yearly two crops of rice and other grain. The diamond-mines here are reckoned the moſt conſiderable in the world. The black merchants uſually buy parcels of ground to ſearch for theſe precious ſtones in. They ſometimes fail in meeting with any; and at others they find immenſe riches. They have alſo mines of ſalt and fine iron; and manufactures of curious calicoes and chintſes. Hydrabad is the capital, but the city and fortreſs of Golconda was formerly the reſidence of the kings of this country.

GOLDBERG, a town of Lignitz, in Sileſia.

Goldbroke, Suffolk, near Eye. Goldcliff, Monmouthſ. on the S. ſide of the county.

GOLD COAST OF GUINEA, a maritime country of Africa, in which are more forts and factories of European nations, than in any other part of the coaſt of Africa. It reaches from the river Suera da Coſta on the W. to the river Volta on the E. and includes ſeveral diſtricts, in which are two or three towns or villages, ſcattered along the ſea-ſhore. The whole Gold Coaſt is about 180 miles in length. The negro merchants here are generally very rich, and trade with Europeans in gold. The domeſtic animals are bulls, cows, ſheep, and goats; the laſt of which are innumerable, and their fleſh is excellent. The beef and mutton, however, are not good. The principal countries are Ancobar, Axem, Anta, Commenda, Fetu, Sabo, Adom, Agouna, Acra, Acambore, Labadde, Fantin, Incaſſan, Ningo, and Sabre.

Goldcot Park, Warw. near Stratford upon Avon.

Golden, in Tipperary, Munſter, on the Suir, 8 miles from Dublin

Golden, or Walvedon, Cornw. between Grampound and Truro.

GOLDEN ISLAND, a ſmall iſland at the entrance of the Gulf of Darien, in lat. 8, 20. N. and lon. 77. 10. W.

Golden Vale, Heref. extends along the banks of the Dove, with hills all about it, covered with woods. It is ſo named from it's fertility, and the yellow livery of flowers which it wears in the ſpring. The wool here is reckoned as fine as any in England. Golder, Oxf. NE. of Chalgrave. Golder's Green, Middl. between Hampſtead Heath and Hendon. Goldſborg, Yorkſ. near Boroughbridge. Goldgate Bay, Kent, W. of Margate Bay. Goldhanger, Eſſex, E. of Malden. Goldhill Green, Kent, E. of Tunbridge.

GOLDINGEN, a town of Courland.

Goldingham, Eſſex, between Bumpſted Steeple and Sudbury. Goldings, Eſſex, between Waltham Abbey and Heybridge. Goldington, N. of Bedford. Goldſmith's Grange, Leic. NE. of Melton Mowbray. Goldwell, Kent, W. of Aſhford. Goldwhurd, Surry, SE. of Croydon. Gole, Yorkſ. W. Riding, E. of Armin.

GOLETTA, an iſland and fortreſs at the entrance of the Bay of Tunis.

GOLNOW, a town of Pruſſian Pomerania.

GOLPHINTON, a town of Georgia, in N. America.

Golſury, or Golſinny, Cornwall, near Mount's Bay and St. Hilary. Golthern Hill, Staff. S. of Wolverhampton. Golthorp, Yorkſ. W. of Doncaſter.

GOMBROON, or GAMBRON, a ſea port of Lariſtan, in Perſia, called alſo Bandar Abaſſi, ſeated on a bay 9 miles diſtant from the iſland of Ormus. The beſt houſes here are built with bricks dried in the ſun, and are flat at the top, with a ſquare turret, having holes on each ſide for a free paſſage of the air. Thoſe who ſtay in town during the ſummer ſleep upon theſe roofs. Other houſes, or rather huts, are made with the boughs of palm-trees, and covered with leaves. The ſoil around it is barren, but proviſions, brought from other countries, are plentiful. Through all the 17th century, and at the beginning of the laſt, this town was the port of Schiras, and of all the S. part of Perſia. At preſent, however, trade is very low here, nor is there a ſingle European counting houſe in the city. The Dutch for a while continued to trade here, but ſince they formed a ſettlement in the Iſland of Karek, they have entirely deſerted Gombroon. Lat. 27. 20. N. lon. 57. 0. E.

GOMERA, one of the Canary Iſlands, about 20 miles long, and 10 wide, lying between Ferro and Teneriffe, about ſix leagues SW. from the latter. It is well cultivated and fertile, producing abundance of ſugar-canes, fruits, and wine, with corn enough to ſupply the wants of the inhabitants. Its capital, of the ſame name, is ſituated on the E. coaſt, and has an excellent harbour, better than in any of the other iſlands, where the Spaniſh Weſt India fleets often ſtop to take in proviſions and refreſhments. Lat. 28. 6. N. lon. 17. 8. W.

GOMERA, a river of Fez, which runs into the Straits of Gibraltar, near the town of Velez de Pegnon.

Gomerſal, Yorkſ. W. of Wakefield.

Gomerſeg, Dorſ. near Stalbridge. Gomerſet, Yorkſ. N. Riding, between Swaledale Foreſt and Arkendale.

GOMMERN, a town in the electorate of Saxony, ſituated on the river Ehle, 8 miles SE. of Magdeburg.

GOMS, a town of Switzerland, which gives name to a territory in the Valais. It is about 33 miles E. of Sion.

GONAIVES, LES, a ſea-port town of the Iſland of St. Domingo, ſituated near a medicinal ſpring, with an excellent harbour, in lat. 19. 36. N. and lon. 73. 40. W.

GONAPI, or GOUNONG API, one of the ſmall Banda Iſlands, in the Eaſtern Indian Ocean. It's only inhabitants are wild hogs, cows, and ſerpents. In the middle of it is a volcano.

Gonalſton, Nottingh. SE. of Sherwood Foreſt.

GONDAR, a town of Africa, the metropolis of Abyſſinia, ſituated on a hill of conſiderable height, and containing about 10,000 families in time of peace. The houſes are chiefly of clay, and the roofs thatched in the form of cones, the uſual conſtruction within the tropical rains. On the W. end of the town is the palace, or king's houſe, which, with it's contiguous buildings, is ſurrounded by a ſubſtantial ſtone wall, 30 feet high, with battlements and a parapet, by which you can go along the whole. The inhabitants are of an olive complexion, and profeſs Chriſtianity. Their patriarch depends upon that of Alexandria; but they appear as jealous of the European Chriſtians as of the Muſſelmans. They have no ſhops, but expoſe their merchandiſe to ſale, upon mats, in a large ſquare; gold and rock-ſalt form their medium of barter. The habit of the better ſort is made of ſilks and cottons, but the common people wear nothing but drawers. It is 180 miles SE. of Sennar, and near 1000 S. of Grand Cairo. Lat. 12. 34. N. lon. 37. 33. E.

GONDEGAMA, or GONDLACOMMA, a river of Hindooſtan, which riſing near Combam, forms the nominal boundary of the Carnatic on the N. and enters the Bay of Bengal at Medipilly, or Mootapilly.

GONDRAIN, a town in the dept. of the Gers, 8 miles SW. of Condom.

GONDRECOURT, or GANDRECOURT, a town in the dept. of Meuſe, ſeated on the river Orney, 21 miles SSE. of Bar le Duc.

GONDREVILLE, a town in the dept. of the Meurthe, ſeated on the Moſelle, 5 miles NE. of Toul.

GONGA, a town of Romania, 36 miles NE. of Gallipoli.

GONJAH, a kingdom of Africa, little known, and ſituated, acocrding to ſome, between the coaſt of Upper Guinea on the S. and Tombuctou on the N. It's capital, Gonjah, is computed to be 870 miles W. by S. of Caſhna. Lat. 13. 20. N. lon. 4. 10. W.

GONNESSE, a town in the dept. of Seine and Oiſe, remarkable for the goodneſs of it's bread. It is ſeated on the river Crould, 9 miles N. of Paris.

GONNEVILLE, a town in the dept. of the Lower Seine, 16 miles N. of Montvilliers.

Goodale Houſe, Yorkſ. in Holderneſs, W. of Hornſey Mere. Gooderſton, Norf. between Downham and Watton.

GOOD HOPE, CAPE OF, the moſt ſouthern point of the continent of Africa, and very rocky, lies in 34. 29. S. lat. and 18. 23. E. lon. Upwards of 30 miles to the N. of it is the Cape Town, which is neat and well built, riſing in the midſt of a deſert, encompaſſed by black and dreary mountains. The public offices of the Dutch Eaſt-India company are ſituated next the water, and the private buildings lie beyond them on a gentle aſcent. The ſtreets are broad and regular, interſecting each other at right angles; and the houſes are moſtly built of ſtone, cemented together with a glutinous kind of earth, which ſerves as mortar, and afterwards is neatly plaſtered and whitewaſhed with lime. The religion of the ſlaves is as little regarded here as in the colonies of other European ſtates. They are treated, however, with humanity, and are lodged and boarded in a ſpacious houſe, where they are kept at work. The ſlaves, a few Hottentots excepted, were originally brought from the E. Indies, and principally from Malacca. Another great building ſerves as an hoſpital for the ſailors belonging to the Dutch E. India ſhips, which touch here. It is ſituated cloſe to the company's garden, and is an honour and ornament to the town: the convaleſcents have free acceſs to theſe gardens, where they enjoy the benefit of a pure, wholeſome air, perfumed by the fragrance of a great number of rich fruit-trees, aromatic ſhrubs, and odoriferous plants and flowers; they have likewiſe the uſe uſe of every production in it. This garden for it's handſome, pleaſant and well-ſhaded walks, is much frequented by perſons of every deſcription, but particularly by the faſhionable and gay. The inhabitants, indeed, in general, are extremely fond of gardens, which they keep in excellent order. The heavy draught work about the Cape is chiefly performed by oxen, which are brought to an uncommon degree of docility and uſefulneſs. The inhabitants, in general, travel in a kind of covered waggon, drawn by oxen, which better ſuit the roughneſs of the country, than more elegant vehicles; but the governor, and ſome of the wealthier people, keep coaches, which are much in the Engliſh ſtyle, and are drawn by ſix horſes. There are two churches here, one large, plain, and unadorned, for the Calviniſts, the prevailing ſect; and a ſmaller one for the Lutherans. The lower parts of the houſes here are uncommonly neat and clean, both in appearance and reality, but the upper apartments are ſaid to be barely and badly furniſhed. The ſtreets ſeem much on a par with the latter, being rough, uneven, and unpaved. Many of the houſes, however, have a ſpace flagged before the door, and others have trees planted before them, which form a pleaſant ſhade, and give an air of novelty to the ſtreets. The only landing place is at the E. end of the town, where there is a wooden quay, which runs ſome paces into the ſea, with ſeveral cranes on it, for the convenience of loading and unloading the ſcoots that come alongſide. Cloſe to this quay, on the left hand, ſtands the caſtle, and principal fortreſs; a ſtrong, extenſive work, having excellent accommodations for the troops, and for many of the civil officers belonging to the colony. Within the gates, the Dutch Eaſt-India company lately had their principal ſtores; which were ſpacious as well as convenient. This fort covers and defends, the E. part of the town and harbour, as Amſterdam Fort does the W. part. The latter, which has been built ſince Commodore Johnſtone's expedition, and wherein both French and Dutch judgment have been united, to render it effectual and ſtrong, is admirably planned, and calculated to annoy and harraſs ſhips coming into the bay. Some ſmaller detached fortifications extend along the coaſt, both to the E. and W. and make landing, which was not the caſe before the American war, hazardous and difficult. In a word, Cape Town, is, at this time fortified with ſtrength, regularity, and judgment. The ground behind the town gradually riſes on all ſides toward the mountains, called the Table Mountain, which is the higheſt; the Sugar Loaf, ſo named from it's form; the Lion's Head; Charles Mount; and James Mount, or the Lion's Rump. The view from the Table Mountain is extenſive and picturеſque; and all along the valleys are ſcattered a number of fine plantations. The cultivated country, beyond the mountains is of great extent, and forms ſix different eſtabliſhments. The ſoil is uncommonly productive, and the climate benign and favourable to vegetation. The ſpring commences here in October. Proviſions are very reaſonable at the Cape. A late traveller ſays, that he ſaw 131b. of mutton ſold for about 6d. ſterling; a whole ox for two guineas and a half, or three guineas; and corn and other things in proportion. Fiſh, and game brought from the country, are in great abundance. In September, 1795, the town and colony ſurrendered to an Engliſh ſquadron, under Sir G. K. Elphinſtone, ſeconded by about 8000 land forces under Majors General Clarke and Craig, on terms of capitulation. The loſs of the Engliſh amounted to only four men killed, and a few officers and men wounded.

Goodleigh, Devonſ. near Sherwell. Goodmanham, Yorkſ. E. Riding, NE. of Market Wighton. Goodrich, Heref. 3 miles from Monmouth. Goodrich Caſtle, Heref. near Roſs. Here is one of the grandeſt views on the Wye. A noble bay ſpreads before the eye, formed by a reach of the river. The bank on the right is ſteep, and covered with wood, beyond which a bold promontory ſhoots out, crowned with a caſtle riſing among trees. Goodrington, Devonſ. in Paynton pariſh.

GOODWIN SANDS, noted ſand banks off the coaſt of Kent, lying eaſtward of the Downs, and about 4 or 5 miles from the S. Foreland. As they run parallel with the coaſt for 3 leagues together, at the diſtance of 4 or 5 miles from it, they add much to the ſecurity of the Downs, as a road, as they break off the force of the ſea on the E. and S. and SW. but when the wind blows hard at SE. or at E. by N. or ENE. ſhips are often driven from their anchors, and are either forced on theſe ſands, or obliged to take ſhelter in Sandwich Bay, or Ramſgate Pier. Theſe ſands occupy the ſpace that was formerly a large tract of low, marſhy ground, belonging to Goodwin, earl of Kent, father of King Harold, and was afterwards given to the St. Auguſtin monaſtery at Canterbury; but the abbot, neglecting to keep is repair the wall that defended it from the ſea, the whole tract was inundated. Great part of it is dry at low water.

in

Goodwinſtun, Kent, near Feverſham. Goodwood, Suſſex, near Chicheſter. Goodworth, Hants, near Whorwell.

GOOMPTY, a river of Hindooſtan, which riſes in the Rohilla country, and flowing SE. by Lucknow and Jionpour, falls into the Ganges, about 15 miles NNE. of Benares.

Gongoſe-Hill, Cornw. by the ſea ſide, near Helſtone. Gonhill Downs, Cornw. near Lizard Point.

Gooſeberry Hill, in Cork, Munſter.

Gooſeburſt, Yorkſ. W. Riding, N. of Snaith. Gooſes, Eſſex, NE. of Giddy Hall. Gooſey, Berkſ. a chapel near Standford. Gooſetree, Cheſh. SE. of Northwich.

GOOTY, or GUTTI, a town and fortreſs of Hindooſtan, capital of a diſtrict of the ſame name. It was formerly the ſeat of the government of Morari Row, a Mahratta prince, but was ſubjected by the late Tippoo Sultan. It lies N. of the river Pennar, about 25 miles S. by E. of Adoni, and 170 N. of Seringapatam. Lat. 15. 15. N. lon. 77. 45. E.

Gopſhall Grange, Leiceſterſh. NW. of Boſworth.

GORCUM, a town of S. Holland, which carries on a conſiderable trade in cheeſe and butter. It is ſituated on the river Linge, at it's junction with the Wahal, 12 miles E. of Dordrecht, and 30 S. of Amſterdam.

Gore Court, Kent, near Leeds Caſtle.

GOREE, an iſland on the W. coaſt of Africa, about three quarters of a mile in length, and a quarter of a mile in breadth, ſubject to the French. It is reckoned of great importance on account of it's proximity to Cape Verd, lying nearly within cannon ſhot of the ſhore, and it's advantageous ſituation for trade. Lat. 14. 40. N. lon. 17. 30. W.

GOREE, a town and iſland of S. Holland, ſituated on the E. coaſt, on a canal which communicates with the Meuſe, 6 miles W. of Helvoetſluys.

GOREE, an iſland of Holland, about 10 miles in circumference. It is ſituated near the mouth of the Meuſe, 2 miles N. of Schowen.

Gore End, Kent, in Thanet Iſle.

Gorey's Bridge, in Kilkenny, Leinſter.

*GOREY, or NEWBOROUGH, a town of Wexford, in Leinſter, 21 miles N. of Wexford, and 39 S. of Dublin.

GORE ISLAND, in the N. Pacific, ſo named by Captain Cook, who diſcovered it in his laſt voyage. It appeared to be barren, and deſtitute of inhabitants, and is about 30 miles in circumference. Lat. 60. 40. N. lon. 172. 30. W.

GORGONA, an iſland about 25 miles from the coaſt of Tuſcany, remarkable for the great quantities of anchovies taken near it.

GORGONA, an iſland S. of Bonaventure Bay, near the coaſt of Popayan, S. America.

Gorhambury, Herts, near St. Alban's. Goring, Oxfordſ. on the Thames, between Reading and Wallingford. Goring, Suſſex, near Terring.

GORITIA, or GORITZ, a county of Auſtria, bounded on the N. E. and S. by Carniola, and on the W. by the late Venetian ſtates. The town of Goritz is ſituated on the river Liſonzo, 20 miles NNW. of Trieſt.

Gorlard, Yorkſ. N. Riding, near Blakemore.

GORLITZ, a town in Upper Luſatia, ſituated on the river Neiſſe, 50 miles W. of Dreſden. It is the ſecond in rank, but the firſt for ſize, population, and riches.

Gorlſton, Suffolk, near Yarmouth.

Gorman's Town, in Tipperary, Munſter.

Gornaſton, Norfolk, NW. of Hingham. Gornhay, Devonſ. near Tiverton. Gorpill Hill, Yorkſ. W. of Halifax. Gorſynon, Glamorganſ. Gorſlicotes, Staffordſ. N. of Walſal.

*GORT, a town of Galway, in Connaught, 16 miles SSE. of Galway, and 98 W. of Dublin.

Gortaburk, in Donegal, Ulſter. Gortin, in Tyrone, Ulſter. Gortneighraght, in Fermanagh, Ulſter.

Gorton, Lancaſh. SE. of Mancheſter. Gorway, a river in Carnarvonſhire, which runs into the Menai, a little below Llanvagion. Gorwell, Dorſetſ. 2 miles SE. of Litton.

GORZE, a town in the dept. of the Moſelle, ſeated on a hill, 3 miles from the river Moſelle, 8 miles SW. of Metz.

Goſbeck, Suffolk, NE. of Needham. Goſberton, Linc. 8 miles from Boſton. Goſfield Hall, Eſſex, near Braintree. Gosford, Oxf. SE. of Woodſtock. Gosford, N. and S. Northumb. near Newcaſtle.

GOSLAR, an imperial town of Lower Saxony, ſeated on a hill, near the river Goſe, which ſoon after runs into the Ocker, 30 miles S. of Brunſwick. In the Rammel Mountain, near it, are mines of lead and iron; and the inhabitants brew excellent beer.

Goſnarth, Lancaſ. near Preſton.

*GOSPORT, a large trading town, in Hampſhire, ſituated in Alverſtock pariſh, on the W. ſide of Portſmouth Harbour, (over which there is a ferry) 79 miles SW. of London. Here is a ſpacious hoſpital for the relief of ſick and wounded ſailors. It is moſtly inhabited by ſailors and their wives, and the warrant officers, every thing being much cheaper and more commodious here than at Portſmouth. The mouth of the harbour, which is not ſo broad here as the Thames is at Weſtminſter, is ſecured on this ſide by 4 forts and a platform of above 20 guns, level with the water. Here are ſeveral docks for repairing merchant ſhips; and, in time of peace, packets ſail every week from hence to Havre de Grace, and other parts of France. Market on Saturday.

Goſſe, Iſle of Wight, in W. Medina, Goſſes, Eſſex, 3 miles from Burntwood, Goſſington, Gloyc. in Slimbridge pariſh.

GOSTYNEN, or GOSTAVIN, a town of Poland, in the palatinate of Rawa.

Goſwell, Linc. near the Humber. Goſwick, Northumb. on the coaſt, NW. of Holy Iſland. Gotehurſt, Bucks, near Newport Pagnel. Gotehurſt, Somerſetſ. SW. of Bridgewater. Goteland, Yorkſ. N. Riding, between Cleveland and Blackmoor.

GOTHA, a town and principality of Upper Saxony, which contains 12 towns, beſides villages. The duke maintains a guard of 160 men; two regiments, each conſiſting of 800 men; and a corps of artillery.

GOTHA, or GOTHELLA, a river of W. Gothland, which runs from the Wenner Lake into the ſea, near Gothenburg.

Gotham, Nottingh. in the SW. angle of the county, 7 miles from Nottingham.

GOTHARD, St. one of the higheſt mountains in Swiſſerland, being 9075 feet above the level of the ſea. It is 8 miles S. of Altorf.

GOTHEBORG, or GOTHENBURG, a fortified and commercial town, of Weſt-Gothland, in Sweden, ſeated at the mouth of the river Gotha, which forms an excellent harbour, about two furlongs wide, incloſed between two chains of rocks; and near it's conflux with the Moldal, 190 miles SW. of Stockholm. It is the beſt ſituated for foreign trade of any in the kingdom, as it lies without the Sound; and from this port the ſhips of the Swediſh E. India company (eſtabliſhed in 1731) take their departure. The inhabitants are computed to be 20,000. A conſiderable herring fiſhery is carried on here. Lat. 57. 42. N. lon. 13. 10. E.

Gotherington, Glouceſ. in the pariſh of Biſhop's Cleeve. Gothill, Somerſ. near Candlepurſe in Dorſetſhire.

GOTHLAND, one of the five general diviſions of the kingdom of Sweden, containining the provinces of Oſtrogothia, Smaland, Weſtrogothia, Wermland, the fief of Bahus, Dalia, Halland, Blekinge, and the Iſles of Gothland and Eland. It is a pleaſant and fertile country, and contains 48 towns. The Goths had kings of their own till the year 1132, when they were united to Sweden in the perſon of Suercher.

GOTHLAND, an iſland of Sweden, in the Baltic, about 70 miles in length, and 25 in it's greateſt breadth. The ſoil is fertile, and there are fine woods of oaks and pines, good paſtures, and profitable fiſheries on the coaſt. Here are alſo large quarries of ſtone, and they export an excellent breed of ſheep. The chief and only town is Wiſby.

GOTTENBURG. See GOTHEBORG.

GOTTINGEN, a town of Calenburg, Lower Saxony, ſubject to the elector of Hanover. Here George II. founded an univerſity, in 1734, which has already acquired a very diſtinguiſhed reputation. The library, called the Bibliotheca, which is increaſing every year, is juſtly reckoned one of the moſt capital in Europe. Here is alſo a fine obſervatory, a phyſic garden, an anatomical theatre, and a ſchool for midwifery; together with a Royal Society of Sciences, and a Royal German Society, all part of the univerſity. Belonging to it is a large ſplendid church, with a peculiar paſtor, and a new and ſtately ſtructure of ſtone, the ground floor of which ſerves as a hall for public lectures.

Gotton, Iſle of Wight, in E. Medina, Gotton, Somerſ. near Taunton.

GOTTORP, a town of Sleſwick, capital of the duchy of Holſtein Gottorp.

GOTTESBERG, a town of Schweidnitz, in Sileſia.

GOUDA, or TURGOW, a town of S. Holland.

GOUDHURST, a ſmall town in Kent, 12 miles SW. of Maidſtone, and 44 SE. of London. Market on Wedneſday.

GOVERNOLO, a town of Mantua, ſituated at the junction of the Mincio and the Po.

Govilade, Great and Little, Yorkſ. E. Riding, N. of Pocklington. Gouldhall, Yorkſ. W. Riding, near Snaith. Goulcby, Yorkſ. SE. of Northallerton. Goulſnarth, Lancaſ. between Preſton and Bowland Foreſt. Goulſbo Hall, Linc. between Lincoln and Stanton.

GOULVIN,

GOULVIN, a town in the dept. of Finisterre, 12 miles W. of St. Pol de Leon.

GOURA, or GURA, a town of Masovia, in Poland, situated on the Vistula, 12 miles from Warsaw.

GOURAINCOURT, a town in the dept. of the Meuse, 15 miles NE. of Verdun.

GOURDON, a town in the dept. of Lot, 18 miles N. of Cahors.

GOURIN, a town in the dept. of the Morbihan, 27 miles W. of Pontivy.

Gournal, Staffords. in Sedgeley parish.

GOURNAY, a town in the dept. of Lower Seine, remarkable for it's market of fine butter. It is seated on the river Epte, 24 miles E. of Rouen.

GOUROCK, a town of Renfrewshire, seated on a creek of the river Clyde, near a copper-mine, 2 miles W. of Greenock.

Gourton, Nott. a hamlet of Southwell, in Bleseby parish.

GOUZEC, a town the dept. of Finisterre, 11 miles NE. of Quimper.

Gowbarr Head, Lanc. in Loynsdale, near the Ken Sands.

GOWER, GEVER, or ST. GOAR, a town of Hesse Rhinefeldt, circle of Upper Rhine.

*GOWRAN, a town of Kilkenny, in Leinster.

Gowthwaite Hall, Yorks. in Halifax parish. Goxhill, Linc. near Barrow and Barton on the Humber. Goxhill, Yorks. E. Riding, near Hornsey. Goyte, a river of Derbyshire and Lancashire, which runs into the Mersey, opposite Goyt. Goythuss, Derb. in the High Peak. Goytre, Monm. SE. of Abergavenny.

GOZZI, GOZES, or GOZA, an island near the SW. coast of Candia.

GOZZA, a small and well-fortified island, about 5 miles NW. of Malta, and dependent on it.

Grabie, Linc. SE. of Fokingham.

GRABOW, a town of Mecklenburg Schwerin, in Lower Saxony.

Gracedieu, Monm. on the Trothy, SW. of Monmouth. Gracedieu, Leic. between Ashby de la Zouch and Loughborough.

Grace Hill, a settlement of the Moravian Brethren, near Ballymena, in Antrim, Ulster.

Graces, Essex, near Little Baddow.

GRACIOSA, one of the Azores Islands, about 10 miles long and 8 broad. It takes it's name from it's beauty and fertility in corn, wine, fruit, pastures, and cattle; and it supplies Tercera, and several of the other islands, with a great part of it's produce. It is well peopled, and contains a number of villages, with some forts for the defence of the coast. The inhabitants, who are about 3000, make a great deal of butter and cheese. The principal place is La Plata. Lat. 39. 29. N. lon. 18. 12. W.

Grade, Cornw. near Lizard Point.

GRADISKA, a well-fortified town of Sclavonia, situated on the river Save, 132 miles W. of Belgrade; also a town of Friuli, in Austria, situated on the Lisonzo, 5 miles S. of Goritz; and a town of Stiria.

GRADO, a small island of Friuli, in Venice.

Grafton, Chesh. on the Dee, NW. of Malpas. Grafton, Northamp. NE. of Kettering. Grafton, Bucks, near Leighton in Bedfordshire. Grafton, NW. of Shrewsbury. Grafton, Yorks. W. Riding SE. of Boroughbridge. Grafton, Oxf. on the Isis, E. of Lechlade. Grafton, Worc. near Bromsgrove. Grafton, E. and W. Wilts, between Mannyngford and Great Bedwin. Grafton, Ardens, Little, or Lower, and Grafton, Temple, or Upper, Warw. between Aulcester and Stratford upon Avon. Grafton Fliford, SE. of Worcester. Grafton, Glouc. on the borders of Worc. and on the side of Bredon Hill, where, in Feb. 1764, a large tract of land, near 16 acres in extent, slipped from the side of Bredon Hill, and entirely covered several pasture grounds, and a considerable space of the common field, at the bottom of the hill. Grafton Regis, Northamp. on the river Tove, that runs from Towcester to the Ouse, near 8 miles from Northampton, on the road to Stony Stratford. It was held in chief, of King Edward III. by the service of keeping one of the king's white brockets, or beagles, having red ears. The manor-house and park were given by Charles II. to the Duke of Grafton, whence the title is derived. Grafwich, Yorks. near Thirsk. Grages, Bucks, near Rickmansworth. Graham's Muir, between the Carron Works and Falkirk, in Scotland.

Graigemanagh, in Kilkenny, Leinster, seated on the Barrow. Graigstown, in Kilkenny, Leinster.

Graingham, Linc. near Corringham.

GRAIN COAST, or PEPPER COAST, or MALAGUETTA, a country of Guinea, bounded by the Sierra Leone Country on the W. and the Ivory Coast on the SE. It extends about 100 leagues along the Atlantic. The productions are peas, beans, gourds, lemons, oranges, and a kind of nut, with an exceedingly thick shell, a most delicious fruit. The palm wine and dates of this country are in great esteem. Cows, hogs, sheep, and goats, are also in great plenty, but what constitutes tutes it's chief wealth, is the abundance of pepper, or grains of parada, it produces, called Malaguetta by the Portugueſe.

GRAINVILLE, a town in the dept. of the Lower Seine, 14 miles N. of Caudebec.

Gralam, Cheſ. on the Pever.

GRAMAT, a town in the dept. of the Lot, 22 miles NNE. of Cahors.

GRAMMONT, a town in Flanders County.

GRAMMONT, a town in the dept. of Upper Vienne, 15 miles NE. of Limoges.

GRAMPOUND, a town of Cornwall, containing about 200 inhabitants. It has a conſiderable manufacture of gloves, and is ſeated on the river Fale, over which it has a bridge, 18 miles NE. of Falmouth, and 244 W. by S. of London. A ſmall market on Saturday.

GRAN, a town of Hungary, ſituated on a river of the ſame name, near it's conflux with the Danube, 55 miles SE. of Preſburg.

GRANADA, ſometimes called UPPER ANDALUSIA, a province of Spain, on the Mediterranean, about 175 miles in length, and from 20 to 90 in breadth. It is rather a mountainous country: but the ſoil is remarkably fertile, although not well cultivated, and the climate is healthy and temperate. It produces corn, wine, oil, ſugar, flax, hemp, excellent fruits, honey, wax, grapes, and mulberry trees, which feed a great number of ſilk-worms. The foreſts abound with gall-nuts, palm-trees, and oaks. It's capital is Granada.

GRANADA, a large city of Spain, capital of the province of Granada, containing a univerſity, and ſeveral palaces, with other ſplendid public buildings. It has manufactures of ſilk, and is ſituated on two hills, near the confluence of the Oro, or Darro, with the Xenil, and is 240 miles S. of Madrid. Lat. 37. 17. N. lon. 3. 34. W.

GRANADA, or GRENADA, an iſland in the Weſt Indies, about 20 miles in length from N. to S. and 20 wide in the centre, but gradually narrowing towards the extremities. A chain of mountains croſſes it from N. to S. in the centre of which is a large lake. Near the coaſt the ſoil is fertile, producing indigo, ſugar, coffee, cocoa, cotton, and tobacco. It is finely wooded, and trees of all ſorts, both fruit and timber, except the cocoa-tree, thrive better here than thoſe of the ſame ſpecies in the neighbouring iſlands. It is watered with ten rivers, three of which run into the ſea towards the E. three to the N. eight to the W. and five to the SE. all ſufficient to drive ſugar-mills, and capable of becoming harbours for veſſels. There is alſo abundance of game and river-fiſh. In 1787, the exports of this iſland were 175,584 cwt. of ſugar, 670,000 gallons of rum, 8800 cwt. of coffee, 2700 cwt. of cocoa, 2,000,000lbs. of cotton, and 28001bs. of indigo, beſides miſcellaneous articles, amounting in the whole to upwards of 600,000l. ſterl. at the London prices. It is one of the Windward Caribbees, and is 30 leagues NW. of Tobago. The principal harbours are Port Lewis, a very ſpacious one, on the W. ſide of the iſland, and St. George. It was taken by the French in 1779, and reſtored to the Engliſh in 1783. Lat. about 12. 10. N. lon. 61. 30. W.

GRANADA, a trading town of Mexico, in the province of Nicaragua, ſeated on an iſland in the Lake Nicaragua, which communicates with the Atlantic by the river St. Juan, 50 miles SSE. of Leon.

GRANADA, NEW, a province in the government of Terra Firma, having the provinces of Popayan and Carthagena on the W. and St. Martha and Venezuela on the N. It contains mines of gold, copper, and iron; horſes, mules, corn, good paſturage, and fruits. Santa Fe de Bogota is the capital.

GRANADILLAS, or GRANADINES, a cluſter of iſlands, about 23 in number, in the Weſt Indies, dependent on Granada. They are moſtly fertile, and capable of producing cotton, coffee, indigo, and ſugar.

*GRANARD, a town of Longford, in Leinſter, 11 miles NE. of Longford, and 48 WNW. of Dublin.

Granborough, Warw. near Willoughby. Granchester, on the Cam, S. of Cambridge. Grandby, Nottingh. SE. of Bingham.

GRAND ANSE. See JEREMIE.

GRAND PRE', a town in the dept. of Ardennes, ſeated on the river Ayre, 29 miles E. of Rheims.

Grandesborough, Suff. NW. of Woodbridge.

GRANDRIEUX, a town in the dept. of the Lozere, 10 miles NW. of Langogne.

Grancy, in Kilkenny, Leinſter. Grange, in Sligo, Connaught. Grange, or Mount Hamilton, in Tyrone, Ulſter. Grange, in Antrim, Ulſter. Grange, in Meath, Leinſter. Grange Forteſcue, in Meath, Leinſter. Grange Mellon, in Kildare, Leinſter. Grange More, in Weſt Meath, Leinſter. Grange, New, in Meath, Leinſter, near Slane.

Grange Cheſh. near the mouth of the Lee.

Lee. Grange, Cumb. in Borrodale, near Keſwick. Grange, Dorſetſ. near Wareham. Grange, NE. of Durham. Grange, Glouceſtſ. in Tetbury pariſh. Grange, Hants, N. of Itchinſtoke. Grange, Heref. near Brampton Brion. Grange, Kent, 1 mile from Gillingham. Grange, Lanc. in Amounderneſs, has a port for ſmall veſſels. Grange, N. of Lincoln. Grange, Northumb. SW. of Morpeth. Grange, Northumb. near Pontiland. Grange Harzee, near Shrewſbury.

GRANGES, a town of North Carolina.

GRANGES, a town in the dept. of the Lot and Garonne.

GRANIC, or GRANICUS, a ſmall river of Beeſangil, anciently MYSIA, a province of Natolia. It has it's ſource in Mount Ida, near the ſuppoſed ruins of Troy, and falls into the Sea of Marmora, to the E of Lampſaco.

Granſam, Heref, NW. of Ledbury. Granſden, Great, Hunt. SE. of St. Neot's. Granſden, Little, Camb. SE. of Great Granſden.

Granſhaw, in Down, Ulſter. Granſhaw, in Kerry, Munſter.

GRANSON, a town and bailiwick of Swiſſerland, to the SW. of the Lake of Neufchatel, and between it and Mount Jura.

Granta, a river of Cambridgeſhire, which runs into the Cam at Cambridge.

*GRANTHAM, a neat, populous town, in Lincolnſhire, noted for the ſteeple of it's church, which terminates in a ſpire, near 300 feet high, and which, by a deception of the ſight, ſeems to lean on one ſide. Here is a good free-ſchool, where the celebrated Sir Iſaac Newton received his firſt education. Grantham has a number of very good inns, being greatly reſorted to as a thoroughfare on the N. road. It is ſituated on the river Witham, 24 miles SW. of Boſton, and 110 N. of London. Market on Saturday.

Granthorn, Linc. on the coaſt, N. of Saltfleet. Grantley, Yorkſ. W. Riding, SW. of Rippon.

GRANVILLE, a town in the dept. of the Channel, moſtly ſeated on a ſharp rock, 12 miles NW. of Avranches. It is ſurrounded by walls, and has an harbour capable of receiving about 60 ſmall veſſels. Near it is an noted oyſter fiſhery, and on the land ſide are quarries of ſtone of a very large ſize, and remarkable for their hardneſs. Lat, 48. 50. N. lon. 1. 32. W.

Grany Ferry, in or between the counties of Waterford and Kilkenny.

GRASON, an iſland near the coaſt of Sweden, in the Gulf of Bothnia, about 15 miles long and 2 wide. Lat. 60. 22. N. lon. 18. 20. E.

GRASSONO, a town of Baſilicata, in Naples, 18 miles ESE. of Cirenza.

Graſton, Dorſetſhire, in Burton pariſh. Grarigg Hall, Weſtmorl. NE. of Kendal. Graſham, Hunt. W. of Bugden. Graſham, Suſſex, SW. of Petworth. Graſſington, Yorkſ. W. Riding, near Skipton, in Craven.

GRASSMERE WATER, a ſmall, beautiful lake of Weſtmorland, N. of Ambleſide and Rydal; near it ſtands the neat village of Graſſmere.

Graſſmire, a lofty mountain of Cumberland, near Buttermere.

GRASSE, a town in the dept of Var, trading in dry fruit, olives, oil, perfumes, and tanned leather. It is ſeated on an eminence, 15 miles WSW. of Nice GRASSE, LA, a town in the dept. of the Aude, ſeated on the river Othieu, 18 miles SE. of Carcaſſonne.

Grately, Hants, 8E. of Quarley Hill, in the road from Andover to Saliſbury. Gatbwate, Lanc. between the Foſſe river and Winandermere. Graton, Yorkſ. E. Riding, N. of Baynton. Gratton, Derb. NW. of Wirkſworth. Gratwich, Staff. N. of the Blith, near Chartly Caſtle.

GRATZ, a town of Stiria, containing ſeveral churches and convents, a univerſity, and an arſenal, with a caſtle on a rock. The aſſembly of the ſtates is held here. It is ſeated on the Muehr, 70 miles SSW. of Vienna.

GRATZ, a town of Troppau, in Sileſia, ſituated on the Mora, 4 miles S. of Troppau.

GRAUDENTZ, a town of Culm, in Pruſſia.

GRAVE, a ſtrong town of Dutch Brabant, ſituated in a marſhy country, on the S. ſide of the Meuſe, 8 miles S. of Nimeguen, and 20 E. of Bois le Duc.

Gravely, Cambridgeſ. near Papworth. Gravely, Herts, between Stevenage and Baldock.

GRAVELINES, a ſea-port town in the dept. of the North, not large, but well fortified, with baſtions, half moons, and a horn work. The country near it is interſected by canals, one of which goes to Dunkirk, by Bourbourg, and another paſſes directly to Bergues. In 1658, it was attacked by the army of France, and ſurrendered after a ſiege of 5 days. Since that time it has remained with France, to which it was ceded by the peace of the Pyrenees.

Pyrenees. It is ſeated on the river Aa, 9 miles WSW. of Dunkirk.

GRAVELOTTE, a town in the dept. of the Moſelle, 6 miles SW. of Metz.

GRAVENAU, a town in Lower Bavaria.

Graveney, Kent, NE. of Faverſham. Gravenhanger, Shropſ. on the borders of Cheſhire and Staff. Graven Hall Wood, Oxf. near Langford, in Berks. Gravenhurſt, Bedfordſ. S. of Shefford.

GRAVENMACHEREN, a town of Luxemburg, ſituated on the Moſelle, in a pleaſant and fertile country, 12 miles SW. of Treves. Near it is an ancient monument, erected by two brothers, to the memory of their parents, before the reign of Conſtantine the Great.

Graves, Warw. between Coleſhill and Sutton Colfield. Gravesburge, Yorkſh. near Rotherham.

GRAVESANDE, a town of Holland, where the ancient counts generally reſided. It is ſituated about 4 miles from the ſea, and 6 WSW. of Delft.

Graveſend, Herts, near Aldbury.

*GRAVESEND, a town of Kent, conſiſting chiefly of one paved and lighted ſtreet. It is a place of conſiderable reſort, being a common landing place for ſeamen and ſtrangers in their paſſage to London. It is commonly called the corporation of Graveſend and Milton, theſe two places having been incorporated by Queen Elizabeth. In the reign of Richard II. the French and Spaniards came up the Thames, burnt and plundered it, and carried away moſt of the people; and, by way of compenſation for this loſs, he granted the remaining inhabitants the excluſive privilege of carrying paſſengers, between this place and London, in large and commodious boats, at twopence a-head, or a whole boat's fare at four ſhillings. They ſtill enjoy this privilege; but the fare is now ninepence a-head, and the boats are much improved. For it's better ſecurity, Henry VIII. raiſed a blockhouſe, with a platform of guns to the E. of the town. The gardens round the town are ſo rich, that they not only ſupply the ſhipping, and all the towns for ſeveral miles round, with every article of that kind, but great quantities, and particularly of aſparagus, remarkably fine, are ſent to London. The chief employment of the labouring people is the ſpinning of hemp, to make nets for fiſhing, and ropes. It is ſituated on the Thames, directly oppoſite to Tilbury Fort, 9 miles WNW. of Rocheſter, and 23 S. by E. of London. Markets on Wedneſday and Saturday; and a fiſh-market on Sunday morning.

Graveſnorton, Northamptonſ. NW. of Towceſter.

GRAVINA, a town of Bari, in Naples.

GRAULHET, a town in the dept. of Tarn, 12 miles NW. of Caſtres.

Grawsbie, Linc. W. of Marſh Chapel. Grawtey, Suſſex, SW. of E. Grinſted.

GRAY, a town in the dept. of Upper Saone, ſeated on the river Saone, which is navigable for boats to Lyons, whither the inhabitants ſend grain and iron, 25 miles NE. of Dijon.

GRAY, or GREY ABBEY, a town of Down, in Ulſter, 89 miles N. of Dublin.

Graesby, Cheſhire, near Woodchurch. Grayes Court, Oxfordſ. NW. of Henley upon Thames. Grayeſland, Linc. near Gunthorp.

*GRAY'S THURROCK, a town of Eſſex, ſeated on the Thames, oppoſite Dartford in Kent. Market on Thurſday.

Grayſtock Caſtle, Cumb. on the Peterel, W. of Penrith. Grayston, Durham, between Darlington and Biſhop Aukland.

Gray's Town, in Tipperary, Munſter.

Graythorn, Kent, NW. of Cranbrook. Grey Wethers, Wilts, on Marlborough Downs, are white ſtones, of various dimenſions, which, at a diſtance, have the appearance of ſtraggling ſheep. They lie on the ſurface of the ground in infinite numbers, and of all dimenſions. Grazewood Hill, Surry, near Witley Park and Haſlemere. Greane Iſle, Kent, oppoſite to Sheerneſs.

Greany, in Limerick, Munſter.

Greatabridge, Yorkſ. N. Riding, near Rookby and Bowes.

Greatham, Suſſex, near Arundel Foreſt.

Great Island, in Cork Harbour, Munſter. It is 5 miles long, and from 1 to 3 wide. Great Skelig Island, off the coaſt of Kerry, Munſter.

Greaveslane, Nottinghamſ. a hamlet of Southwell.

GREECE, the ancient name of that part of Turkey in Europe, which contains Macedonia, Janna or Theſſaly, Livadia, the Morea, the Archipelago, and Candia.

Greecester, Northumb. N. of Otterburn. Green, Suſſex, SE. of Michelham Park. Green, Lancaſ. between Warrington and Flixton. Green, Northumberl. NW. of Morpeth.

GREENBURG, a town of Pennſylvania.

Greenbury, Hertfordſhire, in Barley pariſh. Greencroſt, Durham, near Lancheſter. Greenend, Glouceſ. in Twining pariſh. Greenfield, Linc. NW. of Alford,

Greenfield,

Greenfield, Oxfordſ. in Watlington pariſh. Greenfield Caſtle, Monm. S. of Newport. Greenford, Middl. 2 miles S. of Harrow on the Hill. Green, Great and Little, Glouceſ. in Knibley Park. Greenhall, Lancaſ. NE. of Garſtang. Greenham, Berkſhire, near Newbury. Greenhaugh, Northumb. NE. of Greenſted. Greenhaugh, Lanc. near Garſtang. Greenhill, Middl. between Harrow and the Weald. Greenhith, Kent, in Swanſcomb pariſh. Here is a horſe-ferry to W. Thurrock, in Eſſex. A number of coaſting veſſels, from London and other parts, frequently take in here a freight of lime for building, and of chalk to fertilize and mellow ſome kinds of ſoils. Greenhithely, Northumb. NW. of Morpeth. Greenholm, Weſtm. a mount near Langdale. Greenhow, Yorkſ. N. Riding, in Cleveland. Green Iſland, Dorſetſ. in Pool Harbour.

GREEN ISLAND, a ſmall iſland near the NE. coaſt of New Holland, 4 leagues ENE. from Cape Grafton.

Green Iſland, in Donaghadee Harbour; and Green Iſland, in Carlingford Bay; both in Down, Ulſter.

GREENLAND, a country, including ſome iſlands, ſituated between the Straits of Davis and Frobiſher, and Iceland. The northern limits are as yet unknown. W. Greenland ſeems to be the moſt N. eaſterly part of America. E. Greenland lies in a high latitude, N. of the continent of Europe, as does alſo Spitzbergen, which is ſometimes comprehended under the general name of Greenland. The ſeas on the coaſt are annually viſited by a great number of ſhips of the Engliſh and other European nations, for the purpoſe of fiſhing for whales. The moſt ſouthern point of land in W. Greenland, is Cape Farewell, at the entrance of Davis' Straits, in lat. 59. 38. N. and in lon. 42. 45. W. The Greenlanders are ſtrangers to trade, arts, and ſciences. They are generally ſhort, or under the common ſize, but well-proportioned, fat, and plump. Their clothing is made of the ſkins of the rein-deer, the dog-fiſh, and of certain birds ſewed together, with the ſmall guts of the canis marinus. It is very ſeldom that they are afflicted with epidemical diſeaſes, but the ſcurvy is the reigning diſtemper in this country; their common remedy on this occaſion, beſides other ſimples, is ſcurvy-graſs. Both ſexes live together in a very ſordid, filthy manner, in two ſorts of habitations, one of which ſerves for the winter, and the other for the ſummer ſeaſon. The winter dwellings are large huts, ſeldom more than two ells above the ſurface of the ground; the roof is covered with turf, and the entrance is dug narrow and winding under ground. Theſe wintry manſions are extremely warm, but ſtink intolerably, from the number of perſons generally confined in them. Their ſummer habitations are light tents, made of the ſmooth ſkins of the dog-fiſh. The occupation of the men is chiefly fiſhing and hunting, for which they have very curious tackle and inſtruments. The boats, in which the men only row out to ſea, are made of very thin, narrow boards, faſtened together with whalebone, and covered with ſeal-ſkins. Only one man goes out in one of theſe boats, who is half covered, and ſo ſecurely laced in, that the water cannot penetrate into the boat; thus equipped he will row 60 or 70 miles in a day, though he has but one oar, which is 6 or 7 feet long, and flat at both ends. Their chief commodities are blubber and whalebone, the horn of the ſea-unicorn, and the ſkins of deer, foxes, and the dog-fiſh. They neither uſe, nor have any knowledge of money, but they fix a certain value on iron. The original inhabitants, on the firſt arrival of the Norwegians, in 1023, were ſavages, apparently of American extraction. Since the middle of the laſt century, the Danes have ſettled ſeveral colonies along the coaſt, and at preſent claim the ſovereignty of the country. There is a company eſtabliſhed at Copenhagen, which ſends 3 or 4 ſhips every year to Greenland. The animals are deer, bears, foxes, wild fowls; and, in the water, whales and ſeals.

Greenland, Bucks, in Hambledon pariſh.

GREENLAW, the county-town of Berwickſhire, 17 miles WSW. of Berwick.

Greenleighton, Northumb. NW. of Morpeth. Greenlow Bridge, Derby, in the High Peak.

*GREENOCK, a ſea-port town in the county of Renfrew, ſituated at the mouth of the Clyde, 18 miles W. of Glaſgow. It has a conſiderable foreign trade, and a ſhare in the herring-fiſhery. The town has increaſed prodigiouſly within the laſt 30 years, and is ſtill rapidly improving. Here is a ſugar-houſe, and a rope and ſail manufactory. Lat. 55. 54. N. lon. 4. 29. W.

Greenogh, in Cork, Munſter.

GREEN RIVER, a river of Kentucky, which runs into the Ohio, in lat. 37. 38. N. and lon. 87. 55. W.

GREEN RIVER, a river of Canada, which runs into the river St. Lawrence, about 100 miles below Quebec.

Green

Green's Norton, Northamp. near Towcester.

GREENSBURG, a town of Pennſylvania.

Greenſeed, Eſſex, near Chipping Ongar. The walls of it's ancient, little church are formed of the ſolid trunks of trees, placed in rows, and ſeem calculated to endure for ages more, though built prior to the conqueſt. Greenſted, Northumberl. near Dale Caſtle. Greenſtreet, Kent, near Sittingbourn. Greenſtreet, Kent, SE. of Dartford. Greenſtreet, Middl. between Kentiſh Town and Highgate. Greenſtreet, Middleſex, S. of Waltham Croſs. Greenſtreet, Eſſex, near Ham.

GREENVILLE, a county of Georgia; and a town of N. Carolina.

Greenwaye, Somerſetſ. near Mendip lead-mines. Greenway, Devonſ. between Dartmouth and Torbay. Greenway Court, Kent, E. of Hollingbourn.

GREENWICH, a populous town in Kent, ſituated on the Thames, 5 miles E. of London. Markets on Wedneſday and Saturday. It contains about 1350 houſes, but is principally noted for it's magnificent hoſpital for decayed ſeamen, it's beautiful park, and aſtronomical obſervatory. This laſt is ſituated on the ſummit of Flamſtead Hill, from the meridian of which the Engliſh reckon their longitude.

GREENWICH, a town of New Jerſey; and a town of the ſtate of Rhode Iſland.

Greenwoodley, Yorkſ. NW. of Halifax.

Grees, a river in the county of Kildare, which runs into the Barrow, 6 miles S. of Athy.

Greet, Shropſ. SE. of Ludlow. Greet, Glouc. in Winchcombe pariſh. Greetham, Rutland, near Corteſmore. Greeton, Glouc. in Winchcombe pariſh. Greetwell, 1 mile from Lincoln. Greetyate, Staff. S. of Bradley. Gregorytoke, Somerſetſ. NE. of North Curry. Greinton, Somerſ. N. of Sedgemore. Grench, Kent, E. of Gillingham. Grendon, Warw. SE. of Poleſworth. Grendon Biſhop's and Warren, Heref. W. of Bromyard. Grendon Underwood, Bucks, S. of Edgecot. Grendon, or Gwendron, Cornw. W. of Penryn. Grenely, Suſſex, W. of Pevenſey. Grenerig, Yorkſ. N. Riding, in Cleveland. Grenno, Lancaſh. NW. of Kirkham, in Amounderneſs.

GRENOBLE, a large and populous city in the dept. of Iſere. Before the revolution, it was the capital of Dauphiny, the ſee of a biſhop, and the ſeat of a parliament. The leather and gloves made here are highly eſteemed. It is ſeated on the river Iſere, near it's conflux with the Drac, 285 miles SE. of Paris. Lat. 45 12. N. lon. 5. 49. E.

Greſby, Linc. NW. of Caſtor. Greſham, Norf. near Cromer. Greſley Church, Derb. W. of Aſhby de la Zouch. Greſſedge, Shropſ. NW. of Wenlock. Greſſenhall, Norf. NW. of E. Dereham. Greſford, Denbighſ. Greſthorp, Nott. SE. of Tuxford. Greſton, Cornw. on the Tamar SW. of Launceſton. Greta, a river in Yorſh. which runs into the Tees near Morton. Gretborough, Surry, near Banſtead. Grete, a river of Weſtmorl. and Lancaſh. which runs into the Lune, below Thurland Caſtle. Grettenham, Wilts W. of Wotton Baſſet. Gretford, Linc. NE. of Stamford. Gretham, Hants, N. of Petersfield. Gretham, Durh. between Stockton and Hartlepool. Gretland, Yorkſhire, near Halifax. Gretna Green, a village of Dumfrieſhire, near the mouth of the river Eſk, and about 4 miles from Longtown, in Cumberland. It has long been noted as the reſort of enamoured couples from England, who have an opportunity of being married here at once by a blackſmith, as this place is out of the juriſdiction of the marriage act. Gretton, Northamp. near Stamford. Gretton, Shropſ. N. of Ruſhbury. Grewel, Hants W. of Odiham. Greyſley, NW. of Nottingham. Greyſton Bay, Kent, near Ramſgate. Griddleſhay, Dorſ. near Chadwick. Griffe, near Northampton.

GRIFFENHAGEN, a town in Pruſſia Pomerania, 12 miles S. of Old Stettin.

Griffin's Town, in Wicklow, Leinſter.

Griffo, Warw. near Ardbury. Griff Dam, Leiceſ. near Aſhby de la Zouch here is a noted mineral water. Grilſton Devonſ. in Nemet Biſhop's pariſh.

GRIMBERG, a town of Treves.

Grimbleby, Lincolnſ. SW. of Saltfleet Grimley, NW. of Worceſter. Grimſam Derb. in the High Peak.

GRIMA, a town of Leipſic, in Upper Saxony.

GRIMMEN, a town in Swediſh Pomerania.

Grimpſton, Devonſ. in Blackawton pariſh.

GRIMSAY, one of the ſmaller Weſtern Iſlands of Scotland, between the N. Vift and Benbecula.

*GRIMSBY, GREAT, a town of Lincolnſhire, containing ſeveral ſtreets of pretty good houſes, and a church that looks like a cathedral. It is ſaid to be the oldeſt corporation in England; and had formerly a good harbour, which has been long choked up with ſand. Some conſiderable improvements, however, have been been made in it of late, under parliamentary encouragement. It is ſituated on the river Humber, by which it has a trade in coals and ſalt, about 5 miles from the German Ocean, 35 NE. by E. of Lincoln, and 170 N. of London. Markets on Wedneſday and Saturday.

GRIMSBY, a town of Virginia.

Grimſby, St. Mary, Linc. 5 miles S. of Great Grimſby. Grimſcar, Yorkſ. near Halifax. Grimſditch, Cheſhire, NW. of Northwich. Grimſditch, Oxf. near Ditchley, ſuppoſed by different antiquarians to have been a Roman road, a boundary, a Saxon work, and by others, again, to be Britiſh. There is another work of this kind, that ſeparates the counties of Dorſet and Wilts. Grimſthorp, Linc. near Bourn. Grimſton, Dorſetſ. E. of Frampton. Grimſton, Leic. between Aſkettleby and Dalby Wood. Grimſton, Norf. NW. of Geeat Maſſingham. Grimſton, Nott. between Tuxford and E. Retford. Grimſton, SE. of York. Grimſton, Yorkſ. SE. of Tadcaſter. Grimſton Garth, Yorkſ. in Holderneſs. Grimſton Hall, Suffolk, in the pariſh of Trimley St. Martin's. Grimſtx, North, Yorkſ. S. of New Malton. Grindal, Yorkſ. near Burlington. Grindon, Staff. SE. of Leek. This pariſh produces great quantities of excellent marble, of a white, hard, ſhining grit, and ſtriped red, which takes ſo good a poliſh, that it is fit for chimney-pieces, monuments, &c. Grindon, Durh. near Foxton and Blackton Grindon Rigg, a river in Northumb. near Berwick. Near it are 4 upright ſtone pillars, funeral memorials of the chieftains ſlain here, in the year 1558, when the Earl of Northumberland and his brother, gained a victory over the Scots, many of whom were drowned in this river. Gringley on the Hill, and Gringley, Little, Nott. W. of Gainſborough. Grinly, Staff. between Chorley Caſtle and Needwood Foreſt. Grinſted, Eſſex, near Colcheſter. Grinſted, E. and W. Wilts, near Saliſbury.

GRINSTEAD, EAST, a town of Suſſex, where the Lent aſſizes for the county are held. It is ſeated on a hill, near the borders of Surry, 18 miles N. of Lewes, and 35 S. of London. Market on Thurſday; and a great fair, on Dec. 11, for Welch runts, fat hogs, and other cattle.

Grinſtead West, 10 miles SW. of Eaſt Grinſtead. Grinſton, Yorkſ. N. Riding, N. of Swaledale Foreſt.

GRIPSWALD, or GREIFSWALDE, a town of Hither Pomerania, formerly imperial, but now ſubject to the Swedes. It has a good harbour, and a univerſity, founded in 1456, by Wratiſlaus IX. It is ſituated on the river Rick, which is navigable to the Baltic, 15 miles SE. of Stralſund.

Griſdale, Cumb. near Penrith. Griſdall, Lanc. in Hawkſhead pariſh. Griſburſt, Lanc. near Bury. Griſmond, Monmouthſ. on the Munnow.

GRISONS, a people inhabiting a diſtrict of the Alps, called by the ancients Upper Rhœtia, and in alliance with the Swiſs. They are divided into 3 leagues, which they denominate the Caddee, or League of God's Houſe, formed in 1419, againſt the ſecular power of the biſhop; the Griſe, or Grey League, in 1424; and the League of the Ten Juriſdictions, in 1436; theſe, however, unite and form one republic, but have their peculiar conſtitutions, laws, and cuſtoms. A diet, or aſſembly, of the three leagues is held every year, at the towns of Hantz, Coire, and Davos, alternately. It conſiſts of 63 deputies, and 3 chiefs. In the election of theſe deputies, every male of 16 years of age has a voice. The country does not produce grain ſufficient for the wants of half the inhabitants; the reſt they obtain from Lombardy. Their principal object is the care of their ſheep and cattle. The country of the Griſons is about 27 miles in length, and is bounded on the N. by Swiſſerland, and a part of Germany; on the E. by the Tyrolſe; on the S. by Venice and Milan; and on the W. by Swiſſerland. They are partly of the Church of Rome, and partly Proteſtants.

Griſthorp, Yorkſ. SE. of Scarborough. Griſton, Norf. N. of Watton. Grittleton, Wilts, SW. of Malmſbury. Groby, Leic. N. of Leiceſter Foreſt.

GRODNO, a town in the palatinate of Wilna, Lithuania, and, next to Wilna, the beſt in that duchy. Here is a college and botanical garden; Staniſlaus, the laſt, dethroned king of Poland, having eſtabliſhed here a royal academy of medicine and ſurgery. It is a large, ſtraggling place, containing a mixture of houſes little better than cottages, ſome habitations in good repair, and ruined palaces, with magnificent gateways, and other remains of decayed ſplendour. A wing yet remains of the old caſtle, in which the diets formerly aſſembled. The number of inhabitants is eſtimated at 7000, many of whom are employed in manufactures of linen, woollen, cotton, and ſilk. It is ſeated on the river Niemen, 125 miles NE. of Warſaw. Lat. 53. 28. N. lon. 24. 6. E.

GROLL, a ſtrongly fortified town of Zutphen, ſituated on the river Slinghe, whoſe waters fill the ditches round the fortifications, 19 miles E. of Zutphen.

Groombridge, Kent, near Speldhurſt. Gromond, or Groſmont Abbey, Yorkſ. near Giſborough. Groney, a river in Brecknockſhire.

GRONINGEN, a large, rich, ſtrong, and populous town, with a univerſity, capital of the province of the ſame name, in the United Dutch States. It has a very commodious harbour, into which ſhips enter with great eaſe by means of a canal, whoſe ſides are lined with large ſtones, on the rivers Aunes and Dunſter, 9 miles from the ſea, and 85 NE. of Amſterdam.

GRONINGEN, one of the Seven United Dutch States, bounded on the W. by W. Frieſland; on the N. by the German Ocean; on the E. by the Dollart Bay, E. Frieſland and Germany; and on the S. by Overyſſel. It is divided into two parts, of which Groningen and it's diſtrict is one, and the Ommerlands form the other. This country abounds in fine paſtures, which feed a great number of large horſes.

Groomſport Bay, in Down, Ulſter.

Gropenhall, Cheſh. S. of Warrington. Gropeſtill, Leic. NW. of Boſworth.

GROSSA, an iſland of the late Venetian Dalmatia, about 6 miles long and 1 wide.

Groſborough, in Monaghan, Ulſter.

GROSSETTA, a town of Tuſcany.

Grotebugh, Northumb. on the Tweed, near Norham Caſtle.

GROTEN, a town of Connecticut.

Groton, Suffolk, between Sudbury and Hadley.

GROTSKAW, a town of Servia.

GROTTA DEL CANE, a cavern near the Lake d'Agnano, in Naples. From the bottom of this little cave a vapour, or mephitic air, riſes, (about a foot in height) which is deſtructive to animal life. For the amuſement of travellers, perſons attend at the cave with dogs, on which they perform the cruel experiment of holding their heads in the vapour; after which they are convulſed in a few minutes, and expire in tortures.

GROTTKAW, a town of Neiſſe, in Sileſia.

GROUPE'S ISLANDS, two groups, or cluſters, of iſlands, in the S. Pacific Ocean; the two largeſt of which are ſeparated by a ſtrait, about 400 fathoms wide. They are all covered with cocoa-trees. The inhabitants are almoſt naked, and painted brown, with black hair, tied in a kind of net-work. Lat. 17. 58. to 18. 6. S. lon. 142. 45. to 142. 54. E.

Grouville, a village of the iſland of Jerſey, about 3 miles E. from the town of St. Heilier.

Grove, Herts, in Watford pariſh; Grove, Nott. SE. of Radford; Kent, in Woodneſborough; Bucks, S. of Leighton. Grove, Kent, over the Stour, NE. of Fordwich. Grove Hill, Warw. near Haſſeler. Grovehurſt, Kent, in Hawkhurſt pariſh. Groveley, Wilts, NW. of Saliſbury. Grovely, Worc. N. of Bromſgrove. Grove Park, Warwickſ. in Budbrook pariſh. Grove Place, Hants, near Rumſey. Grove Place, Kent, in Staple pariſh. Groves, Eſſex, near Ockenden. Groveſend, or Grovening, Glouc. near Alveſton. Growmond Abbey, Yorkſ. SW. of Whitby.

GROYNE, a river of Galicia, in Spain, which falls into the Bay of Biſcay, at Corunna.

GRUBENHAGEN, a caſtle, now in ruins, which gives name to a mountainous and woody principality of Lower Saxony, ſubject to Hanover. The inhabitants raiſe a great number of horned cattle and ſheep, cultivate flax, and carry on ſome linen manufactures. In the mountains are mines of ſilver, iron, copper, and lead. The Hartz foreſt is a chain of mountains covered with trees, which are ſome remains of the ancient Hercynian Foreſt. Eimbeck is the capital.

Grubthorp, Yorkſ. near Rippon.

GRUCKFELDT, a town of Carinthia.

GRUMBACH, a town of Rhingrave country, Upper Rhine; a town of Meiſſen, in Upper Saxony; and a river of Upper Saxony which runs into the Saal, 4 miles NE. of Weiſſenfels, in Thuringia.

GRUMBACH OBER, and GRUMBACH UNTER, 2 towns of Spire.

Grumbald, Glouceſterſ. SE. of Thornbury.

GRUNBERG, a town of Upper Heſſe, where the kings of the Merovingian race and Charlemagne held their court; and a town of Glogaw, in Sileſia.

GRUNDE, a town of Brunſwick, in the Hartz Foreſt.

GRUNINGEN, a town and bailiwick of Swiſſerland, in the canton of Zurich.

GRUYERES, a town and conſiderable bailiwick of Friburg, in Swiſſerland, celebrated for it's cheeſe, which is exported to Italy, France, Germany, and other countries. It is 15 miles S. of Friburg.

Gryley, Worceſ. on the Severn, oppoſite to Omberſley. Grymſcot, Northamp. NW. of Towceſter. Grymſton, Nott. on the river Idle, NW. of the Markhams. Grymſdon, Northamp. near Wellingborough. Grynſhill, Shropſ. between Hadnall and Wem. Grytsworth, Northamp. 3 miles from Brackley.

GUACOCINGA, a town of Tlaſcala, in Mexico.

GUADALAJARA, or GUADALAXARA, a town of Spain, in New Caſtile; and a river of Andaluſia, which runs into the Mediterranean between Gibraltar and Marbella.

GUADALAJARA, a town, the capital of a rich and fertile province of the ſame name, in Mexico, about 200 miles NW. of the city of Mexico. Lat. 21. 20. N. lon. 104. 49. W.

GUADALAVIAR, a river of Spain, which runs into the Mediterranean, near Valencia.

GUADALOUPE, a river of Arragon, which falls into the Ebro, at Caſpe; alſo a river and town of Spaniſh Eſtremadura.

GUADALOUPE, one of the Leeward Iſlands, in the W. Iſlands, lying between Antigua and Dominica, in lat. 16. 20. N. lon. 61. 0. W. and ſubject to the French. It is about 250 miles in circumference, and is divided into two parts by a channel, in one place 4 miles over, and navigable, only for canoes, called Rivière Sale. By this ſtrait, the ſea on the NW. communicates with that on the SE. The NW. part is divided into Baſſeterre and Cabeſterre. The SE. part is named Grande-terre; it does not, however, contain more land than the former, but it's ſhape is more irregular. The ſoil is exceedingly good, and every where well watered, eſpecially in the diſtrict of Cabeſterre. On the top of a very lofty mountain, is a volcano, called La Soufriere, the two mouths of which open into a pit of ſulphur. The negroes get brimſtone here, which they afterwards purify and ſell. The vegetables, fruits, and trees, are much the ſame as in the other iſlands, except the cinnamon-tree, balſam of the capivi, and the milk-ſhrub, which yields a balſamic liquor like milk. The bees here are without ſtings; their honey never hardens, but is always of the conſiſtence of oil. In 1775, the exports were 188,386 quintals of ſugar, 63,029 of coffee, 1438 of indigo, 1024 of cacao, and 5193 of cotton; beſides hides, and other articles, and without including the barter with Martinico, and other iſlands. In 1759, Guadaloupe was taken by the Engliſh, but reſtored at the peace of 1763.

GUADALQUIVER, a large river of Spain, which riſes in New Caſtile, and empties itſelf into the Atlantic, about 18 miles NW. of Cadiz.

GUADARAMA, a river and town of New Caſtile; the latter is celebrated for it's cheeſe.

GUADIANA, a large river which riſes in New Caſtile, and croſſing La Mancha and Spaniſh Eſtremadura, enters Portugal a few miles W. of Badajox, and partly ſeparating Andaluſia from Alentejo, falls into the Atlantic between Agamonte and Caſtromarim.

GAUDIX, a town of Spain, in Granada.

GUALDO, a town of Ancona, in Italy.

GUAM, or GUAHAN, the chief of the Ladrone Iſlands, in the Eaſtern Indian Sea, about 90 miles in circumference. This iſland is fertile, and has ſeveral good harbours, with a great number of ſmall freſh-water rivers. It is ſubject to the Spaniards, but the inhabitants are moſtly natives of the country. Their number is eſtimated at 30,000. They are ſkilful at boat-building, and are ſubject to a kind of leproſy, though the air is wholeſome, and the iſland abounds with excellent fruit. The Spaniards have a town here, the houſes of which are built with ſtone, and defended by two forts, and a garriſon of 100 men. There are alſo ſeveral other villages, ſome of which contain about 130 houſes. The natives go naked. Lat. 13. 25. N. lon. 145. 15. E.

GUAMANGA, a town and province of Peru, with an univerſity, which enjoys a great revenue, for the ſtudy of philoſophy, divinity, and law. It is 200 miles SE. of Lima.

GUANANHANI, one of the Bahama Iſlands, now called Cat Iſland.

GUANUCO, a town and juriſdiction of Peru, which begins about 40 leagues NE. of Lima.

GUANCAVELICA, a town and country of Peru, famous for mines of quickſilver.

GUARDAFUI, a cape of Africa, at the NE. extremity of Adel, and the entrance of the Straits of Babelmandel. Lat. 11. 46. N. lon. 50. 18. E.

GUARDA, a town of Beira.

GUARDIA, a town of Galicia, ſeated at the mouth of the Minho river; alſo a town of Alava, and a town of New Caſtile, all in Spain; and a town of Calabria Citra, in Naples.

GUARDIA ALFERES, a town of Moliſo, in Naples.

GUARDAMAR, a ſea-port of Valencia.

GUARMA, a ſea-port of Santa, in Peru.

Guaſh, or Wadeland. See Waſh.

GUASTALLA, a town of Mantua.

GUASTO, a town in Abruzzo Citra.

GUATIMALA, THE AUDIENCE OF, in Mexico, is about 400 miles in length, and, in ſome places, 100 in breadth. It contains 12 provinces. A chain of mountains runs acroſs it, many of which are volcanoes, and it is ſubject to earthquakes whoſe waters fill the ditches round the fortifications, 19 miles E. of Zutphen.

Groombridge, Kent, near Speldhurſt. Gromond, or Groſmont Abbey, Yorkſ. near Giſborough. Groney, a river in Brecknockſhire.

GRONINGEN, a large, rich, ſtrong, and populous town, with a univerſity, capital of the province of the ſame name, in the United Dutch States. It has a very commodious harbour, into which ſhips enter with great eaſe by means of a canal, whoſe ſides are lined with large ſtones, on the rivers Aunes and Dunſter, 9 miles from the ſea, and 85 NE. of Amſterdam.

GRONINGEN, one of the Seven United Dutch States, bounded on the W. by W. Frieſland; on the N. by the German Ocean; on the E. by the Dollart Bay, E. Frieſland and Germany; and on the S. by Overyſſel. It is divided into two parts, of which Groningen and it's diſtrict is one, and the Ommerlands form the other. This country abounds in fine paſtures, which feed a great number of large horſes.

Groomſport Bay, in Down, Ulſter.

Gropenhall, Cheſh. S. of Warrington. Gropeſtill, Leic. NW. of Boſworth.

GROSSA, an iſland of the late Venetian Dalmatia, about 6 miles long and 1 wide.

Groſborough, in Monaghan, Ulſter.

GROSSETTA, a town of Tuſcany.

Grotebugh, Northumb. on the Tweed, near Norham Caſtle.

GROTEN, a town of Connecticut.

Groton, Suffolk, between Sudbury and Hadley.

GROTSKAW, a town of Servia.

GROTTA DEL CANE, a cavern near the Lake d'Agnano, in Naples. From the bottom of this little cave a vapour, or mephitic air, riſes, (about a foot in height) which is deſtructive to animal life. For the amuſement of travellers, perſons attend at the cave with dogs, on which they perform the cruel experiment of holding their heads in the vapour; after which they are convulſed in a few minutes, and expire in tortures.

GROTTKAW, a town of Neiſſe, in Sileſia.

GROUPE'S ISLANDS, two groups, or cluſters, of iſlands, in the S. Pacific Ocean; the two largeſt of which are ſeparated by a ſtrait, about 400 fathoms wide. They are all covered with cocoa-trees. The inhabitants are almoſt naked, and painted brown, with black hair, tied in a kind of net-work. Lat. 17. 58. to 18. 6. S. lon. 142. 45. to 142. 54. E.

Grouville, a village of the iſland of Jerſey, about 3 miles E. from the town of St. Heilier.

Grove, Herts, in Watford pariſh; Grove, Nott. SE. of Radford; Kent, in Woodneſborough; Bucks, S. of Leighton. Grove, Kent, over the Stour, NE. of Fo... Grove Hill, Warw. near Haſſeter. Grovehurſt, Kent, in Hawkhurſt pariſh. Groveley, Wilts, NW. of Saliſbury. Groveiy, Worc. N. of Bromſgrove. Grove Park, Warwickſ. in Budbrook pariſh. Grove Place, Hants, near Rumſey. Grove Place, Kent, in Staple pariſh. Groves, Eſſex, near Ockenden. Groveſend, or Grovening, Glouc. near Alveſton. Growmond Abbey, Yorkſ. SW. of Whitby.

GROYNE, a river of Galicia, in Spain, which falls into the Bay of Biſcay, at Corunna.

GRUBENHAGEN, a caſtle, now in ruins, which gives name to a mountainous and woody principality of Lower Saxony, ſubject to Hanover. The inhabitants raiſe a great number of horned cattle and ſheep, cultivate flax, and carry on ſome linen manufactures. In the mountains are mines of ſilver, iron, copper, and lead. The Hartz foreſt is a chain of mountains covered with trees, which are ſome remains of the ancient Hercynian Foreſt. Eimbeck is the capital.

Grubthorp, Yorkſ. near Rippon.

GRUCKFELDT, a town of Carinthia.

GRUMBACH, a town of Rhingrave country, Upper Rhine; a town of Meiſſen, in Upper Saxony; and a river of Upper Saxony which runs into the Saal, 4 miles NE. of Weiſſenfels, in Thuringia.

GRUMBACH OBER, and GRUMBACH UNTER, 2 towns of Spire.

Grumbald, Glouceſterſ. SE. of Thornbury.

GRUNBERG, a town of Upper Heſſe, where the kings of the Merovingian race and Charlemagne held their court; and a town of Glogaw, in Sileſia.

GRUNDE, a town of Brunſwick, in the Hartz Foreſt.

GRUNINGEN, a town and bailiwick of Swiſſerland, in the canton of Zurich.

GRUYERES, a town and conſiderable bailiwick of Friburg, in Swiſſerland, celebrated for it's cheeſe, which is exported to Italy, France, Germany, and other countries. It is 15 miles S. of Friburg.

Gryley, Worceſ. on the Severn, oppoſite to Ombersley. Grymſcot, Northamp. NW. of Towceſter. Grymſton, Nott. on the river Idle, NW. of the Markhams. Grymdon, Northamp. near Wellingborough. Grynſhill, Shropſ. between Hadnall and Wem. Grytworth, Northamp. 3 miles from Brackley.

GUACOCINGA, a town of Tlaſcala, in Mexico.

GUADALAJARA, or GUADALAXARA, a town of Spain, in New Caſtile; and a river of Andaluſia, which runs into the Mediterranean between Gibraltar and Marbella.

GUADALAJARA, a town, the capital of a rich and fertile province of the ſame name, in Mexico, about 200 miles NW. of the city of Mexico. Lat. 21. 20. N. lon. 104. 49. W.

GUADALAVIAR, a river of Spain, which runs into the Mediterranean, near Valencia.

GUADALOUPE, a river of Arragon, which falls into the Ebro, at Caſpe; alſo a river and town of Spaniſh Eſtremadura.

GUADALOUPE, one of the Leeward Iſlands, in the W. Iſlands, lying between Antigua and Dominica, in lat. 16. 20. N. lon. 61. 0. W. and ſubject to the French. It is about 250 miles in circumference, and is divided into two parts by a channel, in one place 4 miles over, and navigable, only for canoes, called Rivière Sale. By this ſtrait, the ſea on the NW. communicates with that on the SE. The NW. part is divided into Baſſeterre and Cabeſterre. The SE. part is named Grandeterre; it does not, however, contain more land than the former, but it's ſhape is more irregular. The ſoil is exceedingly good, and every where well watered, eſpecially in the diſtrict of Cabeſterre. On the top of a very lofty mountain, is a volcano, called La Soufriere, the two mouths of which open into a pit of ſulphur. The negroes get brimſtone here, which they afterwards purify and ſell. The vegetables, fruits, and trees, are much the ſame as in the other iſlands, except the cinnamon-tree, balſam of the capivi, and the milk-ſhrub, which yields a balſamic liquor like milk. The bees here are without ſtings; their honey never hardens, but is always of the conſiſtence of oil. In 1775, the exports were 188,386 quintals of ſugar, 63,029 of coffee, 1438 of indigo, 1024 of cacao, and 5193 of cotton; beſides hides, and other articles, and without including the barter with Martinico, and other iſlands. In 1759, Guadaloupe was taken by the Engliſh, but reſtored at the peace of 1763.

GUADALQUIVER, a large river of Spain, which riſes in New Caſtile, and empties itſelf into the Atlantic, about 18 miles NW. of Cadiz.

GUADARAMA, a river and town of New Caſtile; the latter is celebrated for it's cheeſe.

GUADIANA, a large river which riſes in New Caſtile, and croſſing La Mancha and Spaniſh Eſtremadura, enters Portugal a few miles W. of Badajox, and partly ſeparating Andaluſia from Alentejo, falls into the Atlantic between Agamonte and Caſtromarim.

GAUDIX, a town of Spain, in Granada.

GUALDO, a town of Ancona, in Italy.

GUAM, or GUAHAN, the chief of the Ladrone Iſlands, in the Eaſtern Indian Sea, about 90 miles in circumference. This iſland is fertile, and has ſeveral good harbours, with a great number of ſmall freſh-water rivers. It is ſubject to the Spaniards, but the inhabitants are moſtly natives of the country. Their number is eſtimated at 30,000. They are ſkilful at boat-building, and are ſubject to a kind of leproſy, though the air is wholeſome, and the iſland abounds with excellent fruit. The Spaniards have a town here, the houſes of which are built with ſtone, and defended by two forts, and a garriſon of 100 men. There are alſo ſeveral other villages, ſome of which contain about 130 houſes. The natives go naked. Lat. 13. 25. N. lon. 145. 15. E.

GUAMANGA, a town and province of Peru, with an univerſity, which enjoys a great revenue, for the ſtudy of philoſophy, divinity, and law. It is 200 miles SE. of Lima.

GUANANHANI, one of the Bahama Iſlands, now called Cat Iſland.

GUANUCO, a town and juriſdiction of Peru, which begins about 40 leagues NE. of Lima.

GUANCAVELICA, a town and country of Peru, famous for mines of quickſilver.

GUARDAFUI, a cape of Africa, at the NE. extremity of Adel, and the entrance of the Straits of Babelmandel. Lat. 11. 46. N. lon. 50. 18. E.

GUARDA, a town of Beira.

GUARDIA, a town of Galicia, ſeated at the mouth of the Minho river; alſo a town of Alava, and a town of New Caſtile, all in Spain; and a town of Calabria Citra, in Naples.

GUARDIA ALFERES, a town of Moliſo, in Naples.

GUARDAMAR, a ſea-port of Valencia.

GUARMA, a ſea-port of Santa, in Peru.

Guaſh, or Wadeland. See Waſh.

GUASTALLA, a town of Mantua.

GUASTO, a town in Abruzzo Citra.

GUATIMALA, THE AUDIENCE OF, in Mexico, is about 400 miles in length, and, in ſome places, 100 in breadth. It contains 12 provinces. A chain of mountains runs acroſs it, many of which are volcanoes, and it is ſubject to earthqu-and ſtorms. It is, however, very fertile, and produces corn, cattle, chocolate, cochineal, cotton, and the beſt indigo in the Spaniſh dominions.

GUATIMALA, a province of Mexico, in the audience of the ſame name.

GUATIMALA, a town of Mexico, capital of the province and audience of the ſame name, with an univerſity. It was deſtroyed by an earthquake in 1751, and again in 1773; when not leſs than 8000 families inſtantly periſhed. The city, however, has been rebuilt on a ſpot about 24 miles diſtant from the former. The audience is compoſed of a governor, preſidente, and counſellors. Lat. 14. 28. N. lon. 92. 40. W.

GUAVE PETIT, or GOAVE PETIT, a ſea-port town of the iſland of St. Domingo, with a ſafe, capacious harbour. It is the ſtaple to which the inhabitants of Grand Guave, and other places, ſend their commodities. It is 20 miles WSW. of Leogane. Lat. 18. 30. N. lon. 37. W.

GUAXACA, a province of Mexico, extending from the gulf of that name to the S. Sea, about 240 miles in length, and 120 in breadth. It produces wheat, Indian corn, caſſia, cochineal, and mulberry-trees, and contains mines of gold, ſilver, and cryſtal. Here are 150 Indian towns, beſides 300 villages, and upwards of 450,000 natives. It's capital, GUAXACA, otherwiſe called ANTEQUERA, contains about 2000 inhabitants, who make fine ſweetmeats and chocolate, and are reckoned wealthy. It has ſeveral rich convents, and is 90 miles nearly S. of Vera Cruz. Lat. 17. 45. N. lon. 97. 40. W.

GUAYAQUIL, a bay, harbour, and town of Peru, capital of an audience of the ſame name. It is divided by a ſtream into two parts, called the Old and the New, joined by a bridge, for foot paſſengers, half a mile long. It is about 240 miles SSW. of Quito, and 150 NE. of Paita. Lat. 2. 11. S. lon. 79. 59. W.

GUAYRA, a ſea-port of Terra Firma, ſituated on the Caraccas coaſt, in the harbour of Leon de Caraccas.

Gubbins, Devonſ. near Brent Torr and Lidford. Gubbins, or Gobions, Herts, near Stapleford.

GUBEN, a town of Luſatia, ſituated on the river Lubbe, 22 miles S. of Frankfort on the Oder.

GUBIO, a town of Urbino, in Italy.

Gudly, Linc. NW. of Horncaſtle. Gudrevie Iſle, Cornw. off St. Ives' Bay. Guedoll, a river in Montgomeryſ.

GUELDERLAND, including Zutphen, a province of the Dutch United States, bounded on the N. by Overyſſel, and the Zuyder Zee; on the E. by the biſhopric of Munſter, and the duchy of Cleves; on the S. by Cleves and Dutch Brabant; and on the W. by the Zuyder Zee, Utrecht, and Holland. Before the late invaſion by the French, Guelderland ſent 19 deputies to the States General. Nimeguen is the capital.

GUELDERS, a town of the duchy of Guelderland, ceded, with a conſiderable diſtrict, to Pruſſia, by the treaty of Utrecht, in exchange for the principality of Orange, which was annexed to France. In 1794, it was taken by the French. It is ſeated on the river Niers, among marſhes, 23 miles NNE. of Ruremonde.

GUERANDE, a town in the dept. of Lower Loire, which carries on a conſiderable trade in white ſalt. It is ſituated about 3 miles from the ſea, and 32 W. of Nantes.

GUERCHE, LA, a town in the dept. of the Iſle and Vilaine, 20 miles ESE. of Rennes; a town in the dept. of the Cher; and a town in the dept. of the Indre and Loire, 24 miles NNE. of Poitiers.

GUERET, a town in the dept. of Creuſe, ſituated near the ſource of the Gartempe, at ſome diſtance from the river Creuſe, 35 miles NE. of Limoges, and 170 S. of Paris.

GUERNSEY, an iſland in the Engliſh Channel, near the coaſt of France, about 30 miles in circumference. It has been held ſubject to England, ſince the time of the Norman conqueſt. The natives ſpeak French, this iſland having been formerly a part of Normandy, and being ſtill governed by the old Norman laws. The air is healthy, and the ſoil more rich and fertile than that of Jerſey. Here is a very good harbour, and, on the S. ſide of the iſland, a bay capable of receiving large veſſels. They are ſufficiently ſupplied with corn and cattle, for their own uſe and that of the ſhips; wines and cider are cheap and plentiful; there is plenty of game and fowl; and they catch great quantities of ſea-fiſh of various kinds. The inhabitants have a conſiderable trade to Newfoundland and the Mediterranean. Guernſey is divided into 10 pariſhes, but with only 8 churches. The convention of the eſtates conſiſts of a governor, coroners, jurats, clergy, and conſtable. The ſtaple manufacture is knit ſtockings. Port St. Pierre is the principal town. Lat. 49. 30. N. lon. 2. 56. W.

Guestling, Suſſex.

GUETA, a town of New Caſtile.

GUIANA,

GUIANA, an extenſive country of S. America, on the coaſt of the Atlantic, lying between the rivers Oronoko and Oreilana. It is about 1100 miles in length, and from 300 to 600 in breadth. The French poſſeſs one part of the coaſt, and the Dutch another. Dutch Guiana contains the ſettlements of Surinam, Berbice, Mequibo, and Demerary; all which take their names from different rivers. French Guiana goes by the name of Equinoctial France, or Cayenne, from the territory ſo called, and extends from the river Maranwina to the river Oyapoco SE. The internal parts of the country are but little known; they are inhabited, however, by different tribes of Indians, ſome of whom make their houſes on trees, to be ſecure from the inundations of the rivers. Sugar, cotton, ſilk, tobacco, Braſil wood, aloes, natural balſam, oranges, and citrons made into ſweetmeats or otherwiſe, are articles of commerce in this country. It lies between 2 and 8 degrees of N. lat.

GUIENNE, a ci-devant province of France, very fruitful, and producing great quantities of wine. It was about 160 miles in length, and 85 in breadth, having Bourdeaux for it's capital. The word Guienne is a corruption of Aquitaine, an ancient country, of great extent, ſaid by Cæſar to be ſeparated from the reſt of Gaul, by the river Garonne.

Guilsborough, Northamp. near Naſeby. It ſtands on a high hill, with a large proſpect every way.

*GUILFORD, an ancient town of Surry, noted formerly for it's manufactory of cloth, of which there are ſtill ſome ſmall remains. It has a number of good inns, with excellent accommodations, being a great thoroughfare on the road from London to Portſmouth. The ſummer aſſizes are held alternately here and at Croydon. It is ſeated on the declivity of a hill, on the river Wey, which is navigable to the Thames, and by which a great quantity of timber is carried to London, not only from the neighbourhood, but from Suſſex and Hampſhire woods, above 30 miles off. 17 miles SW. of Kingſton, and 30 SW. of London. Market (chiefly for corn) on Saturday.

GUILFORD, a town of Connecticut; and two towns of N. Carolina.

Guilford, E. Suſſex, near Rye Harbour.

GUILLAIN, ST. See GHILAIN.

GUILLESTHER, a town in the dept. of the Upper Alps, 9 miles NNW. of Embrun.

Guillden, Warw. near Coleſhill.

GUIMARAENS, a conſiderable town in Entre Duero e Minho, with a manufacture of linen in high eſtimation, 27 miles NNE. of Oporto.

GUINCAMP, a town in the dept. of the North Coaſt, 258 miles W. of Paris.

GUINEA, a country of Africa, of which little is known, except the coaſt, thence called the Coaſt of Guinea. It is divided into the Lower and the Upper. The Lower part is commonly called Congo. The Upper comprehends the diſtricts of Sierra Leone; the Grain Coaſt, or Malaguetta; the Tooth Coaſt; the Gold Coaſt; the Slave Coaſt; and Benin. It is unhealthy for Europeans, though the natives live to a conſiderable age. The latter in general go almoſt naked, and are ſaid to be an innocent, inoffenſive, and hoſpitable people, except ſuch as have been corrupted by the Europeans. Theſe have factories on the coaſt, and promote feuds, frauds, and civil wars among the natives, by every means of ſeduction, kidnapping, and coercion, that they may get the priſoners to carry off as ſlaves. Two or three European ſettlements are at length formed in Guinea, under the governments of Great Britain and Denmark, for the purpoſe of carrying on an honeſt and advantageous trade with the natives, and for promoting their civilization. The productions of this country are the variety of rich tropical fruits, gums, hard woods, grain, gold, ivory, wax, &c.

GUINEA, NEW, a long, narrow, iſland of the S. Paciſic Ocean, N. of New Holland, from which it is ſeparated by Endeavour Strait. This ſtrait is about 10 leagues long and 5 broad, except at the NE. entrance, where it is contracted by a groupe of iſlands, called the Prince of Wales's Iſlands. New Guinea extends from near the equator to 12 deg. S. lat. and from 131 to 153 deg. E. lon. The land is in general low, and covered with an aſtoniſhing luxuriance of wood and herbage. Moſt of the trees, ſhrubs, and plants, that are common in the S. Sea Iſlands, are found here in the greateſt perfection. The inhabitants reſemble the New Hollanders.

GUIPUSCOA, a mountainous and woody country in the NE. part of Biſcay, extending about 25 miles from N. to S. and from 15 to 20 from E. to W. A multitude of forges have been eſtabliſhed in this country, to manufacture the excellent iron found in the mountains. The principal towns are Tolola, St. Sebaſtian, and Fontarabia.

GUISCARD, a town in the dept. of the Oiſe, 5 miles N. of Noyon.

GUISDEN. See FOXFORD.

GUISE, a ſmall town in the dept. of Aiſne, ſeated on the river Oiſe, 15 miles NE. of St. Quintin, and 95 NE. of Paris.

Guiting, Guiting Power, or Lower Guiting, and Guiting Temple, or Upper Guiting, Glouceſterſ. 6 or 7 miles NW. of Stow.

Gulrock, Cornw. in the ſea, at the Land's End.

Gulval, Cornw. at the bottom of Mount's Bay.

Gule, Lough, a lake in Antrim, Ulſter.

Gumbledon, Wilts, NE. of the Winterborns.

Gumley, Leiceſ. NW. of Harborough.

Gumſhill, Surry, between Abinger and St. Martha's Chapel.

Gumſlod, Glouc. in Woolaſton pariſh.

Gumby, Linc. near N. and S. Witham.

Gunby, Linc. NE. of Spilſby.

GUNDELFINGEN, a lordſhip and caſtle of Suabia; and a town of Newburg, in Bavaria.

Gunfield, Dorſetſ. between Blandford and Cranbourn Chace.

Gunfleet, Eſſex, S. of Harwich.

Gunhaſkin, Cornw. SW. of Columb Magna.

Gunnarrow, Heref. NE. of Monmouth.

Gunnarton, Northumb. NW. of Swinborn Caſtle.

Gunnerſbury, Midd. between Acton and Old Brentford, a villa, which has all the grace and boldneſs of it's architect, the great Inigo Jones.

Gunny, Linc. near Trent, oppoſite to Axholm Iſle.

Gunſton, Staff. S. of Brewood.

Gunthorp, Norfolk, near Walſingham.

Gunthorp, Northamp. near Peterborough.

Gunthorp, Rutland, near Okeham.

Gunthorp, Linc. on the Trent, in the Iſle of Axholm.

Gunthorp, Nott. near the Trent, in Ludham pariſh.

Gunthwaite Hall, Yorkſ. near Barneſley.

Gunton, Norf. near Norwich.

Gunton, Suff. N. of Loweſtoff.

GUNTOOR, one of the northern circars, in the peninſula of Hindooſtan. It is alſo called Mortinazagar and Condavir, and occupies the ſpace between Condapilla, the ſouthernmoſt of the Engliſh circars, (from which it is divided by the river Kiſtnah) and the N. part of the Carnatic; extending about 40 miles along the coaſt of the Bay of Bengal. The ſea-coaſt is flat, but the interior part contains ſeveral fortreſſes and great towns. It was formerly ſubject to the nizam of the Deccan, but has been ceded lately to the Engliſh.

GUNTSBERG, a town in Burgau, Suabia.

GUNTZENHAUSEN, a town of Anſpach, in Franconia, ſeated on the river Altmul, 10 miles SSE. of Anſpach.

Gunwallo, Cornwall, N. of the Lizard Point.

Gunwarby, N and S. Linc. near Grantham.

Guppy, Dorſetſ. in the pariſh of Wotton Fitzpain.

GURCK, a town and river of Carinthia.

Gurlyn, Cornwall, SE. of Market Jew.

Gurrow, Cornw. between Tregony and the ſea-coaſt.

Guſſage, St. Michael, Guſſage Middle, Guſſage Dinant, or Guſſage Bokun, Guſſage All Saints, Higher and Upper, Guſſage, Dorſetſ. near Cranborn.

Guſton, Kent, near the S. Foreland.

GUSTROW, a town of Mecklenburg.

Gutheridge, Heref. near Dean Foreſt.

Guyden, Warw. near Chadſhunt.

Guydore River, in Donegal, Ulſter.

GUZERAT, a country of Hindooſtan, about 170 miles long, and 120 broad, moſtly in a peninſula formed by the Gulfs of Cambay and Cutch, and the Indian Ocean. The weſtern parts are mountainous and woody, inhabited by a hardy race, and governed by rajahs of their own. But the largeſt and fineſt part of it is divided between two of the Poonah Mahratta chiefs, the Paiſhwa and Fuſty Sing Gwicuar. Great part of this country was conquered by the Engliſh, under General Goddard, but reſtored to the Mahrattas, ſoon after the war with Hyder Ally. Amedabad is the capital.

GWALLIOR, a ſtrong fortreſs of Hindooſtan, in the circar of Gohud. It ſtands on a vaſt rock, about 4 miles in length, but narrow, and nearly flat at the top; the ſides of which are ſo ſteep, as to appear nearly perpendicular; for, where it was not naturally ſo, it has been cut away. The height, from the plain below, is from 200 to 300 feet, and the only entrance is by ſteps running up the ſide of the rock. The rampart conforms to the edge of the precipice all round. This fortreſs was taken in Auguſt, 1780, by Major Popham, by an unexpected nocturnal eſcalade. The town, which is large and well built, with a number of magnificent edifices, is ſituated at the foot of the mountain. Gwalior is 65 miles S. of Agra.

Gwallen Downs, Cornw. heathy mountains near Trewardeth Bay.

Gwana, a river in Pemb.

Gwarnas Clepa, Monm. NW. of Tredegar.

Gwarneck, Cornw. NW. of Truro.

Gweger, a river in Angleſey, which runs into the ſea on the N. coaſt, a little below Llanbaderich.

Gwelly, a river in Carnarvonſ. which runs into the Iriſh Channel, about 4 mile S. from the town of Carnarvon.

Gwendrathvag and Gwendrathvaus, rivers in Carmarthenſ. which run into the Briſtol Channel, near Kidwelly.

Gwenrow, a river in Denbighſ. which runs into the Dee below Wrexham.

Gwernay,

Gwernefeny, Monm. NE. of Abergavenny. Gwernesseny, Monmouthſ. NE. of Uſk. Gwerngoben, Monm. NE. of Abergavenny. Gwilly, a river in Carmarthenſ. which runs into the Towy at Abergwilly, where there is a good ſtone bridge, about 2 miles above Carmarthen. Gwornall, Upper and Lower, Staff. in Sedgley pariſh. Grindſtones, for thick-edged tools, are dug here, ſome of which have proved as good as the Derbyſhire ſtones. Gwilbrin, Denbighſ. Gwymer, Cornw. NW. of Clowans. Gwyn, a river in Pembrokeſ. Gwynap, Cornw. NW. of Penryn. Gwyndrath Bay, Cornw. E. of Falmouth Haven. Gwynne Rock, Cornw. in Tredwardreth Bay. Gwynt, or Gynt, a river in Angleſey, which runs into the Kevenny, oppoſite Llangiſtolis. Gwythel, a river in Radnorſ which runs into the Arro, near Kyneton. Gwythion, Cornw. near St. Ives Bay.

GYFHORN, a town of Lunenburgh Zell,

Gyborn, Cambridgeſ. in Ely Iſle, SW. of Wiſbeach. Gyles, St. Eſſex, S. of Epping Street. Gyrrow, a river in Denbighſ. which runs into the Alwen a little below Bettus. Gyſſing, Norf. near Diſs.

HAAG, or HAG, a town and county of Bavaria; and 3 towns in the archduchy of Auſtria.

HABAR. See ABHER.

HABAT, the NW. province of Morocco, on the Straits of Gibraltar.

Habbe Leach, Worceſ. near Biſhampton. Habergham, Lanc. NE. of Shuttleworth. Haberley, Shropſ. E. of Aſton's Pigot. Habelsthorp, Nott. near N. Leverton. Habton, Great and Little, Yorkſ. N. of New Malton. Haccomb, or Huckham, Devonſ. near Chudleigh, Hach, Devonſ. between Kingſbridge and Modbury. Hach, Wilts, near the Nadder, not far from Wardour Caſtle.

HACHA, a ſea-port and river of St. Martha, in Terra Firma. Here the Spaniſh galleons touch on their arrival in S. America, and hence expreſſes are ſent to the different ſettlements, to give them notice of it. It is 210 miles ENE. of Carthagena. Lat. 11. 30. N. lon. 72. 9. W.

Hach Beauchamp, Somerſetſ. adjoining to Curry Mallet. Hacheston, Suff. near Wickham. Hachford, Norfolk, between Repeham and Falſham. Hachford, Norf. near Windham. Hackliff, Linc. E. of Caiſtor. Hackenby, Linc. between Bourn and Fokingham.

Hacket's Town, in Carlow, Leinſter, 41 miles from Dublin. Hacket's Town, in Waterford, Munſter.

Hackforth, Yorkſ. N. Riding, between Bedall and Hornby Caſtle. Hackington, Kent, 1 mile from Canterbury.

HACKINSAC, a town of New Jerſey, ſituated on a river of the ſame name, which runs into the Atlantic, about 6 miles N. from Staten Iſland. It is 6 miles NNE. of Newark.

Hackinston, Lanc. near Garſtang. Hackleton, Northamptonſ. near Sacy Foreſt. Hacklins, Kent, near Deal. Hacknes, Yorkſ. near Whitby. Hackney, a populous village of Midd. containing about 800 houſes; it is nearly joined to London towards the NNE. The pariſh contains the hamlets of Upper and Lower Clapton, Darleſton, Shacklewell, Homerton, and 7 others. This village is ſaid to have been the firſt near London that was accommodated with carriages for occaſional paſſengers; and hence the origin of the term Hackney, as applied to hired coaches, horſes, &c. Hackpendown, Devonſ. near Stanton. Hackſtall, Surry, in Blechingly pariſh. Hackthorn, N. of Lincoln. Hackthorp, Weſtm. near Lowther. Hackwell, Eſſex, near Rochford. Hacton, Cornw. N. of Saltaſh. Hacton, Eſſex, SE. of Rumford.

HADAMAR, a town, the capital of Naſſau Hadamar, Upper Rhine.

Hadbury, Worc. near Charlton. Hadden Bridge, Northumb. NW. of Hexham, Haddenford, Staff. near Beaudeſert. Hadden Hall, Derbyſ. in the High Peak, near Bakewell. Haddenham, Camb. near Ely.

*HADDINGTON, an ancient and populous town of Scotland, in the county of the ſame name, with a manufacture of coarſe woollen, eſtabliſhed here for ſeveral centuries paſt. It conſiſts of 4 ſtreets, which interſect each other nearly at right angles. The number of inhabitants is rather more than 2000. John Knox, the celebrated reformer, was a native of this town. It is ſeated on the river Tyne, 18 miles E. of Edinburgh.

HADDINGTONSHIRE, or EAST LOTHIAN, a county of Scotland, bounded on the W. by Edinburghſhire, on the N. by the Frith of Forth, on the E. by the German Ocean, and on the S. by the county of Berwick. It is about 25 miles long from E. to W. and 15 miles where broadeſt. The land is in many places doubly productive, affording immenſe quantities of coal, while rich crops of corn are raiſed on it's ſurface. The ſouthern part of the county, comprehending the N. ſide of Lammermuir Hills, is mountainous. Theſe high grounds, however, feed vaſt numbers of ſheep. On the ſea-coaſt are ſeveral harbours and fiſhing-towns; ſalt is made in many places, and the country in general is populous and rich.

Haddon, Huntingdonſhire, N. of Stilton, Haddon Beacon, Somerſetſ. NE. of Dulverton. Haddon, E. and W. Northamp.

HADERSLEBEN, a ſea-port in the duchy of Sleſwick, with a harbour only fit for ſmall veſſels. The inhabitants principally ſubſiſt, by the paſſage from Sleſwick to the Iſland of Funen. It is 24 miles E. of Ripen.

HADHAM, a town of Connecticut, ſituated on the Connecticut River, 80 miles SW. of Boſton.

Hadham, Magna and Parva, Hadham Croſs, and Hadham Mills, Herts, on the river Aſh, near Biſhop's Stortford. Hadhurſt, Suſſex, near Brighthelmſton. Hadleigh, in Eſſex, near Prittlewell. It is noted for the conſiderable remains of it's ancient caſtle, which appears to have been a grand ſtructure of ſtone, ſeated on the brow of a ſteep hill, from whence there is an extenſive proſpect. It's walls, 9 feet thick, are now covered with buſhes. Hadleſleigh, Yorkſ. near Sherborn. Hadley, Norfolk, near Langley Abbey. Hadley, Shropſ. NE. of Wellington. Hadley, Midd. near Barnet.

HADLEY, a town of Suffolk, pretty large, populous, and tolerably well built, but, being ſituated in a bottom, it is generally dirty. Large quantities of yarn are ſtill ſpun here for the Norwich manufacture, and formerly it had a conſiderable woollen manufacture. It is ſeated on the river Preſton, 20 miles SE. of Bury, and 64 NE. of London. Conſiderable Markets on Monday and Saturday for corn, proviſions, &c.

Hadlow, Kent, between Ewherſt and Merworth, near the Medway. Hadnall, Shropſhire, between Shrewſbury and Wem. Hadnam, Bucks, NE. of Tame.

HADRANUT, a town and province of Arabia Felix, containing ſeveral large towns and ſea-ports. It's principal productions are frankincenſe, gum arabic, dragons' blood, myrrh, and aloes; which laſt, however, is chiefly produced in the Iſland of Socatra. It has Oman to the NE. the ſea to the SE. and Yemen to the W. Hadramaut is about 3000 miles ENE. of Mocha.

Hadſco, Norf. on the Waveney, between Beccles and Yarmouth. Hadſor, Worceſterſ. near Droitwich. Hadſtock, Eſſex, between Walden and Linton. Hagborn, E. and W. Berks, 4 miles SW. of Wallingford.

HAGARSTOWN, a flouriſhing inland town of Maryland.

Haggerſton, Northumb. E. of Norham-Caſtle. Haghamon, near Shrewſbury.

HAGIAZ, a town of Hedjas, in Arabia.

Hagington, Devonſ. in Ilſordcomb pariſh. Hagington, Eaſt, Devonſ. in the pariſh of Berry Nerbert. Hagley, Worc. between Clent and Stourbridge: it's elegant haſl and park form one of the moſt delightful ſeats in the kingdom. Haglee, Glouc. near Aure. Hagnaby, Linc. near Bullingbrook.

HAGUE, THE, a town of the United Provinces in Holland, which may compare with the handſomeſt cities in Europe, with regard to extent, the number and beauty of it's palaces, it's ſtreets, it's agreeable walks, and it's great trade. It was the late reſidence of the ſtadtholder, the ſtates general, and the ſtates of the province: was governed by it's own magiſtates, viz. a baily, whoſe office was for life; 3 burgomaſters, changed every year; 7 echevins; 12 common council; a penſioner; a ſecretary; and a treaſurer. In 1768, it was ſuppoſed to contain 40,000 ſouls. It is ſeated about 2 miles from the ſea, to N. of Rotterdam, and 30 SW. of Amſterdam. Lat. 52. 7. N. lon. 4. 26. E.

HAGUENAU, a town in the dept. of Lower Rhine; ſeated on the river Morter, in the middle of a foreſt, which bears it's name, 12 miles N. of Straſburg.

HAG's TOOTH, a mountain near Killenane, N. of Cahir, in Kerry, Munſter, on the N. ſide of which are ſome romantic lakes. The mountains hereabouts, are frequented by herds of fallow deer, which range undiſturbed in theſe wild and ſolitary receſſes.

Hagworthingham, Lincolnſ. near Horn Caſtle. Haigh, Lanc. near Wigan. From the top of a mount in the park here, are pretty diſtinctly ſeen 13 counties and the Iſle of Man. In this lordſhip are the fineſt works of canal works in England, which appear to be inexhauſtible, and have vitriol ſprings in them.

HAILBRON, an imperial town of Wirtemberg, Suabia, ſeated on the river Neckar, in a country celebrated for it's vineyards,

yards, 22 miles N. of Stutgard. There are public baths in the neighbourhood. The inhabitants are chiefly Proteſtants.

Hailwyſton, Hunting. near St. Neot's. Here is a mineral ſpring, which is extremely uſeful in curing many diſorders incident to the eyes, and likewiſe for eruptions on the ſkin.

HAIMBURG, a town of Auſtria, and a town of the Upper Palatinate.

HAIN, a town of Gotha, in Upper Saxony.

HAINAN, a conſiderable iſland in the Chineſe Sea, about 150 miles in length, and 75 in breadth. It is about 10 miles S. of the province of Canton. The northern part is level; but the country in the S. and E. is mountainous. It yields the ſame fruits as China, beſides ſugar, tobacco, rice, and indigo. The inhabitants of the mountains are moſtly wild, and independent of the Chineſe. They are very deformed, of ſhort ſtature, and copper coloured; the women paint their faces, from the eyes to the chin, with blue ſtripes made of indigo, and both ſexes are clothed from the waiſt downwards only. The inhabitants in the plain country have ſubmitted to the Chineſe, who obtain from this iſland gold and lapis lazuli, which laſt is uſed to paint porcelain with, together with various kinds of curious and valuable wood, highly eſteemed by the Orientals.

Hainault, a foreſt of Eſſex, SE. of Epping Foreſt.

HAINAULT, COUNTY OF, divided into Auſtrian and French, a late province of the Netherlands, bounded on the N. by Flanders and Brabant; on the E. by Brabant, Namur, and Liege; on the S. by France; and on the W. by Artois and French Flanders. It extends about 55 miles from E. to W. and 48 from N. to S. Mons is the capital. In the French part are included the towns of Landrecy, Queſnoy, Aveſnes, Marienburg, Philipville, Valenciennes, Bouchain, Condé, Cambray, and Maubeuge, with their reſpective diſtricts; as alſo ſeveral villages.

Hairabolm, or Hairum, Durham, in Brandſpeth pariſh. Hackeridge, Dorſetſ. in Whichurch pariſh. Halam, Nott. a hamlet of Southwell.

HALBERSTADT, a town, capital of a fertile principality of Lower Saxony, about 38 miles in length, and 28 in breadth. It is ſubject to the king of Pruſſia.

Halberton, Devonſ. near Tiverton. Halchefter, Suff. Halcomb, Glouc. in Painſwick pariſh. Halden High, Kent, NE. of Tenterden.

HALDENSTEIN, a free and independent barony of the Griſons, near Coire. It conſiſts of a ſmall ſemicircular plain, which lies between the Rhine and the foot of Mount Calendar, about 5 miles in length, and ſcarcely 1 in breadth; and occupies alſo part of the mountain. It contains only 2 villages, Haldenſtein and Sewils. The whole number of inhabitants does not exceed 4000.

Haldingham, Linc. NE. of Sleaford. Haldon Hill, Devonſ. near the Ken and Exminſter. Hale, or Halle, a river of Cornw. which runs into the Iriſh Channel near St. Ives. Hale, Middl. between Hackney Ferry and Tottenham High Croſs. Hale, Cumberl. near Egremont. Hale, Cornw. N of Saltaſh. Hale, Lanc. on the Merſey, SE. of Liverpool. Hale, Hants, near Fordingbridge. Hale, Norf. near Cranwich. Haledon, Northumb. near Kirkheaton. Haledon Hill, Northumb. W. of Berwick. Hale End, Eſſex, near Woodford. Hale End, Surry, NW. of Woking. Hale Houſe, Surry, near Okewood. Hale Houſe, Upper and Lower, Middl. in Hendon pariſh.

HALEN, a town in the late Auſtrian Brabant, ſituated on the river Geet, 4 miles SE. of Dieſt, and 24 W. of Maeſtricht.

Hales, Glouc. near Winchcomb and Teddington. Hales, Norf. NE. of Loddon. Hales, Staff. near Brewood. Hales Cote, N. of Shrewſbury. Hales Hall, Staff. near Cheadle.

HALES OWEN, a town of Shropſhire, noted for a manufacture of nails. A great part of the walls of it's ancient abbey are yet ſtanding, but partly overgrown with buſhes and weeds. It's pariſh is inſulated in Worceſterſhire and Staffordſhire. It is ſeated on or near the river Stour, 6 miles E. of Stourbridge. A ſmall Market on Monday.

HALESWORTH, an ancient and populous town of Suffolk, noted for the plenty of linen yarn which is bought up here, and ſpun by the women of the county; as alſo for a manufactory of ſail-cloth. A great deal of hemp is raiſed about the town. It is ſituated on a neck of land, between two branches of the river Blythe, which is navigable from hence to Southwold for barges, that paſs three or four times a week with corn, &c. for the London markets; 19 miles W. of Southwold, and 102 NE. of London. Market on Tueſday.

Halewell, Northumb. NW. of Tinmouth. Halewood, Lanc. on the Merſey, S. of Preſcot. Halfcoat, Staff. near Stourbridge. Halfdrunken Downs, Cornwall, NE. of Camelford. Halfhide, Herts, N. of of Ware. Halfbide, Staff. in Chebsey parish. Halford, or Hawford, Warw. near Edgehill. Halgaver Moor, Cornw. near Bodmin, noted for the sports and pastimes of it's yearly carnival, about the middle of July, which is resorted to by thousands of the country people. The Jovial Society here, is said to be as old as the time of the Saxons.

Halfway House, in Sligo, Connaught.

HALIBUT ISLAND, in the N. Pacific Ocean, so named by Capt. Cook in 1778, on account of the number of fish of that name they caught here; some of which weighed upward of a hundred pounds, and none less than twenty. It is about 7 leagues in circumference, and very low and barren. Lat. 54. 27. N. lon. 163. 0. W.

HALICZ, a town and district of Lemburg, in Poland, now included in Galicia.

HALIFAX, the principal town and seat of government of Nova Scotia, a peninsula of Acadia. It is seated on the W. side of Chebucto Bay, in a healthful country, which is greatly improved of late years, and has the appearance of fertility and cultivation, but is subject to fogs. It has a large, safe, and commodious harbour, affording shelter to the largest fleets, and an excellent naval yard for repairing ships of war. The town is defended by an intrenchment and forts of timber. It was founded in the year 1747, and is advantageously situated for the fishery. Lat. 44. 45. N. lon. 63. 30. W.

*HALIFAX, a large, populous, and flourishing town of Yorkshire, seated on a branch of the river Calder, rendered navigable to the Air and Ouse. The principal manufactures are shalloons, tammies, duroys, kerseys, baizes, &c. The Piece Hall, or Market House, is a very elegant new structure of stone, in the form of an oblong square, occupying 10,000 square yards, and containing 315 distinct rooms for the lodgment of goods. The parish is about 16 miles long, and from 6 to 8 broad, the vicar of which is justice of peace, as vicar. The adjoining hills display on their brows, and often to their summits, marks of agriculture and manufactures. It is 40 miles SW. of York, and 197 NNW. of London. Market on Thursday.

HALIFAX, a town of Massachusets; a town of Virginia; and a town of N. Carolina, situated on the S. of the river Roanoke.

Haling, Surry, near Croydon. Halkwill, Kent, SE. of Tunbridge. Hall, Devons. S. of Barnstable. Hall, Isle of Wight, in E. Medina. Hall, Cornwall, on Fowey Harbour, opposite to the town. Hall, Devonshire, near Bishop's Tawton. Hall Barn, Bucks, near Beaconsfield. Hallams, NE. of Derby. Halland, Sussex, NE. of Lewes.

HALLAND, a mountainous province of Sweden, inclosed between Westro Gothland, Scania, Smaland, and the N. Sea; it extends about 60 miles along the SW. coast, but is not above 16 in breadth. The chief employment of the inhabitants is grazing and fishing. Halmstadt is the capital.

HALLATON, a town of Leicestershire, noted for it's poverty in the midst of a rich soil. It is 12 miles SE. of Leicester. Market on Thursday.

Hallaton, Warw. near Lower Whitacre. Halldown House, Devons. 6 miles from Exeter.

HALLE, a town in the late Austrian Hainault.

HALLE, a large town of Magdeburg, in Lower Saxony, with a famous university and salt-works.

HALLE, an imperial town of Suabia, seated on the river Kocher, among rocks and mountains; a town of Ravensburg, Westphalia; and a town in the Tyrolese.

HALLEIN, a town of Saltzburg, in Bavaria, seated on the river Saltza, among the mountains, wherein are salt springs.

Hallen, Gloucesters. in Henbury parish. Hall End, Warwicks. between Whatley and Polesworth.

HALLER, a town in the late Austrian Brabant.

Hallerton, Devonshire, near Tiverton. Hall Hassey, near Shrewsbury. Hallifield, Essex, between Waltham Abbey and Nasing. Hallington, Leices. SW. of Louth. Halling, Kent, near the Medway, opposite Wolnham. Hallington, Staff. near Rowley. Hallistone, Northumb. near Harbottle. Hallow, 2 miles from Worcester. Hallowes, Yorks. W. of Bradford. Hall Place, Surry, in Godalmin parish. Hall Place, Surry, near Thorp and Chertsey.

Hall's Mill, in Down, Ulster.

Hallweston, Huntingdonshire, near St. Neot's. Hallwin, Cornwall, between St. Breock's and Padstow. Halmley, Herefordshire, E. of Stevenage.

HALMSTADT, a sea-port town of Sweden, capital of the province of Halland, with flourishing woollen manufactures, and a rich salmon fishery. It is situated at the mouth of the river Nissa, 96 miles WNW. of Carlscrona. Lat. 56. 39. N. lon. 12. 48. E.

Halmstead, Kent. SE. of Cranbrook.

Halmston,

Halmſton, Devonſhire, near the Taw river and Coddon Hill. Halnaby, Yorkſ. near Richmond. Halneck, Suſſex, near Chicheſter. Halpton, Devonſ. in Uffculumb pariſh. Halſall, Lanc. W. of Ormſkirk. In it's neighbourhood is a bituminous turf, which emits a ſmell like the oil of amber, and from which an oil is prepared, not eaſily diſtinguiſhable from it. The country people uſe pieces of it inſtead of candles. Halſey, Somerſ. near Taunton. Halſey Priors, Somerſetſ. near Biſhop's Lediard. Halſham, Yorkſ. in Holderneſs, E. of Headon.

*HALSTEAD, a town of Eſſex, with a conſiderable manufacture of bays and ſeys. It is pleaſantly ſituated on a riſing ground, near the river Colne, 16 miles N. of Chelmsford, and 47 NE. of London. It's Market on Friday is noted for corn.

Halſtead, Kent, between Cray and Sevenoke. Halſted, Kent, between Farnborough and Otford. Halſted, Leic. E. of Bilton. Halſtock, Dorſetſ. 2 miles NE. of Corſcomb. Halſton, Shropſ. NE. of Oſweſtry. Halſtow, Kent, N. of Sittingbourn. Halſtow, High, Kent, between Cliffe and Stoke. Haltemprife, Yorkſ. near Hull.

HALTEREN, a town of Munſter, in Weſtphalia, ſeated on the river Lippe.

Halton, Shropſ. between Ryton and Babins Wood. Halton, Somerſetſ. near Cheriton and Wincanton. Halton, Linc. near Spilſby. Halton, Somerſetſ. on the W. ſide of Sedgemoor.

HALTON, or HAULTON, a town of Cheſhire, ſituated loftily on a hill, near a navigable canal, which communicates with all the late inland navigations, 2 miles NE. of Frodſham, and 186 from London. Market on Saturday.

Halton, near Lancaſter. It has a ſalmon-fiſhery in the river Loyne, with a promiſing proſpect of lead and coal. Halton, E. and W. Yorkſ. W. Riding, near Settle. Here was anciently a royal manſion, built by the kings of Northumberland, who made this their place of retreat from the fury of the Danes. Halton, Northumb near the Picts' Wall, below Portgate. In it's manor-houſe, called Halton Hall, is preſerved an ancient ſword, 64 inches long. Halton Cheſters, Northumb. between Rutcheſter and Walwick Cheſters. Halton Park, Lanc. S. of Bolton. Halton Shees, Northumb. on the Picts' Wall, N. of Corbridge.

HALTWHISTLE, a conſiderable town of Northumberland, with an infant manufactory of baize. It's inns have good accommodations for travellers, this town being a thoroughfare, in the road from Carliſle and Hexham to Newcaſtle. It ſtands in a lofty ſituation, 37 miles W. of Newcaſtle, and 315 NNW. of London. Market on Thurſday.

HALVAN, or CHAULAN, a town of Fez.

Halwell, Devonſ. between Modbury and Dartmouth. Halworth, Yorkſ. N. of Halifax.

HAM, a town with a ſtrong caſtle, in the dept. of Somme, ſeated on the river Somme, 10 miles N. of Noyon, and 48 NNE. of Paris.

Ham, a village in Surry, between Peterſham and Kingſton, the houſes of which ſurround a pleaſant common. Near it is Ham Houſe, an elegant ſtructure, near Richmond Park, and Ham Walks, celebrated by Thomſon and others. It is a hamlet to Kingſton, and is 11 miles WSW. of London. Ham, Weſt, Eſſex, between Stratford and Little Ilford, 4 miles E. by N. of London. It is ſeated on the river Lea. Ham, Eaſt, Eſſex, adjoining to W. Ham. Ham, Cornw. N. of Stratton. Ham, Dorſetſ. near Gillingham. Ham, Dorſetſ. near Pool. It has ſome trade, and a ſtreet of good houſes. Ham, Glouc. near Cheltenham. Ham, Heref. near Roſs. Ham, Kent, SW. of Sandwich. Ham, Kent, NE. of Appledore. Ham, Surry, SE. of Ryegate. Ham, Worc. near Clifton. Hum, Wilts, S. of Hungerford. Ham Court, Surry, near Weybridge. Ham Court, Worceſ. near Upton upon Severn. Ham Hall, Warw. near Coleſhill.

HAMAH, a large town of Syria, ſeated on the river Aſſi, formerly called Orontes. It is the reſidence of the ſcheik, with the title of Emir. A manufacture of linen is carried on here. It is 68 miles SSW. of Aleppo.

HAMAMET, a town and bay of Tunis.

HAMAR, a town in Aggerhuys, Norway.

Hamberne Hall, Northumb. S. of Hexham. Hamberwith, Staff. SW. of Lichfield. Hamble, a river of Hants, which runs into the Engliſh Channel at Hamble Haven, in Southampton water.

HAMBLEDON, a town of Hants, 10 miles SW. of Petersfield, and 63 WSW. of London. Market on Tueſday.

Hambledon, Bucks, near Henley upon Thames. Hambledon Hill, Dorſetſ. at one end of Cranbourn Chaſe, whence there is an extenſive view of the Vale of Blackmore. Hambleton, Yorkſ. W. Riding, SW. of Selby. Hambleton, Lanc. SW. of Garſtang. Hambrook, Glouc. in the pariſh of Winterbourn.

HAMBURG,

HAMBURG, an imperial city of Lower Saxony, with a territory belonging to it, in which are several large villages and fine ſeats. The ſtreets are many of them ſpacious; and the houſes, which are high and built of brick, make a grand appearance. It is very populous, and is ſeated partly on iſlands in the river Elbe, and partly on the continent. On the ſide of Holſtein is the Alſter, which, before it enters the town by ſluices, forms a fine baſin, that is not equalled in Germany. The principal ſtreets of the Old Town have long and broad canals, formed by the Elbe, which are regularly filled by the tides. The walks round the ramparts are lofty, and planted with trees. The inhabitants carry on a great trade with the different European nations; they have alſo ſeveral veſſels in the Greenland whale fiſhery, and there are not leſs than 200 ſhips at a time belonging to foreign merchants at anchor before the city. The magiſtracy is compoſed of 4 burgher-maſters, 4 ſyndics, 24 aldermen, and 4 ſecretaries. Lutheraniſm is the eſtabliſhed religion. The principal manufactures are thoſe of ſugar refinery, gold, thread, velvet, and ribbons. It is 55 miles NE. of Bremen. Lat. 53. 34. N. lon. 9. 55. E.

HAMBURG, a town of Pennſylvania, ſituated at the foot of the Blue Mountains, 50 miles NW. of Philadelphia.

HAMDEN, a town of Connecticut.

Hamden, Great and Little, Bucks, near Wendover. Hamden Hill, Somerſetſhire, SE. of S. Petherton. Hame, Hants, near Andover.

HAMELBURGH, a town of Fulda, in the circle of Upper Rhine.

Hamelton, Leic. near Barkby. Hamelton, Surry, between Chiddingford and Godalmin. Hamel, Great, Derbyſ. in the High Peak. Hameringham, Linc. SE. of Horncaſtle.

HAMELN, a fortified town of Calenberg, in Lower Saxony, ſituated at the confluence of the Hamel and Weſer, which laſt here forms an iſland, with a ſluice for the convenience of the ſhipping, 18 miles SE. of Minden.

Hamerton, Hunt. NW. of Buckworth. Hamerton Green, Yorkſ. E. of Knareſborough. Hamefwell, Glouceſ. near Bath. Hamfallow, Glouceſterſhire, near Berkley. Hamfield Hall, Lancaſ. NE. of Cartmel. Hamford, Devonſ. near Aſhwater.

*HAMILTON, a town of Lanerkſhire, containing many handſome houſes. It is ſituated on the Clyde, 10 miles SE. of Glaſgow. Near it is Hamilton Houſe, the magnificent chateau of the duke of Hamilton, ſeated between the Clyde and Avon, and ſurrounded by venerable oaks.

Hamilton's Bawn, in Armagh, Ulſter.

Hamkyton, Hambledon, or Hamelton, Rutland, near Normanton.

HAMM, a large, well-built town, the capital of Mark, in Weſtphalia. It is a place of good trade, with fine and extenſive linen bleacheries. It is ſeated on the river Lippe, 27 miles S. of Munſter.

Hammels, Herts, N. of Puckeridge. Hammer End, Staff. S. of Audley. Hammer Green, Herts, S. of Dacheworth. Hammerſmith, a large village of Middleſex, 4 miles W. of London, is a hamlet belonging to Fulham. There are a number of handſome ſeats about it, eſpecially towards the Thames.

HAMMERSTEIN, a fortreſs of Treves, ſeated upon the Rhine, oppoſite Coblentz.

Hamon, Dorſetſ. near Sturminſter. Hamond Park, near Shrewſbury. Hammond Street, Herts, SW. of Wormleybury.

HAMONT, or HELMONT, a town of Liege.

HAMOSE CREEK, or HAMOAZE, Devonſhire, near Plymouth, a creek or bay of Plymouth Sound, being the weſtern branch, or main ſtream of the river which falls into it. It forms a deep and ſafe harbour for the Britiſh navy, capable of containing near a hundred veſſels, and it is alſo much reſorted to as a road by merchant ſhips bound to the E. when they wait for a wind. The men of war lie for the moſt part in 3 tiers; the middle is appointed to three-decked ſhips, that on the W. ſide to ſhips of leſs force, and that on the E. ſide to frigates.

Hampall, Yorkſ. NW. of Doncaſter. Hampden Common, Glouceſterſ. Hampen, Glouceſ. a hamlet in the parish of Shipton Oliff. Hampney, Glouc. near Northleach. Hampnet, Suſſex, E. of Chicheſter. Hampreſton, Dorſetſ. near Wimborne.

HAMPSHIRE, HANTS, or SOUTHAMPTON, a county of England, bounded on the W. by Dorſetſhire and Wilts, on the N. by Berks, on the E. by Surry and Suſſex, and on the S. by the Engliſh Channel. It extends, excluſively of the Iſle of Wight, 42 miles from N. to S. and 38 from E. to W. It is divided into 39 hundreds, which contain 1 city, 20 market towns, 253 pariſhes, 1068 villages, above 36,000 houſes, and about 200,000 inhabitants. It is one of the moſt fertile counties in England. The air, in the higher parts, is clear and pure; toward the ſea it is mild and inclined to moiſture. It's products are the fineſt corn and hops, very large ſtocks of cattle and ſheep, with excellent ellent wool, bacon, honey, and timber. For the laſt it has been particularly famous, on account of it's great woods, of which the principal are the New Foreſt, and the Foreſt of Eaſt Bere. The principal rivers are the Avon, the Teſt or Teſe, the Itchen, and the Stour.

HAMPSHIRE, New, one of the United States of North America, and one of the four diviſions of New England. It is bounded on the W. and NW. by the ſtate of Vermont, on the N. by Canada, on the NE. by the province of Main, on the E. by the Atlantic Ocean, and on the S. by Maſſachuſets. It extends about 135 miles from N. to S. and from 10 to 70 in breadth, and is diviſed into the counties of Rockingham, Strafford, Hillſborough, Cheſhire, and Grafton. The land near the ſea is generally low, but advancing into the country, it riſes into hills. The air is ſerene and healthful, the weather not ſo ſubject to variation as in ſouthern climes; yet in ſummer the heat is great, but of ſhort duration, and in winter this country is intenſely cold. The capital is Portſmouth.

HAMPSHIRE, a county of Virginia; and a county of Maſſachuſets.

Hampſtead, a village of Middleſex, 4 miles NNW. of London. It is ſeated on the declivity of a hill, on the top of which is a fine heath, reaching about a mile every way, adorned with ſeveral pretty villas, and affording an extenſive proſpect of the metropolis, and the counties all round it, as far as Shooter's-Hill, Banſtead Downs, Windſor Caſtle, &c. Hampſtead is now crowded with good buildings, even to the very top of the hill; but in the reign of Henry VIII. it was chiefly inhabited by the huſbandmen who ſupplied the Londoners. Hampſtead Marſhall, Berks, near Newbury. Hampſtead, a ſmall village, S. of Gloucester. Hampſtede, ſeated on the N. ſide of Tame, oppoſite Pirrie.

HAMPTON, a ſea-port of New Hampſhire, and a town of Virginia.

Hampton Mancuſſe, a pretty large parish in Glouceſterſhire, 3 miles from Tetbury, which has 12 hamlets belonging to it. Market on Tueſday.

HAMPTON, a town of Middleſex, famous for a royal palace, called Hampton Court, the buildings, gardens, and parks of which are 4 miles in circumference, and waſhed on three ſides by the Thames. The apartments in Hampton Court are juſtly admired, there being none more magnificent, nor more exactly diſpoſed, in any palace in the world; and they are adorned, in reſpect of furniture, with all the elegance and good taſte imaginable. It is ſeated on the N. ſide of the river, over which there is a bridge to it from Kingſton, 14 miles SW. of London.

Hampton, Cheſhire, N. of Malpas. Hampton, Glouceſ. in Minſterworth pariſh. Hampton, Kent, E. of Swale Cliff. Hampton, Somerſ. NE. of Bath. Hampton upon Avon, Warw. E. of Stratford. Hampton Biſhops, 2 miles from Hereford. Hampton Court, Herefordſ. 5 miles SE. of Leominſter. Hampton Carlew, Warw. a hamlet of Budbroke. Hampton in Arden, Warw. NE. of Solihull. Hampton, Gay, Oxf. near Woodſtock. Hampton, High, Devonſ. near Hatherley. Hampton Level, Worceſterſh. near Droitwich. Hampton, Magna and Parva, Worceſ. SW. of Eveſham. Hampton Merke, Glouceſterſ. near Fairford. Hampton, Nether, Wilts, NW. of Saliſbury. Hampton Payle, 5 miles from Oxford. Hampton, Short, Oxfordſ. NW. of Chaſbury. Hampton Turville, Wilts, NW. of Cricklade. Hampton Welch, Shropſ. near Elleſmere. Hampton Wick, at the foot of the bridge of Kingſton upon Thames. Hams, E. and W. Berks, in Wantage pariſh. Hamſey, Suſſex, near Lewes. Hamſill Bridge, Suſſex, between Stoneland Park and Waterdown Foreſt. Hamſted, Eaſt, Berks, near Okingham. Hamſted Marſhall, Berks, 3 miles W. from Newbury, near the Kennet. It formerly belonged to the earls marſhal of England. Hamſted Norris, Berks, near Compton. Hamſteds, Iſle of Wight, in W. Medina. Hamſtell, Staff. N. of Lichfield. Hamſterſeigh, Durham, between Bedborn Park and Whitton Caſtle. Hamſtow, Wilts. Ham Street, Kent. Hamworthy, Dorſetſ. W. of Pool. Hamworthy, 5 miles NE. of Lincoln.

HANAU, a town, the capital of Hanau Munzenburg, in the circle of Upper Rhine. The country is about 45 miles in length, and 15 in breadth; it's ſoil is one of the moſt fertile in Germany. The town has ſome manufactures, and a great trade in timber, iron, meal, and corn brought down the Maine. It is diviſed into the Old and the New Town, and is ſeated on the Kinzig, where it falls into the Maine, 8 miles E. of Frankfort.

Hanborough, Oxfordſ. near Woodſtock. It is noted for the ſelenites, or moonſtone, which has been dug in great plenty out of it's wells. Hanborough, Long, Oxf. near Rollrich Stones. Hanbridge, Lanc. between Burnley and Townley. Hanbury Hill, Worc. between Fakenham and Droitwich.

HANCOCKS,

HANSOCKS, a town of Maryland.

Handale Abbey, Yorkſ. E. of Giſborough. Hanbridge, near Cheſter. Handbury, Staffordſh. E. of Paget's Bromley. Hanby Hall, Linc. 2 miles from Folkingham. Handcburch, Staff. W. of Trentham. Handcroſs, Suſſex, E. of Leonard's Foreſt. Handfaſt Point, Dorſetſ. by Stutland Bay, is a high promontory. Handley, Cheſh. SW. of Beeſton Caſtle. Handley, Lanc. near Blackburn. Handley Green, Staff. near Trent, E. of Newcaſtle under Line. Handſaker, Staff. W. of King's Bromley. Handſworth, Staffordſ. W. of Tame. Haneker, Suſſex, NE. of Chicheſter. Handford, Cheſh. NW. of Macclesfield. Handford, Dorſetſ. NW. of Blandford, 2 miles from Durweſton. Handford, and Handford Lower, Middl. W. of Sunbury. Handford, Staff. near the conflux of the Trent and Tyne. Hanger Hill, Middleſex, N. of the road from Acton to Baling. Hanging Houghton, Northamp. W. of Walgrave. Hanningſton, Worceſ. N. of Morton in Marſh. Hangingſton, Northumberl. near the Cheviot Hills. Hanging Wood, Kent, near Woolwich.

HANGTCHEOU, a city of China, of the firſt rank, capital of the province of Tchekiang. It is one of the largeſt and richeſt of the empire, and is ſaid to contain a million of inhabitants. The country round produces great quantities of excellent ſilk, in the manufacture of which 60,000 perſons are employed within the walls, without reckoning the vaſt numbers employed in the towns and villages round about. It is 600 miles SSE. of Pekin.

Hankdon, Suffolk, between Clare and Bury. Hankerton, Wilts, NE. of Malmſbury. Honkilow, Cheſh. SE. of Wrenbury. Hankridge, Wilts, near N. Bradley. Hanley, Derbyſ. S. of Cheſterfield.

Hanley, Northamp. in Towceſter pariſh. Hanley, Upper and Lower, Worceſ. E. of Tenbury. Hanley Caſtle, Worceſ. an extenſive pariſh on the Severn, near Upton, and oppoſite to Malvern Hills Hanley, Sixpenny, Dorſetſ. 2 miles from Pentridge. Harmer, Flintſhire, near St. Aſaph.

HANMORE ISLAND, an iſland of above 100 acres of fertile, well-cultivated land, in Lough Derg, an expanſion of the river Shannon, in Ireland, between the counties of Galway and Tipperary.

Hannam, E. and W. Glouceſ. in Bitton pariſh, near the Avon. Hannaway, Eſſex, near Colcheſter. Hanney, Lincolnſ. NE. of Alford. Hanney, Eaſt, Berks, between the Vale of White Horſe and Abingdon, Hanningfield, E. W. and S. Eſſex, NE. of Billericay. Hannington, Hants, W. of Baſingſtoke. Hannington, Wilts, W. of Highworth.

HANOVER, THE ELECTORATE OF, comprehends the duchies of Zell, Saxe Lawenburg, Bremen, and Lunenburg, the principalities of Calenburg, Verden, Grubenhagen, Hoye, Oberwald, Diepholtz, Bentheim, &c. The country is well ſituated for foreign trade, lying moſtly between the rivers Weſer and Elbe. It's produce is timber, cattle, hogs, mum, beer, minerals, quickſilver, vitriol, and brimſtone.

HANOVER, a well-built, populous city, of Calenburg, in Lower Saxony, the ſeat of the privy council and regency of the electorate, it contains the elector's palace (which having been deſtroyed by fire, was rebuilt, in 1741, with great magnificence) the ſtate-houſe, a very grand ſtructure, 3 pariſh churches, 3 hoſpitals, a poor-houſe, and about 1200 houſes, ſome of which are very large and handſome buildings. Here are ſome valuable manufactures of lace, ſtuffs, ſtockings, ribbons, &c. and a conſiderable trade in the tanneries, and brewing a ſpecies of white beer. It is ſituated on the river Leina, (which divides it into two parts) 58 miles SE. of Bremen, and 140 W. of Berlin. Lat. 53. 25. N. lon. 10. 5. E.

HANOVER, a large iſland of the S. Pacific, oppoſite the NW. extremity of New-Ireland, a little S. of the line. It is high and covered with trees, among which are many plantations, preſenting a beautiful appearance. It is about 30 miles in length, and was diſcovered by Captain Carteret, in 1767. Lat. of the SW. part. 2. 49. S. and lon. 148. 27. E.

HANOVER, a town of Pennſylvania; a county in the NW. part of the iſland of Jamaica; a town of Virginia, ſituated on the York River; and HANOVER, NORTH and SOUTH, two towns of New Jerſey.

HANS TOWNS, or HANSEATIC UNION, a name given to a confederacy of ſeveral ſea-ports of Europe, which formed, at the time, the principal part of the commerce of Europe. This aſſociation extended from the North Seas and the Baltic, along the whole coaſt of Europe to Meſſina in the Mediterranean, and included it in cities of Poland, Norway, Germany, Holland, England, France, Spain, Portugal, and the different ſtates of Italy. The deſign of this aſſociation was, at firſt, their common defence againſt the pirates, who were numerous in the North Seas and the Baltic; for a time they were much encouraged by the different governments of Europe,

Europe, and had conſiderable privileges granted them. In the year 1200, there were ſeventy-two cities in the liſt of Hans Towns; and ſo powerful was this alliance, that their ſhips were often hired by different princes to aſſiſt them againſt their enemies; at length they grew ſo formidable, particularly from the 14th to the 15th century, as to give umbrage to ſeveral princes, who commanded all the different cities within their juriſdiction to withdraw from the union. This immediately ſeparated the cities of England, France, Spain, and Italy, from the Hans. Theſe, on the other hand, excluded ſeveral others, and put themſelves under the protection of the empire, making a decree that none ſhould be admitted into their ſociety, but ſuch cities as ſtood within the limits of the German Empire. For awhile the confederacy was thus continued where it had firſt begun, but was at length reduced to Bremen, Lubeck, Hamburg, and Dantzick, each of which cities now carries on a ſeparate trade for itſelf.

Hans, or Hanſey, a river in Staffordſhire, which runs into the Manifold at Biore Park. Hanſtop, Bucks, 3 miles from Newport. Hanſted, Herts, near Abbot's Langley.

HANTCHEOU, a town of Corea, in the province of Hoanghai, ſituated on the river Tchouang. Lat. 39. 38. N. lon. 161. 17. E.

HANTCHONG, a city of China, of the firſt rank, ſituated in a fertile country, in the ſouthern part of the province of Chenſi, on the river Han, 625 miles SW. of Pekin. The principal articles of commerce, are honey, wax, muſk, and cinnabar.

Hanton, Nottingh. S. of Southwell.

HANUYE, a town in the late Auſtrian Brabant.

Hanwell and Park, Oxf. near Banbury. Hanwell, Middl. 2 miles from Brentford, N. of the road from London to Oxford. Hanwood, Great and Little, Shropſ. SW. of Shrewſbury. Hanworth, SE. of Lincoln. Hanworth, Norfolk, between Barningham and Felmingham, Hanworth, Middl. W. of Twickenham. This was the favourite ſeat of Henry VIII. having a proſpect of the Thames, and a delightful country round about it. Honeymouth, Iſle of Wight, in W. Medina.

HAPAEE, the name of four of the Friendly Iſlands, in the Pacific Ocean. They are of a ſimilar height: and appearance, and connected by a reef of coral rocks, which are dry at low water. The plantations are very numerous and extenſive; and ſome of the fences incloſing them run parallel to each other, and form ſpacious public roads, that have a beautiful effect, and would appear ornamental in countries where rural conveniencies have been carried to the greateſt perfection. Theſe fertile, well cultivated iſlands extend about 19 miles.

HAPSAL, a ſea-port of Revel, 5 miles SW. of that city.

HAPSBURG, a ruinous caſtle, on a lofty eminence, on the right bank of the Aar, about 3 miles above Bruck, in the canton of Bern. What remains of it is now inhabited by the family of a peaſant. It is famous for being the cradle, as it were of the houſe of Auſtria, whoſe anceſtors may be traced back to the beginning of the 13th century, when they were no more than ſimple gentlemen of Swiſſerland, and afterwards were, for many years, counts of Hapſburg; till Rodolph I. by his talents, raiſed himſelf to the empire of Germany, and archduchy of Auſtria. This caſtle commands an unbounded view over hills and dales, plains and foreſts, rivers and lakes, towns and villages, mountains and Alps, &c. Alſo a bailiwick of Lucern; both in Swiſſerland.

Hapſburgh, Norfolk, NE. of Waltham, Hapſford, Cheſh. NW. of Delamere Foreſt, Hapſwell, Yorkſ. S. of Richmond. Hapton and Tower, Lanc. NE. of Blackburn. Haracles, Staffordſ. NW. of Leek. Harberbury, 4 miles from Warwick. Harber Houſe, near Durham. Harberton, Devonſh. SW. of Berry Pomery. Harberween, Weſtm. SE. of Shap. Harbiford, Bucks, near High Wycomb. Harbirdown, Kent, near Canterbury. Harborn, Staffordſ. SW. of Birmingham.

*HARBOROUGH, MARKET, a town of Leiceſterſhire, with ſome manufactures of tamnies and laſtings. It is a great thoroughfare on the road from Northampton to Leiceſter and Derby, and is ſeated on the river Welland, which ſeparates it from Northamptonſhire, 14 miles SSE. of Leiceſter, and 85 NNW. of London. Market on Tueſday.

Harborough, Linc. NW. of Grimſby. Harborough, Warw. N. of Rugby. Harbottle, Manor and Caſtle, Northumb. near Halliſtones, in Riddeſdale. It ſtands on the Coquet.

HARBURG, a town of Lunenburg Zell, in Lower Saxony; and a town of Oetingen Wallerſtein, in Suabia.

Harburn, a river in Devonſhire, which runs into the Dart below Harburton. Harby, Leiceſ. SW. of Belvoir Caſtle. Harbybrow, Cumb. near Ireby.

HARCOURT, a town in the dept. of Calvados,

Calvados, 10 miles S. of Caen; and a town in the dept. of Eure, 15 miles NW. of Evreux.

Harden, Chef. N. of Stockport. Harden, Durham, NW. of Hartlepool. Harden, Kent, N. of Elham. Harden, Yorkſ. NW. of Bradford. Harden Huſh, Wilts, near Chippenham. Hardendale, Weſtm. in the pariſh of Shap.

HARDERWICK, a ſea port of Dutch Guelderland, with a ſmall univerſity. It is ſituated on the Zuyder Zee, 25 miles NE. of Utrecht.

Hardham, Suſſex, NW. of Parham. Hardhorn, Lancaſhire, in Amounderneſs. Harding, Oxf. S. of Henley on Thames. Harding, Staff. N. of Walſal. Harding, Wilts, NE. of Great Bedwin. Harding, or Harpedon, Herts, 3 miles S. of Walthamſted. Hardingdale, Weſtm. NE. of Shap. Hardingham, Norfolk, NW. of Hingham.

HARDINGS, a town of Virginia.

Hardingſtone, near Northampton. Hardington, Somerſetſh. 3 miles from Yeovil. Hardington, Somerſ. NW. of Frome Selwood. Hardknot Hill, Cumberl. a ſteep mountain, SE. of Copeland Foreſt. Hardley, Hants, in the New Foreſt. Hardley Beacon, Suſſex, between Aſhdown and Dallington Foreſts. Hardley Hall, Derbyſh. in the High Peak. Hardmead, Bucks, NE. of Newport. Hardneſs Wood, Berks, near Binfield and Warfield. Hardraw, Yorkſ. N. Riding, by Swaledale, near the cataract of Ayſgarth. Hardreſs, Upper and Lower, Kent. N. of Elham. Hardſworthy, Devonſhire, near Hartland.

HARDWICK, a town in the ſtate of Georgia, 19 miles SW. of Savannah.

Hardwick, Derb. in Scarſdale. Hardwick, 4 miles from Glouceſter. Hardwick, Glouc. in Elmſton pariſh. Hardwick, Norf. near Lynn. Hardwick, Bedf. in Kempſton pariſh. Hardwick, Surry, near Chertſey. Hardwick, Bucks, between Aylesbury and Winſlow. Hardwick, Camb. W. of Granchester. Hardwick, Durham, NW. of Grindon. Hardwick, Durham, NW. of Hartlepool. Hardwick, Heref. near Clifford Caſtle. Hardwick, Hereford. E. of Pembridge. Hardwick, Hunt. NW. of St. Neot's. Hardwick, Monm. SE. of Abergavenny. Hardwick, Norf. N. of Harleſton. Hardwick, Norf. near Hawſted. Hardwick, Northamp. near Wellingborough. Hardwick, Nott. SW. of Mansfield. Hardwick, Oxf. between Fencot and Mixbury. Hardwick, Oxf. NW. of Reading. Hardwick, Oxf. W. of Stanton Harcourt. Hardwick, Rutland, near Empingham. Hardwick, Shropſhire, NE. of Biſhop's Caſtle. Hardwick, Shropſh. SW. of Elleſmere. Hardwick, Staffordſ. in Sandon pariſh. Hardwick, Yorkſhire, a foreſt adjoining to Halifax. Hardwick, Yorkſ. near Pontefract. Hardwick Priors, near Warwick.

HARE, an iſland near the coaſt of Norway, about 20 miles in circumference. Lat. 60. 20. N. lon. 6. 33. E.

Hareby, Nott. near Broadham Priory. Hareby, near Lincoln, noted for the death of Eleanor, wife of King Edward I. Harecaſtle, Staff. the Great Trunk, or Staffordſhire Canal, (deviſed by Mr. Brindley, and which joins the navigation of the Eaſtern and Weſtern Oceans, in ſpite of every obſtruction, through a ſpace of 93 miles) paſſes under ground here for 2880 yards; it is 9 feet wide and 12 high, lined and arched with brick. It was begun July 14, 1766. Harefield, Middl. between Uxbridge and Rickmanſworth. Harefield, Glouceſ. N. of Briſtol. Harelaugh, Northumb. between Yardop and Bickerton. Harelaw, Northumb. NW. of Newcaſtle. Hareridge Hall, Cumberl. NW. of Grayſtock Caſtle.

*HARESBURY, in old records called HEYTSBURY, and now written HATCHBURY, a village, or borough town, of Wilts, with a large woollen manufacture. It was once the reſidence of the Empreſs Maude, and is ſituated on the Willey, 20 miles NW. of Saliſbury, and 93 W. by S. of London. Market diſuſed.

Hareſcomb, Glouceſ. a hamlet in Hareſfield pariſh. Hareſcomb, Glouceſ. near Painſwick. Hareſfield, Glouceſ. 5 miles W. of Stroud. Hareſfield, Little, Glouc. in Standiſh pariſh. Hareſgate, Kent, between Speldhurſt and Tunbridge Wells. Hareſhaw Linn, Northumb. near Wark and Bellingham, is a fine waterfal. Hareſton, Dorſetſ. on a river that runs into Sandwich Bay. Hareſtreet, Eſſex, near Rumford. Hareſtreet, Herts, between Puckeridge and Barkway. Hareſwell, Yorkſ. E. Riding, SW. of Wighton. Harewood, Bedfordſ. near Turvey.

HARFLEUR, a town in the dept. of the Lower Seine, with a harbour now filled up, and only fit for boats. It contains about 2400 inhabitants, and is ſituated on a ſmall river that runs into the Seine, near it's mouth, 36 miles NW. of Rouen, and 5 E. of Havre de Grace. Lat. 49. 30. N. lon. 0. 19. E.

Harford, a river of Yorkſ. which runs into the Darwent at Wickum Abbey. Harford, Devonſ. 10 miles from Plymouth. Harford, and Harford Lower, Glouc. in Naunton pariſh. Harford Bridge, Hants, near near Hartley Row. Hartford, Eaſt, Northumb. near Stannington. Hargaſt, Herefordſ. near Kyneton. Hargrave, Suff. SW. of Bury. Hargrave, Dorſetſ. NE. of Sturminſter. Hargrave, Northamp. E. of Higham Ferrers. Harimere Chapel, Camb. S. of Ely. Harington, Northamp. W. of Rothwell. Haringworth, Northamptonſhire, NE. of Rockingham. Harkirk, Lancaſhire, in the pariſh of Croſby parva. Harkſted, Suffolk, W. of Harwich. Harlackenden, Kent, in Woodchurch pariſh. Harleſton, Staffordſ. NE. of Tamworth. Harlaxton, Linc. 2 miles from Grantham. Harle, Little and Weſt, Northumb. near Kirk Harle.

HARLEBECK, a town in Flanders county.

HARLECH, a mean town of Merionethſ. but naturally ſtrong, being ſeated on a rock, on the ſea ſhore. It is chiefly remarkable for it's caſtle, built by Edward I. which is ſtill almoſt entire. Near it is a cataract of the Rhais Du, which ruſhes down a mountain, for above 100 yards, and then forms a caſcade, part of an elliptical curve, to a pool 40 feet below. Harlech is the county town, and is 24 miles S. of Carnarvon, and 223 WNW. of London. Market on Saturday.

HARLEM, a large, rich, and handſome town, of the United Provinces, in Holland, containing about 40,000 inhabitants. It is noted for it's church, which is the largeſt in Holland, and in which is a remarkable fine organ, that conſiſts of 8000 pipes; the largeſt is 38 feet long, and 16 inches in diameter, and there are 68 ſtops, of which the moſt wonderful is the vox humana. To the S. of the town is a wood, cut out into delightful walks and viſtas. Here are conſiderable manufactures in linen, ribbands, and tapes, and they export great quantities of beer. It is ſituated on the river Sparen, about a league from the ſea, and 10 miles W. of Amſterdam.

HARLEM MERE, a lake of Holland, near Harlem, about 14 miles long, and 8 or 10 broad. It lies between Leyden, Harlem, and Amſterdam, and is navigable for boats. The canals, however, from Leyden to Amſterdam are a ſafer, though more tedious paſſage.

Harleſay, E. and W. Yorkſ. NE. of Northallerton. Harleſcot, N. of Shrewſbury.

HARLESTON, a dirty town of Norfolk, ſeated on the river Waveney, 16 miles S. of Norwich, and 100 NE. of London. A large market on Wedneſday.

Harleſton, Devonſ. in Brixton pariſh. Harleſton, Middleſex, in Wilſdon pariſh. Harleſton, 4 miles from Northampton. Harleſton, Suffolk, NW. of Stow. Harleſtwas, Herefordſ. near Dowre. Harley, Shropſhire, E. of Acton Burnel Caſtle.

HARLING, EAST, a pretty, neat, genteel town of Norfolk, ſeated on a rivulet, between Thetford and Buckenham, 21 miles SW. of Norwich, and 88 NE. of London. It's market, on Thurſday, is chiefly for linen-yard and linen-cloth.

Harling, Middle and Weſt, Norfolk, near Harling.

HARLINGEN, a ſea-port town of Weſt Frieſland, ſituated at the mouth of the Zuyder Zee, about 13 miles nearly W. of Lewarden. Next to Lewarden, it is the largeſt and moſt populous town in the province.

Harlington, Middleſex, N. of Hounſlow Heath. Harlington, Bedf. near Amptill. Harlings, Suſſex, SW. of Hardley Beacon.

HARLOW, a town of Eſſex, chiefly noted for it's annual fair, on a common, about 2 miles from the town, much frequented for horſes, hogs, and cows, on Sept. 9. It is called Harlow Buſh Fair. It has another fair on Nov. 8. Harlow is ſituated on the W. ſide of the Rodings, about 17 miles W. of Chelmsford, and 23 NE. of London.

Harlow Hill, Yorkſhire, near Leeds, Harlow Hill, Northumb. S. of Stannington. Harlow Bury and Harlow Street, Eſſex, SW. of Hatfield Broad Oak. Harlſton, 5 miles S. of Cambridge. Harlton, W. of Harlſton, 7 miles from Cambridge. Harlton, Linc. NW. of Grimſby. Harlyne, Cornwall, W. of Padſtow Haven. Harmby, Yorkſ. N. Riding, NE. of Middam. Harmer, Suſſex, N. of Salehurſt. Harmondſworth, Middl. NW. of Harlington, and 2 miles from Colnbrook. It is remarkable for one of the largeſt barns in England, whoſe ſupporting pillars are of ſtone, and which is ſuppoſed to be of great antiquity.

HARMONY, a town of Pennſylvania.

Harmſbay, Dorſetſ. a hamlet to Chidiock. Harmſton, 4 miles from Lincoln. Harnal, Bucks, E. of Ivinge. Harnam, Northumb. NW. of Ogle Caſtle. Harnam, E. and W. Wilts, near Sarum. Harndon, Hants, SE. of Hambledon. Harnhill, Glouceſ. 3 miles from Cirenceſter. Harnidge Grange, near Shrewſbury. Harold Stone, Pembrokeſh. near Haverfordweſt.

HARO, a town of Old Caſtile, ſituated on the Ebro, 32 miles NE. of Burgos.

Harper Hill, Cumberl. N. of the Picts

Wall, near Stapleton. Harpers, or Harefoot Lane, Dorſetſhire, NW. of Bingham's Melcomb. Harpford, Devonſ. near Sidmouth. Harpham, Norf. between Thetford and Windham. Harpham, Yorkſ. E. Riding, SE. of Kilham. Harpley Hall, Durham, on the Wear, SE. of Wolſingham. Harpley Hall, Norfolk near Houghton. Harpole, NW. of Northampton. Harpsfield Hall, Herts, near Hatfield. Harpſton, Dorſetſh. near Bradel. Harpſwell, Lincolnſ. near Gainſborough. Harptree, E. and W. Somerſ. N. of Mendip. Harraby, Cumberl. near Carliſle. Harradon, Bedfordſ. in Carington pariſh. Harrendon, Great and Little, Northamp. between Wellingborough and Kettering. Harrietſham, Kent, near Maidſtone. Harrington, Cumberl. near Carliſle. Harrington, Line. near Alford. Harrington, Worceſterſ. N. of Eveſham.

HARRINGTON, Cumberland, a ſea-port between Workington and Whitehaven, being 4 miles from the former, and 6 from the latter port. It's principal buſineſs ariſes from the colliers and ſhip-building.

HARRIS. See LEWIS.

HARRISBURG, a town of N. Carolina; and a town of Pennſylvania.

*HARRISTOWN, a ſmall town of Kildare, in Leinſter, 18 miles SW. of Dublin.

HARRODSBURG, a town of Kentucky.

Harrock Hall, Lane. between Standiſh and Biſpham. Harrold, near Bedford, Harrold Ewias, Heref. at the conflux of the Munny and Dore. Harrold's Park, Eſſex, W. of Epping. Harraton, Durh. on the Wear, W. of Sunderland. Harrowbridge, Devonſhire, SE. of Taviſtock. Harrowgate, Yorkſhire, in the pariſh of Knareſborough, remarkable for its mineral waters, which are vitriolic and ſulphureous. Bathing is the moſt general mode of uſing them; and they are often ſucceſsful in dropſical, ſcorbutic, and gouty caſes. Harrow Hill, Worc. 2 miles from Eveſham. Harrow on the Hill, Middl. a village ſituated on the higheſt hill in the county, 10 miles WNW. of London. At it's free-ſchool, a ſilver arrow is ſhot for, once a year, viz. Auguſt 4, by a ſelect number of the ſcholars, who are dreſſed for the purpoſe in the habit of archers. Harrow Weald, Middl. at the foot of Harrow Hill. Harſingside, Northumb. SW. of Hexham. Harſton, Leicſ. S. of Belvoir Caſtle. Harſtuden, Northumb. near Harlow. Harthorne, Northumb. SW. of Morpeth. Harthorn, Weſt, Durham, NE. of Darlington. Hartbury, NW. of Glouceſter. Hartclack Bridge, Somerſetſhire, between Wells and Glaſtonbury. Harte, Durham, near the coaſt, NW. of Hartlepool. Harterton, Northumberland, NW. of Morpeth. Harteſt, Suffolk, N. of Boxted. Hartey, Kent, in the Iſle of Sheppey. Hartfield, Suſſex, SE. of E. Grinſtead.

HARTFORD, a flouriſhing, commercial town, in the ſtate of Connecticut, ſeated on the W. ſide of the river of that name, about 50 miles from it's entrance into the Sound. It is divided by a ſmall river, with high romantic banks; over this river is a bridge, connecting the two diviſions of the town, which is 69 miles WSW. of Boſton. Lat. 41. 52. N. lon. 72. 30. W.

Hartford, Cheſh. NW. of Northwich. Hartford, Yorkſ. N. Riding, near Ravenſworth Caſtle. Hartford, near Huntingdon. Hartham, Wilts, between Coſham and Slaughterford. Harthill, Cheſ. SW. of Peckforton. Harthill, Yorkſhire, near Holderneſs. Harthill, Yorkſhire, near Worksop, in Nottinghamſhire. Harting, Suſſex, near Midhurſt. Harting Fordbury, 1 mile from Hertford. Hartington, Derbyſhire, NW. of Wirkſworth.

HARTLAND, a town in Devonſhire, partly concerned in the herring fiſhery on this coaſt. It is ſeated on the Briſtol Channel, near a promontory called Hartland Point, 28 miles W. of Barnſtaple, and 218 W. by S. of London. Market on Saturday.

Hartlebury, near Worceſter. Hartlebury, 4 miles from Glouceſter.

HARTLEPOOL, a pretty, large, ſea-port town, of the county of Durham, ſeated on a promontory, partly ſurrounded by rocks and hills, and partly by the ſea. It has a ſafe harbour, where the Newcaſtle and Sunderland colliers generally take ſhelter in ſtreſs of weather. It has a conſiderable fiſhery on the coaſt, and they export a good deal of coals and lime. It is 16 miles SE. of Durham, and 254 N. by W. of London. It's market, on Saturday, is much decayed.

Hartley, a river in Northumberland, which runs into the S. Tyne, at Fetherſtonehaugh. Hartley, Kent, SW. of Cobham.

Hartley, Northumb. on the coaſt, N. of Tinmouth. Here are ſalt, copperas, and glaſs-works; and here is a pretty haven, or harbour, to which a canal has been cut, through a ſolid rock, 52 feet deep, 30 broad, and 900 long. The exports from this place, in 1776, were 70,000 dozen of bottles, 300 tons of ſalt, 100 tons of copperas manufactured here, and 18,000 chaldrons of coals.

Hartley, Hants, near Selborn. Hartley, ley, Dorſetſ. in Great Mintern pariſh. Hartley Caſtle, Weſtmorland, near Kirkby Steven. Hartley Hall, Derbyſhire, in the High Peak. Hartley Row, Hants, 9 miles from Bagſhot. Hartley Waſpill, Hants, NW. of Hartley Row. Hartlip, Kent, near Sittingbourn. Hartmere, Surry, in Godalmin pariſh. Hartmore, Wilts, near Devizes. Harton, Devonſh. near Hartland. Harton, Durham, S. of Shields. Harton, Shropſ. NW. of Diddleſbury. Harton, Yorkſh. N. Riding, near Flaxton. Harton, Yorkſ. W. Riding, in Craven. Hartpury, 4 miles NW. of Glouceſter. Hartro Houſe, Somerſ. between Bridgewater and Dulverton. Harts Hill, Warwickſ. between Nuneaton and Atherſton. Hartſhead, Yorkſ. E. of Halifax. Hartſholm, near Lincoln. Hartſhop, Weſtm. near Depedale. Hartſhorn, Derb. N. of Aſhby de la Zouch. Hartſide, Northumb. W. of Branton. Hartcoell, Bucks, near Ayleſbury. Hartwell, Northamp. W. of Oulney. Harty Iſle, Kent, at the corner of Sheppey Iſle, oppoſite Feverſham. Harvard, Middl. near Shepperton, in Sunbury pariſh. Harum, Yorkſ. N. Riding, between Helmſley and Rydal. Harwardale, Yorkſ. in Whitby Strand. Harwell, Berks, near E. Hendred. Harwell, Nott. near Bautree. Harwep, Northumb. NE. of Branton.

*HARWICH, a ſea-port town of Eſſex, ſeated on a tongue, or point of land, oppoſite to the united mouths of the Stour and Orwell, 42 miles E. by N. of Chelmsford, and 72 NE. of London. It is not very large, but is well inhabited and frequented, and here the packet boats are ſtationed, that ſail to Helvoetſluys, regularly every Wedneſday and Saturday, if wind and weather do not prevent, in time of peace. It has a very ſafe, ſpacious, and convenient harbour, extending from the ſea to within 2 miles of Ipſwich, and able to receive ſhips of 100 guns all the way: here is alſo a very good dock-yard for building ſhips, with the neceſſary ſtorehouſes, cranes, launches, &c. The waſhing and undermining of the tides, and the falling off of large pieces of cliff, have made the point a peninſula, and, perhaps, may in time make it an iſland. The harbour is defended by Landguard Fort, built on a ſandy point on the Suffolk ſide of the water, and other ſtrong works. It is a place of conſiderable trade, and many veſſels are employed in the North Sea fiſhery. Lat. 52. 0. N. lon. 1. 25. E. Markets on Tueſday and Friday.

HARWICH, a town of Maſſachuſets, ſituated in Barnſtaple Bay; a town of Vermont, and a town of Connecticut.

Harwich Chapel, Lanc. near Bolton.

HARWINGTON, a town of Connecticut.

Harwood, Bucks, N. of Winſlow. Harwood, Heref. W. of Roſs. Harwood, Herts, W. of Watford. Harwood, Lanc. S. of Clithero. Harwood, Great and Little, Lancaſ. N. of Blackburn. Harwood, Yorkſ. NE. of Leeds, is a pretty little village, and has a handſome, coſtly, ſtone bridge, of 11 arches, over the Wherfe, which runs here in a bed of ſtone, and looks as clear as rock water.

Harwood Dale, Yorkſh. near Scarborough. Harwood Grange, Derbyſ. SW. of Cheſterfield. Harwood Shields, Northumb. N. of the Tyne, near Ridlam Hope. Harworth, Nottingh. on the borders of Yorkſh. near Tickhill Caſtle. Haſcomb, Surry, SE. of Godalmin. On Caſtle Hill, in this pariſh, are the remains of a Roman camp; from it there is a proſpect extending over the whole county of Surry, and a part of Suſſex. Haſelbadge, Derbyſ. in the High Peak. Haſelbury, Wilts, between Bath and Chippenham. Haſeler, Staff. near Lichfield. Haſeley, Eſſex, 2 miles from Malden. Haſeley, Iſle of Wight, in E. Medina. Haſeley, Great and Little, Oxf. near Cuddeſden. Haſeley, Warw. between Birdbrook and Wroxhall. Haſiley, Yorkſ. W. Riding, S. of Patley Bridge. Haſelover, Staff. N. of Tamworth. Haſelton, Glouceſ. NW. of N. Leach. Haſfield, 6 miles N. of Glouceſter. Haſilbeare, Dorſetſ. W. of Blandford. Haſilbeare, Somerſetſh. near N. Parret. Haſingrove, Somerſetſ. near S. Barrow. Haſteton, Suffolk, near Woodbridge. Haſteden, Glouceſ. in Rodmarton pariſh.

*HASLEMERE, a ſmall, but ancient town of Surry, 12 miles SW. of Guilford, and 42 SW. of London. It's market, on Tueſday, is chiefly for poultry.

Haſleton, Glouceſterſ. near N. Leach. Haſlewood, 4 miles from Derby. Haſlewood, Suffolk, N. of Aldborough. Haſlewood, Yorkſ. W. Riding, NW. of Aberforth. It has a pleaſant proſpect of the cathedrals of York and Lincoln, though 60 miles aſunder, and a remarkable quarry, called Peter's Pit, becauſe the cathedral of St. Peter, at York, was built with the ſtones dug out of it. The country, for 10 miles round this place, is remarkably rich in manor-houſes, parks, woods, chaſes, navigable rivers, &c. and within theſe limits, as much ſport for hunting, fiſhing, and fowling, as in any part of England.

HASLINDEN, a ſmall town of Lancaſhire, 14 miles N. by W. of Mancheſter, and 196 NNW. of London. Market on Wedneſday.

Haſlingfield, on the Cam, 5 miles from Cambridge. Haſlingham, E. of Norwich. Haſlington, Cheſh. 3 miles from Sandbach. Haſon, Northumb. S. of Alnwick. Haſſal, Cheſ. near Haſlington and Sandbach. Haſſelbach, Northamp. near Naſeby. Haſſelbury Brian, Dorſetſh. near Sturminſter. Haſſeler, Warwickſ. E. of Alceſter.

HASSELT, a town in Overyſſel, ſituated on the Vecht.

HASSELT, a town of Liege, ſituated on the Demer.

Haſſobury, Eſſex, near Staniſted Mountfichets, Haſſop, Derb. in the High Peak. Haſſercomb, Somerſ. near Biſhop's Lidiard. Haſtingbury, or Hallingbury, Great, called alſo Morley, and Haſtingbury, or Hallingbury, Little, called alſo Haſtingbury Nevil, and Bouchier, or Bowſer, Eſſex, 3 miles from Biſhop's Stortford. Haſtingleigh, Kent, NE. of Aſhford.

*HASTINGS, a ſea-port of Suſſex, containing 2 churches, about 600 houſes, and 3000 inhabitants. It is ſeated between high clefts, or hills, on a ſmall ſtream, called the Bourne, which divides it into two different pariſhes, 14 miles SW. of Rye, and 64 SE. of London. The chief employment of the people is fiſhing. Near this town, in the year 1066, was fought the moſt memorable battle in the annals of this country, between Harold II. king of England, and William, duke of Normandy, in which the former loſt his life and kingdom. Of the Normans, there fell near 15,000 men, and a much greater number of the Engliſh were killed in the purſuits. Markets on Wedneſday and Saturday.

Haſwell, Somerſ. 2 miles from Bridgewater. Haſwell, Great and Little, NE. of Durham.

HATBOROUGH, a town of Pennſylvania.

Hatch, Bedfordſ NW. of Biggleſwade. Hatch, Devonſ. in S. Moulton pariſh. Hatch, Kent, W. of Canterbury. Hatch, Weſt, Somerſetſ. near Caſtle Cary. Hatcham, Surry, between Newington Butts and Deptford. Hatch End, Middl. between Pinner Green and Stanmore. Hatchland, Dorſetſ. near Netherby. Hatchland, Surry, 4 miles from Guilford.

*HATFIELD, a town of Herts, ſeated on the river Lea, and on the great North road, 20 miles NNW. of London. Here is a magnificent ſeat and park of the Marquis of Saliſbury. Market on Thurſday.

HATFIELD, a town of Maſſachuſets.

Hatfield, Herefordſh. E. of Leominſter. Hatfield and the Chaſe, Yorkſ. 4 miles from Doncaſter. Hatfield, Great, and Little, Yorkſ. in Holderneſs.

HATFIELD BROAD OAK, or HATFIELD REGIS, a town of Eſſex, 30 miles ENE. of London. Market on Saturday.

Hatfield Heverel, Eſſex, near Witham. Hatfield Woodhall, Herts, is a ſubordinate manor of Hatfield. Hatfield Woodhouſe, Yorkſ. 2 miles from Hatfield. Hatford, Berks, E. of Farringdon. Hather, Linc. NE. of Grantham. Hatherden, Hants, NW. of Andover. Hatherker, Yorkſ. NW. of Rippon. Hatherland, Devonſ. N. of Tiverton.

HATHERLEY, a town of Devonſhire, with a conſiderable woollen manufacture. It is ſeated on a branch of the river Towridge, near it's confluence with the Ock, 26 miles NW. of Exeter, and 201 W. by S. of London. Markets on Tueſday and Friday.

Hatherley Down, 2 miles from Glouceſter. Hathern, Leic. NW. of Loughborough. Hatherop, Glouc. 7 miles from N. Leach. Hatherſedge, Derbyſ. in the High Peak. Hatherton, Cheſ. near Webbenbury. Hathewate, Cumb. N. of Longtown. Hathrington, Northumberl. near Wark. Hatley Cockayne, and Hatley Port, or Parva, Bedfordſ. NE. of Potton. Hatley St. George, or Great Hatley, Camb. NE. of Hatley Cockayne. Hatley, Eaſt, and Hatley Hongry, Camb. near Gamblinghay, 13 miles from Cambridge. Haton, Cumberl. in the pariſh of Aſpatrick.

HATTEN, a town in Dutch Guelderland, ſeated on the Yſſel, 13 miles N. of Deventer.

Hatterel Mountains, in Wales, on the borders of Monmouthſ. and Brecknockſ.

HATTINGEN, a town of Mark, in Weſtphalia.

Hatton, Cheſ. N. of Grimſditch. Hatton, Cheſ. W. of Huxley. Hatton, Derb. SW. of Sutton. Hatton, Kent, SE. of Aſhford. Hatton, Linc. SE. of Market Raiſin. Hatton, Middl. in the pariſh of E. Bedfont. Hatton, Shropſ. NE. of Acton Scott. Hatton, Shropſ. SE. of Shefnal. Hatton, Cold, Shropſh. E. of Evelyn. Hatton, High, Shropſ. between Hodnet and Stanton. Hatton upon Avon, Warwickſ. Hatton, Yorkſ. SE. of Pocklington.

HATVANY, a town of Hungary, 20 miles NE. of Buda.

HAVANNAH, a ſea-port town of the Iſland

ſland of Cuba, ſituated on the NW. part of it, oppoſite Florida. The harbour is capable of containing commodiouſly 1000 veſſels, without either cable or anchor. The entrance to it is by a narrow channel, ſtrongly fortified with platforms, works, and artillery, for at leaſt half a mile, the length of the paſſage. On the E. ſide of the mouth of the channel is the famous Moro Fort, mounted with 40 pieces of cannon, almoſt level with the water; and on the oppoſite ſide a ſtrong fort, called the Puntal, adjoining to the town. All the ſhips that come from the Spaniſh American ſettlements, rendezvous here on their return to Spain. In 1700, the town was computed to contain 26,000 inhabitants, Spaniards, mulattoes, and negroes; a number which muſt have been conſiderably increaſed ſince. The houſes are elegant, built of ſtone, and ſome of them ſuperbly finiſhed; and the churches, and other public buildings are rich and magnificent. Proviſions here are extravagantly dear; neither is their freſh meat of the beſt kinds, excepting their pork. This inconvenience is not owing to any defect in the ſoil of the iſland, but to the indolence of the Spaniards. In 1762, the Havannah was taken by an Engliſh ſquadron and army, under Sir G. Pocock and Lord Albemarle. The Moro Fort was taken by ſtorm, after a ſiege of 29 days. Twelve men of war and three frigates were taken at the ſame time with the town. It was reſtored, however, by the peace of 1763. Lat. 23. 12. N. lon. 82. 13. W.

*HAVANT, a town of Hants, containing about 500 houſes. It is ſituated between Fareham and Chicheſter, 7 miles NE. of Portſmouth, and 64 W. by S. of London. Market on Saturday.

Hauderby, Yorkſ. between Marſh Land and Burton Stather. Haveland, or Halland, Suſſex, NE. of Lewes and Laughton.

HAVELBERG, a town of Pregnitz, in Brandenburg, ſituated on the river Havel, 48 miles WNW. of Berlin.

Haven Points, Dorſetſ. 1 mile SE. of Pool, bounding the harbour. Haven, Upper, Wilts, near Everley. Haverbrack, Weſtmorland, in Betham pariſh, near Dallam Tower Garden.

*HAVERFORDWEST, a very ancient town of Pembrokeſhire, containing 4 pariſh churches, about 600 houſes and 5000 inhabitants, ſeated on a creek of Milford Haven, called the Dongledye, over which it has a ſtone bridge, 15 miles S. by E. of St. David's, and 239 W. by N. of London. It is a large, well-built, handſome place, inhabited by many genteel families; and has a conſiderable trade, with ſeveral veſſels belonging to it. Here is alſo a commodious quay, for ſhips of burden, and a cuſtom-houſe. Here the aſſizes are held, and the county jail is kept. Markets on Tueſday and Saturday.

Havergate, Norfolk, W. of Yarmouth.

HAVERHILL, a town of Maſſachuſets, 27 miles N. of Boſton.

Haverholm, Lincolnſ. NE. of Sleaford. Haverick, Northumberland, near Millum Caſtle.

HAVERILL, a town of Suffolk, partly in Eſſex. It has a conſiderable manufacture of checks, cottons, and fuſtians, and is 59 miles NNE. of London. Market on Wedneſday.

Havering at Bower, Eſſex, near Rumford. It is a moſt charming ſpot, having an extenſive and beautiful proſpect over a great part of Eſſex, Hertfordſhire, Kent, Middleſex, and Surry, and alſo a fine view of the Thames, with the ſhips ſailing up and down. Some parts of the walls of a palace, that ſeems to have been always the houſe of a queen conſort and her jointure, are ſtill ſtanding here. Haverſham, Bucks, near Newport Pagnel. Haverſtock Hill, Middl. between London and Hampſtead.

HAVERSTRAW, a town of New York, 32 miles N. of that city.

Hauford Chapel, Shropſ. SW. of Diddleſbury. Haugh, Linc. near Alford. Haugh, Yorkſhire, NW. of Rotherham. Haughley, Suff. near Dagworth. Haughton, Cumberl. near Stanwix. Haughton, Durh. near Darlington. Haughton, Durh. SW. of Newbottle. Haughton, Lancaſh. in Amounderneſs. Haughton, Northumb. N. of Hexham. Haughton, Shropſ. near Shefnal. Haughton, near Stafford. Haughton, Suſſex, on the Arun, S. of Amberley. Havington, Northamp. near Walgrave. Havington, Worceſ. near the Littletons. Haukeſdale, Cumberl. in Dalſton pariſh. Haukeſwell, Warwickſh. near Coleſhill. Haukeſwell, E. and W. Yorkſ. N. Riding, between Midlam and Richmond. Haukewell, Northumb. on the Pont, W. of Pont Eland.

Haulebowling, a dangerous rock in the entrance of Carlingford Bay, covered by the tide before full ſea, or high water.

Haul Down, Somerſ. near Bath Haulgate, Yorkſ. NW. of Richmond. Halton, Bucks, near Wendover. Haulton, Linc. near Spilſby. Haulton, Lincolnſ. N. of Tatterſhall. Haulton, Lincolnſ. NW. of Wragby. Haulton, Weſt, Linc. NE. of Burton Stather. Haultwick, Herts, W. of Puckeridge. Haunton, Staffordſ. near Cliffton Canvil.

HAVRE DE GRACE, a large, populous, and commercial town, in the dept. of the Lower Seine. The harbour here has particular advantages, as the water does not begin to ebb till 3 hours after the full tide. The baſon is reſerved for ſhips of war, with room and depth of water for 30 veſſels of 60 guns. It is ſeated on the Engliſh Channel, at the mouth of the river Seine, 45 miles nearly W. of Rouen, and 112 NW. of Paris. Lat. 49. 29. N. lon. 0. 11. E.

Hauſegarth, Yorkſ. SE. of Whitby. Hauſe Yard, Staffordſ. near Armitage.

HAUT-RIVE, a town in the dept. of Upper Garonne; and a town in the dept. of the Drome.

HAUTVILLIERS, a town in the dept. of Marne, ſeated on the river Marne, 20 miles from Rheims.

Haw, Devonſh. a rock near Plymouth. Haw, Kent, near the coaſt, E. of Swale Cliff. Haw, Surry, SW. of Abinger. Hawarden, or Harwarden, Flintſhire, 5 miles SW. of Cheſter, near the river Dee. Here are the ruins of a large caſtle, from one part of which is a very extenſive proſpect. Hawcaſter Rig, Yorkſhire, near Leeds. Hawcolm Chapel, Lancaſh. near Entwiſle. Hawcombe, Glouc. in Hampton pariſh. Haw Cupple, Northumb. E. of Kirkhaugh. Hawford, Warwickſ. E. of Newbold.

HAWICK, a town of Roxburgſhire, ſeated on the river Tiviot, in a romantic ſituation, (the ſcenery of which is compoſed of wooded rocks, cataracts, and bridges) 15 miles SW. of Kelſo.

Hawkchurch, Dorſetſhire, 4 miles from Chardſtock. Hawkebury, Warw. in Sow pariſh. Hawkeſbury, Glouceſ. NW. of Badminton, 4 miles from Sodbury.

HAWKSHEAD, a town of Lancaſhire, ſituated near the Lake of Winandermere, in a valley ſurrounded by a woody, hilly tract, 24 miles NNW. of Lancaſter, and 273 NNW. of London. It has a market on Monday, for the ſale of wool, yarn, proviſions, &c.

Hawkhurſt, Kent, near Benenden. It is a very populous, large pariſh, but full of poor, and noted for ſmugglers. Hawking, Kent, SW. of Alkham. Hawkley, Hants, N. of Petersfield. Hawridge, Somerſetſ. W. of Dulverton. Hawkſley, Northumb. on the coaſt, oppoſite Coquet Iſland. Hawkſton, 4 miles from Cambridge. Hawkſton, Shropſ. near Hodnet. Hawkſworth, Nott. NE. of Bingham. Hawkſworth, Yorkſ. W. Riding, near Otley. Hawkwood, Eſſex, in the pariſh of Heningham Sible. Hawkwood, Suſſex, S. of Itchingham. Hawley, Hants, SE. of Blackwater. Hawling, Glouc. 6 miles SE. of Winchcomb. Hawnby, Yorkſ. N. Riding, NW. of Helmſley. Hawnby, Yorkſhire, N. Riding, E. of Ravenſworth Caſtle. Hawne, Shropſ. NE. of Bridgenorth. Hawnes, 4 miles from Bedford. Haworth, Yorkſ. NW. of Halifax. Haw Paſſage, Glouc. on the Severn, between Tewkeſbury and Glouceſter. Haws, Yorkſ. in the W. Riding. Haws, a river in Montgomeryſhire, which runs into the Severn at Aberhaws. Haws, a river in Radnorſhire, which runs into the Ython a little above Dyſſart. Hawſehouſe, Weſtmorl. E. of Winandermere. Hawſham, Eſſex, SW. of Hatfield Broad Oak. Hawſted, Lincolnſ. SW. of Horncaſtle. Hawſted, or Halſted Hall, Suffolk, 3 miles SW. of Bury. The church is built of freeſtone and flint, which have a durable and pleaſing effect, and the workmanſhip, though built in 1521, is excellent.

HAWS WATER, a lake of Weſtmorland, W. of Penrith, above 3 miles long, half a mile over in ſome places, and a quarter in others, but nearly divided in the middle by a promontory of incloſures.

Hawſworth, Yorkſhire, near Sheffield. Hawthorn, Durham, near the ſea, 6 miles S. of Sunderland. Hawthorp, Durham, N. of Little Eden. Hawton, Nott. near Newark. Hawton, Halloughton, or Halmiſton, Nott. S. of Southwell. Hawton, Yorkſ. W. Riding, near Wiggleſworth. Haxby, Yorkſ. N. Riding, S. of Galtres Foreſt. Haxey, Lincolnſ. NW. of Gunthorp. Haxton, Bedfordſhire, N. of Luton. Haxton, Wilts, near North Tudworth.

*HAY, a town of Brecknockſhire, ſeated between the rivers Wyall and Dulas, on the river Hay, over which it has a handſome ſtone bridge, of ſeven arches, 14 miles ENE. of Brecknock, and 151 WNW. of London. Market on Saturday.

Hay, Dorſetſhire, a hamlet to Chidioc. Hay, Glouceſ. a hamlet in Filton pariſh. Haycloſe, Northumberl. N. of Morpeth. Haycote, Lanc. between Dalton Caſtle and the ſea. Haycroſts, Dorſetſ. in Purbeck Iſle, N. of Dunſhay. Haydon, Dorſetſh. near Charminſter. Haydon, Dorſetſ. near Folke. Haydon, Dorſetſ. near Sherborn. Haydon, Kent, 2 miles from Tunbridge. Haydon, Northumberl. W. of Hexham. Here is an ancient caſtle, greatly in decay, formidable by it's ſituation, and ſtrikingly auguſt from the ſolemnity of it's ruins. It appears to have been a place of conſiderable extent and ſtrength, and is ſituated on on the W. ſide of a deep glen, on the brink of a precipice, at the foot of which runs a little brook. One thing remarkable here, is a ſtable, with an arched roof of ſtone, without any wood in it's ſtructure, even the mangers being ſtone troughs. The proſpect from it is delightful.

HAYE, a town in the dept. of Indre and-Loire, ſeated on the river Creuſe, 25 miles from Tours, and 135 SW. from Paris.

Haye, Cornw. near the Hurlers. Haye Caſtle, Cumberl. near Moreſby. Hayes, Devonſ. near Budleigh. Hayes, Glouceſ. in the pariſh of Awre. Hayes, Kent, near Bromley. Here is Hayes Place, the elegant villa and gardens of the late Earl of Chatham. Hayes, Middl. 12 miles from London, N. of the road to Uxbridge. Hayes Arundels, Devonſhire, an iſland in the manor of Cowicke, between the river Ex, and the village Lahegen. Hayes Fleyers, Devonſ. in Ex Iſland. Hayham, Lincolnſ. near Burwell. Hayham Potter, Norf. E. of Hickling. Hayles, Glouceſ. 2 miles N. of Winchcomb. Hayley, Staff. near Birmingham. Hayley Wood, Glouc. near Cirenceſter. Hayling Iſle, Hants, E. of Portſmouth. Hay, Little, Staffordſhire, S. of Lichfield.

HAYLSHAM, a town of Suſſex, 12 miles E. of Lewes, and 58 SE. of London. Market on Saturday.

Hayſhot, Suſſex, E. of Cocking. Hayne, Devonſ. in Stopford pariſh. Hayne, Devonſ. in the pariſh of Newton St. Cyre. Hayneyth, Yorkſ. W. Riding, NE. of Settle. Hayneford, 5 miles from Norwich. Haynes, Devonſ. near Huiſh. Haynton, High, Devonſ. near Black Torrington. Hay Park, Yorkſ. near Knareſborough. Hays, Derb. near Wirkſworth. Hayeſby, Linc. NW. of Fokingham. Hayſtrop, Yorkſ. E. Riding, between Kilham and the ocean. Hayton, Cumberl. near Farlam and Caſtle Carrok. Hayton, Kent, near Hythe. Hayton, Nott. to the W. of N. and S. Wheatley. Hayton, Shropſ. NW. of Ludlow. Hayton, Suſſex, between Terring and the coaſt. Hayton Hall, Yorkſ. near Pocklington. Hayward Bridge, Dorſetſ. near Child Ockford. Haywood, S. of Hereford. Headborn Worthy, Hants, near Winchester.

HEADFORD, a town of Galway, in Connaught, 12 miles N. of Galway, and 103 W. of Dublin.

Headingley, Yorkſ. a hamlet of Leeds. Headley, Northumberl. SE. of Hexham. Headley Hall, Yorkſhire, E. Riding, near Bramham Moor. Headneſton, Derbyſh. SE. of Aſhborn.

HEAD OF ELK, a town in Maryland ſituated near the head of the Bay of Cheſapeak, on a ſmall river, that bears the name of the town. The inhabitants derive great advantages from the carrying trade between Baltimore and Philadelphia.

HEADON, an ancient town of Holderneſs, in Yorkſhire, ſeated on a river that falls into the Humber, about 2 miles below, 10 miles E. of Hull, and 182 N. of London. It is pleaſant and well built, though little, and was formerly conſiderable in merchants and ſhipping, but it's harbour is now nearly choked up. Market on Saturday.

Headon, Northumb. S. of the Picts' Wall, and E. of Rutcheſter. Headon, Nott. SE. of Retford. Heage, Derbyſ. in Duffield pariſh. Heale, Devonſ. in Meth pariſh; and there is another Heale, in this county, near the Plym River, in the pariſh of Cornwood. Healy, Northumb. S. of the Tyne, near Sleley. Healey, Yorkſ. N. Riding, W. of Maſham. Healey, Yorkſhire, near Sheffield. Healigh, Yorkſhire, near Wetherby. Health Hill, Northumb. 1 mile from Newcaſtle.

HEAN, a town of Aſia, in Tonquin.

Heanton Stachville, Cornwall, near Padſtow. Heapham, Linc. SE. of Gainſborough. Heath, Bedf. near Leighton Buzzard. Heath, Derbyſ. between Manſfield and Cheſterfield. Heath, Glouc. in Weſterleigh pariſh. Heath, Hants, SW. of Chriſtchurch. Heath, Oxf. on the N. ſide of the Ouſe, a little before it's entrance into Northamptonſhire. Heath, Shropſ. W. of Brown Clee Hill. Heath, Warw. near Hill Wotton. Heath, Yorkſ. near Wakefield. Heathcote, Derbyſ. NW. of Wirkſworth. Heath, Eaſt, Middl. between Acton and Great Ealing. Heathencote, Northamp. S. of Towceſter. Heath, End, Kent, between Charing and Aſhford. Heath End, Middl. near Heſton. Heath Houſe, Hants, S. of Petersfield. Heathen Heath, Kent, in Erith pariſh. Heather, Leic. SE. of Aſhby de la Zouch. Heath Farm, Shropſ. in Stotteſden pariſh. Heath Hill, Staff. N. of Sheriff Hales. Heathfield, Derbyſ. in the Peak, near Chapel Frith. Heathfield, Suſſex, near Burwaſh Downs, 7 miles from Haſtings. In this pariſh is Bailey Park, with a fine grove, and a manſion houſe, on a beautiful eminence, that has a noble view of the ſea, and the country, for above 20 miles round. Heath rp, Oxfordſ. 2 miles from Chipping Norton. Heath Row, Middl. near Heſton and Hounſlow Heath. Heaton, Lanc. N of Mancheſter. Heaton, SW. of Lancaſter. Heaton, Northumb. near Newcaſtle. Heaton, Nothumb. near the mouth of the Tyll. Heaton, Staff. on the borders of Cheſhire. It is noted for ſmall grit and grind-ſtones, that are of a greyiſh colour. Heaton, Yorkſ. near Bradford. Hebborn, Durh. SW. of Shields. Hebborn, Northumb. N. of Morpeth. Hebden, a river in Yorſhire, which runs into the Calder, near Midley.

HEBRIDES, or WESTERN ISLANDS OF SCOTLAND. Theſe iſlands lie between the 55th and 59th degrees of N. lat. on the W. coaſt of Scotland, and are ſuppoſed to be about 300 in number. The principal of them are Skye, St. Kilda, Lewis and Harris, N. and S. Ulſt, Cannay, Staffa, Mull, Jura, Iſlay, &c. which ſee reſpectively.

HEBRIDES, NEW, a groupe of iſlands in the S. Pacific Ocean, ſituated between the latitudes of 14. 29. and 20. 4. S. and between the longitudes of 166. 41. and 170. 21. E. The principal iſlands are Tierra del Eſpirito Santo and Malicollo, beſides ſeveral others of leſs note, ſome of which are from 18 to 25 leagues in circumference. In general they are high and mountainous, abounding with wood and water, and the uſual productions of the tropical iſlands. The bread-fruit, cocoa-nuts, and plantains, are neither ſo good nor ſo plentiful here as at Otaheite; but the ſugar canes and yams are not only in greater plenty, but of ſuperior quality, and much larger, ſome of the latter weighing 56 pounds. The inhabitants are generally of a ſlender make, and dark colour, and moſt of them have frizzled hair. Their canoes and houſes are but ſmall, and poorly conſtructed; and they have ſcarcely any manufacture, even for clothing. They generally appear civil and hoſpitable.

HEBRON, a town of Paleſtine, where the Chriſtians have a church, built by Conſtantine, the walls of which are yet in exiſtence. It is ſituated near the fertile Valley of Mamre, partly on a hill, and partly on a plain, 24 miles SW. of Jeruſalem.

Heckdyke, a river in Nottinghamſhire, which runs into the Trent, a little above Stokerith. Heckfield, Hants, NW. of Hartley Row. Heck, Great and Little, Yorkſ. W. Riding, near Snaith. Heckingham, Norf. NE. of Loddon. Heckington, Kent, near Canterbury. Heckington, Linc. in the Fens. This village is a compact place, with ſeveral good houſes. It has been incloſed but a few years, having been, before that period, generally under water; but it now produces immenſe crops of oats. Heckmondwych, Yorkſ. in Burſall parish.

HECLA, a burning mountain in Iceland, which frequently ſends forth flames, and torrents of burning matter. It takes up 4 hours time to aſcend.

HEDEMORA, a well-built, commercial town, of Dalecarlia, in Sweden, with a large manufacture of gunpowder. It is ſituated near a lake, 53 miles NW. of Upſal.

Hedcorn, Kent, NW. of Smarden. Heddenham, Norfolk, NW. of Bungay. Heddingley, Nottingh. NW. of Southwell. Heddington, near Oxford. Heddington, Wilts, between Marlborough and Bath. It ſeems to have been anciently a Roman colony, from the foundations of houſes that have been dug up here, for a miſe together, and ſilver and copper coins of the emperors found here. Heddon, E. and W. Northumb. E. of Harlow. Hedden, Kent, near Wingham. Hedgeſſet, Suffolk, SE. of Ruſhbrook. Hedgeley, Bucks, between Uxbridge and Beaconsfield.

HEDGEMAN, a town of Virginia, 24 miles WSW. of Waſhington.

Hedlam, Durh. SE. of Staindrop. Hedley, Durham, W. of Chopwel. Healey, Yorkſ. W. Riding, N. of Aberforth. Hedley, Hants, S. of Alton. Hedley, Surry, 3 miles from Epſom. Hedſdon, Middl. between Pinner and Whitchurch.

HEDSJAR, HADSJAR, or HEDJAS, a province of Arabia, lying along the Red Sea, between Mount Sinai and the province of Yemen.

Hedſor, Bucks, E. of Marlow, in a delightful ſituation. Hedworth, Durh. E. of Newcaſtle. Heefield, Northumb. N. of Dale Caſtle. Heene, Suſſex, E. of Ferring. Heeſel, Northumb. in the lordſhip of Wooler. Hefferlaw, Northumb. NE. of Alnwick. Heghington, Durham, N. of Darlington.

HEGOW, a territory of Suabia, including all that part which borders on the Lake of Conſtance.

Heighington, SE. of Lincoln. Heighington, Worceſterſhire, near Wire Foreſt.

HEIDELBERG, a conſiderable and populous town of Germany, capital of the Palatinate, Lower Rhine, with a celebrated univerſity. It is ſituated on the S. ſide of the Neckar, over which there is a handſome bridge, in a fertile country, 12 miles E. of Spire. Lat. 49. 26. N. lon. 8. 48. E.

HEIDENHEIM, a town of Anſpach, in Franconia.

HEILA, a town of Weſtern Pruſſia.

HEILEGEN HAVE, a ſea-port of Holſtein, Lower Saxony, ſeated on the Baltic.

Heilcy, Staffordſhire, in Betley parish.

HEILIGENSTADT,

HEILIGENSTADT, a town of Eichsfield, Lower Rhine.

Helagton, Linc. E. of Sleaford. Helgh, Yorkſ. N. Riding, near Conſtable Burton. Helathyrne, Yorkſ. near Hull. Heldrop, Wilts, near Ramſbury.

HELENA, ST. an iſland in the S. Atlantic Ocean, held by the Engliſh Eaſt-India Company. It's circumference is about 20 miles, and it has the appearance, at a diſtance, of a rock, or caſtle, riſing out of the ocean, being only acceſſible at one particular ſpot, where the town is erected, in a valley, at the bottom of a bay, between two ſteep, dreary mountains. The buildings, both public and private, are plain, but neat. It has ſome high mountains, particularly one called Diana's Peak, which is covered with woods to the very top. There are other hills alſo, which bear evident marks of a volcanic origin; and ſome have huge rocks of lava, and a kind of half vitrified flags. The country, however, is far from being barren; the little hills are covered with rich verdure, and interſperſed with fertile valleys, which contain gardens, orchards, and various plantations. The valleys are watered by rivulets, and the mountains, in the centre of the iſland, are covered with wood. The ſoil, which covers the rocks and mountains, is, in general, a rich mould, from ſix to ten inches deep, clothed with a variety of plants and ſhrubs. The walks of peach-trees are loaded with fruit, which have a peculiarly rich flavour; but the other European fruit trees and vines, which have been planted here do not ſucceed. Cabbages, and other greens, thrive extremely well, but are devoured by the caterpillars; as are the barley, and other kinds of grain, by the rats, which are very numerous. The ground, for theſe reaſons, is laid out chiefly in paſtures, the verdure of which is ſurpriſing; and the iſland can ſupport 3000 head of their ſmall cattle. They have Engliſh ſheep here, and a ſmall breed of horſes, with goats and rabbits. Their fowls are ring pheaſants, red-lagged partridges, rice-birds, pigeons, &c. of ſome of which the breed is indigenous, but others have been brought from Europe, Africa, and the E. Indies. The number of inhabitants on the iſland does not exceed 2000, including near 500 ſoldiers, and about 600 ſlaves, who are ſupplied with all ſorts of manufactures by the company's ſhips, in return for refreſhments; and many of the ſlaves are employed in catching fiſh, which are very plentiful. This iſland is ſituated between the continents of Africa and S. America, about 1200 miles W. of the former, and 1800 E. of the latter. Lat. 15. 55. S. lon. 5. 49. W.

HELEN'S, ST. a town in E. Medina, in the Iſle of Wight, with a large bay, which runs a conſiderable way within the land, and is capable of holding the largeſt fleets.

Helen's, St. near Derby. Helen's, St. Lanc. near Warrington. Heley, or Hethley, Northumb. near Morpeth. Helford, Cornwall, has a ſmall but good harbour, on the river Hele, and the people are much engaged in the pilchard fiſhery. This river, the Hel, or Hele, riſes in Wendron pariſh, whence it runs about 3 miles to the village of Guyk, whither the barks come up with the tide. About 3 miles below, it falls into the ſea, forming a haven, which, within a mile of it's mouth, is deep enough for ſhips of 200 tons to ride in ſafety, and is about a mile wide at it's paſſage into the ſea. Hegley, Norfolk, near Downham.

HELICON, MOUNT, a hill in the ancient Bœotia, conſecrated to Apollo and the Muſes.

HELIER, ST. the capital of the Iſland of Jerſey, in the Engliſh Channel, on the coaſt of France. It is ſeated in St. Aubin's Bay, where it has a harbour, and a ſtone pier; having the ſea on the SW. and hills on the N. Another large hill projects, in a manner, over the town, and has a pleaſant walk, that affords an extenſive proſpect. The little iſland, St. Helier, about a mile in circuit, contains Elizabeth Caſtle, which is wholly occupied by the governor and garriſon; it is a peninſula from half-flood to half ebb, during which time there is a paſſage, called the Bridge, which is half a mile long, and formed of ſand and ſtones. It leads to the town, which is well paved, and has wide ſtreets. The inhabitants are computed to be 2000, and in their place of worſhip, the French and Engliſh languages are uſed alternately. Lat. 49. 11. N. lon. 2. 10. W.

Helinhull, Warwickſ. NW. of Stonely. Hellaby, Yorkſ. E. of Rotherham. Helland, Cornw. NE. of Bodmin. Hellegon, Cornwall, N. of Holland. Hellendan, Northamp. 5 miles from Daventry. Hellunsford, Yorkſ. near Wetherby, where a Roman military way croſſed the river Wherfe. Helleſden, NW. of Norwich. Heliſfield, Yorkſ. W. Riding, in Craven. Hellingley, Suſſex, N. of Halyſham. Hellington, Norfolk, NW. of Loddon. Hellaughton, Norf. W. of Fakenham. Helmeden, near Northampton. Helmerton, Wilts, N. of Calne. Helmingham, Suffolk, folk, between Woodbridge and Debenham. Helmley, Suffolk, S. of Woodbridge.

HELMONT, a town of Dutch Brabant.

HELMSDALE, a river of Sutherlandſhire, noted for a ſalmon fiſhery, at it's mouth in the German Ocean, near the Ord of Caithneſs.

HELMSLEY, or HELMSLEY BLACKMORE, a town of Yorkſhire, with houſes well-built of ſtone, covered with ſlate. It has a conſiderable manufacture of cotton and linens, and is ſeated on or near the river Rhye, 22 miles N. of York, and 222 N. by W. of London. Market on Saturday.

HELMSTADT, a town in the palatinate of the Rhine, circle of Lower Rhine, and a town, with an univerſity, of Wolfenbuttle, Lower Saxony.

Helmestowe, Berkſhire, near Abingdon. Helperby, Yorkſ. NE. of Boroughbridge. Helperthorp, Yorkſ. between Malton and Burlington. Helpestone, Northamp. near Burleigh. Helpringham, Linc. between Sleaford and Dunnington. Helſet, Cornwall, near Leſnewth. Helſby, Cheſhire, NW. of Delamere Foreſt.

HELSINBURG, a ſea port of Sweden, ſituated on the Sound, oppoſite Elſinore.

HELSINGFORS, a ſea-port of Nyland, on the N. coaſt of the Gulf of Finland.

Helſington, Weſtmorland, near Kendal.

HELSTON, a large, trading, and populous town of Cornwall, and one of thoſe appointed for the ſtamping of tin. Here is the largeſt market-houſe in the county; and below the town is a tolerably good harbour, where ſeveral of the tin ſhips take in their lading. It is ſeated on the river Lee, near it's influx into the ſea, 14 miles SW. of Falmouth, and 274 S. by W. of London. Market on Saturday.

Helſton Ford, Cornw. NE. of the Loes. Helſton Leaches, Weſtmorl. S. of Kendal. Helswood, Staffordſ. N. of Leek. Helton, Dorſetſ. 1 mile NW. of Milton Abbas. Helton, Dorſetſ. near Middleton. Helton, Weſtmorl. NW. of Shap. Helton, Weſtmorland, E. of Appleby. Helton Bacon, Helton Dale and Helton Flethum, Weſtmorland, between Shap and Eimott river. Helter, a river in Northumb. running into the Bowbent, at Anterchester. Helvillen Hill, Weſtmorland, N. of Graſſmere.

HELVOETSLUYS, a ſea-port of Holland, on the S. ſide of the Iſland of Voorn, with the beſt harbour on the coaſt, frequented by the Engliſh packet-boats, in time of peace. The principal part of the Dutch navy is laid up here, in a ſpacious baſon at the end of the harbour. It is 5 miles nearly S. of the Briel. Lat. 51. 45. N. lon. 4. 23. E.

Helwarden, Dorſetſ. on the coaſt E. of Weymouth. Helwell, Devonſhire, S. of Black Torrington. Helwin, Cornw. on the coaſt, NW. of Padſtow. Helwith, Yorkſ. NW. of Richmond. Hembury, High and Lower, Dorſetſ. near Eggerdon Hill and Aſkerwell. Hemenhale, 7 miles S. of Norwich. Hemingby, Linc. NW. of Horncaſtle. Hemingford Abbots, and Grey, Huntingdonſ. both near St. Ives. Hemingston, Suff. E. of Needham. Hemington, Leiceſ. near Donnington Caſtle and the Trent. Hemington, Somerſ. near Midſummer Norton. Hemiock, Devonſ. near Teign Canon. Hemlington, NE. of Norwich. Hemmeſby, Norf. near Winterton. Hemmingburgh, Yorkſ. near Howden. Hemmington, Northamp. NE. of Barnwell, and SE. of Polebrook. Hempnal, Norf. S. of Saxlingham. Hempſhall, NW. of Nottingham, on the river Lyne. Hempſted, Norf near Baconſthorp. Hempſted, Norfolk, near the coaſt, N. of Hackling. Hempſted, Eſſex, near Stamford Magna. Hempſted, a pariſh by the Severn, between Glouceſter and Lanthony.

*HEMPSTED, or HEMEL HEMPSTED, a town of Hertfordſhire, ſeated among hills, on a branch of the river Coln, called the Gade, 18 miles SW. of Hertford, and 23 NW. of London. A very large market for corn on Thurſday. Eleven pair of mills ſtand within 4 miles of the place.

Hempſthwaite, Yorkſ. W. Riding, near Ripley. Hempſton, Broad and Little, Devonſ. near Aſhburton. Hempſton, Glouc. in the hundred of Langley and Swinethead. Hempton, Norf. S. of Fakenham. Hempton, Oxf. NW. of Deddington. Hempton, Shropſhire, SE. of Bridgenorth. Henſall, Yorkſhire, W. Riding, W. of Snaith. Hemſby, Norf. near Winterton. Hempſted, Suſſex, SE. of Buckſted. Hemſted, Kent, near Cranbrook. Hemſwell, Lincolnſhire, near Normanby. Hemſworth, Higher and Lower, Dorſetſhire, in Shapwick pariſh. Hemſworth, Yorkſ. NE. of Barneſley. Henbury, Glouc. near Briſtol. Henbury, Cheſhire, near Macclesfield. Henbury, Higher and Lower, Dorſetſ. S. of Sturminſter Marſhall. Hendon, Midd. N. of Hampſtead is pleaſantly ſituated on the rivulet Brent, and has ſeveral agreeable villas in it. Hendred, E. and W. Berks, neer Wantage. Henfield, Suſſex, NE. of Stening. Hengiſtbury Head, Hants, near Chriſtchurch. Hengrave, Suff. NW. of Bury. Hengſton Hill, Cornw. near Launceſton. Henham, Eſſex, SW. of Thaxted. Henham, Glouc. in Bitton pariſh. Hen- ham,

ham, Suff. NW. of Southwold. Heningham Caſtle, and Heningham Sible, Eſſex, SW. of Sudbury. Henley, Dorſetſ. near Buckland Abbas. Henley, Hants, near Andover. Henley, Shropſ. NE. of Ludlow. Henley, Suff. between Needham and Woodbridge. Henley, Staff. SW. of Wolverhampton. Henley, Warwickſ. in Fokeſhill pariſh.

*HENLEY UPON THAMES, an ancient town of Oxfordſhire, the inhabitants of which are, generally, malſters, mealmen, bargemen, &c. It is ſeated on the Thames, over which it has a large, elegant, ſtone bridge, and by which prodigious quantities of malt, corn, flour, and wood, are ſent to London by barges, 24 miles SE. of Oxford, and 35 W. of London. It's markets, which are very conſiderable, are on Wedneſday, Friday, and Saturday.

HENLEY IN ARDEN, a town in Warwickſhire, ſituated near the river Arrow, 10 miles NW. of Warwick, and 102 WNW. of London. Market on Tueſday.

Henley Park, Surry, between Guilford and Farnborough. Henley Hall, Worceſ. near Upton. Henlip, NE. of Worceſter. Henllys, Monmouthſhire, W. of Caerlion. Henlow, Bedf. SE. of Shefford.

HENNEBERG, a county of Franconia, about 24 miles in extent from N. to S. and 22 from E. to W.

HENNEBON, a town in the dept. of Morbihan, ſeated on the river Blavet, 5 miles above Port L'Orient.

Hennock, Devonſ. NW. of Chudleigh. Henny, Great and Little, Eſſex, SW. of Sudbury, in Suffolk.

HENRICHEMONT, a ſmall, decayed town in the dept. of Cher, built by the Duke of Sully, in the reign of Henry IV. It is ſituated on the river Saudre, 15 miles NNE. of Bourges.

HENRICO, a county of Virginia.

HENRY, a county of Virginia.

HENRY, CAPE, the S. cape of Virginia at the entrance of Cheſapeak Bay. Lat. 36. 56. N. lon. 76. 5. W.

Henſberry Hill, Cornw. the higheſt hill in the county, NW. of Leſtwithiel. It commands a view of both the N. and S. Sea, as well as above 30 miles into Devonſhire, and almoſt to the Land's End.

HENSDALE, a town of New Hampſhire, 70 miles WNW. of Boſton.

Henſingham, Cumb. near Whitehaven. Henſhaw, Cheſh. SW. of Macclesfield. Henſington, Oxf. near Woodſtock. Henſted, Suff. on a rivulet that runs into the ſea near Benacre. Henſtridge, Somerſ. E. of Milborn Port. Hentland, Heref. W. of Ros. Henton, St. George, Somerſetſ. 2 miles from Crewkern. Henton Amner, Hants, S. of Alresford. Henton, Charterhouſe, Somerſetſ. 3 miles from Bath. Henwild, Glouceſ. in Weſterleigh pariſh. Henwick, Berks, N. of Newbury. Henwood, Warw. SE. of Solihull. Heplemill, Cornw. SE. of Leſkard.

HEPPENHEIM, a town of Mentz; and a town in the palatinate of the Rhine; both in the circle of the Lower Rhine.

Heppeſcote, Northumb. in Morpeth manor. Hepple, Northumb. on the river Coquet, near Rothbury. Hepſey, a river in Brecknockſhire. Heptenſtall, Yorkſ. NW. of Halifax. Hepworth, Suffolk, SE. of the Fakenhams.

HERACLEA, an ancient, but decayed, town of Romania, ſituated on the N. coaſt of the Sea of Marmora, 45 miles WSW. of Conſtantinople.

HERAT, a town of Choraſan, in Perſia.

HERAULT, a department of France, ſo named from a river which croſſes it from N. to S. nearly in the centre, and falls into the Gulf of Lyons, a little below Adge. It is bounded on the NE. by the dept. of the Gard, and on the SW. by the dept. of the Aude. The chief town is Montpellier.

HERBEMONT, a town of Luxemburg.

HERBORN, a town of Naſſau Dillenburg, in Weſtphalia, with a celebrated Proteſtant univerſity, ſituated on the Dille, 3 miles SSE. of Dillenburg.

HERCULANEUM, an ancient city of Italy, near Naples, totally deſtroyed by an eruption of Mount Veſuvius, in the reign of the Emperor Titus. In the years 1689 and 1711, upon digging in theſe parts, ſomething of this city was diſcovered. In 1738 freſh attempts were made, and ſince that time a prodigious number of monuments of every kind have been diſcovered, ſuch as paintings, ſtatues, buſtoes, furniture, utenſils, &c. The ſituation was near where Portici now ſtands.

Herdiſtaw, Northumb. in the lordſhip of Woller. Herdwick Priors, Warwickſhire, NE. of Wormleighton. Herwick, Warwickſhire, in the pariſh of Lemington Haſtings. Herdwick, Worceſterſhire, in Bredon pariſh, N. of Tewkeſbury.

*HEREFORD, the capital of Herefordſhire, is an ancient, decayed place. It is almoſt encompaſſed by the Wye, and two other rivers, over which are two bridges; and the only manufacture is that of gloves, and other leathern wares. It is 24 miles WNW. of Glouceſter, and 130 WNW. of London. Markets on Wedneſday, Friday, and Saturday.

HEREFORDSHIRE, a county of England, bounded on the W. by Radnorſhire and Brecknockſhire; on the N. by Shropſhire; on the E. by Glouceſterſhire and Worceſterſhire; and on the S. by Monmouthſhire, and part of Glouceſterſhire. It extends about 38 miles from N. to S. and 33 from E. to W. It is divided into 11 hundreds, which contain 1 city, 6 market towns, 176 pariſhes, 391 villages, 1500 houſes, and about 90,000 inhabitants. The air is healthy, the climate mild, the ſoil generally fertile, producing wheat, barley, oats, clover, turnips, &c. a principal part of the land being employed in tillage; the face of the country rich, beautiful, and picturesque; and it abounds with wood. The Herefordſhire cider is ſufficiently celebrated, and apples grow here in great abundance, being plentiful even in the hedge-rows. The ſheep are ſmall, affording a fine ſilky wool, in quality approaching to the Spaniſh; but the ſuperior quality of the wool not being thought adequate to atone for the ſmallneſs of the carcaſe, the farmers, in general, are deſirous of obtaining a breed larger and more profitable. The principal rivers are the Wye, Monnow, Lug, and Frome, all of which are well ſtored with fiſh, and the ſalmon, in particular, is very remarkable, for, in other parts of England, they are ſo far out of ſeaſon, after ſpawning, as to be unwholeſome food, till they have been again at ſea to recover themſelves; but here they are found, fat, and fit for the table in all ſeaſons.

Hereford, Little, Heref. on the Teme, W. of Tenbury. Hereſield, Yorkſ. NW. of Ripley, near Patley Bridge.

HEREGOVINZA, a territory of Dalmatia.

HERENTHALLS, a town in the late Auſtrian Brabant, ſeated on the river Nethe, 20 miles NE. of Louvain.

Herford, NE. of Huntingdon.

HERFORD, or HERVORDEN, a town of Ravenſberg, in Weſtphalia, with a celebrated nunnery, ſince the reformation, become Lutheran. It is ſituated on the rivers Werra and Aa, which divide it into 3 parts, 10 miles ENE. of Ravenſburg.

HERI, an iſland in the Indian Ocean, about 2 miles NNW. of Ternate. It is pretty high, and not more than 2 miles in circumference. The cultivated parts, contraſted with the brown ſhade of the trees, and the interſperſion of houſes, give this little ſpot a very picturesque appearance. It ſeems, as well as Ternate, to be well inhabited, and in a good ſtate of cultivation.

Herigby, Norf. near Yarmouth. Herings, between Alton and Baſingſtoke. Heringfleet, Suffolk, 2 miles from Milden Hall. Heringfwell, Suffolk, S. of Milden Hall. Herington, Eaſt, Middle, and Weſt, Durham, SW. of Sunderland.

HERISAU, an ancient town of Appenzel, in Switzerland, with a manufacture of linens and muſlins, remarkably fine. It is ſituated on the little river Bulbach, 10 miles NW. of Appenzel.

HERISSON, a town in the dept. of Allier, 15 miles NW. of Montmarault.

HERK, a town of Liege, ſituated on a river of the ſame name, near it's confluence with the Demer, 20 miles NW. of Liege.

HERMENSTADT, a free town of Tranſylvania, capital of the country. It is ſituated on the river Szebeny, which ſoon after joins the Alauta, 147 miles NE. of Belgrade.

Hermeſton, Nott. near Blith. Hermitage, Cheſh. near Middlewich. Hermitage, Dorſetſ. S. of Clifton. Hermitage, Rut. S. of Ridlington Park. Hermitage, Staff. on an eminence, near Blithefield. Hermitage, Yorkſ. on the Humber, near Hull. Hermitage, The, Northumb. near Warkworth, is the beſt preſerved, and moſt entire, now remaining in theſe kingdoms. It ſtill contains 3 apartments, hollowed in the ſolid rock, and hanging over the river in the moſt picturesque manner imaginable, with a covering of ancient hoary trees, reliques of the venerable woods in which this fine ſolitude was embowered.

HERMUS, a river of Natolia, ſaid by the ancients to have golden ſands.

Herne, Eſſex, near Billericay. Herne, Kent, 6 miles from Canterbury. Here is a commodious bay, frequented by colliers.

HERNGRUND, a town of Hungary, remarkable for it's extenſive and rich mines of vitriol, in which there is the appearance of a ſubterraneous town, with a great number of inhabitants, who are employed in the works. It is ſituated among the mountains, 65 miles N. of Buda.

Hernhill, Kent, near Harbledown.

HERNHUTH, a town of Gorlitz, in Luſatia, 6 miles N. of Zittau. It was founded in 1723, by the Moravian Brethren, on lands belonging to Count Zinzendorf; and it afterwards became the metropolis, and chief nurſery, of the religious of that perſuaſion.

HERNOSAND, a ſea port of Angermania, in Sweden, with a conſiderable trade, eſpecially in linen. It is ſituated on an iſland, in the Gulf of Bothnia, divided from the continent by a narrow channel, over which there is a bridge, and with a harbour deep enough on it's N. ſide, for the largeſt veſſels to come up and unload at the the warehouſes. Lat. 62. 38. N. lon. 18. 38. E.

Heron, Bedfordſ. in Tuddington pariſh. Heronden, Kent, in Fleet pariſh, near Staple. Herons, Eſſex, W. of Great and Little Waltham.

HERQUI, a village in the dept. of the North Coaſts, near a cape called the Point of Herqui, about 18 miles W. of St. Maloes.

Herringſton, S. of Dorcheſter, in Charminſter pariſh. Hersfield Bridge, Kent, S. of Maidſtone. Herſham, Surry, near Walton upon Thames.

HERSTALL, a town of Liege, ſituated on the Meuſe, 4 miles N. of Liege. Here is a caſtle which belonged to Pepin, father of Charles Martel. This town was ſold to the king of Pruſſia, in 1741.

Herſton, Dorſetſ. in Purbeck Iſle, a little W. of Swanwich. Hertesbewed, Yorkſ. near Dewſbury. Hertesbewed, Northumb. near Alnham.

HERTFORD, the county town of Herts, or Hertfordſhire. It was of ſome note in the times of the ancient Britons; and the Eaſt Saxon kings often kept their court here. It is ſeated on the river Lea, which is navigable for barges, and down which vaſt quantities of corn and malt (about 5000 quarters per week of the latter) are ſent to London. Theſe and wool form the principal articles of the market. The ſituation is pleaſant, dry, and healthy, and there are ſeveral public ſchools. In the beginning of the heptarchy, the river was navigable for ſhips up to the town; and, in 879, the Danes erected two forts here, for the ſecurity of their veſſels, but Alfred turned the courſe of the river, ſo that their ſhips were left on dry ground. Hertford is much diminiſhed in it's ſplendour, ſince the N. road was turned through Ware. It is 2 miles W. by S. of Ware, and 21 N. of London. Markets on Thurſday and Saturday.

HERTFORDSHIRE, or HERTS, a county of England, bounded on the W. by Bedfordſhire and Buckinghamſhire; on the N. by Bedfordſhire and Cambridgeſhire; on the E. by Eſſex; and on the S. by Middleſex. It is 27 miles long from N. to S. and 33 broad from E. to W. and is divided into 8 hundreds, which contain 18 market towns, 135 pariſhes, 950 villages, about 16,500 houſes, and 82,800 inhabitants. The northern ſkirt of this county is hilly, forming a ſcattered part of the chalky ridge, which extends acroſs the kingdom in this direction. A number of ſtreams take their riſe from this ſide, which, by their cleanneſs, ſhew the general nature of the ſoil to be inclined to hardneſs, and but indifferent for meadow land. Flint ſtones are ſcattered, in great profuſion, over the face of the country; and beds of chalk are frequently to be met with. It is found, however, with the aid of proper culture, to be extremely favourable to corn, both wheat and barley. The weſtern part is, in general, a tolerably rich ſoil, and under excellent cultivation. The principal commodities of the county are wheat, barley, malt, and wood. The air is celebrated as very wholeſome; and the principal rivers are the Lea, Stort, Coln, Gade, Bean, and Rib.

Hertley Mawdet, Hants, SE. of Alton.

HERTZBERG, a town in the electorate of Saxony.

Herwey's Hill, in Derry, Ulſter.

HERVEY'S ISLAND, an iſland in the S. Pacific Ocean, compoſed of 3 or 4 ſmall iſlands, united together by rocks covered with the ſea. It is about 18 miles in circumference. Lat. 19. 18. N. lon. 158. 54. W.

Heryard, Hants, near Baſingſtoke.

HESDIN, a fortified town in the dept. of Pas de Calais, ſeated on the river Canche, 25 miles SSW. of St. Omer, and 165 nearly N. of Paris.

Heſelridge, Northumb. NE. of Woller.

Heſhey, Northumb. N. of Morpeth.

HESKET, NEWMARKET, a town of Cumberland, W. of Penrith, and SW. of Carliſle. It is ſeated in a valley, on the river Caulder, where the Caldbeck falls into it, 295 miles from London. Market on Friday.

Heſket in the Foreſt, Cumberland, SE. of Carliſle, and in the Foreſt of Englewood.

Heſketh, Lanc. between Eccleſton and the Ribble. Heſkew, Cumberl. near Alſton Moor. Heſle, Nott. a hamlet of Harworth. Heſle, Yorkſ. near the Humber, over which there is a horſe-ferry to Barton in Lincolnſhire. It is about 5 miles SW. of Hull. Heſleyſide, Northumb. in Billingham pariſh. Heſlington, near York. Heſpyn, a river in Denbighſ. which runs into the Clwyd below Llanvair, about 2 miles S. of Ruthin.

HESSE, a country of Germany, in the circle of Upper Rhine, more than 80 miles in length, and unequal in breadth. It is ſurrounded by woods and mountains, in which are mines of iron and copper: in the middle are fine plains, fertile in corn and paſtures, and there is plenty of vines, fruits, and honey; birch trees are very common, and they make a ſort of wine of the ſap. They likewiſe cultivate a large quantity of hops, and make excellent beer.

Marble,

Marble, alabaſter, vitriol, ſulphur, lead, alum, pipe-maker's clay, bole, &c. are alſo found in conſiderable quantities; and there are ſeveral ſalt ſprings, mineral waters, and medicinal baths. The houſe of Heſſe is divided into two branches, namely, Heſſe Caſſel and Heſſe-Darmſtadt. In both families are princes appenaged; thoſe of Heſſe-Caſſel are Heſſe-Philippſthal and Rhinfels. Heſſe-Homburg is the only appenage of Heſſe-Darmſtadt. Each of theſe have the title of Landgrave.

Heſſelton, Cold, Durham, on the coaſt, N. of Eaſington. Heſſelton, Hale and Monk, E. of Durham. Heſſoljkugh, Aſh, Yorkſ. SW. of Beverley. Heſt, Lanc. in Loynſdale. Heſtburn Paſſage, NW. of Lancaſter. Heſtdaſh, Cumb. N. of Picts' Walls, by Aſkerton Caſtle. Heſtercomb, Somerſetſ. N. of Taunton. Heſterton, E. and W. Yorkſ. E. of New Malton. Heſton, Midd. NW. of Hounſlow. Heſton, or Heathſtone, Devonſhire, near Moreton. Heſwal, or Haſlewall, Cheſh. on the Dee, near Gayton Hall. Hetchſten, Somerſetſ. near Bruton. Hethall, Northumb. in the lordſhip of Woller. Hethberton, Devonſ. W. of Exeter. Hethcote. SE. of Warwick. Hethcote, Warwickſ. in Waſperton pariſh, NW. of the former. Hethel, Norf. near Windham. Hether Hill, Surry, in Darking pariſh. Hetherſet, near Norwich. Hethfelton, Dorſetſ. 2 miles NW. of Stoke. Hethfield, Somerſetſ. 4 miles W. of Taunton. Hethmore, Somerſetſ. E. of Brent Marſh. Hethop, Oxf. near Kiddington. Hethpoole, Northumb. NW. of the Cheviot Hills. Hetoſte, Linc. NE. of Alford, near the ſea. Hett, S. of Durham. Hetton in the Hole, and Hetton on the Hill, NE. of Durham.

HEUDICOURT, a town in the dept. of the Meuſe, 14 miles W. of Pont a Mouſſon; and a town in the dept. of the Somme, 9 miles NNE. of Peronne.

Heveningham, Suff. SW. of Haleſworth. Hever, Kent, NW. of Penſherſt. everland, Norf. near Repeham.

HEVERLE. a town of Brabant; 2 miles S. of Louvain.

HEUKELUM, a town of Holland, on the river Linge, 5 miles NNE. of Gorcum.

HEUSDEN, a town of Holland, or, as ſome ſay, Brabant, ſituated on the Meuſe, by a branch of which it is nearly ſurrounded, in the midſt of moraſſes, 15 miles NE. of Breda.

Hewtree, Devonſ. 1 mile and a half without the E. gate of Exeter, and the common place of execution to that city.

HEXHAM. a town of Northumberland, not populous, with narrow ſtreets and ill-built houſes. It's market-place, however, near the centre of the town, is a ſpacious ſquare, ſupplied by a fountain with water. It's preſent church, which contains many ancient tombs, bears conſiderable marks of Saxon grandeur, and it was formerly famous for an abbey. The church had the privilege of a ſanctuary till the reformation, (the extent of the privilege being marked by a croſs, at a mile diſtance each way) and the Fridſtol, or Stool of Peace, which, whoever took poſſeſſion of, was ſure of remiſſion, is ſtill remaining. On the ſcreen, at the entrance of the choir, are ſome ſtrange monaſtic paintings, called the Dance of Death. Hexham is believed to have been formerly a Roman ſtation. It is now principally noted for it's manufactory of tanned leather, ſhoes, and gloves; and is ſituated on a ſmall ſtream, called the Hextold, near the Tyne, 22 miles W. of Newcaſtle, and 284 NNW. of London. Markets on Tueſday and Saturday.

Hexley, Northumb. NE. of Alnwick. Hexton, Herts, near Luton in Bedfordſ. Heybarnes, or Heymill, Herts, on the Coln, SW. of Yardley. Heybridge, Eſſex, on the ſame river, oppoſite to Malden.

HEYDEN, and HEYDEN BRIGG, a town of Northumberland, with a well-endowed grammar ſchool, and a fine bridge, of 6 arches, over the Tyne. Market on Tueſday.

Heydon; ſee Headon. Heydon, Eſſex, near Barkway. Heydon, Glouc. in Bodington pariſh. Heyden, Norfolk, NW. of Caſton. Heyford Purcell, and Heyford Warren, Oxfordſ. on the E. bank of the Charwell, NW. of Biceſter. Heyford, Upper and Lower, Northamptonſ. on the Weſtern Water, N. of Bugbrook.

HEYLSHEN, a town in the late Auſtrian Brabant, 14 miles SE. of Louvain.

Heynor, Derbyſhire, S. of Alfreton. Heys, Kent, between Bromley and Weſterham.

HEYTSBURY. See HARESBURY.

Heywood, Lanc. E. of Bury. Heywood, Great and Little, Staff. on the E. ſide of Stafford, near the influx of the Sow into the Trent. Between this place and Sowborough, or Shutborough, there is a horſe bridge over the Trent, the longeſt in England. From the middle of it is a view of uncommon beauty. Heazley Side, Northumb. near Bellingham, on the oppoſite ſide of the river, on the borders of Bedeſdale, on an eminence, clothed with wood, and commanding a beautiful proſpect.

HIATIEN, a town of China, in the province of Petcheli, ſaid to contain near 80,000

30,000 inhabitants. It is 25 miles E. of Peking.

Hiberſtow, Linc. NE. of Kirkton.

HICKERY, a town of Penſylvania.

Hickford, Dorſetſ. N. of Poole. Hickham, N. and S. Linc. near the Witham, S. of Lincoln. Hickleton, Yorkſ. NW. of Doncaſter. Hickling, Nortſ. in a marſh ground near the ſea. Hickling, Nottingh. near Over and Nether Broughton. Hickfin, Staff. near Stow and Charley Caſtle. Hickſted, Suſſex, near Twineham. Hidcote, Glouc. in Mickleton pariſh. Hide, Dorſetſhire, adjoining Blandford. Hide, Dorſetſ. adjoining Pimpern. Hide, Dorſetſ. in Purbeck Iſle, a hamlet to Knolle. Hide, Glouceſ. near Minchinghampton. Hide, Staff. near Penkridge. Hide Hall, Herts, in Sawbridgworth pariſh. Hide, Hall, in Sandon, Herts. Hide Park, Middl. reaches from Park Lane to Kenſington, between the Roads to Bath and Oxford; it has a wall 6 miles round, and a noble baſon of water, called the Serpentine, which ſerves the new buildings of Londor Hide, Weſt, Herts, 2 miles from Edgeware. Hide, Weſt, near Hereford.

HIELMAR, a lake of Sudermania, about 30 miles long, and from 2 to 7 wide. It is 60 miles W. of Stockholm.

HIERES, a cluſter of ſmall iſlands, in the Mediterranean Sea, on the coaſt of the dept. of Var. Three of them, namely, Porquerolles, Porteros, or Port Croſs, and Bageau, are inhabited, and the Ile of Titan, the largeſt of them, is capable of cultivation. They abound with medicinal plants. Between theſe iſlands and the continent, is the Roady or Gulf, of Hieres, an excellent and capacious pool or harbour.

HIERES, a town in the dept. of Var, ſeated in a pleaſant and fruitful country, in which are found the beſt fruits of France; but it's harbour being choked up it is now much decayed During great part of the winter, the verdure of the country is as fine as in the ſpring, and, in many gardens, green peas may be gathered. Near the town are large ſalt-works. It is ſituated on the ſide of a hill, with a canal cut from the ſalt lakes to the ſea, 10 miles E. of Toulon, and 350 S. by E. of Paris. Lat. 43. 5. N. 6. 20. E.

HIERO. See FERRO.

HIESMES, a town in the dept. of Orne, 10 miles from Seez, and 90 W of Paris.

High Bickington, Devonſ. 7 miles S. of Barnſtaple. High Bridge, Herts, over the Coln, near More Hall. High Bridge, Somerſetſ. in Brent Marſh. High Budley, Devonſhire. High Clere, Hants. High Croſs, Glouceſ. near Aſhelworth. High Croſs, Herts, near Thunbridge. High Croſs, Leic. near Sharnford, on the borders of Warwickſ. It is the ancient Benonis, and is noted for divers Roman antiquities. It is thought by ſome to be the centre, and the higheſt ground of England. High Down, Suſſex, W. of Ferring. High Field, E. of Lancaſter. High Gate, Kent, in Hawkhurſt pariſh. High Gate, or Yate, Cumb. on the Cauder, near Roſe Caſtle. High Hale, Cornw. on the S. ſide of Treſmeer. High Hall, Dorſetſ. near Winborne Minſter. High Street, Herts, near Heunpſted. High Street, Glouc. in Stanley King's pariſh. High Way, Wilts, NE. of Calne. High Weak, or Hic, Dev. near Newton Buſhel. Higham, Derb. N. of Alfreton. Higham, Kent, E. of Graveſend, near the Hope. Higham, Leiceſ. S. of Boſworth. Higham, near Norwich. Higham, Somerſ. S. of Sedgmoor. Higham, Suffolk, NE. of Neyland. Higham, Yorkſhire, W. Riding, SE. of Sherborn. Higham, Cold, Northamptonſhire, SW. of Bugbrook.

HIGHAM FERRERS, a ſmall, but clean, dry, healthy, and pleaſant town of Northamptonſhire, with a caſtle near the church, the ruins of which are ſtill viſible. It is pleaſantly ſeated on an aſcent, near the river Nen, 14 miles NE. of Northampton, and 69 NNW. of London. Market on Saturday.

Higham Park, Northamp. SE. of Higham Ferrers. Higham Gobion, Bedf. SE. of Ampthill. Highgate, a large, populous hamlet, in the pariſhes of Horneſey and Pancras, 4 miles N. by W. of London. It has it's name from it's high ſituation on the top of a hill, and a gate erected there about 400 years ago, to receive toll for the biſhop of London. Some of the public houſes here have, or lately had, a large pair of horns placed on the ſign; and when the country people ſtop for refreſhment, a pair of large horns, fixed to the end of a ſtaff, is brought to them, and they are preſſed to be ſworn. If they conſent, a kind of burleſque oath is adminiſtered, that they will never eat brown bread when they can get white, and other things of the ſame kind, which is altered according to the ſexes, and which they repeat after the perſon who brings the horns; being allowed, however, to add to each article the words "except I like the other better." The whole being over, they muſt kiſs the horns, and pay a ſhilling for the oath. Highley, Devonſ. near Okeford. Highley, Northumb. N. of Morpeth. Highley, Shropſ. N. of Wire Forest. Highlow, Derbyſ.

Derbyſ. in the High Peak. Highnam, 2 miles from Glouceſter. Highney, Huntingdonſ. near Bruce Caſtle. Highon, Staff. SW. of Eccleſhal. Highover, Herts, NE. of Hitchin. Highstington, Worceſ. in Rake pariſh.

HIGH TOWN, a town of Georgia, in N. America.

Highway, Wilts, NE. of Calne. Highwick, or Wick, Herts, near Sawbridgeworth. High Wick, vulgarly pronounced Hic, Devonſ. on the river Teign, near Newton Buſhel. High-wood Hill, Midd. in Totteridge pariſh.

*HIGHWORTH, a town of Wilts, ſeated on the top of a hill, near the Vale of White Horſe, 36 miles N. of Saliſbury, and 77 NNW. of London. A market for cattle, &c. on Wedneſday.

Hilborough, Norf. SW. of Watton.

HILBURGHAUSEN, a town, capital of a principality of Upper Saxony, ſituated on the Werra, 28 miles N. of Bamberg.

Hilcot, Glouceſ. in Withington pariſh. Hildcot, Staffordſ. near Eccleſhall. Hilden, Kent, near Tunbridge. Hilderſham, Camb. near Linton and Horſeheath. Hilderſkill, Yorkſ. SW. of New Malton. Hilderſton, Norf. E. of Fakenham. Hilderſton, Staff. E. of Stone. Hilderton, Northumb. in the barony of Wark.

HILDESHEIM, a pretty large city, capital of a princely biſhopric of Lower Saxony, about 40 miles long and 32 wide. It is ſituated near the Innerſca, 26 miles WSW. of Brunſwick.

Hilditch, Linc. N. of Bolton. Hildkirk, Cumberland; ſee Ilkirk. Hilfarence, Somerſ. near Taunton. Hilfield, Dorſetſ. near Batcomb. Hill, Hants, near Southampton. Hill, Hants, near Walton. Hill, Herefordſ. near Roſs. Hill, Herts, NE. of Watford. Hill, Ile of Wight, in E. Medina. Hill, Lanc. near Chorley. Hill, Somerſetſ. near Taunton. Hill, Warw. a part of the manor of Sutton Colefield. Hill, Warw. in the pariſh of Lemington Haſtang. Hill, Worc. NE. of Perſhore. Hill, or Hull, Glouceſ. SW. of Berkeley. Hill, Hull, or King's Hull, Warw. in Stonely pariſh. Hills, Suſſex, near Horſham. Hill Court, Worceſ. in the pariſh of Grafton Flifford. Hill End, Glouc. in Twining pariſh. Hil Hall, Eſſex, SE. of Epping. Hill Houſe, Suffolk, near Ipſwich.

HILL MORTON, a town of Warwickſhire, ſeated on a rivulet that comes from Creek in Northamptonſhire, and falls into the Avon below Clifton, partly on a hill, and partly on mooriſh ground, from whence it has it's name, not far from Rugby, and 83 miles NW. of London. Market on Tueſday.

Hill Pool, Worc. in the pariſh of Chaddeſley Corbet. Hill Wotton, Warw. near Milverton.

Hill of Allen, in Kildare, Leinſter.

Hillary, Cornwall, E. of Mount's Bay. Hillbishop, Somerſetſ. NE. of Wellington. Hillborough, Warw. E. of Bidford. Hillend, Herts, SW. of St. Alban's. Hillesden, SE. of Buckingham. Hillfield, Dorſetſhire, S. of the Vale of White Hart. Hillingdon, Great and Little, Midd. near Uxbridge. In the church yard of Great Hillingdon, is a remarkably high yew tree, which, by the pariſh book, appears to be above 200 years old. Hillington, Norf. near Caſtle Riſing. Hillington, Worceſ. near Whitley. Hillom, Yorkſ. W. Riding, S. of Sherborn.

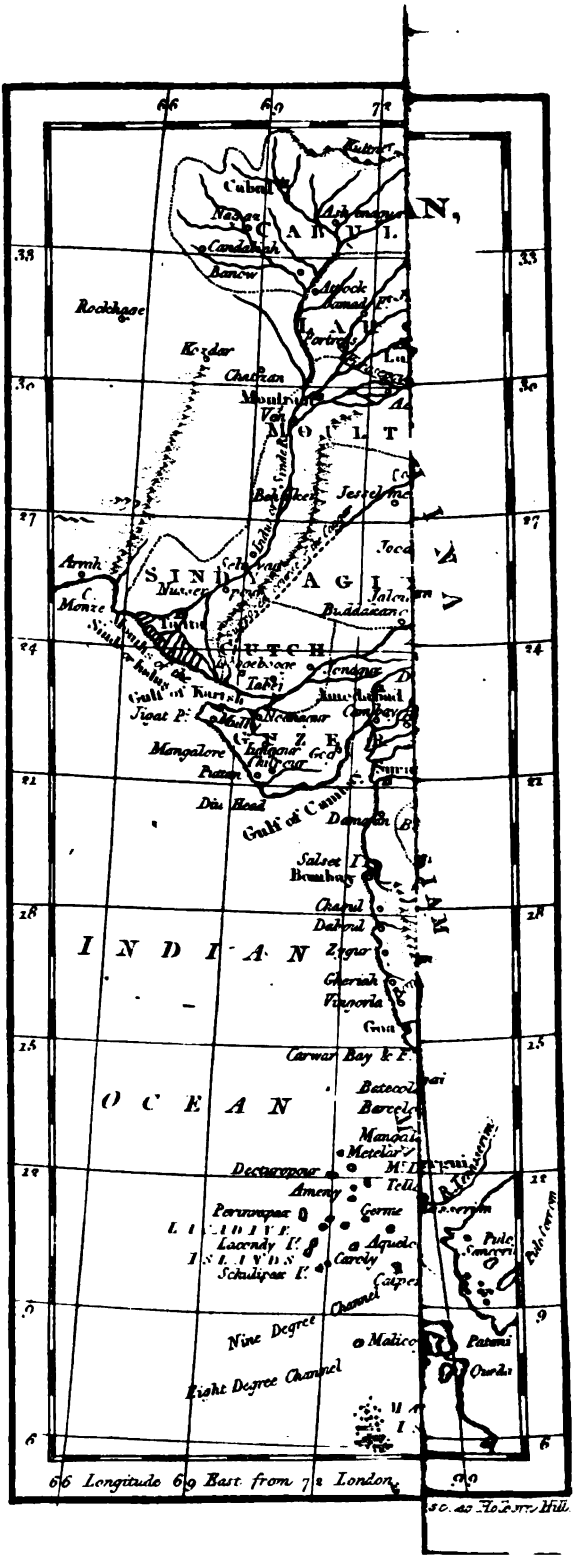
*HILLSBOROUGH, an almoſt newly-built town in the county of Down, Ulſter, with a thriving manufacture of muſlins. It is pleaſantly ſituated in view of Belfaſt, Liſburn, and Carrickfergus Bay, 69 miles N. of Dublin.

HILLSBOROUGH, a town of Carolina.

Hilmarton, Wilts, 6 miles SE. of Malmſbury. Hilperton, Wilts, near Trowbridge. Hilley, Glouc. in the pariſh of Tewkeſbury. Hilſton, near Monmouth. Hilton, Cornwall, near Langford. Hilton, Derbyſ. NE. of Tutbury Caſtle. Hilton, Durham, near Raby Caſtle. Hilton, Huntingdonſhire, near Fenny Stanton. Hilton, Little, Middle, and Upper, Lancaſh. S. of Bolton. Hilton, Yorkſhire, in Cleveland. Hilton, Yorkſhire, in Holderneſs. Hilton, Yorkſhire, N. Riding, SW. of Maſham. Hilton, Upper and Lower, Yorkſhire, near New Malton. Hilton Abbey, Staff. near Brewood. Hilton Caſtle, Durham, by the Wear river, near Monkwearmouth. Hilton Hall, Staff. NE. of Wolverhampton. Himbleton, Worc. SE. of Droitwich, and NE. of Worceſter. Himley, Staff. SW. of Wolverhampton. In this pariſh there is a blade-mill, at which ſcythes, reaping hooks, axes, hatchets, and ſuch like tools, forged by the white-ſmiths, are ground to a fine edge. All theſe inſtruments are made of iron, firſt ſoftened with fat, unctuous bodies, as oil, wax, ſuet, &c. as iron for carts, ploughſhares, horſe locks and ſhoes, nails, and buckles are of iron hardened by art.

HIMMALEH, MOUNT, a vaſt chain of mountains, in Aſia, which extends from Cabul, along the N. of Hindooſtan, and appears to be the general boundary of Thibet, through the whole extent, from the Ganges to the river Teeſta, and particularly



Cabul
Candahar
Banow
Rockhage
Kozdar
Chatzan
Montrin
Ven
Jesselme
Arrah
C. Monze
Nusser
Buddakan
Tabei
Jonagur
Gulf of Kurtsh
Jigat P.
Mangalore
Putan
Diu Head
Gulf of Cambay
Salset I.
Bombay
Chaul
Dabul
Zygur
Gheriah
Vingorla
Goa
Carwar Bay & P.
Batecol
Barcelo
Mangal
Metelar
Decuropour
Ameny
Perumpax
Germe
Laccadive Islands
Laccondy I.
Aquelo
Carely
Schulipax I.
Calpe
Nine Degree Channel
Malico
Eight Degree Channel
Patani
Ourda
INDIAN OCEAN
66 Longitude 69 East from 72 London

cularly ſeparating the countries of Cachimere and Cashgar from it; incloſing between it and Hindooſtan Proper, a tract of country from about 100 to 180 miles in breadth, divided into a number of ſmall ſtates, none of which are underſtood to be tributaries, or feudatories of Thibet; ſuch as Sirinagur, Napaul, &c. This ridge was known to the ancients by the names of Imaus, and the Indian Caucaſus. The natives call it Hindoo-Ko, (the Indian Mountains) as well as Himmaleh, which laſt is a Sanſcrit word, ſignifying ſnowy; it's ſummit being covered with ſnow.

HIMS, or HEMS, a town of Syria, ſituated at the foot of Mount Libanus, in a plain, watered by a canal, which communicates with the Orontes, 93 miles N. of Damaſcus. In the neighbourhood are the remains of a caſtle, ſuppoſed to have been built by the ancient kings of Aſſyria. The inhabitants carry on a conſiderable traffic in ſilk.

HIN, a town of China, of the ſecond rank, in the province of Chenſi, 200 miles SW. of Pekin; and a town of China, of the ſecond rank, in the province of Kiangnan, 480 miles SSE. of Pekin.

Hinam, 2 miles from Glouceſter. Hincaſtre, Weſtmorl. near Haverſham. Hinchingbrook, near Huntingdon, late a ſeat of the Earl of Sandwich, in which is one of the moſt magnificent rooms to be ſeen in England.

HINCHINBROOK ISLAND, one of the New Hebrides, in the S. Pacific Ocean, a little to the N. of Sandwich Iſlands: it is about 6 miles in circumference.

HINCKLEY, an ancient town of Leiceſterſhire, containing 2 churches, and about 750 houſes. From a high ground near the town, 50 churches may be ſeen, beſides gentlemen's ſeats. It was formerly much larger, as the back lanes between the orchards appear to have been once ſtreets. It has a conſiderable manufactory of ſtockings and fine ale. It is 13 miles SW. of Leiceſter, and 91 NNW. of London. A good market on Monday, and a noted fair on Auguſt 28.

Hinckneal, Dorſetſ. W of W. Milton. Hindcomb, Dorſetſ. a hamlet of Chidiock.

HINDELOPEN, or HINLOPEN, a ſeaport of W. Frieſland, the inhabitants of which are principally employed in fiſhing and in building ſmall veſſels. It is ſeated on the Zuyder Zee, with a ſmall harbour, 21 miles SSW. of Lewarden.

Hinderclay, Suffolk, near Buddeſdale. Hinderthwaite, Yorkſ. N. Riding, near Rumbaldkirk. Hinder-well, Yorkſ. N. Riding, on the coaſt, W. of Runſwick.

Hindlep and Alfreton, a pariſh a little NE. of Worceſter.

HINDON, an ancient town of Wilts, 20 miles nearly W. of Saliſbury, and 97 WSW. of London. Market on Thurſday.

HINDOOSTAN, a celebrated region of Aſia, which, in it's moſt extenſive ſignification, compriſes all the countries between the mountains of Tartary and Thibet on the N.; the countries of Aſſam, Meckley, Aracan, and the Bay of Bengal on the E. and SE.; the Indian Ocean on the S.; and the ſame ocean and Perſia on the W. But it may be more ſtrictly conſidered under the three grand diviſions of Hindooſtan Proper, the Deccan, and the Peninſula. Hindooſtan Proper, includes all the countries that lie to the N. of the river Nerbudda, and of the ſoubahs of Bahar and Bengal. The principal ſoubahs, or provinces, in Hindooſtan Proper, are Agimere, Agra, Caſhmere, Delhi, Guzerat, Lahore, Malwa, Moultan, Oude, Rohilcund, Sindy, &c. (for an account of which, ſee their reſpective names.) The term Deccan, which ſignifies the South, has been extended to the whole region that lies to the S. of Hindooſtan Proper; but in it's moſt proper and limited ſenſe, it means only the countries ſituated between Hindooſtan Proper, the Carnatic, the Weſtern Indian Sea, and Oriſſa; namely, the provinces of Candeiſh, Dowlatabad, Viſiapour, Golconda, and the Weſtern part of Berar. All the tract S. of the Kiſtna, is generally called the Peninſula. The name India, by which this country, as far as it was known, is diſtinguiſhed in the earlieſt Greek hiſtories, appears to be derived from Hind, the name given to it by the ancient Perſians, through whom the knowledge of the country was tranſmitted to the Greeks. The word Hindoostan is, indeed, entirely of Perſian origin, compounded of Stan, a region, and Hind, or Hindoo. The whole of Hindooſtan may now be ſaid to conſiſt of ſix principal ſtates, which hold as tributaries, or feudatories, ſome numerous inferior ſtates. Theſe ſix principal ſtates are the Britiſh; the Poonah Mahrattas; the Behrar Mahrattas; Nizam Ally, ſoubah of the Deccan; Myſore, or the dominions of Tippoo Sultan; and the Seiks. The Britiſh poſſeſſions are Bengal, the greater part of Bahar, part of Allahabad, part of Oriſſa, the Northern Circars, a jaghire in the Carnatic, Baramahal, Dindigul, and ſome conſiderable countries to the N. and S. of Calicut, on the coaſt of Malabar, with Bombay, and the Iſland of Salſette. The allies of the Britiſh, who may be conſidered as dependent on them, are the nabob of Oude; the nabob of the Carnatic, including Tanjore, Madura, Tinevelly, and Marrawars; the rajahs of Travancore; and the territory of Cochin. The Indian territory held by England, either in direct ſubjection, or through the intervention of dependent allies, contains more than 20,000,000 of inhabitants, and yields an annual revenue of 8,000,000 ſterling. For the five other principal ſtates, ſee their reſpective names; and for an account of ſome inferior independent ſtates, ſee BUNDELA, BALLOGISTAN, THE JATS, ROHILCUND, &c.

Excluſive of the Europeans, the inhabitants of Hindooſtan are computed at 10,000,000 Mahometans, and 100,000,000 Hindoos. The Mahometans, or Muſſulmans, whom the Engliſh commonly, but improperly, call Moors, or Moormen, are repreſented as bearing a very bad character. The Hindoos, or Gentoos, are of a black complexion, their hair long, their perſons ſtraight, their limbs neat, their fingers long and tapering, and their countenances open and pleaſant. They are divided into different tribes or caſts. The four principal tribes are the bramins, ſoldiers, labourers, and mechanics; and theſe are ſubdivided into a multiplicity of inferior diſtinctions. There are bramins of various degrees, who have the care of religion, or of the adminiſtration of the Gentoo law allotted to them. Theſe prieſts are held ſacred by the Indians or Hindoos. Thoſe who engage in worldly purſuits are generally the worſt of all the Gentoos; for, perſuaded that the waters of the Ganges will purify them from their ſins, and exempted from the utmoſt rigour of the courts of juſtice, (under the Gentoo governments) they run into the greateſt exceſſes. The ſoldiers are commonly called Rajah-poots; that is, deſcendants of the rajahs. They readily enter into the ſervice of any that will pay them, and follow wherever he leads. The Engliſh have many battalions of them in their employ, under the name of Sepoys. The labourers include farmers, and all who cultivate the land. The mechanics include merchants, bankers, and all who follow any trade; theſe again are ſubdivided into each particular branch. Beſides theſe, there are the Parians, or Hallachores, who cannot be called a tribe, being rather the refuſe or outcaſts of the other tribes. They are a ſet of poor unhappy people, who are deſtined to perform the moſt diſagreeable offices of life, bury the dead, and carry away every thing that is polluted. One deſcription of theſe, or rather the outcaſts of theſe outcaſts, the Poulichees, on the Malabar coaſt, are held in ſuch abomination, that if one of them happen to touch a Hindoo of a ſuperior tribe, the latter does not ſcruple to draw his ſabre and kill him on the ſpot; and for ſo atrocious an act, he is not even called to an account. All the different tribes are kept diſtinct from each other, by inſurmountable barriers; they are forbidden to intermarry, to dwell together, to eat with each other, or even to drink out of the ſame veſſel; and if they tranſgreſs any of theſe rules, they are obliged from that inſtant to join with the Hallachores. The Hindoos admit no converts, and are moſt firmly attached to their own ſuperſtitions, except the Hallachores, who are, ſome of them, glad to be admitted into any ſociety where they are treated as fellow creatures. The Hindoos vie with the Chineſe, in reſpect to the antiquity of their nation; and the doctrine of tranſmigration is one of their diſtinguiſhing tenets. Their inſtitutions of religion form a regular and complete ſyſtem, ſtrengthened and upheld by every thing which can excite the reverence, and ſecure the attachment of the ſuperſtitious multitude. The temples conſecrated to their deities are magnificent; their religious ceremonies ſplendid; and the abſolute dominion which the Bramins have obtained over the minds of the people, is ſupported by the command of the immenſe revenues, with which the liberality of princes, and the zeal of pilgrims and devotees, have enriched their pagodas. The dominion of religion extends, indeed, to a thouſand particulars, which in other countries, are governed by the civil laws, or by taſte, cuſtom, or faſhion. Their dreſs, their food, the common intercourſes of life, their marriages, and profeſſions, are all under the juriſdiction of religion. The food of the Hindoos is ſimple, conſiſting chiefly of rice, ghee, (a kind of imperfect butter), milk, vegetables, and oriental ſpices. The warrior caſt may eat of the fleſh of goats, ſheep, and poultry. Other ſuperior caſts may eat poultry and fiſh; but the inferior caſts are prohibited from eating fleſh or fiſh of any kind. Their greateſt luxury conſiſts in the uſe of the richeſt ſpices and perfumes, of which the great people are very laviſh. They eſteem milk the pureſt of food, becauſe they think it partakes of ſome of the properties of the nectar of their gods, and becauſe they eſteem the cow itſelf almoſt as a divinity. Their manners are gentle. Their happineſs conſiſts in the ſolaces of domeſtic life; and they are taught by their religion, that matrimony trimony is an indiſpenſable duty in every man, who does not entirely ſeparate himſelf from the world, from a principle of devotion. Their religion permits them to have ſeveral wives; but they ſeldom have more than one; and their wives are diſtinguiſhed by a decency of demeanour, a ſolicitude in their families, and a fidelity to their vows, which might do honour to human nature, in the moſt civilized countries. The cuſtom of women burning themſelves on the death of their huſbands, is ſtill practiſed in Hindooſtan. In 1743, near Coſſimbuzar, when a widow, about 18, with three children, the eldeſt not 4 years of age, was ſtrongly urged to live, for the ſake of the future care of her infants; notwithſtanding this, and though the agonies of death were deſcribed to her in the ſtrongeſt colours, ſhe put her finger into the fire with a calm and determined countenance, and held it a conſiderable time. She then, with one hand put fire into the palm of the other, ſprinkled incenſe on it, and fumigated the Bramins. Being then told, that ſhe would not be permitted to burn, ſhe reſolutelyanſwered, that death was in her own power, and that if ſhe was not allowed to burn, ſhe would ſtarve herſelf. Her friends were obliged, at laſt, to conſent to the dreadful ſacrifice of this woman, who was of high rank. But, in 1781, Mr. Hodges was witneſs, near Benares, to the ſacrifice of one of an inferior caſt, the widow of a merchant. "Repairing to the ſpot," ſays he, "on the banks of a river, where the ceremony was to take place, I found the body of the man on a bier, covered with linen, already laid at the edge of the river. At this time, ten in the morning, only a few people were aſſembled, who diſplayed the moſt perfect apathy and indifference. After waiting a conſiderable time, the wife appeared, attended by the Bramins, and muſic, with a few relations. The proceſſion was ſlow and ſolemn; the victim moved with a ſteady and firm ſtep; and, with a perfect compoſure of countenance, approached cloſe to the body, where for ſome time they halted. She then addreſſed thoſe who were near her, without the leaſt trepidation of voice, or change of countenance. She held in her left hand a cocoa-nut, in which was a red colour mixed, and dipping in it the fore finger of her right hand, ſhe marked thoſe near her, to whom ſhe wiſhed to ſhow the laſt act of attention. She might be about 24 years of age. Her dreſs was a looſe robe of white flowing drapery, that extended from her head to the feet. The pile was compoſed of dried branches, leaves, and ruſhes, with a door on one ſide, and arched, and covered on the top; by the ſide of the door ſtood a man with a lighted brand. From the time the woman appeared, to the taking up of the body to convey it into the pile, might occupy half an hour, which was employed in prayer with the Bramins, in attentions to thoſe near her, and converſation with her relations. When the body was taken up, ſhe followed cloſe to it, attended by the chief Bramin; and when it was depoſited in the pile, ſhe bowed to all around her, and entered without ſpeaking. The moment ſhe entered, the door was cloſed; the fire was put to the combuſtibles, which inſtantly flamed, and quantities of dried wood were thrown upon it. This laſt part of the ceremony was accompanied with the ſhouts of the multitude, who now became numerous, and the whole ſeemed a maſs of confuſed rejoicing. In other parts of India, as the Carnatic, this dreadful cuſtom is accompanied with ſtill greater horror. It is aſſerted, that they dig a pit, in which is depoſited a large quantity of combuſtible matter, which is ſet on fire, and the body being let down, the victim throws herſelf into the flaming maſs. In other places, a pile is raiſed extremely high, and the body, with the wife is placed upon it, and then the whole is ſet on fire." In the Code of Gentoo Laws, tranſlated by N. B. Halhead, Eſq. is the following remarkable paſſage concerning this practice: "It is proper for a woman, after her huſband's death to burn herſelf in the fire with his corpſe. Every woman, who thus burns herſelf, ſhall remain in paradiſe with her huſband three crore and fifty lacks of years, by deſtiny. If ſhe cannot burn, ſhe muſt, in that caſe, preſerve an inviolable chaſtity; if ſhe remain always chaſte, ſhe goes to paradiſe; and if ſhe do not preſerve her chaſtity, ſhe goes to hell." This code of laws, with their ſacred books, the Veidam and the Shaſtah, were written in the Sanſcrit language, which is very copious and nervous, although the ſtyle of their beſt authors is wonderfully conciſe. Hindooſtan, towards the N. is pretty temperate; but hot toward the S. and it rains almoſt conſtantly for three months in the year. It's products are rice, millet, cotton, figs, pomegranates, oranges, lemons, citrons, cocoa-trees, &c. There are mines of gold, ſilver, and diamonds. Beſide domeſtic animals, here are elephants, rhinoceroſes, buffaloes, lions, tigers, leopards, panthers, and monkeys, with camels and dromedaries. It's principal exports are ſugar, indigo, digo, ſaltpetre, ſilk, cotton, and precious ſtones; and particularly calicoes, chintzes, muſlins, &c.

Hindringham, Norf. near Walſingham.

HINGHAM, a town of Norfolk, 15 miles W. of Norwich, and 97 NE. of London. Market on Saturday.

Hinkſell, Kent, E. of Aſhford. Hinkſey Laurence and South, Berks, both on the Thames, 2 miles from Oxford. Hinnock, Bedfordſ. NW. of Harold. Hinſtock, Shropſ. N. of Newport. Hintleſham, Suffolk, between Hadley and Ipſwich. Hinton, Berks, NE. of Farringdon. Hinton, Glouceſterſ. near Pucklechurch. Hinton, Glouceſterſ. in Berkeley pariſh. Hinton, Glouceſ. 8 miles from Campden. Hinton, Glouceſterſ. in Durham pariſh. Hinton, Hants, SE. of Ringwood. Hinton, Oxf. near Radcotbridge. Hinton, Suffolk, near Dunwich. Hinton, Broad, Wiltſhire, 5 miles NW. of Malborough. Hinton, Cherry, Camb. near Gogmagog Hills. Hinton, Little, Dorſetſ. near Winborn Minſter. Hinton Martel, Dorſetſ. by Wichampton. Hinton, Mary, Dorſetſ. near Ewrin Courtney. Hinton under Hill, Glouceſ. near Bredon Hills. Hints, Staff. near the Black Brook, which runs below it into the Tame, W. of Tamworth. Near it is a large Roman tumulus, now turned into a hard rock. Hinwick, Bedf. near Puddington, with a manufactory of thread lace. Hinxton, Camb. SW. of Linton. Hinxworth, Herts, near Aſhwell.

HINZUAN, or JOANNA, one of the Comora Iſlands, between the N. end of Madagaſcar, and the continent of Africa, has been governed, for the laſt two centuries, by a colony of Arabs. Some account of it has been written by Sir William Jones, for the Society for the promoting of Oriental Knowledge, of which he was preſident. He viſited this iſland, on board the Crocodile frigate, in July, 1783. On anchoring in the bay, the frigate was ſoon ſurrounded by canoes, and the deck crowded with natives of all ranks, from the high-born chief, who waſhed linen, to the half-naked ſlave, who only paddled. Moſt of them had letters of recommendation from Engliſhmen, which none of them were able to read, though they ſpoke Engliſh intelligibly. The appearance of the iſland from the Bay of Hinzuan, is thus deſcribed by the ſame writer: "We were at anchor in a bay, and before us was a vaſt amphitheatre, of which you may form a general notion by picturing in your minds a multitude of hills, infinitely varied in ſize and figure, and then ſuppoſing them to be thrown together, with a kind of artleſs ſymmetry, in all imaginable poſitions. The back ground was a ſeries of mountains, one of which is pointed, near half a mile perpendicularly high from the level of the ſea, and little more than three miles from the ſhore; all of them richly clothed with wood, chiefly fruit-trees, of an exquiſite verdure. I had ſeen many mountains of a ſtupendous height in Wales and Swiſſerland, but never ſaw one before, round the boſom of which the clouds were almoſt continually rolling, while it's green ſummit roſe flouriſhing above them, and received from them an additional brightneſs. Next to this diſtant range of hills, was another tier, part of which appeared charmingly verdant, and part rather barren; but the contraſt of colours changed even this nakedneſs into a beauty: nearer ſtill were innumerable mountains, or rather cliffs, which brought down their verdure and fertility quite to the beach; ſo that every ſhade of green, the ſweeteſt of colours, was diſplayed at one view, by land and by water. But nothing conduced more to the variety of this enchanting proſpect than the many rows of palm-trees, eſpecially the tall and graceful Aracas, on the ſhores, in the valleys, and on the ridges of hills, where one might almoſt ſuppoſe them to have been planted regularly by deſign. A more beautiful appearance can ſcarce be conceived, than ſuch a number of elegant palms in ſuch a ſituation, with luxurian tops, like verdant plumes, placed at juſt intervals, and ſhewing between the part of the remoter landſcape, while they left the reſt to be ſupplied by the beholder's imagination. Neither the territory of Nice, with it's olives, date-trees, and cypreſſes, nor the Iſles of Hieres, with the delightful orange-groves, appeared ſo charming to me as the view from the roa of Hinzuan." The town where the kin reſides is at the E. ſide of the iſland; an though it is three quarters of a mile i length, it does not contain above 2 houſes. This town is cloſe to the ſea, the foot of a very high hill. The houſ are incloſed either with high ſtone wall or palings made with a kind of reed; a the ſtreets are little, narrow alleys, e tremely intricate, and forming a perfe labyrinth. The better kind of houſes a built of ſtone, within a court-yard, have portico to ſhield them from the ſun, a one long, lofty room, where they recei gueſts; the other apartments being a propriated to the women. The ſides their rooms are covered with a number ſmall mirrors, bits of china-ware, and oth little ornaments, that they procure fr

t

the ſhips: the moſt ſuperb of them are furniſhed with cane ſofas, covered with chintz and ſatin matreſſes. The horned cattle are a kind of buffaloes, having a large hump on their ſhoulders, which is very delicious eating; but there is not one horſe, mule nor aſs, in all the iſland. The original natives, in number about 7000, occupy the hills, and are generally at war with the Arabian interlopers, who eſtabliſhed themſelves on the ſea-coaſt by conqueſt, and are about 3000 in number. Though Joanna is not the largeſt, it may be reckoned the principal of the Comora Iſlands; it claims ſovereignty over, and exacts tribute from all the others. They have a regular form of government, and exerciſe the Mahometan religion; both being introduced by the Arabians. The colour of theſe two races of men are very different; the Arabs have not ſo deep a tinge as the others, being of a copper complexion, with neater features and a more animated countenance. They conſider a black ſtreak under the eye as ornamental; and this they make, every day, with a painting bruſh dipt in a kind of ointment. The cuſtom of chewing the betel-nut prevails greatly here, as in moſt of the eaſtern countries; and anſwers to the faſhion of ſmoking tobacco or taking ſnuff with us, except that with them it is more general. No one is without a purſe or bag of betel; and it is looked on as a piece of civility to offer to their friend when they meet him, or take leave. Their religion licenſes a pluarlity of wives, and likewiſe concubines. They are extremely jealous of them, and never allow any man to ſee the women: but female ſtrangers are admitted into the haram; and, ſome Engliſh women, whoſe curioſity has led them there, make favourable reports of their beauty, and richneſs of apparel, diſplayed in a profuſion of ornaments of gold, ſilver, and beads, in form of necklaces, bracelets, and ear-rings: they wear half a dozen or more in each, through holes bored along the outer rim of the ear. They are very temperate and abſtemious, wine being forbidden them by the law of Mahomet. They are frequent in prayer, attending their moſques three or four times a day. We are allowed to enter them, on condition of taking off our ſhoes. In prayer the people proſtrate themſelves on the ground, frequently kiſſing it, and expreſſing very fervent devotion. In general they appear to be a courteous and well diſpoſed people, and very fair and honeſt in their dealings, though there are among them ſome inclined to theft, notwithſtanding the puniſhment of it is very exemplary, being amputation of both hands of the delinquent. The inhabitants, like thoſe of moſt hot and tropical countries, are indolent, and do not improve by their labour the richneſs of their exuberant ſoil; indeed, the climate here promotes vegetation to ſuch a degree, as requires little toil in the huſbandman; and that little is denied; ſo that beyond oranges, bananas, pine-apples, cocoa nuts, yams, and purſlain (all growing ſpontaneouſly) few vegetables are met with. Nor are the natural beauties of the iſland inferior to it's other advantages of plenty and fertility; the face of the country is very pictureſque and pleaſing; lofty mountains clothed to their very ſummits, deep and rugged valleys adorned by frequent cataracts, caſcades, woods, rocks, and rivulets, intermixed, form the diverſified landſcape. Groves are ſeen extending over the plains to the very edge of the ſea, formed principally by the cocoa-nut trees, whoſe long and naked ſtems leave a clear and uninterrupted paſſage beneath; while their tufted and over-ſpreading tops form a thick ſhade above, and keep off the ſcorching rays of the ſun. Lat. 12. 14. S. lon. 44. 48. E.

HIO, a town of W. Gothland, ſituated near the Weller Lake, with a good ſalmon fiſhery.

HIORRING, a town of Aalburg, in N. Jutland, once a large place, but almoſt deſtroyed by fire, in 1693. It is 27 miles NNW. of Aalburg.

Hipſford, Eſſex, NW. of Halſted. Hipperholm, Yorkſ. E. of Halifax.

HIRCH HORN, a town of Mentz.

Hirgum, a river in Merioneth ſ. which runs into the Avon, 4 miles below Dolgelly.

HIRSGHBERG, a town of Boleſlau, Bohemia; a conſiderable trading and manufacturing town of Jauet, in Sileſia; a town of Aichſtadt, in Franconia; and a town of Reuſen, in Upper Saxony.

HIRSCHFELD, a town of Erzgeburg, in Upper Saxony.

Hiſham, Northamp. between Wellingborough and Kettering.

HISINGEN, an iſland near the coaſt of Sweden, at the mouth of the Gotha, about 16 miles long and 6 broad. It contains 7 pariſhes. Lat. 57. 45. N. lon. 11. 48. E.

HISPANIOLA. See DOMINGO, ST.

HISSAR, a town, capital of a diſtrict of the ſame name, in the country of Delhi, in Hindooſtan. It is ſituated near the river Surſoory, 112 miles WNW. of Delhi.

Hinſton, Andrew and Ethelred, 3 miles NW. of Cambridge.

HIT, a town of Arabian Irac, ſituated on a river of the ſame name, which ſoon after runs into the Euphrates, 100 miles W. of Bagdad.

Hitcham, Suff. near Bildeſton. Hitchenden, Bucks, N. of High Wycomb.

*HITCHIN, formerly called HITCHEND, a populous town of Hertfordſhire, reckoned the ſecond in the county, for number of ſtreets, houſes, and inhabitants. It is ſituated near a wood called Hitch, on the rivulet Hiz, (which drives two mills here, and runs to Ickleford) 15 miles NNW. of Hertford, and 34 NW. of London. A conſiderable market for wheat, malt, &c. on Tueſday.

Hitchin, Norf. near Snettiſham, a haven for ſmall veſſels. Hith, Hants, 3 miles from Southampton. Hiton, Lancaſ. near Weſt Darby. Hitteſley, Devonſ. 6 miles from Crediton. Hitton, Suffolk.

HITSACKER, a town of Lunenburgh Zell, ſituated on an iſland in the Jetze, 29 miles E. of Lunenburg.

Hoadley, Suſſex, S. of Eaſt Grinſtead. Hoadley, Suſſex, NE. of Lewes.

HOAINGNAN, a city of China, of the firſt rank, in the province of Kiangnan. It is ſituated near a canal, which is above the level of the town, (and conſequently in danger of being inundated, if care be not conſtantly taken to ſecure the dykes) 415 miles SSE. of Pekin.

HOANG, a town of China, of the ſecond rank, in the province of Houquang, 865 miles SSW. of Pekin.

HOANGTCHEOU, a city of China, of the firſt rank, in the province of Houquang. It is ſituated on the Yangtſe, 585 miles S. of Pekin.

HOATCHIT, a country of Chineſe Tartary, governed by a Mongol prince, tributary to the empire. It is formed into two ſtandards, and is ſituated to the N. of Pekin, in about lat. 44. N.

Hoath, Kent, near Reculver. Hobbies, Great and Little, Norfolk, SW. of Wurſted. Hobb's Hill, Kent, NE. of Aſhurſt. Hobb's Houſe, Camb. in the Fens, SW. of Wiſbeach. Hobb's Paſſage, Somerſ. between Brent-Marſh and the ſea. Hobb's Pool, Devonſ. N. of Crediton. Hoby, Leiceſ. NW. of Melton Mowbray.

HOCHBERG, a marquiſate of Briſgau, in Suabia, ſubject to the margrave of Baden Dourlach.

HOCHST, a town of Mentz, Lower Rhine, ſituated on the Maine: and a town of Wertheim, in Franconia.

HOCHSTADT, a town and caſtle of Neuburg, in Bavaria, on the Danube, near which was fought the celebrated battle of Blenheim; alſo a town of Hannau Muntzenburg, Upper Rhine; a town of Bamberg, in Franconia; and a town of Boleſlau, in Bohemia.

Hockenhall, Cheſ. near Tarvin. Hockerell, Hertfordſ. near Biſhop's Stortford. Hockerill, Dorſetſh. near Nottington and Broadway. Hockerton, Nottingh. NE. of Southwell. Hocket, Kent, near Marden. Hockford, Devonſ. in Stockworthy pariſh. Hockham, Great and Little, Norf. W. of Buckenham.

HOCKHEIM, a town of Mentz, ſituated near the conflux of the Rhine and Maine, 4 miles ENE. of Mentz: alſo a town of Worms.

Hockhold, Norfolk. Hockley in the Hole, Bedf. 5 miles N. of Dunſtable. Hockley in the Hole, Eſſex, near S. Fambridge, it a miry road, often overflowed in the winter. It is a long range of houſes, chiefly inns. Hockridge, Devonſ. NW. of Exeter. Hockring, Norfolk, NE. of E. Dereham. Hockwold, Norfolk, 3 miles from Brandon. Hockworthy, Devonſ. N. of Sainford Peverel. Hocklough, Northumb. near Allanton. Hocomb Hill, Middl. between Mill Hill and Highwood Hill.

HODAM, a town of Dumfrieſhire.

Hodbeck, or Hodgebeck, a river of Yorkſ. running into the Derwent near Wickham Hodder, a river of Yorkſhire, which runs into the Ribble at Myrton, 6 miles N. of Blackburn, in Lancaſhire.

HODDESDON, a conſiderable, thoroughfare town of Herts, ſeated near the river Lea, on the great N. road, 17 miles N of London, and 3 S. of Ware. Market on Thurſday.

Hodge Court, Surry, NW of E. Grinſtead. Hodgewood, Bucks, between Amerſham and Cheſham. Hod Hill, Dorſetſh W. of Stourpaine. On it is an old fortification, in form of a Roman D, with a double rampart and a foſſe. On the inſide there are ſeveral round pits, near one another. It has five entrances, and the area conſiſts of ſeveral acres. Hodnell, or Hodnehull, Warw. near Ladbrook and the ſource of the Ichene. It was once large and populous. Hodnet, Shropſ. near the river Terne. Hodſokes, Nott. near Blith. Hodſon, Wilts, SE. of Swindon.

HOFITCHEOU, a rich, commercial city of China, of the firſt rank, in the province of Kiangnan. The beſt tea grows in the environs, and the japanned ware of the city is reckoned equal to any other in China. It is 625 miles S. of Pekin.

Hoerbooth, Linc. NW. of Tatterſhall Hoes, Leiceſterſ. NW. of Waltham on the Would. Hoffe, Upper and Lower, Weſtmorland morland, SW. of Appleby. Hoſton, St. John and St. Peter, Norfolk, both NW. of Wurſted. Hoggeſthorp, Linc. SE. of Alford. Hoggeſton, Bucks, near Winſlow. Hoggington, NW. of Cambridge. Hogburſt, Dorſetſ. near Bridport.

HOG ISLAND, in Bantry Bay, Cork, Munſter. Upon this and the neighbouring iſlands there is a rich paſture in the ſpring.

Hognaſton, Derbyſ. near Wirkſworth. Hogſhaw, Bucks, in the pariſh of Eaſt Claydon.

HOGUE, CAPE LA, the NW. point of the dept. of the Channel, lying E. of the Iſle of Alderney, and NW. of Cherburg. Oppoſite the town of La Hogue, in 1692, the Engliſh and Dutch fleet, under Admiral Ruſſell, defeated the French fleet; and on the following day, Admiral Rooke burnt the French admiral's ſhip, the Royal Sun, with 12 more men of war. Lat. 49. 45. N. lon. 1. 52. W.

Hoke, Yorkſ. upon the Ouſe, near Great and Little Armin. Hoke Norton. Leiceſ. near Twicroſs, NW. of Boſworth. Holbech Drew, Linc. near Gedney Fen.

HOLBECHE, a very ancient, but indifferent town, in Lincolnſhire, ſeated in a flat, among the dikes, 12 miles S. of Boſton, and 115 N. of London. Market on Thurſday.

Holbech Thurn, Linç. SE. of Holbeche, in the marſhes. Holbeck, Nottingh. near Cokeney. Holbeck, Yorkſ. near Leeds.

HOLBECK, a ſea-port town in the Iſland of Zealand, with a good harbonr. It is 20 miles W. of Copenhagen.

Holborough, Kent, near Halling. Holbrook, N. of Derby. Holbrook, Suffolk, S. of Ipſwich. Holburton, Devonſ. SW. of Modbury. Holbury, Hants, in the New Foreſt. Holcliff, Kent, near Canterbury. Holcolm, Oxfordſ. N. of Chalgrove. Holcomb, Devonſhire, near St. Mary Ottery. Holcomb, Somerſetſ. 3 miles W. of Frome Selwood. Holcomb Burnel, Devonſ. SW. of Exeter. Holcomb Regis, Devonſ. SW. of Fiverton. Holcot, Bedf. near Aſpley Guiſe. Holcot, Northamp. near Sywell. Holcroft, Lanc. near Chatmoſs and Culchit. Holdenby, Northamp. near Althorp. It was one of the palaces, but, for above three months, the priſon of King Charles I. who was brought thither from Newcaſtle, after being ſold by the Scots, till cornet Joyce took him away by force, and carried him to the army.

HOLDERNESS, a diviſion of the Eaſt Riding of Yorkſhire, ſtretching along the coaſt. It has a very rich ſoil, and is remarkable for it's large breed of horned cattle and horſes.

Holdditch, Devonſ. in Ford Abbey pariſh. Holdſhot, Hants, N. of Odiham.

HOLDSWORTHY, a large town of Devonſhire, ſeated between two branches of the river Tamar, 41 miles NNW. of Exeter, and 215 W. by S. of London. Market on Saturday.

Holdiy, Suſſex. Hole, Devonſ. near Clovelly Harbour. Hole, Devonſ. W. of Aſhburton. Hole, Great and Little, Linc. between Sleaford and Donnington. Hole Haven, Eſſex, at the end of Canvey Iſland. Hole, Port, Berks, in Bray pariſh. Holey, Herts, near Amwell. Holefaſt, Worceſ. near Ripple. Holford, Cheſhire, NE. of Northwich. Holford, Cheſh. near Tabley. Holgate, a river in Yorkſhire, which runs into the Swale oppoſite Marrick, about 3 miles WSW. of Richmond. Hodgate, Linc. near Spilſby. Holgat, or Holgate Caſtle, Shropſhire. Holiborn, Hants, near Alton. Holkham, Norfolk, 2 miles from Wells. Hollacomb, Devonſ. near Houlſworthy. Hollam, Yorkſ. in Holderneſs.

HOLLAND, the moſt conſiderable of the Seven United Provinces, lying between the Zuyder Zee, the German Ocean, Zealand, Dutch Brabant, and Utrecht. It is divided into N. Holland, S. Holland, and W. Frieſland; not the ſtate or province of Frieſland, but a diſtrict lying to the N. of N. Holland. Theſe together make but one province, whoſe ſtates take the title of Holland and W. Frieſland. The extent is not large, being not above 180 miles in circumference. The land is almoſt every where lower than the ſea. The water is kept out by dykes, which they are particularly careful to keep in good repair, leſt the whole province ſhould be laid under water. It is croſſed by the mouths of the Rhine and Maeſe, by ſeveral ſmall rivers, and by a great number of canals, on which they travel day and night at a ſmall expence. Properly ſpeaking, it is nothing but a large meadow, and yet all things are in great plenty, in conſequence of it's trade; and the land feeds great numbers of cattle. In population, it is thought that no country in the world, of ſuch a ſmall extent, equals it. The paſtures are ſo rich, that they have plenty of butter and cheeſe, and the ſeas and rivers furniſh them with fiſh. There are, at leaſt, 400 villages, and 29 walled towns, beſides many others that enjoy municipal privileges. Six large cities have ſeats in the States General, viz. Dort, Haerlem, Delft, Leyden, Amſterdam, and Gouda. The number of nobility admitted into the aſſembly of the ſtates of the province, is not limited, but rarely exceeds 10; they are elected by a majority of votes. The towns which have a right to ſend deputies are 18. The houſes are generally well built, and extremely neat and clean. They have linen and woollen manufactures, beſide the building of a great number of ſhips. The eſtabliſhed religion is Calviniſm; but all religious ſects are tolerated. This was the ſtate of the republic, prior to the diſputes on the French revolution. Amſterdam is the capital.

HOLLAND, a diſtrict of Lincolnſhire, in the SE. part of the county. It is divided into Upper and Lower, and reaches from Wainfleet to the Iſle of Ely, and to the grounds oppoſite Lynn in Norfolk. In nature, as well as appellation, it reſembles a province of the ſame name in the Netherlands. It conſiſts entirely of fens and marſhes, in which are many quickſands, ſome in a ſtate of nature, but others cut by numberleſs drains and canals, and croſſed by raiſed cauſeways. The lower, or ſouthern diviſion, is the moſt watery, and is preſerved from conſtant inundations by nothing but vaſt banks, raiſed on the ſea-coaſt and rivers. It was formerly impaſſable; but ſince the fens have been drained, the lands are grown more ſolid, and the inhabitants ſow cole-ſeed upon them to their great advantage. Through the whole fenny diſtrict, the walls of the houſes are generally of brick, and their roofs covered with ſlate or tile. A ſtone houſe is rarely to be ſeen here, and as rarely one thatched with ſtraw, but many of thoſe of the more opulent farmers are large and handſome. The churches are, in general, ſpacious, and ſeveral of them are built with excellent ſtone. The air is reckoned unwholeſome, and the water, in general, is ſo brackiſh, as to be unfit for internal purpoſes; on which account, the inhabitants are obliged to make reſervoirs of rain-water. In ſummer, vaſt ſwarms of inſects fill the air and prove exceedingly offenſive. Yet, even here, induſtry has produced comfort and opulence, by forming excellent paſture land out of ſwamps and bogs, and even making them capable of producing large crops of corn. The fens too, in their native ſtate, are not without their utility, and afford various objects of curioſity to the naturaliſt. The reeds, with which the waters of their fens are covered, make the beſt thatch, and are annually harveſted in great quantities for that purpoſe. Prodigious flocks of geeſe are bred among the undrained fens, forming a conſiderable object of commerce, as well for their quills and feathers, as for the bird itſelf, which is driven in great numbers to the London markets. The principal decoys, in England, for the various kinds of wild ducks, teal, widgeon, and other fowls of the duck kind, are in theſe parts. Wild geeſe, grebes, godwits, whimbrels, coots, ruffs, reeves, bitterns, and a great variety of other ſpecies of water-fowl, breed here in amazing numbers; and ſtares, or ſtarlings reſort hither during winter, in myriads, to rooſt on the reeds, breaking them down by their weight. Near Spalding, is the greateſt herony in England, where the herons build together on high trees, like rooks. The avoſet, or yelper, is found in great numbers about Foſſdyke Waſh, as are alſo knots and dottrels.

HOLLAND, NEW, the largeſt known land in the world, that does not bear the name of a continent: it extends from lat. 43. 42. S. to within 10. 30. of the equator; and from 110. 30. to 153. 30. E. lon. ſo that it's ſquare ſurface equals, at leaſt, if it does not exceed, the habitable part of Europe. This vaſt iſland was firſt diſcovered in the beginning of the 17th century, and then it was called Terra Auſtralis Incognita, and long after was ſuppoſed to be part of an immenſe ſouthern continent. In the year 1628, the weſtern part was diſcovered by ſome veſſels belonging to the Dutch Eaſt India Company, and called De Wit's Land, from the name of the commodore who commanded the ſquadron. In 1642, Capt. Taſman was ſent, by the Dutch Eaſt India Company, to ſurvey the coaſt. He diſcovered the S. or rather the SE. extremity, which he called Anthony Van Diemen's Land, to diſtinguiſh it from Diemen's Land, on the N. coaſt, diſcovered in the year 1618. Capt. Cook, in 1770, viſited the E. and NE. parts; from 38° S. and ſpent four months in exploring a coaſt about 2000 miles in length. He aſcertained it's ſeparation from New Guinea; and, in 1773, Capt. Furneaux, by connecting Taſman's diſcoveries with Capt. Cook's, completed the circuit. In that part of it, which Taſman diſtinguiſhed by the name of Van Diemen's Land, and which was viſited by Capt. Furneaux, in 1773, and again by Capt. Cook, in 1777, the land is, for the moſt part, of a good height, diverſified with hills and valleys. See WALES, NEW SOUTH.

HOLLAND, a ſtrongly-fortified town of Oberland, in Pruſſia, ſituated on or near the river Weeſke, 52 miles SW. of Koningſberg.

Holland, Derbyſ. near Bolſover. Holland, land, Lancaſh. W. of Wigan. Holland, Great and Little, Eſſex, near Gunfleet. Holland Houſe, Middl. near Kenſington, a venerable, Gothic ſtructure, built of brick, and adorned in the inſide with fine paintings. The celebrated Mr. Addiſon, who married the Counteſs of Warwick, lived in this houſe, and here was the ſcene of his laſt moments. Holleſley, Suffolk, near Orford Neſs. Hollick, Middleſex, near Tottenham. Hollimill Croſs, Weſtmorl. near Pendragon Caſtle Hollin, Lanc. near Chatmoſs. Hollingborn, Kent, E. of Maidſtone. Hollingthorp, Yorkſ. 3 miles from Wakefield. Hollington, Derbyſ. between Derby and Aſhborne. Hollington, Staff. near Checkley. Hollington, Suſſex, near Haſtings. Hollingſide, E. and W. NW. of Durham. Hollingworth, Cheſhire, NE. of Stockport.

HOLLIS, or HOLLEYS, a town of N. Carolina.

HOLLISTOWN, a town of Maſſachuſets.

Hollowell, Dorſetſh. near Cranborne. Hollowell, Lincolnſhire, NW. of Market Deeping.

HOLLODALE, a river of Scotland, which runs into the N. Sea, between the counties of Sutherland and Caithneſs, about 5 miles from Strathey Head.

Holloway, Someriſet. Holloway, Upper and Lower, Middl. between Iſſington and Highgate. Holloway Down, Eſſex, near Bruntford, 4 miles from London. Hollowfield, Eſſex, N. of Waltham Abbey. Hollyhurſt, Warwickſ. in Bulkington pariſh.

Hollymount, in Mayo, Connaught. Hollymoua, in Wicklow, Leinſter. Hollywood, in Down, Ulſter, on the ſea coaſt, where muſcles are very plentiful.

Holm, Bedf. near Potton. Holm, Camb. between Arrington and Caxton. Holm, Durham, near the mouth of the Tees. Holm, Huntingdonſ. near Stilton. Holm, Lancaſ. in Burnley pariſh. Holm, Lanc. near Mancheſter. Holm, Norfolk, N. of Downham. Holm, Norf. W. of Thornam. Holm, Nottingh. on the Trent, 3 miles N. of Newark. Holm, Nottinghamſ. on the Trent, a hamlet of N. Muſkam. Holm, Weſtmorland, near Burton. Holm, Yorkſhire, near Slingſby. Holm, Yorkſ. N of New Malton. Holm, or Homme, Heref. between Weobly and Dilwin.

HOLM ABBEY, or CULTRUM. See ABBEY HOLM.

Holm Cultram, Cumb. near Bromfield. Holm, in Spalding Moor, Yorkſ. 2 miles SW. of Market Wighton. This place gives name to one of the diviſions of the E. Riding. Holm, E. and W. Dorſetſ. on the river Frome, near Wareham. Holmer, near Hereford. Holmſdale, a rough and woody tract in Surry, lying immediately beneath the hills to the S. and E. of that county, and extending into Kent. Red deer are ſtill found here. It is ſaid to take it's name from the holm-oak, with which it abounds, and was formerly ſo inacceſſible, that it gave occaſion to the following diſtich:

"This is Holm Dale,
"Never won nor ne ſhall."

Some parts are ſtill wild and overgrown with furze, and retain the ſame barren aſpect as they had 1000 years ago. Holmforth, Yorkſ. S. of Almondbury. Holm Hall, Derbyſ. in the High Peak. Holm Hall, Norf. E. of Swaffham, Holm Hall, Yorkſh. near Holm, in Spalding Moor. Holm Houſe, Heref. between Great and Litle Marcle. Holm Houſe, Yorkſ. N. of New Malton. Holmburſt, Hants, NW. of Chriſtchurch. Holm Park, Lanc. between Marton Mere and the river Ribble. Holm Pierpoint, E. of Nottingham. Holms, Kent, in Milton pariſh. Holmſdale, Suſſex, S. of Aſhdown Foreſt. Holms Iſlands, two iſlands in the Severn Sea, known by the name of Flatholm and Steepholm. Holmſted, Suſſex, near Cuckfield. Holm upon Woald, Yorkſ. NE. of Market Wighton. Holmwood, Suſſex, NE. of Dichling. Holmwood, Surry, S. of Darking. Holneſt, Dorſetſ. NE. of Yerminſter. Holſdon, near Norwich. Holſdon Green, Middleſex, between London and Harrow.

HOLSMUNDEN, a town of Wolfenbuttle, Lower Saxony, ſituated on the Werra, 28 miles NW. of Gottingen.

HOLSTERBROE, a town of N. Jutland, the principal trade of whoſe inhabitants conſiſts in corn, oxen, and horſes. It is ſituated on a river, not deep enough to be navigable, 68 miles N. of Ripen.

HOLSTEIN, a duchy of Germany, in the circle of Lower Saxony, ſubject to the king of Denmark, having the Baltic on the E. the German Ocean on the W. Sleſwick and the Baltic on the N. and Lunenburg, Lubeck, Hamburg, and the Elbe on the S. It is about 70 miles in length, and 48 in breadth, and is a pleaſant country, fruitful in wheat, barley, oats, beans, peas, and rape-ſeed, and producing horned cattle, ſheep, rams, ſwine, horſes, poultry, bears, and fiſh, in great abundance; it is alſo well ſeated for trade, and has ſome conſiderable harbours, particularly thoſe of Hamburg and Lubeck. There are ſome imperial cities, which are governed by their reſpective magiſtrates, but the religion of the whole country is Lutheran Lutheran. The duchy is divided into Holſtein Gluckſtad-, ſubject to the king of Denmark; and Holſtein Gottorpf, ſubject to the emperor of Ruſſia. The governor, appointed by the king of Denmark, generally reſides at Gluckſtadt, and the regency court for Ruſſian Holſtein, is held at Keil. The intended junction between the Baltic and the North Sea, will be formed entirely through Holſtein and the other Daniſh territories.

*HOLT, a town in Norfolk, 20 miles NNW. of Norwich, and 122 NE. of London. Market on Saturday.

Holt, Denbighſ. 3 miles NE. of Wrexham. Holt, or Winborne Holt, Dorſetſ. near Winborne Minſter. Holt and it's Foreſt, Dorſetſh. NW. of St. Leonard. Holt, Hants, near Wincheſter. Holt, Leiceſ. SE. of Hallaton. Holt, Surry, near Ockham. Holt, Warwickſ. near Kingſbury. Holt, Warw. near Studley. Holt, Wilts, near Bradford.

HOLT, a town of Cleves; and a town of Chriſtianſand, in Norway.

Holt Caſtle, Worc. near Droitwich, on the river Severn. Nothing now remains of it but a tower and ſome old embattled walls. The church, however, is a moſt complete relique of Saxon architecture. Holtby, NE. of York. Holton, Cornwall, N. of Saltaſh. Holton, Dorſetſ. 3 miles NE. of Wareham. Holton, Oxf. NE. of Cuddeſdon. Holton, Suffolk, SE. of Hadley. Holton, Suffolk, near Haleſworth. Holway, Dorſetſ. 1 mile N. of Catſtock. Holway, Somerſetſ. in Whitcomb pariſh. Holwell, Dorſetſ. between W. Pulham and Sherborn. Holwell, SW. of Hertford. Holwell, Leiceſ. near Melton Mowbray. Holwell, Oxfordſ. SW. of Burford. Holwick, Yorkſ. N. Riding, in Lune Foreſt, near the Tees, Holwoodborough, Surry, S. of Darking. Holy Croſs, Staffordſhire. Holy Croſs, in Tiperary, Munſter.

*HOLYHEAD, a ſea-port and cape of the Iſle of Angleſea, rendered conſiderable by being the place where paſſengers uſually embark for Dublin, there being packet boats that ſail for that city every day, except Tueſday, wind and weather permitting. It is noted for ſeveral remains of old fortifications, one of which, called Turris Munimentum, is an old ſtone wall, with a ſmall turret on it's centre; there are alſo ſome Druidical antiquities in it's neighbourhood. Under the mountains, that overhang the town, is a large cavern in the rock, ſupported by natural pillars, and called the parliament-houſe: it is acceſſible only by boats, and the tide runs into it. On the adjacent rocks, the herb grows of which they make kelp, a fixed ſalt uſed in making glaſs, and in alum works; and in the neighbourhood is a large vein of white fuller's earth, and another of yellow. On the Iſle of Skerries, 9 miles to the N. is a lighthouſe. Large flocks of puffins are often ſeen here; they all come in one night, and depart in the ſame manner. The commodities are butter, cheeſe, bacon, wild fowl, lobſters, crabs, oyſters, razor fiſh, ſhrimps, herrings, codfiſh, whitings, ſea tenches, and plenty of other fiſh. It is, in fact, little more than a fiſhing town, with three good inns, and it has a very convenient harbour for the northern trade, when taken short by contrary winds. It is ſituated near the extremity of the iſland, joined to the NW. part of it by a ſtone bridge, of one arch, 60 miles E. of Dublin, 24 nearly W. of Beaumaris, and 260 NW. of London. Lat. 53. 19. N. lon. 4. 34. W. A ſmall market on Saturday.

Holy Hill, Shropſhire, SW. of Bridgenorth.

HOLY ISLAND, or LINDISFARNE, a ſmall iſland on the coaſt of Northumberland, about 6 miles SE. of Berwick, and one mile and a half from the neareſt land, from whence, at low water, people ride over to it. It is 2 miles and a quarter long, and one in breadth, and conſiſts of one continued plain. The ſoil is rocky and full of ſtones, for which reaſon it is thinly peopled; it has but one ſmall town, or rather village, ſtanding on a riſing ground; it conſiſts of a few ſcattered houſes, chiefly inhabited by fiſhermen, with two inns, and a church. Under the caſtle, which ſtands at the ſouthern point, on almoſt a perpendicular rock, near 60 feet high, there is a commodious bay, or harbour, defended by a blockhouſe. The caſtle is acceſſible only by a narrow, winding paſs, cut out of the rock, on it's ſouthern ſide. The N. and NE. coaſts of the iſland are formed of perpendicular rocks, the other ſides ſink, by gradual ſlopes, to the ſand. It has plenty of fiſh and fowl, but the air and ſoil are reckoned bad. The W. part is left wholly to the rabbits, and there is not a tree on the iſland. The monaſtery, which covered near four acres, is entirely in ruins, but there are various fragments of the offices remaining. It is properly a ſemi-iſland, being encompaſſed with water at every flood, but land at ebb. The E. part, which is much the broadeſt, is joined to the W. by a ſmall ſlip of land.

Holy Iſland, in Clare, Munſter.

*HOLYWELL, a town of Flintſhire, which, which, although in a great part new, is, from it's vicinity to the lead-mines, and it's conſiderable manufactures, become the moſt flouriſhing in the county. It takes it's name from the famous well, called St. Winifred's, concerning which ſo many fables and ſuperſtitious notions have prevailed. It is a copious ſtream of very cold and pure water, burſting out of the ground, at the foot of a hill, with ſuch impetuoſity as to diſcharge 21 tons of water in a minute. Over the ſpring there is a chapel, built by the Counteſs of Derby, mother of Henry VII. which ſtands upon pillars, and on the windows are painted the hiſtory of St. Winifred's life. Beſide the cold bath, celebrated for wonderful cures, formed at the ſpring head, and covered with a beautiful Gothic ſhrine, it is now applied to the purpoſe of turning ſeveral mills for the working of copper, making braſs wire, paper, and ſnuff, and ſpinning cotton. It is 10 miles E. of St. Aſaph, and 212 NE. of London. Mark. on Friday.

Holywell, Bedf. SE. of Flitton. Holywell, Cheſh. W. of Cholmondeley. Holywell, Herts, near St. Alban's. Holywell, Huntingdonſhire, near St. Ives.

HOMBURG, two towns of Wurſburg, in Franconia; a town of Heſſe Caſhel; a town of Heſſe Homburg; and a town of Deux Ponts; all in the circle of Upper Rhine; and a town of Berg, in Weſtphalia.

HOMBAY, a town of Virginia.

Home, Shropſ. NE. of Biſhop's Caſtle. Homelacy, on the Wye, 3 miles from Hereford. Homerſfield, Suff. near Harliſton. Homerton, Middl. a hamlet in the pariſh of Hackney. Homerſwich, Staff. SW. of Lichfield. Homeſbury Hill, Surry, near Box Hill, in Dorking pariſh. Homington, Wilts, near Saliſbury. Homons, Suſſex, W. of Holmwood. Hompton, Yorkſhire, E. of Patrington, in Holderneſs.

HONAN, a city of China, of the firſt rank, capital of the province of Honan. It is ſituated in the centre of the empire, 560 miles SSW. of Pekin.

HONDURAS, a large province of North America, bounded on the N. by the bay of the ſame name, on the E. by the Moſquitos ſhore, on the S. by Nicaragua and Guatimala, and on the W. by Guatimala and Vera Paz. This country, though exceedingly fertile by nature, is almoſt a deſert. The ſoil, in many parts, bears Indian corn and grapes, three times a year; it's other produce is wheat, peas, large gourds, cotton, wool, honey, wax, and proviſions of all kinds. It produces in greater abundance than any part of America, the logwood-tree, which in dying ſome colours, is ſo far preferable to any other material, that the conſumption of it in Europe is conſiderable, and it is become an article in commerce of great value. During a long period, no European nation intruded upon the Spaniards in theſe provinces, or attempted to obtain any ſhare in this branch of trade. But after the conqueſt of Jamaica by the Engliſh, one of the firſt objects of the ſettlers, on that iſland, was the great profit ariſing from the logwood trade, and the facility of wreſting ſome portion of it from the Spaniards. Their firſt attempt was made at Cape Catoche, the NE. promontory of Yucatan. When moſt of the trees near this Cape were felled, they removed to the Iſland of Triſt, in the Bay of Campeachy; and, in later times, their principal ſtation has been in the Bay of Honduras. The Spaniards, alarmed at this encroachment, endeavoured by negociation, remonſtrances, and open force, to prevent the Engliſh from obtaining any footing on that part of the American continent. But, after ſtruggling againſt it for more than a century, the diſaſters of an unſucceſsful war extorted from the court of Madrid, in 1763, a reluctant conſent to tolerate this ſettlement of foreigners in the heart of it's territories. This privilege was confirmed by the definitive treaty of 1783; by which, however, it was ſtipulated, that nothing in this conceſſion ſhould be conſidered as derogating, in any reſpect, from 'the ſovereignty of his Catholic Majeſty;' that, if the Engliſh had erected any fortifications in the country, they ſhould be demoliſhed, and none erected in future; and that they ſhould confine themſelves within a certain diſtrict, lying between the rivers Wallis, or Bellize, and Rio Honda, taking the courſe of the ſaid two rivers for unalterable boundaries, ſo as that the navigation of them be common to both nations. But, by a convention ſigned in 1786, theſe limits were extended; the Engliſh line, beginning from the ſea, was to take the centre of the river Sibun, or Jabon, and continue up to the ſource of the ſaid river; thence to croſs, in a ſtraight line, the intermediate land, till it interſected the river Wallis; and by the centre of the ſame river, the ſaid line was to deſcend to the point where it would meet the line already ſettled in 1783. By this convention, moreover, the Engliſh were not only permitted to cut logwood, but mahogany, or any other kind of wood, and to carry away any other produce of the country; with certain exceptions, however, againſt the eſtabliſhing of any plantations of ſugar, gar, coffee, &c. and they were likewiſe permitted, with certain reſtrictions, to occupy the ſmall iſland called Caſina, St. George's Key, or Cayo Caſina. The Engliſh ſettlement in this country had formerly been conſidered as foreign; but, in 1790, by an act of parliament, they were allowed all the privileges of a Britiſh colony. The principal towns are Valladolid, the capital; Truxillo; Gracias a Dios; and St. Jago.

HONDURAS, a town of the Iſland of Cuba, 63 miles NE. of Bayamo.

Honedon, Suffolk, near Clare. Honeybrook, Dorſetſhire, near High Hall, Honeywood, Kent, in Poſtling pariſh.

HONFLEUR, a conſiderable ſea-port in France, in the dept. of Calvados, the inhabitants of which principally trade in lace. It is ſituated at the mouth of the Seine, with a very ſafe and capacious harbour, 8 miles NNE. of Pont l'Eveque, and 110 NW. of Paris.

Hongaſton, Heref. W. of Aconbury. Honiborn Church, Worceſ. E. of Eveſham. Honing, Norfolk, between Wurſted and Walſham. Honingford, Warwickſ. near Shipton upon Stour.

HONITON, a neat, well-built, and populous town of Devonſhire, with a large manufactory of broad lace, (formerly of ſerges) and an eſtimated exportation, to London, of about five tons of butter weekly. It is pleaſantly ſeated on the river Otter, over which it has a bridge, in the beſt and pleaſanteſt part of the county, abounding with uncommonly beautiful landſcapes all the way to Exeter, and on the great weſtern road from London. 16 miles E. of Exeter, and 156 W. by S. of London. Market on Saturday.

Honley, Yorkſhire, SE. of Huthersfield. Honningham, Warwickſ. near Dunſmore Heath, and the river Leame. Honthy, a river in Brecknockſhire, which runs into the Uſk near Brecknock. Honey Church, Devonſhire, near Hatherley. Hoo, Eſſex, W. of Colcheſter, near the river Colne. Hoo, Kent, NE. of Stroud, near the Medway. Hoo, Suffolk, W. of Wickham. Hoo, Suſſex, near Battel and Box Hill. Hoo, Norfolk, NE. of E. Dereham.

HOOD ISLAND, in the S. Pacific Ocean, the moſt northerly of the Mendoza Iſlands, and about 16 leagues in circumference. It was diſcovered by Captain Cook, in 1774.

HOOGHLY, a ſmall, but ancient city, of Hindooſtan, in Bengal. It is now nearly in ruins, but poſſeſſes many veſtiges of it's former greatneſs. In the time of the Mahometan government, it was the great mart of the export trade of Bengal to Europe. It is ſeated on the W. ſide of the river Hooghly, 26 miles N. of Calcutta.

HOOGHLY RIVER, an arm of the Ganges, formed by the union of it's two weſternmoſt branches, named the Coſſimbuzar and Jellinghy rivers. It paſſes by Hooghly, Chinſura, Chandernagore, Calcutta, &c. and is the only branch of the Ganges that is commonly navigated by ſhips. Several European nations have factories on this river, between Hooghly and Calcutta. Lat. 21. 40. N. lon. 88. 0. E.

HOOGSTRATEN, a town, capital of a county of Dutch Brabant. 10 miles S. of Breda.

Hook, Hants, near Spithead. Hook, Hants, 4 miles W. of Hartley Row. Hook, Yorkſ. near the Ouſe. E. of the Armins. Hook, Dorſetſ. between Beminſter and Dorcheſter. Hook, Great and Little, Yorkſ. W. Riding, SW. of Snaith. Hook, Surry, near Kingſton. Hook Norton, Oxf. NE. of Chipping Norton. Hook Point, Suſſex, SW. of Rye. Hool, NE. of Cheſter. Hoone, 6 miles SW. of Derby. Hooſe, Leiceſ. NW. of Waltham on the Would. Hootborp, Northamp. on the river Welland, NE. of Boſworth. Hooten, Cheſhire, SW. of Frodſham, near Stanlaw, at the N. entrance of the Wirral. Hooten Lovet, Painel, and Robert, Yorkſ. between Barneſley and Doncaſter. Hoove, Suſſex, on the coaſt, near Brighthelmſtone, almoſt ſwallowed up by the ſea. Hope, Derbyſ. in the High Peak. Hope, Middl. near Hampton Court. Hope, Kent, in Romney Marſh. Hope, Kent, between Graveſend and the Bouy in the Nore. Hope, Glouc. in Thornbury pariſh. Hope, Yorkſ. NW. of Richmond Moor. Hope, Shropſ. on the N. ſide of Stiperſtone's Hill. Hope, a ſmall river of Eſſex, which riſes near Laindon Hills, waters Stanford le Hope, and entering the Thames below Mucking, gives name to a noted reach of that river. Hope, Staff. 4 miles from Aſhbourn.

HOPE, a river of the Iſland of Jamaica, which runs into the Atlantic, about 5 miles S. of Kingſton.

Hope Key, Devonſ. at the mouth of the river Aune, in Bigbury Bay, between Plymouth and Start Point. Hope Bowdler, Shropſ. near Church Stretton. Hope Bagot, Shropſhire, E. of Ludlow. Hope Houſe, Yorkſ. N. Riding, in Swaledale, near the river Youre. Hope Manſel, Herefordſhire, SE. of Roſs. Hopeſey, Shropſ. between Ludlow and Biſhop's Caſtle. Hope Sellers, Heref. near Brockhampton. Hopsford, Warw. in Withibrook pariſh. Hopton, Derbyſhire, W. of Wirkſworth.

Hopton,

Hopton, Northumberl. near Bamborough Caſtle. Hopton, Suffolk, on the Ouſe, NW. of Buddeſdale. Hopton, Shropſ. E. of Clun Caſtle. Hopton, Suffolk, S. of Yarmouth. Hopton, 2 miles from Staffford, by the Trent, near Ingeſtre. Hopton in the Hole, Shropſ. S. of Great and Little Poſtern. Hopton Monks, Shropſ. near Underton and Upton. Hopton Wafers, Shropſ. W. of Clebury. Hopum, Northumbl. near Lucker. Hop-ways, Staff. 2 miles from Packington. Hopwell, 5 miles from Derby. Hop-wood, Lancaſ. S. of Rochdale.

HORB, a town of Hohenburg, in Auſtrian Suabia, with a conſiderable trade in woollen goods. It is ſituated on the Neckar, 28 miles SW. of Stutgard.

Horbling, Linc. NE. of Fokingham. Horborn, Staff. near Birmingham. Horbridge, Hants, S. of Fordingbridge.

HORBURG, a town in the dept. of the Upper Rhine, 2 miles NE. of Colmar.

Horbury, Yorkſ. near Wakefield. Horcote, Glouc. in Kempsford pariſh. Hord, Northumb. on the Tweed, below Norham. Hordes Park, Shropſ. near Bridgenorth. Hordley, Shropſ. S. of Elleſmere. Hordwell, Hants, on the coaſt, SW. of Lymington.

HOREB, a mountain of Aſia, in Arabia Petræa, weſtward of Mount Sinai, or rather another eminence belonging to the ſame mountain. At the foot of it is a monaſtery, where a biſhop of the Greek church reſides. There are two or three fine ſprings, and abundance of fruit trees on it's ſummit, but none on that of Sinai.

Horecroſs, Staff. in the pariſh of Bromley Regis. Horeſton, N. of Derby. Horeſton Grange, Warwickſ. near Nuneaton. Horewell, Warwickſ. SE. of Coventry. Horewetly, Heref. NW. of Roſs, on the Wye. Horfield, Glouceſ. 2 miles from Briſtol. Horham, Suffolk, near Denham and Stradbroke. Horidge, Bucks, SE. of Wendover. Horingbold, Leiceſ. SE. of Hallaton. Horkeſley Park, Suffolk, near Neyland. Horley, Suſſex. Horley, Oxf. NW. of Banbury. Horley, Surry, near Charlwood, SE. of Ryegate. It had once a caſtle, that incloſed near 2 acres, ſince ſo overgrown with wood and thorns, that there is hardly any ſign of it's foundation. Horlham Hall, Eſſex, near Thaxted. Hormead, Great and Little, Herts, NE. of Buntingford, on the brook Hor, which feeds the river Quin. Horn, Rutland, E. of Burleigh on the Hill.

HORN, or HOORN, a ſea-port town of Holland, with a good harbour. The land about it produces great quantities of cheeſe and butter, and here they fatten cattle, which are brought lean from Denmark and Holſtein. It is ſeated on the E. coaſt of the Zuyder Zee, 14 miles NE. of Amſterdam.

HORN, a town of Lippe, in Weſtphalia, near which is a plain, called Vinfield, or the Field of Victory, ſuppoſed, by ſome writers, to be the place where Varus periſhed; alſo a town in the archduchy of Auſtria, celebrated for it's beer, made of oats, which is ſent by water to all the principal towns of Auſtria. It is 40 miles NW. of Vienna. A town and ſmall county of Liege; and a town of E. Gothland, 32 miles S. of Linkipping.

HORNBACH, a town and Benedictine abbey of Deux Ponts, circle of Upper Rhine, ſeated on the river Horn, 5 miles SE. of Deux Ponts.

HORNBERG, a town of Wirtemburg, in Suabia; a town of Recklinghauſen, Lower Rhine; and a town of Halberſtadt, Lower Saxony.

Hornblowton, Somerſetſh. SE. of Glaſtonbury.

HORNBY, a town of Lancaſhire, ſituated on the Lon, or Lune, near Weſtmorland, 8 miles NE. of Lancaſter, and 256 NW. of London. Market on Monday.

Hornby, Yorkſ. near Yarum. Hornby Hall, Weſtmorland, near Whinfield Park. Hornby Caſtle, Yorkſhire, near the Swale, 5 miles from Richmond.

HORN, CAPE, the moſt ſouthern part of Terra del Fuego, in S. America. Lat. 55. 58. S. lon. 67. 26. W.

*HORNCASTLE, a large, well-built town, in Lincolnſhire, ſeated on the river Bane, (almoſt ſurrounded by water) near a navigable canal, 20 miles E. of Lincoln, and 136 N. of London. Market on Saturday.

Hornchurch, Eſſex, E. by S. of Rumford. Horncourt, Hants, near Chriſtchurch, Horn Croſs, Suſſex, SE. of Petworth.

HORNDON ON THE HILL, a town of Eſſex, ſituated on an eminence, from which there is a beautiful and extenſive proſpect, near the river Hope, which ſoon after falls into the Thames, 5 miles N. by E. of Tilbury Fort, and 24 E. of London. Market on Saturday.

HORN HEAD, HORE HEAD, or NORTH CAPE, a promontory in the N. of Donegal, in Ulſter; alſo a handſome villa or ſeat in the ſame county.

Hornhill, Norfolk, SW. of Hickling. Horning, Norf. Horninglow, Staff. near Burton upon Trent. Horningſey, 5 miles from Cambridge. Horningſham, Wilts, SE. of Frome Selwood. Horningſheath, Great Great and Little, Suff. near Bury. Horningtoft, Norfolk, SW. of Gately. Hornseck Caſtle, Cornwall, near Penzance. Horn Place, Kent, near Appledore.

HORNSEA, a town in the E. Riding of Yorkſhire, almoſt ſurrounded by a ſmall arm of the ocean, which, by it's continual encroachments on the land, has waſhed away nearly a whole ſtreet; and, it is ſaid, that a village, once ſtanding on the N. ſide of the town, was wholly ſwallowed up by it. It is 40 miles E. of York, and 188 N. of London. Mark. on Mond.

Hornſey, called, in old records, Haringay, a long, ſtraggling village, of Middleſex, between Highgate and Southgate, in a pleaſant valley, 5 miles N. by W. of London. Varied with adjacent hills and dales, and the New River winding through it, there is not a more rural ſpot in the vicinity of the metropolis. Hornſey Wood, about a mile nearer London than Hornſey. It is a coppice of young trees, with a large tavern at the entrance, which, being ſituated on a gentle eminence, affords a pretty proſpect of the neighbouring country. Hornton, Oxf. near Edgehill. Horridge, Glouc. in Corſe pariſh. Horril, Hants, near Lymington. Horringer, Suffolk. Horringfleet, Norfolk, near Yarmouth. Horringham, or Howeringham. Nott. on the Trent, between Nottingham and Newark. Horrington, E. and W. Somerſetſ. near Wells. Horſcar, Great and Little, Yorkſ. near Whitby. Horſebridge, Suſſex. Horſebrook, Staff. N. of Brewood. Horſeford, between Norwich and Oulton. Horſehead, Northumb. W. of Whitcheſter. Horſehouſe, Yorkſ. N. Riding, near the river Youre, in Swaledale.

Horſe Iſland, ſituated in Bantry Bay, in Cork, Munſter. Horſeleap, in W. Meath, Leinſter.

Horſe Marley, Glouc. in Moreton Valence pariſh. Horſenden, Bucks, near Great and Little Hamden.

HORSENECK, a town of New Jerſey.

HORSENS, a ſea-port of Aarhuys, with manufactures of flannels, and other woollen ſtuffs. The harbour will only admit lighters. It is ſituated on the E. coaſt of Jutland, near the Iſland of Hiarnoe, 19 miles SSW. of Aarhuys.

Horſepool, Nottingh. near Thurgaton. Horſey, Norf. 7 miles from Yarmouth. Horſey, Somerſ. near Bridgewater. Horſey Iſland, Eſſex, near Harwich. Horſey Bridge, Huntingd. SE. of Peterborough. Horſeys Melcombe, Dorſetſ. W. of Middleton. Horſforth, Yorkſhire, adjoining Leeds.

*HORSHAM, (probably named from Horſa, brother to Hengiſt, the Saxon) a populous town of Suſſex, one of the largeſt in the county, which has a fine church, and a well-endowed free ſchool. It ſupplies great ſtore of fine poultry for the London Markets. It is ſituated about 3 miles from the road between London and Arundel, 20 miles NNW. of Brighthelmſtone, and 36 nearly S. of London. Market on Saturday, and a monthly market for cattle (for which it has a patent) on the laſt Tueſday.

Horſham, St. Faith's, Norf. Horſheath, Camb. near Linton. This part of the country abounds with melilot, the ſeeds of which mix ſo much with corn, in their lands, that it gives a very diſagreeable taſte to their bread. Horſhill, or Hoſſel, Surry. Horſingbrook, Eſſex, NE. of Tilbury. Horſington, Linc. SW. of Horncaſtle. Horſington, Somerſ. 4 miles from Wincaunton. Horſley, Great and Little, Eſſex, W. of Dedham. Horſley, Glouc. 3 miles SW. of Hampton. Horſley, Northumb. on the NW. ſide of Morpeth. Horſley, Staffordſ. near Pelſhal. Horſley Heath, Staff. in Tipton pariſh. Has potter's clay and a reddiſh earth, called ſlip, with which they paint the veſſels made at Wedneſbury. Horſley, or Horkſley, Eſſex, W. of Dedham. Horsley, E. and W. Surry, between Leatherhead and Guilford. Horsley Woodhouſe, 4 miles from Derby. Horſemunden, Kent, on the W. ſide of the Medway, almoſt oppoſite to Goodhurſt, Horſpark, near Oxford. Horſted, Kent, near Aylesford. Horſted, Norf. SW. of Wurſted. Horſted, Cayns and Parva, Suſſex, E. of Cuckfield. Horſtow, Linc. SW. of Barton on the Humber. Horſych, Dorſetſhire, near Cranbourn.

Hortland, in Kildare, Leinſter.

Horton, Bucks, near Colebrook. Horton, Bucks, in the pariſhes of Edleſborough and Slapton. Horton, Cheſ. NW. of Malpas. Horton, Dorſetſh. near More Crickel. A pottery is carried on here. Horton, Glouc. near Chipping Sudbury. Horton, Kent, near Canterbury, Horton, Kent, near Farningham. Horton, 4 miles from Northampton. Horton, Northumb. SE. of Morpeth. Horton, Oxfordſ. E. of Iſlip. Horton, Shropſ. near Wem. Horton, Shropſ. W. of Kingſwood. Horton, Surry, near Epſom. Horton, Suſſex, near Bramber. Horton, or Horton Court, Staffordſ. berween Endon Water and the river Churnet. Horton, Wilts, in the pariſh of Biſhops Canning.

HORTON, a town of Nova Scotia, in Acadia, 35 miles W. of Halifax.

Horton

Horton Kirby, Kent, 4 miles from Dartford. Horton Monks, Kent, SW. of Eltham. Horton Caſtle, Northumb. near Woller. Horton Grange, Northumb. SE. of Morpeth. Horton on Ribble, Yorkſ. W. Riding, N. of Settle. Horton Magna and Parva, Yorkſ. near Bradford. Horwell, Devonſ. on the Forton, W. of Crediton. Horwood, Devonſ. SW. of Barnſtaple. Horwood, Glouc. near Wickware.

HOSKINS, a town of N. Carolina.

Hoſpital, in Limerick, Munſter.

Hoſpital, Kent, W. of Canterbury.

Hutherſal, Lancaſhire, in Amounderneſs.

Hutherfield, Kent, 2 miles NW. of Aſhford.

Hutſay, a river of Wales, which riſes in Brecknockſhire, and runs into the Munnow, in Monmouthſh. Hot Wells, about a mile below Briſtol, on the Avon: they are of great purity, and much reſorted to in conſumptive caſes. Here is alſo a cold ſpring, which guſhes out of a rock, and ſupplies the cold bath. In St. Vincent's Rock, above the Wells, are found native cryſtals, well known under the name of Briſtol ſtones.

HOTTENTOTS, COUNTRY OF THE, a large region in the ſouthern extremity of Africa, which extends N. by W. along the coaſt, from the Cape of Good Hope, beyond the mouth of Orange River, and from that Cape, in an ENE. direction, to the month of the Great Fiſh River, which parts it from Caffraria Proper. There are no conſiderable kingdoms throughout this large extent of country, the whole being inhabited by different tribes, or nations, governed by honquers, or chiefs, who live, like the Arabs, in huts, or portable houſes, and remove their kraals, or villages, whenever the paſture becomes too bare for the ſubſiſtence of their cattle, and upon the natural and violent death of an inhabitant. The Hottentots of the Cape conſiſt of a few paltry and miſerable hordes, who have not even the power of chooſing their own chief, and live, as they can, in different cantons of the colony; but the ſavage Hottentots, called, by way of deriſion, the Jackall Hottentots, far removed from the government of the Europeans, ſtill preſerve their original manners. The Hottentots, in general, are as tall as moſt Europeans, but more ſlender, and the hands and feet are ſmall. Their ſkin is of a yellowiſh brown hue, ſomewhat reſembling that of an European, who has the jaundice in a high degree; but this colour is not at all obſervable in the whites of the eyes. There are not ſuch thick lips among the Hottentots as among their neighbours the Negroes, the Caffrees, and the Mozambiques. Their mouth is of the middling ſize; and they have, in general, the fineſt ſet of teeth imaginable. Their heads are covered with hair more woolly, if poſſible, than that of the Negroes. With reſpect to their ſhape, carriage, and every motion, their whole appearance indicates health and content. There is a volatility in their manner which ſhews an abundant flow of ſpirits, or a high enjoyment of animal life; in their intercourſe with Europeans, they hardly ſtand ſtill for a moment. In their men, moreover, a degree of careleſſneſs is obſervable, that diſcovers marks of alacrity and reſolution; qualities, which, upon occaſion, they certainly can exhibit, as in their encounters with lions and other wild beaſts. Not only the men, but the women alſo are clothed with ſheep-ſkins; the wool being worn outward in ſummer, and inward during the winter. They wear one ſkin over their ſhoulders, the ends of it croſſing each other before, and leaving their neck bare. Another ſkin is faſtened round their middle, and reaches down to their knees. They beſmear their bodies all over, very copiouſly, with fat, in which there is mixed up a little ſoot, and this is never wiped off. They likewiſe perfume themſelves with powder of herbs, with which they powder both the head and body, rubbing it all over them, when they beſmear themſelves. The odour of this powder is rank and aromatic, and comes neareſt to that of the poppy mixed with ſpices. Some of them adorn themſelves with necklaces of ſhells. The women cover themſelves much more ſcrupulouſly than the men. They ſeldom content themſelves with one covering, but almoſt always have two, and very often three. Theſe are made of a prepared and well-greaſed ſkin, and are faſtened about their bodies with a thong, almoſt like the aprons of European women. The outermoſt is always the largeſt, meaſuring from about ſix inches to a foot over. This is likewiſe, generally, the fineſt and moſt ſhowy, and is frequently adorned with glaſs beads ſtrung in different figures. Both the men and women generally go bareheaded. Neither their ears nor noſe are adorned with any pendent ornaments, as they are among other ſavages. The noſe, however, is ſometimes, by way of greater ſtate, marked with a black ſtreak of ſoot, or with a large ſpot of red lead; of which latter, on their high days and holidays, they likewiſe put a little on their cheeks. Both ſexes wear rings on their arms and legs; moſt of theſe are made of thick leather ſtraps,

ſtraps, cut in a circular ſhape; and theſe have given riſe to the almoſt univerſally-received notion, that the Hottentots wrap guts about their legs, in order to eat them occaſionally. Rings of iron, copper, or braſs, of the ſize of a gooſe-quill, are conſidered as more genteel than thoſe of leather; but the girls are not allowed to uſe any rings till they are marriageable. The Hottentots ſeldom wear any ſhoes; what they do wear, are made of undreſſed leather, with the hairy ſide outward: they are rendered ſoft and pliable, by being beat and moiſtened, and are very light and cool. Their habitations are ſome of them of a circular, and ſome of an oblong ſhape, reſembling a round bee-hive, or a vault; the ground-plot is from 18 to 24 feet in diameter. The higheſt of them are ſo low, that it is ſcarcely poſſible for a middle-ſized man to ſtand upright. But neither the lowneſs of the hut, nor that of the door, which is barely three feet high, can be conſidered as any inconvenience to a Hottentot, who finds no difficulty in ſtooping, and crawling on all fours. The fire-place is in the middle, and they ſit, or lie round it in a circle. The low door is the only place that admits the light, and, at the ſame time, the only outlet that is left for the ſmoke. The Hottentot, inured to it from his infancy, ſees it hover round him, without feeling the leaſt inconvenience ariſing from it to his eyes; while, rolled up like a hedge-hog, and wrapped up ſnug in his ſkin, he lies at the bottom of his hut, quite at his eaſe, in the midſt of this cloud, except that he is now and then obliged to peep out from beneath his ſheep-ſkin, in order to ſtir the fire, or perhaps to light his pipe, or elſe, ſometimes, to turn the ſteak he is broiling over the coals. The order of theſe huts, in a kraal, or clan, is moſt frequently in the form of a circle, with the doors inward; by which means a kind of yard is formed, where the cattle are kept at night. The milk, as ſoon as it is taken from the cow, is put to other milk, which is curdled, and is kept in a leather ſack, the hairy ſide of which, being conſidered as the cleaneſt, is turned inward; ſo that the milk is never drank while it is ſweet. Among other tribes of Hottentots are the Boſhieſman, or Boſhmans, who inhabit the mountains in the interior part of the country, NE. of the Cape of Good Hope, and are averſe to the paſtoral life. Some of their maxims are to live on hunting and plunder, and never to keep any animal alive for the ſpace of one night. On this account, they themſelves are purſued, and ſometimes exterminated, like wild beaſts, or taken and made ſlaves of. Buſhes and clefts in rocks ſerve them by turns for dwellings. Many of them are entirely naked, but ſome of them cover their body with the ſkin of any ſort of animal, great or ſmall, from the ſhoulder downward as far as it will reach, wearing it till it falls off their backs in rags. Ignorant of agriculture, they are obliged to wander over hills and dales, after certain wild roots, berries, and plants, which they eat raw. Their table however, is compoſed of ſeveral other diſhes, among which are the larvæ of inſects (the caterpillars from which butterflies are produced) the termites, or white ants, graſhoppers, ſnails, and ſpiders. With all theſe changes of diet, the Boſhman is, nevertheleſs, frequently in want. When captured as a ſlave, he exchanges his meagre fare for the luxury of buttermilk, frumerty, or haſty pudding, and ſometimes becomes fat in a few weeks. This good living, however, is ſoon embittered by the grumbling of his maſter and miſtreſs, and he muſt frequently bear, perhaps, a few curſes or blows, for neglect and indolence. Diſliking labour, and, from his corpulency, become leſs capable of bearing it, he now pines after his former uncontrouled and wandering life, which he generally endeavours to regain by eſcaping. Another tribe of Hottentots, near the mouth of Orange River, have huts ſuperior to thoſe of the generality of Hottentots; they are loftier, and thatched with graſs; and are furniſhed with ſtools made of the back-bones of the grampus. Their mode of living is, in the higheſt degree, wretched, and they are apparently the moſt dirty of all the Hottentot tribes. Their dreſs is compoſed of the ſkins of ſeals and jackals, the fleſh of which they eat. When a grampus is caſt aſhore, they remove their huts to the place, and ſubſiſt upon it as long as any part of it remains; and, in this manner, it ſometimes affords them ſuſtenance for half a year, though in a great meaſure decayed, and putrified by the ſun. They ſmear their ſkin with the oil, the odour of which is ſo powerful, that their approach may be perceived ſome time before they preſent themſelves to view. They carry their water in the ſhells of oſtrich eggs, and the bladders of ſeals, which they ſhoot with arrows, the ſame as the other Hottentots. Though one ſmall hut contains the whole family, and all are obliged to repoſe together, they are chaſte in their manners. Severe in their juriſprudence, they puniſh murder, adultery, and and robbery with death. From the obſervance of dancings or rejoicings at the full and change of the moon, they appear to be idolatrous. The country poſſeſſed by the Dutch is of pretty conſiderable extent, comprehending, not only the large tract, between Table Bay and Falſe Bay, but that which is called Hottentot Holland, extending from Falſe Bay to the Cabo dos Agulhas, or Cape of Needles, and the country farther E. beyond St. Chriſtopher's River, called Terra de Natal. The coaſt of this country abounds in bays and capes; it is naturally mountainous and barren, but the induſtrious Dutch have overcome all natural difficulties, and it not only produces a ſufficiency of all the neceſſaries of life for the inhabitants, but alſo of refreſhments for all the European ſhips that touch here. In the interior parts, however, the ſoil is aſtoniſhingly fertile and productive. The Dutch conſider the year as divided into two ſeaſons, which they term monſoons; the wet monſoon, or winter; and the dry one, or ſummer. The firſt begins with our ſpring; the latter when our ſummer ends. In the damp ſeaſon, the Cape is much ſubject to fogs; and from the middle of the wet monſoon, it rains almoſt continually till ſummer: the weather is cold, raw, and unpleaſant; but never more rigorous than autumn in Germany. Water never freezes to above the thickneſs of half a crown, and, as ſoon as the ſun appears, the ice is diſſolved. The Cape is rarely viſited by thunder and lightning, excepting a little near the turn of the ſeaſons. Among the quadrupeds of this country are antelopes, which go in herds of 20 or 30,000 each; buffaloes; giraffes, or camelopardaliſes; the gemsbock, or chamois, a ſpecies of antelope, which has remarkably long, ſharp horns, and, when attacked by dogs, will ſit on it's hind quarters, and defend itſelf; wild dogs, much larger than the jackal, which travel in herds, and are very deſtructive to flocks of ſheep; elephants; elks; hyenas; the koedo, an animal of a mouſe colour, rather larger than our deer, with three white ſtripes over the back, and the male having very large, twiſted horns; lions; jackals; tigers; panthers; the quacha, a ſpecies of the zebra, but more tractable: the double-horned rhinoceros; horſes; domeſtic horned cattle; common ſheep; and a peculiar ſpecies of ſheep, which are covered with hair inſtead of wool. The hippopotamus, or river-horſe, is frequently ſeen here. Among the birds are vultures; oſtriches, whoſe eggs are excellent food; and the loxia, a ſpecies of gregarious bird, which builds it's curious neſt in the mimoſa tree, where it forms a kind of thatched houſe, with a regular ſtreet of neſts on both ſides, at about two inches diſtance from each other, and containing under it's roof ſeveral hundred or a thouſand birds. The termites, or white ants, which do no injury to the wood, as in the E. Indies, but only to the graſs, the deſtruction of which they occaſion, by raiſing a number of hills, which impede the progreſs of vegetation. The Hottentots eat them; and this food is found to be far from diſagreeable. The locuſts alſo are eſteemed excellent food by the Boſhmans, by whom they are dried and kept for uſe. The black, or rock ſcorpion, is nearly as venomous here as any of the ſerpent tribe, of which there are numerous kinds. There are ſix ſpecies about the Cape; namely, the horned ſnake, about 18 inches long, the moſt poiſonous of them all; the kouſe band, or garter ſnake, about the ſame length, dangerous to travellers, on account of reſembling the ſoil ſo much in colour, that it is not readily perceived; the yellow ſnake, which differs in colour only from the hooded ſnake of India, and being from four to eight feet in length, their ſize, and bright yellow colour, renders it eaſy to avoid them; the puff adder, about 40 inches in length, ſo called from blowing itſelf up to near a foot in circumference: the ſpring adder, very dangerous, but not common, from three to four feet long, and of a jet black, with white ſpots; and the night ſnake, more beautiful than any of the others, about 20 inches long, very thin, belted with black, red, and yellow, and when near, at night, has the appearance of fire. The country of the Hottentots lies between the tropic of Capricorn, and 35 degrees S. lat. and is bounded on the W. S. and E. by the Atlantic and Indian Oceans, and on the N. by regions very little, if at all explored.

Hotton, Leic. NE. of Loughborough.

HOU, a town of Egypt, ſituated on the left bank of the Nile, 28 miles S. of Girge.

HOUANG CHEOU, a city of China, of the firſt rank, in the province of Tchekiang, 580 miles SSE. of Pekin.

HOVAL, or OUALO, a kingdom of Africa, on the banks of the Senegal, extending about 90 miles from E. to W. and 18 from N. to S. The ſoil is fertile in maize, rice, legumes, indigo, tobacco, and cotton; the meadows feed great numbers of large and ſmall cattle, whoſe fleſh is excellent; game is plentiful, and birds are in the greateſt number and variety; and the foreſts abound with palm trees.

HOUAT, an iſland on the coaſt of France, 8 or 10 miles in circumference, and about 10 miles NE. of Belle Iſle.

HOUDAIN, a town in the dept. of the Pas de Calais, 6 miles S. of Bethune.

HOUDAN, a town in the dept. of the Seine and Oiſe, with a manufacture of woollen ſtockings. It is ſeated on the river Vegre, 10 miles S. of Mantes.

Hough, Cheſ. near Namptwich. Hough on the Mount, Lincolnſ. near Grantham. Hougham, and Little Hougham, Kent, near Dover. Hough End, Lanc. near Mancheſter. Houghton on the Spring, Durham, near Finchale. Houghton, Cumb. in Stanwix pariſh. Houghton, Norfolk, near Harpley. It is noted for it's moſt noble houſe and park. Houghton, Nott. on the Idel, 2 miles W. of Tuxford. Houghton, Yorkſ. W. Riding, NW. of Tickhill. Houghton, Hants, near Stockbridge. Houghton, Derb. SE. of Bolſover. Houghton, Hunt. on the Ouſe, W. of St. Ives. Houghton, Yorkſ. NW. of Pontefract. Houghton, on the river Nen, S. of Northampton. Houghton, Northumb. near Chollerton. Houghton, Shropſ. near Bilſden. Houghton, Durham, NW. of Darlington. Houghton, Linc. on the Witham, S. of Grantham. Houghton, Shropſ. near Shefnal. Houghton, Norfolk, SW. of Great Walſingham. Houghton, Northumb. S. of the Picts Wall, near Heddon. Houghton Chapel, Lanc. N. of Leigh. Houghton Conqueſt, Bedf. N. of Ampthill. Houghton, Great and Little, Yorkſ. near Barnſley. Houghton King's, Bedfordſ. N. of Dunſtable. Houghton, Long, Northumb. NE. of Alnwick. Houghton Tower, Lancaſ. on the Derwin, between Blackburn and Preſton. Hoveningham, or Hovingham, Yorkſ. W. of New Malton. Howard, Somerſ. near Alfoxton. Houlſby, Linc. on the Bane, N. of Horncaſtle. Houlſton, Norf. near Saxlingham Thorp. Houlton, Wilts, near Ambreſbury.

HOULSWORTHY, a town of Devonſhire, ſituated on the river Tamer, and borders of Cornwall, 12 miles SW. of Biddeford, and 215 from London. Market on Saturday.

Houlton on the Hill, Norf. 3 miles SE. of Swaffham. Houlton in the Clay, Linc. S. of Great Grimſby. Hound, Hants, between Southampton and Tichfield Bay. About 2 miles below, pleaſantly ſituated on the Southampton river, is Nettley Abbey, founded by King Henry III. in 1239. Part of the chapel, which appears to have been once an elegant building, is ſtill ſtanding, though greatly defaced. Houndenen, Shropſ. near Clebury. Hound Hill, Staff. near Draycot. Houndsfield, Derbyſ. in the pariſh of Dronfield.

*HOUNSLOW, a town of Middleſex, ſituated on the great weſtern road, on a branch of the Colne, 10 miles W. of London. It belongs to two pariſhes, the N. ſide of the ſtreet to Heſton, and the S. to Iſleworth. On it's heath, which is noted for horſe-races and robberies, are ſome powder-mills. Market on Thurſday.

HOU QUANG, a province in the interior of China, having Honan to the N. and Kiangnan and Kiangſi to the E. It contains 15 cities of the firſt rank, and 65 of the ſecond and third, and is moſtly a champaign country, watered every where by brooks, lakes, and rivers. Here is a plenty of wild fowl and cattle; and the ſoil produces all ſorts of grain and fruits. Gold is found in the ſands of the rivers; and they have iron, tin, tutenague, wax, and ſuch an extenſive variety of other commodities, that it is commonly called the magazine of the empire.

Hourne, Surry, between Gatton and E. Grinſtead. Houſes, Cumb. near S. Tyne, SE. of Kirkhaugh. Houſeſteads, Northumb. near Cheſter and Buſy Gap. It is noted for the ruins of Roman altars and ſtatues, which have been dug up here in great quantities. From it is the beſt view of the Roman Wall. On Chapel Hill, near it, the Romans had a temple, where fragments of Doric capitals have been found, with many broken columns and ſeveral altars: and in an adjoining field, remain the viſible foundations of ſtreets and buildings. Houſe, Weſt, Eſſex, near Billericay. How, Norf. W. of Loddon. Howarby, Linc. E. of Thongcaſter. Howbern, Yorkſ. W. Riding, N. of Temple Brough. Howborn, Northumb. NW. of Belford. Howcaple, Heref. N. of Roſs, near the Wye. Howcourt, Suſſex, S. of Stening.

HOWDEN, a large town in the E Riding of Yorkſhire, noted for being the birth-place, or reſidence, of the hiſtorian Roger de Hoveden, or Howden. It gives name to a ſmall diſtrict, called Howdenſhire, and is ſeated on the N. ſide of the Ouſe, not far from its confluence with the Derwent, and other large rivers, 23 miles W. of Hull, 16 SE. of York, and 179 N. by W. of London. Market on Saturday. Fairs on the ſecond Tueſday in January, the Tueſday before March 25, the ſecond Tueſday in July, and October 2.

Howacn Dyke, near Howden: here is a ferry ferry over the Ouſe. Howden Park, Yorkſ. between Skipton and Bradford. Howden Panns, Northumb. near Shields. Howden Price, Yorkſ. near Hull. Howe, Yorkſ. near Old Malton. Howe, Yorkſ. N. Riding, near Skipton Bridge, over the Ouſe. Howell, Linc. E. of Sleaford. Howes, Northumb. near Walls End and Newcaſtle. Howey, Radnorſ. How End, Herts, N. of Kempton Howfield, Kent, near Reculver. Howfield, E. of Cheſter. Howgate Caſtle, Shropſ. NW. of Brown Clee Hill. Howgil, Weſtm. on the Lune, S. of Langdale. Howgil, Cumberl. near Whitehaven. The coal pits are carried here a great way under the ſea; and the beſt coals obtained that are ſhipped from the port of Whitehaven. Howgil Caſtle, Weſtmorl. N. of Appleby, on the river Burnibeck, near the Eden, and a little N. of the Maiden Way. The walls of great part of this ſtructure are near 11 feet thick; and underneath it are vaults and cellars arched over with ſtone. Howgrave, Yorkſ. W. Riding, S. of Skipton Bridge, over the Ouſe. Howick, Monm. N. of Chepſtow. Howick, Northumb. NE. of Alnwick, where an old tower, noticed by Leland, yet exiſts, and is kept in good repair. Howker, Lanc. SW. of Cartmel. Howland, Upper and Lower, Yorkſ. S. of Barneſley. Howle, Lanc. between Eccleſton and the Ribble. Howlets, Kent, SW. of Beakſbourn. Howley Hall, Yorkſ. near Wakefield. Howly, a river in Cheſ. which runs into the Pever, below Wyningham. Hown, Yorkſ. S. of Hutherſfield. Howrigg, Cumb. in Weſtward pariſh. Howſham, Linc. near Glandford Bridge. Howſham, Yorkſ. E. Riding, on the Derwent, NW. of Malton. Howtel, Northumb. near Woller.

HOWTH, or HOATH HEAD, a promontory, forming the NE. boundary of the Bay of Dublin. It is a peninſula, the ſhores of which are rocky and precipitous. It was formerly covered with oaks, and was a ſeat of the Druids; one of their altars ſtill remains, in a ſequeſtered valley, on the E. ſide of the hill. The village of Howth is about 7 miles NE. from the metropolis. On the top of the hill there is a light-houſe; and a few harbours, on it's ſhores, are reſorted to by ſmall craft.

Howthorp, Linc. SE. of Boothby Pannel. Howton, Dorſet. NE. of Middleton. Howton, Heref. near Wormbridge, on the Wye, or a branch of it. Howtongill Chapel, Yorkſ. W. Riding, NE. of Settle. Howton in the More, Linc. NW. of Binbrook. Hoxham, Devonſhire, near Poltimore. Hoxon, Suffolk, on the river Waveney, N. of Eye. Here Edmund, king of the Eaſt Angles, was bound to a tree, and ſhot to death with arrows by the pagan Danes, becauſe he would not renounce the Chriſtian religion. A monaſtery was afterwards erected here to his memory.

HOXTER, a ſmall town in Weſtphalia, belonging to the Abbey of Corvey, from which it is diſtant 3 miles NW.

Hoxton, or Hogſdon, Midd. a populous hamlet in Shoreditch pariſh, near Moorfields.

HOY, one of the Orkney Iſlands, ſituated between the Iſland of Pomona and the N. coaſt of Caithneſsſhire. It is about 11 miles long, and more than 3 broad. On this iſland, beſides the great conic hill of Hoyhead, which is a ſea mark, there is a ſtupendous rock, called the Beary, where a bird, here named the layer, ſuppoſed to be a ſpecies of the penguin, is found. It is about the ſize of a ſmall duck, remarkably fat, and eſteemed a great delicacy. Theſe birds burrow in the rabbit holes. The perſon employed in taking the young is uſually let down by a rope from the top of the precipice. In this iſland too, in a gloomy valley, is an entire ſtone, 36 feet long, and 18 broad, called the Dwarfie Stone. It is hollow within, having the form of a bed and pillow cut in the ſtone: it is ſuppoſed to have been once the habitation of a hermit. Lat. 58. 56. N. lon. 3. 20. W.

HOYA, a town, and ſandy, heathy county of Weſtphalia, (yet with ſome good meadows, paſtures, and arable land,) ſubject to Hanover, ſince 1705, except a ſmall part, which belongs to Heſſe Caſſel. It is about 32 miles long and 29 broad, and contains 17 ſmall towns, beſides the capital (which is ſituated on the Weſer, 24 miles SSE. of Bremen) and 54 pariſhes.

HOYER, a town of Sleſwick, celebrated for it's oyſter fiſhery. It is ſituated on the coaſt of the North Sea, 4 miles W. of Tundern.

Hoyland, High, Yorkſ. W. Riding, in Wentworth pariſh. Hoyland, Swain, Yorkſ. NW. of Barneſley.

HRADISCH, a town, capital of a circle of Moravia, celebrated for it's excellent wines and fruits. It is ſituated on the river Moraw, 30 miles SSE. of Olmutz.

HUA, or KAHUA. a large town, the capital of Cochin China, with a handſome palace, where the king commonly reſides. It is ſeated in a beautiful plain, and divided into two parts by a large river. The inhabitants blacken their teeth, thinking it a ſhame to have them white, like dogs, and they wear their nails very long. There are a few Chriſtians here. Lat. 17. 40. N. lon. 105. 5. E.

HUAHEINE, one of the Society Iſlands, in the S. Pacific Ocean, about 30 leagues from Otaheite, and 8 in compaſs, with a commodious, but ſmall, harbour, on the W. coaſt, called Owharra, affording good anchorage, in 18 fathoms water, and ſheltered from all winds. It is ſeparated by a deep gulf into two peninſulas, united by an iſthmus, which is overflowed by the ſea in high tides. It's ſurface is hilly and uneven. Lat. 16. 44. S. lon. 151. 1. W.

Hubberham, Yorkſ. W. Riding, NE. of Settle.

Hubberſton, in Pembrokeſhire, ſituated on a creek of Milford Haven. It is the ſtation of the packet to Waterford, in Ireland.

Hubberſtow, Devonſ. on the coaſt, near the mouth of the river Taw, where Hubba, the Dane, was cut off by the Weſt Saxons.

HUBERT, St. a town of Luxemburg.

Huckam, Devonſhire, SE. of Newton Buſhel. Hucket, or Huckle, Bucks, near Aileſbury. Hucking, Kent, in Hollingbourn pariſh. Huckleſcot, 4 miles E. of Glouceſter. Huckleſcot, Leiceſterſ. SE. of Aſhby de la Zouch. Hunklow, Great and Little, Derb. in the High Peak. Hucknal, N. of Nottingham. Huckney, or Hall Hucknal, Derbyſ. near Mansfield, in Nottinghamſ. Huckſlow Foreſt, Shropſ. about Stiperſton's Hill.

HUDDERSFIELD, a town in the W. Riding of Yorkſhire, which has riſen to conſequence within this century. It is a ſort of mart for narrow cloths, fine and coarſe, fine broad cloths, ſerges, kerſeymeres, &c. and is ſituated on the Calder, amid barren moors, 25 miles NE. of Mancheſter, 42 SW. of York, and 189 NNW. of London. It's market is on Tueſday, when the cloth is expoſed to ſale in a large hall, and merchants and wool-ſtaplers attend from a conſiderable diſtance.

Huddington, Worc. SE. of Droitwich. Huddleſkew, Cumb. between Penrith and Kirkhaugh. Huddleſton, Yorkſ. W. Riding, near Shirbyrn, is famous for a quarry of ſtone, reckoned the fineſt in England. When firſt dug out, it is ſoft, but hardens by lying in the air. King Henry VII.'s chapel, at Weſtminſter, was moſtly built of the ſtone fetched from hence. Hude, a river in Durham, which runs into the Tees at Middleton, 7 miles above Bernard Caſtle. Hudhay, Lanc. near Haſlengden. Hudnal, Herts, in Eleſborough pariſh.

HUDSON, a town of New York, now a peopled, induſtrious, flouriſhing, trading ſpot, on which are erected upwards of 200 dwelling houſes, bordering ſpacious ſtreets, and peopled by more than 1800 ſouls; on which ſeveral public buildings, convenient ſtores, commodious wharfs, and ſuitable out-houſes are built; on which there are two covered rope-walks, ſpermaceti works, one of the beſt diſtilleries in America, and on which mechanics of every kind are collected; yet, in the autumn of 1783, was nothing better than a mere farm, where the ſolitary huſbandman paſſed ſome time twice in a ſeaſon. No place in America, except Baltimore, in Maryland, preſents a more obvious inſtance of commercial enterpriſe and progreſſive increaſe, than this town, which is ſurrounded by an extenſive back country. Hudſon is ſeated on the E. ſide of the river of that name, 30 miles S. of Albany, and 130 N. of New York.

HUDSON'S BAY, a large bay of North America, lying between 51 and 67 deg of N. latitude, and diſcovered, in 1610, by Captain Henry Hudſon. This intrepid mariner, in ſearching after a NW. paſſage to the S. Sea, diſcovered three ſtraits, through which he hoped to find out a new way to Aſia by America. He had made two voyages before on the ſame adventure; the firſt in 1607, and the ſecond in 1608. In his third and laſt, in 1610, he entered the ſtraits that lead into this new Mediterranean, the bay known by his name; and coaſted a great part of it. His ardour for the diſcovery not being abated by the difficulties he ſtruggled with in this empire of winter, and world of froſt and ſnow, he ſtaid here till the enſuing ſpring, and prepared, in the beginning of 1611, to purſue his diſcoveries; but his crew, who ſuffered equal hardſhips, without the ſame ſpirit to ſupport them, mutinied, ſeized upon him, and ſeven of thoſe who were moſt faithful to him, and committed them to the icy ſeas in an open boat. Hudſon and his companions were never more heard of; but the ſhip, and the reſt of the men, returned home. Other attempts toward a diſcovery were alſo made in 1612 and 1667. In 1746, a Captain Ellis wintered as far north as 57 degrees and a half; and a Captain Chriſtopher attempted farther diſcoveries in 1761. But beſides theſe, and the late voyages, which ſatisfy us that we muſt not look for a paſſage on this ſide of the latitude 67 degrees north, we are indebted to the Hudſon's Bay Company for a journey by land, which throws much additional light on this matter, by affording what may be called demonſtration, how much farther north, at leaſt in ſome parts of their voyage, ſhips muſt go, before they can paſs from one ſide of America to the other. The northern Indians, who who come down to the company's factories to trade, had brought to the knowledge of our people a river, which, on account of much copper being found near it, had obtained the name of Copper Mine River. The company being deſirous of examining into this matter with preciſion, directed a young gentleman in their ſervice, of the name of Hearne, to proceed over land, under the convoy of thoſe Indians, for that river; which he had orders to ſurvey, if poſſible, quite down to it's exit into the ſea, to make obſervations for fixing the latitudes and longitudes, and to bring home maps and drawings, both of it and the countries through which he ſhould paſs. Accordingly, Mr. Hearne, ſet out from Prince of Wales Fort, on Churchill River, on the 7th of December, 1770, and, on the 13th of June following, reached the Copper Mine River, but found it all the way, even to it's exit into the ſea, encumbered with ſhoals and falls. The tide being then out, ſeemed, by the edges of the ice, to riſe about 12 or 14 feet, entering it over a dry flat of the ſhore. This riſe, on account of the falls, will carry the tide but a little way within the river's mouth, ſo that the water in it had not the leaſt brackiſh taſte. He was, nevertheleſs, ſure of the place it emptied itſelf into being the ſea, or a branch of it, by the quantity of whale and ſeal ſkins which the Eſkimaux had at their tents; and alſo by the number of ſeals which he ſaw upon the ice. The ſea, at the river's mouth, was full of iſlands and ſhoals, as far as he could ſee by the aſſiſtance of a pocket teleſcope; and the ice was not yet broken up, but thawed away only for about three quarters of a mile from the ſhore, and for a little way round the iſlands and ſhoals which lay off the river's mouth. But he had the moſt extenſive view of the ſea when he was about 8 miles up the river; from which ſtation, the extreme parts of it bore NW. by W. and NE. It appears from the map, which Mr. Hearne conſtructed of this ſingular journey, that the mouth of the Copper Mine River lies in lat. 72. N. and lon. 25. W. from Churchill River; that is about 119 W. of Greenwich. Mr. Hearne's journey back, from the Copper Mine River to Churchill River, laſted till June 30th, 1772; ſo that he was abſent almoſt a year and ſeven months. The country lying round Hudſon's Bay on the W. and SW. is called New N. and New S. Wales. The extenſive peninſula to the E. of it is called Labrador, or New Britain. The entrance of the Bay from the ocean, after leaving Cape Farewell and Davis' Straits, is between Reſolution Iſles on the N. and Button's Iſles on the S forming the eaſtern extremity of the ſtraits, diſtinguiſhed by the name of it's firſt diſcoverer. The vaſt countries that ſurround Hudſon's Bay, abound with animals, whoſe ſkins and furs are far ſuperior in quality to thoſe found in leſs northerly regions. In 1670, a charter was granted to a company, which does not conſiſt of above ten perſons, for the excluſive trade to this bay, and for planting the country; and they have acted under it ever ſince, with great benefit to themſelves, but little comparative advantage to the kingdom at large. Of late years, however, the fur trade, from the inland parts, has been carried on to a much greater extent than it was before. This has been chiefly occaſioned by the interference of the Canada traders, who had effectually ſupplanted the company on the ſea-ſhore, ſupplying the natives with every conveniency for war and domeſtic uſes. This induced the company, in 1773, to begin their inland voyages, and now the Canadians, from Canada, and the Europeans, from Hudſon's Bay, frequently meet together. The ſervants of the company, however, imported principally from the Orkney Iſles, having ingratiated themſelves into the confidence of the natives, from their prudent, proper behaviour, and incorruptible honeſty, have evidently the advantage of trade on their ſide. They conſequently export a greater quantity of furs (in proportion to the goods imported), and theſe in better preſervation and more valuable. They employ 4 ſhips, and about 130 ſeamen, and have ſeveral forts; namely, Prince of Wales' Fort, Churchill River; York Fort, Nelſon River; New Severn; and Albany; which are all ſeated on the WSW. ſide of the Bay.

HUDSON'S RIVER, one of the fineſt rivers, in N. America, riſing in a mountainous country, in the NE. part of the ſtate of New York, about half way between the Lakes Ontario and Champlain. It waters Albany and Hudſon, and proceeds, in a ſoutherly direction, almoſt it's whole courſe, to the Atlantic Ocean, which it enters at York Bay, 10 miles S. of New York, after a courſe of 250 miles. The tide flows a few miles above Albany, which is 160 miles from New York. It is navigable for ſloops of 70 or 80 tons to Albany, and for ſhips to Hudſon.

HUDSON'S STRAITS, the narrow ſea between the Atlantic Ocean and Hudſon's Bay, N. of Labradore.

Hudſwell, Yorkſhire, S. of Richmond

Moor. Huelsfield, Glouceſterſhire, in Lydney pariſh.

HUEN, a fertile iſland of the Baltic, in the Sound, ſubject to Sweden ſince the treaty of Roſchild, in 1658. It has only one village, containing about 50 houſes. This iſland was granted, by Frederick II. king of Denmark, to Tycho Brahe, the celebrated aſtronomer, with a caſtle called Uranienburg, erected for the purpoſe of making obſervations, in which he reſided upwards of 20 years. It is about 6 miles in circumference, and lies 14 miles N. by E. of Copenhagen.

HUESCA, an ancient and conſiderable town of Arragon, with an univerſity. It is ſituated on the Iſuela, 27 miles NNE. of Saragoſſa.

HUESCAR, a town of Granada.

HUETA. See GUETA.

Hugget, Yorkſ. E. Riding, E. of Wilton. Hugh, Northumb. near Stannington. Hughford, Shropſhire, near Munſlow. Hufcot, Northamp. near Towceſter. Hulcot, Wilts, NW. of Everley Warren. Hull, Northumb. near Alnwick. Hull, Worc. near Bockleton pariſh.

HULL, or KINGSTON UPON HULL, a large, cloſely-built, well-paved, and exceedingly populous town, in the E. Riding of Yorkſhire, ſeated on a river called the Hull, which riſes not far from Driffield, and here enters the river Humber. It's commerce has been conſtantly increaſing ſo much of late years, that it is now probably become the fourth port in the kingdom. It's ſituation is extremely advantageous; for, beſides it's communication with the Yorkſhire rivers and canals, it has acceſs alſo, by the Humber to the Trent, and all it's branches and communications. Hence it has the import and export trade of many of the northern and midland counties. By the late inland navigations, it has alſo a communication with the rivers Merſey, Dee, Ribble, Severn, Thames, Avon, &c. which navigation, including it's windings, extends above 500 miles in the counties of Lincoln, Nottingham, York, Lancaſter, Weſtmorland, Cheſter, Stafford, Warwick, Leiceſter, Oxford, Worceſter, &c. The foreign trade is chiefly to the Baltic; but it has alſo regular traffic with the ſouthern parts of Europe, and with America. More ſhips are ſent hence to Greenland than from any other port, that of London excepted. The coaſting trade, alſo, for coal, corn, wool, manufactured goods, &c. is very extenſive. The harbour is chiefly artificial, conſiſting of a dock, the largeſt kingdom (finiſhed in 1778), with which the river communicates, and in which 800 ſhips may ride ſafely and conveniently. Among the public buildings, are the Trinity Houſe, for the relief of ſeamen and their widows; an exchange, and a town hall. The grand ſtone bridge, over the river, to Holderneſs, was rebuilt in 1787, and conſiſts of 14 arches. It is 36 miles SE. of York, and 173 N. of London. Markets on Tueſday and Saturday.

Hull-ſed, Glouceſterſ. in Coates pariſh. Hullavington, Wilts, between Caſtlecomb and Malmſbury. Hullbridge, Eſſex, on the Crouch, W. of Wallfleet. Hulland, Herts, N. of Standon. Hullingwick, Herefordſhire, SW. of Bromyard. Hulm, or Holm's Chapel, Cheſhire, in Sandbach pariſh, near Warrington. Hulme Church, and Hulme Wakefield, Cheſ. between Congleton and Northwich.

HULST, a ſmall, but ancient, and ſtrongly-fortified town, of Dutch Flanders, with 12 dependent villages. It is ſituated among marſhes, on a canal which communicates with the Scheldt, 16 miles NNE. of Ghent.

HUMBER, a river formed by the junction of the Trent, Ouſe, Derwent, and ſeveral other ſtreams. It divides Yorkſhire from Lincolnſhire, and falls into the German Ocean between Spurn Head and Saltfleet.

Humber, Heref. between Bromyard and Leominſter. Humberſtone, 2 miles N. by E. of Leiceſter. Humberſtone, Lincoln. SE. of Grimſby. Humberton, Yorkſ. N. of Boroughbridge. Humbledon, Northumb. near Woller. Here is an intrenchment called Green Caſtle; and on Humbledon Hugh, a circular intrenchment, with a large barrow. The ſides of the hill are cut into terraces, 20 feet wide, formed with great exactneſs, one above another In the plain below is a ſtone pillar, denoting the ground where 10,000 Scots, under Earl Douglas, in the reign of Henry IV. were defeated, on Holyrood Day, by Henry, lord Percy, and George, earl of March. Humbleton, Yorkſ. near Burton Conſtable. Humby, Linc. by Lincoln Heath.

HUME, a town of S. Carolina.

Hammington, Wilts, SW. of Saliſbury.

HUMMOCH, an iſland in the Eaſtern Indian Ocean, about 6 miles in length. Here is a rajah, ſupported in his authority by the Dutch E. India Company. The natives reſemble the Malays, both in appearance and diſpoſition, but ſpeak the ſame language as the inhabitants of Mindanao. This iſland is exceedingly fertile, and produces moſt of the tropical fruits. But their principal articles of trade with the the Dutch are bees-wax and honey. It lies about 15 miles S. of the S. point of Mindanan, Lat. 5. 27. N. lon. 125. 12. E.

HUMOL'S TOWN, a town of Pennſylvania.

Huncote, Lanc. near Haſlingden. Huncote, on the Soar, SW. of Leinſter. Hunderton, near Hereford. Hundleby, Linc. near Spilſby. Hundon, Staff. on the NW. ſide of Clare. Hundred, Berks, in Cheſham pariſh. Hundred Houſe, Worc. near Woodbury and Aberley Hills.

HUNDSFELD, a town of Oels, in Sileſia.

HUNDSMARCK, a town of Stiria, ſituated on the Muehr.

Hunſleet, or Hunſlcet, Yorkſ. on the S. bank of the Aire, almoſt oppoſite Leeds. It has long been eminent for clothiers.

HUNGARY, a kingdom of Europe, bounded on the W. by Moravia and the circle of Auſtria; on the N. and NE. by Poland; on the E. by Walachia, Tranſylvania, and part of Moldavia; and on the S. by Servia and the river Drave, which ſeparates it from Sclavonia and Croatia. It is divided into Upper and Lower Hungary; and to theſe may be added the Bannat of Temeſwar, incorporated into the kingdom of Hungary, in 1778. Hungary formerly included Tranſylvania, Sclavonia, Dalmatia, Servia, Walachia, and other countries. The principal rivers are the Danube, Save, Drave, Theiſſe, Temes, Leitha, Raab, Waag, Gran, and Maros. The air in the ſouthern parts is unhealthy, occaſioned by the lakes and bogs, inſomuch that a ſort of plague viſits them every three or four years, on which account it is called the grave of the Germans. It abounds in all the neceſſaries of life, and the wine, eſpecially that called Tokay, is excellent. There are mines of gold, ſilver, copper, and iron; and they have ſuch plenty of game, that hunting is allowed to all. Almoſt all the towns of Hungary have two names, the one German, and the other Hungarian; and the language is a dialect of the Sclavonian. The government is hereditary in the houſe of Auſtria, whether male or female; and the eſtabliſhed religion is Popery, though there are a great number of Proteſtants. No country in the world is better ſupplied with minerals and baths; and thoſe of Buda, when the Turks had it in poſſeſſion, were reckoned the fineſt in Europe. Buda is the capital town of Lower Hungary, and Preſburg of the Upper.

*HUNGERFORD, formerly called INGLEFORD CHARNHAM STREET, a town of Berks, ſeated on the river Kennet, which ſeparates it from Wilts, 9 miles W. of Newbury, and 64 W. of London. Market on Wedneſday.

Hungerford, Shropſ. SE. of Church Stretton. Hungerhill, N. and S. Dorſetſ. near Wareham, on the banks of the Frome, noted for tobacco-pipe clay. There are two of this name, diſtinguiſhed by N. and S. oppoſite each other. Hungerhill, Yorkſ. W. Riding, W. of Topcliff. Hungerſhall, Kent, S. of Tunbridge. Hungerton, Leiceſterſh. N. of Billeſdon. Hungroad, Somerſetſhire, an anchoring place in the Avon, below Briſtol.

HUNGRY HILL, a lofty, ſteep, and rocky mountain, in Cork, Munſter. It is at leaſt 700 yards above the level of Bantry Bay, and near it's ſummit is a large lake, which produces one of the fineſt cataracts in the kingdom.

HUNINGEN, a ſmall, but handſome, and regularly fortified town in the dept. of Upper Rhine, ſeated on the river Rhine, 5 miles N. of Baſle.

Hunkington, E. of Shrewſbury. Hunmanby, Yorkſ. E. Riding, near Filey Bay, 11 miles S. of Scarborough, and about 2 from the ſea. It exceeds the ſize of common villages, and has a market on Tueſday, if not diſuſed. Hunnily, Warw. near Kenilworth. Huningham, NW. of Norwich. Hunington, Lincolnſ. NE. of Grantham. Hunington, Suff. NW. of Ixworth. Hunſcote, Warw. in the pariſh of Hampton upon Avon. Hunſdon, Herts, N. of Hodſdon. It ſtands in a fine, gravelly ſoil and good air, near the conflux of the Lea and Stort. Hunſhaw, Devonſ. NE. of Torrington. Hunſhelf, Yorkſ. NW. of Rotherham. Hunſinger, Yorkſ. SE. of Knarеſborough. Hunſley Houſe, Yorkſ. between N. Cave and Beverley. Hunſtanton, Norfolk, nearly S. of St. Edmund's Cape, on the ſhore of the Waſhes. It was, at firſt, a royal tower only, built by St. Edmund, who retired to it for near a year, that he might get the book of Pſalms by heart. Hunſterworth, Durham, N. of Stanhope, has lead mines. Hunſton, Suffolk, N. of Wulpot. Hunſton, Suſſex, between Appledrum and Pegham. Hunſton, Suſſex, near Parkham. Hunſworth, Yorkſhire, S. of Bradford.

HUNTER'S TOWN, a town of Pennſylvania.

Huntild, Suffolk, 4 miles W. of Halesworth. Huntingford, Glouc. in the pariſh of Wotton under Edge. Huntingford, Glouc. in Berkeley pariſh.

*HUNTINGDON, called by the Saxons HUNTER'S DOWN, the county town of Huntingdonſhire, has 2 churches, ſeveral good inns, a handſome market-place, and a good grammar ſchool. It was once very large, having 15 churches, which, in Camden's time, were reduced to 4, and now to 2; and it is ſtill a populous, trading place. It is ſeated on the river Ouſe, over which it has a handſome, ſtone bridge, leading to Godmancheſter, on the great N. road, 16 miles W. by N. of Cambridge, and 65 N. by W. of London. Markets on Monday and Saturday.

HUNTINGDON, a town of Pennſylvania.

HUNTINGDONSHIRE, a county of England, bounded on the W. and N. by Northamptonſhire, on the NE. and E. by Cambridgeſhire, and on the S. by a part of Cambridgeſhire and Bedfordſhire. It extends 22 miles from N. to S. and about 18 from E. to W. The principal rivers are the Ouſe and Nen. It is divided into 4 hundreds, which contain 5 market towns, 78 pariſhes, 279 villages, about 8220 houſes, and upwards of 49,000 inhabitants. The borders of the Ouſe, which flows acroſs the SE. part, conſiſt of fertile and very beautiful meadows. The middle and weſtern parts are finely varied in their ſurface, fertile in corn, and ſprinkled with woods. The whole upland part was, in ancient times, a foreſt, peculiarly adapted for hunting, whence the name of the county took it's riſe. The NE. part conſiſts of fens, which join thoſe of Ely; but they are drained, ſo as to afford rich paſturage for cattle, and even large crops of corn; and, in the midſt of them are ſhallow pools, abounding with fiſh. The largeſt of theſe is a lake of conſiderable ſize, called Whittleſea Mere. The air is good, except in the fenny parts, which are aguiſh. It's chief commodities are corn, malt, and cheeſe; and they fatten abundance of cattle.

Huntington, near Cheſter. Huntington, Heref. S. of Kyneton. Huntington, Staffordſ. near Cankwood. Huntington, Yorkſ. near Stockton Moor. Huntiſham, Heref. near Roſs. Huntley, Glouceſterſ. 5 miles NE. of Dean, and 7 from Glouceſter. Huntley, Staff. NE. of Draycot. Hunton, Hants, E. of Andover. Hunton, Kent, SW. of Maidſtone. Hunton, Yorkſ. near Conſtable Burton. Hunts Court, Glouceſ. near Badgworth. Huntſham, Devonſhire, SE. of Bampton.

HUNTSPIL, Somerſetſhire, a ſmall town ſeated at the mouth of the river Parret, 5 miles N. of Bridgewater.

Hunworth, Somerſ. near Bridgewater. Hunyton, Shropſhire, near Wrekin Hill. Hunwick, Durham, on the Wear, near Biſhop's Auckland, has medicinal ſprings. Hunworth, Norfolk, S. of Holt.

HURDWAR, a town of Delhi, in the northern part, on the Himmaleh, near the W. coaſt of the Ganges, on the borders of Thibet. It is 86 miles nearly N. of the city of Delhi. Lat. 29. 55. N. lon. 78. 15. E.

Hurlers, Cornw. a remarkable heap of ſtones, SW. of Launceſton. Hurlſtone, Cheſhire, NW. of Namptwich. Hurley, Berks, on the Thames, 4 miles from Maidenhead, in the Oxford road. Hurley, Warw. near Kingſbury. Hurlſton Hall, Lancaſhire, N. of Ormſkirk.

HURON, a lake of North America, between 80 and 85 deg. W. lon. and 43 and 46 N. lat. It communicates with Lake Michigan by the Straits of Michillmackinac; with the Lake Superior by the Straits of St. Mary; and with Lake Erie by the Straits of Detroit. It's ſhape is nearly triangular, and it's circumference about 1000 miles. It contains many iſlands and bays, and abounds in fiſh, particularly trout and ſturgeon. On it's banks are found prodigious quantities of ſand cherries.

Hurry, Yorkſ. N. Riding, near Rumbalakirk. Hurſley, Hants, near Wincheſter. Hurſt, Berks, near Twiford. Hurſt, Kent, SE. of Aſhford. Hurſt, Glouceſ. in Lidney pariſh. Hurſt, Glouceſterſ. in Slimbridge. Hurſt, Northumb. near Newbiggin. Hurſt, Shropſ. near Cauſe Caſtle, Hurſt, Suſſex, near Burwaſh and Rotherbridge. Hurſt, Suſſex, N. of Horſham, Hurſt, Warw. near Stonely Abbey.

HURST CASTLE, a caſtle in Hants, not far from Lymington, of ſtone, built by Henry VIII. It is ſeated on the extreme point of a neck of land, which ſhoots a mile and a half into the ſea, towards the Iſle of Wight, from which it is the ſhorteſt diſtance, being only 2 miles. In this caſtle Charles I. was confined previouſly to his being brought to trial.

Hurſt Green*, Suſſex.

Hurſtmonceaux, Suſſex, among woods, between Hailſham and Aſhburnham. Hurſtonebay, Dorſet. near Bridport. Hurſt Pierpont, Suſſex, NW. of Lewes, near Twineham. Hurſtwood, Lancaſ. 4 miles from Warrington. Hurton, Hants, NE. of Chriſtchurch. Harworth, Durham, SE. of Darlington, by the Tees.

HUS, a town of Moldavia, ſituated on the Pruth, 70 miles SW. of Bender.

Huſborn Prior, Hants, SW. of Whitchurch. Huſborn Tarrant, Hants, N. of Andover.

HUSSINGABAD, a town of Hindooſtan, in the province of Malwa, but on the S. ſide of the river Nerbuddah, and on the frontiers of Nagpour, the eaſtern diviſion of the Mahratta empire. Some maps, however, however, place it in the Candeiſh country. It is 140 miles NW. of the city of Nagpour, and 120 NE. of Burhampour. Lat. 22 42. N. lon. 77. 54. E.

Huſſington Grange, Derbyſhire, NW. of Aſhburn. Huſthwaite, Yorkſhire, N. of Eaſingwold.

HUSUM, a ſea-port of Sleſwick, trading in beer, cattle, and horſes. It is ſituated on the W. coaſt, 18 miles W. of Sleſwick.

Huſweadon, Staff. in Chartley pariſh. Hutham, Yorkſ. near North Cave. Huthwaite, Cumb. near Cockermouth, up the Derwent. Hutt, Lanc. SE. of Liverpool.

HUTTON, a town of Berwickſhire, 5 miles W. of Berwick.

Hutton, Cumb. near Heſket Newmarket. Hutton, Eſſex, near Brentwood. Hutton, Lancaſ. near Langton Chapel. Hutton, Lanc. E. of the Ken Sands. Hutton, Somerſ. NW. of Axbridge. Hutton, Yorkſ. SW. of Giſborough. Hutton, Yorkſ. N. of Kirkby Moreſide. Hutton Bonville, Yorkſ. near Northallerton. Hutton Buſhel, Yorkſ. near Scarborough. Hutton Conyers, Yorkſ. near the Wiſk, NW. of Northallerton. Hutton Cranſwick, Yorkſ. NW. of Frodlingham. Hutton Hall, Cumb. near the river Caude and Roſe Caſtle. Hutton in the Hay, Weſtm. W. of Kirkby Lonſdale. Hutton Henry, Durh. NW. of Hartlepool. Hutton John, Cumberl. in Grayſtock pariſh. Hutton Juxta Rudby, Yorkſ. S. of Yarum. Hutton Long Villers, Yorkſ. N. Riding, near Greatabridge. Hutton Managers, Yorkſ. NE. of Boroughbridge. Hutton Mary, Dorſetſ. near Sturminſter Newton. Hutton, Old and New, Weſtm. near Kendal. Hutton Roof, Weſtmorl. N. of Kirkby Lonſdale, near Caſterton. Hutton Sand, Yorkſhire, W. of Thirſk. Hutton Sefay, Yorkſhire, NW. of Eaſingwold. Huxley, 4 miles SE. of Cheſter.

HUY, a fortified town of Liege, ſituated on the Maeſe, which divides it into two parts, and over which it has an elegant bridge, built in a ſuperior manner, in 1714, 12 miles SSW. of the city of Liege. It was formerly fortified, but it's fortifications were deſtroyed by the Dutch, in 1718, when they ſurrendered it to the biſhop.

HYDE, a county of N. Carolina.

Hyde, Berks, in Denchworth pariſh. Hyde, Dorſetſ. between Bere and Wareham. Hyde, Warw. on the borders of Leic. and in Hinckley pariſh. Hyde Abbey, Hants, near Winchester, firſt erected in the year 901, by Alfred, king of the Weſt Saxons. It was the burial place of ſeveral Anglo-Saxon princes. Little now remains of this ancient and noble edifice, but a gateway, and ſome fragments of walls. Hyde Farm, Glouceſterſhire, a hamlet to Guiting Temple.

HYDRABAD, a very large city of Hindooſtan, capital of the province of Golconda, or Hydrabad, and at this time of the Deccan. It is ſuppoſed to contain upwards of 100,000 inhabitants, and is ſeated on a river that falls into the Kiſtna, 270 miles NNW. of Madras. Lat. 17. 12. N. lon. 78. 51. E.

HYDRABAD, a fortreſs of Hindooſtan, in the province of Sindy. It is the reſidence of the Mahomedan prince of that country, who is tributary to the king of Candahar. It is ſituated on the Indus, not far above the head of the Delta, and in the neighbourhood of the city of Nuſſerpour. Lat. 25..29. N. lon. 69. 30. E.

Hylderthorp, Yorkſ. about a mile S. of Burlington, near the ſea. Hyle Lake, Cheſh. between the mouths of the Dee and Merſey, where outward bound ſhips often wait for a wind. Hylton, Shropſ. NE. of Bridgenorth. Hymſworth, Yorkſ. S. of Pontefract. Hyndal, Suſſex, SE. of Aſhdown Foreſt. Hyndborn, a river in Lanc. which runs into the Lune, near Hornby Caſtle. Hyndley, Northumb. S. of Biwell Caſtle. Hyne Cheap, Suſſex, in Aſhdown Foreſt. Hyneheath, Shropſ. SE. of Wem. Hynniton, Shropſ. between Broſeley and Hatton. Hynton, Glouc. S. of Eveſham, Hynton, Northamp. SW. of Brackley.

HYPOLITE, ST. a ſmall town in the dept. of Gard, ſeated on the Vidourle, near it's ſource, 14 miles NW. of Niſmes; alſo a town in the dept. of the Doubs, 4 miles ENE. of Beſançon; and a town in the dept. of the Aveiron, 24 miles N. of Rhodez.

Hyrſt, Linc. in Axholm Iſle. Hyſham, W. of Lancaſter. Hythe, Somerſetſ. near Chedder. Hythe, or Hyth, near Colcheſter, and the harbour of that town.

*HYTHE, a town in Kent, one of the Cinque Ports. It had formerly 4 pariſhes; but it's harbour having been choked up, it has now but one. There is a very remarkable pile of dry bones in this town, 28 feet long, 6 feet broad, and 8 high; they are preſerved in a vault under the church, like books in a library, and conſiſt of ſeveral thouſand heads, arms, legs, thigh-bones, &c. ſome very gigantic; and appear, by an inſcription, to be the remains of the Danes and Britons, killed in a battle near this place, prior to the Norman conqueſt. It is 9 miles SW. of Dover, and 68 SE. of London. Market on Saturday.

J.

JAAR, a river of Liege, which paſſes by Tongres, and falls into the Maes at Maeſtricht.

JAALONS, a town in the dept. of the Marne, 9 miles W. of Chalons.

JABLUNKAU, a town of Teſchen, in Sileſia, ſituated on the river Elſa, 11 miles SSE. of Teſchen.

JACATRA, a country of the iſland of Java, of which Batavia is the capital.

JACCA, a very ancient city of Arragon, capital of a diſtrict, which includes near 200 towns and villages. It is ſituated on the river Arragon, 45 miles N. by E. of Saragoſſa.

JACI DI AQUILA, a ſea-port of Sicily, ſituated on the eaſtern coaſt, between Catania and Tavorinina. Lon. 15. 26. E.

Jack Dyke, Yorkſhire, SE. of Barnard Caſtle. Jackman's Clyne, Iſle of Wight, in W. Medina.

JACKSON'S BOROUGH, formerly called POUPON, a town of S. Carolina, 22 miles W. of Charleſton.

JACKSON, PORT, a large bay on the coaſt of New South Wales, about 12 miles N. of Cape Banks, thought to be the fineſt harbour in the world. The capes at it's entrance, which is leſs than a miles acroſs, are high, perpendicular cliffs, and within, it gradually expands into a noble baſon, with ſoundings ſufficient for the largeſt veſſels, and ſpace to accommodate, in perfect ſecurity, a greater number than ever were aſſembled at one ſtation. Ships may lie in 5½ fathoms within 50 yards of the ſhore, and the channel, (the ſurface of which is as ſmooth as a fiſh pond) has moſtly 15 fathoms, gradually ſhoaling farther up. It runs, chiefly in a weſtern direction, about 13 miles into the country, and contains at leaſt a hundred ſmall coves, formed by narrow necks of land, the projections of which afford complete ſhelter from all winds. Sydney Cove lies on the S. ſide of the harbour, between 5 and 6 miles from the entrance. There is an abundance of fiſh in the harbour, moſt of which are unknown in England, beſides oyſters, cockles, and other ſhell-fiſh.

Jacobſtow, Cornwall, NE. of Half-drunken Downs.

JAEN, a diſtrict of Spain, extending 60 miles from N. to S. and nearly as much from E. to W. It was a kingdom in the time of the Moors, till annexed to the crown of Caſtile, and is now included in the government of Andaluſia. It has La Mancha on the N. Cordova on the W. and Granada on the S.: produces corn, wine, oil, excellent fruits, and very fine ſilk; and it's mountains afford mines of lead, copper, and ſilver.

JAEN, a tolerably large city of Andaluſia, capital of a province of the ſame name. It is ſituated on a ſmall river, which ſoon after runs into the Guadalquiver, 36 miles N. of Granada, and 45 E. of Cordova. Lat. 37. 52. N. lon. 3. 40. W.

JAEN DE BRACAMOROS, a government of S. America, in the audience of Quito, containing ſome gold mines, which are abandoned. The climate is mild, and the ſoil produces all the neceſſaries of life in abundance. The culture of tobacco forms the principal buſineſs of the inhabitants. Rain is frequent. It's capital, of the ſame name, contains about 4000 inhabitants, among which are but few Spaniſh families, and is 330 miles NNE. of Lima.

JAFA, a country of Arabia, N. of Aden, and W. of Hadramant. It is fertile, and abounds, particularly, in coffee. It is governed by 3 ſovereign princes, or chiefs.

JAFFA, an ancient, decayed town of Aſia, on the coaſt of Paleſtine, formerly called JOPPA. The inhabitants are Turks or Arabs, with a mixture of Greeks, Maronites, and Armenians. The houſes are ſmall, and ſurrounded with the ruins of the ancient walls and towers. The ancient harbour is deſtroyed, but there is a good road. Here pilgrims, &c. pay for permiſſion to viſit the Holy Land. The whole coaſt, from hence to Damietta, in Egypt, is entirely deſert and wild, without a ſingle port. It is 38 miles NW. of Jeruſalem. Lat. 31. 45. N. lon. 35. 55. E.

JAFNAPATAN, a ſea-port of Ceylon, at the N. end of that iſland, and 100 miles N. of Candy. The Dutch export hence great quantities of tobacco, and ſome elephants, which are accounted the moſt docile of any in the world. Lat. 9. 47. N. lon. 80. 45. E.

JAGARNAUT, a famous pagoda, in the peninſula of Hindooſtan, and circar of Rajamundry. It lies on the Bay of Bengal, cloſe to the ſhore, and a few miles to the E. of the Lake Chilka. It is a ſhapeleſs maſs of building, and no otherwiſe remarkable than as an excellent ſea-mark for veſſels ſailing in the Bay of Bengal, and as one of the firſt objects of Hindoo veneration. Lat. 29. 35. N. lon. 85. 40. E.

JAGERNDORF, or KORNOWITZ, a fortified town, capital of a province of Si-leſia,

kfa, ſubject to Pruſſia. It is ſituated on the Oppa, 12 miles NW. of Troppau, and 20 W. of Ratibor.

JAGHIRE OF THE CARNATIC, a tract of land, in the peninſula of Hindooſtan, ſubject to the Engliſh Eaſt India Company. It extends along the Bay of Bengal, from Madras to Lake Pullicate on the N. to Alemparvé on the S. and to Conjeveram on the W. being 108 miles along the ſhore, and 47 inland, in the wideſt part. The term Jaghire means a grant of land from the ſovereign to a ſubject, revokable at pleaſure, but generally a life-rent. It contains 2440 ſquare miles, and it's revenue is about 150,000l. per annum.

JAGO, ST. a large river of South America, in Peru. It falls into the S. Sea, about 150 miles NW. of Quito, in lat. 1. 20. N. after having watered a fertile country, abounding in cotton trees, palms, bamboos, &c.

JAGO, ST. one of the largeſt, moſt populous, beſt cultivated, and moſt fertile of the Cape de Verd Iſlands, on the coaſt of Africa. It lies about 6 leagues weſtward of the Iſland of Mayo, and is about 60 miles in circumference. The people, in general, are black, or, at beſt, of a mixed colour, except a few of the better rank. Cotton is produced in ſuch abundance, in this iſland, that, beſides the large quantities ſent to the Braſils, and ſold by the Portugueſe to the other European nations, the natives are, in general, clothed with this manufacture. Here are vines, of which they make a wine, that is not contemptible; but as they are ſupplied with better by the European ſhipping, it has fallen into diſrepute. The chief fruits of the iſland, beſides a profuſion of plantains, are citrons, lemons, oranges, muſk, and water-melons; limes, bananas, guavas, pomegranates, pompions, quinces, cuſtard apples, papas, tamarinds, pine apples, cocoa-nuts, tar, apples, and ſugar canes. The animals are cows, horſes, aſſes, mules, deer, goats, hogs, civet cats, and black-faced, well-proportioned monkeys, with long tails. Of the feathered kind, there are cocks, hens, ducks, Guinea hens, both tame and wild, parroquets, parrots, pigeons, turtle doves, crab catchers, curlews, and a great variety of others, valuable only for their plumage. They have alſo ſome cedar trees, and plenty of Indian corn. It is, in general, very high land; but were it not for the continual rains in the time of the travadoes, which render it unpleaſant, and unwholeſome to ſtrangers, it would be as delightful an iſland as any in the world. The chief towns are St. Jago and Praya. Lat. 14. 54. N. lon. 23. 30. W.

JAGO, ST. a ſea-port town, capital of the Iſland of St. Jago, and of all the Cape de Verd Iſlands; the reſidence of the governor, and ſee of a biſhop. It conſiſts of about 300 houſes, a church, and a convent, all built of rough ſtone, and greatly ſuperior, in reſpect of architecture and circumſtances of convenience, to thoſe of the other iſlands. It ſtands diſperſed upon the declivity of 2 hills, between which there is a deep valley, about 200 yards wide, towards the ſea, but gradually decreaſing in breadth as it retires from the ſhore, in a triangular form, the coaſt making the baſe. In this valley, cloſe by the ſea, there is a kind of ſtreet, that runs parallel with the ſea, acroſs the valley, conſiſting of houſes on both ſides, that are watered by a rivulet which falls into a fine, ſandy bay, where the ſea is conſtantly ſmooth and even as glaſs. This forms a convenient watering-place for ſhips, though the entrance be, in a manner, blocked up (except to good pilots) by a chain of rocks. Near the landing place ſtands a ſmall fort, almoſt level with the ſea, in which is kept a conſtant guard, regularly relieved. On the very ſummit of the hill, behind the town, is another fort, well garriſoned, and mounted with heavy cannon. Beſides the ſhips of other nations, which accidentally touch here, there are two Portugueſe veſſels, which take it yearly in their way to Braſil. Theſe vend among the inhabitants all kinds of European commodities, and take in exchange the principal manufacture of the iſland, ſtriped cotton, which they ſell again to good advantage in the Braſils. Beſides this, one ſhip comes directly from Portugal to take in a cargo of ſugar, in exchange for the manufactures of Europe.

JAGO, ST. a conſiderable town of S. America, capital of Chili, with a good harbour, and a royal audience. It is ſeated in a beautiful and fertile plain, on the river Mapocho, which runs acroſs it from E. to W. Here are ſeveral canals, and a dyke, by means of which they water the gardens and cool the ſtreets. It is ſubject to earthquakes. Lat. 34. 10. S. lon. 71. 5. W.

JAGO, ST. the moſt ancient town of Cuba, on the S. coaſt, with a noble and commodious harbour. It is ſeated at the bottom of a bay, on a river of the ſame name. Lat. 20. 15. N. lon. 76. 40. W.

JAGO, ST. a town of Popayan; alſo a town of New Mexico, and province of New Leon.

JAGO DE LOS CAVALLEROS, a principal cipal town of St. Domingo, ſeated on the river Yague, in a fertile ſoil, but bad air. Lat. 19. 40. N. lon. 71. 20. W.

JAGO DEL ENTERO, ST. a town of Tucuman, S. America, the uſual reſidence of the inquiſitor of the province.

JAGO DE LAS VALLES, ST. a town of Mexico, ſeated on the river Panuco.

JAGO DE LA VEGA, ST. or SPANISH TOWN, a town of the Iſland of Jamaica, where the aſſembly and the grand courts are held. It is ſeated in a pleaſant valley, on the Rio Corbe, and was once a populous place, but is now reduced to a ſmall compaſs. Being an inland place, it's trade is ſmall, but ſeveral wealthy people reſide here, living in a gay manner. It is ſeated near the SE. part of the iſland, about 7 miles NW. of Port Paſſage, on the Bay of Port Royal. Lat. 18. 6. N. lon. 76. 49. W.

JACODNA, a town of Servia, ſeated on the river Moraw, 70 miles SE. of Belgrade.

JAICZA, a town of Boſnia, in Turkey.

JAKUTSKOI. See YAKUTSK.

JAMAGOROD, a town in the government of Peterſburgh, ſeated on the river Jama, 12 miles NE. of Narva.

JAMAICA, an iſland of the W. Indies, diſcovered by Chriſtopher Columbus, in 1494, 37 miles S. of Cuba, and 50 W. of St. Domingo. It is about 120 miles in length, and 42 where broadeſt. It is of an oval figure, and grows narrower from the middle, till it terminates in two points at the extremities of the iſland. It contains between 4 and 5,000,000 of acres, and is divided by a ridge of hills, which runs nearly from E. to W. from ſea to ſea. Here abundance of fine rivers take their riſe, and flow from both ſides in gentle ſtreams, refreſhing the valleys as they glide along, and furniſhing the inhabitants with ſweet and cool water. They are well ſtored with excellent fiſh of various kinds, not known in Europe; and they have eels and crawfiſh in great plenty, not unlike ours. None of theſe rivers are navigable, even for barges; but ſome of them are ſo large, that the ſugars are carried upon them in canoes from the remote plantations to the ſea-ſide; others of them run under ground for a conſiderable ſpace, particularly the Rio Corbe and the Rio Pedra. The mountains, and indeed the greateſt part of the iſlands, are covered with woods, which never loſe their verdure, but look green at all times of the yeaf; for here is a perennial ſpring. There are a thouſand different kinds of trees adorning the brow of every hill, irregularly mixing their different branches, appearing in gay confuſion, and forming groves and cool retreats. Among theſe are the lignum vitæ, the cedar, and the mahogany trees. In the valleys are ſugar-canes, and ſuch a variety of fruit-trees, as to make the country look like a paradiſe. But to balance theſe advantages, there are dreadful alligators in the rivers; guiances and galliwaſps in the fens and marſhes; and ſnakes, and noxious animals, in the mountains. The days and nights are almoſt of an equal length all the year round. There are two ſprings, or ſeaſons, for planting grain, and the year is diſtinguiſhed into two ſeaſons, the wet and the dry. July, Auguſt, and September are called the hurricane months, becauſe then theſe dreadful tempeſts are moſt frequent, and there is lightning almoſt every night. Not above one half of the iſland is cultivated, all the plantations being by the ſea-ſide. Here and there are ſavannas, or large plains, where the original natives uſed to plant their Indian corn, and which the Spaniards afterwards made uſe of for breeding their cattle; but theſe are now quite bare and barren. The houſes are generally built low, being only one ſtory, on account of the hurricanes and earthquakes; and the negroes live in huts made of reeds, which hold only two or three perſons. The common drink is Madeira wine, or rum punch. The common bread, or that which ſerves for it, is plantains, yams, and caſſava-roots. The yams are like potatoes, only coarſer, and of a much larger ſize. But in 1793, a great number of the bread-fruit trees were brought here from the Iſland of Otaheite, by Captain Bligh, in the Providence frigate. The cinnamon-tree thrives here extremely well; the firſt of theſe trees ſeen in that part of the world, were obtained out of a French ſhip captured by Admiral Rodney; this yielded ſeeds in abundance, and many plants have been raiſed from them, which proſper exceedingly in the cultivated parts of the iſland. Hogs are plentiful, and their mutton and lamb pretty good; but the ſervants generally feed upon Iriſh ſalt-beef, and the negroes have herrings and ſalt fiſh. The current coin is all Spaniſh money. The general produce of this iſland is ſugar, rum, ginger, cotton, indigo, pimento, chocolate, ſeveral kinds of woods and medicinal drugs. They have ſome tobacco, which is but indifferent, and uſed only by the negroes. They have no ſorts of European grain; but they have Indian corn, Guinea corn, and peaſe of various kinds, but none like ours; with variety of roots. Fruits are in great plenty, ſuch as Seville and China oranges

oranges, common and ſweet lemons, ſhaddocks, citrons, pomegranates, mammes, ſourſops, papas, pine apples, ſtar apples, prickly pears, alicada pears, melons, pompions, guavas, and many other ſorts. The common diſtempers are, fevers, fluxes, and the dry gripes. Jamaica is divided into 3 counties, Middleſex, Surry, and Cornwall, which contain 6 towns and 27 villages. The legiſlature conſiſts of a governor, appointed by the king; a council; and houſe of aſſembly. In 1787, the number of negroes amounted to about 250,000, the whites to 30,000, the freed negroes and people of colour to 10,000, and the Maroons (who have been ſince tranſported to Nova Scotia) to 1400. In the ſame year, the exports amounted, in the whole, to the ſum of 2,136,442l. 17s. 3d. ſterling, at the current London prices, and the imports to the ſum of 1,496,232l. 5s. 4d. The principal town is Kingſton; but St. Jago de la Vega, or Spaniſh Town, is the ſeat of government. In 1655, Jamaica was taken from the Spaniards by the Engliſh, under Penn and Venables.

JAMMA, or IMAM, a town of Nedsjed, in Arabia.

JAMBI, a ſea-port and ſmall kingdom on the eaſtern coaſt of the Iſland of Sumatra. The Dutch have a ſettlement here; and export pepper hence, with the beſt ſort of canes. Lat. 0. 59. S. lon. 102. 35. E.

JAMES ISLAND, an iſland of Africa, about 30 miles up the river Gambia, in the middle of the river, and 3 miles from it's neareſt ſhore. On this iſland, which is about a mile in circumference, the Engliſh have a conſiderable factory. Lat. 13. 15. N. lon. 16. 0. W.

JAMES ISLAND, an iſland in Aſhley River, 3 miles S. of Charleſton, in S. Carolina. It contains about 50 families.

JAMES RIVER, a fine river of N. America, which riſes in the Allegany mountains, and paſſing through Virginia, enters the Bay of Cheſapeak near it's mouth.

JAMES, ST. a town of S. Carolina, ſituated on the S. ſide of the Santee, 40 miles NE. of Charleſton; alſo, another town of S. Carolina, 15 miles N. of Charleſton; and a town in the dept. of the Channel, 10 miles S. of Avranches.

JAMES, ST. a village in Switzerland, conſiſting of an hoſpital, a cuſtom-houſe, a church, and a few tile-kilns. It is ſituated on the river Birs, 1 mile E. of Baſil.

James, St. Kent, in Greane Iſle, oppoſite Sheerneſs.

James, St. near Northampton.

James, St. Suffolk, NW. of Haleſworth.

JAMES TOWN, a town of N. America, once the capital of Virginia, ſituated on the S. ſide of James River, 42 miles above it's mouth, and 5 S. of Williamſburg. Lat. 37. 10. N. lon. 76. 50. W.

JAMES Town, a town of America, in Rhode Iſland.

JAMES TOWN, a town of Leitrim, in Connaught, ſeated on the river Shannon, 5 miles SE. of Carrick on Shannon, and 72 NW. of Dublin.

James Well, in Sligo, Connaught.

JAMETS, a town in the dept. of Meuſe, 10 miles SE. of Stenay.

JAMTLAND, a province of Sweden, the weſtern part of which is mountainous and craggy, and the eaſtern a champaign country, W. of Angermania, and bordering on Norway. It is above 70 miles in length, and 60 in breadth, and is very thinly inhabited.

JANEIRO. See RIO JANEIRO.

JANNA, or JANNINA, a territory of Turkey, in Europe, the Theſſalia of the ancients. It is bounded by Livadia on the S. Albania on the W. and the Archipelago on the E. Lariſſa is the capital.

JANNA, or JANNINA, a conſiderable town of Theſſaly, ſituated on a lake, which communicates with the river Peneus, 40 miles W. of Lariſſa.

JANOWITZ, a town of Kaurzim, in Bohemia; and a town of Sandomirz, in Poland.

Janus, Cornwall, near Tregony.

JAPAN ISLANDS, a large country of Aſia, ſituated to the eaſtward of China, Corea, and Tartary. It conſiſts of 3 large iſlands, the names of which are Niphon, or Hiphon, Ximo, and Xikoko, and ſeveral ſmaller ones. The whole empire is divided into 7 principal countries, which are ſubdivided into 70 provinces. It is the richeſt country in the world for gold, and the air and water are very good. It produces a great deal of rice, millet, wheat, and barley. Cedars are common, and ſo large, that they are proper for the maſts of ſhips, and columns for temples. Both their porcelain and Japan are much better than thoſe articles are in China; they have alſo ſilk, ſkins, and red pearls, which are not in leſs eſteem than the white. Their horſes, though extremely ſmall, are very beautiful, and highly valued; and they have an art of tempering ſteel beyond any other nation in the world. They have tea, of all ſorts, much finer and better cured than that of China. The inhabitants are very ingenious, and their manners are, in many reſpects diametrically oppoſite to thoſe of the Europeans. Our common drinks are cold, and theirs are all hot; hot; the Europeans uncover the head out of reſpect, and they the feet; we are fond of white teeth, and they of black; we get on horſeback on the left ſide, and they on the right; and they have a language ſo peculiar, that it is underſtood by no other nation. The ſciences are highly eſteemed among them, and they have ſeveral ſchools at different places. Thoſe they ſtudy moſt are arithmetic, rhetoric, poetry, hiſtory, and aſtronomy. Some of their ſchools at Meaco have each 3 or 4000 ſcholars. They treat the women with great ſeverity, and puniſh adultery with death; yet a man may take as many wives as he pleaſes. The Japaneſe formerly carried on a trade with the neighbouring countries; but now all communication with others is forbidden, except the Chineſe, Coreans, the country of Jedſo, and with the Dutch. Formerly their emperors were alſo ſovereign pontiffs, and in the minority of one of them, when they had civil wars, one of the competitors of the crown aſſumed the eccleſiaſtical government, retaining the ancient title of Dairo, or Emperor; while the other, who ruled in civil affairs, was called Cubo; and things have remained on the ſame footing to this day. The Dairo is, at preſent, the nominal emperor, and confers the dignity upon the other, as if he were his vaſſal. He reſides at Meaco, and has no lands; but he has a right of ſelling titles and dignities; and the idolatrous prieſts make great contributions. He wears a black habit, and a cap upon his head. His feet muſt never touch the ground, nor muſt he ever be expoſed to the rays of the ſun. He never cuts his hair, nor his beard, nor his nails; and all his victuals muſt be dreſt in new veſſels. When he goes abroad, he is carried by 14 men, in a litter, ſurrounded with curtains, ſo that he may ſee, and not be ſeen. He has generally 12 wives, who have each a palace, with ſinging and dancing women for his diverſion. He has alſo an unlimited number of concubines. His palace is adorned with 365 idols. The Cubo, however, is the real emperor, and bears an abſolute dominion over all civil and military affairs throughout the empire. The Dairo, therefore may be conſidered as only the high prieſt, while the Cubo is now the real monarch of Japan. The religion of the whole country is Paganiſm; but there are two different ſects; one of which is ſubjected to the moſt painful ſeverities; the other abandons itſelf to the moſt voluptuous enjoyments. There were once a great number of Chriſtians, proſelytes to the Jeſuit miſſionaries, in different parts of the empire; but, in 1622, they under went great perſecutions, inſomuch th they were, at length, all rooted out. Th cauſe of this was the oppoſition of th prieſts; the haughty behaviour of the Po tugueſe, they not allowing ſeveral wive and the perſuaſions of the Dutch, who to them, that their emperor would become ſlave to the Pope, and to the king Spain. The emperor of Japan is monar paramount, and all the petty kings are h vaſſals. His army generally conſiſts 100,000 foot, and 20,000 horſe, exclu of thoſe maintained by his vaſſals. His o dinary revenue is immenſe. The pala of the emperor is at Jeddo, in the Ila of Niphon, and it is the capital of t whole. The only Europeans that tra with Japan are the Dutch; and whene their ſhips arrive, they take away th guns, ſails, and helms, and carry them ſhore, till they are ready to return bac In the abſence of the ſhips, the factors a ſhut up in a ſmall peninſula, and are n ſuffered ſo much as to have a lighted ca dle in their houſes in the night time. T merchandiſe which the Dutch carry to J pan are ſpices, ſugar, ſilks, linen, a woollen cloths, elephants' teeth, habe daſhery wares, raw hides, drugs, a glaſſes of all ſorts; for which they recei gold, ſilver, copper, iron, and ſteel; porc lain, japanned and lackered wares, tur tea, precious ſtones, ambergris, and m dicinal herbs. The Japaneſe have neith tables, beds, and chairs, but they ſit a lie on carpets and mats, in the manner the Turks.

JAPARA, a town of Java, ſeated on river of the ſame name, on the N. coa with a ſpacious harbour. It was the c pital of a conſiderable kingdom, till th Dutch made themſelves maſters of it; a now they have a colony here, and a cons derable trade. It is 200 miles E. of Ba tavia. Lat. 6. 35. S. lon. 111. 5. E.

JARBO, a town of W. Gothland.

JARBOAS, a town of Weſtmanland, i Sweden.

JARGEAU, an ancient town in the dep of Loiret, ſituated on the Loire, 10 mile SE. of Orleans. It was taken by the Eng liſh, in the year 1428, and retaken the fol lowing year by the maid of Orleans.

JARISLAU. See YAROSLAF.

JARNAC, a town in the dept of Cha rente, ſeated on the river Charente, 14 miles W. of Angouleſme.

JAROMITZ, a town of Koningrats, i Bohemia.

JAROSLAW, a town of Lemburg, i Auſtrian Poland, remarkable for it's great fair, ſair, and it's handſome buildings. It is ſeated on the river Saine, 44 miles nearly W. of Lemburg.

JAROSLAVLSKOI, a government of Ruſſia, bounded on the E. by the government of Koſtrom, and on the S. by the government of Vladimir. It's capital, Jaroſlavl, celebrated for it's manufacture of Ruſſian leather, is 144 miles NNE. of Moſcow.

Jarrow, Durham, near Shields, on the Tyne. In 1763, a ſtone was dug up in the church there, importing, that the foundation of that building was begun in the year 674, in the reign of Egfrid, king of Northumberland, by Ceolfrid, it's abbot.

JASENITZ, a town of Pruſſian Pomerania, ſeated at the mouth of the Oder, 8 miles below Stettin.

Jaſper's Pound, in Clare, Munſter.

JASQUE, a ſea port of Tuberan, in Perſia, in the Gulf of Ormus. Lat. 25. 56. N. lon. 57. 49. E.

JASSELMERE, a town and territory of Hindooſtan, ſubject to a petty rajah, in the province of Agimere. It is 60 miles NNW. of Bickaneer. Lat. 27. 34. N. lon. 73. 0. E.

JASSY, a well-fortified city of Turkey, the capital of Moldavia, and reſidence of the hoſpodar of that country, who is vaſſal of the grand ſignior. The inhabitants are chiefly Greeks. It is ſituated on a branch of the river Pruth, 200 miles E. of Otchakov. Lat. 47. 8. N. lon. 27. 35. E.

JATS, THE, once a powerful tribe in Hindooſtan to whom all that now remains is the ſmall territory of Bhurtpour, 45 miles W. of Agra.

JAUER, a town of Sileſia, capital of a mountainous principality, of the ſame name, containing 12 towns, and ſome large and populous, manufacturing villages. It is N. of Bohemia, and W. of the principalities of Lignitz and Schweidnitz. The earthern ware is much eſteemed. The town of Janer is noted for a large ſquare, ſurrounded by piazzas, and is 12 miles S. of Lignitz, and 16 NW. of Schweidnitz.

JAVA, an iſland in the Eaſtern Indian Ocean, generally known by the name of Great Java, to diſtinguiſh it from Bali, by ſome named the Leſſer Java; and is upwards of 600 miles in length, and from 60 to 80 in breadth. The N. coaſt has a great many commodious creeks, bays, harbours, and towns, with many little iſlands near the ſhore. In former times, it had as many petty kings as there were large towns; but now it has two kingdoms only; one of which is under the juriſdiction of the king of Mataram, and the other under the king of Bantam. The inhabitants are of a brown complexion, have faces rather flat, ſhort, coal-black hair, large eye-brows, and large cheeks, with ſmall eyes. The men are very robuſt and ſtrong limbed; but the women are ſmall. The men wear a piece of calico wrapt two or three times round their middle; and the women wear them from their arm-pits down to their knees; but all other parts are bare. Thoſe living near the ſea ſide are generally Mahometans; but within land they are Gentoos, abſtaining from fleſh of all kinds. It is a fertile iſland, producing ſugar and the various tropical fruits; and it has very high mountains. It has likewiſe impaſſable foreſts and wilderneſſes; but the N. between Batavia and Bantam, is a very populous country, full of rice-fields, and various ſorts of wild and tame animals. Here alſo is plenty of ſalt, pepper, caſſia, wood uſeful for building, gum benzoin, &c. beſide flowering trees and ſhrubs, and moſt ſorts of fruits proper to the climate. They have alſo hogs, beeves, and ſheep, with other tame creatures; and likewiſe fowl, both wild and tame, in great abundance, among which are beautiful parroquets, peacocks of an extraordinary ſize, Bantam fowls, &c. In the woods are large tigers, rhinoceroſes, and ſeveral other animals unknown in Europe; and in the rivers are crocodiles. The air is as temperate and healthy as any part of the Eaſt-Indies. The rains, which begin in November, lay the low grounds under water, kill the inſects, and continue till the return of May. The coaſts of the iſland are moſtly under the dominion of the Dutch. Beſide the native Javaneſe, here are Chineſe, Malayans, Amboyneſe, Topaſſes, Bugaſſes, Timoreans, and many other people, brought from diſtant countries by the Dutch. Java lies to the SE. of the Iſland of Sumatra, from which it is only ſeparated by the Straits of Sunda. Lat. 5. 45. to 7. 50. S. lon. 104. 20. to 114. 15. E.

JAYPOUR. See JYPPOUR.

Ibber, a river in Derbyſhire, which runs into the Rother near Cheſterfield. Ibberton, Dorſetſh. N. of Helton. Ibbeſley, Hants, N. of Ringwood. Ibernon, Suſſex, N. of Petworth. Iberton, Dorſetſh. near Axminſter. Ible, Derbyſ. NW. of Wirkſworth.

IBORG, or IBURG, a town of Oſnaburg, in Weſtphalia.

Ibſtock,

Iſtock, Leiceſ. W. of Bardon Hills.

Iça, a town of Lima, in S. America, which gives name to a province called Iça, Pisco, and Nasca, from the three principal towns. It extends about 140 miles along the coaſt of the S. Pacific Ocean.

Icomb, Worceſ. a pariſh SE. of the city of Worceſter, inſulated in Glouceſterſhire. It is 2 miles from Stow in the Would.

Ice, Valley of. See Glaciers.

Iceland, a large iſland to the N. of Europe, about 600 miles in length, and 300 in breadth. For two months together the ſun never ſets; and in the winter it never riſes for the ſame ſpace, at leaſt not entirely. The middle of this iſland is mountainous, ſtony, and barren; but in ſome places there are excellent paſtures, and the graſs has a fine ſmell. The ice, which gets looſe from the more northern country in May, brings with it a large quantity of wood, and ſeveral animals, ſuch as foxes, wolves, and bears. Mount Hecla is the moſt noted mountain, and is a volcano, which ſometimes throws out ſulphureous torrents. Their houſes are ſcattered about at a diſtance from each other, and many of them are deep in the ground, but they are moſtly miſerable huts, covered with ſkins. Many of the natives profeſs Chriſtianity; but thoſe that live at a diſtance are Pagans. Some of them are clothed with ſkins of beaſts. The exports are dried fiſh, ſalted mutton, beef, butter, train oil, tallow, coarſe and fine jackets of wadmal, woollen ſtockings and gloves, red wool, ſheep ſkins, ſea-horſes' teeth, fox-tails of ſeveral colours, feathers, and quills. The imports are iron, horſes-ſhoes, timber, meal, wine, brandy, tobacco, coarſe linen; and domeſtic utenſils. The number of inhabitants is about 50,000. Their language is the old Runic, or Gothic, the vernacular tongue of the Swedes, Danes, and Norwegians, before it branched into the ſeveral dialects ſince ſpoken by the natives of theſe three kingdoms. Lat. 63. 15. to 67. 15. N. lon. 16. to 25. W.

Ichenor, Eaſt and Weſt, Suſſex, E. of Thorney Iſle. Ickwell, Bedf. Ickborrow, Norf. on Maidenlode River, N. of Downham. Ickenham, Middl. near Uxbridge. Ickeſham, Suſſex, near Winchelſea. Ickford, Bucks, NW. of Tame. Ickham, or Ilkham, Kent, NW. of Wingham. Ickleford, or Ickleton, Herts, N. of Hitchin. Icleton, Camb. near Cheſterford, in Eſſex. Icklingham, Suffolk, SE. of Milden Hall. Icklingbury, Bedf. W. of Biggleſwade.

Ickworth, a ſmall town of Suffolk, 23 miles NW. by N of Ipſwich, and 74 NNE. of London. Market on Friday.

Icolmkill, formerly Iona, a fertile little iſland, one of the Hebrides, near the SW. point of the Iſle of Mull. It is about 3 miles long and 1 broad, and contains one poor village, with the ruins of an ancient monaſtery and cathedral. Here are three royal chapels, or rather cemeteries, in which ſeveral ancient kings of Scotland, Ireland, and Norway are buried.

Icombe, Glouceſterſhire, 2 miles SE. of Stow.

Ida, Mount. See Candia.

Idanha a Nueva, and Idanha a Velha, towns of Beira.

Idbury, Oxf. SW. of Chipping Norton. Iddeſleigh, Devonſ. NE. of Hatherley. Ide Hill, Kent, S. of Sevenoaks. Iden, Suſſex, S. of Oxney Iſland. Ideſley, or Aſhley Hay, Derbyſ. near Wirkſworth. Idford, Devonſ. near Chudleigh. Idle, Yorkſ. N. of Bradford. Idle, a river in Nottinghamſhire, which riſes near Manſfield, in Sherwood Foreſt, and falls into the Trent, on the edge of Yorkſhire and Lincolnſhire, a few miles before it's conflux with the Ouſe. Idlecot, Warwickſ. between Shipſton and Kington. Idmerſton, Wilts, S. of Ambreſbury. Idover Bridge, Wilts, SE. of Malmſbury.

Idria, a town of Goritz, in Carniola, celebrated for it's mines of quickſilver.

Idstein, a town of Naſſau Weilburg, Upper Rhine.

Idſtock, Somerſetſh. N. of Bridgewater.

Jean, St. a town in the dept. of Moſelle, ſeated on the river Sare, 12 miles W. of Deux Ponts.

Jean d'Angely, a town in the dept. of Lower Charente. It is noted for it's brandy, and is ſeated on the river Boutonne, on which are two powder mills; 15 miles NE. of Saintes, and 14 nearly E. of Rochfort.

Jean de Lone, St. a town in the dept. of Côte d'Or, ſeated on the river Saone, 15 miles nearly S. of Dijon, and 115 SE. of Paris.

Jean de Luz, St. a town in the depart. of Lower Pyrenees, the laſt next Spain, with a harbour. This little town owes it's opulence to the cod and whale fiſhery. It is ſeated on a ſmall river, near the ſea, 12 miles SW. of Bayonne, and 315 S. by W. of Paris. Lat. 43. 23. N. lon. 1. 40. W.

Jean de Maurienne, St. a town in the dept. of Mont Blanc, capital of the county of Maurienne, in a valley of the ſame name. It is ſeated on the river Arc, 15 miles 15 miles S. by W. of Montier, and 25 NE. of Grenoble.

JEAN PIED DE PORT, ST. a conſiderable town in the dept. of Lower Pyrenees. It is ſeated on the river Nive, (at the entrance of thoſe paſſages, or defiles, in the Pyrenees, which, in this country, are called Parts) 20 miles SE. of Bayonne, and 30 NE. of Pampeluna.

JED, a river of Roxburghſhire, which runs into the Teviot, about 2 miles N. of Jedburgh. On the banks of this river are ſeveral large caverns, which were the ſtrong holds, or hiding places, of the ancient border warriors.

JEDBURGH, a town of Roxburghſhire, ſituated almoſt in the centre of the county, on the banks of the Jed, and near it's confluence with the Teviot, 34 miles SE. of Edinburgh. It contains near 3000 inhabitants, (including the environs, which belong to the pariſh) and is the ſeat of the law courts for the county.

JEDDO, or YEDDO, the ſecond capital of Japan, in the Iſland of Niphon, where the dairo, or nominal emperor, reſides. The houſes are built with earth, and boarded on the outſide, to prevent the rain from deſtroying the walls. In every ſtreet is an iron gate, which is ſhut up in the night, and a kind of cuſtom houſe or magazine, to put merchandiſe in. It is 9 miles in length and 6 in breadth, and contains 1,000,000 inhabitants. A fire happened in 1658, which, in the ſpace of 48 hours, burnt down 100,000 houſes, and in which a great number of the inhabitants periſhed. The emperor's palace was reduced to aſhes; but the whole is rebuilt. The royal palace is in the middle of the town, and is defended by walls, ditches, towers, and baſtions. Where the emperor reſides, are three towers, nine ſtories high, each covered with plates of gold; and the hall of audience is ſupported by pillars of maſſy gold. Near the palace are ſeveral others, where the relations of the emperor live. The empreſs has a palace of her own, and there are 20 ſmall ones for the concubines. Beſides, all the vaſſal kings have each a palace in the city, with a handſome garden, and ſtables for 1000 horſes. The generality of the houſes are nothing but a ground floor, and the rooms are parted by folding ſcreens: ſo that they can make the rooms larger or ſmaller at pleaſure. Jeddo is well-fortified, and is ſeated in a plain, at the bottom of an extenſive gulf or bay; and the river, which croſſes it, is divided into ſeveral canals. Lat. 35. 46. N. lon. 139. 30. E.

JEHUD, or JOUD, mountains in the NW. part of Hindooſtan Proper, extending from Attock, eaſtward to Bember. They are part of the territory of the mountaineers, called Gickers, Gekers, or Kakaers.

JEKYL, a ſmall iſland at the mouth of the river Alatamaha, in Georgia, North America.

JEMAPPE. See GEMAPPE.

Jemington, Suſſex, W. of Pevenſey.

JEMPTERLAND. See JAMTLAND.

JENA, a town in Eiſenach, in Upper Saxony, with a univerſity, near the Saale.

JENAUB. See CHUNAUB.

JENISA. See YENISEI.

JENISKOI. See YENISEISK.

Jenkins, Eſſex, near Dagenham. Jenkins, Eſſex, N. of Tilbury.

JENO, or GENO, a town of Hungary, 20 miles S. of Great Waradin.

JERBY, an ancient town of Cumberland, E. of the road between Cockermouth and Wigton, and near the ſource of the river Elen. It is 10 miles NE. of Cockermouth, and 299 NNW. of London. Market on Thurſday.

Jerby, Cheſhire, between the Dee and Merſey.

JEREMIE, or GRAND ANSE, a well-built town of the Iſland of St. Domingo, ſituated on an eminence, in a ſoil fertile in ſugar, indigo, coffee, cotton, and cocoa, 5 miles W. of St. Domingo. Lat. 18. 18. N. lon. 70. 14. W.

JERICHO, an ancient town of Paleſtine, celebrated formerly for the great number of palm trees growing near it, and therefore called the City of Palm Trees. At preſent, it is only a ſquare tower, ſurrounded with huts or tents of the Arabians. Many palm-trees are yet growing here.

JERMAH, a town of Africa, in the kingdom of Fezzan, ſaid to conſiſt of clay-built cottages, among the moſt majeſtic ruins of ancient magnificence.

Jerpoint, in Kilkenny, Leinſter.

JERSEY, an iſland in the Engliſh Channel, about 18 miles from the coaſt of the dept. of the Channel, and 84 S. of Portland in Dorſetſhire, ſubject to the Engliſh. It is about 12 miles long and 6 broad, and is difficult of acceſs, on account of the rocks and ſands. It contains 12 pariſhes: the principal towns are St. Helier, in the S. part of the iſland, and St. Aubin. It lies extremely well for trade. It is well watered with rivulets, and is well ſtocked with fruit-trees. They have a noted manufacture for woollen ſtockings and caps. The civil government is intruſted to a bailiff liff and 12 jurats, under a governor appointed by the crown. Round towers have been erected on all the acceſſible parts of the coaſt, ſince the year 1781, when a body of French, under the Baron de Rullecourt, effected a landing, but were all either killed, wounded, or taken priſoners. Lat. 49. 11. N. lon. 2. 10. W.

JERSEY, NEW, one of the United States of N. America, bounded on the E. by Hudſon's River and the Atlantic Ocean; on the S. by the Atlantic, and the Bay of Delaware; on the W. by Pennſylvania and the ſtate of Delaware, from both which it is ſeparated by the river of that name; and on the N. by a line drawn from the mouth of Mahakkamak River, in lat. 41. 24. to a point in Hudſon's River, in lat. 41. It is about 161 miles long and 52 broad. It is divided into 13 counties. It's produce is much the ſame as that of the neighbouring ſtates. The principal towns are Burlington, Amboy, Brunſwick, and Trenton.

Jerveux Abbey, Yorkſ. NW. of Maſham. Jervis Hall, Eſſex, SW. of Rayleigh.

Jerviſtown, in Clare, Munſter. Jergin's Town, in Kildare, Leinſter, near Naas, 16 miles from Dublin.

JERUSALEM, an ancient and celebrated city of Aſia, formerly capital of the kingdoms of Iſrael and Judah, after David had conquered the Jebuſites. It was taken by Nebuchadnezzar, in the eleventh year of the reign of Zedekiah, and the Jews were led captive to Babylon. It was afterwards taken by the Romans, and ruined, together with the temple, 70 years after the birth of Chriſt, being one of the moſt remarkable ſieges in hiſtory. The emperor Adrian built a new city, near the ruins of ancient Jeruſalem It was taken by the Perſians in 614, and by the Saracens in 636. In 1099 it was retaken by the Cruſaders, who founded a new kingdom, which laſted near 88 years, under 5 Latin kings, and 8 patriarchs in the church. Saladin, king of Egypt and Syria, obtained poſſeſſion of it in 1187. The Turks drove away the Saracens in 1217, have kept poſſeſſion of it ever ſince, and call it HELEODS, that is, the Holy City. It is now inhabited by Turks, Arabs, Jews, and Chriſtians It ſtands on a high rock, with ſteep aſcents upon every ſide, except to the N. It is almoſt ſurrounded with valleys encompaſſed with mountains, ſo that it ſeems to ſtand in the middle of an amphitheatre. It is about 3 miles in circumference, and includes Mount Calvary, which was formerly without the walls. On this hill is erected a large ſtructure, with a round nave, which has no light but what comes through the top, like the Pantheon at Rome. This is called the Church of the Holy Sepulchre; the chapel of which is cut out of the rock, and lamps are kept conſtantly burning in it. The Chriſtian pilgrims flock here from various parts, and the inhabitants accommodate them with lodgings and proviſions, which is their chief buſineſs, and a baſhaw, with a guard of janizaries, always reſides here, to protect them from the inſults of the Arabs. Jeruſalem is 112 miles SSW. of Damaſcus, and 45 from the Mediterranean Sea. Lat. 31. 55. N. lon. 35. 25. E.

JESI, a town of Ancona, Italy, ſeated on a mountain near the river Jeſi, 16 mile WSW. of Ancona.

JESO. See KURILES.

JESSELMERE. See JASSELMERE.

JESSO, JEDSO, or YEDSO, a larg iſland of Aſia, N. of the Iſland of Niphon governed by a tributary prince, depend ent on the empire of Japan. It is full o woods, and the inhabitants are more rud and ſavage than the Japaneſe, living chief ly on fiſh and game.

Jeſſop's Well, in Surry, a ſulphureou ſpring, 4 miles from Epſom, ſimilar t that of Harrowgate in Yorkſhire.

JESUS ISLAND, in the river St. Lau rence, near the Iſland of Montreal. It i about 24 miles long, and 6 wide.

JETTING, or HIERTING, a ſea-por town of N. Jutland, ſituated at the mout of the Warde, with one of the beſt ha bours in that country, 22 miles NW. Ripen.

JEVER, a town of Weſtphalia, capit of Jeverland, a ſmall country in the NE part of E. Frieſland, on the W. ſide the mouth of the Weſer, ſubject to th prince of Anhalt Zerbſt. It is 28 mil NE. of Embden.

Jevington, Suſſex, near Eaſt Bourne.

JEW, MARKET. See MERAZION.

IF, a ſmall iſland of France, the mo eaſterly of the three at the entrance of t port of Marſeilles: it is well fortified, an furniſhed with a garriſon.

Iffard, Hants, W. of Chriſtchurch Iſield, Kent, SE. of Graveſend. Iſfi Suſſex, N. of Horſham. Iſield, Suſſex, N of Lewes. Iſley, near Oxford. Iſord, Su ſex, SW. of Lewes. Iſord, Wilts, ne Bradford. Ightham, Kent, SW. Wrotham.

IGIS, a town of the Griſons, with magnificent caſtle, in which is a cabin of curioſities, and a handſome library. It is 13 miles SW. of Coire.

IGLAU, a populous town of Moravia, capital of a circle, which contains 21 towns, 294 villages, and about 6433 houſes. It has a manufacture of good cloth, and a conſiderable commerce in corn and hemp. It is about 62 miles SE. of Prague.

IGLESIAS, a town in the S. of Sardinia.

JIDDA, a ſea port of Mecca, in Arabia Felix, with a conſiderable trade, being a ſort of mart between Egypt and India. The circumjacent country affords nothing but Taif almonds for an object of traffic; of theſe, the Engliſh, who are particularly favoured here, carry away about 500,000 weight a year, to India. It is ſituated in a barren, ſandy diſtrict, without water, (all their proviſions being imported from Egypt) 170 miles S. of Medina.

JIHON, a large river of Aſia, which riſes in the mountains of Little Thibet, paſſes through Bucharia and Charaſm, and empties itſelf partly into the Caſpian Sea, and partly into the Lake Aral.

JIONPOUR, a ſmall city of Hindooſtan Proper, capital of a circar of the ſame name, in the diſtrict of Benares. It is ſeated on the river Goomty, and was, at one time, the ſeat of an empire. Chaja Jehan, vizier to Sultan Mahummed Shah, during the minority of his ſon, Mamood Shah, aſſumed the title of Sultan Shirki, or King of the Eaſt, took poſſeſſion of Bahar, and fixed his reſidence at Jionpour, where he built the great musjud, or mauſoleum, which is ſtill remaining, for himſelf and family. The bridge over the Goomty is built of ſtone, and conſiſts of 16 pointed arches. On the top of the bridge are many little ſhops on both ſides, built of ſtone. It was built in 1467, upon ſuch ſound principles, as to have withſtood, for ſuch a length of time, the force of the ſtream, which, in the time of the rains, is very great. The inundations have been known to riſe frequently over the bridge, inſomuch that, in 1774, a whole brigade of the Britiſh army (that is, 10,000 men) paſſed over it in boats. Jionpour is 40 miles NW. of Benares. Lat. 25. 45. N. lon. 82. 55. E.

ILA. See ISLAY.

Ilam, Staff. NW. of Aſhbourn in Derbyſhire, and near the eruptions of the rivers Manifold and Hamps, at one mouth, after they have run for ſome miles under ground.

ILANTS, a town in the country of the Griſons, capital of the Grey League. It contains about 60 houſes, and is ſeated on the Rhine, 17 miles SW. of Coire.

Ilbreurs, Somerſetſ. N. of Ilminſter.

ILCHESTER, a town of Somerſetſhire, conſiſting of 4 ſtreets, with one church, and other places of worſhip. It is a town of great antiquity, and once had ſixteen churches. The county jail is kept here, but the aſſizes are held alternately at Bridgewater, Wells, and Taunton. It is ſeated on the river Ivel, 16 miles S. of Wells, and 123 W. by S. of London. Market on Wedneſday.

Ilcomb, Cornwall, E of Stratton.

ILDEFONSO, ST. a magnificent, royal palace, with fine water-works, gardens, &c. in New Caſtile, 27 miles N. of Madrid. It was built by Philip V.

ILDEFONSO DE LOS ZAPOTACOS, ST. a town on a mountain in Mexico.

Ilderton, Northumb. S. of Woller. Ileden, Kent, SW. of Wingham. Ilekirk, Cumb. in the pariſh of Weſtward. Ilen, a river in Pembrokſhire.

ILESUGAGUEN, a town on a mountain, in the province of Hea, Morocco.

Ilford, Great, a large village of Eſſex, on the river Roding, which is navigable hence to the Thames. This place, and Little Ilford, adjoining, are hamlets to the town of Barking. It is 7 miles NE. by E. of London.

ILFRACOMBE, a ſea-port of Devonſhire, has a convenient, ſafe harbour, formed by a good pier, projecting into the Briſtol Channel. The high tides here allow large veſſels to enter it's baſin. This port employs a number of brigs and ſloops, chiefly in carrying ore from Cornwall, coal from Wales, and corn to Briſtol. A number of fiſhing ſkiffs belong to this place, which, with thoſe of Minehead, fiſh on a bank off the coaſt during the ſummer, and carry a number of ſoals, turbots, &c. to the Briſtol market. It is 49 miles NNW. of Exeter, and 181 W. by S. of London. Market on Saturday.

ILHEOS, a ſea-port, capital of the diſtrict of Rio dos Ilheos, in Braſil. It is ſituated at the mouth of a river of the ſame name. Lat. 15. 25. S. lon. 40. 25. W.

Ilkeſton, NE. of Derby. Ilkley, Yorkſ. W. Riding, E. of Skipton. Ilkton, Yorkſ. SW. of Maſham.

ILKUCH, a town of Gracow, in Poland, remarkable for it's ſilver mines mixed with lead. It is 15 miles NW. of Cracow.

ILLE, a town in the dept. of the Eaſtern Pyrenees, 10 miles W. of Perpignan.

ILLE AND VILAINE, a department of France, bounded on the E. by the dept. of the Mayenne, and on the S. by the Lower Loire. It takes it's name from two rivers, the Ille and Vilaine, which unite together at Rennes, the capital.

ILLER, a river of Germany, which riſes in the S. part of the biſhoprick of Augſburg, paſſes by Kempten, Memmingen, Kirchberg, &c. and falls into the Danube, 2 miles above Ulm.

Illeſton, Leiceſ. W. of Hallaton.

ILLINOIS, a lake of North America, about 15 miles long and 2 wide. Lat. 40. 35. N. lon. 89. 18. W. Alſo a large river, which riſes near the SW. end of Lake Michigan, or, as ſome ſay, runs from Lake Illinois, and taking a SW. courſe, falls into the Miſſiſſippi, in lat. 40. N. Between the Illinois and the Ohio, is the country of a noted Indian nation, called the Illinois.

Illogan, St. Cornwall, N. of Redruth.

ILLOK, a town of Sclavonia, ſituated on the Danube, 16 miles W. of Peter Waradin.

ILMEN, a lake near the city of Novogorod, in Ruſſia, about 48 miles long and 25 wide.

ILMENAU, a river of Weſtphalia, which paſſes by Oldenſtadt, Lunenburg, &c. before it falls into the Elbe; and a town of Henneburg, in Franconia.

Ilmere, Bucks, between Tame and Ayleſbury Vale. Ilmington, Warw. NW. of Shipton upon Stour.

*ILMINSTER, a town of Somerſetſhire, containing about 300 houſes. It has a conſiderable manufactory of narrow cloths, and is ſituated on the river Ille, in a dirty bottom, among hills, 26 miles SW. of Wells, and 137 W. by S. of London. Market on Saturday.

Ilſfield, Hants, SE. of Baſingſtoke. Ilſham, Suſſex, S. of Arundel. Ilſington, Devonſ. NW. of Newton Buſhel. Ilſington, Dorſetſhire near Pidleton.

ILSLEY, EAST, a town of Berks, ſeated in a pleaſant valley, between two hills, and excellent downs for feeding ſheep, 14 miles NW. of Reading, and 53 W. of London. Market on Wedneſday ILST, a town of W. Frieſland, ſituated on or near the river Weymar, 5 miles SE. of Bolſwaert.

ILSTADT, a town of Bavaria, near Paſſau.

Ilton, Devonſ. on a creek, near Kingſbridge. Ilton, and it's Park, Somerſetſ. NW. of Ilminſter. Imber, Wilts, near Warminſter. Im erburn, Suſſex, near E. Grinſtead.

IMERITIA, or more properly IMIRETTA, a country of Aſia, between the Black Sea and the Caſpian; bounded on the S. by Georgia; on the W. by Mingrelia: on the N. by Oſſetia; and on the E. by the Perſian dominions. This country, properly ſpeaking, is a part of Georgia. The late ſovereign, the Czar Solomon, having forbidden the ſcandalous traffic of the noblemen in their peaſants, offended the Turks ſo much, that he was driven from his throne, and compelled to live like a wild man, for 16 years, in the woods and caverns of the mountains, till the Ruſſians reinſtated him in his dominions. The revenues ariſe from a contribution of the peaſants in wine, grain, and cattle, and from the tribute of the neighbouring princes. Among the extraordinary ſources of revenue, confiſcations have a conſiderable ſhare; but all this is inſufficient for the ſubſiſtence of the prince; he uſually travels from houſe to houſe, and is entertained by his vaſſals, never changing his quarters, while they have the means of accommodating him. It will, of courſe, be underſtood, that the court of Imeritia is not remarkable for ſplendor, nor the prince's table ſumptuouſly ſerved. His uſual fare conſiſts of gom, (a ſpecies of millet, ground and boiled into a paſte (a piece of roaſted meat, and ſome preſſed caviar. Theſe he eats with his fingers; forks and ſpoons being unknown in this country. At table he is frequently employed in judging cauſes, which he decides at his diſcretion, there being no law but his own will. He uſually wears a coarſe dreſs, of a brown colour, with a muſket upon his ſhoulder; but, upon ſolemn occaſions, he puts on a robe of rich gold brocade, and hangs round his neck a ſilver chain. He is diſtinguiſhed from his ſubjects, by riding upon an aſs, and by wearing boots. His civil ordinances are iſſued weekly, on the market day, by one of his ſervants, who aſcends a tree, and with a loud voice proclaims the edict, wich is communicated to the people, by each perſon, upon his return to the place of his abode. The inhabitants, eſtimated at about 20,000 families, are ſcattered over the country in ſmall hamlets. They are leſs mixed with foreigners, and are accounted handſomer than the other Georgians. They are likewiſe more induſtrious: they ſend yearly conſiderable quantities of wine to the neighbouring parts of Georgia, in leathern bags, carried by horſes; but they are without manufactures, very poor and miſerable, and cruelly oppreſſed by their landlords. The Imeritians are of the Greek religion; but their patriarch, who

WEST INDIES.
75
65
60
30
25
20
15
10
OCEAN
ATLANTIC
Old C. Francois
Samana I.
R. of Samana
St. Domingo
Cabo del Engano
PORTO RICO
Mona I.
Turks I.
Hunkerchief
Shoal
Old Shoal
Grand Shoal
Grand Turk
Caye du Nord
Caicos
Caye Comptes
Mouchoir
Caye Comptes
Caye Verte
Caye Sal
Caye Verte
Caye Sal
Caye Verte
Caye Sal

is generally of the royal family, can ſeldom read or write. Cutais is the capital of the preſent prince, the Czar David.

Imley, Northamptonſ. S. of Brackley.

IMMENSTADT, a town of Konigſegg, in Suabia.

Immingham, Lincolnſh. near the coaſt, NW. of Grimſby.

IMOLA, a town of Romagna, in Italy.

Impington, 3 miles N. of Cambridge.

Ince, Cheſhire, 2 miles from Frodſham.

Ince, Lancaſhire, near Wigan.

Ince, Lancaſhire, near Altmouth.

INCHCOLM, a ſmall iſland in the Frith of Forth, near the coaſt of Fife, but within the county of Edinburgh. Here are the fine ruins of a once celebrated monaſtery, founded, in 1123, by Alexander I. in gratitude for his eſcape, when driven on the iſland in a violent tempeſt, where he was hoſpitably treated, for three days, by a hermit, who entertained him with the milk of his cow, and a few ſhell fiſh. It was of the order of St. Auguſtine, and dedicated to St. Columba. At preſent, ſome fowls that haunt the ancient tower, and the rabbits that lodge in the mouldering ſoil, have full poſſeſſion of this neglected ſpot.

Inchequin, or O'Quin's Iſland, in Cork, Munſter, SW. of Youghal.

Inchigeelagh, in Cork, Munſter. It is a ſmall village, ſituated in the midſt of mountains, near the Lakes, or Loughs Allua and Gouganbarra, 6 miles SW. of Macroomp, and 141 from Dublin.

Inch, Iſle, or Inis, Curry, is properly a peninſula, in Down, Ulſter, 74 miles from Dublin.

INCHKEITH, a deſolate little iſland, of Mid-Lothianſhire, in the Frith of Forth, lying midway between the two ports of Leith and Kinghorn. Here is a ruinous fort. The ſhores of both this iſland and Inchcolm are bold and rugged, exhibiting ſeveral deep caverns, ſhelving cliffs, and towering rocks. It is about a mile long; and on the W. ſide are vaſt ſtrata of coral and ſhells. Here was formerly a chapel, dedicated to St. Marnock, the ruins of which are ſtill to be ſeen here. It has 120 acres of arable land, 40 of bruſh-wood, and near 300 of moor.

Inchmarnock, a beautiful iſland, SW. of the Iſle of Bute, on the W. coaſt of Scotland.

INDEN HOTUN, a town of Chineſe Tartary, the capital of the Mantcheou Tartars, where they began to eſtabliſh their empire over China. It is 420 miles ENE. of Pekin.

INDIA, an extenſive region in Aſia, which lies between 66 and 108 deg. E. lon. and 8 and 36 deg. N. lat. Under this name is generally underſtood all the countries which lie S. of Tartary, and extend from the eaſtern frontiers of Perſia to the weſtern coaſts of China, divided into India within, and India without, the Ganges. The moderns have likewiſe included, under the denomination of the Eaſt Indies, the iſlands of Japan, with all the iſlands in the Eaſtern and Indian Oceans, nearly as far as New Holland and New Guinea. But the name of India is moſt frequently applied to that country only, which is diſtinguiſhed in Aſia, as well as in Europe, by the name of Hindooſtan. See HINDOOSTAN.

INDIANA, a tract of country, ſituated on the Ohio, in the ſtate of Virginia.

INDIES, WEST, the name given to a great number of iſlands in the Atlantic Ocean, which extend from the NW. extremity of the Bahama Iſlands, off the coaſt of Florida, in lat. 27. 45. N. in a ſouth-eaſterly direction, to the Iſland of Tobago, which is 120 miles from the coaſt of Terra Firma, in 11 deg. 30 min. N. lat. They lie between 59 and 86 deg. W. lon. Cuba being the moſt weſtern, and Barbadoes the moſt eaſtern, of all theſe iſlands. When Chriſtopher Columbus diſcovered them, in 1492, he conſidered them as part of thoſe vaſt regions in Aſia, comprehended under the general name of India, to reach which, by a courſe due W. acroſs the Atlantic Ocean, had been the grand object of his voyage; and this opinion was ſo general, that Ferdinand and Iſabella, king and queen of Caſtile, in their ratification of their agreement, granted to Columbus, upon his return, gave them alſo the name of Indies. Even after the error, which gave riſe to this opinion, was detected, and the true poſition of the New World was aſcertained, the name has remained, and the appellation of the Weſt Indies is ſtill given to theſe iſlands, and that of Indians, to the inhabitants, not only of the iſlands, but of the two continents, of America. They are likewiſe called the Caribbee Iſlands, from the aborigines of the country; and the ſea in which they lie, is ſometimes called, by modern geographers, the Archipelago of the Caribbees. By the French, they are called the Greater and Leſs Antilles; the Greater comprehending Cuba, St Domingo, Jamaica, and Porto Rico; and the Leſs, Aruba, Curaçoa, Bonair, Margaretta, and ſome others, near the coaſt of Terra Firma. Foreign geographers, however, are not agreed as to the meaning or application of the word, ſome applying it to the Caribbee Iſlands in general. Nautical men diſtinguiſh them, from the different courſes taken by ſhips, into the Leeward and Windward Iſlands. The name of the Caribbees ſhould properly be confined to the ſmaller iſlands, which lie between Porto Rico and Tobago. Theſe were inhabited by the Caribbees, a hardy race of men, nowiſe reſembling their feeble and timid neighbours in the larger iſlands. Even in later times, they have made a ſtout reſiſtance in defence of the laſt territory (the Iſland of St. Vincent) which the rapacity of their invaders had left in their poſſeſſion. The reader will find moſt of theſe iſlands treated of ſeparately.

INDIANS of NORTH and SOUTH AMERICA, the original natives of theſe two vaſt continents. Of the manners of the North American Indians, the reader may have a general idea, by an account of thoſe who inhabit the countries to the E. of the river Miſſiſſippi. Theſe conſiſt of 28 different nations; the principal of which are the Cherokees, the Chicaſaws, the Choctaws, the Creeks, the Delawares; the Six Nations, the Shawaneſe, the Hurons, the Illinois, &c. Allowing about 700 to a nation, or tribe, they will contain, in all, 20,000 people. The Indians are not born white; and take a great deal of pains to darken their complexion, by anointing themſelves with greaſe, and lying in the ſun. They alſo paint their face, breaſts, and ſhoulders of various colours, but generally red; and their features are neat, eſpecially thoſe of the women. They are of a middle ſtature, their limbs clean and ſtraight, and ſcarcely any crooked or deformed perſon is to be found among them. In many parts of their bodies they tattoo themſelves, or prick in gunpowder on the ſkin in very pretty figures. Some ſhave, or pluck the hair off their heads, except a patch about the crown, which is ornamented with beautiful feathers, beads, wampum, and ſuch like baubles: and except the head and eyebrows, they pluck the hair with great diligence, from all parts of the body. Their ears are pared and ſtretched in a thong down to their ſhoulders. They are wound round with wire, to expand them, and adorned with ſilver pendants, rings, and bells, which they likewiſe wear in their noſes. Some of them will have a large feather through the cartilage of the noſe; and thoſe who can afford it, wear a collar of wampum, a ſilver breaſtplate, and bracelets on the arms and wriſts. A bit of cloth about the middle, a ſhirt of the Engliſh make, on which they beſtow innumerable broaches to adorn it, a ſort of cloth boot and mockaſoons, which are ſhoes of a make peculiar to the Indians, ornamented with porcupine quills, with a blanket or match-coat thrown over all, complete their dreſs at home; but when they go on expeditions, they leave their trinkets behind, and mere neceſſaries ſerve them. There is little difference between the dreſs of the men and women, excepting that a ſhort petticoat, and the hair, which is exceeding black and long, clubbed behind, diſtinguiſh ſome of the latter. They are ſuch expert marksmen, that they will kill birds flying, fiſhes ſwimming, and wild beaſts running. They are very intelligent people, quick of apprehenſion, ſudden in execution, ſubtle in buſineſs, exquiſite in invention, and induſtrious in action. They are of a very gentle and amiable diſpoſition to thoſe they think their friends, but as implacable in their enmity; their revenge being only completed by the entire deſtruction of their enemies. They are very hardy, bearing heat, cold, hunger, and thirſt, in a ſurpriſing manner; and yet no people are more addicted to exceſs in eating and drinking, when it is conveniently in their power. The follies, nay miſchief, they commit, when inebriated, are entirely laid to the liquor; and no one will revenge any injury (murder excepted) received from one who is no more himſelf. Among the Indians all men are equal, perſonal qualities being moſt eſteemed. No diſtinction of birth, no rank, renders any man capable of doing prejudice to the rights of private perſons; and there is no pre-eminence from merit, which begets pride, and which makes others too ſenſible of their own inferiority. Though there is perhaps leſs delicacy of ſentiment in the Indians than among us, there is, however, abundantly more probity, with far leſs ceremony, or equivocal compliments. Their public conferences ſhew them to be men of genius; and they have, in a high degree, the talent of natural, or unſtudied eloquence. They live diſperſed in ſmall villages, either in the woods, or on the banks of rivers, where they have little plantations of Indian corn and roots, not enough to ſupply their families half the year; and ſubſiſt the remainder of it by hunting, fiſhing, and fowling, and the fruits of the earth, which grow ſpontaneouſly in great plenty. Their huts are generally built of ſmall logs, and covered with bark, each one having a chimney, and a door, on which they place a padlock. One of their towns, called Old Chelicothe, is built in form of a Kentucky ſtation; that is, a parallelogram, or long ſquare; and ſome of their houſes are ſhingled. A long council-houſe extends the whole length of the town, where the chiefs of the nation frequently meet and conſult of all matters of importance. Some huts are built by ſetting up a frame on forks, and placing bark againſt it; others of reeds, and ſurrounded with clay. The fire is in the middle of the wigwam, and the ſmoke paſſes through a little hole. They join reeds together by cords run through them, which ſerve them for tables and beds. They moſtly lie upon ſkins of wild beaſts, and ſit on the ground. They have braſs kettles and pots to boil their food. Gourds or calabaſhes, cut aſunder, ſerve them for pails, cups, and diſhes. The accounts of travellers, concerning their religion, are various. All agree, that they acknowledge one Supreme God. They adore the Great Spirit, and believe that his care is extended over them; and, that, 'he puts good into their hearts.' They alſo believe in a future ſtate; that after death they ſhall be removed to their friends, who have gone before them, to an elyſium, or paradiſe. The Wyandotts, near Detroit, and ſome others, have embraced the Romiſh faith, introduced among them by miſſionaries. The Shawaneſe, Cherokees, Chicaſaws, and ſome others, are little concerned about religion. They have their feſtivals, and other rejoicing days, on which they dance and ſing in a ring, taking hands, having ſo painted and diſguiſed themſelves, that it is difficult to know any of them; and after enjoying this diverſion for a while, they retire to the place where they have prepared a feaſt of fiſh, fleſh, fowls, and fruits; to which all are invited, and entertained with their country ſongs. They believe that there is great virtue in feaſts for the ſick. For this purpoſe, a young buck muſt be killed, and boiled, the friends and near neighbours of the patient invited, and having firſt thrown tobacco on the fire, and covered it up cloſe, they all ſit down in a ring, and raiſe a lamentable cry. They then uncover the fire, and kindle it up; and the head of the buck is firſt ſent about, every one taking a bit, and giving a loud croak, in imitation of crows. They afterward proceed to eat all the buck, making a moſt harmonious, melancholy ſong; in which ſtrain their muſic is particularly excellent. As they approach their towns, when ſome of their people are loſt in war, they make great lamentations for their dead; and their cries of woe are anſwered by thoſe within. They bear their deceaſed friends long in remembrance, often viſit their graves, and even deck out their putrid remains with their beſt ſkins and other finery. Some nations abhor adultery, do not approve of a plutality of wives, and are not guilty of theft; but there are other tribes that are not ſo ſcrupulous. Among the Chicaſaws, a huſband may cut off the noſe of his wife, if guilty of adultery; but men are allowed greater liberty. This nation deſpiſes a thief. Among the Cherokees they cut off the noſes and ears of an adultreſs; afterward her huſband gives her a diſcharge. Their form of marriage is ſhort: the man, before witneſſes, gives the bride a deer's foot, and ſhe, in return, preſents him with an ear of corn, as emblems of their ſeveral duties. The women are very ſlaves, in many inſtances, to the men; in others, they are upon an equal footing, deliberating in the public aſſemblies. and, in private life, enjoying the privilege of declaring their affection, or paying their addreſſes to thoſe they love. They are charged with being revengeful; but this revenge is ſeldom executed, but in caſes of murder and adultery; and, indeed, the murderer is generally delivered up to the friends of the deceaſed, to do as they pleaſe. When one kills another, the deceaſed's friend kills him, and ſo they continue avenging one another's death till much blood is ſhed; and at laſt the quarrel is ended by mutual preſents. Sometimes a chief, when offended, breaks off with a party, ſettles ſome diſtance, and then commences hoſtilities againſt his own people. When they take captives in war, they are exceedingly cruel, treating the unhappy priſoners in ſuch a manner, that death would be preferable to life. They afterward give them plenty of food, load them with burdens, and when they arrive at their towns, they muſt run the gauntlet. In this, they exerciſe ſo much cruelty, that one would think it impoſſible they ſhould ſurvive their ſufferings. Many are killed; but if one outlives this trial, he is adopted into a family as a ſon, and treated with paternal kindneſs; and if he avoids their ſuſpicions of going away, he is allowed the ſame privileges as their own people. But ſometimes their priſoners are deſtined to be tortured to death, in order to ſatiate the revenge of their conquerors. While their lot is in ſuſpenſe, the priſoners themſelves appear altogether unconcerned about what may befal them. They talk, they eat, they ſleep, as if there were no danger impending: when the fatal ſentence is intimated to them, they receive it with an unaltered countenance, raiſe their deathſong, and prepare to ſuffer like men. The victors aſſemble as to a ſolemn feſtival, reſolved to put the fortitude of the captives to the utmoſt proof. A ſcene enſues, the bare deſcription of which is enough to chill the heart with horror. The priſoners are tied naked to a ſtake, but ſo as to be at liberty to move round it. All preſent, men, women, and children, fall upon them with knives and other inſtruments; and ſuch is their cruel ingenuity in torturing, that, by avoiding to touch the vital part, they often prolong the ſcene of anguiſh for ſeveral days. In ſpite of all their ſufferings, the victims continue to chaunt their death-ſong with a firm voice, they boaſt of their own exploits, they inſult their tormentors for their want of ſkill to avenge the death of their friends and relations, they warn them of the vengeance that awaits them on account of what they are now doing, and excite their ferocity by the moſt provoking reproaches and threats. To diſplay undaunted fortitude in ſuch dreadful ſituations, is the nobleſt triumph of a warrior; to avoid the trial by a voluntary death, or to ſhrink under it, is deemed cowardly and infamous. If any one betray ſymptoms of timidity, his tormentors often diſpatch him at once, with contempt, as unworthy of being treated like a man. Animated by thoſe ideas, they endure, without a groan, what it ſeems almoſt impoſſible that human nature ſhould ſuſtain. Weary, at length, with contending with men, whoſe conſtancy they cannot vanquiſh, ſome chief puts a period to their ſufferings, by diſpatching them with his dagger or his club. The people of S. America gratify their revenge in a manner ſomewhat different, but with the ſame unrelenting rancour. Their priſoners, after meeting, at their firſt entrance, with the ſame rough reception as among the N. Americans, are not only exempt from injury, but treated with the greateſt apparent kindneſs, feaſted and careſſed. But, by a refinement of cruelty, while they ſeem ſtudious to attach their captives to life, their doom is irrevocably fixed. On an appointed day, the victorious tribe aſſembles, the priſoner is brought forth with great ſolemnity, he meets his lot with undaunted firmneſs, and is diſpatched with a ſingle blow. The moment he falls, the women ſeize the body, and dreſs it for the feaſt. They beſmear their children with the blood, in order to kindle in their boſoms a hatred of their enemies, and all join in feeding upon the fleſh with amazing greedineſs and exultation. Wherever this practice prevails, captives never eſcape death; but they are not tortured with the ſame cruelty as among tribes which are leſs accuſtomed to ſuch horrid feaſts. The Indians of S. America, immediately under the Spaniſh government, although the moſt depreſſed order of men in the country which belonged to their anceſtors, are now far from being treated with that rigour and cruelty which was laid to the charge of the firſt conquerors of that continent. They are no longer conſidered as ſlaves: on the contrary, they are reputed as freemen, and entitled to the privileges of ſubjects. A certain tax, or tribute, is indeed impoſed upon them, and certain ſervices required; but theſe are all under the due regulations of policy and humanity. The Indians who live in the principal towns, are entirely ſubject to the Spaniſh laws and magiſtrates; but, in their own villages, they are governed by caciques, ſome of whom are the deſcendants of their ancient lords; others are named by the Spaniſh viceroys. Theſe regulate the petty affairs of the people under them, according to maxims of juſtice, tranſmitted to them by tradition from their anceſtors. To the Indians, this juriſdiction lodged in ſuch friendly hands, affords ſome conſolation; and ſo little formidable is this dignity to their new maſters, that they often allow it to deſcend by hereditary right. For the farther relief of men ſo much expoſed to oppreſſion, the Spaniſh court has appointed an officer in every diſtrict, with the title of Protector of the Indians. It is his duty, as the name implies, to aſſert the rights of the Indians; to appear as their defender in the courts of juſtice; and to ſet bounds to the encroachments and exactions of his countrymen. A portion of the annual tribute is deſtined for the ſalaries of the caciques and protectors; another part is appropriated to the payment of their tribute in years of famine, or when a particular diſtrict is afflicted by any extraordinary local calamity. Proviſion too is made, by various laws, that hoſpitals ſhould be founded in every new ſettlement, for the receptions of Indians. Such hoſpitals have accordingly been erected, both for the indigent and infirm, in Lima, Cuſco, and Mexico, where the Indians are treated with tenderneſs and humanity. See ESKIMAUX, INDIES, WEST, PATAGONIA, and ST. VINCENT'S.

of

INDORE, a modern city of Hindooſtan, capital of a territory in the province of Malwa, ſubject to one of the Poonah Mahratta

Mahratta chiefs. It is 30 miles S. of Ongien, and 290 SSW. of Agra. Lat. 22. 56. N. lon. 76. 11. E.

INDRAPORE, a town and factory of the Dutch, on the weſtern coaſt of Sumatra. It is 100 miles NW. of Bencoolen.

INDRE, a department of France, bounded by that of Cher on the E. and Vienne on the W. It has it's name from a river, which riſes in the dept. of the Creuſe, and paſſing through this department, and that of Indre and Loire, by the towns of St. Severe, Chateauroux, Chatillon, Loches, Cormery, &c. falls into the Loire below Chinon, or at Rigny, between Saumur and Tours. Chateauroux is the capital.

INDRE AND LOIRE, a department of France, lying to the NW. of the dept. of Indre. Tours is the capital.

INDUS, a great river of Hindooſtan, called by the natives Sinde, or Sindeh. It is formed of about ten principal ſtreams, which deſcend from the Perſian and Tartarian mountains; but, according to Major Rennell, the ſources of theſe ſtreams muſt be far more remote than the ſides of theſe mountains. From the city of Attock, in about lat. 32. 27. downward to Moultan, to the conflux of the Jenaub, or Chunaub, it is commonly named the river of Attock. Below the city of Moultan, it proceeds, in a SW. direction, through the province of that name, and that of Sinde, enters the Weſtern Indian Ocean by ſeveral mouths, NW. of the Gulf of Cutch. It is a fine, deep, and navigable river, for veſſels of any burden; the different branches are alſo moſt of them navigable to a great extent; it's mouth, however, is ſo choked up with ſand, that no ſhip can enter it.

Indywell, Eſſex, NE. of Tilbury Fort. Ingham, Iſle of Wight, in E. Medina. Ingarsby, Leiceſ. near Bilſdon. Ingate, Suffolk, near Beccles.

*INGATESTONE, a town in Eſſex, on the road from London to Harwich. It conſiſts of one ſtreet, and is 6 miles SW. of Chelmsford, and 23 NE. of London. Market on Wedneſday.

Ingbarchworth, Yorkſ. W. of Barneſley, Inge, Upper and Lower, Warw. N. of Stratford upon Avon. Inge Abbot and Hoſpital, Eſſex, both SE. of Chelmsford, Inge, Margaret, Eſſex, SW. of Chelmsford. Inge, Mountney, Eſſex, near Billericay.

INGELHEIM OBER and INGELHEIM NIDER, two neighbouring towns in the palatinate of the Rhine, circle of Lower Rhine. The former is ſituated on the Selz, 12 miles W. of Mentz.

Ingerley, Devonſ. S. of Hatherley. Ingerthorp, Yorkſ. S. of Rippon. Ingeſtre, 2 miles NE. of Stafford. Ingham, Linc. SW. of Market Raiſin. Ingham, Norfolk, near Hickling. Ingham, Suffolk, N. of Bury. Ingleborne, Devonſ. in Harburton pariſh. Ingleborow Hill, Yorkſhire, near Ingleton. Ingleby, on the Soar, S. of Derby. Ingleby, NW. of Lincoln. Ingleby Arncliff, Ingleby Barwick, Ingleby Greenhow, and Ingleby Manors, Yorkſ. all SE. of Stokeſley. Ingleſcomb, Somerſ. SW. of Bath. Inglaſhurn, Berks, W. of Faringdon. Ingleſham, Wilts. S. of Lechlade. Ingleſthorp, Norf. W. of Shanburn. Ingleton, Durham, E. of Raby Caſtle. Ingleton, Heref. near the Froomes. Ingleton, Yorkſ. W. Riding, 8 miles NW. of Settle. Inglewhile, Lanc. Ingmanthorp, Yorkſ. NE. of Wetherby. Ingo, Northumb. between Chollerton and Stannington, Ingoldmels, Linc. N. of Wainfleet. Ingoldmels Thidthorp, SW. of Ingoldmels.

INGOLDSTADT, a ſtrong town of Bavaria, with a univerſity, founded in 1472. It was beſieged, in 1632, by Guſtavus Adolphus, king of Sweden, without ſucceſs. It is ſeated on the Danube, in the midſt of a moraſs, 5 miles NE. of Newberg, and 38 N. by W. of Munich. Lat. 48. 46. N. lon. 11. 10. E.

Ingram, Northumb. W. of Alnwick.

INGRIA, a province of the Ruſſian empire, which now forms the government of St. Peterſburg. It is bounded on the N. by the river Neva and the Gulf of Finland, on the E. and S. by the government of Novogorod and that of Pleſkow, and on the W. by the Gulf of Finland and the governments of Eſthonia and Riga. It is about 150 miles long and 50 broad. The Czar Peter the Great wreſted it from the Swedes, and it was confirmed to him by the treaty of Nyſtadt, in 1721. At that time, the inhabitants of the flat country were a Finniſh people, but little different from the Fins of Carelia, as to their language and manners. They were called Iſchortzi, from the river Iſchora, which runs into the Neva. Ingria did not retain it's ancient Swediſh privileges; on the contrary, Peter made a preſent of one part of the Iſchortzi to certain Ruſſian nobles; who, on their ſide, were obliged to people the leſs cultivated cantons of Ingria, with colonies of Ruſſians from their eſtates; and thence it is, that we often ſee a village of Ruſſians ſurrounded by villages of Finns. Before the conqueſt of this country, the Ingrians had Lutheran preachers for every canton; but numbers of them have ſince conformed to the profeſſion of the Greek faith. The country abounds with with various wild animals, particularly rein deer.

Ings, Weſtm. 5 miles NW. of Kendal. Ingſt, Glouc. a hamlet in Olveſton pariſh. Ingthorp, Rutland. in Tinwel pariſh.

INGUSHI. See KISTI.

Ingworth, Norfolk, W. of Aleſham.

*INISTIOGE, a town of Kilkenny, in Leinſter, 63 miles from Dublin.

Inkbarrow, Worceſ. W. of Aulceſter. Inkerſell, Derbyſ. near Bolſover. Inkpen, Berks, near Newbury. Inkſlip, Lanc. S. of Garſtang. Inkſtone, Herefordſ. on the Wye, N. of Roſs.

INN, a river of Germany, which riſes in the country of the Griſons, about 12 miles SW. of Zuls, runs, in a NE. courſe, through Tyrol and Bavaria, (paſſing by Inſpruck, Ratenburg, Kuffſtein, Branau, and other towns) and falls into the Danube near Paſſaw. Alſo a river of the archduchy of Auſtria, which runs into the Danube near Efferding.

INNACORDA, a fortreſs of Hindooſtan, in the Guntoor Circar, ſubject to the Nizam of the Deccan. It is 87 miles SSE. of Hydrabad.

Innerkeithing, a village of the county of Peebles, on the N. ſide of the river Tweed, near which is an excellent medicinal ſpring, riſing into celebrity.

Inniſbofin, an iſland on the W. coaſt of Mayo, Connaught. 3 leagues from the main land. Iniſcarra, in Cork, Munſter. Iniſclogbran, an iſland in Lough Ree, in the river Shannon, between Weſt Meath and Roſcommon. Inniſfallen, an iſland in the Lake of Killarney, containing about 12 acres, agreeably wooded.

INNISHANNON, a town of Cork, in Munſter, ſeated on the river Bandon, (which is navigable to Collier's Quay, half a mile below the town) 6 miles from Kinſale, and 134 from Dublin. The linen manufacture has commenced here.

Iniſkirkan, an iſland, between Cape Clear Iſland and Baltimore Bay, in Cork, Munſter. Iniſkeane, in Cork, Munſter, 144 miles from Dublin. It is a ſmall village, with a good weekly market.

INNISKERRY, an iſland near the coaſt of the county of Clare, a little to the N. of Dunmore Bay.

INNISKILLING. See ENNISKILLEN.

Iniſkunogh, in Waterford, Munſter. Innis Murra Iſland, off the coaſt of Sligo, in Connaught. Iniſlory, i. e. The High Iſland, 8 miles from the NW. coaſt of Donegal, Ulſter. Iniſiurk, an iſland, contiguous to that of Innis Clare, at the entrance of Clew Bay, on the coaſt of Mayo, Connaught. Iniſtymond, in Clare, Munſter, 118 miles from Dublin.

INNTHAL, a diſtrict of Tyrol, watered by the Inn. Inſpruck is the capital.

Inny River, in Kerry, Munſter.

INOWILADISLOW, or INOWLOCZAW, a town of Wladiſlaw, in Poland.

INSPRUCK, a town of Germany, capital of the Tyroleſe. It is very populous, and though not large within the walls, has extenſive ſuburbs, in which are ſome conſiderable palaces, churches, and convents. It is ſeated in a pleaſant valley, on the river Inn, 60 miles S. of Munich. Lat. 47. 10. N. lon. 11. 27. E.

INSTADT. See PASSAU.

Inſtow, Devonſ. near Biddeford, at the conflux of the Taw and Towridge. Inſwork, Devonſ. a peninſula at Milbrook Townſend. Inſwood, St of Norwich.

Inver, in Donegal, Ulſter.

*INVERARY, a town in Argyleſhire, containing upwards of 1800 inhabitants. Here are manufactures of linen and woollen, as alſo conſiderable works for ſmelting iron by means of charcoal. One ſhip belonging to the town is engaged in foreign trade, and about half a dozen are employed in imports of meal, coals, merchant's goods, &c. exporting wool, timber, and oak bark. It is ſeated on the NW. ſide of Loch Fyne, near which is a caſtle, the ſeat of the Duke of Argyle, 75 miles NW. of Edinburgh, and 45 NW. of Glaſgow.

INVERBERVIE. See BERVIE.

Inverek, a village of Edinburghſhire, ſeated on the E. ſide of the mouth of the river Eſk, near the Frith of Forth, 4 miles E. of Edinburgh.

*INVERKEITHING, a town of Fifeſhire, ſituated in a bay of the Frith of Forth, 18 miles NW of Edinburgh. Before the entrance of the harbour, there is a large and ſafe bay, which affords excellent ſhelter for ſhips in all winds. On the W. ſide of the harbour is a large, Dutch-built veſſel, uſed as a lazaretto. Here are two commodious quays, for the landing and receiving of goods; and great improvements have been lately made to accommodate the ſhipping ſtill further. Several ſhips belong to this place, but none of any conſiderable burden. Some of them ſail to foreign parts, and the reſt are chiefly employed in the coal and coaſting trade. Sometimes, between 40 and 50 veſſels wait here for coals, eſpecially in the winter ſeaſon.

*INVERNESS, a populous, flouriſhing town, of Scotland, capital of a county of the the ſame name, pleaſantly ſituated on the S. bank of the river Neſs, and overlooking the Frith of Murray. It has a ſafe and convenient harbour, and a good deal of ſhipping. Several large buildings have been erected on the N. ſide of the town, in which a conſiderable manufactory of ropes and canvaſs is carried on. It is a royal burgh, holding its firſt charter from Malcolm Canmore. Over the river Neſs is a handſome bridge, of ſeven arches. The ſalmon fiſhery in this river is very conſiderable, and is let to ſome fiſhmongers of London. A little to the W. of this town, is the remarkable vitrified fort, called Craig Phadrick; the ſtones, compoſing it's walls, appear to have been partly melted by fire. Inverneſs is 50 miles NE. of Fort William, and 106 NNW. of Edinburgh. Lat. 57. 30. N. lon. 4. 5. W.

INVERNESS, the moſt extenſive county of Scotland, bounded on the W. by the ocean; on the N. by Roſsſhire; on the E. by the counties of Nairne, Murray, Aberdeen, and Perth; and on the S. by thoſe of Perth and Argyle. It's extent from N. to S. is about 45 miles; and from E. to W. 75. The northern part is very mountainous and barren. The woody mountains are the haunts of ſtags and roes. The capercailzie is alſo ſeen ſometimes among the lofty pines; the heath is poſſeſſed by wild fowl; and the lofty ſummits by ptarmigans and Alpine hares. This county has ſeveral conſiderable lakes; being divided, in a manner, into two equal parts, by Loch Neſs, Loch Oich, Loch Lochy, and Loch Eil; all which might be united by a canal, that would form a communication between the two ſeas. The trout lakes in this county are ſeldom or never known to freeze; much leſs are the arms of the ſea, even in the moſt northern parts of Scotland, ſubject to be frozen in the hardeſt ſeaſons; while the Texel, and many bays and great rivers in Holland and Germany, are covered with ice. The ſouthern part of the ſhire is alſo very mountainous, and is ſuppoſed to be the moſt elevated ground in Scotland. The extenſive plains which ſurround the lakes, are in general, fertile; and the high grounds feed many ſheep and black cattle, the rearing and ſelling of which is the chief trade of the inhabitants. Limeſtone, iron ore, and ſome traces of different minerals have been found in this country, with beautiful rock cryſtals of various tints; but no mines have been worked hitherto with much ſucceſs. The principal river is the Spey; but there are many others of inferior note, as the Neſs, Fyers, Glaſs, Lochy, &c. The people in the high parts of the country, and on the weſtern ſhore ſpeak Gaelic or Erſe, but the people of faſhion in Inverneſs, and it's neighbourhood, uſe the Engliſh language, and pronounce it with propriety.

INVERURY, a ſmall town of Aberdeenſhire, ſituated on the confluence of the rivers Don and Ury, 15 miles NW. of Aberdeen.

Inwerth, Eſſex, between Braxted and Meſſing. Inzneres, Dorſetſhire, in Burton pariſh, near the river Bridy.

JOACHIMSTHAL, a town of Elnbogen, in Bohemia, celebrated for it's ſilver mines.

JOACHIMSTHAL, a town in the Uckermark, Brandenburg.

JOANNA. See HINRUAN.

JOHANSBERG, a town of Pruſſia; and a town of Mentz, Lower Rhine.

Johnby, Cumberland, near Penrith.

JOHN O'GROAT'S HOUSE, the remains of a noted houſe, reckoned the moſt northerly dwelling in Scotland, and ſo called from a family of the name of Groat, who formerly reſided here, and to whom the village and ferry, from this place to the Orkneys, belonged. It is ſituated 1 mile W. of Duncanſby, or Dungſbay Head.

JOHNSON, a town of Virginia.

JOHN, ST. a town of S. Carolina. 14 miles N. of Charleſton.

JOHN, ST. a town of the Iſland of May, one of the Cape Verd Iſlands.

JOHN, ST. one of the Virgin Iſlands, in the W. Indies. Lat. 18. 7. N. lon. 64. 32. W.

JOHN'S, ST. See ANTIGUA.

JOHN'S, ST. an iſland in Aſia, one of the Philippines, NE. of Mindanao.

JOHN'S, ST. an iſland in the Gulf of St. Lawrence, having Acadia on the S, and W. and Cape Breton on the E. It is about 100 miles in length, and 30 in it's mean breadth. The coaſts, both N. and S. are much interſected with bays. It is well watered with rivers, and the ſoil is, in general, fertile. The inhabitants are about 5000. Charlotte's Town is the capital, where the lieutenant governor, under Nova Scotia, reſides. Lat. 46. 20. N. lon. 63. 0. W.

JOHN, ST. a new town of Acadia, in New Brunſwick, ſituated at the mouth of the river St. John's, in the Bay of Fundy. Lat. 45. 42. N. lon. 65. 15. W.

John's, St. Cornw. near Hamoaze Creek. John's, St. Cornw. near Helſton. John's, St. Cumb. SE. of Ravenglaſs. John's, St. Cumb. E. of Keiwick. John's, St. Cumberl. S. of Egremont. John's, St. Kent, Kent, in Thanet Iſle. John's, St. Suffolk, near Bungay. John's, St. Aſhes, Glouc. SW. of North Leech. John's, St. in Bedwarden, near Worceſter. John's, St. Bridge, Berks, over the Thames, N. of Ingleſham. John's, St. Carlton, Yorkſ. SW. of Darlington. John's, St. Chapel, Durham, near Stanhope Park. John's, St. Chapel, Lancaſhire, W. of Garſtang. John's, St. Lee, Northumb. near Hexham. John's, St. Mount, Yorkſ. NE. of Thirſk.

John's, St. Point, or St. John's Foreland, in Strangford Lake, in Down, Ulſter, a mile and a half S. of Killough.

JOHNSTON, a county in the ſtate of Rhode Iſland.

JOHNSTON KIRK, a town of Dumfrieſſhire, 6 miles N. of Lochmaben.

JOHNSTONS, a town of S. Carolina.

Johnſton's Bridge, in Armagh, Ulſter. Johnſton's Briage, in Donegal, Ulſter, Johnſton's Frees, in Armagh, Ulſter.

JOHN'S TOWN, a town of New York, 35 miles NW. of Albany.

Johnſtown, in Donegal, Ulſter. Johnſtown, in Kilkenny, Leinſter. Johnſtown, in Kildare, Leinſter, 13 miles from Dublin. Johnſtown Bridge, in Kildare, Leinſter, 21 miles from Dublin. John's Well, in Clare, Munſter.

JOHORE, a town, capital of a diſtrict in the peninſula of Malacca, near the S. coaſt. It is ſubject to the Dutch. Lat. 1. 58. N.

JOIGNI, a town in the dept. of Yonne, It's red wines, although not of the firſt quality, have a great demand. The town conſiſts of three pariſhes, and is ſituated on the river Yonne, 17 miles S. of Sens.

JOINAGUR. See JYEPOUR.

JIONVILLE, an ancient and conſiderable town, in the dept. of Upper Marne, ſeated on the river Marne, 25 miles nearly S. of Bar le Duc, and 125 SSE. of Paris.

IONA. See ICOLMKILL.

JONES, a town of N. Carolina, ſituated on the N. ſide of the Roanoke River, oppoſite Hallifax.

Joneſborough, in Armagh, Ulſter.

JONES TOWN, a town of Pennſylvania.

JONKIOPING, or JORTERKOPING, a town of Sweden, capital of the province of Smoland, and ſeat of the ſuperior court of juſtice for Gothland. The houſes are chiefly of wood covered with turf; for, excepting the largeſt towns and country ſeats, few of the buildings in Sweden are roofed with tiles. They are principally covered with turf or moſs; no thatching being uſed, as both too dear, and too dangerous in caſe of fire. In order to keep out the rain, large layers of birch bark are ſpread over the timber-work of the roof, and covered with turf or moſs. Theſe turf roofs make a ſingular appearance, many of them producing herbage, which is occaſionally cut for the uſe of the cattle; and a few are ornamented with flowers. The town, which contains about 3000 inhabitants, and has a manufacture of arms, is ſeated on the S. ſide of the Lake Wetter, 50 miles NW. of Calmar. Lat. 57. 48. N. lon. 14. 7. E.

JONQUERA, a town of Catalonia.

JONQUIERES, a town in the dept. of the Mouths of the Rhone, 5 miles ESE. of Orange.

JONSAC, a town in the dept. of the Lower Charente, 9 miles SSE. of Pons.

JOODPOUR, a town, capital of a circar, in the country of Agimere, in Hindooſtan. It is 85 miles WSW. of Agimere.

JOPPA, a town of Maryland, 13 miles NE. of Baltimore.

JORDAN, a river of Paleſtine, which riſes in the mountain of Antilibanus, and running from N. to S. paſſes through the Sea of Galilee, or Lake of Tiberias, and empties itſelf into the Dead Sea.

JOSAPETH, a valley of Paleſtine, between Jeruſalem and the Mount of Olives.

JOSSELIN, a town in the dept. of Morbihan, 25 miles nearly N. of Vannes.

JOUARE, a town in the dept. of Seine and Marne, with a late magnificent Benedictine abbey, 10 miles S. of Meaux.

JOUX, VALLEY AND LAKE OF. See JURA MOUNT.

JOYEUSE, a ſmall town in the dept. of Ardeche ſeated on the river Baune, 21 miles SW. of Privas.

Iping, Suſſex, near Midhurſt. Ipleſton, Devonſ. between Aſhburton and Torbay. Ipſden, Oxfordſhire, SE. of Wallingford.

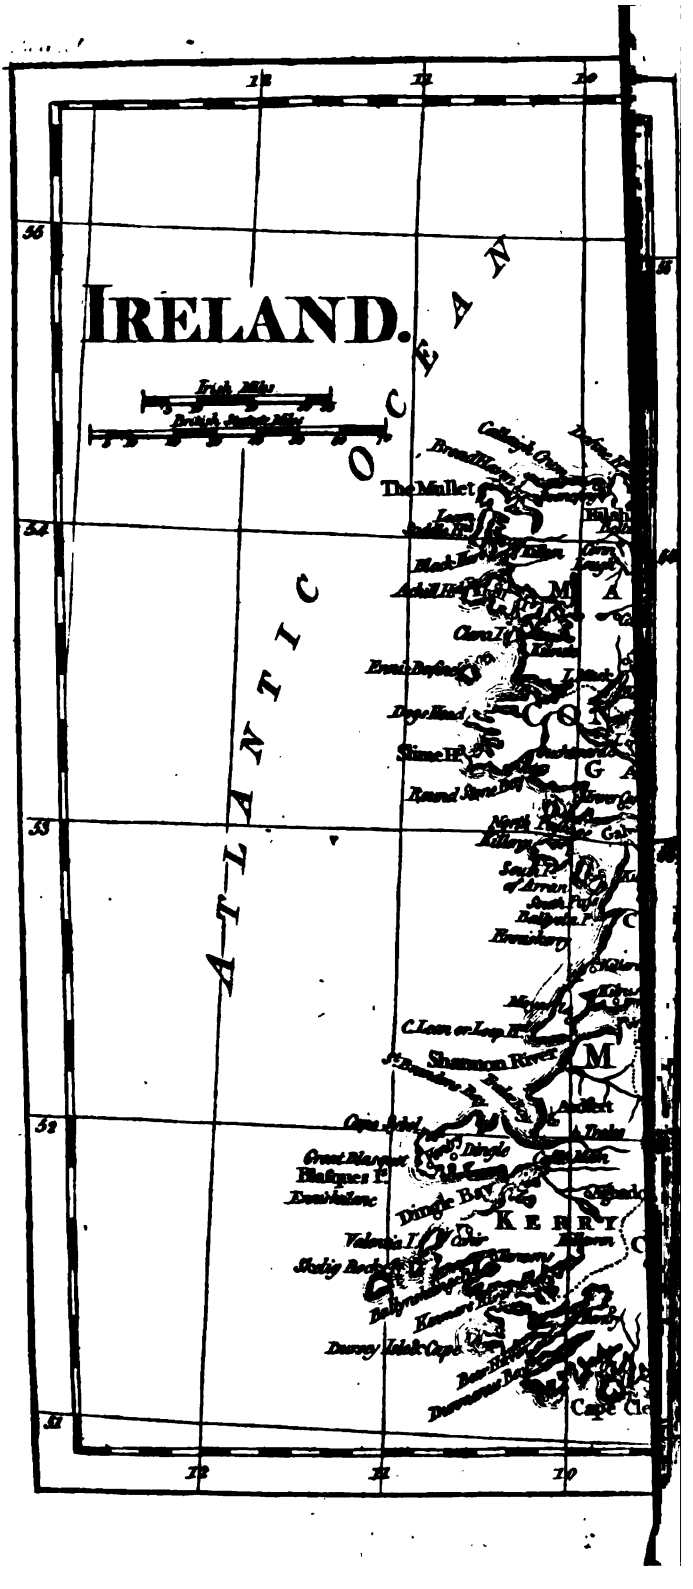
IPSALA, a town of Romania.

IPSERA, and ANTI IPSERA, ſmall iſlands in the Archipelago, NW. of Scio.

Ipſley, Warwickſhire, near Studley. Ipſton, in Turfield pariſh, partly in Bucks, and partly in Oxfordſhire. Ipſtones, Staffordſhire, near the river Churnet, a mile below Kingſley. The ſoil here is noted for producing the beſt ruddle, or red ochre for marking ſheep.

*IPSWICH, an ancient and populous, but irregularly built town, of Suffolk, ſeated on the river Orwell, near the place where the freſh and ſalt water meet, forming a ſort of half-moon, or creſcent, on it's bank. Acroſs the river there is a bridge, leading to ſuburb Stoke Hamlet. Here are ſeveral public buildings and a cuſtom-houſe, with a good quay. It has declined, however, from it's former conſequence; the



IRELAND.
ATLANTIC OCEAN
The Mullet
Shannon River
Dingle Bay
KERRY
Cape Cle
12
11
10
55
54
53
52
51 res of broad cloth and can-end; and it's preſent com-depends upon the malting n of corn to London, and different dock-yards. It rable coaſting trade, and a foreign commerce, and has s to Greenland Veſſels of are obliged to ſtop at ſome the town. It is 20 miles

ſter, and 69 NE. of London.
Tueſday and Thurſday for on Wedneſday and Friday n Saturday for proviſions of a town of Maſſachuſets, ſituof the ſame name, near the N. of Boſton. The harbour

t, on account of a bar and town of New Hampſhire.
an iſland in the S. Pacific e coaſt of Peru. It is about mference, and is inhabited ns and ſlaves, who are prinyed in collecting a yellow by the dung of birds, and es, and with which 8 or 10 en annually loaded for about
. Lat. 20. 20. S.
Y, a name given to the river part of it's courſe.
C ARABIA, or BABYLONI-e ancient CHALDEA) is a ia, watered by the rivers Tibrates, and ſo called from Arabia, which lies to the W.
E. parts are fertile, with a es and towns; but towards a dreary wilderneſs. It is the dominion of the Turks.
Baſſora are the principal

MI, or PERSIAN IRAC, a erſia, is bounded by Ghilan an on the N. Farſiſtan and the S. Choraſan on the E.
by the Arabian Irac. It leagues in length and 120
The air is healthy, but the nd it hardly ever rains, in or 6 months together. The rally barren, although there rtile plains near the rivers.
galbanum, and grapes, of e white wine, are it's prin-
ons. They reckon about 40
. Iſpahan is the capital.
oſed to be the ancient ARreſs of Aſiatic Turkey, in miles SE. of Betlis.
near Kirby Lonſdale. Irby, ilſby. Irch, or Earch, a river in Carnarvonſhire, which runs into the Iriſh Channel at Pulhely. Irchenfield, Heref. on the E. ſide of the Golden Vale. Ireby. See Jerby.

IREKEN, JERKIN, or YARKAN, a rich, populous, and large town, of Kaſchgar, or Litte Bucharia, where the Grand Khan of the Eluth Tartars principally reſides. The town is well built of bricks, dried in the ſun, and the palace of the khan is large, but not handſome. The environs are fertile. It is the ſtaple town of the trade carried on between the Indies and the N. part of Aſia, and is 90 miles SE. of Kaſchgar. Lat. 39. 6. N. lon. 79. 5. E.

IRELAND, one of the Britiſh iſlands, lying to the W. of that of Great Britain. It is bounded on the E. by St. George's Channel, or the Iriſh Sea, which ſeparates it from England and Wales; on the NE. by a channel about 20 miles broad, which ſeparates it from Scotland; and on every other ſide by the ocean. It lies between lon. 5. 43. and 10. 38. W. and between lat. 51. 15. and 55. 13. N. being about 287 miles in length, and 155 in breadth. It is divided into 4 provinces, viz. Ulſter on the north; Munſter on the ſouth; Leinſter on the eaſt; and Connaught on the weſt. Theſe are ſubdivided into 32 counties, viz. Carlow, Dublin, Kildare, Kilkenny, King's County, Longford, Lowth, Meath, Queen's County, Weſt Meath, Wexford, Wicklow, in the province of Leinſter. Antrim, Armagh, Cavan, Down, Donegal, Fermanagh, Londonderry, Monaghan, and Tyrone, in the province of Ulſter. Clare, Cork, Kerry, Limerick, Tipperary, and Waterford, in the province of Munſter. Galway, Leitrim, Mayo, Roſcommon, and Sligo, in the province of Connaught. The air is mild and temperate, being cooler in ſummer, and warmer in winter, than in England, though it is not ſo clear and pure, nor ſo proper for ripening corn and fruits. It is more humid than in England; but this quality is pretty much mended, and will be more ſo, when the bogs and moraſſes are drained. In general, it is a fruitful country, well watered with lakes and rivers; and the ſoil, in moſt parts, is very good and fertile; even in thoſe places, where the bogs and moraſſes have been drained, there is good meadow ground. It produces corn, hemp, and flax, in great plenty; and the herds of cattle are ſo numerous, that their beef and butter are exported into foreign parts; the Engliſh, and foreign ſhips, frequently come to victual in Iriſh ports. The principal riches and commodities of Ireland are cattle, hides, wool, tallow, ſuet, butter, cheeſe, cheeſe, wood, ſalt, honey, wax, furs, hemp, and more eſpecially fine linen cloth, which they have brought to great perfection, and their trade in it is vaſtly increaſed. This country is exceedingly well ſituated for foreign trade, and has many ſecure and commodious bays, creeks, and harbours, eſpecially on the W. coaſt. Their laws differ but little from thoſe of England; and the national eſtabliſhment of religion is the ſame. The members of parliament uſually ſat for life, unleſs upon the demiſe of the king of Great Britain; but, in 1768, their parliaments were made octennial. Formerly, this kingdom was entirely ſubordinate to that of Great Britain, whoſe parliament could make laws to bind the people of Ireland; and an appeal might be made from their courts of juſtice to the houſe of lords in England: but, in 1782, it was declared, that although Ireland was an imperial crown, inſeparably annexed to that of Britain (on which connection the intereſt and happineſs of both nations eſſentially depended) yet the kingdom of Ireland was diſtinct, with a parliament of it's own, and that no body of men were competent to make laws for Ireland, except the king, lords, and commons thereof. And, ſome time after, this declaration being thought inſufficient, the Britiſh legiſlature, by an expreſs act of parliament for that purpoſe, relinquiſhed all claim of right to interfere with the judgment of the Iriſh courts, or to make laws to bind Ireland in time to come. The lord lieutenant of Ireland, as well as the council, are appointed, from time to time, by the king. The native Iriſh are deſcribed as impatient of abuſe and injury, quick of apprehenſion, implacable in reſentment, ardent in all their affections, and remarkably hoſpitable. In the country there certainly remains a great deal of this amiable national characteriſtic, and even in their towns, formality and etiquette are often ſo loſt in hearty ſalutations, and a familiar manner of addreſs, that the ſtranger ſoon feels himſelf at home, and imagines the people about him all relations. There are ſome conſiderable mountains in Ireland, the chief of which are the Knock Patrick, Sliew Bloomy, and Curlieu Hills. Of all it's bogs, that called the Bog of Allen is the moſt conſiderable. The chief lakes are Lough Lean, Lough Erne, Lough Neagh, and Lough Corribb; and it's principal rivers are the Shannon, Boyne, Barrow, Liffey, Nore, and Suir. The kingdom is ſaid to have been formerly full of woods, but the caſe is now ſo different, it has been found neceſſary to plant new ones, and to give parliamentary encouragement for their preſervation and increaſe. The mineral productions of this country have been little known till of late years, the natives in general having given themſelves (at leaſt for ſome centuries paſt) little trouble about them. Nevertheleſs, copper, lead, iron, and even ſilver ores have been found in the Iriſh mines; ſome veſtiges of works of this ſort appear at Clontarf, on the edge of Dublin Bay. In the county of Antrim, there is a mine which conſiſts of a mixture of ſilver and lead, every 30lb. of lead ore producing about a pound of ſilver. There is another in Connaught, of the ſame kind; and one ſtill richer in Wicklow. About 12 miles from Limerick, two mines have been diſcovered, one of copper, and the other of lead. Iron mines are diſperſed all over the kingdom. There are likewiſe quarries of marble, ſlate, and freeſtone, and the earth produces in various places, coal and turf for firing.

IRELAND, one of the Bermuda iſlands.

IRELAND, NEW, a large iſland in the S. Atlantic Ocean, N. of New Britain. The moſt ſouthern point, Cape George, is in lat. 4. 59. S. lon. 152. 7. E. See NEW BRITAIN.

IRELAND'S EYE, a ſmall iſland on the N. ſide of Dublin Bar.

Iriſh Town, between Dublin and the ſea.

Ireton Kirk, Derbyſ. SW. of Wirkſworth. Ireton, Little, Derbyſhire. NE. of Kedleſton. Irford Abbey, Lincolnſ. NE. of Market Raiſin.

IRGISKOE, a town of Ruſſia, in the government of Saratov, ſituated on the Irgis, 96 miles E. of Yoiſk.

IRISH CHANNEL, or ST. GEORGE'S CHANNEL, that part of the Atlantic Ocean, which is between the coaſt of Ireland and Great Britain.

Irmingland, Norf. NW. of Aleſham.

Irk, a river in Lanc. which runs into the Irwell, near Mancheſter.

IRKUTSK, a town of Ruſſia, capital of a government to which it gives name. It is the ſea of a Greek biſhop, and a place of conſiderable commerce, the caravans which trade to China paſſing through it. It is ſituated on the river Angara, near it's confluence with the Irkut, near the Lake Baikal, 140 miles ESE. of Kolivan.

IRKUTSKOI, the largeſt, but leaſt peopled, government of Ruſſia, compriſing all the eaſtern parts of Siberia, from the Northern Ocean to the frontiers of Chineſe Tartary, and from the boundaries of the governments of Tobolſk and Kolivan, on the W. to the Eaſtern Ocean. This large territory territory was gradually conquered, and appropriated by the Ruſſians, in their deſultory excurſions from Tobolſk, and is now divided into the four provinces of Irkutſk, Nertchinſk, Yakutſk, and Okotſk, from the four principal towns.

Irnam, Linc. near Corby, pleaſantly ſituated, with good water, and in a wholeſome air. Iron Acton, Glouc. 3 miles from Briſtol, at the conflux of the Stoure and Laden, which form the river Frome. Much iron has formerly been dug up in this pariſh, and many iron works, and great heaps of cinders, are ſtill to be ſeen here. It has a coal-work now carrying on. In the church-yard is one of the croſſes, arched over, from whence the prieſts uſed to harangue the people on particular holidays.

IRONGRAY, a town of Kirkudbrightſhire, 16 miles E. of Kirkcudbright.

IRON MOUNTAINS, mountains of N. America, which divide the Tennaſſee government from N. Carolina. Lat. 35. 25. S. lon. 83. 0. W.

IRPIN, a river of Ruſſian Poland, which runs into the Dnieper, above Kiov.

IRROMANGO, an iſland of the New Hebrides, in the S Sea, nearly 80 miles in circuit. Lat. 18. 48. S. lon. 169. 20. E.

IRRONAM, one of the New Hebrides, in the S. Sea, near Tanna.

Irſted, Norf. SW, of Hickling. Irt, a river of Cumb. which runs into the Iriſh Channel below Carlton, not far from Ravenglaſs. In it are found the muſcles, that breed a ſort of pearl, vulgarly called ſhell-berries. Some gentlemen obtained a patent for this fiſhery, but we do not find that it turned to much account. Irthing, a river of Cumb. which runs into the Eden, about 2 miles E. of Carliſle. Irthington, Cumb. on the river Irthing, near Brampton. Irton, or Irtondale, Cumb. SE. of Egremont, near Waſdale, on the river Irt.

IRTYSH, a large river in Siberia, which riſes in Tartary, and running from the S. to the NW. falls into the Oby, about 200 miles N. by E. of Tobolſk. The NW. ſhore is low paſture ground; on the other ſide, is a prodigious number of black bears, wolves, and red and grey foxes, beſide the beſt grey ſquirrels in all Siberia. This river abounds with fiſh, particularly ſturgeon and delicate ſalmon.

*IRVINE, or IRWIN, a ſea-port of Ayrſhire, ſeated on a river of the ſame name, which ſeparates the counties of Ayr and Lanerk, near it's influx into the Clyde, 15 miles E. of the Iſle of Arran, and 26 SW. of Glaſgow. In 1790, there were 51 veſſels belonging to this port, the largeſt of which was 160 tons, and the ſmalleſt of 33. About 24,000 chaldrons of coals are exported annually to Ireland: as alſo conſiderable quantities of woollen goods, carpeting, muſlins, lawns, and linen; the principal imports are hemp, iron, deals, ſhip-timber, and corn, from Memel, Norway, &c. The number of inhabitants in the town and pariſh is eſtimated at 4500.

Irvill, a river of Lanc. which riſes above Bolton, flows thence to Mancheſter, and falls into the Merſey below Flixton, about 7 miles above Warington. Irvon, a river in Brecknockſ. which runs into the Wye at Builth.

ISABELLA FORT, on the river Schelde, oppoſite Antwerp; alſo a fort in Dutch Flanders, near Sluys.

ISABELLA, ST. the largeſt of the Iſles of Solomon, in the S. Sea. It was diſcovered by the Spaniards in the year 1568. Alſo a town on the N. coaſt of the iſland of St. Domingo, built by Chriſtopher Columbus, in the year 1495. Lon. 71. 20. W.

Iſbury, Berks, near Lambourn. Iſby Walton, Leic. near Caſtle Dunnington.

ISCHIA, an iſland of Naples, about 20 miles in circuit, and laying 8 or 10 miles W. of the city of Naples. It is full of agreeable valleys, which produce excellent fruits; mountains, on which grow vines of an exquiſite kind; rivers, and fine gardens. It abounds in game, has ſeveral hot ſprings, and is much reſorted to by invalids, on account of it's healthy air.

ISCHIA, a town of Naples, capital of an iſland of the ſame name. It ſtands upon a rock, which is joined to the iſland by a ſtrong bridge; the rock is about 7 furlongs in circumference, and the city is like a pyramid of houſes piled one upon another, which makes a very ſingular and ſtriking appearance. At the end of the bridge are iron gates, which open into a ſubterraneous paſſage, through which they enter the city. Lat. 40. 41. N. lon. 14. 2. E.

Iſel, Cumberland, near Cockermouth, 3 miles up the Derwent. Iſlham, Cambridgeſhire, NE. of Soham.

ISENACH. See EISNACH.

ISENBURG, a town of Mark, Weſtphalia; a town in the circle of the Lower Rhine, ſituated on the Iſer, with a caſtle on a ſharp rock, built by Charlemagne, 10 miles N. of Coblentz; and a town of Iſenburg, circle of Upper Rhine, 3 miles S. of Frankfort on the Maine.

ISENBURG, UPPER, a county in the Wetterau, Upper Rhine, about 30 miles long long and 10 wide; divided among ſeveral branches of the houſe of Iſenburg.

ISENBURG, LOWER, a county in the Lower Rhine, formerly governed by counts of it's own; but now (except a ſmall part poſſeſſed by the counts of Wied-Runkel, and the barons of Walderdorf) included in the electorate of Treves.

ISENGHEIN, a town of the late Auſtrian Netherlands, ſeated on the river Mandeira, 5 miles from Courtray.

ISER, a pretty large river of Germany, which riſes in the Tyroleſe, about 5 miles N. from Inſpruck, and having paſſed by Munich, Landſchut, Landau, &c. falls into the Danube, about 2 miles below Deckendorf.

ISERE, a department of France, a part of the ci-devant Dauphiny, and ſo called from a river which riſes in the dept. of Mont Blanc, and paſſing through the middle of this department by the towns of Monſteir, Montmelian, Grenoble, &c. falls into the Rhone, about 3 miles N. of Valence. This river is navigable for boats as far as Montmelian. Grenoble is the principal town.

ISENARTS, or EISENARTS, a conſiderable town of Stiria, famous for it's iron mines. It is 30 miles NW. of Gratz.

ISERNIA, a town of Moliſo, in Naples.

Iſeton on the Iſle, Durham, SW. of Biſhop Auckland. Iſey, Wilts, N. of the Thames, near Cricklade. Iſgar, Northumberland, in the manor of Felton.

ISIGNI, a town in the dept. of Calvados, with a ſmall harbour, 15 miles W. of Bayeux; alſo a town in the dept. of the Channel, 9 miles SSE. of Avranches.

Iſker, or Iſis, a river in Brecknockſhire, that runs into the Uſk, at Aberiſker.

ISIS, a name frequently given to the river Thame, before it joins the Thames at Dorcheſter. See THAMES.

Iſis Parlis, in the E. part of the pariſh of Penrith, in Cumberland, on the N. bank of the Eamont, are two caverns, or grottoes, dug out of the ſolid rock, and ſufficient to contain 100 men. The paſſage to them is very narrow and dangerous; and, perhaps, it's perilous acceſs may have given it it's preſent name: though the vulgar tell ſtrange ſtories of one Iſis, a giant who lived here in former times, and like the Cacus of fabulous antiquity, uſed to ſeize men and cattle, and draw them into his den, to devour them. But it is highly probable, that theſe ſubterraneous chambers were made for a ſecure retreat in time of ſudden danger; and the iron gates, which were taken away not long ago, confirm this ſuppoſition.

ISLANDS, BAY OF, a bay of New Zealand, on the NE. coaſt of the northern of the two iſlands that go under that name.

ISLAY, or ILA, one of the Weſtern Iſles of Scotland, to the SW. of Jura, from which it is ſeparated by a narrow ſtrait or ſound. It's greateſt length is 25 miles; it's breadth about 18. The principal village is Bowmore, which is in a manner, a new town, and has a convenient harbour. The inhabitants are between 7 and 8000. The face of the country is hilly. Here are mines of copper, emery, quickſilver, lead ore, and black lead; with immenſe ſtores of limeſtone, marl, coral, and ſhell-ſand, for manure. Some corn and flax is raiſed here, and numerous droves of cattle are annually exported. In this, and ſome of the neighbouring iſlands, multitudes of adders infeſt the heath. On the NW. ſide of the iſland is the cave of Sanegmore, which is a grotto, divided into a number of far-winding paſſages, ſometimes opening into fine expanſes; again cloſing, for a long ſpace, into galleries, and forming a curious ſubterraneous labyrinth. There are alſo many other caverns, the haunts of numerous wild pigeons, that lodge and breed in them. The goats that feed among the rocks are ſo wild, that they are ſhot like deer.

Iſle, Shropſ. 2 miles from Shrewſbury; is a peninſula formed by the Severn, where thoſe floats, called Coracles, are much uſed. They are of a form almoſt oval, and made of ſplit, ſallow twigs, interwoven, the part under the water covered with a horſes hide. Only one man can ſit in them, who rows very ſwiftly with one hand, while, with the other, he manages his fiſhing tackle. A coracle is about 5 feet long and 3 broad, round at the bottom, and ſo light, that the fiſhermen carry them on their backs to and from the water.

ISLE ADAM, a town in the dept. of Seine and Oiſe, ſeated on the river Oiſe, 6 miles NNE. of Pontoiſe.

Iſle Along; ſee Annalong, Iſle of.

ISLE OF BEEVES, an iſland in the Bay of Campeachy, about 17 miles in length and 8 in breadth. It abounds in cattle and excellent fruits. Lat. 18. 30. N. lon. 91. 30. W.

Iſle of Dogs, Midd. a part of Poplar Marſh, ſo named by the ſeamen in paſſing it, when the kings had a palace at Greenwich, and the royal hounds were kenneled here.

ISLE DE DIEU, or D'YEU, an iſland on the coaſt of France, about 7 miles long and 2 wide. It is 15 miles SSW. of Noirmoutier. Lat. 46. 45. N. lon. 2. 15. W.

ISLE DE FRANCE. See FRANCE, ISLE OF.

ISLE JOURDAIN, a town in the dept. of Gera, in an iſland of the little river Save, 8 miles N. of Lombez; alſo a town in the dept. of the Vienne.

ISLE ROUSSE, a town of Corſica.

ISLE AND VILAINE, a dept. of France, having the Engliſh Channel, and the dept. of the Channel on the N. and the dept. of the Lower Loire on the S. Rennes is the capital.

ILLEBEN. See EISLEBEN.

*ISLEWORTH, a town in Middleſex, 9 miles W. of London. It is ſituated on the river Thames, oppoſite to Richmond.

Iſley, Cornw. SW. of Padſtow. Iſlington, Norf. near Lynn Marſh. Iſlington, a large village to the N. of London, to which it is now contiguous. On the NW. is the new village of Pentonville, to which it is likewiſe united. The New River, which is a great ornament to this place, is received, at the SW. end of it, into a large reſervoir, called the New River Head, whence it's water is conveyed in pipes, to all parts of the metropolis. The pariſh is very extenſive, including the hamlets of Upper and Lower Holloway, Kingſland Green, and three ſides of Newington Green. Near the New River Head, is a noted ſpring of chalybeate water, called New Tunbridge Wells. Iſlip, Northamptonſhire, near Thrapſton.

ISLIP, a town of Oxfordſhire, chiefly noted for the birth and baptiſm of Edward the Confeſſor, The chapel wherein Edward was baptized, at a ſmall diſtance N. from the church, was deſecrated during Cromwell's uſurpation, and converted to the meaneſt uſes of a farm yard. It is built of ſtone, 15 yards long and 7 broad, and retains traces of the arches of an oblong window at the E. end. At preſent it has a roof of thatch, and is ſtill called the king's chapel. The manor was given by Edward the Confeſſor to Weſtminſter Abbey, to which it ſtill belongs. It has alſo ſome remains of an ancient palace, ſaid to have been King Ethelred's. By the Oxfordſhire canal, it communicates with all the late inland navigations. It has a good market for ſheep, and is 36 miles NW. of London, on the road to Aberyſtwith.

ISMAIL, a town of Beſſarabia. It was taken by ſtorm by the Ruſſians, under General Suwarrow, on the 22d of December 1790; and it is ſaid, that the long ſiege and the capture did not coſt leſs than 10,000 men. The moſt atrocious part of the tranſaction is, that the garriſon (whoſe firmneſs would have received, from a leſs ſanguinary foe, the higheſt applauſe) were maſſacred by the mercileſs conquerors, to the amount of, by their own account, 30,000 men, and the place was abandoned to the fury of the brutal ſoldiery. Iſmail is ſeated on the N. ſide of the Danube, 140 miles SW. of Ockzakow. Lat. 45. 11. N. lon. 29. 30. E.

ISMID, or IS NIKMID. See NICOMEDIA.

ISNIC, a town of Natolia, the ſee of a Greek archbiſhop, yet containing ſcarcely 300 houſes. It is the antient Nice, famous for the firſt general council held here in 325, and which promulged the Nicene Creed as an article of faith. There is now nothing remaining of its ancient ſplendour but an aqueduct. Silk forms the principal article of trade among the inhabitants, who are moſtly Jews. It is ſeated in a fertile country, on a lake which abounds with fiſh, and communicates with the Sea of Marmora, 60 miles SE. of Conſtantinople.

ISNY, an imperial town of the Algau, in Suabia, with a famous abbey of Benedictine monks. It is ſeated on the river Iſny, 40 miles S. of Ulm.

ISOLA, a ſea-port of Calabria Ultra; and a town of Terra di Lavora, both in Naples; alſo a town of Iſtria; and a river of the Tyroleſe, which runs into the Drave near Leintz.

ISONA, a town of Catalonia.

ISPAHAN, a celebrated city of Aſia, capital of Perſia, ſeated in the province of Irac-Agemi, and thought by ſome, to be the fineſt city in the Eaſt. It ſtands in the middle of a plain, ſurrounded on all ſides by mountains, at 8 miles diſtance, which riſe gradually in the form of an amphitheatre. There is no river, except a ſmall one, called Zenderoud, which ſupplies almoſt all the houſes with water, and over which are ſeveral fine bridges. It is nearly of an oval form, with well-built houſes and flat roofs, on which they walk, eat, and even ſleep in the ſummer time, for the ſake of the cool air. The walls are built of mud, and about 20 miles in compaſs, but being kept in no repair, and hidden by the adjoining houſes and gardens, they have but a mean appearance, and are hardly to be diſcovered. The Meidan Shah, or Royal Square, is 440 paces long and 160 broad, ſurrounded by a canal, built with bricks, cemented by a black mortar, which, in time, becomes harder than freeſtone. Here are a great number of magnificent palaces; and that of the king is one of the moſt ſpacious in the world, being 5 miles in circumference: it's great portico ſtands in the royal ſquare, and is built with porphyry, and very high. There are 260 moſques, among which the royal moſque, at the S. end of the ſquare, is adorned with an inconceivable profuſion of gold, azure, and other ornaments; many of the figures, decorations, &c. on it's portico, being wrought in a manner unknown to our European architects; 1800 large caravanſeras, above 260 public baths, a prodigious number of coffee-houſes, and ſome very fine ſtreets, in which are canals planted with trees; though, generally ſpeaking, the other ſtreets are narrow, crooked, and not paved; they are, however, more free from dirt and duſt than many great cities in Europe, as the air here is very dry, and every houſekeeper waters the ſtreet before his own door twice a day. The inhabitants were formerly computed at 1,000,000; but, what with inteſtine broils and civil wars, this kingdom has been almoſt torn to pieces, by which the principal towns are greatly depopulated. There are 3 large ſuburbs; that called Joiſa, is inhabited by Armenians; Haſenbath, by Georgians; and Kebrabath by Pagans. Though it is at a diſtance from the ſea, it carries on a great trade, the people of ſeveral nations reſorting there for the ſake of traffic. It is 265 miles NE. of Buſſarah, 300 S. of the Caſpian Sea, and 1400 SE. of Conſtantinople. Lat. 32.25. N. lon. 52. 55. E.

ISSEL, or YSSEL, and ISSEL, or YSSEL, THE LITTLE, two rivers of the United Provinces. The former riſes in Weſtphalia, paſſes by Doeſburg, Zutphen, Deventer, &c. and falls into the Zuyder Zee, by two mouths, a little below Campen; the latter waters Yſſelſtein, Montfort, Gouda, &c. and falls into the Maeſe, 2 miles above Rotterdam.

ISSEL, OLD, a river which riſes in the N. part of the duchy of Cleves, and runs into the Iſſel at Doeſburg.

ISSELSTEIN, or YSSELSTEIN, a town of Utrecht, with a ſmall territory, ſeated on the Iſſel, 5 miles S. of Utrecht.

Iſſerkelly, in Galway, Connaught.

ISSEQUIBO, a flouriſhing ſettlement of the Dutch, in Guiana, S. America, contiguous to that of Demerary, and 8 or 10 miles W. of the town of Surinam. It is ſeated on the river Iſſequibo, which is about 3 leagues wide at it's mouth, and runs into the Atlantic in lat. 6. 45. N. and lon. 63. 20. W. It's principal productions are ſugar, coffee, and cotton. It has been twice taken by the Engliſh; in 81, but reſtored by the treaty of peace, in 1783; and ſince the commencement of the preſent war; it ſtill remains in their poſſeſſion.

ISSOIRE, an ancient town in the dept. of Puy de Dome, near which are found amethyſts, of as beautiful a colour as thoſe of the Eaſt, but not ſo hard. Iſſoire is ſeated on the river Couze, near the Allier, 15 miles SSE. of Clermont.

ISSOUDUN, a town in the dept. of Indre, containing about 10,000 inhabitants. It's trade is in wool and cattle; and it has conſiderable manufactories of cloth, hats, and ſtockings. It is ſeated on the river Theols, 17 miles SW. of Bourges, and 135 nearly S. of Paris.

IS SUR TILLE, a town in the dept. of Côte d'Or, ſituated on the river Tille, 5 miles N. of Dijon.

Iſtbwith, a river in Cardiganſ. which runs into the Iriſh ſea, at or near Aberyſtwith. Iſting Ebourn, Suſſex, NW. of Midhurſt. Iſtrad, a river in Denbighſ which runs into the Clwyd below Whitchurch.

ISTRIA, a peninſula of Italy, lying on the N. part of the Adriatic, by which it is, in a manner, ſurrounded, except towards the N. where it is joined to Carniola. It was anciently a part of Illyrium, and was conquered by the Romans, between the firſt and ſecond Punic wars. In the middle ages it belonged to the patriarch of Aquilea; and in the year 1190 moſt of the maritime part was conquered by the republic of Venice, though not without interruption from the Auſtrians. It is hilly, and the air is unhealthy, eſpecially near the coaſt; but the ſoil produces plenty of wine, oil, and paſtures; there are alſo quarries of fine marble. That part of it which lately belonged to the Venetians, is now moſtly annexed to the houſe of Auſtria. Capo d'Iſtria was the capital.

Iſwich, Lancaſhire, in Amounderneſs N. of Kirkham.

ITALY, one of the fineſt and moſt celebrated countries of Europe, extending from NW. to SE. nearly 700 miles. On the N. and NW. it is bounded by France, Swiſſerland, and Germany; on the E. by Carniola and the Adriatic; and on the SW. and W. by the Mediterranean; its figure bearing ſome reſemblance to that of a boot. It was formerly the ſeat of the Roman empire, and, afterwards, of the more ſingular uſurpation, the dominions of the pope; for this eccleſiaſtical monarch, under the modeſt title of miniſter miniſtrorum, ſervant of ſervants, claimed a right to diſpoſe not only of the affairs of ſeveral nations as acknowledged his ſupremacy but alſo of pagan lands to the ends of the earth; beſtowing them, as an inheritance, on the royal ſupporters of his church. Italy is divided into a great number of ſtates, which differ much in extent and importance. Between the confines of France and Swiſſerland, on the W. and N. are the continental dominions of the king of Sardinia, namely, Piedmont, Montferrat, and part of the Milaneſe. To the NE. are the ci-devant territories of Venice, now moſtly reduced to the obedience of the emperor. S. of theſe are the late Italian dominions of the emperor, namely, part of the Milaneſe, and the Mantuan, now formed into an independent republic, under the protection of France. S. of theſe are Modena, Mirandola, and Reggio, lately belonging to the duke of Modena, but now incorporated with the new republic. W. of theſe are the duchies of Parma, Placentia, and Guaſtalla, whoſe ſovereign is of the houſe of Bourbon. S. of Parma lies the republic of Genoa, and SE. of this, that of Lucca. Hence extends, along the coaſt of the Mediterranean, the grand duchy of Tuſcany. The Eccleſiaſtical State, or territory of the Pope, lies principally to the E. and SE. of Tuſcany, between the Gulf of Venice and the Mediterranean; and the remainder of Italy, which occupies the whole ſouthern extremity, is the kingdom of Naples, with it's dependant iſlands, of which Sicily is the principal. The air of Italy is very different, according to the different ſituations of the countries it contains. In thoſe on the NE. ſide of the Appenines, it is temperate; but on the SW. it is very warm. The air of the Campania of Rome, and of the Ferrareſe, is ſaid to be unwholeſome; which is owing to the land not being duly cultivated, nor the marſhes drained. That of the other parts is generally pure, dry, and healthy. In ſummer the heat is very great in the kingdom of Naples, and would be almoſt intolerable, if it were not alleviated by the ſea-breezes. The principal rivers are the Po, Tiber, Arno, Adige, and Var; and there are ſeveral fine lakes, as the Maggiore, Lugano, Como, Garda, Perugia, Braccianno, and Celano. As there are a number of rivers in Italy, beſide thoſe mentioned above, the ſoil, in general, is very fertile. It produces a great variety of wines, and the beſt oil in Europe; excellent ſilk in abundance; corn of all ſorts, but not in ſuch plenty as in other countries; oranges, lemons, citrons, pomegranates, almonds, raiſins, ſugar, innumerable mulberry-trees, figs, peaches, nectarines, apricots, pears, apples, filberts, cheſnuts, &c. Moſt of theſe fruits were at firſt imported by the Romans from Aſia Minor, Greece, Africa, and Syria, and were not the natural products of the ſoil. This country alſo yields good paſture, and abounds with cattle, ſheep, goats, buffaloes, wild boars, mules, and horſes. The foreſts are well ſtored with game; and the mountains yield, not only mines of iron, alum, ſulphur, marble of all ſorts, alabaſter, jaſper, porphyry, &c. but alſo gold and ſilver; with a great variety of aromatic herbs, trees, ſhrubs, and evergreens, as thyme, lavender, laurel, wild olive-trees, tamarinds, junipers, oaks, and pines. Wine, oil, perfumes, fruits, and ſilks, are the principal articles of exportation; and great ſums of money are expended by travellers in the purchaſe of pictures, curioſities, relics, antiquities, &c. The Italians have been the moſt celebrated of all the moderns for their genius and taſte in architecture, painting, carving, and muſic, and ſeveral of them have alſo been eminent as writers. The women affect yellow hair, as did formerly their predeceſſors, the ladies of ancient Rome; they alſo uſe paints and waſhes for their hands and faces. The Italian language is a corruption of the Latin, and is ſaid to be ſpoken beſt at Florence.

Itchel, Hants, near Alderſton. Itchen, or Alre, a river of Hants, which riſes at Chilton Candover, in the centre of the county, and thence running SW. waters the city of Wincheſter, where it begins to be navigable; from Wincheſter it's courſe is directly S. till it enters the Bay of Southampton, at the town of that name. Itching, or Irthing, a river of Northumb. and Cumb. falling into the Eden near Warwick. Itching Abbots, Hants, NW. of Alresford. Itching Stoke, Hants, E. of Itching Abbots. Itchington, Glouceſterſhire, in Titherington pariſh.

ITCHINGTON BISHOP'S, a town of Warwickſhire, ſo called from the biſhops of Lichfield and Coventry, once it's poſſeſſors. It is ſituated on the river Ichene, to the NE. of Kineton. This was anciently one of the chief towns in the county; and, in the reign of Henry II. was ranked with the boroughs that were to contribute to the marriage of that king's daughter. Market on Wedneſday.

Itchington, Long and Nether, Warw. near Southam. Itenfield, Cumb. near Inglewood Foreſt. Itton, a river in Radnorſ. which runs into the Wye, near Diſſart, about 3 miles N. of Builth. Itteringham, Norf. NW. of Aleſham. Itton, Monmouthſ. W. of Chepſtow.

ITZEHOE, a town of Daniſh Holſtein, built originally by Count Egbert, in purſuance of an order, in the year 809, from the emperor, Charles the Great, as a fortreſs againſt the Danes. It is ſeated on the river Stoer, 8 miles NNE. of Glueckſtadt.

JUAN DE FRONTERA, ST. a town of S. America, in Peru, in the diſtrict of Chiquitos. It lies to the E. of the Andes, 98 miles NE. of St. Jago.

JUAN DE PUERTO RICO, ST. an iſland of the W. Indies, 50 miles E. of St. Domingo, and called by the Engliſh Porto Rico. It is 100 miles in length, and 50 in breadth, and is ſubject to the Spaniards. It is full of very high mountains, and extremely fertile valleys, interſperſed with woods, and well watered with ſprings and rivulets. It's meadows are very rich, and there are ſo many cattle, imported originally from Old Spain, that they often kill them for the ſake of the ſkins alone. The woods are ſtored with parrots, wild pigeons, and other fowl. European poultry is found here in plenty, and their coaſts afford abundance of fiſh. The N. part of the iſland, which is the moſt barren, is ſaid to contain various mines of ſilver and gold. The principal trade of the natives conſiſts in their ſugar, rum, ginger, corn, hides, and cotton, both raw and manufactured, caſſia, maſtic, ſalt, oranges, lemons, ſweetmeats, and other fruits, partly proper to the climate, and partly introduced from Spain. A breed of dogs, which the Spaniards originally brought over, for the purpoſe of hunting and tearing in pieces the defenceleſs inhabitants, are ſaid to live here wild in the woods, near the ſea ſhore, and ſubſiſt upon land rats, that burrow in the earth. This iſland was diſcovered by Chriſtopher Columbus, in the year 1493. The air is pretty healthy, but it is ſubject to ſtorms and hurricanes, like the reſt of theſe iſlands. The capital, of the ſame name, is ſeated in the peninſula, on the N. coaſt of the iſland, with a good harbour, defended by a citadel and caſtle. It is populous and well built, the ſee of a biſhop, and reſidence of a governor. It was founded in the year 1514. In 1594, when it was in a very flouriſhing ſtate, it was attacked by Sir Francis Drake, who deſtroyed all the ſhips in the harbour, but could make no farther progreſs into the iſland. In the year 1597, it was taken and plundered by the Earl of Cumberland. Lat. 18. 29. N. lon. 67. 4. W.

JUAN FERNANDEZ, an iſland in the S. Sea, about 12 miles long and 6 wide. It is 330 miles W. of the coaſt of Chili, parallel with St. Jago. It is uninhabited, but having a good harbour on the N. coaſt, called Cumberland Bay, it is found extremely convenient to touchat and water. Lat. 33. 40. S. lon. 83. W.

JUAN DE ULLOA, ST. an iſland in the Gulf of Mexico, half a mile NE. of Vera Cruz.

JUCATAN, or YUCATAN, a large peninſula of Mexico, nearly oppoſite the W. end of the iſland of Cuba. It has the Gulf of Honduras to the E. and the Bay of Campeachy to the W and contains a great quantity of timber, proper for building of ſhips; as alſo ſugar, caſſia, indigo, cotton, and Indian corn. The original inhabitants are very few, they having formerly been very ill uſed by the Spaniards. It is a flat, level country, and is unhealthy in ſome parts, which may be owing to the frequent inundations. Merida is the capital; but ſome give that appellation to the town of Campeachy. See HONDURAS.

JUDENBURG, a town of Stiria, ſituated on the river Muhr. The public buildings with the ſquare, are magnificent.

JUDOIGNE, or GELDENACKEN, a town of the late Auſtrian Brabant, ſituated on the Geete, 12 miles SSE. of Louvain.

Ive, St. Cornwall, W. of Kellington.

Ive Church, Kent, by Romney Marſh.

Ivedon, Devonſhire, in Auleſcomb pariſh.

Iver, Bucks, near Uxbridge.

IVES, ST. a ſea-port of Cornwall, ſeated on a bay of the ſame name, with about 30 ſhips belonging to it's harbour, 8 miles NE. of Penzance, and 277 W. by S. of London. It trades largely in pilchard and Corniſh ſlates. Markets on Wednesday and Saturday.

*IVES, ST. a town of Huntingdonſhire with the largeſt market in England for cattle, except that of Smithfield. It is an ancient, large, and handſome place, ſeated on the river Ouſe, over which it has a fine ſtone bridge, 6 miles nearly E. of Huntingdon, and 59 N of London. Market on Monday.

JUGON, a town in the dept. of the North Coaſt, containing about 702 inhabitants.

IVICA, an iſland of the Mediterranean about 15 miles long, and 12 wide, ſubject to Spain. It is mountainous, but fertile in corn, wine, and fruits; and remarkable for the great quantity of ſalt made in it. It is 50 miles SW. of Majorca. The capital is of the ſame name, ſeated on a bay with a good harbour. Lat. 39. 30. N. lon. 1. 25. E.

Ivil, or Ivel, a river in Bedf. which runs into the Ouſe at Temsford. Ivel river in Somerſ. which runs into the Parrot, near Langport.

IVINGO, a town in Bucks, with a manufacture of lace, 6 miles SW. of Dunſtable. Market on Monday.

JULIAN, ST. a harbour on the coaſt of Patagonia. Lat. 49. 10. S. lon. 68. 44. W.

Julian's, St. Monm. near Caerlion.

Julian's Town, Meath, Leinſter.

JULIEN, ST. a town in the reſpective depts. of the Jura, Coté d'Or, Mont Blanc, Higher Alps, Upper Loire, Rhone and Loire, Vienne, Saone and Loire, Calvados, Upper Garonne, Var, Drome, Ain and Loire.

JULIEN, ST. DU SAULT, a town in the dept. of the Yonne, ſeated on or near the river Yonne, 10½ miles S. of Sens.

JULIERS, a duchy of Weſtphalia, ſituated between the Rhine and the Maeſe, and bounded by the duchy of Guelders on the N. and by the electorate of Cologne and the Rhine on the E. The principal towns are Juliers, the capital, a ſmall, but ſtrong town, with a regular citadel, a church, and a convent, within the walls, and a Calviniſt and a Lutheran church without, ſituated on the Ruhr, 22 miles W. of Cologne, in lat. 50. 57. N. and lon. 6. 23. E. Dueren, Aix la Chapelle, Munſter Eyffel, and Euſzkirchen. In the country, in general, are 26 towns, and 11 freedoms and boroughs. It is ſubject to the elector palatine, is about 68 miles in length, and 30 in breadth, and is remarkable for the great quantity of woad it produces.

JULPHA, OLD, once the capital of Armenia, in Aſia, now in ruins, the inhabitants having been tranſplanted to a ſuburb of Iſpahan, called New Julpha, where they have ſeveral churches. They were brought thither for the ſake of trade.

JUMIEGE, a town in the dept. of Lower Seine, with a late celebrated Benedictine abbey. It is ſeated on the river Seine, 12 miles WSW. of Rouen.

JUMNA, a large river of Hindooſtan, which riſes in Thibet, waters the cities of Delhi, Agra, &c. and runs into the Ganges at Allahabad.

Jump, Yorkſhire, near Rotheram.

JUNAGUR, a town and fortreſs of Hindooſtan, in the county of Guzerat. It is 170 miles SW. of Amedabad.

JUSCULAM, a town of the Iſland of Java, ſituated on the SW. coaſt, 55 miles SSW. of Batavia.

JUNKSEILON, an iſland in the Bay of Bengal, near the SW. coaſt of Siam, nearly 60 miles long, and from 10 to 20 wide. Near the principal town (of the ſame name, ſituated in the N. part of the iſland, with a ſecure harbour for ſmall veſſels) is a mine of loadſtone, but the pieces do not preſerve their virtue above 4 or 5 months. Lat. 8. 56. N. lon. 98. 30. E.

IVORY COAST, a country of Africa, on the coaſt of the Atlantic, between Cape Appolonia and Cape Palmas. It contains ſeveral towns which are ſituated at the mouths of rivers, called by the ſame name. The chief commodities are gold, ivory, and ſlaves; the former in the greateſt plenty. Whatever the Gold Coaſt produces, is alſo found here in greater abundance and perfection; and indeed, the fruits and vegetables of the warmer climates ſeem all to be united on the Ivory Coaſt. The interior country, however, is but little known, as the natives refuſe the Europeans leave to build ſettlements, or even trade among them, except by means of the coaſt negroes. The inhabitants are reckoned the moſt ſavage and barbarous on the whole coaſt, and ſome writers ſcruple not to call them anthropophagi.

Ivory Lodge, Hants, in New Foreſt.

JURA, one of the weſtern iſles of Scotland, NE. of the iſland of Iſlay, on the coaſt of Argyleſhire. It is about 25 miles long, and 7 broad. Some parts of the ſouthern and weſtern ſides are fertile, and there are only three mountains on the whole iſland. Theſe are of a conical form, of a ſtupendous height, and are called the Paps of Jura. The reſt of the iſland is flat, and generally covered with heath. Shell fiſh and potatoes form the principal food of the poorer people. A few wild roes are ſtill ſeen here, but their number is continually growing leſs.

JURA, a department of France, having Swiſſerland to the E. the dept. of Saone and Loire to the W. and the Upper Saone on the N. It contains mines of iron of a ſuperior quality, mines of copper and lead, and many quarries of black marble, of jaſper of different colours, and of alabaſter. It takes it's name from Mount Jura. Lons le Saunier is the capital.

JURA, MOUNT, a chain of mountains, which extend, nearly in a line, from the Rhine, near Baſil, to the Rhone, 10 miles below Geneva; ſometimes more, ſometimes leſs elevated, and in different places taking different names.

IVREA, a town of Canavez, in Piedmont, containing beſides the cathedral, 3 pariſh churches, and ſeveral religious houſes. It is defended by a caſtle and two other fortreſſes, and is ſituated on the Grand Doria river, 20 miles N. of Turin.

IVRY, a town in the dept. of Eure, with a late Benedictine abbey, ſituated on the river Eure, 10 miles N by W. of Dreux; alſo a town in the dept. of Côte d'Or; and a town in the dept. of Paris, 3 miles S. of Paris.

Juſt, St. Cornwall, at the Land's End, NW. of Penzance. Juſt Caſtle, St. Cornwall, on Falmouth Haven.

JUTLAND, a large peninſula of Denmark, bounded on the S. by the duchy of Holſtein; and on the other ſides by the German Ocean and Baltic Sea. It is about 200 miles in length, from N. to S. and 95 in breadth, from E. to W. The air is very cold, but wholeſome, and the ſoil is fertile in corn and paſtures, which feed a great number of horſes, beeves, and hogs, which are ſent to Germany, Holland, &c. Hence Jutland is commonly called the land of bacon and rye bread. This was anciently called the Cimbrica Cherſoneſus; and is ſuppoſed to be the country whence the Anglo Saxons came that conquered England. It is divided into two parts, called N. and S. Jutland; the latter being the duchy of Sletwick. N. Jutland is compoſed of four general governments, each of which has it's biſhop and general governor. They derive their name from the four chief cities, Aalborg, Wiborg, Aarhuys, and Ripen.

Ivy Bridge, Devonſ. a village remarkable for it's rural and picturesque ſcenery. It is conſiderably increaſed of late in it's buildings, and is ſeated on the rapid and noiſy river Arme, on the road between Exeter and Plymouth, 11 miles NE. of the latter. Ivy Church, Wilts, 2 miles from Saliſbury. Ivythorn, Somerſetſ. W. of Glaſtonbury. Izvade, Kent, near Milton and Sittingbourn. Ixning, Suffolk. near Newmarket.

IXWORTH, a town in Suffolk, ſituated on the road between Bury and Yarmouth, 7 miles NE. of Bury, and 79 NE. of London. Market on Friday.

Ixworthorp, Suffolk. NW. of Ixworth.

JYENAGUR, a country of Hindooſtan, lying to the S. of the Mewat, in the eaſtern quarter of Agimere, and ſubject to one of the rajpoot princes.

JYEPOUR, a city of Hindooſtan, in the territory of Jyenagur. It was built by the celebrated rajah Jeſſing, who alſo erected an obſervatory here, and invited Claude Boudier to it, in 1734. Wendel repreſents Jyepour as a place of great wealth and conſequence in 1779, being the ſtaple of the principal part of the goods that are brought from every quarter of India. It is 104 miles W. by S. of Agra, and 70 ENE of Agimere.

IZQUINTENANGO, a town of Chiapa, in Mexico.

KABER, Weſtmorland, near Kirkby Steven.

KACHAO, a town of Africa, in the kingdom of Kumbo, containing a pariſh church and a convent of Capuchins. It has a Portugueſe garriſon, and is ſurrounded with a rampart and paliſadoes, and defended with artillery. It is ſituated on the river San Domingo, about 50 miles from it's mouth.

KADAN, a town of Saats, in Bohemia.

Kaddy Carne, in Down, Ulſter, a long ledge of rocks on Big Iſland.

KADERSKILL, a town of New York.

KAFFUNGEN, a town and monaſtery of Heſſe, 5 miles SE. of Caſſel.

KAHUN, a town of Herman, in Perſia, 36 miles SW. of Sirgian.

KAIRWAN. See CAIROAN.

KAISARIJAH, anciently called MAZACA, and afterwards CÆSAREA or CAPPADOCIA, a populous town of Caramania, divided into 180 quarters, in each of which is a moſque. The Greeks have a metropolitan and another church, and the Armenians 3 churches. The principal trade is in Morocco leather. It is 150 miles NE. of Cogni.

KAISERSBERG, a town of Stiria, with a caſtle, 5 miles SW. of Leoben.

KAISERTHAL, a town of Baden, in Swiſſerland, ſituated on the Rhine, 3 miles NE. of Baden.

KALAAR, a conſiderable town af Ghilan, in Perſia, with a manufacture of ſilk.

Kald-worth, Northumberland, in Mildforth barony.

Kale, a river of Roxburghſ. which runs into the Tiviot, 4 miles S. of Kelſo.

KALENBURG, a town of Paderborn, in Weſtphalia.

KALGUEV, an iſland in the Frozen Ocean, about 140 miles in circumference. It is about 140 miles NNE. of Archangel.

KALIR,

KALIR, a town of Wirtemburg, Suabia.

KALISCH, a palatinate, late of Poland, now of W. Pruſſia, called alſo the palatinate of GNESEN, and it's capital, ſeated on the river Proſna, 57 miles NE. of Breſlaw.

KALKA, a country of Aſia, bounded on the N. by Ruſſian Siberia; on the E. by Chineſe Tartary; on the S. by the Cobi, or Sandy Deſert; and on the W. by other parts of Tartary. It is inhabited by the Eluths and Kalmucs.

Kallamer, Lancaſ. in Amounderneſs.

KALMUCS, a nation of Tartars, who inhabit that part of the Ruſſian government of Caucaſus, that lies between the river Volga, and the river Yaick (now Ural) toward the Caſpian Sea; in all which immenſe tract there is not a houſe to be ſeen, as they all live in tents, and remove from one place to another, in queſt of paſturage for their large herds of cattle, conſiſting of horſes, camels, cows, and ſheep. They neither ſow nor reap, nor make hay for their cattle, ſo that they live without bread, or any ſort of vegetable; and in the winter, their cattle fare as other wild beaſts. Their food is fleſh, (eſpecially that of horſes) fiſh, wild-fowl, and veniſon; and they have great plenty of milk, butter, and cheeſe; but mare's milk is the moſt eſteemed among them, and from it they make a ſtrong ſpirit, of which they are very fond, and which is clear as water. They are divided into a number of hordes, or clans, each under their own particular khan, and all acknowledging the authority of one principal khan, who is called orchicurtikhan, or king of kings, who derives his pedigree from Tamerlane. All of them, however, have gradually ſubmitted to the government of Ruſſia, or live at preſent under it's protection. They are pagans. They wear coats of ſtuff, or ſilk, above which they wear a large, wide, fur coat of ſheep-ſkins, and a cap of the ſame. Their cattle are large, and their ſheep are of the largeſt kind, having great fat tails, weighing from 25 to 30 pounds; their ears hanging down like our dogs, and, inſtead of wool, they have ſoft curled hair, ſo that their ſkins are converted into fur coats. Their horſes are ſmall, but ſwift, hardy, and ſtrong; and many of them pace naturally, and trot at an incredible rate. They eat the fleſh of camels, cows, and ſheep, but univerſally give the preference to that of the horſe. When they go upon any expedition, they have no regard either to bridges or boats; they no ſooner come to a river, than in they plunge with their horſes, and, ſliding from their backs, hold faſt by the manes till they get over, and then immediately mount again, and proceed. They live but 4 months at moſt in the deſerts, and inhabit a moſt pleaſant country all the reſt of the year (when it is not overflowed) tending their flocks and herds, fiſhing, and hunting. When they go upon an expedition, every one takes a ſheep with him for his proviſion, and three horſes, which he rides alternately; and when any of them fail, they kill it, and divide the fleſh, putting pieces of it under their ſaddles, and, after riding ſome time upon it, they eat it without any farther preparation. Their kibbets, or tents, are large, and ſurpriſingly warm, having a fire in the middle, and a hole at the top to let out the ſmoke; they are 24 feet in diameter, and capable of being enlarged or contracted at pleaſure; they are all round, the ſides being made of a kind of checkered wicker-work, and the croſs ſticks neatly jointed, for folding together, or extending. The kibbet withſtands wind and rain well, and is erected with greater eaſe and in leſs time than we could ſet up an officer's tent. The ſmall-pox is as much dreaded among the Kalmucs as the peſtilence among us. When any of them are ſeized with it, they immediately break up their camp and flee, leaving the ſick perſon in one of their kibbets, or tents, with a killed ſheep, part of which is roaſted and part raw, and a jar of water, and ſome wood for fire; if they recover, they follow the horde, but this ſeldom happens, for they moſtly die for want of attendance. In a more extenſive ſenſe, however, the Kalmuc's country includes both the Kalmuc and Mongul Tartars, who both formerly compoſed but one people. The Mongul Tartars are partly independent, and partly ſubject to China. See MONGULS.

KALNICK, a town of Bracklaw, in Poland.

KALUGA, a town of Ruſſia, capital of Kalutſkoe, a government, formerly included in that of Moſcow, of which it lies W. and E. of the government of Smolenſkoe; about 140 miles in length, and from 40 to 90 in breadth. Occa is the principal river, on which the town of Kaluga is ſituated, 390 miles SE. of Peterſburg.

KALMUNZ, a town of Newberg, in Bavaria, ſituated at the conflux of the rivers Nab and Vilz, 12 miles NNW. of Ratiſbon.

KAMAKURA, an iſland of Japan, about 3 miles in circumference, on the S. coaſt of Niphon, uſed as a ſtate priſon. The coaſt of this iſland is ſo ſharp, that perſons ſons and freightage are generally lifted up by cranes.

KAMBALA, MOUNT, a ridge of mountains in Thibet, between the lake Jamdro, and the Sampoo river.

KAMINIECK, a town of Poland, capital of the palatinate of Podolia, which is ſometimes alſo called Kaminieck. A Popiſh and an Armenian biſhop, and a Caſtellan, reſide in this city; and a court of juſtice, and a provincial diet are, or were, lately, held here. Here is alſo a college, which formerly belonged to the Jeſuits. It has a caſtle built on a rock, and is one of the beſt fortified towns in Poland, although it is more beholden to nature than art for it's ſtrength. It is ſituated on the river Smetrica, which falls into the Dnieſter a little below it, 100 miles W. of Braclaw.

KAMTSCHATKA, a peninſula of Siberia, in the government of Irkutſkoi, bounded on the N. by the province of Ochotſk; on the E. and S. by the N. Pacific Ocean; and on the W. by the Sea of Ochotſk and the Penzinſkoe Gulf. It is about 600 miles in length, and from 30 to 200 in breadth. The ſouthern extremity is Cape Lopatka, in lat. from 52. to 61. N. and lon. 156. 45. E. according to Capt. King, who viſited this country in 1779. A chain of high mountains from N. to S. extends the whole length of the peninſula, and almoſt equally divides it; whence ſeveral rivers take their riſe, and empty themſelves on both ſides into the Pacific Ocean, and the Sea of Ochotſk. Stunted trees are thinly ſcattered over the whole face of the country, whoſe bottoms are moſſy, with a mixture of low heath; the whole reſembling Newfoundland in a moſt ſtriking degree. This diſadvantage of ſoil, however, is not univerſal; for ſome parts produce tolerably good hay. Four months, commencing at midſummer, may be conſidered as forming their ſpring, ſummer, and autumn, the reſt of the year is all dreary winter. They have great quantities of wholeſome vegetables, in a wild ſtate, ſuch as chervil, garlic, onions, angelica, and wild celery, with ſome excellent turnips, and turnip-radiſhes, upon a few ſpots of ground in the valleys; and this is the utmoſt extent of their garden cultivation. They have a variety of wild berries, ſuch as blue berries, round and oval, partridge-berries, cranberries, crowberries, blackberries, &c. which are gathered at proper ſeaſons, and preſerved by boiling them into a thick jam, without ſugar. Theſe conſtitute a conſiderable part of the winter proviſion, ſerving as a general ſauce to their dried and ſalt fiſh, of which kind of food they are, unqueſtionably, excellent correctives. The natives likewiſe eat them, by themſelves, in puddings, and various other ways, and make decoctions of them for their ordinary liquor. Fiſh is certainly the ſtaple article of food among the inhabitants of this peninſula, who cannot poſſibly derive any conſiderable part of their ſubſtenance either from agriculture or cattle; they, however, obtain ſome from their foreſts, particularly in the bear, which to hunt and kill, is, with the inhabitants, a ſkilful and dangerous adventure. The people of Kamtſchatka may be ſaid to conſiſt of three ſorts; the Kamtſchadales, the Ruſſians, and Coſſacks, and a mixture produced by their intermarriages. The habitations of the natives conſiſt of three different kinds, which they call jourts, balagans, and loghouſes. They inabit the firſt in the winter, and the ſecond in the ſummer; in the third, introduced by the Ruſſians, only the more wealthy people reſide. The external appearance of a jourt reſembles a round, ſquat hillock; a hole, ſerving for a chimney, window, and door, is left in the centre, and the inhabitants go in and out by the aſſiſtance of a long pole, having notches deep enough to afford a little ſecurity for the toe. The upper garment of the Kamtſchadales reſembles a waggoner's frock; if for ſummer wear, it is made of nankeen; if intended for winter, it is made of a ſkin, having one ſide tanned, and the hair preſerved on the other, which is worn innermoſt; a cloſe jacket of nankeen, or other cotton ſtuff, is the next under this; and, beneath that, a ſhirt made of thin Perſian ſilk, of any colour. They wear long breeches and boots, made of ſkins, with the hair innermoſt. They have alſo a fur cap, with two flaps that are uſually tied up cloſe to the head, but are let to fall round the ſhoulders in rough weather. The true Kamtſchadales are a people of very remote antiquity, and have for many ages inhabited this peninſula. There are, at preſent, very few idolaters among them, the Ruſſians having beſtowed great pains, and been very ſucceſsful, in converting them to Chriſtianity. Schools are likewiſe eſtabliſhed in many of the oſtrogs, where the children of both the natives and Coſſacks are inſtructed gratuitouſly in the Ruſſian language. The Ruſſians firſt diſcovered the country in the year 1697, and, in 1699, 60 Ruſſian ſoldiers, with as many Coſſacks, penetrated into the heart of the peninſula, levying a tribute of furs in their progreſs. Their government, conſiſidered as a military one, is mild and equitable in a high degree. The natives are permitted to chuſe their own magiſtrates, with all the privileges they had ever enjoyed, who refer to the governor of Kamtſchatka ſuch caſes only as, from their intricacy or heinouſneſs, they do not chuſe to decide upon themſelves. Bolcheretſk is the principal place, ſituated on the SW. coaſt, in lat. 52. N.

dered

KANDEGHERE, a town of Hindooſtan, in the Carnatic, 70 miles NW. of Madras. In the year 1599, it was the capital of a kingdom called Narſinga, the reſidence of a Hindoo king, whoſe dominions extended over Tanjore and Madura; and in 1640, a deſcendant of that prince, who reigned here, permitted the Engliſh to form a ſettlement at Madras.

KANEM, a town and province of Bornou, in Africa.

KANIOW, a city of Kiow, in Poland, ſituated on the Dnieper.

KANISCHA, a town of Hungary, 96 miles S. of Vienna.

KANTCHEOU, a city of China, of the firſt rank, in the province of Kiangſi. It's juriſdiction contains 12 cities of the third order, and it's ſoil produces the trees from which diſtils a varniſh, reckoned the beſt in China. It is 840 miles S. of Pekin.

Kantiſs, Eſſex, near Horndon.

Kanturk, in Cork, Munſter.

KAOTCHEOU, a city of China, of the firſt rank, in the province of Quangtong. It has within it's juriſdiction one city of the ſecond order, and 5 of the third. In this diſtrict are a great number of peacocks, and ſeveral ſorts of birds of prey. There is alſo a kind of ſtone, like marble, which naturally repreſents landſcapes, caſcades, &c. of which they make tables, and other curious houſehold furniture. It is ſituated in a very fruitful country, about 36 miles from the ſea, and 1130 SSW. of Pekin.

KAPOS, a town of Hungary, ſituated on a river of the ſame name, which runs into the Danube, 6 miles from Mohacs.

KAPPAS, OLD, a town of N. America, ſituated on the W. ſide of the Miſſiſſippi, in lat. 34. 12. N. and lon. 91. 12. W. Near this place, Ferdinand de Soto firſt diſcovered the river Miſſiſſippi, in the year 1541.

KARAGINSKOI, an iſland in the N. Pacific Ocean, about 80 miles in circumference. It is ſituated near the NE. coaſt of Kamtſchatka, in lat. 59. N. and lon. 162. E.

KARECK, an iſland in the Perſian Gulf, lying nearly in the middle of it, where all ſhips bound for Buſſorah muſt call for pilots. It is about 5 miles long and 2 broad; and is ſubject to the ſheick of Bundaric. The Dutch had a flouriſhing ſettlement here, about the middle of the 18th century, formed by the Baron Kniphauſen; but on his quitting their ſervice, it became ſubject again to it's former maſter.

Karham, Northumb. in Wark barony.

KARICAL, a town of Hindooſtan, in the kingdom of Tanjore, containing 14 pagodas, 15 moſques, and about 5000 inhabitants. It was ceded by the king of Tanjore to the French, taken by the Engliſh in the year 1760, and retaken in 1779. It is ſituated on the E. coaſt, on one of the branches of the Cauvery, 12 miles N. of Negapatam, and 6 S. of Tranquebar.

KARLSCRUCH, a town of Baden Durlach, in Suabia. The margrave has here a magnificent palace and gardens. The town is built on a regular plan, and the houſes are all as uniform as the ſtreets. It is 12 miles N. by E. of Baden.

Karnbank, a hill in Armagh, Ulſter. Karn Gaur, a hill in Down, Ulſter, 2 miles N. of Scraba.

Karnſuick, Cornwall, a rocky mountain, near Madern.

KASAN, capital of the government of the ſame name, contains ſeveral churches, almoſt all of which are built with ſtone, and 11 convents in and near the town. It is ſeated on the river Caſanka, where it falls into the Wolga, 400 miles E. by N. of Moſcow. See KAZANSKOE.

Katherine Hill, Surry, near Guilford. Katharine's, St. Iſle of Wight, in E. Medina. Katharine's, St. in the ſuburbs of Lincoln. Katharine's Hill, St. Hants, near Wincheſter. Katherington, Hants, SE. of Biſhop's Waltham.

KAUFFBEUREN, a free town of Suabia.

KAYE'S ISLAND, in the N. Pacific Ocean, near the W. coaſt of N. America, about 30 miles in length and 4 in breadth, diſcovered and named by Captain Cook. The SW. point is a naked rock, conſiderably elevated above the land within it. Pine trees abound in all parts of the iſland; which indeed is covered, in a manner, with a broad girdle of wood. The trees, however, are far from being of an extraordinary growth; ſo that they would be of no great ſervice for ſhipping, excepting as materials for ſmall things. The pine trees appear to be all of one ſpecies; and neither the Canadian pine, nor cypreſs, are found here. Lat. 59. 51. N. lon. 143. 0. W.

KAYSERSBERG, a town in the dept. of Upper Rhine, 5 miles NW. of Colmar.

KAYSER-

KAYSERSLAUTERN, a town in the palatinate of the Rhine, ſeated on the river Lauter, 22 miles SW. of Worms.

KAYSERSWERT, a town in the circle of the Lower Rhine, ſeated on the E. ſide of the river Rhine, 8 miles N. of Duſſeldorp. The fortifications are demoliſhed. It was engaged a long time to the biſhoprick of Cologne; but, in 1762, it was reſtored to the elector palatine.

KAZANSKOE, a large country of the Ruſſian empire, formerly ſubject to the Kalmuc Tartars, to whom the great duke of Moſcow, with the other petty principalities of Ruſſia, were tributary. But Ivan Vaſſiliwitch I. the founder of the Ruſſian greatneſs, towards the end of the 15th century, reſcued his country from the Tartar yoke; and, in 1552, the ſecond duke of the ſame name, conquered Kaſan, which is now divided into the three Ruſſian governments of Kaſan, Simbirſk, and Penza.

Keach, a river in Cardiganſ. which runs into the Tivy below Kennarth. Keadby, Lincolnſhire, in Axholm Iſle.

Keady, in Armagh, Ulſter.

Kealcotes, E. W. N. and S. Linc. near Bollingbroke. Keale, Lincolnſ. near Bollingbroke.

Keamore, in Cork, Munſter. Keany, in Weſt Meath, Leinſter.

Kearton, Yorkſhire, N. Riding, E. of Swaledale. Kebby, a river in Monmouthſ. which runs into the Uſk, near Abergavenny. Kebeck, a river in Yorkſ. which runs into the Nyde below Harrowgate. Keddington, Suff. NW. of Clare. Kedleſton, near Derby. Kedrington, Linc. N of Louth. Keel, Staffordſhire, near Newcaſtle under Line.

Keenagh, in Longford, Leinſter.

Keerby, Yorkſhire, N. Riding, SW. of Helmeſley. Keerby, Yorkſ. near Wetherby. Keeton, Nottingh. near Lenton.

KEFREEN, a town of Syria, 16 miles from Aleppo, on the road from Tripoli. It gives name to a large, fertile plain, where they breed a great number of pigeons.

Kegbear, Devonſ. NW. of Okehampton. Kegworth, Leiceſ. on an eminence, 4 miles from Loughborough, on the road to Derby. Near it is a handſome, ſtone bridge, over the Trent, called Cavendiſh Bridge, built at the duke of Devonſhire's expence. Foot paſſengers, as well as horſes and carriages, pay toll here. Keham, E. of Leiceſter.

KEHL, a fortreſs of Suabia, ſituated at the conflux of the Kinzig into the Rhine, a mile and a half E. of Straſburg. In a war with Germany, the French generally endeavour to make themſelves maſters of it, for the ſake of tranſporting troops acroſs the Rhine.

Keingham, Yorkſ. SE. of Headon. Keinton Manſfield, Somerſ. Kekewick, Cheſh. near the Merſey, between Frodſham and Warrington. Kelby, Linc. W. of Grimſby. Keld Chapel, Yorkſ. N. Riding, near Swaledale. Keldham, Yorkſ. near Kirby Mooreſide. Kelebar Hill, Yorkſ. near Tadcaſter. Kelfield, Linc. near Axholm Iſle. Kelfield, Yorkſ. E. Riding, near Nun Appleton. Kelham, Nott. on the Trent, W. of Newark. Kelingball, Yorkſ. W. Riding, S. of Ripley. Kelk, Yorkſ. E. of Great Driffield. Kellaham, Cornw. W. of St. Neot's. Kellath, Weſtmorl. near Newbiggin. Kellenyg, Monmouthſ. Kellermaſh, Northamp. NE. of Naſeby. Kellet, Upper and Lower, N. of Lancaſter. Kelley, Devonſ. SE. of Launceſton. Kelling, Norf. NE. of Holt. Kellington, Yorkſ. E. of Pontefract.

KELLINGTON, or CALLINGTON, a town in Cornwall, with a woollen manufactory. It is ſituated on the river Tamar, 12 miles S. of Launceſton, and 217 W. by S. of London. It is not inferior to the beſt half of the Corniſh boroughs, for wealth and buildings, having one very good broad ſtreet, a market-houſe, and a neat church. Market on Wedneſday.

Kelliſhall, Suffolk, N. of Saxmundham. Kellop, a river in Durham, which runs into the higheſt head of the Wear. Kellow, Northumb. W. of Holy Iſland.

*KELLS, a town of Meath, in Leinſter, pleaſantly ſeated on the river Blackwater, 31 miles NW. of Dublin.

KELLS, a town of Kilkenny, in Leinſter, 64 miles SW. of Dublin.

Kells, a river and village of Antrim, in Ulſter, 89 miles from Dublin.

Kellum, St. Shropſ. S. of Hales Owen.

Kellymount, in Kilkenny, Leinſter. Kellyſtown, in Carlow, Leinſter, on the E. ſide of the river Barrow.

Kelmeſham, Worc. N. of Tewkeſbury. Kelnſey, Yorkſ. E. Riding, near Spurn Head. Kelſal, 6 miles NE. of Cheſter. Kelſey, Linc. near N. Kelſey. Kelſey, N. Linc. W. of Thongcaſter. Kelſhull, Herts, near Royſton.

KELSO, a handſome and populous town of Roxburghſhire, containing a large market place, it's principal, with 2 ſmall ſtreets, about 376 houſes, and 3550 inhabitants. It has ſome manufactures of flannels, linen, ſtockings, and ſhoes. It is governed by a baron baily, and 15 ſtent maſters, who have authority to levy a ſtent,

ſent, or rate, on the inhabitants, for the ſupply of water, repairing the ſtreets, &c. the former of whom, and 7 of the latter, are appointed by the duke of Roxburgh, who is lord of the manor. The celebrated and magnificent abbey, the ruins of which ſtill remain, was founded by David I. in 1128. The environs of it are very agreeable. From the Chalkheugh is a beautiful view of the forks of the rivers, Roxburgh Hill, Springwood Park, and the Fleurs. From Pinnacle Hill is ſeen a vaſt extent of country, highly cultivated, watered by long reaches of the Tweed, and well wooded on each margin. Much wheat is raiſed in this neighbourhood, and the fleeces of the ſheep are remarkably fine. Kelſo has a good market for corn, and is ſituated on the river Tweed, over which it has a handſome bridge of 6 arches, at it's conflux with the Tiviot, 20 miles SW. of Berwick, and 42 SSE. of Edinburgh.

Kelſterne, Linc. W. of Louth. Keltharp, Rutl. in Ketton pariſh. Kelton, Cambridgeſ. in Lamplugh pariſh. Kelton, Yorkſ. N. Riding, W. of Rombaldkirk.

*KELVEDON, KELDON, KILDANE, or EASTERFORD, a town of Eſſex, 3 miles from Witham, and 41 from London, on the road to Colcheſter.

Kelvedon Hatch, Eſſex, S. of Ongar. Kelweſton, Somerſ. on the Avon, between Bath and Briſtol.

Kelvin, a river of Londonderry, in Ulſter, which runs into the Roe, about 4 miles and a half S. of Newton Limavady.

Kelyn, a river in Merioneth. which runs into the Toveryn, ſoon after it's riſe.

KEMAR, a town of Natolia, 8 miles S. of Sinob.

Kemberton, Shropſ. SW. of Sheffnal. Kemble, Wilts. near Malmſbury. Kembleſpeth Hill, Cumb. near the ſource of the Cocker. Kemſborough, Glouceſ. near Painſwick, is a very high hill, that had a caſtle, the trenches and fortifications of which are ſtill viſible. It has a delightful proſpect over the vale to Shropſhire, Worceſterſhire, Herefordſhire, and Monmouthſhire. Kemeys, Monmouthſ. W. of Weaſe Wood. Kemeys Commander, Monmouthſ. NW. of Uſk. Kemingham, Norf. Kemlet, or Camlet, a river in Shropſhire. Kemlet, a river in Denbighſ. Kemmerton, Glouc. NE. of Tewkeſbury, has a quarry of free-ſtone, and ſeveral petrifying ſprings. On Kemmerton Hill is a large camp, of a triangular ſhape, containing 21 acres. On being ploughed, a few years ſince, ſeveral Daniſh implements were found here.

Kempbank, Yorkſhire, W. Riding, near Templeborough.

KEMPEN, a town of Cologne.

Kempley, Glouceſ. 4 miles from Roſs. Kempsford, Glouceſ. between Cricklade and Lechlade; the Stroud Canal is extended to this place. Kempſhot, Hants, S. of Baſingſtoke. Kempſton, SW. of Bedford. Kempſton, Norf. near Lytcham.

KEMPTEN, a town of Mentz; alſo an imperial town, and a princely abbey, founded, or repaired and enriched, by Hildegard, wife of Charlemagne, in the 8th century, on the Iler, to which belong ſeveral towns and villages; both in Suabia.

Kempthorn, Devonſ. in Clawton pariſh. Kempton, Shropſ. near Purſlow. Kempton, Herts, anciently called Huckinhanger, NW. of Digſwell, near the ſource of the Kime. Kemſcot, Oxf. between Radcot Bridge and Lechlade. Kemſey, Worc. on the E. ſide of the Severn, below Worceſter. Kemſing, Kent, W. of Wrotham. Kemſley Downs, Kent, near Milton. Ken, Somerſ. between Kingſwood and Clevedon. Ken, a river of Devonſ. that runs into the Ex, below Exeter.

KEN, or KAN, a river of Weſtmorland, which riſes about 3 miles E. of Ambleſide, flows by Kendal, and empties itſelf into the ſandy waſh of Lancaſhire, called Morcambe Bay. It has a cataract near it's mouth, which renders it incapable of navigation; ſo that the town of Milthrop, ſituated on a little creek, near the mouth of the Ken, is the only port of Weſtmorland; and this is capable of receiving very ſmall veſſels only, by which the fine Weſtmorland ſlates, hams, and other articles are exported.

KEN, a river of Scotland, which riſes in the SW. part of Dumfrieſſhire, flows, in a ſoutherly direction, by the Dalrry, the town of New Galloway, &c. in Kirkcudbrightſhire, below which laſt it expands into a fine lake, about 4 miles in length and 1 in breadth, called Kenmoor Loch. Here it is joined by the river Dee.

Kenagh, in Longford, Leinſter.

Kenchester, 3 miles W. of Hereford, on the river Ine. Kenchurch, Heref. Kencomb, Dorſetſ. SE. of Beminſter. Kencot, Oxfordſhire, W. of Bampton.

*KENDAL, alſo called KIRBY CANDALE, (that is, a Church in a Valley) a handſome town of Weſtmorland, the largeſt in the county, and much ſuperior to Appleby, in trade, wealth, buildings, and population. It has been long noted for it's woollen manufactories; particularly knit ſtockings, a thick ſtuff, called cottons, cottons, for the clothing of the people in the Weſt Indies, and for ſailors' jackets, and linſey woolſey. There is likewiſe a conſiderable tannery: and fiſh-hooks, waſte ſilk, and wool-cards are manufactured here. The mills for ſcouring, fulling, and frizing cloth; and for cutting and raſping dying-wood, &c. are well worth ſeeing. So early as the reigns of Richard II. and Henry IV. Kendal was noted for it's manufactures, ſpecial laws having been enacted in thoſe reigns, for the better regulation of the Kendal cloths; and ſuch has been the ſpirit and induſtry of the inhabitants, that they have continued to flouriſh ever ſince, notwithſtanding the diſadvantage of poſſeſſing no water carriage. Kendal is pleaſantly ſeated in a valley, among hills, upon the river Kent, or Kant, over which it has two ſtone bridges, and one of wood, with a harbour for boats, and communicating, by a canal, with all the late inland navigations, 46 miles S. of Carliſle, and 259 NNW. of London. Market on Saturday.

Kendalſhire, Glouceſ. in Weſterleigh pariſh. Kenelm, Staffordſ. near Clent.

KENELWORTH, or KILLINGWORTH, Warwickſh. SW. of Coventry. It had formerly a caſtle, encompaſſed with a chace and park, that was the glory of all this part of England. Here the Earl of Leiceſter entertained Queen Elizabeth and her whole court, in a moſt gay and ſplendid manner, with a great variety and magnificence of feaſts and ſhows, for 17 days conſecutive. It was demoliſhed in the civil wars. Market on Wedneſday.

Kenford, Devonſhire, near Powderham Caſtle. A great thoroughfare on the Ken. Kenford, Suffolk, near Newmarket. Kengwick, W. of Worceſter. Keningal, Norfolk, SE. of E. Harling. Kenley, Shropſ. near Wenlock.

KENMARE, a town of Kerry, in Munſter, ſituated at the mouth of a river of the ſame name, 12 miles S. of Killarney, and 155 SW. of Dublin.

KENMARE RIVER, on the SW. ſide of Kerry, in Munſter, is about 20 miles long and 3 broad. It affords a ſafe and capacious harbour, but little frequented.

Kennardington, Kent, near Appledore. Kenne, Devonſhire, near Exeter.

KENNEBEK, a river which riſes in the NW. part of the province of Main, in New England; and, flowing in a ſouthern direction, falls into the Atlantic Ocean, between the Bays of Caſco and Penobſcot, on the coaſt of the ſame province.

Kennedn, Devonſ. in Sherford pariſh. Kennegy, Cornwall, near Penzance. Kennerley, Devonſhire, near Crediton.

KENNET, a river celebrated by Pope, as, "The Kennet ſwift, for ſilver eels renown'd." It riſes about 4 miles from Marlborough, in Wilts, paſſes by Marlborough, Hungerford, &c. to Newbury, in Berks, where it has been made navigable. It joins the Thames, a little below Reading.

Kennet, E. and Little, Wilts. on Marlborough Downs, near the ſource of the river Kennet. Kennington, a village of Surry, one of the eight precincts of Lambeth. Near it is an extenſive common, noted (till of late) for the execution of malefactors for the county of Surry. Kennington, Kent, near Aſhford. Kennington, Berks, in Radley pariſh, 1 mile S. of Oxford. Kenſey, a ſmall river in Cornwall. Kenſington, a village of Middleſex, 2 miles W. of Hyde Park Corner, London. Here is a royal palace, with very extenſive gardens, (originally deſigned by Kent, and much improved, of late, by Browne) which have become a very faſhionable promenade for the beau monde. Kenſworth, Herts, E. of Studham.

KENT, a county of England, bounded on the W. and SW. by Surry and Suſſex; on the N. by the Thames; on the E. and SE. by the German Ocean and the Straits of Dover; and on the S. by Suſſex and the Engliſh Channel. From E. to W. it is about 58 miles, and from N. to S. from 30 to 36. It is divided into five lathes, under each of which are ſeveral hundreds, which contain 2 cities, 39 market towns, 408 pariſh churches, 1180 villages, near 40,000 houſes, and about 220,000 inhabitants. In the ſoil and face of the country, there is great diverſity. The banks of the Thames are low and marſhy, but backed by a range of chalky eminences, ſometimes riſing to a moderate height. This kind of hard, chalky ſoil, inclining to barrenneſs, extends to the NE. extremity of the county, and thence round to Dover, exhibiting it's nature in the lofty white cliffs, which here bound the iſland, and produce that ſtriking appearance at ſea which probably gave it the name of Albion. The S. part of Kent, called the Weald, is a flat, woody tract, of a clayey ſoil; fertile, but unwholeſome on account of it's moiſture. It terminates in the great Marſh of Romney. The midland and weſtern diſtricts are a happy mixture of hill and vale, arable and paſture, equal in pleaſantneſs, and variety of products, to any part of England. This county produces, beſide beſide the uſual objects of agriculture, large quantities of hops; fruit of various kinds, eſpecially cherries and apples, of which there are large orchards for the London markets; madder for dying; timber in the woody parts; and birch twigs for brooms, which form no inconſiderable article of commerce for the metropolis. The country inland from Dover, conſiſting chiefly of open downs, is excellent for feeding of ſheep; and many bullocks are fattened to an extraordinary ſize in Romney Marſh. It's manufactures are but trifling. The principal rivers, beſide the Thames, are the Medway, Darent, Stour, Cray, and Rother. Maidſtone is the county town.

KENT, a county of N. America, in the reſpective ſtates of Maryland, Delaware, Rhode Iſland, and Connecticut.

KENTAIFFE, MOUNT, a ridge of mountains in the S. of Thibet, bordering on Hindooſtan Proper. On the W. ſide of this ridge are the two heads of the Ganges, and from it's E. ſide iſſues the Sanpoo, or Burrampooter.

Kentbridge, Kent, NW. of Rye. Kentbury, Berks, SE. of Hungerford. Kentcomb, Higher and Lower, Dorſetſ. NW. of Great Tollet. Kentditch, Suſſex, NE. of Rye. Kentes, Eſſex. SE. of Rochford. Kent Green, Cheſhire, E. of Sandbach. Kenthatch, Kent, S. of Weſtram. Kentiſbear, Devonſ. on the river Culm, E. of Columbton. Kenteſbury, Devonſ. on St. George's Channel, W. of Porlock. Kentiſh Town, Middleſex, near Hampſtead, 3 miles N. of London; much improved of late by a new chapel, and ſeveral handſome houſes. Kentmere, Weſtmorl. near Ambleſide. The river Ken riſes here, about 5 miles N. from the Chapel. Kentmere Hall is an ancient building, with a tower, ſtanding under a vaſt, craggy mountain, near the chapel, and 12 miles N. from the pariſh church. Kenton, Middleſex, a mile E. of Harrow on the Hill. Kenton, Middl. NE. of Sunbury. Kenton, Northumb. near Newcaſtle. Kenton, Devonſ. near Chudleigh. Kent Sands, Lanc. a bay in the NW. part of the county, which receives the river Ken, but has ſuch dangerous quickſands, that it cannot be croſſed, at low water, without the aſſiſtance of a guide, who is kept there at the public expence.

KENTSINGUEN, a town of Suabia, in the Briſgau, ſituated near the E. ſide of the Rhine, 13 miles NW. of Friburg.

KENTUCKY, a country of N. America, ſituated in it's central part, near the lat. of 38° 0' N. and 85. 0. W. lon. It is bounded on the N. and NW. by the Ohio, on the E. by Virginia; on the S. by the Tenaſſee State, including the country of the Upper Cherokees; and on the W. and SW. by the Miſſiſſippi and the Cherokee River. It is about 300 miles in length from E. to W. and from 20 to 150 in breadth from N. to S. and is at preſent divided into 9 counties, 7 of which are Lincoln, Fayette, Bourbon, Mercer, Jefferſon, Nelſon, and Maddiſon. The principal rivers are the Ohio, the Kentucky, the Licking River, the Red River, the Elkhorn, Dick's River, Green River, Salt River, Cumberland, and the Great Kenhaway, or New River. Theſe are all navigable for boats almoſt to their ſources, without rapids, for the greateſt part of the year. This country is generally level, and abounds with limeſtone. The ſprings and ſtreams leſſen in June, and continue low, hindering navigation, until November, when the autumnal rains prepare the rivers for boats, and repleniſh the whole country with water. The ſoil is amazingly fertile; the inhabitants diſtinguiſh it's quality by firſt, ſecond, and third rate lands; and ſcarcely any ſuch thing as a marſh or ſwamp is to be found. This country has a more temperate and healthy climate than the other ſettled parts of America. The winter is ſhort, and ſnow ſeldom falls deep, or lies long. The W. winds often bring ſtorms, and the E. winds clear the ſky; but there is no ſteady rule of weather in that reſpect, as in the northern ſtates. The W. winds are ſometimes cold; but the weather, even then, is not ſo intenſely ſevere as theſe winds are in Pennſylvania. The country, in general, may be conſidered as well timbered, producing large trees of many kinds, and exceeded by no country in variety. Thoſe which are peculiar to Kentucky, are the ſugar-maple, which grows in all parts in great plenty, and furniſhes every family with plenty of excellent ſugar; and the honey-locuſt, which is curiouſly ſurrounded with large thorny ſpikes, bearing broad and long pods, in form of peas, has a ſweet taſte, and makes excellent beer. Here are alſo the coffee-tree, which greatly reſembles the black oak, grows large, and alſo bears a pod, in which is incloſed coffee: the papwa-tree, which does not grow to a great ſize, is a ſoft wood, bears a fine fruit; much like a cucumber in ſhape and ſize, and taſtes ſweet; black mulberry-trees in abundance; the wild-cherry-tree, which is of a large ſize, and ſupplies the inhabitants with boards for all their buildings; the buck-eye, a very ſoft wood, wood, bearing a remarkably black fruit; and ſome other kinds of trees not common elſewhere. Here is great plenty of fine cane, on which the cattle feed, and grow fat: and the cane-brakes are ſo thick and tall, that it is difficult to paſs through them. Where no cane grows, there is abundance of wild rye, clover, and buffalo-graſs, covering vaſt tracts of country, and affording excellent food for cattle. The fields are covered with abundance of wild herbage, not common to other countries. The Shawaneſe ſallad, wild lettuce, pepper-graſs, and many more, as yet unknown to the inhabitants, but which, no doubt, have excellent virtues. Here are ſeen the fineſt crown-imperials in the world; the cardinal-flower, ſo much extolled for it's ſcarlet colour; and all the year, excepting the winter months, the plains and valleys are adorned with variety of flowers of the moſt admirable beauty. Here is alſo found the tulip-bearing laurel-tree, or magnola, which has an exquiſite ſmell, and continues to bloſſom and ſeed for ſeveral months together. Iron ore and lead are found in abundance, but we do not hear of any ſilver or gold mines. The weſtern waters produce plenty of fiſh and fowl. The fiſh, common to the Ohio, are the buffalo-fiſh, of a large ſize, and cat-fiſh, ſometimes exceeding one hundred weight. Trout have been taken in Kentucky River, weighing 30 pounds weight. The mullet, rock, perch, gar-fiſh, and eel, are here in plenty. Suckers, ſun-fiſh, and other hook-fiſh, are abundant. On theſe waters, and eſpecially on the Ohio, the geeſe and ducks are amazingly numerous. The land-fowls are turkeys; a ſpecies of grouſe, which the inhabitants call pheaſants; and quails, to which they give the name of partridges. Here likewiſe is the parroquet, a bird every way reſembling a parrot, but much ſmaller; and the ivory-bill woodcock, of a whitiſh colour, with a white plume. It flies ſcreaming exceedingly ſharp; and it is aſſerted, that it's bill is pure ivory, a circumſtance very ſingular in the plumy tribe. Here alſo is the great owl, reſembling it's kind in other parts, but remarkably different in it's vociferation, ſometimes making a ſtrange, ſurpriſing noiſe, like a man in the moſt extreme danger and difficulty. Serpents are not numerous, and are ſuch as are to be found in other parts of the continent, except the bull, the horned, and the mockaſon ſnakes. Among the native animals, is the buffalo, much reſembling a large bull, of a great ſize, with a large head, thick, ſhort, crooked horns, and broader in his forepart than behind. Upon his ſhoulder is a large lump of fleſh, covered with a thick boſs of long wool and curly hair, of a dark brown colour. They do not riſe from the ground as our cattle, but ſpring up at once upon their feet; are of a broad make, and clumſy appearance, with ſhort legs, but run faſt, and ſcarcely turn aſide for any thing when chaſed. They weigh from five to ten hundred weight, are excellent meat, ſupplying the inhabitants, in many parts, with beef, and their hides make good leather. They are innocent, harmleſs creatures. There are ſtill to be found many deer, elks, and bears. There are alſo panthers, wild cats, and wolves. The waters have plenty of beavers, otters, minks, and muſk-rats; nor are the animals common to other parts wanting, ſuch as foxes, rabbits, ſquirrels, racoons, ground-hogs, polecats, and opoſſums. Moſt of the ſpecies of the domeſtic quadrupeds have been introduced ſince the ſettlement; ſuch as horſes, cows, ſheep, and hogs, which are prodigiouſly multiplied, ſuffered to run in the woods without a keeper, and only brought home when wanted. Many caves are found in this country amazingly large; in ſome of which a perſon may travel ſeveral miles under a fine limeſtone rock, ſupported by curious arches and pillars; in moſt of them runs a ſtream of water. Kentucky was purchaſed by the ſtate of Virginia, of the Indians, in 1775, and formed into an independent ſtate in 1792. In 1790, the number of inhabitants was 73,677, and from it's rapid increaſe in population, may now probably be eſtimated at 200,000. There are many conſiderable towns, the principal of which are Lexington and Waſhington.

KENTUCKY, a river of N. America, which riſes with three heads, about 18 miles to the NW. of the Laurel Mountains, in the ſtate to which it gives name. One branch, called the North Fork, riſes in lat. 37. 5. N. and 82. 40. W.; another, called the South Fork, riſes about 45 miles to the W. of the North Fork; and a third branch, called the Middle Fork, riſes between the other two. Theſe branches unite together near Franklinville, and the united ſtream, taking a NW. courſe, falls into the Ohio, in lat. 38. 35. N. and lon. 85. 30. W. Among the natural curioſities of the country, are the winding banks of this river, and of that called Dick's River. They are rather precipices than banks; for, almoſt every where, the aſtoniſhed obſerver beholds three or four hundred feet of a ſolid, perpendicular pendicular, limeſtone rock; in ſome parts a fine white marble, either curiouſly arched, pillared, or blocked up into fine building ſtones. Theſe precipices are like the ſides of a deep trench, or canal; the land above being level, except where creeks ſet in, and crowned with fine groves of red cedar. It is only at particular places that this river can be croſſed, one of which is worthy of admiration; a great road, large enough for waggons, made by the buffalo, ſloping, with an eaſy deſcent, from the top to the bottom of a very large ſteep hill, at or near the river above Leeſtown.

Kenvil, Surry, near Woking. Kenward, Suſſex, near Cuckfield. Kenwick, Shropſ. W. of Wem. Kenwyne, Cornwall, N. of Truro.

KEOWE, a town of S. Carolina, ſituated on a river of the ſame name, (which riſes in the Nunic Mountains, and empties itſelf into the river Broad at Peterſburg) 53 miles NW. of Peterſburg.

Kepeyre, on the Wear, near Durham. Kepik, Northumb. S. of Chollerton.

KEPPEL ISLANDS, a group of iſlands, near the NE. coaſt of New Holland, before Keppel's Bay.

Kepperuham, Hants, near Stockbridge. Kepwick, Yorkſ. E. of Northallerton. Kerbrough, Yorkſ. SE. of Giſborn.

KERCOLANG, an iſland in the Eaſtern Indian Ocean, about 20 miles in circumference. The face of the country ſeems to be ſteep hills and extenſive valleys, and every part to be covered with trees and verdure, with ſome pleaſant, cultivated grounds. The houſes ſtand on poſts, and appear to be well built, and neatly thatched. Their fiſhing hooks and lines are moſtly European; and the inhabitants are Malays. Their clothing, in general, is made of a coarſe kind of calico, though ſome wear ſilk; moſt of them have a kind of turban round their head; and a few have been ſeen with a Chineſe pointed hat. Lat. 4. 28. N. lon. 126. 31. E.

Kergo, Cornwall, W. of Columb.

KERGUELEN'S LAND, an iſland in the South Pacific Ocean, (firſt diſcovered by M. Kerguelen, a Frenchman) viſited by Capt. Cook, in 1779, which, from it's ſterility, has been called the Iſland of Deſolation. No place hitherto diſcovered, in either hemiſphere, affords ſo ſcanty a field for the naturaliſt as this ſpot. Some verdure, indeed, appeared when at a ſmall diſtance from the ſhore, which might raiſe the expectation of meeting with a little herbage; but all this lively appearance was occaſioned by one ſmall plant, reſembling ſaxifrage, which grew upon the hills in large ſpreading tufts, in a kind of rotten turf, which, if dried, might ſerve for fuel, and was the only thing ſeen here that could poſſibly be applied to that purpoſe. A few amphibious animals were diſcovered. Lat. 49. 20. S. lon. 69. 37. E.

Kering, a river in Denbighſhire, which runs into the Dee, between Chirk and Byſtock, about 5 miles S. of Wrexham. Kering, a river in Merionethſhire, which runs into the Dovy near Llanworing.

KERMAN, a province of Perſia, bounded on the N. by Segeſtan, and a part of Koraſan; on the E. by Mecran; on the S. by the Perſian Gulf; and on the W. by Farſiſtan. The northern part is barren, and nearly deſert, without rivers or brooks, and the air unhealthy. Towards the S. the air is more pure and the land fertile. The Guebres are numerous, who are chiefly employed in manufactures of ſtuffs and ſilk. Here are ſome mines of copper, lead, and iron; alſo ſheep, which loſe their fleeces in ſpring, and become as naked as ſucking pigs; the inhabitants drive a great trade in their wool. Sirgian is the capital.

Kern, Iſle of Wight, in E. Medina. Kernbray, or Carnbarrah, Cornw. near the Land's End. Kernbridge, Cornwall, near Kellington. Kerneth, Cornwall, NE. of Tregony. Kenmarge Beacon, Cornwall, SW. of Redruth. Kernſew, Cornwall, NW. of Penryn.

KERPEN, a town, capital of a county of Weſtphalia, 10 miles ESE. of Juliers.

KERRY, a county of Ireland, in the province of Munſter, bounded on the W. by the Atlantic Ocean; on the N. by the river Shannon; on the E. by the counties of Limerick and Cork; and on the S. by a part of Cork and the ocean. It is about 54 miles long, and from 18 to 40 broad. It poſſeſſes many fine harbours, and the ſouthern diſtrict is plain and fertile, but a large part of it is full of mountains, almoſt inacceſſible, ſo that little corn is produced, and grazing is more attended to. Conſiderable quantities of beef, butter, hides, and tallow are exported. It contains 84 pariſhes, about 19,400 houſes, and 107,000 inhabitants. Iron ore is to be had in moſt of the ſouthern baronies, and here are ſeveral ſpas, or medicinal ſprings. The principal rivers are the Blackwater, Feal, Gale and Brick, Caſh in Mang, Lea, Fleſk, Laune, Carrin, Farthin, Finny, and Roughty. The county town is Tralee.

Kerſal, Nottinghamſhire, near Beſtthorp.

KERSHAW, a county of S. Carolina.

Kerwent, Monm. 5 miles from Chepſtow, where a Roman taſſelated pavement, in in high preſervation, is incloſed with walls, to prevent injury to it. The colours are incomparably brilliant. Kery, a river in Cardiganſhire, which runs into the Tivy at Kilgwyn, about 7 miles above Cardigan. Kerſtall, Yorkſ. NW. of Leeds. Kefgrave, Suffolk, between Woodbridge and Ipſwich.

KESROAN, a chain of mountains in Aſia, on the coaſt of Syria, which makes a part of Mount Libanus. It is one of the moſt pleaſant and fertile countries in the Eaſt.

KESSEL, a town of Pruſſian Guelderland, with a caſtle, ſeated on the W. ſide of the river Maeſe, 7 miles N. of Ruremond.

KESSEL SEE, a lake of Carinthia.

KESSELDORF, a town of Meiſſen, in Upper Saxony, 7 miles W. of Dreſden.

Keſſilgum, a river in Merionethſhire, which runs into the Avon below Kimner Abbey, about 2 miles below Dolgelly. Keſſingland, Suffolk, near Benacre.

KESTEVEN, one of the three diviſions of Lincolnſhire, containing the weſtern part of the county, from the middle to the ſouthern extremity. It poſſeſſes variety of ſoil; but, on the whole, though intermixed with large heaths, is a fertile country. Part of the fens of Lincolnſhire are in this diſtrict; the air of which, however, is more ſalubrious than that of the diſtrict of Holland; and the ſoil, moreover, is more fruitful.

Keſtle, Cornwall, near Helford Haven. Keſton, Huntingd. NW. of Kimbolton. Keſton, Kent, 5 miles from Bromley, and 14 from London. At Holwood Hill, in this pariſh, are the remains of a large and ſtrong fortification, probably a Roman one, of an oblong form; the area of which is partly incloſed with rampires and double ditches, of a great height and depth. It is near 2 miles in circumference, and incloſes near 100 acres of ground. A path deſcends from the camp to the ſpring head of the river Ravenſbourn. This river flows hence through Bromley and Hayes to Beckenham and Lewiſham, and croſſing the great road at Deptford Bridge, falls into the Thames a little below. Keſtwell, Cornw. near Padſtow Haven. Kell, Abbots and Kings, Devonſh. E and SE. of Aſhburton.

*KESWICK, a ſmall but neat and well-built town of Cumberland, conſiſting of one long ſtreet. It has conſiderable manufactures of woollen ſtuffs, flannels, duffels, &c. and is pleaſantly ſeated in a beautiful and extenſive vale, ſurrounded by hills, through which flows the Derwent, 25 miles NW. by N. of Kendal, and 287 NNW of London. Market on Saturday.

KESWICK, VALE OF, a romantic ſpot, in the ſouthern part of Cumberland, lately much viſited by the admirers of beautiful ſcenes in nature. Here is the Lake of Keſwick, or more properly, the Lake of Derwent Water. To the N. of this romantic piece of water, ſoars the lofty mountain Skiddaw, near the foot of which is Baſingthwaite Water. To the S. are the craggy hills of Borrowdale, where the eagles build their neſts, and whence the Derwent derives it's ſupplies of water. See BORROWDALE, BASINGTHWAITE, DERWENT WATER, and SKIDDAW.

Keſwick, SW. of Norwich. Keſwick, Yorkſ. SW. of Wetherby. Keſworth, Dorſetſhire, near Wareham, Ket's Cary Houſe, Kent, near Aylesford. Ketheringham, Norfolk, near Windham. Ketterick-ſwart, Yorkſ. N. Riding, near Catterick Bridge.

*KETTERING, a handſome, populous, trading town, in Northamptonſhire, with manufactures of lace, ſhalloons, ſerges, tammies, &c. in which near 2000 hands are ſaid to be employed. It has a ſeſſions houſe for the county, and is ſeated on a river that runs into the Nen, 12 miles NE. of Northampton, and 75 NW. of London. Market on Friday.

Kettlebaſton, Suffolk, on the river Breton, near Bilſton. This manor is held by the ſervice of carrying a golden ſceptre, with a dove on it, at the king's coronation, and an ivory ſceptre, with a golden dove, at the coronation of the queen. Kettleborough, Suffolk, S. of Framlingham. Kettleby, Linc. W. of Alford, near Glandford Bridge. Kettleſdale Spring, Yorkſ. W. Riding, near Kirby Lonſeale. Kettleſmed, Yorkſ. NW. of Rippon. Kettleſmere, Yorkſ. SW. of Maſham. Kettleſton, Norfolk, between Fakenham and Holt. Kettlethorp, near the Foſſdyke, NW of Lincoln. Kettlewell, Yorkſ. W. Riding, lies under a hill, between Langſheth dale Chaſe and Netherdale. Ketton, Durh. on the Skern, N. of Darlington. Kettor Linc. 2 miles from Stamford. Kettor Rutland, on a rivulet that runs into th Welland, near Tinewell. A certain re is collected here, annually, from the inha bitants, of 2s. pro ocreis reginæ, i. e. fo the queen's boots, though we do not rea of any who ever wore them. It's churc is remarkably neat, having the form o little cathedral. Kevenny, or Gevenny, river in Monmouthſhire, which runs int the Uſk at Abergavenny. Kevery, a rive il

in Angleſey, which iſſues from the high hills N. of Coydana, and runs into the Iriſh Channel, on the SW. ſide of the iſland, 2¼ miles W. of Newburgh. Keverdale, Lanc. E. of the Ribble, oppoſite to Preſton. Keverel, Cornwall, near St. Germain's. Kevern, St. Cornw. on the SW. ſide of Falmouth Haven. Kevernal, 5 miles S. of Hereford. Kevil, Wilts, E. of Trowbridge. Kevington, Kent, in St. Mary Cray pariſh. Kew, a village of Surry, on the banks of the Thames, oppoſite to Old Brentford, and about 7 miles W. by S. of London. On it's green is Kew Houſe, a royal palace, celebrated for it's fine gardens, and the king's exotic garden. The laſt has been brought to great perfection by the introduction of many new plants from Africa and New South Wales; and is known throughout all Europe, by the late Mr. Aiton's Hortus Kewenſis. The palace was formerly the ſeat of Mr. Molineux, ſecretary to the late king (George II.) when prince of Wales, but afterwards became the reſidence of the late prince and princeſs of Wales, who greatly improved both the houſe and gardens. His preſent majeſty, alſo, has conſiderably enlarged the gardens, and formed a junction with them and Richmond gardens. From Kew to Brentford is a very elegant ſtone bridge, of 7 arches, over the Thames, built in 1789, from a deſign of the late Mr. Paine. Kewe, St. Cornw. near Penzance. Kewe, St. Cornw. between Camelford and Padſtow Haven. Kewſtock, Somerſ. on the Briſtol Channel, between Uphill and Woodſpring. Kexby, Linc. on the Trent, SE. of Gainſborough. Kexby, E. of York, near the Derwent.

KEXHOLM, a town of the Ruſſian empire, in the government of Wiburg, ſeated on two ſmall iſlands of the river Woxen, which here falls into the Lake Ladoga. The houſes are built with wood; it is not very large, but near it is a conſiderable ſalmon fiſhery. It is 67 miles N. of Peterſburgh. Lat. 61. 3. N. lon. 30. 25. E.

Key, Cornw. at the head of Falmouth Haven. Keyaels, Wilts, near Caſtlecomb. Keyſham, Glouceſ. in Woollaſton pariſh.

KEYNSHAM, (proverbially called SMOKY, i. e. foggy) a town of Somerſetſhire, the chief trade of which is malting. In the neighbourhood is a quarry, where ſtones are often found of a ſerpentine form, but without the repreſentation of a head. Every year, in the ſpring, the river here ſwarms with millions of little eels, ſcarcely as big as gooſe quills, which the inhabitants catch, on the top of the water, with ſmall nets, and ſcowering off their ſkins, by an art which they have, make them into cakes, (reckoned here a dainty) which they fry and eat. It is a great thoroughfare, on the lower road, between Bath and Briſtol, and is ſeated on the river Avon, over which it has a bridge of 15 arches, (and another bridge over the Chew) 5 miles SE. of Briſtol and 115 W. of London. Market on Thurſday.

Keynton, Shropſh. NW. of Newport. Keynton, Little, Dorſetſ. in Stower Weſtover pariſh. Keynton, St. Michael's, Wilts, E. of Caſtlecomb. Keynton, Weſt, Wilts, W. of Caſtlecomb. Keyworth, SE. of Nottingham. Keyſworth, Dorſetſ. 2 miles NE. of Wareham.

KHARKOF, a government of the Ruſſian empire, bounded on the N. by Kurſk, on the E. by Voronetz, and on the S. by Ekaterinoſlav. It's capital, of the ſame name, is ſeated on the river Uda, which falls into the river Donetz, 352 miles S. of Moſcow.

KHERSON, or CHERSON. See CHERSON.

KIAKING, a city of China, of the firſt rank, in the province of Tchekiang. Canals are cut through all parts of the city, and in all the ſtreets there are piazzas, to walk under, free from rain. There are many triumphal arches, both within and without the city, and 15 marble towers, on the ſides of the canal, by which all the barks paſs. There is ſcarcely a houſe where they do not breed ſilkworms. It is 590 miles SSE. of Pekin.

KIANG MAN, a province of China, bounded on the N. by Chantong; on the E. by the Gulf of Nanquin; on the S. by Tchekiang and Kiang-Si; and on the W. by Honan and Hon-Quang. It contains 14 cities of the firſt rank, and 93 of the ſecond and third, which are very populous, and of the greateſt note for trade in the empire. It is the rendezvous of all the great barks, being full of lakes, rivers, and canals; and their ſilks, japanned goods, ink, and paper, are in high eſteem. In the city of Changhi only, there are 200,000 weavers of plain cottons and muſlins. Nanking in the capital.

KIANG-SI, a province of China, bounded on the N. by Kiang-Nan; on the S. by Quantong; on the W. by Hon-Quang; and on the E. by Fokien and Tchekiang. The mountains, with which the province is ſurrounded, are either covered with wood, or famous for their minerals, ſimples, and medicinal plants. It's ſoil is very rich and fertile, being well watered by brooks, lakes, and rivers, which abound with fish; and there are mines of gold, silver, lead, iron, and tin. The rice and arrack here are excellent; but it is more particularly noted for it's fine porcelain, which is made at Kiang-Teching.

KIANGTCHEOU, a city of China, of the second rank, in the province of Chansi. It is 300 miles SW. of Pekin.

Kibberd, Cornwall, SW. of Columb. Kibblesworth, Durham, in Lamsley parish.

KIBURG, a town of Zurich.

Kibworth Beauchamp. Leic. NW. of Hallaton. Kicklow, Cornw. SW. of Truro. Kickfend, Middl. near Barnet. Kidal, Yorkf. near Aberforth. Kidbrook Hall, Suffex, 2 miles from East Grinsted. Kiddemore Green, Staffordf. near Brewood.

*KIDDERMINSTER, a town of Worcestershire, the principal manufacturing place in the county, and long celebrated for it's different manufactures of woollens, carpets, poplins, crapes, bombazeens, &c. The inhabitants are about 5800. It's former trade of stuffs, however, is much declined, on account of the general use of cotton goods; but it's carpet manufactory has greatly increased; and it is still the first market in England for pile, or plush carpets, which, for beauty of colour and patterns, exceed any other. These are frequently called Wilton, from having been first made at that town; but, at present, by much the greater part are made at Kidderminster. The silk and worsted trades have also been introduced here and employ about 2000 hands. The goods go chiefly to Portugal, and their carriage has been much facilitated by the late canal communications. It is seated under a hill, on the river Stour, 14 miles SE. of Bridgenorth, and 125 NW. of London. Market on Thursday.

Kiddesley Park, Derbf. S. of Alfreton. Kiddington, Cheshire, near Malpas. Kiddington, Oxfordf. 4 miles from Woodstock, on the river Glym, which divides the parish in two parts. The chancel of it's church is in the Saxon or Norman style, with a zig zag arch behind the altar. In the garden of the manor house, is an antique font, brought from Edward the Confessor's chapel, at Islip, and wherein, as some say, he received baptism. In Hill Wood, near this place, is a Roman encampment, in extraordinary preservation, but little noticed. Kiderrew, Staff. near Talk.

KIDWELLY, a town of Carmarthenshire, noted formerly for the clothing trade. Here is a castle, the very large remains of which, extremely well preserved, shew it to have been very stately and magnificent. A canal has been cut from hence to some collieries at Pwyllgod, about 4 miles distant, whence coal is brought down and exported. It is situated on the Gwandrath Vach, a branch of the Towy, which empties itself into that river, at it's efflux into the Bristol Channel, 9 miles S. of Carmarthen, and 224 W. by N. of London. Markets on Wednesday and Saturday. Fairs on May 24, July 22, and October 29.

KIEL, a rich and considerable town of Germany, capital of Ruffian Holstein, containing a university, a college or gymnasium, 3 churches, and about 800 houses. It stands upon a small peninsula, in a bay of the Baltic, and has a very commodious harbour for ships of the largest size. It is already one of the most commercial places in Holstein; and it's trade will be still further augmented, as the inland navigation across the peninsula is now finished. By this navigation it is proposed to unite the Northern Sea with the Baltic; and it has been formed across Danish Holstein by the Canal of Kiel, and the river Eyder which passes by Rendsburgh, and falls into the German Ocean at Tonningen. This canal was begun in 1777, and has been lately finished, and opened for navigation. Kiel is 46 miles N. of Hamburg.

KIGHLEY, a town in the W. Riding of Yorkshire, seated in a valley surrounded by hills, at the meeting of two brooks which fall into the river Aire, a mile below. It communicates with all the late inland navigations, and is 6 miles SE. of Skipton, in Craven.

Kilabrabar, in Cork, Munster.

Kilbarchan, Renfrewshire, 5 miles SW of Renfrew.

*KILBEGGAN, a town of West Meath in Leinster, seated on the river Brosna, 4 miles W. of Dublin.

Kilberry, in Kildare, Leinster. Kilbix in West Meath, Leinster. Kilbolane, Cork, Munster.

Kilborn, Middl. in Hampstead parish.

KILBRIDE, a town of Lanerkshire, miles W. of Hamilton.

Kilbritton, in Cork, Munster. Kilbr ney, near Rose Trevor, in Down, Ulster.

Kilburn, Derbysh. between Derby a Alfreton. Kilburn, Upper and Low Yorkf. N. Riding, 1 mile from Coxwol Kilby, Leicef. W. of Hallaton. Kilcha Lancashire, 6. of Leigh.

Kilclaran, in Kildare, Leinster.

*KILCOCK, a town of Kildare, Leinster, seated on a branch of the ri Liffey, 14 miles W. of Dublin.

Kilcoe, in Cork, Munster. Kilcoo

in Cavan, Ulſter. Kilconnel, in Galway, Connaught. Kilcool, in Wicklow, Leinſter, 16 miles from Dublin. Kilcooly, in Tipperary, Munſter. Kilcorban, in Galway, Connaught. Kilcorkey, in Roſcommon, Connaught.

Kilcot, Glouceſ. in Hawkeſbury pariſh. Kilcot, Glouceſ. in Newent pariſh.

Kilcrijt, in Galway, Connaught. Kilcreban, in Kerry, Munſter.

*KILCULLEN, a town of Kildare, in Leinſter, ſeated on the river Liffey, 21 miles SW. of Dublin, on the great road between that city and Cork.

Kilcumner, in Cork, Munſter. Kilcumsan, in King's County, Leinſter.

KILDA, ST. a ſmall iſland of Scotland, one of the Hebrides, about 11 leagues W. of North Uiſt. The inhabitants live chiefly by fiſhing and catching wild fowls. In the latter employment, they are amazingly adventurous, being let down by a rope from the ſummit of high, precipitous rocks, where they clamber among the rugged cliffs, in ſearch of the eggs and nefts of various birds. But the more ſafe and common method of catching theſe fowls is, by ſpreading a large net over the face of the rock, where they lodge, in which great numbers are at once entangled, and lowered down into a boat. St. Kilda is the moſt weſterly iſland of Great Britain. Lat. 55. 48. N. lon. 8. 18. W.

Kildale, Yorkſ. E. of Stokeſley.

Kildangon, in Kildare, Leinſter.

*KILDARE, a town of Leinſter, capital of a county of the ſame name. It is chiefly ſupported by frequent horſe races, on what is called the Curragh, (a fine plain, containing upwards of 3000 acres) and is 27 miles SW. of Dublin.

KILDARE, a county in the province of Leinſter, 33 miles in length, and from 12 to 21 in breadth. It is bounded on the W. by King and Queen's County; on the N. by Meath; on the E. by Dublin and Wicklow; and on the S. by Carlow. It contains 11,200 houſes, and about 56,000 inhabitants, and is a fine, arable, fertile country, well watered by the Barrow, Liffey, Boyne, and other rivers.

Kildorery, in Cork, Munſter. Kildrogbil, in Kildare, Leinſter. Kildyſar, in Clare, Munſter. Kilevally, in W. Meath, Leinſter. Kilfanora, in Clare, Munſter, 12 miles NW. of Ennis. Kilfanny Common, in Limerick, Munſter. Kilfiacle, in Tipperary, Munſter. Kilfin, in Kerry, Munſter. Kilfinane, in Limerick, Munſter.

KILGARRAN, a town of Pembrokeſhire, ſeated on the S. ſide of the river Tyvy, 30 miles N. of Pembroke, and 227 WNW. of London. Near it is a remarkable ſalmon leap, and alſo large works for the fabricating of tin plates. Market on Wedneſday.

Kilgarth, Cornwall, W. of Weſtloo.

Kilgarvan, in Kerry, Munſter. Kilgarvan, in Weſt Meath, Leinſter. Kilglaſſan, in Mayo, Connaught. Kilgobnet, in Waterford, Munſter. Kilgola, in Cavan, Ulſter.

Kilgoruck, Monm. N. of Strogle Caſtle. Kilguth, Cornw. a ſteep, high rock, pointing into the ſea, at the Land's End, N. of Whitſand Bay.

KILHAM, a town in the E. Riding of Yorkſhire, in the Woulds. It is about 4 furlongs in length, and ſtands in a good ſoil for corn, 28 miles N. of Hull, and 200 N. of London. Market on Thurſday.

Kilholm, Yorkſhire, on the river Torre, near Doncaſter Heath.

KILIA, a town of Beſſarabia, at the mouth of the river Danube, ſituated in an iſland formed by it, 20 miles ENE. of Iſmael, and 290 NE. of Conſtantinople.

Kilkeele, in Down, Ulſter. Kilkelly, in Roſcommon, Connaught.

*KILKENNY, a populous, trading town of Ireland, capital of a county of the ſame name. It has a ſmall cathedral, is one of the neateſt towns in the kingdom, and contains about 17,000 inhabitants. The borough of St. Canice, or Iriſh Town, is joined to Engliſh Town, which is the principal, and, both together, form one large town. The manufactures chiefly carried on here, are coarſe woollen cloths, blankets of extraordinary fine quality, and conſiderable quantities of ſtarch. The houſes are decorated with a beautiful black and white marble, dug from quarries near the town, and which is cut and poliſhed by water. It is ſeated on the river Nore, over which it has two handſome bridges, 26 miles N. of Waterford, 65 NE. of Cork, and 54 SW. of Dublin. Lat. 52. 36. N. lon. 7. 18. W.

KILKENNY, a county of Ireland, in the province of Leinſter, 35 miles in length and 18 in breadth. It is bounded on the W. by Tipperary, on the N. by Queen's County; on the E. by Carlow and Wexford; and on the S. by Waterford. It contains 127 pariſhes, about 17,750 houſes, and near 100,000 inhabitants. The ſurface is generally level, and the ſoil fertile, and, being proper for tillage, produces corn, wool, marble, and a ſpecies of coal, which, like charcoal, burns without ſmoke. The country abounds with fine plantations, and is, from the purity of the air, eſteemed extremely healthful. The principal rivers are the Barrow, which bounds it on the E. the Suir, which forms it's ſouthern boundary, and the Nore, which croſſes it from N. to S.

Kilhampton, Cornwall, near Hartland Point, 3 miles N. of Stratton.

Kill, in Dublin, Leinſter, 5 miles from the metropolis. Kill, in Kildare, Leinſter. Killacounty, in Cork, Munſter. Killagh, in Kerry, Munſter.

*KILLALA, a ſea port of Mayo, in Connaught, but of little conſequence, ſituated on a fine bay of the Atlantic, to which it gives name, 21 miles N. of Caſtlebar, and 227 NW. of Dublin.

Killaloan, in Waterford, Munſter.

*KILLALOE, a city of Clare, in Munſter, ſeated on the river Shannon, over which it has a bridge of 19 arches, 10 miles N. of Limerick, and 86 SW. of Dublin. Here is a conſiderable ſalmon and eel fiſhery.

Killam, Northumb. S. of Brankeſton.

*KILLARNEY, a town of Kerry, in Munſter, ſituated on the ſide of the lake of the ſame name, 36 miles W. of Cork, 50 SW. of Limerick, and 143 SW. of Dublin. Within half a mile of this place are the ruins of the cathedral of Aghadoe, an ancient biſhoprick united to Ardfert.

KILLARNEY, a beautiful lake of Kerry, in Munſter, otherwiſe called Lough Lean, from it's being ſurrounded by high mountains. It is properly divided into three parts, called the Lower, Middle, and Upper Lakes. The northern, or lower lake, is about 6 miles in length, and from 3 to 4 in breadth. The country on this and the eaſtern boundary, is here and there diverſified with gentle ſwells, many of which afford beautiful proſpects of the lake, the iſlands, and ſurrounding ſcenery. The S. ſhore is compoſed of immenſe mountains, riſing abruptly from the water, and covered with woods of the fineſt timber. From the centre of the lake, the view of this range is aſtoniſhingly ſublime, preſenting to the eye an extent of foreſt 6 miles in length, and from half a mile to a mile in breadth; hanging as a robe of rich luxuriance on the ſides of two mountains, whoſe bare tops, riſing above the whole, form a perfect contraſt to the verdure of the lower region. On the ſide of one of theſe mountains is O'Sullivan's Caſcade, which falls into the lake with a roar that ſtrikes the timid with awe. The view of this ſheet of water is uncommonly fine, appearing as if it were deſcending from an arch of wood, which overhangs it above 70 feet in height from the point of view. Coaſting along this ſhore affords an almoſt endleſs entertainment, every change of poſition, preſenting a new ſcene; the rocks hollowed and worn into a variety of forms by the waves, and the trees and ſhrubs burſting from the pores of the ſapleſs ſtone, forced to aſſume the moſt uncouth ſhapes, to adapt themſelves to their fantaſtic ſituations. The iſlands are not ſo numerous in this as in the upper lake; but there is one of uncommon beauty, namely, Innisfallen, nearly oppoſite O'Sullivan's Caſcade. It contains 18 Iriſh acres. The coaſt is formed into a variety of bays and promontories, ſkirted and crowned with arbutus, holly, and other ſhrubs and trees. The interior parts are diverſified with hills and dales, and gentle declivities, on which every tree and ſhrub appears to advantage: the ſoil is rich, even to exuberance; and trees of the largeſt ſize incline acroſs the vales, forming natural arches, with ivy intwining in the branches, and hanging in feſtoons of foliage. The promontory of Mucruſs, which divides the upper from the lower lake, is a perfect land of enchantment; and a road is carried through the centre of it, which unfolds all the interior beauties of the place. Among the diſtant mountains, Turk appears an object of magnificence; and Mangerton's more lofty, though leſs intereſting ſummit, ſoars above the whole. The paſſage to the upper lake is round the extremity of Mucruſs, which confines it on one ſide, and the approaching mountains on the other. Here is that celebrated rock, called The Eagle's Neſt, which produces wonderful echoes. A French horn ſounded here, raiſes a concert ſuperior to 100 inſtruments, in ſome ſituations; and the report of a ſingle cannon is anſwered by a ſucceſſion of peals reſembling the loudeſt thunder, which ſeems to travel the ſurrounding ſcenery, and die away among the diſtant mountains. The upper lake is about 4 miles in length, and from 2 to 3 in breadth; it is almoſt ſurrounded by mountains, from which deſcend a number of beautiful cascades. The iſlands in this lake are numerous, and afford an amazing variety of picturesque views. The centre lake, which communicates with the upper, is ſmall in compariſon with the other two, and does not ſhew an equal variety. The ſhores, however, are, in many places, indented with beautiful bays, ſurrounded with dark groves of trees, ſome of which have a very picturesque appearance, when viewed from the water. The eaſtern boundary is formed by the baſe of Mangerton, down the ſteep ſide of which the ſcene

ſeends a caſcade, viſible for 150 yards. This fall of water is ſupplied by a circular lake near the ſummit of the mountain, called the Devil's Punch Bowl; which, on account of it's immenſe depth, and continual overflow of water, is conſidered as one of the greateſt curioſities in Killarney. One of the beſt proſpects which this admired lake affords, is from a riſing ground near the ruined cathedral of Aghadoe. In the ſeveral mountains adjacent to the lakes, veſtiges of ancient mines of iron, lead, and copper, are ſtill to be ſeen.

Killaſhee, in Longford, Leinſter. Killbarmedan, in Waterford, Munſter. Killbarrack, in Dublin, Leinſter, 5 miles from the metropolis. Killberry, in Meath, Leinſter.

KILLBIRNIE, a town of Ayrſhire, 8 miles N. of Irvine.

KILL BUCK TOWN, a town of N. America, in the country W. of Virginia. Lat. 40. 50. N. lon. 81. 55. W.

Killburne, Killcaragh, Killcaſh, and Killcockan, all in Waterford, Munſter. Killcoole, in Wicklow, Leinſter. Killcop and Killea, in Waterford, Munſter. Killear, in Weſt Meath, Leinſter. Killedmund, in Carlow, Leinſter.

Killegate, Cornw. SW. of the Looes.

Killeigh, in King's County, Leinſter. Killelagh, in Cork, Munſter, 4 miles from Youghall. Killemley, in Kerry, Munſter. Killen, in Tipperary, Munſter. Killenane, in Kerry, Munſter, N. of Cahir. Killeny, in Dublin, Leinſter.

Killerby, Durham, near Raby Caſtle. Killerby, Yorkſhire, S. of Scarborough. Killeſby, Northamptonſ. N. of Daventry. Killeſdon, Somerſetſhire, near Taunton.

KILLISHANDRA, a town of Cavan, in Ulſter, 8 miles SW. of Cavan town.

Killiter, in Tyrone, Ulſter.

KILLEVAN, a town of Monaghan, in Ulſter, 8 miles SW. of the town of Monaghan.

Killiboy, in Kilkenny, Leinſter.

KILLICRANKIE, a noted paſs of Perthſhire, near the junction of the Tumel with the Garry. It is the grand entrance into the Highlands in thoſe parts, and is formed by the lofty mountains impending over the Garry, which ruſhes through in a deep, darkſome, and rocky channel, overhung with trees, forming a ſcene of horrible grandeur. In the laſt century, this was a paſs of much difficulty and danger: a path hanging over a tremendous precipice threatened deſtruction to the leaſt falſe ſtep of the traveller. At preſent, a fine road, formed by the ſoldiery lent by government, gives an eaſy acceſs to the remote Highlands; and the two ſides are joined by a fine arch.

Killigordon, in Donegal, Ulſter.

Killigrew, Cornwall, NE. of Truro.

Killimore, in Galway, Connaught.

KILLINAULE, a town of Tipperary, in Munſter, 14 miles N. of Clonmell.

Killinchy, in Down, Ulſter.

Killingbury, on the Nen, SW. of Northampton. Killingholm, Lincolnſ. NW. of Grimſby.

KILLINSLEY, a town of Connecticut, 22 miles N. of Norwich.

Killington, Weſtm. on the Lune, NE. of Kirby Lonſdale. The manor houſe is an ancient tower houſe. Killingwold Grove, Yorkſ. near Beverley. Killingworth, Northumberl. 4 miles N. of Newcaſtle.

KILLINGWORTH, a town of Connecticut.

Killinick, in Wexford, Leinſter.

Killiow, Cornwall, N. of Tregony.

Killnacabea, in Cork, Munſter. Killmacduagh, in Galway, Connaught, 2 miles W. of Gort. The walls of a cathedral, the ruins of a monaſtery, and of ſeveral chapels, with a large round tower, of very ancient and rude maſonry, denote the priſtine conſequence of this now wretched village. Killmaclege, Killmacombe, Killmeaden, and Killmolaſh, all in Waterford, Munſter.

KILLMAURS, a town of Ayrſhire, 4 miles ENE. of Irvine.

Killoges, in Mayo, Connaught. Killoteran, in Waterford, Munſter.

KILLOUGH, or PORT ST. ANNE, a town of Down, in Ulſter, 76 miles N. by E. of Dublin. It lies N. of St. John's Point, and has a good quay, from which conſiderable quantities of barley are exported. Here is a profitable manufacture of ſalt. At a ſmall diſtance from the town, near the ſea, is a rock, in which there is an oblong hole, whence a ſtrange noiſe is heard, at the ebbing and flowing of the tide, ſomewhat reſembling the ſound of a huntſman's horn. At the coming in of the tide, whilſt the waters are beating up under the rock, a cold air burſts from it with a mixture of ſpray; but as the waters retire during the ebb, there is a ſtrong draft of air ſets in at the hole, to fill up or prevent the vacuum which the retiring of the water would produce. In an open field, about a quarter of a mile from the town, there is a very curious cave, about 27 yards long, which has a winding paſſage, two feet and a half broad, with 3 doors in it, beſides the entrance, leading to a circular chamber, 3 yards in diameter, where there is a fine, cool, limpid well.

Killow, in Derry, Ulſter. Killowen Point, an excellent natural harbour, about 2 miles S. of Reſtrevor, in Down, Ulſter. Kill, St. Nicholas, in Waterford, Munſter, between the city of Waterford and the ſea.

*KILLSYTH, a town of Stirlingſhire, 9 miles SSW. of Stirling.

Killucan and Killuquin, in Weſt Meath, Leinſter. Killunkart and Killure, in Waterford, Munſter.

Killy, Northumberland, near Norham.

*KILLYBEGS, a town of Donegal, Ulſter, with a ſpacious harbour on the N. ſide of Donegal Bay, which may be entered at any time of the tide. The herring fiſhery is yet it's principal buſineſs, but it's trade is increaſing, and the place improved. It is 13 miles SW. of Donegal, and 123 NW. of Dublin.

KILLY LEAGH, a town of Down, in Ulſter, ſituated on the W. coaſt of Strangford Lough, with a ſafe harbour for veſſels, 15 miles SSE. of Belfaſt. It is a thriving place, with a linen and thread manufactory, and adjoining it is a little bay, where ſhips may be ſheltered from all winds.

Killyman, in Tyrone, Ulſter. Killyock, in Donegal, Ulſter. Killyon, in King's County, Leinſter. Kilmacabill, in Weſt Meath, Leinſter. Kilmacaloge, in Kerry, Munſter; with a harbour on the S. ſide of Kenmare river. Kilmaclenon, in Cork, Munſter. Kilmacrenan, in Donegal, Ulſter.

*KILMACTHOMAS, a town of Waterford, in Munſter, 10 miles SW. of Waterford.

Kilmaganny, in Kilkenny, Leinſter. Kilmain, in Mayo, Connaught.

*KILMAINHAM, a decayed ſort of town, ſituated on the W. extremity of the city of Dublin, in a pretty little valley, on the great weſtern road. It was ſome time the ſeat of government, before the caſtle at Dublin was appropriated to that purpoſe. A ſtream of water runs in the bottom, which carries ſome mills, and on which there are ſeveral tan yards. On the hill on one ſide, ſtands the Royal Hoſpital of Invalids, an elegant building; and, on the oppoſite hill, the Foundling Hoſpital. The quarter-ſeſſions for the county of Dublin, and the election for the knights of the ſhire, are held here.

KILMALLOCK, a once celebrated, but now decayed, town of Limerick, in Munſter. From it's many and extenſive ruins, it has obtained the name of the Iriſh Balbeck. About two centuries ago, it appears to have been one of the beſt built inland towns in the kingdom; the walls of many large houſes, of ſtone and excellent workmanſhip, with the ruins of churches and monaſteries, walls and gates, remain to this day, to teſtify it's former ſplendor. It is 16 miles S. of Limerick, and 107 SW. of Dublin.

Kilmanbridge, Surry, in Charlewood pariſh, is ſo called from a great ſlaughter, made of the Daniſh plunderers, by the inhabitants of this county and Suſſex.

KILMARNOCK, a town of Ayrſhire, containing about 5670 inhabitants. It is noted for it's manufactures of gloves, carpets, ſtockings, night-caps, bonnets, and other woollen goods, and is 15 miles SW. of Glaſgow.

Kilmarr Rock, Cornwall, on a very high hill, N. of Leſkard, has at a diſtance the appearance of a city, though it be only a covert for foxes. Kilmarſh, Yorkſhire, near Sheffield.

Kilmatagne, in Sligo, Connaught. Kilmeague, in Kildare, Leinſter. Kilmeaſbill, in Wexford, Leinſter. Kilmelcheer, in Kerry, Munſter.

Kilmerſdon, Somerſ. NW. of Frome.

Kilmiddy, in Limerick, Munſter.

Kilmington, Devonſ. near Axminſter, is a corruption for Kill Men Towns, from the great ſlaughter made in the neighbouring field, to this day called King's Field, where King Athelſtan fought and defeated ſeven Daniſh princes Kilmitchel, in Clare, Munſter. Kilmoon, in Weſt Meath, Leinſter. Kilmore, in Down, Ulſter. Kilmore, in Cavan, Ulſter. Kilmore Bridge, in Galway, Connaught. Kilmuckridge, in Wexford, Leinſter. Kilmurraghan and Kilmurry, in Cork, Munſter. Kilmurry, in Clare, Munſter. Kilmurry, in Kilkenny, Leinſter. Kilmurrybrickan and Kilmurrymacmahon, in Clare, Munſter. Kilnaleck, in Cavan, Ulſter. Kilnena, in Clare, Munſter. Kilnener, in Wexford, Leinſter. Kilnockin, in Tipperary, Munſter.

Kilnſey, Yorkſhire, in Holderneſs, near Spurnhead. Kilnſley Crag, Yorkſhire, NE of Settle. Here is a cataract formed by the river Wharfe, which, Mr. Camden ſays, is the higheſt and ſteepeſt he ever ſaw.

Kilorglin, in Kerry, Munſter.

Kilpeck, Herefordſhire, near Great Dewchurch. Kilpin, Yorkſhire, E of Howden.

Kilrea, in Derry, Ulſter. Kilrenda, in Wicklow, Leinſter.

KILRENNY, a town of Fifeſhire, 7 miles SSW. of St. Andrews.

*KILRUSH

*KILRUSH, a town of Clare, in Munſter, 142 miles from Dublin.

Kilſallaghan, in Dublin, Leinſter. Kilſhanick, in Cork, Munſter, S. of the river Blackwater.

Kilſtock, Somerſ. near Stokegurſey.

Kiltallagh, in Kerry, Munſter. Kiltarton, in Galway, Connaught.

KILTEARN, a town of Roſsſhire.

Kilteel, in Kildare, Leinſter. Kilteely, in Limerick, Munſter. Kilternan, in Dublin, Leinſter.

Kilton, Nott. near Worksop. Kilton, Somerſ. on the Briſtol Channel, between the Start Point and Watchet. Kilton, Yorkſ. NE. of Giſborough. Kilve, Somerſ. near Kilton. Kilverſton, Norfolk, NE. of Thetford.

Kilvin, a river of Scotland, which runs into the Clyde, 4 miles NW. of Glaſgow.

Kilvington, Nott. near Normanton. Kilvington, N. and S. Yorkſ. near Thirſk.

Kilvrane, in Wexford, Leinſter. Kilwater, in Antrim, Ulſter.

Kilwick, Yorkſhire, E. Riding, near Watton Abbey. Kilwick Percy, Yorkſhire, near Pocklington.

KILWINNING, a town of Ayrſhire, 3 miles NNW. of Irvine.

*KILWORTH, a town of Cork, in Munſter; at the foot of a large ridge of mountains, called Kilworth Mountains. Below the town, runs the river Funcheon, which is well ſtored with trout and ſalmon, and diſcharges itſelf into the Blackwater. It is 108 miles SW. of Dublin.

Kilworth Harcourt, Leic. NW. of Hallaton. Kilworth, N. and S. Leic. W. of Harborough, near the Avon. Kimbell, Great and Little, Bucks, near Wendover. Kimberley, Norf. near Hingham. Kimberley, NW. of Nottingham, between the rivers Erwaſh and Lyne. Kimberley Hall, Warw. near Hurley. Kimbolton, Heref. NE. of Leominſter.

*KIMBOLTON, a town of Huntingdonſhire, which, with it's caſtle, wherein Queen Catharine, who was jointured in it, reſided for ſome time after her divorce from Henry VIII. and which has been lately much improved, or rather new built, in an elegant ſtyle, by the duke of Mancheſter, is conſidered as a great ornament to the weſtern part of the county. It is 8 miles WSW. of Huntingdon, and 64 N. of London. Market on Friday.

Kimeridge, Great and Little, Dorſetſ. in the Iſle of Purbeck, N. of Kimeridge Bay, ſometimes called Botteridge Pool. Here is an alum mine, and ſome coals of the foſſil kind, and copperas ſtones.

KIMI, a town, capital of a diſtrict of W. Bothnia, ſituated at the mouth of a river of the ſame name, which here falls into the Gulf of Bothnia, 10 miles SE. of Tornea.

Kimpton, Hants, SW. of Andover.

KIN, a city of China, of the ſecond rank, in the province of Chenſi. It is 527 miles SW. of Pekin.

KIN, a town of Segeſtan; in Perſia, ſituated in a pure air, and in a fertile ſoil, eſpecially in fruit, near the lake Zare, 110 leagues E. of Iſpahan, and 127 W. of Candahar.

Kinaſton, NW. of Shrewſbury. Kinaſton, Staff. W. of Needwood Foreſt.

KINBURN, a Ruſſian fortreſs of Ekaterineſlav, ſituated on a bay of the Black Sea, at the mouth of the Dniaper, 16 miles SE. of Ockzakow, on the oppoſite ſide of the river.

Kincardine-o-Niel, a village of Aberdeenſhire, ſeated on the Dee, 29 miles W. of Aberdeen.

KINCARDINESHIRE, or MEARNS, a county of Scotland, bounded on the N. by Aberdeenſhire, on the E. by the German Ocean, on the W. by the counties of Angus and Aberdeen, and on the S. by that of Angus. It's length along the coaſt is ſcarcely 30 miles; it's mean breadth is about 17. The country, in general, is pretty level, producing plenty of corn and paſture. It is watered by ſeveral rivers, and there are many convenient harbours on the coaſt. Inverbervie and Stonehaven are the principal towns.

KINCARDINE, a town of Perthſhire, 20 miles S. of Perth.

Kinchley, Durham, near Newbiggen. Kincott, Leic. on the river Swift, E. of Lutterworth. Kinder, Derbyſhire, in the High Peak.

KINDERHOOK, a town of New York, 105 miles N of New York.

Kinderton, Cheſhire, near Middlewich. Kinely, Northumb. SW. of Hexham.

Kinelmeaky, in Cork, Munſter.

Kinerſley Chapel, Shropſ. S. of Knoking Caſtle.

*KINETON, a town in Warwickſhire, held, as it's name imports, by the kings of England, if not before, yet certainly by Edward the Confeſſor and William the Conqueror. King John kept his court in the caſtle here. It is 9 miles E. of Stratford, and 88 WNW. of London. Market on Tueſday, chiefly for black cattle.

Kineton Parva, Warwickſ. is a hamlet of Kineton.

KINGAN, a city of China, of the firſt rank, in the province of Kiangſi. It is ſituated on the river Kan, in an uneven, but fertile and agreeable country, 795 miles S. of Pekin.

KING AND QUEEN, a town of Virginia.

Kingbarrow, Wilts, near Wilton.

Kingerby, Linc. NW. of Market Raiſin.

Kinget, Iſle of Wight, in W. Medina.

KING GEORGE, a county of Virginia.

KING GEORGE'S ISLANDS, 2 iſlands in the S. Pacific Ocean, diſcovered by Commodore Byron, in 1765, and viſited by Capt. Cook, in 1773. The larger is about 27 miles in circumference, low, and bordered by a coral rock. Lat. 14. 41. N. lon. 149. 15. W.

KING GEORGE'S SOUND, the name given by Captain Cook, in 1778, to the harbour which he diſcovered on the W. coaſt of N. America, at the mouth of a great river, in lon. 126. 48. W. and lat. 49. 33. N. But the natives called it Nootka; the name now generally adopted by the Engliſh. Upon the ſea coaſt, the land is tolerably high and level; but within the Sound, it riſes into ſteep hills, which have a uniform appearance. The trees, of which the woods are compoſed, are the Canadian pine, white cypreſs, and two or three other ſorts of pine. In general, the trees grow here with great vigour, and are of a large ſize. About the rocks and borders of the woods, were ſeen ſome ſtrawberry plants and raſpberry, currants, and gooſeberry buſhes, all in a flouriſhing ſtate. The principal animals ſeen here were racoons, martens, and ſquirrels. Birds are far from being numerous, and thoſe that are to be ſeen are remarkably ſhy, owing, perhaps, to their being continually haraſſed by the natives, who take them for food, and uſe their feathers as ornaments. The variety of fiſh is not very great here, yet they are in greater quantities than birds. The principal ſorts are the common herring, a ſilver-coloured bream, and another of a brown colour. The ſtature of the natives is, in general, below the common ſtandard; but their perſons are not proportionably ſlender, being uſually pretty plump, though not muſcular. The women are, in general, of the ſame ſize and proportion as the men. Their bodies are always covered with red paint, but their faces are ornamented with a variety of colours, a black, a bright red, or a white colour; the laſt of which gives them a ghaſtly and horrible appearance. They appear to be docile, courteous, and good-natured; but they are quick in reſenting injuries, and as quickly forget them. A rattle and a ſmall whiſtle are the only inſtruments of muſic that were ſeen among them. Their houſes conſiſt of very long, broad planks, reſting upon the edges of each other, tied in different parts, with withes of pine bark. Their furniture conſiſts principally of cheſts and boxes of various ſizes, piled upon each other, at the ſides or ends of their houſes, in which are depoſited their garments, and whatever they deem valuable. They have alſo ſquare and oblong pails, and bowls to eat their food out of, &c. From their curing their fiſh in their houſes, and leaving the bones and fragments in heaps of filth before the doors, and from their houſes being without chimneys, their habitations have a ſtrong, diſagreeable ſmell of train-oil, fiſh, and ſmoke.

KING GEORGE'S TOWN, a town of Virginia.

Kingham, Oxf. near Chipping Norton, is noted for excellent ſcowering land.

KINGHORN, a town of Fifeſhire, on the N. ſide of the Frith of Forth, oppoſite Leith.

Kingle, Warwickſhire, near Ragley.

Kingley, Lancaſhire, SE. of Bolton.

KINGROAD, at the mouth of the Avon, in Briſtol Channel, whence the outward bound ſhips generally take their departure.

Kingſale, Suſſex, SW. of Rudgwick.

KINGSBERRY, a town of Maryland, 3 miles W. of Baltimore.

KINGSBRIDGE, a pretty town of Devonſhire, conſiſting of about 150 houſes. It is ſeated at the head of a ſmall river, which falls into the ſea a little below, affording a harbour for boats. Here is a bridge over the Saleomb to Dodbrook. It is 14 miles SW. of Dartmouth, and 218 W. by S. of London. Market on Saturday.

Kingſtrome, Warw. near Bitford, in the road to Aulceſter. King's Brumpton, Somerſ. 3 miles N. of Dulverton. Kingſburn, Herts, between St. Alban's and Luton.

KINGSBURY, a town of New York.

Kingſbury, Herts, at the W. end of St. Alban's, has it's name from the Saxon kings, who often kept their court here. Kingſbury, Midd. between Hendon and Harrow on the Hill. Kingſbury, Somerſetſ. near Chard. Kingſbury, Warw. on the river Tame, delightfully ſituated amongſt woods, hills, and fine meadows, on the borders of Sutton Chace. It is ſuppoſed to have been a ſeat of ſome of the Mercian kings. King's Chapel, Heref. on the Wye, between Roſs and Holm Lacy.

KINGSCLEAR, a town in Hants, pleaſantly ſituated on the edge of the downs, near Berks; 9 miles N. by W. of Baſing-ſtoke

ſtoke, and 56 S8W. of London. It was once the ſeat of the Weſt Saxon kings, Market on Tueſday.

King's Cliff, Northamp. 6 miles S. of Stamford. Kingſcot, Glouc. E. of Durſley. King's Croſs, Bedf. between Bedford and Newenham.

KING'S COUNTY, a county of New York.

KING'S COUNTY, a county of Ireland, in the province of Leinſter, 34 miles in length, and from 30 to 17 in breadth. It is bounded on the N. by Weſt Meath; on the E. by Kildare and Queen's County; on the S. by Queen's County and Tipperary; and on the W. by the river Shannon and a part of Tipperary. The ſoil is various; in ſome parts it is very fertile, in others not ſo rich, nor ſo well inhabited as ſome other counties. It contains 52 pariſhes, about 13,536 houſes, and 74,500 inhabitants: the capital is Philipſtown.

King's Court, in Cavan, Ulſter.

Kingſditch, Warwickſ. near Tamworth. Kingſdon, Somerſetſ. between Ilcheſter and Somerton. Kingſdown, Kent, on the coaſt, near Oxney. Kingſdown, Kent, NW. of Wrotham. Kingſdown, Kent, SW. of Feverſham. Kingſdown, Somerſ. near Bath. Kingſey, Bucks, near Thame in Oxfordſhire. King's Ferry, Kent, from the main land to Sheppey Iſle. A cable, of about 140 fathom in length, faſtened at each end, acroſs the water, ſerves to get the boat over by land. Here is a houſe for the ferry-keeper, who is obliged to tow all travellers over free, except on four days, Palm Monday, Whit Monday, St. James's Day, and Michaelmas Day, when a horſeman pays 2d. and a footman 1d. Kingsford, or Kington, Warw. in Beckenhill and Solihull pariſhes, is a very ancient place, and had a church in the reign of Henry III. Kingſham, Upper and Lower, Heref. SW. of Wigmore Caſtle. King's Harbour, Midd. N. of Hounſlow Heath, was a Roman camp. King's, or Knight's Hill, Surry, near Briſtow Cauſey. Kingſhaugh, Nott. NE. of Tuxford. Kingſholm, near Glouceſter. Kingſhurſt, Warw. W. of Coleſhill.

KING'S ISLAND, an iſland on the eaſtern Indian Ocean, about 50 miles in circumference. It is ſituated near the W. coaſt of Siam, in lat. 12. 18. N. and lon. 98. E.

Kingſland, Dorſetſ. in Netherby pariſh. Kingſland, Hereford. W. of Leominſter. Kingſland, near Shrewſbury. Kingſland, Midd. between Hoxton and Clapton. Here is an hoſpital, or alms-houſe, built in 1713, purſuant to the will of Sir Robert Jefferies, lord mayor of London, for 56 decayed members of the Ironmongers' company. Kingſley, Cheſh. SE. of Frodſham. Kingſley, Hants, E. of Alton. Kingſley, Staff. on the Churnet, 2 miles below Cunſal. King's Ledge, Rutl. on the Chater, near Leiceſterſhire. King's Manor, Wilts, in Clarendon Park, was formerly a royal palace. King's Melbourn, Weſtmorl. W. of Appleby. King's Moor, Cumberl. near Carliſle. King's Norton, Worc. near Withal, 8 miles from Broomgrove. Kingſnorth, Kent, S. of Aſhford. King's Oak, Eſſex, between Waltham Abbey and the Chace. King's Peon, Herts, E. of Webley.

King's River, a river of Wicklow, in Leinſter, which runs into the Liffey, about a mile and a half S. of Bleſſington. Alſo a river of Kilkenny, in Leinſter.

Kingſthorp, 2 miles N. of Northampton. Kingſton, 6 miles SW. of Cambridge. Kingſton, Devonſ. 6 miles NW. of Kingſbridge. Kingſton, Dorſetſ. S. of Corfe Caſtle, on the brow of a hill. Kingſton, Glouc. in Thornbury pariſh. Kingſton, Glouc. in Slimbridge pariſh. Kingſton, Hants, S. of Alreſford. Kingſton, Hants, near Portſmouth. Kingſton, Heref. near the Golden Vale. Kingſton, Iſle of Wight, in E. Medina. Kingſton, Kent, near Barham Downs. Kingſton, Nott. on the Soare, near Leiceſterſhire. Kingſton, Somerſ. near Somerton. Kingſton, Somerſ. near Taunton. Kingſton, Somerſetſ. between Crewkern and Ilminſter. Kingſton, Somerſ. near the Severn Sea, S. of Clevedon. Kingſton, Staff. near the Blyth, W. of Needwood Foreſt. Kingſton, Suſſex, on the coaſt, E. of Arundel Haven. Kingſton, Suſſex, SW. of Lewes. Kingſton, Warw. near Claverdon. Kingſton, Bagpar, Berks, W. of Abingdon.

Kingſton, in Wicklow, Leinſter.

KINGSTON UPON HULL. See HULL.

KINGSTON UPON THAMES, a large, populous, well-built town of Surry, ſo called from it's having been the reſidence of ſeveral of our Saxon kings, ſome of whom were crowned here, on a ſtage in the market place. The Lent aſſizes for the county are held here. It is ſeated on the Thames, over which it has a wooden bridge of 22 piers and 20 arches, 11 miles SW. of London. Market on Saturday.

KINGSTON, a ſea-port town of Jamaica, in the W. Indies, containing about 1665 houſes, beſides negro huts and warehouſes. In 1788, the number of white inhabitants was 6539, of free people of colour 3280, of ſlaves 16,659. It is ſeated on the N. ſide of the Bay of Port Royal, on the S. coaſt coaſt of the iſland. It was built after the great earthquake in 1692, and is now a large town, about a mile in length and half a mile in breadth. It is laid out into little ſquares and croſs ſtreets, and is a place of conſiderable trade and opulence. Many of the houſes, in the upper part of the town, are very magnificent, and the markets for fleſh, turtles, fiſh, poultry, fruits, and vegetables are inferior to none. Lat. 17. 50. N. lon. 76. 52. W.

KINGSTON, or KYNETON, a pretty large, and well-built town of Herefordſhire, with a good trade in narrow cloth. It is ſeated on the river Arrow, 15 miles NW. of Hereford, and 149 WNW. of London. Market on Wedneſday. The markets on Wedneſday before Eaſter, Whitſuntide, and Chriſtmas, are ſo conſiderable for corn, cattle, leather, home-made linen, woollen cloth, and proviſions, that they more reſemble fairs.

KINGSTON, a town in the reſpective ſtates of New Hampſhire, Maſſachuſets, Rhode Iſland, New York, N. Carolina, and S. Carolina.

Kingſton Hall and Kingſton Lacy, Dorſ. near Winborne Minſter; the former was anciently a ſeat of the Saxon monarchs. Kingſton Liſle, Berks, near Wantage. Kingſton Maurwood, E. of Dorcheſter. Kingſton, North, Dorſ. N. of Bere Regis.

KINGSTON RUSSEL, a town near Dorcheſter. It's manor is held by ſerjeantry, viz. to be cup-bearer to the king at the four principal feaſts of the year. Market on Thurſday.

Kingſton Wood, Kent, SE. of Maidſtone.

KINGSTOWN, a ſea-port of the iſland of St. Vincent, ſituated on the S. coaſt, on a bay to which it gives name, in lat. 13. 6. N. and lon. 15. W. Alſo a town of New Jerſey.

KINGSTREE, a town of S. Carolina, 50 miles N. of Charleſton.

King Sutton, Northamp. near Aſtrop Wells. Kingſwere, Devonſ. near Dartmouth Haven, has a caſtle for the defence of it. King's Weſton, Glouc. in Henbury pariſh. Kingſwold, Kent, near Walmer Caſtle. Kingſwood, Dorſetſ. in Purbeck Iſle. Kingſwood, Iſle of Wight, in E. Medina. Kingſwood, Shropſ. between Wellington and Staffordſhire. Kingſwood, Warw. S. of Poleſworth. Kingſwood, Warw. a part of the conſtablery of Willeſburn. Kingſwood, Glouc. N. of Wickwar. Kingſwood, Yorkſ. W. Riding, SW. of Roch Abbey. Kingſwoodbury, Herts, near Ruſhden. Kingſwood Foreſt, Glouc. NE. of Briſtol, about 5000 acres in extent, conſiſting chiefly of coal mines. Kingſworthy, Hants, between Stockbridge and Alreſford.

KINGTCHEOU, a well-built and popular city of China, of the firſt rank, in the province of Houquang. It has a great trade, and is ſituated on the Yangtſe river, in a fruitful and pleaſant country, with a garriſon of Tartars, to whom one part of the town belongs, 620 miles SSW. of Pekin.

KINCTECHING, a town of China, without walls, in the province of Kiangſi. It contains more than a million of inhabitants, who are the beſt makers of China ware, and is 655 miles S. of Pekin.

KINGTON. See KINGSTON, or KYNETON.

Kington, Glouceſterſ. near Thornbury, Kington, Warw. near Claverdon. Kington, alias Mansfield, Somerſetſ. NE. of Somerton. Kington, alias Pitney, Somerſ. near Queen Camel. Kington, Magna, Dorſetſ. near Stower Weſtover. Kington Priory, Wilts, E. of Caſtlecomb. Kington, Weſt, Wilts, W. of Caſtlecomb. Kington's Aſhe, Wilts, SW. of Saliſbury Plain. King Weſton, Somerſetſ. NE. of Somerton. Kinlet, Shropſ. N. of Wire Foreſt. Kinnarton Hall, 6 miles from Cheſter. Kinnaſton Chapel, Herefordſhire, near Marcle Hill.

Kinnegad, in Weſt Meath, Leinſter, a noted place for fine cheeſe.

Kinnerſley, Herefordſ. SW. of Webley. Kinnerſley, Surry, SE. of Ryegate. Kinnerton, Shropſ. NW. of Church Stretton.

Kinnery, in King's County, Leinſter.

Kinneſdale Spring, Yorkſhire, W. Riding, SE. of Kirby Lonſdale.

KINROSS, a town of Scotland, in the ſhire of Kinroſs, ſeated on the river Leven not far W. of Loch Leven, and 20 miles N. of Edinburgh. The manufactories of this town are linen and cutlery ware.

KINROSS, a ſhire or county of Scotland, ſurrounded by the ſhires of Perth and Fife. It is about 30 miles in circuit, it's length and breadth being nearly equal.

*KINSALE, a town of Cork, in Munſter, ſeated on the river Bandon. It is a very populous, trading place, and has a deep, commodious, and a ſecure harbour 14 miles S. of Cork. Lat. 51. 36. N. lon. 8. 26. W.

Kinſalebeg, in Waterford, Munſter.

Kinſel Green, Midd. between Weſtbury and Holſden Greens. Kinſingham, Northumberland, S. of Otterburn. Kinſlants, Dorſetſhire, near Parley.

KINTAIL, a peninſula of Roſſſhire forming the SW. corner of the county.

Kinthorp, Yorkſ. NE. of Pickering.

Kinton

Kinton, E. of Worceſter. Kinton Tower, between Shrewſbury and Oſweſtry.

KINTORE, a town of Aberdeenſhire, 12 miles NW. of Aberdeen.

KINTSBECK, a town of New York.

Kinvara, in Galway, Connaught.

Kinver, Staff. 2 miles W. of Stourbridge, has an old fortification in it, and a remarkable ſtone, 2 yards high and 4 in circumference, which is ſuppoſed to have been either a Britiſh deity, or a memorial of a battle fought by that people. It is vulgarly called Batile Stone, or Bolt Stone.

Kinver, a river in Cardiganſ. which runs into the Dovy ſoon after it's riſe.

Kinwaldſey, Warw. N. of Meridan.

KIOF, or KIOW, a conſiderable town of Poland, in a palatinate of the ſame name, the reſidence of the great duke till the 12th century. It is the capital of the Ruſſian government Kiof, and carries on a conſiderable trade. It is divided into the Old and New Town, and is ſeated on the W. ſide of the river Dnieper, 180 miles NE. of Kamanieck, and 335 E. by S. of Warſaw. Lat. 50. 30. N. lon. 31. 51. E.

KIOF, KIOW, or KIEVSKOE, a government of the Ruſſian empire, lying, for the moſt part, on the E. or left ſide of the river Dnieper, although Kiof, the capital, is on the W. It contains 11 diſtricts.

KIOF, or KIOW, a palatinate of Poland, W. of the Dnieper, containing only two diſtricts.

KIOGE, or KOGE, a ſea-port of Zealand, in Denmark, 10 miles SSW. of Copenhagen.

KIOPING, in Weſtmanland, Sweden.

Kiour, a river in Pembrokeſ. which runs into the Iriſh Channel below Trevethel.

Kipax, and it's Park, Yorkſ. NW. of Ferry Bridge.

Kiplin, Yorkſ in Bolton pariſh.

Kiplin, Yorkſ. near Richmond,

Kipmaſh, Norf.

Kipping Croſs, Kent, between Tunbridge and Rye.

Kippington, Great, Kent, in Sevenoaks pariſh.

Kirbridge, Hants, E. of Southampton.

Kirby Bedon, near Norwich.

Kirby Bellers, Leic. NW. of Melton Mowbray.

Kirby Cold, or Knowl, Yorkſ. NE. of Thirſk.

Kirby Kane, Norf. S. of London Eaſt Cote.

KIRBY LONSDALE, a large and well-built town of Weſtmorland, with a woollen manufactory. It is ſeated on the river Lon, 10 miles SE. of Kendal, and 253 NW. of London. Market on Tueſday.

KIRBY MOORSIDE, a town in the N. Riding of Yorkſhire, ſeated on the edge of Black Moor, near the river Dow, 25 miles N. of York, and 155 N. by W. of London. Market on Wedneſday.

Kirby Mullox, NW. of Leiceſter.

KIRBY STEPHEN, or KIRKBY STEPHEN, a town of Weſtmorland, noted for a manufactory of yarn ſtockings. It has a good free-ſchool, with 2 exhibitions, and is ſeated on the W. ſide of the river Eden, near the hills which ſeparate this county from Yorkſhire, 9 miles S. of Appleby, and 281 NNW. of London. Market on Friday.

KIRCHBERG, a town of Sponheim, Upper Rhine; alſo of Erzgeburg, in Upper Saxony; of Lower Bavaria; of Hohenloe, in Franconia, ſituated on the Jaxt; of Naſſau Dietz, in Weſtphalia; and 2 towns of the archduchy of Auſtria.

Kircubbin, in Down, Ulſter.

Kirkanders, Cumb. upon the Eſk, NW. of Carliſle.

Kirkandrews upon Eden, Cumb. 4 miles from Carliſle.

Kirkbampton, Camb. near Orton.

Kirkborn, Yorkſ. near Hummanby.

Kirkbride, Cumb. near Bowneſs.

Kirkbridge, Yorkſ. N. Riding, N. of Gatherley Moor.

Kirkburton, Yorkſ. SW. of Wakefield.

Kirkby, Cumb, SW. of Carliſle.

Kirkby, Eſſex, S. of Harwich.

Kirkby, Lanc. N. of Weſt Derby.

Kirkby, Linc, NW. of Market Raiſin.

Kirkby, Linc. near Sleaford.

Kirkby, Yorkſ. near the Wherfe, SE. of Tadcaſter.

Kirkby, Yorkſ. W. Riding, on the ſame river, W. of Wetherby.

Kirkby, or Kerby, Northamp. 3 miles from Rockingham.

Kirkby in Aſhfield, Nott. SW. of Manſfield.

Kirkby, Eaſt, Linc. near Bullingbrook.

Kirkby Fletham, Yorkſ. W. of Northallerton.

Kirkby Green, Linc. W. of Tatterſhal.

Kirkby Grindal, Yorkſ. W Riding, in the York Woulds.

Kirkby Hill, Yorkſ. near Boroughbridge.

Kirkby in Cleveland, Yorkſhire, near Stokeſley.

Kirkby Ireleth, Lanc. near Dudden Sands.

Kirkby Maledale, Yorkſ. 2 miles from Settle.

Kirkbary Mallary, Leiceſ. N. of Hinckley.

Kirkby Malſide, Yorkſ. S. of Maſham.

Kirkby on the Hill, Yorkſ. near Ravenſworth Caſtle.

Kirkby over Ker, Yorkſ. SW. of Pickering.

Kirkby on the Mount, Yorkſhire, near Boroughbridge.

Kirkby, South, Yorkſ. NE. of Barneſley.

Kirkby Thore, Weſtm NW. of Appleby. Below it are the vaſt ruins of an ancient town, where Roman coins and urns are frequently dug up. The Maiden Way runs through it.

Kirkby under Dale, Yorkſ. 4 miles from Pocklington, near Acklam

Kirkby Underwood, Linc. near Stainfleet.

Kirkby upon Bane, Linc. N. of Tatterſhal.

Kirkby, Weſt, Cheſh. on the the Dee, NW. of Weſton. Kirkby Whiſt, Yorkſ. NW. of Thirſk. Kirk Cambock, Cumberland, near Lanercoſt.

KIRKCALDY, a ſea-port of Fifeſhire, on the Frith of Forth, 10 miles N. of Edinburgh. It has a dock-yard for building ſmall veſſels, has a ſilk manufacture, and contains many well-built houſes.

KIRKCUDBRIGHT, a ſea port of Scotland, in the county of Kirkcudbright, ſeated at the mouth of the river Dee, 21 miles SW. of Dumfries, and 83 SW. of Edinburgh. It has a fine harbour, with depth of water ſufficient to admit ſhips of any burden to come up to the town, and yet has but an inconſiderable trade. The town conſiſts of two ſtreets, which form a right angle with each other, having, in the centre, the town-houſe.

KIRKCUDBRIGHT, THE SHIRE, or STEWARTRY OF, once formed, with the county of Wigton, the ancient province of Galloway. Kirkcudbrightſhire, is bounded on the NE. by Ayrſhire and Dumfrieſſhire; on the S. by the Solway Frith and the Iriſh Sea; and on the W. by Wigtonſhire and Ayrſhire. It's extent from N. to S. is nearly 30 miles, and from E. to W. about 43. Here is a great plenty of fine paſture, and numerous flocks of ſheep and ſmall cattle.

Kirkdale, Lanc. near Liverpool. Kirkdale, Yorkſ. near Kirby Moorſide. Kirk Dighton, Yorkſhire, N. of Wetherby.

Kirkeel, in Down Ulſter.

Kirkella, Yorkſhire, W. of Hull.

KIRKHAM, a town in Lancaſhire, with a well-endowed free-ſchool for three maſters. It is ſeated near the mouth of the Ribble, by which it communicates with all the late-inland navigations, 18 miles S. of Lancaſter, and 223 NNW. of London. It has a conſiderable manufactory of ſail cloth. Market on Tueſday.

Kirkham, Yorkſhire, near the Derwent, SW. of New Malton. Kirkhammerton, Yorkſ. between Knareſborough and Heſſey Moor. Kirkharle, Northumb. near Kirk Whelpington. Kirkhaugh, Northumb. near Alſton Moor. A Roman altar, erected to Minerva and Hercules, was found, ſome years ago, in it's churchyard. Kirkheaton, Northumberl. SE. of Kirk Whelpington. Kirkheeton, Yorkſ. E. of Huthersfield. Kirkland, Cumberl. NE. of Penrith.

Kirkjeeven, in Down, Ulſter.

Kirkland, Cumb. near Bothell, on the road between Cockermouth and Carliſle. Kirkland, Lancaſ. near Garſtang. Kirkleas, Yorkſ. 3 miles from Huddersfield, on the river Calder. In the park near it, is ſaid to be the funeral monument of that generous highwayman, Robin Hood; and on the adjacent moor are two little hills, called Robin Hood's Butts. Kirk Letham, Yorkſ. near the Mouth of the Tees. Kirk Leventon, Cumb. NW. of Brampton. Kirk Leventon, Yorkſ. near Yarum. Kirkley, Northumb. N. of Pont Elan't. Kirklington, Nott. near Southwell. Kirklington, Oxfordſh. NE. of Woodſtock. Kirklington, Yorkſ. between Malham and Thirſk. Kirklington, Cumberland, near Stanwix.

Kirkmighel, a river in the Iſle of Man, running into the ſea at Kirkmighel.

KIRKOSWALD, a town of Cumberland, ſeated upon a hill, near the river Eden, 292 miles NW. of London. Market on Thurſday.

*KIRKPATRICK, a town of Scotland in Dumbartonſhire, lying E. of the town of Dumbarton. The veſtiges of the Roman wall, built by Antoninus, extend from the Frith of Clyde, at this place, to the Frith of Forth, and are called by the country people, Graham's Dike.

Kirk Sandal, Yorkſhire, near Doncaſter. Kirkſeek, Linc. SE. of Grantham. Kirk Head, Weſtm. near Levens. Here is an old, round building, ſuppoſed, by ſome to have been a temple of Diana. Kirkſop, or Kirſop, a river in Cumb. which runs into the Eden near Burgh Sands. Kirkſtall, Yorkſ. NW. of Leeds, has ſeveral corn and fulling mills, an iron forge, with a mill for ſlitting iron into ſmall bars and rods, and a ſtone bridge over the Aire which was made navigable hither in the year 1698. Kirkſted, Linc. near Tattershal, and the river Witham. Kirkſton, Nott. N. of Bingham. Kirkthwait, E. and W. Cumberl. in Weſtward pariſh. Kirkton, Linc. S. of Boſton. Kirkton Holm, Linc. SW. of Boſton, on the ſame river, had a market, now diſuſed. Kirkton Whelpington, Northumb. on the Wanſpeck, NW. of Kirkharle.

KIRKWALL, a ſea-port of Scotland, capital of Orkney, the principal of the iſlands of that name, is built upon an inlet of the ſea, on the E. ſide of the iſland. Here is the ſtately cathedral of St. Magnus. It is 45 miles from Dungſby Head, the moſt NE. promontory of Scotland. Lat. 58. 58. N. lon. 2. 57. W.

Kirkmincton, Linc. NE. of Glandford Bridge. Kirmond in the Mire, Linc. NE. of Market Raiſin. Kirſley, Yorkſh. SE. of Wakefield. Kirſted, Norfolk, NW. of London Eaſtcote. Kirſtone, Devonſh. between Moreton and Exminſter. Kirtlington, Cornwall, SW. of Penzance. Kirtlington, Nottingh Nottinghamſhire, N. of Southwell. Kirtley, Suffolk, S. of Loweſtoff.

KIRTON, a town of Lincolnſhire, with a truly magnificent church. It is ſeated on an eminence, on the edge of Lincoln Heath, 20 miles N. of Lincoln, and 151 NW. of London. It gives name to it's hundred, in which are 4 villages of the ſame name. Market on Saturday.

Kirton, Nottinghamſhire, W. of Tuxford. Kirton, Suffolk, near Bawdſey Haven. Kiſeby, Lincolnſ. S. of Fokingham.

KISMISH, a fertile iſland in the Gulf of Perſia, W. of Ormus. It is about 50 miles in circumference, and is remarkable for it's pearl fiſhery.

KISTI, one of the ſeven Caucaſian nations, that inhabit the countries between the Black Sea and the Caſpian. They conſiſt of 16 different diſtricts, or tribes, which are often at variance with each other, and with their neighbours. Their dialects appear to have no analogy with any known language, and their hiſtory and origin are utterly unknown. Thoſe belonging to the diſtricts of Wapi, Anguſht, and Shalkha, ſubmitted to Ruſſia in 1770. The Tſhetſhen tribe is ſo numerous and warlike, and has given the Ruſſians ſo much trouble, that it's name is uſually given by them to the whole Kiſti nation. The Inguſhi live in villages near each other, containing about 20 or 30 houſes: they are diligent huſbandmen, and rich in cattle. Many of their villages have a ſtone tower, which ſerves, in time of war, as a retreat to their women and children, and a magazine for their effects. Theſe people are all armed, and have the cuſtom of wearing ſhields. Their religion is very ſimple, but has ſome traces of Chriſtianity. They believe in one God, whom they call Dailé, and, on the firſt day of the week, reſt from labour. They eat pork, and have a faſt in ſpring, and another in ſummer. They obſerve no ceremonies either at births or deaths; but they allow of polygamy, and, at certain times, a ſheep is ſacrificed by a perſon who ſeems to be conſidered as a kind of prieſt, as he is obliged to live in a ſtate of celibacy. A ſingular ſort of hoſpitality is attributed to theſe people by Major Rennel. "When a gueſt, or ſtranger, comes to lodge with them, one of the hoſt's daughters is obliged to receive him, to unſaddle and feed his horſe, take care of his baggage, prepare his dinner, paſs the night with him, and continue at his diſpoſal during his ſtay."

KISTNA, a river of Hindooſtan, which riſes on the E. ſide of the Gauts, and croſſing almoſt the whole of the peninſula, falls into the Bay of Bengal, between Maſulipatam and Nizampatam, in the circar of Guntoor.

KITTERY, a town of N. America, in the province of Main, famous for ſhipbuilding. It is ſeated on the E. ſide of the mouth of the Piſcataway, 4 miles S. of New York.

Kittesford, Somerſ. W. of Wellington. Kitt's Cotty Houſe, Kent, N. of Aylesford, a monument of ſtones, ſomething like Stonehenge, where Cotigern, a Britiſh chief, was killed by Horſa, a Saxon general. Kiveton Tower, Yorkſhire, 6 miles from Rotherham.

KLATTAU, a town of Pilſen, in Bohemia.

KLETTENBURG, a town and lordſhip of Upper Saxony, 5 miles NW. of Nordhauſen.

KLINGNAU, a town of Baden, in Swiſſerland, 9 miles N. of Baden.

KLUNDERT, a fortreſs of S. Holland, ſituated near the arm of the ſea, called Holland's Deep, 9 miles SE. of Williamſtadt.

Knabill, Biſhop's, E. and W. or Knoyle, Wilts, between Hindon and Mere.

KNAPDALE, a diſtrict of Argyleſhire, N. of Cantire.

Knape, Somerſetſh. near Curry Mallet. Knapthorp, Nottingh. NW. of Newark. Knapteft, Leic. E. of Lutterworth. Knapton, Norfolk, between N. Walſham and the ſea. Knapton, Yorkſhire, SW. of York. Knapton, Yorkſ. by Pickering Common. Knapwell, 6 miles NW of Cambridge.

*KNARESBOROUGH, a town in the N. Riding of Yorkſhire, containing about 500 houſes. It is pleaſantly ſeated on the river Nid, over which it has a ſtone bridge, on a rough rugged rock, 18 miles W. by N. of York, and 211 N. by W. of London. It is famous for 4 medicinal ſprings, near each other, and yet of different qualities: the ſweet ſpa, or vitriolic well; the ſtinking, or ſulphureous and very fœtid ſpa; St. Mungoe's well, a cold bath: and the dropping well, ſuppoſed to be the moſt petrifying ſpring in England. The adjacent fields are alſo noted for licorice. It has a manufacture of linen cloth, ſheeting, &c. Market on Wedneſday.

Knareſdale, Northumb. NW. of Kirkhaugh. Knaſton, Dorſetſ. between Ringwood and Pool. Knath, Lincolnſ. near Gainſborough. Knaton, Yorkſ. between Burrowby and Thirſk. Knaveſton, Leiceſterſhire, S. of Hallaton. Knavefwell, Dorſetſhire, near Aylewood.

KNEBWORTH, a town of Herts, ſituated ated on a hill, or knap, (from whence it has it's name) between Hertford and Hitchin. Market on Friday.

Knedington, Yorkſhire, near Howden. Kneeſdale, Nott. NW. of Newark. Knep Caſtle, Suſſex, near Grimſtead Park. Kneſworth, Cambridgeſ. 1 mile from Royſton. Kneton, Yorkſhire, between Richmond and Darlington. Knetſhall, Suff. E. of Thetford. Kneveton, Nott. between Nottingham and Newark. Knewden, Northumb. W. of Blandland. Knightbridge, Berks, near Newbury, Knightcote, Warw. NE. of Kineton. Knighteſton, Devonſ. near St. Mary's Ottery. Knighteſton, Dorſetſ. in Purbeck Iſle. Knightley, W. of Stafford. Knightlow Hill, or Croſs, Warw. on the road from Coventry to London, at the entrance of Dunſmore Heath.

KNIGHTON, a fair, well-built, well-frequented town, of Radnorſhire, with a conſiderable trade. It is ſeated in a valley, on the river Tend, or Teme, which ſeparates it from Shropſhire, 14 miles NW. of Hereford, and 155 NW. of London. Market on Thurſday.

Knighton, Devonſhire, near Chidleigh. Knighton, Iſle of Wight, in Newchurch pariſh. Knighton, S. of Leiceſter. Knighton, Staffordſ. NE. of Drayton in Shropſ. Knighton, Wilts, near Saliſbury. Knighton, Worceſ. 3 miles NE. of Tenbury. Knighton, E. Dorſetſ. NW. of Blandford. Knighton, W. SE. of Dorcheſter. Knightſbridge, a village of Middleſex, adjoining London, on the great weſtern road.

Knightſbridge, in Cork, Munſter.

Knight's Green, Glouceſ. near Aſhelworth. Knightſthorp, Leiceſ. near Loughborough. Knightwick, Worc. near Bromyard. Knill, Hereford. S. of Preſteign, in Radnorſh. Kniſbrow Hill, Glouceſ. near Painſwick. Kniperſley, Staff. in Biddulph pariſh. Knipton, Leiceſterſ. S. of Belvoir Caſtle. Knireton, Derb. SW. of Wirkſworth. Knock, Weſtm. N. of Appleby.

Knockany, in Limerick, Munſter. Knockarding, in Tipperary, Munſter. Knockboy, in Monaghan, Ulſter, Knockerogbery, in Roſcommon, Connaught.

Knocking Caſtle, Shropſhire, SE. of Oſweſtry.

Knocklade, in Antrim, Ulſter. Knocklofty, in Tipperary, Munſter, on the banks of the Suir. Knocklong, in Limerick, Munſter. Knockmeledown, a mountain in Waterford, Munſter. Knockmill, in Carlow, Leinſter. Knockmourne, in Waterford, Munſter. Knockmyland, in Kilkenny, Leinſter. Knockmemariff, in Cork, Munſter. Knockniclaſſy, Knocknivoſi, and Knockowne, hills in Cork, Munſter.

*KNOCTOPHER, a town of Kilkenny, in Leinſter, 63 miles from Dublin.

Knoll, Dorſetſhire, near Eaſt Lulworth. Knoll, Dorſetſhire, E. of Buckland Abbas. Knoll, Glouc. near Briſtol. Knoll, Kent, near Sevenoaks. Knoll, Surry, in Cranley pariſh. Knoll, Warw. NW. of Balſhall. Knolle, Dorſetſ. near Corfe Caſtle. Knoll Hill, Eſſex, N. of Havering. Knotball, Suffolk, SE. of Saxmundham.

*KNOTSFORD, a town in Cheſhire, with a ſilk mill, and a manufacture of ſhag velvets. It is ſeated on a rivulet called Bicken, which divides it into two parts, 7 miles NE. of Northwich, and 173 NNW. of London. Market on Saturday.

Knotting, Bedfordſ. W. of Buſhmead. Knottingley, Yorkſhire, on the Aire, near Ferrybridge, is noted for it's great trade in lime. The ſtones are dug up plentifully at Elmet, and burnt here; from whence it is conveyed, in great quantities, to Wakefield, Stanbridge, &c. for ſale, to be carried into the W. parts, for manure. Knoweſley, Lanc. 5 miles from Liverpool. Knowle, Devonſhire, in Farway pariſh. Knowle, Devonſ. near Exmouth. Knowle, Dorſetſhire, near Corfe Caſtle. Knowle, Somerſetſ. S. of Bruton. Knowle Green, Middleſex, near Staines. Knowle Hill, Somerſetſhire, near Langport. About 60 years ago, a checkered pavement of white, blue, and red marble, was diſcovered near it. Knowles Hill, Derbyſ. near Stanton, remarkable for it's beautiful ſcenery and extenſive views. Knowlton, Dorſetſ. near Horton. Knowlton, Kent, near Wingham. Knowſton, Devonſ. near S. Moulton. Knoyle, Eaſt, Wilts, near Hindon. Knuke, Wilts, near Heyteſbury. Knutſhall, Staffordſh. S. of Leek. Knutton, Staffordſh. near Newcaſtle under Line. Knyno, a river in Pembrokeſhire, which runs into the Torvay, between Kennarth and Manerdue.

KOEI-TACHEOU, a province of China, one of the ſmalleſt in that empire, and full of inacceſſible mountains. It is inhabited by a people who are independent, and who would never ſubmit to the laws of the empire. However, the emperor has found means to build forts therein, and garriſon ſome of the towns; but all the taxes they can raiſe here will not defray the expence. This province is remarkable for it's copper mines, and, between the mountains, there are ſeveral fruitful vallies. They have neither ſilk nor cotton, and therefore they make their cloth of a ſort of graſs, like hemp. Their cows, ſtags, and wild hens are numerous, and the horſes are the beſt in China.

KOLA, a town of the Ruſſian government of Archangel, and the capital of Ruſſian Lapland. It has a good harbour on the river Kola, near the bay of the ſame name in the Frozen Ocean, where is a conſiderable fiſhery for whales, ſea-dogs, and other fiſh, which the inhabitants cure for ſale. Lat. 68. 34. N. lon. 32. 26. E.

KOLOMNA. See COLUMNA.

KOLYVAN, a government of the Ruſſian empire, bounded on the N. by the government of Tobolſk, on the E. by that of Irkutſk, and on the S. and W. by Tartary. It's capital, of the ſame name, is ſeated on the Oby, 480 miles SSE. of Tobolſkoi. This country has productive ſilver mines, which have been called the Potoſi of Ruſſia.

KONGSBERG, a town of Aggerhuys, in Norway, celebrated for it's ſilver mines. It contains about 1000 houſes, and 6000 inhabitants. It is 36 miles SW. of Chriſtiania.

KONGSWINGER, a town of Chriſtiania, in Norway, containing about 50 ſmall wooden houſes. It is 42 miles NE. of Chriſtiania.

KONIGSBERG, a town of Saxe Weimar, in Franconia: alſo a town of the New Marche, in Brandenburg; with ſeveral other towns in Germany; and one in Hungary.

KONIGSEGG. See CONINGSECK.

KONIGSHOFFEN, a town of Mentz.

KONIGSLUTTER, a town of Brunſwick Wolfenbuttle, in Lower Saxony.

KONIGSTEIN, a town of Meiſſen, in Upper Saxony, uſed as a place of confinement for ſtate priſoners; alſo a town of Sulzbach, in Bavaria; and a town and county in the circle of the Upper Rhine, 11 miles NW. of Frankfort on the Main, both in Germany; and a fortreſs of Norway.

KONINGSBERG, the capital of the kingdom of Pruſſia, with a univerſity, and a magnificent palace, in which is a hall 274 feet long, and 59 broad, without pillars to ſupport it, and a handſome library. The town houſe, the exchange, and the cathedral, are fine ſtructures. The tower of the caſtle is very high, and has 284 ſteps to the top, whence there is an extenſive proſpect. There are 18 churches in all, of which 14 are Lutherans, 3 Calviniſts, and 1 is Romiſh. The number of houſes is about 3800. The town is about 7 Engliſh miles in circumference, and, including the garriſon of 7000 men, contains 60,000 inhabitants. It ſtands on the Pregel, a navigable river, which here falls into the eaſtern extremity of the Friſche Haf, an inlet of the Baltic. No ſhips drawing more than 7 feet water can paſs the bar, and come up to the town; ſo that the large veſſels anchor at Pillau, a ſmall town on the Baltic, which is the port of Koningſberg; and the merchandiſe is ſent up in ſmaller veſſels. The trade of Koningſberg is very conſiderable. It is 115 miles N. of Warſaw. Lat. 54. 42. N. lon. 20. 48. E.

KONINGSGRATZ, a circle of Bohemia, with it's capital, on the Elbe, 58 miles E. of Prague.

KONITZ, a town of Schwartzburg Rodolſtadt, in Upper Saxony; a bailiwick of Berne, in Switzerland; and a town of Pruſſian Pomerania.

KOPORE, a town and river in the government of St. Peterſburgh, Ruſſia, 32 miles W. of Peterſburgh.

KOPYL, a town of Novogrodeck, in Lithuania.

KORIACS, a nation on the borders of Kamtſchatka, tributary to the Ruſſians. There are two ſorts of Koriacs. Thoſe who are properly called by that name have a fixed reſidence: the others are wanderers, and are known by the appellation of Rein-deer Koriacs. Their flocks are very numerous, and they maintain them by conducting them to thoſe cantons that abound with moſs. When theſe paſtures are exhauſted, they ſeek for others. In this manner they wander about inceſſantly, encamping under tents of ſkin, and ſupporting themſelves with the produce of their deer, which are as ſerviceable for draught to the Koriacs, as the dogs are to the Kamtſchadales. Their country is terminated to the S. by the peninſula of Kamtſchatka, and the Gulf of Penginſk; to the E. by the Ocean; to the N. by the country of the Tchoukchis; and to the W. by the Tonguſes, the Lamouts, and the Yakouts. It is confidently aſſerted, that this country was formerly very populous, and that the ſmall pox had made very conſiderable ravages; but it is doubted whether that diſeaſe has carried off more of the inhabitants than their frequent conteſts with their neighbours, and with the Ruſſians. The number of fixed Koriacs ſcarcely exceeds 400; and though it is not eaſy to calculate that of the wandering Koriacs, it is imagined that they do not much ſurpaſs this amount. Their regular occupation is hunting and fiſhing; but every ſeaſon will not permit them to follow it. During theſe intervals, ſhut up in their profound habitations, they ſleep, ſmoke, and get drunk. Thoughtleſs of the future, without regret for the paſt, paſt, they come not out of their yourts till the moſt urgent neceſſity compels them. Theſe yourts are larger than thoſe of the northern Kamtſchadales, but are diſtributed nearly in the ſame manner, and are hardly more clean or comfortable, as they have not a vent-hole, or chimney, for the emiſſion of the ſmoke. Like the Kamtſchadales, they live upon dried fiſh, and the fleſh and fat of the whale and ſea-wolf. The whale is commonly eaten raw, and the ſea-wolf dried and cooked in the ſame manner as their fiſh, except the ſinews, the marrow, the brain, and, now and then, a ſlice of the fleſh, which they devour raw with extreme avidity. Rein-deer is their favourite diſh. Vegetables alſo form a part of their food: they gather in autumn various ſorts of berries, of a part of which they make themſelves a refreſhing beverage, and the reſt is bruiſed to powder, and kneaded with the oil of the whale or ſea-wolf. Their paſſion for ſtrong liquors, increaſed by the dearneſs of brandy, and the difficulty of procuring it, has led them to invent a drink equally potent, which they extract from a red muſhroom, known in Ruſſia as a ſtrong poiſon, by the name of Moukhamorr. They put it in a veſſel with certain fruits, and it has ſcarcely time to clarify, when their friends are invited to partake of it. The entertainment laſts for one, two, or three days, till the beverage is exhauſted. Frequently, that they may not fail of being intoxicated, they eat the raw muſhroom at the ſame time. The wandering Koriacs have the ſame characteriſtic outlines as the Kamtſchadales. Among the women, particularly, there are very few who have not ſunk eyes, flat noſes, and prominent cheeks. The men are almoſt entirely beardleſs, and have ſhort hair. The women carry their children in a kind of neſt, or baſket, arched over, in which the infant is placed, in a ſitting poſture, and ſheltered from the weather. The Koriacs acknowledge a Supreme Being, the Creator of all things, and imagine that the ſun is his throne, or palace. They addreſs no prayer to him; goodneſs, they ſay, is his eſſence; all the good that exiſts in the world proceeds from him; and it is impoſſible that he ſhould do an injury. The principle of evil they conſider as a malignant ſpirit, and, to appeaſe his wrath, offer up, as expiatory ſacrifices, various animals newly born; as rein-deer and dogs, alſo the firſt fruits of their hunting and fiſhing, and whatever they poſſeſs that is moſt valuable.

KORIAKOV, a fortreſs of Ruſſia, in the government of Kolivan. It is ſituated on the Irtiſch, 192 miles SW. of Kolivan.

KORKAN, or JORJAN, a diſtrict or county on the E. ſide of the Caſpian Sea. It is flat, and ſubject to inundations; the heat is intolerable, and the air unwholeſome; the ſoil, however, is fertile in corn, wine, cotton, ſilk, and dates. The town of Korkan is in ruins.

KOSEL, a town of Oppeln, in Sileſia.

KOSTEL, a town of Brunn, in Moravia.

KOSTROMSKOE, a government of the Ruſſian empire, formerly included in that of Moſcow; it is bounded on the W. by Jaroſlaviſkoe, and on the N. by Vologadſkoe. The capital, Koſtróm, is ſeated on the river Koſtroma, at it's junction with the Volga, 168 miles NE. of Moſcow.

KOTO, a diſtrict of Africa, on the Slave Coaſt, extending about 6 leagues along the Atlantic. The principal town is called Koto, or Verbu.

KOWNO, a town of Troki, in Lithuania.

KRAINBURG, a town of Bavaria, ſeated on the river Inn, 35 miles E. of Munich.

KRAINBURG, a town of Carniola, ſeated on the river Save, 18 miles NW. of Laubach.

KRANOWITZ, a town of Troppau, in Sileſia.

KRAPPITZ, a town of Oppeln, in Sileſia.

KRASILOW, a town of Volhynia, in Poland.

KRASNOSLAW, a town of Chelm, in Poland.

KREKYTHE, a town of Carnarvonſhire ſeated on the Iriſh Sea, near Traeth Amawer Bay, 12 miles S. by E. of Caernarvon, and 237 NW. of London. Market on Wedneſday.

KREMPEM, a town of Daniſh Holſtein, 5 miles N. of Gluckſtadt.

KREMS, a town of Auſtria, ſeated on the river Danube, 35 miles W. of Vienna.

Kreſtow, Bucks, SW. of Wing. Kriekeith, Shropſhire, near Trevelock Foreſt. Kridling Park, Yorkſ. E. of Pontefract.

KRUMLAW, a town of Prachalitz, in Bohemia.

KUBESHA, a large town of Aſia, in the country of the Leſguis, one of the 7 Caucaſian nations, between the Black Sea and the Caſpian. Colonel Gaeber, who wrote an account of theſe countries in 1728, gives the following deſcription of this very curious place: "Kubeſha is a large ſtrong town, ſituated on a hill, between high mountains. It's inhabitants call themſelves Franki (Franks, a name common in the eaſt to all Europeans) and relate late, that their anceſtors were brought hither by ſome accident, the particulars of which are now forgotten. The common conjecture is, that they were caſt away upon the coaſt; but thoſe who pretend to be better verſed in their hiſtory, give the following account: The Greeks and the Genoeſe carried on, during ſeveral centuries, a conſiderable trade, not only on the Black Sea, but on the Caſpian, and were certainly acquainted with the mines contained in theſe mountains, from which they drew, by their trade with the inhabitants, great quantities of ſilver, copper, and other metals. In order to work theſe upon the ſpot, they ſent hither a number of workmen, to eſtabliſh manufactures, and inſtruct the inhabitants. The ſubſequent invaſions of the Arabs, Turks, and Monguls, during which the mines were filled up, and the manufactures abandoned, prevented the ſtrangers from effecting their return; ſo that they continued here, and erected themſelves into a republic. They are ſtill excellent artiſts, and make very good fire-arms, ſabres, coats of mail, and ſeveral articles in gold and ſilver, for exportation. They have likewiſe, for their own defence, ſmall copper cannon, of three pounds calibre, caſt by themſelves. They coin Turkiſh and Perſian ſilver money, and even rubles, which readily paſs current, becauſe they are of the full weight and value. In their valleys, they have paſture and arable land, as well as gardens; but they purchaſe the greater part of their corn, truſting chiefly for their ſupport to the ſale of their manufactures, which are much admired in Turkey, Perſia, and the Crimea. They are generally in eaſy circumſtances, and are a quiet, inoffenſive people, but high-ſpirited and independent. Their town is conſidered as a neutral ſpot, where the neighbouring princes can depoſit their treaſures with ſafety. They elect yearly twelve magiſtrates, to whom they pay the moſt unlimited obedience; and, as all the inhabitants are on a footing of the moſt perfect equality, each individual is ſure to have, in his turn, a ſhare in the government. In the year 1725, their magiſtrates, as well at the Uſnick, or Khan of the Caitaks, acknowledged the ſovereignty of Ruſſia, but without paying any tribute."

KUFSTEIN, a ſmall town of Tirol, with a caſtle built on a ſtupendous rock. It is ſituated on the Inn.

Kuxbridge, Dorſetſ. S. of Wareham.

KUR, a large river of Aſia, which riſes in Armenia, and paſſing by Teflis, and through the whole of Georgia, and part of Shirvan, &c. falls into the Caſpian Sea, 70 miles SSW. of Baku.

KURGAN, a river of Perſia, which riſes in Choraſan, and watering Aſtrabad, &c. falls into the Caſpian Sea, W. of that city.

KURILES, a chain of iſlands, extending from the ſouthern extremity of Kamtſchatka to Japan, chiefly valuable for their furs, particularly that of the ſea-otter. The inhabitants of the neighbourhood of Lopatka, who were themſelves called Kuriles, gave theſe iſlands the ſame name, as ſoon as they became acquainted with them. They are 22 in number, excluſive of the very ſmall ones. The northernmoſt iſland, which is called Shoomſka, and the next, which is named Paramonſic, were firſt viſited by the Ruſſians in 1713, and, at the ſame time, brought under their dominion. The others, in order, are at preſent made tributary, down to Ooſheſheer incluſive. Ooſheſheer is the ſouthernmoſt iſland that the Ruſſians have yet brought under their dominion, but they trade to Ooroop, which is the 18th. A group of iſlands lies to the SW. which the Japaneſe call Jeſo; a name which they alſo give to the whole chain of iſlands between Kamtſchatka and Japan. The ſouthernmoſt, called Matmai, hath been long ſubject to the Japaneſe, and is fortified aud garriſoned on the ſide toward the continent.

KURSKOI, a government of the Ruſſian empire, formerly part of that of Bielgorod. It is bounded by Orel on the N. and Vonetz on the E. It's capital, Kurſk, is ſeated on the Sem, 240 miles S. of Moſcow.

Kuſhmere, Suffolk, SE. of Beccles.

KUSISTAN. See CHUSISTAN.

KUTTENBURG, a town of Ceaſlaw, in Bohemia, remarkable for it's ſilver mines.

Kyar, Worceſterſhire, near Tenbury.

KYLBURG, a town of Treves, ſituated on the Kyll, 13 miles SSW. of Treves.

Kyle, in Wexford, Leinſter.

Kyley, Northumb. between Barrington and Holy Iſland. Kyme, N. and S. Linc. SW. of Tatterſhall. Kymere, Suſſex, near Ditchling. Kymeton, Somerſetſ. between Sherborn and Queen Camel. Kyme Church, Heref. near Munno. Kyneſley, Shropſ. N. of Wellington.

KYNETON. See KINGSTON.

Kyneton, Glouc. in the pariſh of Guiting Temple. Kyneton, Shropſ. SW. of Pembridge. Kyneton, Somerſetſ. NE. of Somerton, is naturally paved, for half a mile together, with one ſmooth, broad rock, which reſembles ice Kynley, Glouceſterſ. in Nimpsfield pariſh. Kynnerton, or Kinewarton, Warwickſ. near Aulceſter. Kynolton, Nottinghamſ. near Nether Broughton. Kyre Wyre, Worc. 3 miles SE. of Tenbury. Kyre Minor, Worc. a hamlet adjoining Kyre Wyre. Kyſtey, Lincolnſhire, SW. of Fokingham. Kyte Herdwic, Warwickſhire, between Lambcote and Edgehill.

LAA, a town of Auſtria, 4 miles S. of Vienna.

Labacally, an ancient, rude, ſepulchral monument, in Cork, Munſter. It conſiſts of large flags, (one of which is 17 feet long, 9 broad, and, in the middle, 3 feet thick) placed horizontally on others which are upright, and is about midway between Glenworth and Kilworth.

LABIA, a town of Servia.

LABIAU, a town of Smaland, in Pruſſia.

Laborn, Kent, near Malling. Laborn, Surry, near Godalmin. Labortye, Suſſex, E. of Eaſt Grinſtead.

LABOURD, a tract of France, on the Bay of Biſcay, which made part of Baſques. Bayonne was the capital. It abounds in fruit, and is now included in the department of Lower Pyrenees.

LABRADOR, an extenſive country to the E. of Hudſon's Bay, in N. America. The climate, even about Hay's River, in only lat. 57 N. is exceſſively cold during winter. The ſnows begin to fall in October, and continue falling, by intervals, the whole winter; and, when the froſt is moſt vigorous, in form of the fineſt ſand. The ice on the rivers is then 8 feet thick; port wine freezes in a ſolid maſs; brandy coagulates; and the very breath falls on the blankets of a bed in the form of a hoar froſt. The ſun riſes in the ſhorteſt day at five minutes paſt nine, and ſets five minutes before three. In the longeſt, it riſes at three, and ſets about nine. The ice begins to diſappear in May, and hot weather commences about the middle of June, which, at times, is ſo violent, as to ſcorch the faces of the hunters. Thunder is not frequent, but ſometimes violent. But there muſt neceſſarily be a great difference of heat and cold in this vaſt extent, which reaches from lat. 50. 40. to lat. 62. N. Mock ſuns and halos are not unfrequent: they are very bright, and richly tinged with all the colours of the rainbow. The ſun riſes and ſets with a large cone of yelloviſh light. The night is enlivened by the aurora borealis, which ſpreads a variety of different lights and colours over the whole concave of the ſky, not to be eclipſed even by the ſplendor of the full moon, and the ſtars of a fiery redneſs. The animals in theſe countries are, the mooſe deer, ſtags, rein-deers, bears, tigers, buffaloes, wolves, foxes, beavers, otters, lynxes, martins, ſquirrels, ermines, wild cats, and hares. The feathered kinds are geeſe, buſtards, ducks, partridges, and all kinds of wild fowl. Their fiſh are whales, morſes, ſeals, codfiſh, and a white fiſh preferable to herrings; and, in their rivers and freſh waters, pike, perch, carp, and trout. All the quadrupeds in theſe countries are clothed with a cloſe, ſoft, warm fur; and even the dogs and cats from Britain, that have been carried into Hudſon's Bay, on the approach of winter, have changed their appearance, and acquired a much longer, ſofter, thicker coat of hair than they originally had. In ſummer there is here, as in other places, a variety in the colour of the ſeveral animals; when that ſeaſon is over, which holds only for three months, they all aſſume the livery of winter, and every ſort of beaſts, and moſt of their fowls are of the colour of the ſnow: every thing animate and inanimate is white. The ſoil in the parts that are known, is mountainous and poor, affording only coarſe plants which are well adapted to the ſupport and nouriſhment of deer and goats, but do not appear proper for horſes, kine, or ſheep; and all the E. coaſt exhibits a moſt barren and iron-bound appearance. The coaſts in general, abound, however, with large convenient, and ſafe harbours; and, in the bays, are thouſands of iſlands, wherein innumerable multitudes of eider ducks, and other water-fowl breed. The climate is remarkably healthy, and few parts of the world produce better furs. There are ſeveral Moravian ſettlements on the E. coaſt, the principal of which is Nain.

Labrun, Yorkſhire, N. of Midlam.

LACCADIVE ISLANDS, a group of ſmall iſlands in the Indian Ocean, the neareſt of which is about 120 miles from the coaſt of Malabar. They are but little known. Lat. 10. to 12. 40. N. lon. 71. 15. to 73. 30. E.

Lacerton, Dorſetſhire, near Stourpain. Lach, near Cheſter. Lachford, Cheſhire.

near Warrington. Lachingdon, Eſſex, NW. of Burnham.

LACHSA, a county of Arabia, denominated alſo HADSJAR, and ſometimes BAHREIN, though the laſt name belongs, in ſtrict propriety, only to the iſlands of Aval. It is bounded by the territories of wandering Arabs on the N. on the E. by the Perſian Gulf, on the S. by Oman, and on the W. by Nesjid. It is ſubject to the ſcheick of Beni Khaled. It's aſſes and camels are excellent; of the latter, ſome thouſands are ſold annually into Syria.

LACK, or BISCHOFFS LACK, a town of Carniola, trading in iron, ſteel, quickſilver, corn, and linen.

Lackford, Suffolk, SE of Mildenhall. Lackmore End, Middl. near Enfield Waſh. Lacock, Wilts, near Chippenham. Lacock, Yorkſhire, W. of Keighley. Lacon, Shropſ. NE. of Wem. Ladbrook, Warw. on the river Ichen, S. of Southam. Laden, a river in Herefordſhire, which runs into the Frome at Stretton.

LADENBURG, a town in the palatinate of the Rhine; and a town of Oſnaburg, in Weſtphalia.

Ladford, Devonſhire, in Shebbear pariſh. Ladle Hill, Hants, near Sidmanton. Ladock, Cornwall, NE. of Truro.

LADOGA, a lake in Ruſſia, ſituated between the Gulf of Finland, and the Lake of Onega. It is about 100 miles long, and from 50 to 60 broad, and is the largeſt lake in Europe. Among the fiſh, with which it abounds, are ſeals. It is full of quickſands, which, being moved from place to place, by the frequent ſtorms to which it is ſubject, cauſe ſeveral ſhelves along it's courſe, on which the flat-bottomed veſſels of the Ruſſians are ſometimes wrecked. This induced Peter I. to cauſe a canal to be cut from the SW. extremity of this lake to the river Neva, by which it has a communication with the Gulf of Finland. It was begun in 1718, and finiſhed in 1732; and is 67 miles long, and 70 feet broad.

LADOGA, NEW, a town in the government of St Peterſburgh, ſituated on the S. coaſt of the Lake of Ladoga, 56 miles E. of St Peterſburgh.

LADOGNA. See CEDOGNA.

LADRONE, or MARIAN ISLANDS, iſlands of the N. Pacific Ocean, about 1800 miles E. of Canton, in China, and occupying a ſpace of 150 leagues in extent. They are ſaid to be 16 in number, excluſive of the ſmall iſlets and rocks, and contain, beſides other fruits natural to the ſoil and climate, that extraordinary and uſeful plant, the bread-fruit tree, which was firſt diſcovered here. The names of the principal iſlands are Guam, Saypan, Tinian, and Rota.

Ladwell, Herts, W. of Baldock. Lady Croſs Hill, Yorkſ. SW. of Barnſley.

Lady Iſland, in Wexford, Leinſter. Lagan, a river in Down, Ulſter. Laggan Bridge, in Monaghan, Ulſter.

Lagham, Surry, near Godſtone.

Lagby, in Donegal, Ulſter.

LAGNY, a town in the dept. of Seine and Marne, ſeated on the river Marne, 18 miles E. of Paris.

LAGOON ISLAND, in the S. Pacific Ocean, diſcovered by Capt. Cook, in 1769. A lagoon occupies the middle and much the larger part of it. The whole iſland, being diſjoined by reefs, it looks like a number of iſlands joined together. It is covered with wood, and trees of different verdure, cocoa nut, palm-trees, &c. Lat. 18. 47. S. lon. 139. 28. W.

LAGOS, a ſea-port of Portugal, in Algarve, where the Engliſh fleets, bound to the Straits, uſually take in freſh water. Near this town is Cape Lagos, 120 miles S. of Liſbon. Lat. 37. 2. N. lon. 8. 33. W.

LAGUNA, or CHRISTOBAL DE LA LAGUNA, (ſo named from a lake, a little to the E. of the town, now only an inconſiderable piece of water) a handſome town of the Iſland of Teneriffe, one of the Canaries, containing 2 pariſh churches, ſeveral convents, and an hoſpital. The ſtreets are large and handſome. The governor has a palace here, but generally reſides at Santa Cruz. It is well ſupplied with water, and is ſituated on a ſmall eminence, every day refreſhed with cooling breezes, in lat. 28. 28. N. and lon. 16. 28. W.

LAGUNA, a town of Venezuela, in Terra Firma, on the W. ſide of Lake Maracaybo.

LAGUNES OF VENICE, are marſhes, or lakes, in Italy, on which Venice is ſeated, and which communicate with the ſea. There are about 60 iſlands in theſe Lagunes. Eurano is the moſt conſiderable, next to thoſe on which the city of Venice ſtands.

LAHAB, a town of Auſtria, 26 miles N. of Vienna.

LAHOLM, a ſea-port of Sweden, in Halland, 12 miles SSE. of Halmſtadt.

LAHORE, the capital of a province of the ſame name, in Hindooſtan Proper, and in the Panjab, or Country of the Five Rivers, or five eaſtern branches of the Indus. It is a place of high antiquity, and was the reſidence of the Mahometan conquerors of Hindooſtan, before they had eſtabliſhed themſelves in the central parts of the country. It owed it's modern improvements, however, to Humaioon, the father of Acbar, who made it his reſidence, during a part of his troubleſome reign. They ſay that, including the ſuburbs, it was 3 leagues in length at that period; and when he ſaw it, in 1665, the city itſelf was above a league in extent. Ice is brought from the northern mountains to Lahore, and ſold there all the year. The famous avenue of ſtately trees, ſo much ſpoken of by the early Indian travellers, began at Lahore, and extended to Agra, near 500 Engliſh miles. Lahore is now the capital of the Seiks, a new power, whoſe name, even as a ſect, was hardly known till the rapid decline of the Mogul's empire, in the preſent century. Here they have extenſive manufactures of cotton cloths, and ſtuffs of all kinds, and they make very curious carpets. It is ſituated on the S. bank of the Rauvee, 280 miles N. by W. of Delhi, and 420 E. of Candahar. Lat. 31. 15. N. lon. 72. 48. E.

LAHORE, a province in Hindooſtan Proper, oftener called Panjab, and bounded on the W. by Cabul and Candahar, on the N. by Cachemire, on the E. and SE. by Sirinagur and Delhi, and on the S. by Moultan. It is near 300 miles in length from E. to W. and about 100 miles from N. to S. The ſoil is remarkably fertile, abounding in rice, corn, vines, ſugars, cotton, wool, and fruits of every kind. In the tract between the Indus and the Behat are ſalt-ſprings, wonderfully productive, and affording fragments of rock ſalt, hard enough to be formed into veſſels, &c.

Laighton, or Low Layton, Eſſex, 5 miles E. of London. Laikirk, Yorkſhire, NW. of Barnard Caſtle. Laindon Hills; ſee Langdon.

LAINO, a town of Calabria Citra, ſeated on, or near, the river Laino, 19 miles WNW. of Caſſano.

Lainſton, Hants, near Wincheſter. Lair Marney, Eſſex, near St. Oſyth. Laith, Cumb. in Acton pariſh. Lake, Dorſetſh. near Winborn Minſter. Lake, Wilts, SW. of Ameſbury. Lake, South, Linc. near Market Deeping. Lakenham, adjoining Norwich. Lakingheath, Suffolk, SW. of Brandon.

LALAND, a ſmall iſland of Denmark, in the Baltic, lying S. of Zealand, from which it is ſeparated by a narrow channel. It is reckoned the moſt fertile ſpot in the Daniſh dominions, producing all ſorts of grain, particularly very fine wheat and excellent peaſe. Naſkow is the capital.

Laland Iſle, Cornwall, at the mouth of Padſtow Haven. Lalant, Cornwall, near the bottom of St. Ives' Bay. Lalcham, Middleſex, near the Thames, between Shepperton and Staines. Lamb Alley, Kent, near Dartford.

LAMBALLE, a town in the dept. of the North Coaſt, trading in cattle, linen, and parchment. It is 37 miles NW. of Rennes.

Lambart Caſtle, and Hill, Dorſetſhire, E. of Axminſter.

LAMBAY, an iſland on the coaſt of the county of Dublin, about 12 miles NE. of the metropolis, to which parties of pleaſure frequently repair in ſummer.

LAMBAYEQUE, a town of Sana, in Truxillo, in the country of Peru, containing about 1500 houſes, built, ſome of brick, and others of cane plaſtered over. It is ſituated on a rivulet of the ſame name, near the coaſt, in lat. 6. 42. S.

Lambcete, or Lorncote, Nott. near the Trent, SW. of Bingham. Lambcott, Warw. near Lower Eatendon. Lambhurſt, Kent, SW. of Goudhurſt.

LAMBESC, a town in the dept. of the Mouths of the Rhone, 10 miles NW. of Aix.

Lambeth, a village of Surry, on the Thames, oppoſite Weſtminſter. By the vaſt increaſe of buildings, it is now joined to the metropolis, in a direction to each of the three bridges. Lambeth Palace, in which the archbiſhops of Canterbury have reſided, ever ſince the year 1109, contains ſtately and magnificent apartments: the gallery is well furniſhed with the portraits of all the archbiſhops, and other eminent perſonages; and it's noble library is filled with MSS. of great value.

LAMBORN, a town in Berks, ſeated on a ſmall river of the ſame name, (which is remarkable for being high in the ſummer and low in the winter, and falls into the Kennet below Newbury,) 7 miles N. of Hungerford, and 68 W. of London. Market on Friday.

Lamborne, Eſſex, 4 miles from Eppin. Lambrigg, Weſtm. near Kendal.

LAMBRO, a river of Italy, which riſes in the duchy of Milan, about 7 miles N. from Como, and runs into the Po, about 5 miles above Placenza.

Lambrook, E. and W. Somerſetſh. near Kingſbury. Lamchane, Cornwall, near Fowey.

LAMEGO, a town of Portugal, in Beira.

Lamer, Herts, on the N. ſide of the river Lea, in Wheat Hamſtead parish. It's church, built like a cathedral, is thought to be the oldeſt in the county: the rood appears to be left in it ſtill, which ſerves for the clerk's deſk. Lamerſh, ſex, S. of Sudbury. Lamerton, or Lamberton, Devonſ. 2 miles from Taviſtock. Lamiford, Cumb. on the borders of Scotland and Northumberland. Lamitor Iſle, Devonſ. adjoins Lundy. It abounds with ſamphire. Lamley, Northumb. near Featherſtonhaugh. Lamley, Nott by Sherwood Foreſt. Lamley Lodge, Rutland, W. of Ridlington Park. Lammas, Norfolk, near Wurſted.

LAMMERMUIR, a mountainous ridge in Scotland, which divides the county of Berwick from that of Haddington for above 20 miles. The mountains are, in general, covered with heath, and afford but ſcanty paſture for the ſheep that feed on them.

Lammoram, Cornw. SW. of Tregony.

LAMO, an iſland and ſea port of Africa, on the coaſt of Zanguebar, in lat. 2. 0. S. and lon. 40. 24. E. The king and government, being Mahometans, are frequently at war with the reſt of the inhabitants, who are Pagans. In 1589, the king of this iſland was beheaded by the Portugueſe. His crime, whether real or pretended, was his having baſely betrayed the governor of the coaſt. For this he was ſeized, with four of his Mahometan ſubjects, in his own capital, and carried to Pate, where they were publicly executed, in the preſence of the king of that iſland, and of ſeveral petty kings of the neighbouring iſlands; ever ſince which, Lamo has been tributary to the Portugueſe.

Lamony, Cumberland, NW. of Penrith. Lamorney Point, Cornwall, W. of Mount's Bay.

LAMPEDOSA, an uninhabited, but pleaſant and fertile, iſland, on the coaſt of Tunis, about 12 miles in circumference, with a good harbour, well ſupplied with freſh water, where ſhips touch at. It contains a building, divided into a church and a moſque, which is viſited by both Catholics and Mahometans. Near it is a magazine, well provided, where veſſels may find neceſſaries, for which they depoſit the value, in a cheſt, if money, and in the church, if goods. On certain days, ſome Sicilian monks come to collect the depoſits, and bring other ſtores. The profits are applied to the benefit of the hoſpital at Trapani. Lat. 36. 10. N. lon. 11. 0. E.

Lampis End, Glouc. in Hartpury pariſh. Lamplugh, Cumb. between Cockermouth and Egremont. Lamport, Bucks, in Stow pariſh. Lamport, 6 miles from Northampton. Lambton, near Durham. Lampton, Midd. near Hounſlow. Lamridge, Weſtmorland, NE. of Kendal.

LAMPSAKI, a town of Natolia, celebrated for it's wine.

Lamſley, Durham, near Ravenſworth Caſtle. Lampſton, Hants, SE. of Portſmouth. Lamyat, Somerſ. W. of Bruton.

LANARTH, a town of Cardiganſhire, 195 miles from London. Market on Tueſday.

Lanſeech, Cambridgeſhire, not 2 miles from Burwell. Lanbrigan, Cornwall, NE. of St. Allen. Lancant, Glouceſterſhire, N. of Chepſtow on the Wye.

LANCASHIRE, a county of England, bounded on the W. by the Iriſh Sea, on the N. by Cumberland and Weſtmorland, on the E. by Yorkſhire, and on the S. by Cheſhire. It is 74 miles from north to ſouth (including a detached hundred on the northweſt, called Furneſs, which is ſeparated from the reſt by a creek, at the head of Morecambe Bay) and from 15 to 44 in it's greateſt breadth. It is divided into 6 hundreds, which contain 26 market towns, 62 pariſhes, 894 villages, about 43,000 houſes, and 200,000 inhabitants. The air, in general, is very healthful, the inhabitants living to a great age. This county compriſes a variety of ſoil and face of country; but, upon the whole, it is one of thoſe which are the leaſt favoured as to natural advantages, a proof of which is the ancient thinneſs of it's population, ſhown by the very ſmall number of pariſhes into which it is divided. The hundred of Furneſs is a wild and rugged region, ſtored with quantities of iron ore and ſlate, and covered with a growth of underwood, which is cut in ſucceſſion, and made into charcoal for the uſe of the iron furnaces. The eaſtern part of the county between the Ribble and the Merſey, compriſing the ancient foreſts of Wyreſdale and Bowland, is mountainous and generally barren; but the ſouthern part of the tract between theſe two rivers is flat, quite from the ſea to the commencement of the ridge called Blackſtone-edge, that ſeparates the county from Yorkſhire. Much of this is a fertile country, though occaſionally deformed by the black turf bogs, here called moſſes: ſome of which are of large extent, and abſolutely impaſſable in wet ſeaſons. In the north-eaſt part of this diviſion are ſome lofty hills, the moſt noted of which is Pendle Hill. The remaining part is varied with hill, dale, and moor. The natural products of this country are of little conſequence, except the coal and turf with which it's ſouthern parts abound. Of the former is a ſpecies, called cannel, far exceeding all other, not only in making a clear fire, but for being capable of being manufactured into candleſticks, cups, ſtandiſhes, ſnuff-boxes, &c. and of being poliſhed, ſo as to repreſent a beautiful black marble. Lancaſhire is little adapted for a corn country, not only, in many parts, from the nature of it's ſoil, but from the remarkable wetneſs of it's climate; the land, however, is ſingularly fitted to the growth of the potatoe. All the rivers afford ſalmon; and the Merſey is viſited by annual ſhoals of ſmelts, here called ſparlings, of remarkable ſize and flavour. As a commercial and manufacturing county, Lancaſhire is diſtinguiſhed beyond moſt others in the kingdom. It's principal manufactures are linen, ſilk, and cotton goods; fuſtians, counterpanes, ſhalloons, bays, ſerges, tapes, ſmall wares, hats, ſail-cloth, ſacking, pins, iron goods, caſt plate glaſs, &c. Of the commerce of this county, it may ſuffice to obſerve, that Liverpool is the third, if not the ſecond, port in the kingdom. The principal rivers are the Merſey, Irwell, Ribble, Lone, Levon, Wyre, Hodder, Roche, Duddon, Winſter, Ken, and Calder, and it has two conſiderable lakes, Winander Mere and Coniſton Water. Lancaſter is the county town.

*LANCASTER, the county town of Lancaſhire, is an ancient, well-built, and rapidly improving town, containing about 1160 houſes, and 1600 families. On the ſummit of a hill ſtands the caſtle, which is not ancient, but large and ſtrong, and now ſerves both as the ſhire-houſe and the county-goal. On the top of this caſtle is a ſquare tower, called John of Gaunt's Chair, where there is a fine proſpect of the mountains of Cumberland, and of the courſe of the Lone; the view toward the ſea, extending to the Iſle of Man. The town hall is a handſome ſtructure. Lancaſter carries on a conſiderable trade, eſpecially to the Weſt Indies, America, and the Baltic. The exports are hardware, woollen goods, candles, and cabinet work, for the making which laſt it is noted; and it has alſo a manufacture of ſail-cloth. It is ſeated on the river Lune, which here forms a port for veſſels of moderate ſize, and over which it has a new ſtone bridge of 5 elliptical arches, 66 miles S. of Carliſle, and 235 NNW. of London. Lat. 54. 4. N. lon. 2. 56. W. Markets on Wedneſday and Saturday, and one on every other Wedneſday for cattle.

LANCASTER, the county town of a county of the ſame name, in Pennſylvania. It's trade is large, and daily increaſing. It contains an elegant court houſe, and a college, founded in 1787, named Franklin College, with ſeveral churches, and about 5000 ſouls. It is ſeated near the Suſquehanna, 55 miles W. of Philadelphia.

LANCASTER, a town of Maſſachuſets; a county of S. Carolina; and a county of Virginia.

Lancant, Glouc. in Tiddenham pariſh.

LANCEROTTA, one of the Canary Iſlands, about 30 miles long and 24 broad. It is very high, and may be diſcovered at a great diſtance. It abounds in grain, fruits, goats, horned cattle, hares, camels, and aſſes. There is a haven in the NE. end, where ſhips may lie land-locked from all winds, in 10, 15, and 20 fathoms. Lat. 29. 14. N. lon. 13. 26. W.

Lancheſter, NW. of Durham.

LANCIANO, a town of Abruzzo Citra, of which it is the capital. It is 84 miles N. of Naples.

Lancras, Devonſ. near Shebbear. Lancton, E. and W. Leic. SW. of Hallaton.

LANDAFF, a ſmall town of Glamorganſhire, ſeated on an aſcent, on the river Taſe, near Cardiff; but the cathedral, a large, ſtately building, ſtands on low ground. It is a place of good trade, but has no market, and is 30 miles NW. of Briſtol, and 166 W. of London.

LANDAU, a ſtrongly fortified town in the dept. of the Lower Rhine, containing 4 churches, and about 4000 inhabitants. It was ceded to France by the treaty of Baden, in 1714, and is ſituated on the river Queich, 204 miles nearly E. of Paris.

Landbeach, 5 miles N. of Cambridge. Landcan, Cheſh. between the Dee and the Merſey. Landcloe, Carmarthenſ. Landeaſt, Yorkſ. SE. of Halifax. Landcaſt, Cornwall, W. of Launceſton.

LANDEN, a town of Auſtrian Brabant, where the allies, under King William and the Elector of Bavaria, were defeated by the Duke of Luxemburg, July 29, 1693. The French, were repulſed two or three times, and loſt a great many officers and men, but returning to the charge, they gained a victory, which, however, coſt them dear, having 15,000 killed, and between 9 and 10,000 wounded. The confederates loſt 60 pieces of cannon, 9 mortars, &c. with ſeveral ſtandards, colours, and about 7000 men killed and wounded. The French army amounted to 80,000 men, and that of the allies to leſs than one-third of that number. It is ſeated on the river Beck, 17 miles NW. of Huy.

LANDERNEAU, a town in the dept. of Finiſterre, ſeated on the river Elliorn, 16 miles NE. of Breſt.

LANDES, a department of France, a part of what was heretofore called Landes, and includes Marſan, in Gaſcony; bounded on the N. by the dept. of the Gironde, and on the S. by the Lower Pyrenees. It takes it's name from a diſtrict called Landes, extending along the coaſt of the Bay of Biſcay. This is a barren, ſandy, country, covered with fern, pines, and the holm tree; of the bark of which corks are made. The ſoil, however, is improved by manuring it with marl, and ſowing it with rye. It is thinly peopled. Mont de Marſan and Dax are the principal towns.

and

Landeza, Cornwall, S. of Launceſton. Landewenake, Cornw. near the Lizard Point. Landford, Dorſetſ. 1 mile from Grimſton. Landgreat, Linc. has a ferry over the Witham. Landguard Fort, in the limits of Eſſex, though on the Suffolk ſide of the harbour of Harwich. Landhouſe, Yorkſ. N. of Malton. Landlip, or Landilp, Cornw. N. of Saltaſh, near the Tamar. Landmouth, Yorkſ. SE. of Northallerton. Land, North, Yorkſ. SW. of Halifax.

LANDRECY, a town in the dept. of the North, ſeated on the river Sambre, 17 miles SW. of Queſnoy, and 100 N. by E. of Paris. It was taken by the French, under the Marechals Turenne and Ferte, in the year 1655, after 10 days open trenches, in ſight of the Spaniſh army, conſiſting of 35,000 men, under the Prince of Condé, and was ceded to France by the peace of the Pyrenees. The French greatly enlarged it's fortifications, and made it one of the ſtrongeſt places in the country. It was taken by Prince Eugene of Savoy and the Duke of Ormond, July 31, 1712, after a ſiege of 14 days.

LANDSBERG, a town of Natanzen, in Pruſſia; a town of Stiria; a town of Hoya, in Weſtphalia, ſituated on the Weſer; a town of Deux Ponts, Upper Rhine; a town of Upper Bavaria, ſituated on the Lech, 18 miles S. of Augſburg; a town of Leipſic, in Upper Saxony; and a town in the New Marche of Brandenburg, ſituated on the Warta, 20 miles E. of Cuſtrin. It has ſeveral manufactures of ſtuff and cloth, with a conſiderable trade in wool.

LANDSBERG ALT, a town in the Middle Marche of Brandenburg, 14 miles ENE. of Berlin.

LANDSCROON, a fort in the dept. of Upper Rhine, 5 miles SW. of Baſle.

LANDSCROON, or LANDSCRONA, a ſea-port of Schonen, in Sweden, with a good harbour, between the continent and a ſmall iſland, about 20 feet deep. It is a ſtaple town, and has a garriſon, with ſome old fortifications, and new works are erecting, with a view to command the whole coaſt of Schonen, along the Sound. It is 21 miles NW. of Lund. Alſo, a town of Cracow, in Poland; and of Czaſlau, in Bohemia.

Landſdown, Somerſetſhire, near Bath.

LAND'S END, a promontory of Cornwall, the moſt weſterly point of Great Britain, and a vaſt aggregate of moor ſtone. Lat. 50. 6. N. lon. 5. 40. W.

LAND'S END, a cape of Kent, on the NE. coaſt of the Iſland of Shepey, about 4 miles NW. from Shelneſs.

LANDSCHUT, a town of Schweidnitz, in Sileſia.

LANDSHUT, an open, well-built town of Lower Bavaria, capital of a government of the ſame name. It contains a electoral palaces, a pariſh church, 6 convents, and a college. The ſteeple of it's church is reckoned the higheſt in Germany. It is ſituated on the Iſer, 32 miles NE. of Munich. Alſo, a town of Lemburg, in Poland, 72 miles W. of Lemburg.

LANDSHUT, a town of Brunn, in Moravia.

Landwade, Camb. near Newmarket.

Lane, or Laun, a river in Kerry, Munſter, which runs from Lough Lane into Caſtlemain Bay.

LANE, LAKE, or LOUGH, a name given to the Lake of Killarney, which ſee.

Lanedelf, Staff. in the pariſh of Stoke upon Trent. Lanercoſt Priory, Cumb. near Naworth, in a romantic valley, N. of the river Irthing, and a little S. of the Picts' Wall. It's remains conſiſt of the priory church, and ſome few of the offices of the monaſtery, fitted up for a farm houſe. In the chancel, which is in ruins, amidſt ſhrubs, brambles, and nettles, appear ſeveral very elegant tombs of the Dacre family. On a ſtone, on the inſide of the E. wall, is the following inſcription: "Robert de Vallibus, the ſon of Hubert, lord of Giſland, founder of the priory of Lanercoſt. A. D. 1116."

LANERK, a town of Lanerkſhire, ſeated on the NE. ſide of the river Clyde, 19 miles SE. of Glaſgow.

LANERKSHIRE, a county of Scotland, bounded on the N. and NE by the counties of Dumbarton, Stirling, Linlithgow, and Edinburgh; on the E. by the counties of Peebles and Dumfries; on the S. by Dumfrieſshire; and on the W. by the ſhires of Ayr and Renfrew. It's extent, from N. to S. is about 40 miles, and it's mean breadth about 22. The ſouthern part of this county is generally called Clydeſdale. The river Clyde divides this county into two equal parts, called the ſhire of Lanerk and the barony of Glaſgow; the one hilly, healthy, and fit for paſture; and the other level, and proper for corn. It abounds with coal and lime ſtones; has ſome lead mines, and quarries of lapis lazuli. The principal rivers are the Clyde, Annan, and Tweed.

Laneſborough, 6 miles from York.

LANESBOROUGH, a town of Langford, in Leinſter, ſeated on the Shannon, over which there is a bridge into Roſcommon, 7 miles SW. of Longford, and 62 WNW. of Dublin.

Langanby, Cumb. SE. of Salkeld.

LANGANICO, or SUNRI, anciently OLYMPIA, a town in the Morea, ſituated on a ſmall river, called Carbon, anciently Alpheus, 60 miles SW. of Corinth. It is, at preſent, an inconſiderable place, but was formerly of great note, and particularly for it's ſpectacles or games, held every fifth year, and from which the computation of time, in Greece, by olympiads took it's riſe. In this city was a magnificent temple of Jupiter Olympus, with a celebrated image of that god, 50 ells high.

Langar, Nott. on the Trent, W. of Belvoir Caſtle.

LANGBEAR, Devonſ. in High Haynton pariſh; has, or had, a market on Friday.

Langborough, Cumb. W. of Carliſle. Langcliff, Yorkſ. near Settle. Langcotes, Dorſetſ. in Winfrith pariſh. Langdale, Weſtmorland, SE. of Orton. Langdale, Great and Little, Weſtmorl. W. of Ambleſide. Here are two high hills, called Hardknot and Wreynoſe, on the latter of which, a rivulet divides Cumberland from Weſtmorland: near it are ſome copper mines. Landale End, Yorkſ. S. of Whitby. Langdon, Cornw. NW. of Launceſton. Langdon, Devonſhire, near Plympton. Langdon, the name of 2 pariſhes, in Eſſex, contiguous to each other, in the road from Chelmsford to Tilbury Fort. The firſt is called Langdon with Boſildon; the ſecond, Langdon Hills, or Langdon with Weſt Lea. From this laſt, a moſt aſtoniſhing proſpect, on the SE. and SW. breaks out almoſt at once from one of the dark lanes; it exhibits a very beautiful and extenſive valley, with a view of London to the right; the Thames winding through the valley, full of ſhips ſailing up and down; the view extending to the left beyond the Medway, and bounded in front by the hills of Kent. Langdon Hills are 22 miles E. by N. of London. Langden, and it's Foreſt, Durham, on the borders of Cumberland, near the Tees. Langdon, a river in Durham, which runs into the Tees below Teeſdale Foreſt. Langdon, Weſt, Kent, between Barham Down and the ſea. Langdon, Eaſt, Kent, N. of Dover Caſtle. Langdon Hall, Warwickſhire, in Solihull pariſh.

LANGEAC, a town in the dept. of Upper Loire, ſeated near the river Allier, 17 miles E. of St. Flour.

LANGEAIS, a town in the dept. of Indre and Loire, ſeated on the Loire, 12 miles W. of Tours.

LANGELAND, a very fertile iſland of Denmark, in the Baltic, between the iſlands of Laland and Funen, about 30 miles long, and from 3 to 5 broad. It produces plenty of corn. The only town is Rutcoping.

Langenhoe, Eſſex, NW. of St. Oſyth.

LANGENTHAL, a town of Bern, in Swiſſerland, noted for 3 great annual fairs for linen cloth, cheeſe, cattle, horſes, grain &c. It is 18 miles NE. of Berne.

Langerſton, Suff. a ſhoal of land, for miles about Landguard Fort, on which the fiſhermen dry their nets. Langfield, Yorkſ. W. of Halifax.

LANGFORD, a town of Kentucky.

Langford, Bedf. near Biggleſwade. Langford, Berks, near Lechdale. Langford, Cornw. S. of Stratton. Langford, Devonſ. near Kentiſhear. Langford, Derby, near Aſhbourn. Langford, Eſſex, near Malden. Langford, Oxf. near Aulceſter. The Akeman Street paſſes over it's brook. Langford, Norf. NE. of Methwold. Langford, Norf. between Brandon Ferry and Watton. Langford, Shropſ. near Newport. Langford, Somerſ. 10 miles from Briſtol. Langford, Somerſ. 2 miles from Wellington. Langford, Somerſetſ. near Churchill. Langford, Iſle of Wight, E. Medina. Langford, Dorſetſ. N. Frampton. Langford, Wilts, E. Downton. Langford, Devonſ. near Modbury. Langford, Little and Steple, Wilts, NW. of Wilton. Langforth, or Langford, Nott. N. of Newark. Langhaire, Cornw. between Tregony and Trewidryth Bay. Langhail, Norf. near Kirſted. Langham, Rutland, a chapelry Okeham. Langham, Eſſex, W. of Maningtree. Langham, Nott. NE. of Tuxford. Langham, Suff. between Bardwell and Walſham, in the Willows. Langham, Great and Little, Norf. near Weſt NW. of Holt. Lanbaugh, Northumb. near the Cheviot Hills. Langhern, Northumb. in the barony of Bothal. Langhi Weſtm. near the rivers Lune and Riſedale. Langhoe Hall, Lancaſhire, N. Blackburn.

LANGHOLM, a town of Dumfrieſſhire ſeated on the river Eſk.

Langhorn

Langborn, Iſle of Wight; in W. Medina.

LANGIONE. See LANJAN.

Langley, near Derby. Langley, SW. of Durham. Langley, Durham, NW. of Stindrop. Langley, Durh. SE. of Lanchester. Langley, Eſſex, in Great Waltham pariſh. Langley, Eſſex, E. of Barkway. Langley, Herts. SW. of Stevenage. Langley, Kent, near Maidſtone. Langley, Kent, near Bromley. Langley, Norfolk, near London Eaſtcoat. Langley, Shropſ. near Acton Burnel. Langley, Hants, in the New Foreſt. Langley, Leic. E. of Stanton Harold. Langley, Devonſhire, in High Bickington pariſh. Langley, Oxf. near Wichwood Foreſt. It is noted for a remarkable quarry of hard ſtone, of the teſtaceous kind, which receives a very good poliſh, and is thought to make the beſt lime ſtone. King John had a palace here, ſome veſtiges of which, in a barn and farm-houſe, with Gothic arches and windows, a park wall, 10 feet high, &c. yet remain. The royal family often removed hither from Woodſtock. Langley, Glouc. in Winchcomb pariſh. Langley, Warw. near Claverdon. Langley Abbot's, Herts, SW. of St. Alban's. Langley Burrel, Wilts, N. of Chippenham. Langley Caſtle, Northumb. on an eminence, near the S. Tyne. It is built in the form of the letter H, with 4 towers, one at the extremity of each wing. The walls are 7 feet thick, and the NE. tower 66 feet high. Several of the rooms, which are vaulted, remain entire. Langley, King's, Herts, W. of the river Buiburn, or Hunton, as Abbot's Langley is on the E. had a royal palace, built by Henry III. where king Richard II. with his queen, and many of the nobility, kept a Chriſtmas. Here alſo was born and buried, Edmund, duke of York, ſon of Edward III. called Edmund of Langley; and many others of that family were buried here. Langley Kirk, Derbyſ. between Kiddeſley Park and the river Erwaſh. Langley Marſh, Bucks, between Colebrook and Stow. Langley Park, Bucks, a ſeat in a fine park, near the town of Colnbrook. Langley Wilbore, Eſſex, in Rickling pariſh. Langmere, Norf. a hamlet of Dickleburgh. Langney, Suſſex, near Pevenſey Haven. Lang Newton, Cumb. in the pariſh of Abbey Holme.

LANGON, a town in the dept. of Gironde, noted for excellent wine. It is ſeated on the river Garonne, 15 miles N. of Bazas.

Langport, and New Langport, Kent, in the pariſh of Lyd.

LANGPORT, a well-frequented town in Somerſetſhire, ſeated on a hill, on the river Parrot, which is navigable for large coſt-barges, &c. to Bridgewater, 10 miles SE. of Bridgewater, and 128 W. by S. of London. In froſty weather, eels are taken, in vaſt numbers, out of the holes in the banks of it's river. Market on Saturday.

LANGRES, an ancient and conſiderable town in the dept. of Upper Marne, ſeated on a mountain, near the ſources of the river Marne, 35 miles NE. of Dijon. The cutlery wares made here are in high eſteem. This town is thought to ſtand the higheſt of any in France.

Langridge, Somerſ. S. of Dulverton. Langridge, Somerſ. NE. of Launſden. Langridge, Weſtmorl. W. of Ambleſide. Langrigg, Hants, NW. of Petersfield. Langrigg, Cumberl. in Bromfield pariſh. Langrike, Linc. near Horncaſtle. Langrike, Yorkſ. W. Riding, has a ferry over the Oule to Howden. Langſet, Yorkſ. NE. of Lady Croſs Hill

LANGSTONE HARBOUR, in Hants, is about 4 miles diſtant from that of Portſmouth, and equally capacious; but the entrance is more difficult on account of it's bar, which, however, never ſhifts, and over which there is a depth of 15 feet at low water. Neither is it defended from the ſouthерly winds, which blow right into the harbour, without any ſhelter.

Langſtredale, Yorkſ. a chaſe, NE. of Settle. Langthorp, Yorkſ. NW. of Bedall. Langthwate, Yorkſ. near Doncaſter. Langtoft, Yorkſhire, near Stamford. Langton, Dorſetſ. 2 miles S. of Fleet, on the river of that name. Langton, Dorſetſ. a mile E. of Blandford, on the N. bank of the Stour. Langton, Durh. E. of Staindrop. Langton, Linc. N. of Spilſby. Langton, Linc. near Horncaſtle. Langton, Linc. Inſ. near Wragby. Langton, Northumb. in the barony of Wark. Langton, Oxfordſ. NE. of Bicester. Langton, Weſtm. S. of Murton. Langton, Yorkſ. S. of New Malton. Langton, Berwickſ. one mile and a half SW. of Greenlaw. Langton, Maltravers and Wallis, Dorſetſ. near the coaſt, 2 miles W. of Sandwich. Langton Butler, Dorſetſ. E. of Blandford. Langton Chapel, Lanc. SW. of Preſton. Langton, Eaſt; ſee Lancton: Langton, Great and Little, Yorkſ. NW. of Northallerton. Langton Hall, or Lodge, Nott. in Sherwood Foreſt. Langton Herring, Dorſetſ. near Beminſter. Langton Thorp, Leic. NE. of Harborough. Langtoft, Linc. near Market Deeping. Langtree, Devonſ. SW. of Torrington. Langtree, Lancaſhire, NW. of Wigan.

LANGUEDOC, a ci-devant province in the S. of France, bounded on the E. by the the Rhone, and on the S. by Rouſſilon and the Mediterranean, and on the W. by Gaſcony. The land is, in general, very fertile in grain, fruits, and wine. Touloufe was the capital of Upper, and Montpellier of Lower Languedoc. It is now divided into 7 departments; the Ardeſche, Lozere, Gard, Herault, Tarn, Upper Garonne, and Aude.

Langvil, Shropſ. SW. of Wenlock, Langwathby, Cumberl. near Edenhall, Langwich, Bucks, in Princes Riſborough pariſh. Langwith Over, Derbyſ. near Bolſover. Langworth, Nott. SW. of Worksop. Lanbarn, Cornwall, NW. of Columb Magna. Lanbearock, Cornwall, 2 miles S. of Bodmin.

LANJAN, a city of Aſia, capital of the kingdom of Laos, or, at leaſt, of the ſouthern diviſion. It is the uſual reſidence of the king, whoſe palace appears like a city, from it's vaſt extent, and the number of people who inhabit it. The houſes of the grandees are very high and elegant, well contrived and ornamented, but thoſe of inferior condition are no better than huts. The prieſts alone have the privilege of building, their houſes and convents, with brick or ſtone. It is ſituated on the W. ſide of the river Mecon, in lat. 18. 30. N. lon. 101. 15. E.

LANNION, a town in the dept. of the North Coaſt, 15 miles W. of Treguier. It's trade conſiſts in wine and hemp, and it has ſome mineral waters. The inhabitants of Lannion, Guincamp, and the environs, ſpeak the Celtic, or Welch language, which is ſaid to have been brought hither by the Britons, who took refuge in theſe parts, in the fifth century.

Lankey, Devonſ. near Barnſtaple. Lanſiver, Cornw. near Leſtwithiel. Lan Maris, Glouc. in Winruſh pariſh. Lanno, Cornwall, near Michelſtow, LANNOY, a town in the dept. of the North, 6 miles ENE. of Liſle.

Lanon, Carmarthenſ. Lanracke, Cornwall. between Saltaſh and Leſkard. Lanreaſt, Cornw. SW. of Leſkard. Lanreth, Cornw. NE. of Fowey. Lanſalios, Cornw. SE. of Fowey. Lanſawel, 15 miles NNE. of Carmarthen.

LANSINBURGH, formerly called NEW CITY, a flouriſhing town of N. America. in the ſtate of New York. It ſtands on the E. ſide of Hudſon's River, oppoſite the S. branch of Mohawk's River, 9 miles N. of Albany.

Lanteglaſs, Cornw. near Fowey. Lanteglaſs, Cornw. NW. of Camelford. Lantérden, Shropſ. near Munſlow, at, or near, the conflux of the rivers Temd and Colun. In the neighbourhood is a perfect Roman camp, called Brandon; and a Britiſh camp, called Coxall. Lanthony, near Glouceſter, has ſome ruins of a priory, now converted into a farm-houſe, and very extenſive offices, ſituated in a deep, ſolitary valley, encompaſſed with rocks, which almoſt exclude the mid-day ſun. It was built by St. David, who lived a hermit here, in the reign of Henry I. Lanton, Weſtm. near Appleby. Lantwitt, Glamorganſ. Lantony Monaſtery, Monm. in the northernmoſt corner of the county, ſituated in a low vale, incloſed on all ſides with high mountains. It was built in the year 1108. The nave is ſtill remaining, from E. to W. the roof excepted. Lanvichangel, and Lanwinio, both in Carmarthenſ.

LANZO, a ſmall town of Piedmont, ſituated on the Stura, 11 miles NW. of Turin.

LAON, a conſiderable town in the dept. of Aiſne, containing about 8000 inhabitants. It's principal trade conſiſts in corn and wine, and it is noted for excellent artichokes. It is ſeated on a mountain, 7 miles NE. of Paris.

LAOS, a kingdom of Aſia, bounded on the W. by Siam and Ava, on the N. by China, on the E. by Tonquin and Cochin China, and on the S. by Cambodia. The whole region is croſſed, from N. to S. by one large river, called the Mecon, into which deſcend an infinite number of rivulets, that render the ſoil very fruitful; and aſſiſted by canals. This country is generally flat, ſurrounded on all ſides by mountains, covered with foreſts, which ſerve as barriers againſt their potent enemies; it abounds in rice, fruits, corn, and fiſh. The drugs called benſamen and lak are found in this kingdom. The inhabitants are robuſt, of an olive complexion, and mild. Their principal occupation is tilling the ground and fiſhing. The king is abſolute, and has no other law than his own will; and ſhows himſelf but twice in a year. He has a large revenue from elephants' teeth found in his dominions. Their religion is much the ſame as that which prevails in all the countries of Farther India. Some writers make a diſtinction between the ſouthern part, which they call Lanjan, and the northern, which they call Laos, or Lao. Lanjan is the capital.

Lapford, Devonſ. SE. of Chumleigh.

LAPHAO, a town of the Iſland of Timor, in the Eaſtern Indian Ocean, inhabited by deſcendants of the Portugueſe, of a copper colour, with black hair. It contains a church, and about 60 houſes, and is ſituated at the bottom of a bay, on the N. coaſt

N. coaſt, with a harbour, and ſome trade with Goa and Batavia.

LAPLAND, a large country in the N. of Europe, ſubject to Sweden. It is bounded on the N. by the Frozen Ocean; on the E. by the White Sea; on the S. by Sweden and Bothnia; and on the W. by Norway, being computed to be 450 miles in length, and 300 in breadth. The country chiefly conſiſts of rocks, mountains, deſerts, foreſts, heaths, fens, and lakes, ſo that it makes but an uncouth and very diſagreeable appearance, and is very thinly inhabited, in proportion to it's extent, yet abounds in a great variety of birds, beaſts, and fiſhes. The furs and ſkins of beavers, otters, black, red, and white foxes, &c. are their chief articles of trade, and they are enabled to ſell a conſiderable quantity to their neighbours. The Laplanders are of middling ſtature, have generally a flattiſh face, fallen cheeks, dark grey eyes, thin beard, brown hair, are ſtout, ſtraight, and of a yellowiſh complexion, occaſioned by the weather, the ſmoke of their habitations, &c. Their manner of life renders them hardy, agile, and ſupple; but, at the ſame time, they are much inclined to indolence. They are peaceable, not given to theft, nor fickle; and ſo proud of their country and conſtitution, that, when removed from the place of their nativity, they uſually die, it is ſaid, of the noſtalgia, or longing to return. The language of the Laplanders comprehends ſo many dialects, that it is with difficulty they underſtand each other. They preſerve their paſtoral manners, ſo that agriculture proſpers not much among them. They are divided into Fiſhers and Mountaineers. The former make their habitations in the neighbourhood of ſome lake, whence they draw their ſubſiſtence. The others ſeek their ſupport upon the mountains, poſſeſſing herds of rein-deer, which they uſe according to the ſeaſon, but they go generally on foot. They are very induſtrious herdſmen, and are rich in compariſon of the Fiſhers, ſome of them poſſeſſing ſix hundred or a thouſand rein-deer. The caſtrated rein-deer are alert, tame, large, ſtrong, and handſome; on which account they uſe them for draught, and hold them in ſuch eſtimation, that it is a compliment among them to call each other a gelt rein-deer. The Lapland fiſhers, who are alſo called Laplanders of the woods, becauſe in ſummer they dwell upon the borders of the lakes, and in winter in the foreſts, live by fiſhing and hunting, and chuſe their ſituation from it's convenience for either. The introduction of fire-arms has almoſt entirely aboliſhed the uſe of the bow and arrow. With reſpect to the larger animals, ſuch as wild rein-deer, wolves, &c. they moſt frequently knock them down with clubs, as it is eaſy to come up with them by their ſnow-ſhoes, which are very long, and prevent them from ſinking into the ſnow: bears they generally ſhoot, and finiſh them with ſpears. Beſides looking after their rein-deer, the fiſhery, and the chace, the men employ themſelves in the conſtruction of their canoes, which are little, light, and compact. They alſo make ſledges, to which they give the form of a canoe; harneſs for the rein-deer; all ſorts of utenſils in wood, ſuch as cups, bowls, &c. which are ſometimes prettily carved, ſometimes ornamented with bones, braſs, or horn; it is the man's buſineſs, likewiſe, to look after the kitchen. The employment of the women conſiſts in making nets for the fiſhery, drying fiſh and meat, milking the rein-deer, making cheeſe, and tanning hides. They prepare the nerves of the rein-deer in ſuch a manner as to make them ſerve for thread; and draw braſs wire by the help of the horns of the rein-deer pierced, inſtead of a drawing-iron. They embroider their clothes with braſs wire, ſilver, ſham gold, or wool, which they have the art of dying in all ſorts of colours. Theſe people live in huts in the form of tents, covered with briars, bark, linen, turf, coarſe cloth, felt, or rein-deer ſkins; and the door is of felt, made like two curtains, which open aſunder. They are not able to ſtand upright in theſe huts, but ſit upon their heels round the fire. At night they lie down and cover themſelves with their clothes, and in winter put their feet into a fur-bag, ſeparating their apartments with deer ſkins. Their houſehold furniture conſiſts of iron or copper kettles, wooden cups, bowls, ſpoons, and ſometimes tin, or even ſilver baſons: to theſe may be added their implements of fiſhing and hunting. In their dreſs they uſe no linen. The men wear cloſe breeches, reaching down to their ſhoes, which are made of untanned ſkin, pointed, and turned up before; and in winter they put a little hay in them. Their doublet is made to fit their ſhape, and open at the breaſt; over this they wear a cloſe coat, the ſkirts of which reach down to the knees, and it is faſtened round them by a leathern girdle, ornamented with plates of tin or braſs. To this girdle they tie their knives, their inſtruments for getting fire, and their ſmoking apparatus. Their clothes are made of fur, leather, or cloth; always always bordered with fur, or cloth of different colours. Their caps are edged with fur, pointed at top, and the four ſeams adorned with liſts of a different colour. The Ruſſian Laplanders generally border their caps with rat-ſkins. The dreſs of the women very much reſembles that of the men; but their girdle is commonly embroidered with braſs wire. Beſide theſe, they wear kerchiefs, and little aprons, made of Ruſſian painted cloth, rings on their fingers, and ear-rings, to which they ſometimes hang chains of ſilver, which paſs two or three times round the neck. They ſometimes wear caps folded after the manner of turbans, and ſometimes caps to the ſhape of the head; but all are ornamented with the embroidery of braſs wire, or with liſt of different colours. The rein-deer ſupply the Laplanders with the greateſt part of their proviſions: the chace and the fiſhery furniſh the reſt; but the fleſh of the bear is their moſt delicate meat. They eat every kind of fiſh, even the ſea-dog; as well as all ſorts of wild animals, not excepting birds of prey and carnivorous animals. Their winter proviſions conſiſt of fleſh and fiſh, both of which they eat raw. They put the milk of the rein-deer into the ſtomachs of that animal, and ſo let it freeze; and when they want to uſe their frozen milk, they chop off pieces with a hatchet. The ſeaſoning of their food is the fat of ſea-dogs and ſalt, if they can get it. They make ſoups of a ſort of cheeſe, which is ſo fat, that it takes fire on applying a candle. Their common drink is water, ſometimes mixed with milk; brandy is ſcarce with them; but they are very fond of it. Their moſt conſiderable traffic is with the Norwegians. Formerly this trade was carried on in the way of barter; but coin is now current among them. The balance is always in favour of the Laplanders; becauſe they can furniſh more merchandiſe in ſkins and furs, than they buy flour, cloth, and hardware goods. Their weddings are kept at the bride's houſe, who is dreſſed in her beſt manner, and appears with her head quite uncovered, which, at other times, is never the cuſtom, with either women or maidens; the feaſt is a kind of club meſs, to which each of the gueſts brings meat and drink. Their diverſion at weddings, and other merry-makings, is the game of fox and geeſe; they wreſtle, and jump over a ſtick, and are fond of giving grotesque accounts or exhibitions of different adventures. They likewiſe dance and ſing, or howl in diſagreeable meaſures. The new-married people live with the woman's relations for the firſt year; at the end of which they retire to their own hut. The Laplanders bury their dead in coffins; in ſome cantons with their clothes on, in others quite naked. Their religion is a compound of Chriſtian and Pagan ceremonies; yet all are baptized, and call themſelves by the names of Chriſtians. The Lapps, in general, acknowledge the king of Sweden for their ſovereign, and apply to the Swediſh courts of judicature, all over Lapland; yet, at certain ſeaſons, ſome of them pay tribute to Denmark or Ruſſia, when they pitch their tents within the dominions of thoſe crowns. Lapland is divided into 7 provinces, or Lapmarks, which derive their name from the places of note in Nordland, in whoſe neighbourhood they lie, viz. Jamtland, Aſele, Umea, Pitea, Lulea, Tornea, and Kiemi. There are no towns, however, in any of the lapmarks.

Lapley, Staff. SW. of Penkridge. Lapſide, Devonſ. near Hemlock. Lapwerth, Warwickſhire, E. of Umberſlade.

LAR, a town of Perſia, capital of the province of Lariſtan. It has a conſiderable manufacture of ſilk; and it's territory abounds in oranges, dates, and very large tamarinds. At the foot of a mountain, near the city, is found the ſubſtance called mummy. Lat. 27. 30. N. lon. 52. 45. E.

LAR, a river of Aſia, in the country of Cachemire, which runs into the Behat, about 10 miles NW. of Cachemire.

LARACHA, a town of Fez, ſeated at the mouth of the river Luccos, with a harbour, or river of good depth; inſecure in winter, when the wind blows from the W. and SW. but ſafe from the beginning of April to the end of September. The large veſſels of the emperor uſually winter here. It is 33 miles S. of Tangiers. Lat. 35. 40. N. lon. 6. 48. W.

Larbrick, Lanc. near Preſton: it has a chalybeate ſpring, the water of which is extremely cold, and upon holding a finger, or hand, in it, the part immerſed grows immediately red, and feels exceſſively painful. Fiſh, of ſeveral ſorts, that have been put into it, expired inſtantly, after one convulſive effort.

LAREDO, a ſea-port and bay of Biſcay, in Spain, with a good harbour. It is 30 miles W. of Bilboa.

LAREK, a ſmall iſland in the Perſian Gulf, the ſoil of which is bad, and the water brackiſh. It is 12 miles SSE. of Gambron.

LARGO, a town of Fifeſhire, ſituated on the Frith of Forth, with a good and ſafe

fafe road for veſſels of every deſcription, 6 miles S. of Cupar.

Largien, Lincolnſhire, near Horncaſtle.

Largy, in Cavan, Ulſter.

LARICAXAS, a province of Buenos Ayres, in S. America, about 80 leagues long from E. to W. and 25 broad from N. to S. It is terminated to the N. by the country of Carabaya. The whole province abounds in gold mines, the metal of which is of a quality remarkably fine. The temperature and products are different in different parts.

LARINO, a town of Capitanata, in Naples.

LARISSA, called by the Turks JENISAHAR, a town of Turkey, in the province of Janna, with a Greek archbiſhop's ſee, a palace, and ſeveral moſques and Chriſtian churches. It carries on a large trade, and is pleaſantly ſeated on the river Peneus, near the celebrated mountain Olympus, 50 miles SW. of Salonichi. Lat. 39. 48. N. lon. 22. 47. E.

LARISTAN, a province of Perſia, bounded on the N. and E. by Kerman; on the S. by the Perſian Gulf; and on the W. by Farſiſtan. It was formerly an independent kingdom, under the deſcendants of Koſroes, king of Perſia. The air is unwholeſome, and water fit for uſe is very rare. The principal trade of the inhabitants is in camels. Lar is the capital.

Larkbeare, Devonſhire, near Siverton. Larkfield, Kent, near Malling. Lark Stoke, Glouceſ. in Quainton pariſh. Larlingford, Norf. N. of Eaſtling, has about 22 dwelling houſes, and 150 inhabitants, yet is aſſeſſed 28ol. 10s. to the land tax. The church and chancel are thatched.

LARNE, a town of Antrim, in Ulſter, ſituated at the mouth of a river of the ſame name, 8 miles N. of Carrickfergus, and 84 miles N. of Dublin.

LARNIC, a ſea-port town on the S. coaſt of the iſland of Cyprus, containing a moſque and 5 Greek churches. It is the reſidence of ſeveral European conſuls, and is 30 miles SW. of Famagoſta.

LARRYBUNDAR, a ſea port of Hindooſtan, at the mouth of the river Indus, with a harbour capable of receiving ſhips of 200 tons burden. Lat. 24. 44. N. lon. 67. 37. E.

LAREA. See ARTA.

Lartington, Yorkſ. near Barnard Caſtle. Larton, Yorkſ. W. of Rippon. Laſbercagh, Glouceſ. 5 miles from Tetbury. Laſco, Derb. near Codnor Caſtle. Laſeby, Linc. SW. of Great Grimſby. Laſenby, Cumb. N. of Penrith. Laſenby, Yorkſ. NW. of Northallerton. Laſenhall, Cumb. near Wigton. Laſham, Hants, NW. of Alton. Laſhbrook, Oxf. on the Thames, between Sunning and Henley. Laſhkel, a river in Derbyſhire.

LASSA, or LAHASSA, otherwiſe called BARONTHALA, and in D'Anvilles chart of Thibet, TONKER, is the capital of the country of Great Thibet, in Aſia. It is not a large city, but the houſes are of ſtone, and are ſpacious and lofty. About ſeven miles on the E. ſide of the city, is the mountain of Putala, which contains on it's ſummit the palace of the grand lama, the high prieſt and ſovereign of Thibet. Laſſa is 24 miles NE. of the croſſing place of the river Sanpoo, which is ſeven miles from the foot of Mount Kambala; and it is 250 miles NE. of Patna. Lat. 30. 34. N. lon. 91. 40. E.

Laſſington, near Glouceſter. Laſtock, Dorſetſ. 3 miles SW. of Abbot's Stock. Laſtock, or Leſtock, Lancaſhire, SW. of Bolton.

LATAKIA, an ancient and conſiderable town of Syria, built by Seleucus Nicanor, who called it LAODICEA, from the name of his mother. It carries on a conſiderable commerce, chiefly in tobacco, upwards of 20 cargoes of which are annually ſent to Damietta, in exchange for rice. It's harbour, like all the others on this coaſt, is a ſort of baſon environed by a mole, the entrance of which is very narrow. The Turks have ſuffered it to be nearly choked up. The remains of antiquity ſhow it to have been a place of conſiderable extent. It is 80 miles SW. of Aleppo.

Latched, Devonſ. in Whitſtone pariſh. Latchford, Oxf. in Great Haſeley pariſh. Lateridge, Glouc. S. of Thornbury. Latham, Lancaſ. near Ormſkirk, and in the neighbourhood of coal-pits. In it's park is a chalybeate water, or ſpa, called Maudlin's Well, which has wrought many remarkable cures. Though remote from the ſea, or ſalt-water rivers, it uſed to caſt up marine ſhells in large quantities, till millſtones were laid upon the ſpring, to hinder the ſand and ſhells from boiling up ſo high as formerly. Lathbury, Bucks, near Newport. Lathes, Cumb. NW. of Penrith. Lathefly, Surry, SW. of Guilford. Latholm, Yorkſ. between Howden and Pocklington. Latimers, Bucks, near Cheſham. Laton, Lanc. W. of Kirkham. Laton, E. and W. Yorkſ. NE. of Ravenſworth Caſtle. Latton, Wilts, N. of Cricklade. Latton, Eſſex, between Epping and Harlow, had once a priory of Auguſtine monks, whoſe church is now uſed for a barn.

LAVAGNY,

LAVAGNA, a town of Genoa, at the mouth of the river of the ſame name.

LAVAL, a conſiderable town in the dept. of the Mayenne. The inhabitants are computed at 18,000. Linen of all kinds and qualities is manufactured here; and the neighbouring quarries produce green marble, or black, veined with white. It is ſeated on the river Mayenne, 15 miles S. from the town of that name, and 40 W. of Mans. Alſo a town in the dept. of the Lozere.

LAVAMUND, or LAVANT MINDE, a town of Carinthia, on the Drave.

Lavant, a river in Suſſex, which runs into the Engliſh Channel at Owrmouth, about 5 miles below Chicheſter. Lavant, E. and W. Suſſex, N. of Chicheſter.

LAVAUR, a town in the dept. of Tarn, ſeated on the river Agout, 20 miles NE. of Toulouſe.

LAUBACH, a town of Solms Laubach; and a town of Simmern; both in the circle of the Upper Rhine.

LAUDA, a town of Wurtzburgh, in Franconia.

LAUDER, a ſmall town of Berwickſhire, but lately much improved. It is ſeated on the Leader, 22 miles SE. of Edinburgh. See LEADER.

LAUDERDALE, a diſtrict of Berwickſhire, ſo named from the river Lauder, or Leader.

LAVELLO, a town of Baſilicata.

LAVELT, or LAFELT, a village, 4 miles W. of Liege, where the allies, under the Duke of Cumberland, were defeated by the French under Marſhal Saxe, in 1747.

LAVENHAM, or LANHAM, a pretty large town of Suffolk, with a conſiderable manufactory of ſerges, ſhalloons, ſeys, ſtuffs, and fine ſpunyarn. It's church, a very handſome Gothic ſtructure, with it's ſteeple, 137 feet high, are reckoned the fineſt in the country. It has a ſpacious market-place, encompaſſed with 9 ſtreets, or diviſions, and is pleaſantly ſituated, in a fine healthy air, on a branch of the river Bret, from whence it riſes gradually to the top of a hill, 12 miles S. by E. of Bury, and 61 NE. of London. Markets on Tueſday and Thurſday.

Laver, the name of 3 contiguous pariſhes in Eſſex, laying between Harlow and Ongar, and diſtinguiſhed by the appellations of High Magdalen, and Little. They are about 21 miles N. by W. of London. Laverſtock, Hants, near Overton. Laverſtock, Wilts, near Clarendon Park. Laverton, Glouceſ. in Buckland pariſh. Laverton, Somerſetſ. near Philips Norton.

LAUFFEN, a village, caſtle, and bailliwick of Zurich, in Swiſſerland, about 1 mile and a half below Schaffhauſen. Here is a celebrated cataract of the Rhine; the perpendicular height of which Mr. Coxe thinks to be 50 or 60 feet, and the breadth 300.

LAUFFEN, a town of Wirtemburg, in Suabia, ſituated on the Neckar; a town of Baſil, circle of Upper Rhine; and a town of Salzburg, in Bavaria, ſituated on the Salza.

LAUFFENBURG, one of the four Foreſt Towns, in Auſtrian Suabia. It is fortified, and ſituated on both ſides of the river Rhine, over which it has a bridge, near a fall in that river, 18 miles E. of Baſil.

Laughton, Linc. on the Trent, in the Iſle of Axholm. Laughton, Suſſex, E. of Ringmer. Laughton, Yorkſ. W. Riding, near Roach Abbey.

LAVINGTON, MARKET, a town in Wilts, with a good market for corn and malt, 4 miles S. of Devizes. Markets on Monday and Wedneſday.

Lavington, Biſhops, or Weſt, Wilts, near Lavington. Launce, Cornw. E. of Truro. Launcells, Cornw. near Stratton.

*LAUNCESTON, a populous, trading town of Cornwall, where the winter aſſizes are held. (The ſummer aſſizes are held at Bodmin, in purſuance of a late act of parliament.) Leland ſays, it was walled in his time, and a mile in compaſs. It had formerly a monaſtery, and a noble caſtle, becauſe of it's ſtrength, called Caſtle Terrible, the lower part of which is now made uſe of for the jail. It is ſeated on the river Tamar, 28 miles N. of Plymouth, and 214 W. by S. of London. Markets on Thurſday and Saturday.

Launde, Lanc. E. of Garſtang. Launde, Nottinghamſ. E. of Blith. Launde Abbey, Leic. NE. of Hallaton. Laundon, Bucks, near Oulney. Launſdon, Somerſetſ. N. of Bath. Launſing, N. and S. Suſſex, near New and Old Shoreham. Launſton, Dorſetſhire, NE. of Blandford.

LAUN, a town of Saatz, in Bohemia, ſituated on the Egra, in the road between Leipſick and Prague. The adjacent territory abounds in fine paſtures and excellent fruits, particularly apples, which are held in high eſteem.

LAVORA, TERRA DI, a province of Naples, bounded on the N. by the two Abruzzos; on the E. by Moliſo and Principato Ultra; on the S. by the Principato Ultra and the Gulf of Naples; and on the W. by the Mediterranean and the Campagna di Roma, about 140 miles in length, and and 33 where broadeſt. Anciently it was called Campania, and in the middle ages, The Caſtellany of Capua, but received it's preſent appellation, in the year 1091, from Richard II. prince of Capua, which was afterwards uſed by the Normans, when they obtained poſſeſſion of Capua, in 1098, from the fitneſs of the ſoil for all manner of culture. It yields abundance of corn, wine, oils, fruits, and other productions. There are alſo mineral ſprings, and mines of ſulphur; and Mount Veſuvius ſometimes throws out torrents of that mineral. Naples is the capital.

Laurence, St. Cornw. NE. of Bodmin.

LAUSANNE, in Bern, Swiſſerland, the principal town of the Pays de Vaud, with a famous college. It contains about 7000 inhabitants; but it is built upon ſuch a ſteep aſcent, and ſuch a very uneven tract, that, in ſome places, the horſes cannot, without great difficulty, draw up a carriage; and foot paſſengers aſcend to the upper part of the town by ſteps, from the heights of which the proſpects are very grand and extenſive, comprehending the Lake of Geneva, the Pays de Vaud, and the rugged coaſt of Chablais. The townhouſe, and other public buildings are magnificent. It is ſeated between three hills, in a very pure and healthy air, with plenty of excellent water, and every neceſſary of life in the greateſt abundance, one mile and a half from the Lake of Geneva, 30 miles NE. of Geneva, and 50 SW. of Bern.

LAUTENBURG, a town of Culm, in Pruſſia.

LAUTER, a river of Suabia, which runs into the Necker; another river of Suabia; which runs into the Danube; a river of Franconia, which runs into the Maine; a river of Coburg, in Upper Saxony, which runs into the Itſch; and a river of France, which runs into the Rhine, at Lauterburg.

LAUTERBURG, a town in the Hartz Foreſt, in Lower Saxony; and a town of France, in the dept. of the Lower Rhine, 14 miles S. of Landau.

LAUZUN, a town in the dept. of the Lot and Garonne.

Law, Lancaſh. on the Derwent. near Preſton. Lawarnick, Cornwall, W. of Launceſton. Lawcon, Lanc. near Leigh.

LAWENBURG, a town of Saxe Lawenburg, in Lower Saxony, ſituated on the right bank of the Elbe, with a toll over that river, 30 miles SE. of Hamburg.

LAWERBURG, a town of Pruſſian Pomerania, on the Lebe, 36 miles WNW. of Dantzic.

Lawern, near Worceſter. Lawford. Eſſex, near Maningtree. Lawford Church, and Long Lawford, Warw. NW. of Hill Moreton. Lawford, Parva, Warw. near Rugby. Lawghton, Leiceſterſhire, NW. of Harborough. Lawhitton, Cornwall, 2 miles from Launceſton, near the Tamar.

LAWINGEN, a town of Neuberg, in Bavaria.

Lawley, Shropſhire, near Wellington. Lawling, Eſſex, between Malden and Burnham. Lawnton, Oxfordſ. near Biceſter. Lawrence, Lancaſ. NW. of Preſton.

LAWRENCE KIRK, a handſome, little town of Kincardineſhire, where a flouriſhing manufacture of lawn, cambric, linen, and various other articles, has been lately eſtabliſhed, by the patriotic proprietor, the late Lord Gardenſtone. It is 6 miles W. of Inverbervie.

LAWRENCE, ST. the largeſt river in N. America, proceeding from the Lake Ontario, from which it runs a courſe of about 700 miles to the Atlantic Ocean. It is navigable as far as Quebec, which is above 400 miles; but, beyond Montreal, it is ſo full of ſhoals and rocks, that it will not admit large veſſels without danger.

Lawrence, St. Kent, in Thanet Iſle. Lawrence, St. Cumberl. in the Abbey Holm. Lawrence St. Eſſex, near St. Oſyth Iſle. Lawrence, St. Iſle of Wight, in E. Medina, in a ſituation remarkably romantic, conſiſting of a ſlip of land, ſecluded from the adjoining country by a range of rocky cliffs, that reſemble an immenſe ſtone wall. Lawrence, St. Somerſ. in the ſuburbs of Briſtol. Lawrence Street, St. Middl. between Edgeworth and Totteridge. Lawrence Weſton, Glouceſ. in Henbury pariſh. Lawſhill, Suffolk, NW. of Laneham. Lawton, Heref. SW. of Leominſter, on the Arro river. Lawton, Church, Cheſhire, S. of Congletown. Lawton's Hope, 5 miles from Hereford. Lawton Yate, Cheſhire, near Church Lawton.

LUXEMBURG, a town of Auſtria, 7 miles S. of Vienna.

Laxey, Iſle of Man, on the E. coaſt, has a large harbour. The Biſhop generally reſides at Bilacari, on the S. ſide.

Laxfield, Suffolk, 7 miles SW. of Haleſworth. Laxton, Yorkſ. between Howden and Flaxfleet. Laxton, Northamptonſ. on the borders of Rockingham Foreſt. Laxton, or Lexinton, Nottingh. S. of Tuxford, near the Idle. Layard, Devonſ. in Malborow pariſh.

LAYBACH, a city of Carniola, ſituated on a river of the ſame name, 28 miles NE. of Trieſt.

LÁYBACH, or OBER LAUBACH, a town of Carniola, 11 miles SW. of Laybach.

LAYBACH, or LAUBACH, a river of Carniola, which runs into the Save.

Laycock, Wilts, 4 miles from Chippenham. Laydon, or Leyſdon, Kent, in Sheppey Iſle. Layer Bretten, Eſſex, near Merſey Iſle. Layer de la Haye, Eſſex, near Lexdon. Layer Marney, Eſſex. Laybam, Suffolk, 1 mile from Hadleigh. Layland, Lancaſhire, S. of Preſton. Lay, Nether and Upper, Glouceſterſhire, near Dean Foreſt. Layſters, Heref. NE. of Leominſter.

LAYSTOFF. See LESTOFF.

LAYSTON, a town of Hertfordſhire, near Buntingford. The river Rib riſes in the neighbourhood. Market on Tueſday.

Layſton, Suffolk, near Saxmundham. Lay Street, Eſſex, near Great Ilford. Lay Street, Surry, SE. of Ryegate. Laythorn, Suſſex, E. of Appledrum. Layton, Durham, SE. of Biſhop Auckland. Layton, Yorkſhire, 4 miles from Eaſby. Layton, Low, and Laytonſtone, Eſſex, on the ſkirts of Epping Foreſt, near Walthamſtow.

LAYTONS, a town of Virginia.

Lazonby, Cumberland, adjoining Salkeld, near Penrith.

LEA, a river, which riſes near Luton, in Bedfordſhire, and running to Hertford and Ware, and afterward dividing Eſſex from part of Hertfordſhire and Middleſex, falls into the Thames below Blackwall: a canal has lately been cut between it and the Thames, which runs near Limehouſe. By this river, large quantities of corn and malt are brought out of Hertfordſhire to London.

Lea, a ſmall river of Kerry, in Munſter, which falls into Tralee Bay.

Lea, Cheſ. 4 miles from Namptwich. Lea, Cheſhire, W. of Middlewich. Lea, Cheſhire, SW. of Delamere Foreſt. Lea, Derbyſhire, in Gloſſop pariſh, in the High Peak. Lea, Glouc. 2 miles from Mitchel Dean. Lea, Herts, N. of Watford. Lea, Heref. SW. of Newent. Lea, Lanc. W. of Preſton. Lea, Shropſhire, S. of Cauſe Caſtle. Lea, Shropſ. between Shrewſbury and Wem. Lea, Shropſ. near Elleſmere. Lea, Staff. near Wolverhampton. Lea, Wilts, near Cricklade. Lea, Wilts, near Malmſbury. Lea, or Lea Marſton, Warwickſhire, N. of Coleſhill. Lea Chapel, Cheſhire, near Northwich. Lea Hall, SE. of Cheſter. Leach, a river in Glouceſterſhire and Oxfordſhire, which runs into the Thames at Lechlade. Leach, near Cheſter. Leacreft, Staff. in Cannock pariſh. Lead, Staffordſ. near Penkridge. Leaden, a river in Glouceſterſhire, which runs into the Severn, oppoſite Glouceſter. Leaden Court, Glouc. near Newent. Lead Hall, Yorkſ. near Aberforth.

LEADER, or LEADER WATER, a river of Scotland, which riſes in the NW. part of Berwickſhire, and falls into the Tweed, 3 miles E. of Melroſs.

Leadhills, a village of Lanerkſhire, ſituated among the mountains of Clydeſdale, by ſome ſaid to be the higheſt human habitation in Great Britain. Here reſide many hundreds of miners, with their families. Theſe miners, though, in a great meaſure, excluded from ſociety, by their ſituation, not only earn a comfortable ſubſiſtence, but pay more attention to the cultivation of the mind, than many of their countrymen, ſituated in more favourable circumſtances for the attainment of knowledge. They are very intelligent, and have provided a circulating library for the inſtruction and amuſement of the little community belonging to the village.

Leak, Linc. between Boſton and Wainfleet. Leak, Yorkſ. SE. of Northallerton. Leak, E. and W. Nottingh. between Nottingham and Loughborough. Leam, a river which riſes in Northamptonſhire, from a ſpring at Helliden, paſſes by Catesby and Staverton into Warwickſhire, where it gives name to the two Lemingtons, and then loſes both it's water and name in the Ouſe. Leam, New, a river in Cambridgeſhire, which runs NE. from Peterborough to Waterſee, between Whittleſea Dyke and Wiſbeach.

LEAN, CAPE, or LOOP HEAD, a cape on the SW. extremity of Clare, in Connaught, and to the N. of the mouth of the Shannon. Lat. 52. 32. N. lon. 9. 49. W.

Lean Caſtle, Cornwall, NW. of Launceſton.

LEAO-TONG. See LEOTONG.

Leap, Hants, between Lymington and Calſhot Caſtle.

Leap, or Lepp, in Cork, Munſter.

Leapliſh, Northumb. in North Tindale. Learchill, Northumb. W. of Alnwick. Learmouth, Northumb. on the Tweed, in the barony of Wark, was formerly a handſome town, but by the late ſyſtem of enlarging farms, is now reduced to a ſingle farm-houſe. Leaſon Heath, Kent, in Erith pariſh. Leatham, Northumb. in the bounds of Berwick.

*LEATHERHEAD, a town in Surry, had formerly a market, which has been diſcontinued above 100 years. Here is a bridge over the river Mole, which having partially ſunk into the earth near Mickleham, at the foot of Box Hill, riſes again near this this town. It is pleaſantly ſituated, on a riſing ground, by the ſide of the river, in a fine, open, dry, champaign country, 3 miles SW. of Epſom, and 18 SW. by S. of London.

LEATHES WATER, called alſo WYTHBURN, or THIRLMERE WATER, a fine lake of Cumberland, which lies S. by E. of Keſwick. It begins at the foot of Mount Helwellyn, which it ſkirts for the ſpace of four miles, receiving numerous torrents that deſcend from the mountains. The ſingular beauty of this lake is it's being almoſt interſected in the middle by two peninſulas, that are joined by a neat wooden bridge. The outlet of this lake joins the rapid river Greeta at New Bridge, and thus has a communication with the Lake of Derwent.

Leathes, Cumberl. a hamlet in Aikton pariſh, near Thurſby. Leathley, Yorkſ. NE. of Otley. Leaton, NW. of Shrewſbury. Leaton, Staff. near Wolverhampton. In a field near it, lead-ore is dug, in a yellowiſh ſtone, with cawk and ſpar, which the workmen diſtinguiſh into round ore, ſmall ore, and ſmithum, and which is ſold to the potters at Burſlem, for 6s. or 7s. a ton. Leaveland, Kent, near Badleſmere. Le Bailey, Glouc. in Newland pariſh.

LEBANON, a town of Pennſylvania.

Lebberſton, Yorkſ. N. Riding at the ſource of the Derwent, near the ſea.

LEBIDA, or LEBDA, a ſea-port of Tripoli, in Africa, 30 miles W. of Meſurata.

Lebotwood, Shropſ. near Alſtretton.

Lebriran, Hants, near Goſport.

LEBRIXA, a town of Andaluſia, ſeated in a territory abounding in corn, wine, and olive-trees, which produce the beſt oil in Spain. It is ſeated on a branch of the Guadalquiver, (but now choked up) 20 miles S. of Seville.

Lebthorp, Lincolnſhire, between Stamford and Grantham.

LEBUS, a town in the Middle Marche of Brandenburg, containing 5 churches, and about 14,000 inhabitants. It is ſeated on the Oder, 5 miles N. of Frankfort.

LECCE, a town of Otranto, Naples, ſituated in a country that yields abundance of almonds and olives, 17 miles NW. of Otranto.

LECCA, a town and lake of Milan, near the Lake of Como.

LECH, a river which riſes in Tirol, on the frontiers of the Griſons, paſſes by Landſburg, Augſburg, &c. and falls into the Danube, about 5 miles below Donawert.

LECH, or LECK, a river of Holland, or rather a branch of the Rhine, which firſt takes the name at Wyck Duerſtede, in the province of Utrecht; it runs from E. to W. through Guelderland and Utrecht, paſſing by Culemburg, Schonhoven, Rhenen, &c. falls into the Merwe at Krimpe.

Lechampton, Glouceſterſhire, S. of Cheltenham. Lechiſt, South and Beacon, Dorſetſhire, near Poole.

*LECHLADE, a town of Glouceſterſhire, ſeated at the confluence of the river Lech with the Thames, 28 miles E. by S. of Glouceſter, and 77 W. by N. of London. A canal from the Severn joins the Thames, (which is navigable for barges of 50 tons burden) near this town. A ſmall market on Tueſday.

Lechworth, Herts, near Hitchen. Leck, Lancaſ. near the Leven Sands and the river Ken.

Leckcarrow, in Roſcommon, Connaught.

Leckford, Hants, N. of Stockbridge, on the ſame river. Leckford Bridge, Suſſex, NW. of Petworth. Leckhampſted, N. of Buckingham. Lecomb, Glouceſterſ. near Stow on the Would.

LECTOURE, an ancient town in the dept. of Gers, containing about 5000 inhabitants. It is fortified by art as well as nature. and is ſituated on a mountain, acceſſible only on one ſide, at the foot of which runs the river Gers, 12 miles E. of Condum.

*LEDBURY, a fine, well-built town of Herefordſhire, noted for clothiers. It is ſeated on a navigable canal, that paſſes from Glouceſter to Hereford, 13 miles E. of Hereford, and 123 WNW. of London. Market on Tueſday.

Ledder, a river in Carnarvonſhire, which runs into the Conway below Bettus, about 12 miles S. of Aberconway.

LEDESMA, a town of Leon, noted for a warm medicinal bath. It is defended both by nature and art, and is ſituated on the river Tormes, 18 miles W. of Salamanca.

Ledington, Glouc. in Dimmock pariſh, on the river Leden. Ledſham, Yorkſhire, near Leeds. Ledſham, Long, Linc. SE. of Beckingham. Ledſton, Parva, Yorkſ. SW. of Sherburn. Ledſton Hall, Yorkſ. SW. of Sherburn, noted for it's quarries of ſtone. Ledwell, Oxfordſ. near Deddington, is noted for a fine ſand for the making of glaſs. Ledwich, a river of Shropſhire, which runs into the Temd, about 5 miles SE. of Ludlow. Ledwich Chapel, Shropſhire, near Ludlow.

Lee, a river in Cork, Munſter, which paſſes by the city of Cork, and empties itſelf into Cork Harbour. Lee, a river of Kerry, in Munſter, which riſes about 6 miles E. of Tralee, and runs into Tralee Bay.

Lee, a river in Cheſhire, which runs into the Weever at Leeton, about 2 miles N. of Namptwich. Lee, Yorkſ. Lee, Bucks, SE. of Ayleſbury. Lee, Cheſ. in Wibonbury pariſh. Lee, Cornwall, NE. of Stow. Lee, Kent, 6 miles SE. by E. of London. Lee, Lancaſhire, near the Leven Sand. Lee, Lincolnſ. near Gainſborough. Lee, Shropſ. NE. of Chirbury. Lee, Shropſ. near Elleſmere. Lee, Shropſ. E. of Wem, Lee, Suſſex, near Warbleton. Lee Farm, Suſſex, near Stopham. Leefield Foreſt, Rutl. on the borders of Leiceſterſhire. Lee Gardens, Eſſex, in Hornchurch pariſh. Lee Grange, Bucks, NW. of Cheſham. Lee Grange, or Aſbenden, Eſſex, a hamlet to Quainton. Lee Gunnery, Shropſhire, near Wellington. Lee Hall, Northumberland, near Beltingham.

*LEEDS, a town in the W. Riding of Yorkſhire, ſituated in a vale, which trade has rendered one of the moſt populous ſpots in England. It is the principal of the clothing towns in Yorkſhire, and is particularly the mart for the coloured and white broad cloths, of which vaſt quantities are ſold in it's magnificent Cloth Halls. That called the Mixed Cloth Hall, is a building of conſiderable extent, in which the cloth is placed on benches, for ſale, every market day; and the whole buſineſs is tranſacted within little more than an hour, without the leaſt noiſe or confuſion, and with a whiſper only, the laws of the market being obſerved here with particular ſtrictneſs. The White-Cloth Hall, is a ſimilar building. The manufactures that ſupply theſe two halls extend about 10 miles to the S. 15 to the SW. and 8 to the N. and W. the mixed cloths being moſtly made in the neighbourhood of the river Aire, and the white cloths in that of the Calder. Leeds has a manufactory of camlets, which has declined, and a flouriſhing one of carpets, reſembling thoſe of Wilts and Scotland. Here are alſo mills for the cutting of tobacco, and a great pottery, with ſeveral glaſs-houſes. Within 3 miles of the town are numerous collieries. Of late years the town has been conſiderably enlarged; and ſome of the new parts are built, and building in an elegant ſtyle. It is ſituated on the river Aire, by which it communicates with all the various ramifications of the Grand which, in particular, it enſiderable trade in coals, uſtible ſtores in it's neighbourhood, to York, Hull, &c. 22 miles WSW. of York, and 192 N. by W. of London. Markets on Tueſday and Saturday.

Leeds, Kent, on the Len, near Maidſtone, had formerly a caſtle, built originally by Ledian, a Saxon chief, counſellor to King Ethelred, and rebuilt by Sir Hugh de Crevecœur, in 1071. It is a moſt magnificent pile, built all of ſtone, in the midſt of a beautiful park. At the entrance are the remains of an ancient gateway that appears to have ſtood ever ſince it's firſt foundation.

LEEDS, a town of Virginia, on the N ſide of the Rappahanoc River; and a town of New Jerſey.

LEEK, a town in Staffordſhire, noted for a manufacture of buttons. By the intervention of a craggy mountain, at a conſiderable diſtance weſtward of the town the ſun ſets twice in the evening at a certain time of the year; for after it ſets behind the top of the mountain, it breaks out again on the northern ſide of it, which is ſteep, before it reaches the horizon in it's fall. In it's church-yard, are the remains of a Daniſh croſs, now upright, and 10 feet high from the ground, beneath which are three ſteps. In the neighbourhood are ſome extenſive coal mines. It is ſituated in a barren country, among moorlands and rocky hills, ſome of which are of a moſt ſurpriſing height, without any turf or mould upon them, on the great road between Manchester, Stockport, and Macclesfield, to the NW. and Derby, Leicester, &c. to the SE. 18 miles N. of Stafford, and 154 NNW. of London. Market on Wedneſday.

Leek, Yorkſhire, SE. of Northallerton.

Leek, a river in Weſtmoreland and Lancaſhire, which runs into the Lune at Barton.

Leek Wotton, Warw. on a hill near Stoneley. Lee Marks, Hants, near Titchfield.

Leeming Chapel, Yorkſhire, E. of Bedale.

Leeming, Parva, Yorkſ. NE. of Bedale.

Lee, Nether and Upper, Heref. near Wigmore Caſtle. Lee, North, Devonſ. near Kilhampton in Cornwall.

LEER, LEHR, or LEIR, a town of Weſtfriesland, in Weſtphalia, ſituated on a river of the ſame name, which ſoon after runs into the Ems, 11 miles SE. of Embden.

LEERDAM, a town of S. Holland, ſeated on the river Linghe, 11 miles S. of Utrecht.

Lees, Northumb. on the river Aln W. of Hexham. Lees Court, Kent, miles from Canterbury. Lees Hall, St of Derby. Lees Hill, Staff. on the Chu net, NE. of Cheadle. Lees Shipto Buck

Bucks, near Quainton. Lees Thorp, Leiceſterſhire, SE. of Melton Mowbray.

Leeſton River, in Down, Ulſter.

LEESTOWN, a town of N. America, in the ſtate of Kentucky and county of Fayette, a few miles W. of Lexington. It is ſeated on the eaſtern bank of the river Kentucky, is regularly laid out, and is flouriſhing. As the banks of the Kentucky are remarkably high, in ſome places 300, or even 400 feet, compoſed, in general, of ſtupendous, perpendicular rocks, there are few croſſing places; the beſt is at Leeſtown; a circumſtance which muſt greatly contribute to it's increaſe.

LEEWARD ISLANDS. See INDIES, WEST.

LEEWE, or SOUT LEEWE, a town in the late Auſtrian Brabant, ſituated on the river Geete, 25 miles E. of Bruſſels.

Lefield, Oxf. near Whichwood Foreſt.

LEFOOGA, one of the Hapaee Iſlands, in the Pacific Ocean. Many parts of the country, near the ſea, are ſtill waſte, owing, perhaps, to the ſandineſs of the ſoil; but, in the internal parts, the ſoil is better, and the marks of conſiderable population, and of an improved ſtate of cultivation, are conſpicuous. Many of the plantations are incloſed in ſuch a manner, that the fences, running parallel to each other, form ſpacious, public roads. Here are large ſpots covered with the paper mulberry-tree, the plantations in general are abundantly ſtocked with plants and fruit-trees; and to theſe Captain Cook, in 1776, made ſome addition, by ſowing the ſeeds of melons, Indian corn, &c. The iſland is not more than 7 miles in length, and it's breadth, in ſome places not above 3. Lat. 19. 49. S. lon. 149. 40. E.

Leftwich, Cheſhire, near Northwich.

Legacurry, in Armagh, Ulſter.

Legbare, Lancaſhire, between Foulneſs Fells and Ken Sands. Legburgthwaite, Cumberland, SE. of Keſwick. Legh, Devonſhire, in Loxbear pariſh. Leghes, Northumberland, near Langley Caſtle.

LEGHORN, a handſome and regularly built town of Italy, in the duchy of Tuſcany, with an inward and outward harbour, in the Mediterranean. It is a free port, every bale of goods, whether great or ſmall, paying only two piaſtres, or ſcudi. The Greeks and Armenians have churches of their own, and the Turks have a moſque. The Jews have a handſome ſynagogue here, as well as ſchools. Though ſubject to heavy impoſts, they are very rich, and well protected. The inhabitants are computed at 50,000, among whom are 16,000 Jews. The ſtreets are wide and ſtraight, and almoſt all the houſes are of the ſame height. There are ſo many canals, that ſome have given it the title of New Venice. Near the harbour is a large building, in which they ſhut up every night the Turkiſh and the galley ſlaves. At a little diſtance, on a ſingle rock, forming a ſmall iſland, is a light-houſe, where, every night, 30 burning lamps are contained in one lanthorn. The air here was very unhealthy till the marſhes about it were drained. The commodities imported hence, by the Engliſh, are chiefly ſilk, wine, and oil. In 1741, this city ſuffered greatly by an earthquake. It is 45 miles SW. of Florence, and 145 NNW. of Rome. Lat. 43. 34. N. lon. 10. 17. E.

LEGNANO, a town in the Veroneſe, on the Adige.

Legſby, Lincolnſ. SE. of Market Raiſin. Legtborn, Suſſex, SE. of Chicheſter.

LEICESTER, the county town of Leiceſterſhire, is a place of great antiquity, and though declined from it's former magnitude, is ſtill large and populous, but not a handſome town. In the Saxon Heptarchy it was the ſee of a biſhop, and the chief city of the Mercian Kingdom. It was at one time a moſt wealthy place, and, if we may believe Matthew Paris, had 32 pariſh churches. At preſent, it contains 5 churches, near one of which are the famous ruins of a Roman wall, compoſed of ragſtone and Roman brick, and imagined to be a remnant of a temple of Janus, erected on the ſpot 2000 years ago. Here is alſo a Roman milliary, (the oldeſt known in Britain, and containing the firſt inſcription mentioned in this iſland) which was found near Thurmaſton, in 1771: it now forms the centre of an obeliſk in one of the principal ſtreets, ſurmounted with a lamp. The hall and kitchen of it's ancient caſtle, (a prodigious building, where the great Duke of Lancaſter held his court, who added 26 acres to it, which he encloſed with a brick wall) are ſtill entire. The former is lofty and ſpacious, and the courts of juſtice, at the aſſizes, are held in them. Here is alſo one of it's gateways, with a very curious arch, the tower over which is now turned into a magazine for the county militia. Here is a very ſpacious market-place, with one of the largeſt markets in England for corn and cattle. The combing and ſpinning of wool into worſted, and manufacturing it into ſtockings by frames, is the chief buſineſs of the town and neighbourhood. In ſome years 60,000l. have been returned in theſe articles. It's fairs, which are upon a large ſcale, for ſheep, horſes for the collar, cattle, cheeſe, &c. are on May 12th, July 5th, October 10th, and December 8th. It is ſeated on the river Soar, which has lately been made navigable from Leiceſter to Loughborough, 24 miles S. by E. of Derby, and 99 NNW. of London. Market on Saturday.

Leiceſter Abbey, near Leiceſter, was once a famous monaſtery, called, from it's ſituation in a neighbouring meadow, St. Mary de Pratis. It is now turned into a dwelling houſe and garden. It's venerable terrace ſtill remains, ſupported by an embattled wall, with lunettes, overſpread with ivy, ſhaded with trees, and impending in a pictureſque manner, over the river. Leiceſter Foreſt, Leiceſterſ. between Normanton and Groby.

LEICESTERSHIRE, a county of England, bounded on the NW. and N. by Derbyſhire and Nottinghamſhire; on the E. by the counties of Lincoln and Rutland, on the SE. and S. by Northamptonſhire; and on the SW. by Warwickſhire. It extends about 38 miles from N. to S. and as many from E. to W. in the broadeſt part. It is divided into 6 hundreds, which contain 12 market towns, and 200 pariſhes. The air is healthy, and the ſoil, in general, ſtrong and ſtiff, compoſed of clay and marl. It affords great quantities of rich, grazing land, and is peculiarly fitted for the culture of beans, for which it is proverbially noted. Toward the NW. the Bardon Hills riſe to a great height; and, in their neighbourhood lies Charnwood, or Charley Foreſt, a rough and open tract. Farther to the NW. are valuable coal mines. The NE. parts feed great numbers of ſheep, which are the largeſt, and have the greateſt fleeces of wool of any in England: they are without horns, and clothed with thick, long flakes of ſoft wool, particularly fitted for the worſted manufactures. The E. and SE. part of the county is a rich grazing tract. This county has been long famous for it's large, black dray-horſes, of which great numbers are continually ſent up to London, as well as for it's horned cattle and ſheep, which ſupply the London markets with the largeſt mutton; and it's reputation has been much extended by the great ſkill of the late Mr. Bakewell, of Diſhley, who bred every ſpecies of domeſtic quadrupeds, to the utmoſt perfection of form and ſize. The manufacture of ſtockings is the principal one in the county. It's chief rivers are the Avon; the Soare, anciently the Leire; the Wreke; Anker; Swift; Eye; and Welland.

Leier, Leic. N. of Lutterworth. Leir, Eſſex, on a creek in the mouth of the Thames, oppoſite the eaſtern extremity of Canvey Iſland. It is noted for oyſters, and has a good road for ſhipping.

LEIGH, a town of Lancaſhire, whoſe market is now quite neglected. It communicates with all the late inland navigations, and is 7 miles N. of Warrington, and 164 NW. of London.

Leigh, Dorſetſ. in Yateminſter pariſh, 2 miles E. of Chetnoll. Leigh, Dorſetſ. near Winborne Minſter. Leigh, Somerſ. near Chard. Leigh, Staffs. near Uttoxeter. Leigh, Surry, 3 miles from Darking. Leigh, Wiltſhire, near Bradford. Leigh, Wiltſhire, near Weſtbury. Leigh, E. of Worceſter. Leigh, or Lye, 6 miles N. of Glouceſter. Leigh, Eaſt, Kent, near Eltham. Leigh, High, Cheſhire, between Warrington and Knotsford. Leigh Land, Somerſetſhire, near Nettlecomb. Leigh, Magna, Parva, and Priory, Eſſex, SW. of Braintree. Leigh, North, Oxfordſhire, SW. of Woodſtock. Leigh, N. and S. Devonſhire, near Culliton. Leigh, Sinton, 4 miles SW. of Worceſter.

LEIGH. See GRAY, or GREY ABBEY.

Leighlin Bridge, in Carlow, Leinſter, on the river Barrow, 7 miles S. of Carlow, gives name to it's hundred. Leighlin, Old, in Carlow, Leinſter.

Leighterton, Gloue. in Boxwell pariſh, Leighton, Cheſ. SW. of Sandbach. Leighton, Cheſ. on the Dee. Leighton, Hunt. 5 miles N. of Kimbolton. Leighton, Lancaſ. between Burton and the Lancaſter Sands. Leighton, Shropſ. at the foot of Wrekin Hill.

*LEIGHTON BEAUDESERT, or BUZZARD, a large town in Bedfordſhire, ſeated on a branch of the Ouſe, called the Owzel, over which it has a bridge leading into Buckinghamſhire, 18 miles S. of Bedford, and 41 NW. of London. It's market, on Tueſday, is conſiderable for fat cattle; and it has a great horſe fair on Whit-Tueſday, eſpecially for horſes of the coach and cart kind. It has 5 other fairs, on Jan. 25, July 26, and Oct. 24.

Leighton on the Mooring, Yorkſ. SE. of Rotherham.

LEINA, a river of Germany, which riſes in the territory of Eichfield, and paſſing by Gottingen, Hanover, &c. falls into the Aller, 4 or 5 miles NW. of Zell.

LEININGEN, or LINANGE, a town, village, and county, in the circle of the Upper Rhine, almoſt ſurrounded by the palatinate.

LEINSTER, a province of Ireland, bounded on the E. and S. by St. George's Channel, Channel, on the W. by Connaught and Munſter, and on the N. by Ulſter. It is about 112 miles in length, and 70 in breadth. It contains 12 counties and 992 pariſhes. The counties are Carlow, Dublin, Kildare, Kilkenny, King's County, Longford, Louth, Meath, Queen'sCounty, Weſt Meath, Wexford, and Wicklow. It is the moſt level and beſt cultivated province in the kingdom; but in the early ages, was almoſt one continued foreſt, the remains of which are ſtill found in the trees which are dug out of the bogs. Dublin is the capital. The chief rivers are the Barrow, Boyne, Liffey, Neur, Urtin or Slane, May, and Inny. It is, in general, well cultivated, the air is temperate, and the ſoil fruitful in corn and paſtures.

LEIPSICK, a rich, large, and celebrated city of Upper Saxony, capital of a circle of the ſame name. It is a handſome place, neat, and regularly built, and the ſtreets are lighted in the night. It alſo carries on a great trade in domeſtic and foreign articles, and has manufactures of ſtuffs, velvets, ſtockings, cloths and linen. The univerſity contains ſix handſome colleges, two Latin ſchools, and two celebrated ſocieties; a German ſociety, and another for the encouragement of the liberal arts, There are three great fairs here every year, celebrated throughout all Germany, which laſt a fortnight each, and are kept at Eaſter, Michaelmas, and beginning of the new year. The town houſe makes but an indifferent appearance, but the exchange is a fine ſtructure. It is ſeated in a plain, on the river Pleyſſe, 44 miles WNW. of Dreſden. Lat. 51. 19. N. lon. 12. 25. E.

Leire, Leic. near the head of the river Soar. Leiſdon, Kent, in Sheppey Iſle. Leith, Yorkſ. in the liberty of Whitby Strand, noted for mines of alum, dug or hewn out of the rock that hangs over the ſea. To fit it for uſe, it is burnt, then ſteeped in pits of water, and afterwards boiled and clarified.

LEITH, a ſea-port of Scotland, in Edinburghſhire, ſeated on the Frith of Forth, 2 miles N. of Edinburgh, of which city it is the port. It is a large and populous town, containing many handſome houſes; but the greater part of the ancient buildings are neither elegant nor commodious. The number of inhabitants is eſtimated at 12,000. As the town is ſituated on both ſides of the harbour, it is divided into N. and S. Leith. The harbour is ſecured by a grand ſtone pier, at the mouth of the little river, called the Water of Leith. This harbour is now greatly improved, and accommodated with an elegant draw-bridge and a good quay; and when the propoſed new baſin and docks are added, this place will become, in every reſpect, a ſafe, capacious, and convenient ſtation for trading veſſels. The commerce of Leith is very conſiderable; and the veſſels employed in the London trade are, in general, of a large ſize, and conſtructed with peculiar elegance. The largeſt ſhips in this port, however, are thoſe employed in the Greenland whale-fiſhery. Leith is well ſituated for the navigation of the eaſtern ſeas. To Germany, Holland, and the Baltic, are exported lead, glaſs ware, linen, woollen ſtuffs, and a variety of other goods. Thence are imported vaſt quantities of timber, oak bark, hides, linen rags, pearl aſhes, flax, hemp, tar, &c. From France, Spain, and Portugal, are imported wine, brandy, oranges, and lemons; and from the W. Indies and America, rice, indigo, rum, ſugar, and logwood. Ships of conſiderable ſize are built at this port; and here are ſeveral extenſive rope-walks. There are alſo flouriſhing manufactories of bottle glaſs, window-glaſs, and cryſtal; a great carpet manufactory, a ſoap work, ſome iron forges, and an ancient hoſpital for diſabled ſeamen. Lat. 56. 0. N. lon. 3. 7. W.

Leith Hill, in Surry, pariſh of Lower Wotton, admired for affording one of the nobleſt proſpects in Europe, is ſituated about 5 miles E. by S. of Darking.

LEITMERITZ, a well-built and populous town of Bohemia, capital of a circle of the ſame name, ſo fertile as to be called the Paradiſe of Bohemia. It is ſeated on the river Elbe, 28 miles NNW. of Prague.

LEITRIM, the county town of Leitrim, is pleaſantly ſeated on the banks of the Shannon, 80 miles NW. of Dublin.

LEITRIM, a county of Ireland, in the province of Connaught, bounded on the N. by Donegal Bay, on the NE. by Fermanagh, and on the SE. by Cavan; by Longford on the S. Roſcommon on the SW. and Sligo on the W. It is about 42 miles long, and from 6 to 17 broad; is a fertile, well-cultivated country, and, though the northern parts, which, however, furniſh food for great numbers of young cattle, are mountainous, yet the ſouthern parts are level. It contains 21 pariſhes, but has few places of note.

Leix, or Ley, in Queen's County, Leinſter.

*LEIXSLIP, a town of Kildare, in Leinſter, pleaſantly ſeated on the banks of the Liffey, 8 miles from Dublin. Here is a magnificent waterfall, called the Salmon Leap.

Leckenfield, Yorkſhire, N. of Beverley. Leke Wotton, N. of Warwick. Lekham, Wilts, S. of Chippenham, has a bridge over the Avon. Lelly, Yorkſ. in Holderneſs, NE. of Headon. Leland, Cornw. 5 miles from Penzance. Leman, a river in Devonſhire, which runs into the Ex, near Tiverton.

LEMBERG, or LEOPOLD, a large and opulent town of Poland, formerly capital of the palatinate of Lemburg, now the capital of Galicia, and united to Auſtria. The ſquare and public buildings are magnificent, and it carries on a conſiderable trade. It is ſeated on the river Peltu, which ſoon after falls into the Bog, 156 miles E. of Cracow, and 212 SE. of Warſaw. Lat. 49. 51. N. lon. 24. 26. E.

LEMBRO, or IMBRO, the ancient IMBROS, a town and iſland on the coaſt of Romania, mountainous and woody, with plenty of game. It is about 20 miles in circumference. Lat. 40. 25. N. lon. 26. 0. E.

LEMGOW, a town of Lippe, in Weſtphalia, ſituated on a ſmall river, near the Werra, 17 miles SSW. of Minden.

Leming Green, Yorkſ. between Richmond and Bedall. Lemington Haſtang, Warw. SW. of Dunchurch. Lemington Priors, near Warwick. Lemington, Upper and Leſs, Glouc. in Toddenham pariſh. Lemington, Lower, Glouceſ. 5 miles from Campden. Lemington, Northumberland, within 3 miles of Alnwick, in the valley of Whittingham.

LEMNOS, a celebrated town and iſland of the Archipelago, now called STALIMENE, ſituated near the entrance of the Dardanelles. It is above 112 miles in circumference according to Pliny, who ſays, that it is often ſhadowed by Mount Athos, though at the diſtance of 87 miles. The poets made it ſacred to Vulcan, who was thence called Lemnius Pater. Lemnos was alſo celebrated for it's labyrinth, conſiſting of a ſtately building, ſupported by 40 pillars, of an uncommon height and thickneſs, of which not a trace now remains. The modern Greeks ſeem to entertain the ſame opinion as the ancients, of that earth of Lemnos, which is ſaid to have cured Philoctetus, and which Galen went to examine. It is never dug up but on one particular day of the year, and then with all the pomp of ceremony. This earth, called Terra Sigillata, formed into ſmall loaves, and ſealed with the Grand Signior's ſeal, is then diſperſed over all Europe. The greateſt virtues are attributed to it. Some phyſicians have even preſcribed it; but it appears to be nothing more than a mere argillaceous earth, incapable of producing the effects that have been attributed to it. Lemnos is ſubject to the Turks; but the inhabitants, who are almoſt all Greeks, are very induſtrious. The two principal places, and once towns, are Cochino, formerly called Hopheſtia, and Lemno, or Stalimene, anciently Myrine. It is the ſee of a Greek archbiſhop. Lat. 40. 3. N. lon. 25. 28. E.

Lemon Iſland, one of the Skelig Iſlands, on the coaſt of Kerry. It is rather a round rock, almoſt covered with the innumerable flocks of gannet, which neſtle here.

LEMPTA, a deſert country of Africa, inhabited by a fierce and barbarous people, who rob the caravans that paſs from Conſtantia, and other towns, towards Nubia. Lat. about 26. 30. N. lon. 9. 0. E.

LEN, a river in Kent, which runs into the Medway at, or near, Maidſtone.

LENA, a large river of Siberia, which riſes in the government of Irkutſk, in about lat. 50. 20. N. and lon. 108. 10. E. and paſſing by Yakutſk, Ziganſk, &c. runs into the Frozen-Ocean, in lat. 73. N. and lon. 119. E.

Lenab's Caſtle, Herefordſhire, between Pembridge and Kyneton.

LENZICS, a town, capital of a palatinate of Poland, now united to Pruſſia. It is 60 miles WSW. of Warſaw.

Lenercroft, Cumb. near the Pict's Wall on the river Irthing. Lenborough, near Buckingham. Lench, and Lench Rowſe Worceſ. near Aulceſter. Lench Church Lench Shreeve, Lench Wick, Aſt Lench and Habbe Lench, Worc. N. of Eveſham.

LENHAM, a town of Kent, ſituated on an eminence, near the ſource of the Len 10 miles E. of Maidſtone, and 47 ESE of London. Market on Tueſday.

Lenham, Eaſt, Kent, near Lenham. Lenmere, Herts, SW. of Digſwell.

LENNOX. See DUMBARTONSHIRE.

LENS, a town in the dept. of the Strait of Calais, 8 miles NE. of Arras, and 9 NE. of Paris. In the open country near it, called the Plains of Lens, the Prince of Condé defeated the Spaniards, in the year 1648.

Lenſton, Dorſ. E of Langton, in Purbeck Iſle. Lenthal, Earls and Starks, Heref.

LENTINI, a town of Val di Noto, in Sicily, ſituated on a river of the ſame name about 5 miles from the ſea, and 13 SSW of Catania.

Lenton, 2 miles SW. of Nottingham, on the Len.

Leny, in Weſt Meath, Leinſter.

Lewyher, Glamorganſhire, S. Wales.

LENTZBURG, a manufacturing town, and extenſive bailiwick, of Berne, in Swiſſerland.

LEO, ST. a town of Urbino, in Italy.

LEOGANE, a ſea-port town of the iſland of St. Domingo, ſituated on the N. coaſt, in lat. 18. 40. N. and lon. 72. 32. W.

*LEOMINSTER, a large, handſome, and populous town of Hereſordſhire, trading conſiderably in wool, fine wheat, flax, gloves, leather, hats, &c. and there are ſeveral rivers in and about the town, on which they have mills and other machines. It is a great thoroughfare between S. Wales and London, and is ſeated on the river Lug, over which it has ſeveral bridges, 25 miles W. by N. of Worceſter, and 137 WNW. of London. Market on Friday. It's fairs, which are noted for horſes, black cattle, &c. are on Feb. 13, Tueſday after Midlent Sunday, May 13, July 10, Sept. 4, and Nov. 1.

LEOMINSTER, a town of Maſſachuſets, 32 miles WNW. of Boſton.

LEON, a province of Spain, formerly a kingdom, bounded on the N. by Aſturias, on the W. by Galicia and Portugal, on the S. by Eſtremadura, and on the E. by Old and New Caſtile. The ſoil is in general fertile, and produces all the neceſſaries of life; and the wine is tolerably good. It is divided into nearly two equal parts by the river Duero, or Douro. Leon is the capital.

LEON, an ancient and large city of Spain; capital of the province of that name, built by the Romans in the time of Galba. It has the handſomeſt cathedral in all Spain, in which are the tombs of 37 kings and 1 emperor, and was formerly richer and more populous than at preſent; yet it now contains 8 pariſh churches, 13 convents, 4 hoſpitals, and about 12,000 inhabitants. It is ſeated between two ſources of the river Eſta, 170 miles N. by W. of Madrid. Lat. 42. 45. N. lon. 5. 13. W.

LEON, a town of Catalonia; a town of Guadalajara, in Mexico; and a town of Piedmont.

LEON, NEW, a province of New Mexico, W. of New Biſcay, little known. The principal towns are Monclova, St. Jago, Comargo, and Santander.

LEON DE NICARAGUA, a town of Mexico, in the province of Nicaragua, the reſidence of the governor. It is ſeated at the foot of a mountain, which is a volcano, and occaſions earthquakes, about 30 miles from the South Sea. It contains about 1200 houſes, 4 churches, and ſeveral monaſteries and nunneries. At one end of the town is a lake, which is ſaid to ebb and flow like the ſea. Lat. 12. 25. N. lon. 88. 10. W.

LEONARD LE NOBLET, ST. an ancient town in the dept. of Upper Vienne, with a conſiderable manufactory of paper, and another of cloth. It is ſeated near the river Vienne, 12 miles NE. of Limoges, and 195 S. of Paris.

Leonard's, St. Suſſex, in a foreſt of the ſame name, to the E. and SE. of Horſham. Leonard's, St. Bucks, S. of Tring, in Herts. Leonard's, St. Devonſ. near Exeter. Leonard's, St. Dorſetſ. SE. of Hinton Martel. Leonards, St. Kent, near Malling. Leonard's, St. Suſſex, near Haſtings. Leonard's Hill, St. Berks, in Windſor Foreſt; a delightful eminence, on the ſummit of which is a noble ſeat, called Glouceſter Lodge, firſt built by the Counteſs Dowager of Waldegrave, and greatly improved by the Duke of Glouceſter on his marriage with that lady.

LEONHART, a town of Carinthia.

LEONTINI. See LENTINI,

LEOPOLD. See LEMBURG.

LEOPOLDSTADT, a town of Hungary, ſituated on the river Waag, 56 miles E. of Vienna.

LEOSTOFF. See LESTOFF.

LEOTONG, a country of Chineſe Tartary, bounded by part of China, and a gulf of the ſame name on the S.; by Chineſe Tartary on the N.; by Corea on the E.; and by another part of Tartary on the W. It was from this country that the Tartars entered China, when they made themſelves maſters of it. The inhabitants are not ſo gentle, polite, and induſtrious as the Chineſe; they neither like trade nor huſbandry, although their country is very proper for both. Chenyang, or Mougden, the principal town, is large and populous.

LEPANTO, a conſiderable town of Turkey, in Europe, in Livadia, built on a mountain, in the form of a ſugar-loaf, on the top of which is a caſtle. The harbour is very ſmall, and may be ſhut up with a chain; the entrance being but 50 feet wide. The produce of the adjacent country is wine, oil, corn, rice, Turkey leather, and tobacco. Near this town, Don John of Auſtria obtained a celebrated victory over the Turkiſh fleet, in 1572. The Turks have 6 or 7 moſques here, and the Greeks 2 churches. It is ſeated on the Gulf of Lepanto, 100 miles WNW. of Athens, and 364 WSW. of Conſtantinople. Lat. 38. 30. N. lon. 22. 0. E.

LEPERS, ISLE OF, one of the New Hebrides, in the S. Sea. Lat. 15. 23. S. lon. 168. 0. E.

Lepperſtown, in Waterford, Munſter.

Lepperwy, Cornwall, among the hills, NW. of Leſtwithiel. Leppington, Yorkſhire, between Stamford Bridge and New Malton. Lepton, Yorkſhire, W. Riding, E. of Almondbury.

LERIA, or LEIRIA, a town of Portugueſe Eſtremadura, formerly the reſidence of the Kings of Portugal. It is 30 miles S. of Coimbra.

LERIDA, a large and ancient town of Catalonia, with a univerſity. It is ſeated on a hill, on the river Segra, 68 miles W. of Barcelona, and 200 NW. of Madrid.

LERINS, two ſmall iſlands in the Mediterranean, about 5 miles S. of Antibos. In that near the coaſt, called St. Margaret, ſtate priſoners have formerly been kept. The other, called St. Honorat, is leſs than the former.

LERMA, a town of Old Caſtile, ſituated on the Arlanza, 23 miles S. of Burgos.

LERNICA, formerly a large city, on the S. coaſt of the Iſland of Cyprus, as appears from it's ruins; now a large village, with a good road for veſſels.

LERO, anciently LERIA, an iſland of the Archipelago, near the coaſt of Natolia. Lat. 37. 0. N. lon. 27. 0. E.

LERWICK, the chief town of the Shetland Iſlands, ſituated on the E. ſide of the Mainland, as the principal iſland is called. It is a general rendezvous of the fiſhing-buſſes from Britain, Holland, Denmark, and other parts. The principal fiſhery carried on by the inhabitants, is that of ling and tuſk. They are caught in the months of June and July, on long lines, ſet at the diſtance of 10 or 12 leagues from all land, by ſix-oared boats, from 2 to 3 tons burden. The yearly export of this article to foreign markets is, on an average, 800 tons from all the iſlands. Lat. 60. 20. N. lon. 1. 30. W.

Lery, a river in Cardiganſ. which runs into the Iriſh Channel, below the Dorvy, about 5 miles N. of Aberyſtwith. Leſante, Cornw. S. of Launceſton. Leſbury, Northumberland near Aylmouth.

LESCAR, a town in the dept. of the Lower Pyrenees, 3 miles NW. of Pau.

LESGUIS, COUNTRY OF THE, one of the ſeven Caucaſian nations, ſituated between the Black Sea and the Caſpian. Their country is indifferently called by the Georgians, Leſguiſtan, or Dagheſtan. It is divided into a variety of diſtricts, generally independent, and governed by chiefs, elected by the people. The Leſguis are probably deſcended from the tribes of mountaineers, known to ancient geographers under the name of Leſgæ or Ligyes; and the difficulty of their country, which is a region of mountains, whoſe paſſes are known only to themſelves, has, at all times, ſecured them from foreign invaſion. They ſubſiſt by raiſing cattle, and by predatory expeditions into the countries of their more wealthy neighbours. During the troubles in Perſia, toward the beginning of the laſt century, they repeatedly ſacked the towns of Shamachie and Ardebil, and ravaged the neighbouring diſtricts; and the preſent wretched ſtate of Georgia and part of Armenia, is owing to the frequency of their incurſions. In their perſons and dreſs, and general habits of life, as far as theſe are known to us, they greatly reſemble the Circaſſians.

Leſhare, Rutland, S. of Uppingham. Leſiate, Norfolk, E. of Lynn.

LESINA. See LIESINA.

Leſingham, N. and S. Lincolnſhire, near Sleaford.

